Call No.

★

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

VOLUME XXXI

January—March, 1917

J. P. CHALMERS
Founder

PUBLISHED BY

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.

17 Madison Avenue, New York

CALIFORNIA
STATE LIBRARY

CALIFORNIA
STATE LIBRARY

15681

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

VOLUME XXXI January—March, 1917

INDEX TO CONTENTS

A

Abrams Pays Respect to Open Booking.... 1584
Action of Industry Fast and Furious..... 1500
Actor in the Early Days, The..... 1509
Actors' Fund Fair May 12 to 21..... 1936
Advance in Theater Decoration..... 1512
Advancing the Industry..... 222
Advance Deposits to Guarantee Film Contracts 671
Advertising by Motion Pictures..... 238
Advertising for Exhibitors, by Epes Winthrop Sargent 67, 223, 363, 511
675, 831, 995, 1167, 1339, 1559, 1763, 1911, 2098
African Pictures Brought to New York.... 860
Agitation in Connecticut..... 56
Allied Printers Against Film Tax..... 826
Allison, George R..... 95
All Set for Brooklyn Ball..... 1336
American Forces Reorganized..... 212
American's President Talks of Ten Years. 1502
Amusement Statistics 1776
Another Move Toward Cleansing..... 1356
Anti-Censorship Slides..... 1944
Appeal to Jersey Exhibitors, An..... 54
Arbuckle, "Fatty," Allied with Paramount 500
Arbuckle Warmly Received in Philadelphia 1801
Arbuckle Finishes Transcontinental Trip.. 1930
Are American Producers Provincial?..... 343
Arkansas Exhibitors Organize..... 1536
Arrangements Completed for Brooklyn Ball 670
Arrested for Showing "Purity"..... 1056
Ascher Brothers' Chicago Circuit, The.... 1572
As High as His Brow..... 984
Atlanta Reel Fellows Take Over Screen Club 1060
Auditorium at Bala-Cynwid, Pa., Opens.. 1383
Australian Showman Visits Seattle..... 1924
Author Manages Theater Chain..... 1797
Avoid Suspicion of Graft..... 1542

B

Baltimore Censors Take Time..... 720
Baltimore Grand Jury Scores Theaters.... 883
Baltimore Movie Club Dances..... 719
Baltimore's New Traffic Rules..... 254
Baltimore, Taxes on Signs in..... 393
Bartholomae, Philip, with Pathe..... 1199
Basic Business Principles Should Govern. 1499
Baumann Retires from N. Y. M. P..... 1020
Barker-Swan Co. in Bankruptcy..... 728
Beecroft Buys Picture Rights..... 1200
Bell, Commissioner, Talks to Exhibitors.. 1184
Bennett, Enid, and Margery; Hostesses.... 673
Besserer, Eugenie 1549
Bidding Active for "The Whip"..... 1202
Big Linder Comedy Campaign..... 1016
Big Profits Ten Years Ago..... 1511
Bilbo, Governor, Seeks Revenue..... 1748
Billy Sunday, Picture Shows Prepare for.. 563
Billy the Exhibitor..... 1017
Birmingham Makes Trial of Censorship.. 887
Blank, A. H., Theater Manager..... 857
Blue Law Exhibitor Acquitted..... 120
Boston, Film Week in..... 718
Boston's First Film Benefit..... 559
Boston's Big Community Theater Opens.... 1641
Bradenburgh Indicted for Duping.....2084
Bradfield, C. L., Resigns from Family Theater 393
Brand New Ordinances Discovered..... 1066
Brandt Discusses Chain Theaters..... 52
Brazil, Southern, Picture Shows in.....2093
Breitinger Gets a Compliment..... 561
Breitinger Quits as Chief Keystone Censor 346
Brock Forms Corporation..... 557
Brooklyn Exhibitors to Celebrate..... 505
Brooklyn Ball a Winner..... 1548
Brooklyn Exhibitors' Ball..... 1185
Brooklyn Meeting 509
Brooklyn Triangle Shifts to Paramount.. 1855
Bryson in Big State Deal..... 537
Buettner, L. A., State President..... 1185
Buffalo, Cold Weather, Little Coal..... 1385
Buffalo, Co-operation Keynote in..... 1646
Buffalo Screen Ball, Preparing for..... 396
Buffalo's Second Annual Ball a Success.. 990
Bull, Bunk and Bluster..... 1161

C

Cahill, Marie, Mutual's Latest..... 554
California Bill Waits for Attention.....1394
California Exhibitors Busy..... 1751
California Exhibitors Elect Officers..... 848
California Exhibitors Hold Mass Meeting.. 992
California Exhibitors to Organize..... 667
California Sunday Closing in..... 731
Campbell, Webster, in "Truth Triumphant" 1558
Canada Has New Producing Company.... 538
Canada, General Change About in..... 565
Canada's First Exhibitor..... 1498
Canadian Exhibitors in Jam..... 115
Canadian Exhibitors' League Proposed.... 54
Capital City Film Matters..... 112
Capital's New Building Rules..... 1964
Carbon Makers Confer with N. A. M. P. I. 52
Care of Film, Experts to Teach..... 1391
Caribou, Me., Has New Theater..... 256
Catalogue of Educational Pictures..... 1005
Censor Advertising in Illinois..... 1968
Censorship Advocates Strike a Snag..... 1189
Censorship Discussed in Lansing..... 1647
Censorship Methods Abroad..... 525
Censorship Fight in West Virginia..... 992
Censorship, Still More Rigid..... 405
Censorship Talk in Louisville..... 1648
Censorship Threatens West Virginia..... 668
Censorship Unintelligent, Says Editor.... 398
Chadwick, Helen 217
Chemberlin, Riley C., Dead..... 852
Champagne, Miss., Exhibitor Extraordinary 1905
Changes in Ten Years, Some Notable..... 1488
Chaplin-Mutual Sold to Japan..... 1197
Chaplin Scandinavian Rights..... 91
Chattanooga's Majestic Leased by Signal. 883
Chattanooga's New Theater Plans..... 722
Chicago Exhibitors Elect Officers..... 994
Chicago Muddle Cleared..... 1938
Children's Matinees 1925
Christie, George Stewart..... 1337
Chronological Record for 1916..... 58
Cincinnati Exchanges Form New Bureau. 114
Cinema Club Ball at Plaza..... 1200
City Exhibitors Urged to Join League.... 348
Clemmer Theater Celebrates Birthday.... 1810
City Fathers Take Up Sunday Fight..... 56
Cleveland Exchanges, Changes Among.... 1646
Cleveland Survey Questions Are Curious.. 1227
Cleveland's New Exchange Club..... 1966
Closing Question Will Not Down..... 574
Cohan, George M., Is a Real Screen Actor Now 1187
Coleman, Cherie 1785
Color Process, New, Capitalized..... 262
Colorado and Censorship..... 1752
Colorado Censor Bills Protest..... 1973
Colorado Has New Censor Bill..... 1064
Commercialized or Subsidized..... 1541
Couldn't Get Film, Opened Exchange.... 1501
Covington Picture House Burns..... 724
Covington, Ky., Accepts Ohio Censorship.. 889
Covington Ministers Ask for Censorship.. 724
Cowl, Jane, to Come to the Screen..... 207
Craftsmen Needed 342
Crawford, O. T., St. Louis Pioneer, Dead.. 857
Crimes Committed in Name of Morality... 1923
Cropper, R. C., Heads Standard..... 1970
Cummins, Samuel, of the Phax Pictures.. 384

D

Dallas, Gertrude, With Thanhouser..... 1558
Dallas Will Test Censorship Ordinance.. 1064
Davenport, Harry, Joins Metro Forces.... 1028
David Will Rebuild Grand..... 1055
Dayton's New Strand..... 262
Days of Worry, Those of a Decade Ago.. 1503
Deadly Silent Vote, That..... 200
Delves, James, Dead..... 507
Death Toll for the Decade..... 1528
Decade of Educational Advancement, A.. 1536
Denver Ball Put Off Again..... 118
Denver Exchanges Open, Two New..... 894
Denver Film Men Commend Censor..... 266
Denver Organization Makes Good..... 572
Denver Screen Club Ball February 3..... 406
Denver Screen Club Ball..... 572
Denver's Newest Downtown Theater Opens 1655
Denver's Newest Neighborhood House Opens 1234
Denver's Paris Theater Sold..... 730
Denver Theaters, Two About to Open.... 730
Denver to Have a New 3,500-Seat Theater 1973
Deposits or No Deposits, That's the Question 986
Des Moines, Exchange Association Formed 728
Des Moines Exchanges, New Credit Rules.. 893
Des Moines Majestic Reopens for Features 118

Desmond to be Starred by Ince..... 698
Detroit Exhibitors to Meet Monthly..... 348
Detroit, Higher Admission in..... 264
Detroit's Minutes of the Year..... 899
Development of Exhibition..... 1497
Development of the Gaumont Company... 1532
Didn't Vote on Sunday Shows..... 1164
Directing in Other Days Was No Snap.... 1522
District of Columbia Vault Fees Are Due.. 1053
Do Your Bit for Sunday Opening..... 344
Discuss Child Problem..... 862
Doro, Marie, Arrives in New York..... 857
Dreams and Visions..... 1747
Du Pre, Louise 987

E

Edel, in Office, Keeps Tabs on Show..... 1187
Edison Announces Titles..... 207
Educational Pictures in Regular Shows.. 1806
Election Now Safe, "Nation" Film Can Show 397
Elliott, Maxine, Begins Work..... 1357
Elliott, Maxine, Joins Goldwyn..... 384
Enlightenment Corporation Launched..... 697
Entwistle, Harold 1186
Essanay to Film "The Trufflers"..... 385
Evangelists in Cincinnati Auvertise "Purity" 1228
Evans, Thomas, An Early Bird..... 1544
Every Year Like Ten, Says Universal Man 1533
Exchange Efficiency, by John J. Rotchford 1779, 1920, 2107
Exchange Fails, Ties Up Deposits..... 1542
Exchange Men Attacked..... 1188
Excise Law, Buffalo Exhibitors Welcome.. 1801
Exhibiting in Closed Sunday Cities..... 84
Exhibitor Gets Order Agai st Exchange.. 115
Exhibitors' Ball Assured Success..... 507
Exhibitors Complain of Sex Stuff..... 1022
Exhibitor's Interesting Rumble..... 1511
Exhibitors Take Charge of New Year's Eve 574
Expensive to Censor in West Virginia.... 1053
Expressage Both Ways..... 1051
Express Company Loses Appeal..... 392
Express Men and Film Men Meet..... 562

F

Fairbanks Retires from Triangle..... 527
Fairbanks Enjoys Wild Brooklyn Night.... 826
Fairbanks, Douglas, Signs with Artcraft.. 1166
Fairbanks Begins Work..... 1783
Fairbanks Announces Future Plans..... 1928
Famous-Players Lasky Invades So. America 674
Famous-Players Lasky Stockholders Meet. 346
Farnham, Joe, with Sherrill..... 1028
"Fatty" Arbuckle on Way East..... 1550
Fealy, Maud, with Lasky..... 209
Federal Censorship Sentiment Not Growing 57
Fifteen "Brady-Mades" 1785
Fight Is On..... 985
Fight for an American Film..... 1754
Filling the Raw Film Demand..... 1513
Film Building in Washington..... 1359
F. I. L. M. Club Completes Delivery Plans 345
F. I. L. M. Clubs Growing..... 56
Film Exporter, News from the.....2091
Film Junkmen 1331
Films Cannot Stand Tax, Is Testimony.... 923
Film Industry New in Madras.....2003
Film Shippers Should Take Care..... 407
Films May Now be Shipped By Mail..... 203
Film Men Dine as Guests of the World....2109
Film Transportation Question..... 1187
Fire Destroys Metro Studios..... 361
Fire Regulations at Washington, D. C.... 1199
Fitch, C. J., Joins Paramount's Sales Forces 2090
Forbids Gaslights or Matches..... 887
Forman Renews Lasky Contract..... 537
For Sale and To Let Signs..... 669
"Fortune Photoplays" Under Way..... 1360
Forum Films to Open Exchanges..... 1749
Fox Ambassador Returns from Abroad.... 347
Fox Art Contest Decided..... 353
Fox Man Gets Married..... 674
France Is General Manager..... 1552
Friedman Interests Incorporate..... 571
Friend, Nathan H..... 84
From a Pennsy Barroom to the Rialto.... 1512
From Flickers to Steady-as-a-Rock..... 1495
Fuller, Mary, to Support Lou-Tellegen... 534
Fuster, Louis R., Missing..... 1334

G

Garden, Mary, in "Thais"..... 1043
Garden, Mary, Sings with Goldwyn..... 1016
"Garden of Allah" Sold..... 90
Gayety at Fairville Changes Hands..... 1386
General Film Cuts Out Release Dates.... 1018
General Film to Make Four Reelers..... 1020
General Film's New Series..... 1786
Get-Together Luncheon Held 502
Giles, George A. 63
Give Us Both and More of One Than the Other 344
Glanzberg Returns from Trip South..... 1021
Glimpse Into the Past, The..... 1527
Golden Age, A..... 1199
Goldstein Brothers in New Company.....2086
Goldwyn Pictures Working Fast..... 698
Goldwyn Starts Production 1016
Goldwyn's World-wide Publicity..... 1937
Goodwin (Nat) Company Files Papers.... 890
Government Films, to Make Available.... 1198
Graham, J. C., Completes First Tour..... 1166
Graham with Famous Players-Lasky..... 501
Grant Just Won't Feel the Cold..... 56
Greatest Force in World for Progress.... 1508
Great Works of Pathe Freres..... 1529
Great Year for Mary MacLaren..... 672
Greensberg New Strand Theater to Open.. 395
Griffith to Contribute to Artcraft.....2074
Griffith Is Guest of Honor at Pittsburgh.. 395
Griffith Plans to Clean the Screen..... 536
Grilling the Promoters 1332
Guessing the Motion Picture Business.... 533
Gunn, Charles, New Leading Man for Essanay 215

H

Hall, Emmett, With Goldwyn.....2116
Hammerstein, Elaine, in the Argyle Case.. 850
Hansen, Juanita 215
Harron, Robert, Joins Goldwyn.....2113
Harron, Robert, to Be Starred..... 210
Haslan, Kenneth D., Joins Fine Arts..... 1554
Heavy Bookings for Cohan Pictures..... 860
Henley, Hobart, Again in East..... 349
Henry's, O., Stories..... 1190
Higher Admission, Working for..... 1974
Higher Rates Get as Good Houses..... 1808
Hitchcock, Walter, Engaged by Erbograph 1192
Hodkinson, President, On Tour..... 1938
Holubar, Allen 222
Horkheimer to Make Mutual Series..... 1786
House Divided, A..... 1331
How a Film Exchange Started..... 1534
How One Exchange Worked..... 1186
How One Exhibitor Made Marked Success. 1060
How "Snow White" Was Put On..... 1189
How the First Independent Started..... 1518
How the World Has Grown..... 1538
Hume, Hean, Metro Ingenue..... 350

I

If You See That Film, We'll Tell Your Wife 1040
I. A. T. S. E. Meets in Cleveland..... 1802
Illington, Margaret, a Lasky Star..... 208
Ince and Sennett Continue in Triangle.... 827
Independent Production Made Balboa..... 1526
Indiana Convention 609
Indiana Exhibitors Post Joint Fund..... 849
Indiana Favors Sunday Pictures..... 1752
Indiana May Have Sunday Pictures..... 1934
Indiana Gets Strange Censorship Bill.... 859
Indiana Legalizes Sunday Picture Shows. 1907
Indianapolis Alhambra to Seat 1,400..... 1804
Indianapolis Schools Advertise Good Films 1240
Indiana's Sunday Opening Bill..... 1330
Industry Menaced by Proposed Taxation.. 828
Industry Owes Much to Good Projection.. 1493
Industry Responds to Charity Ball Appeals 1940
Indianapolis Exhibitor's Election..... 993
Indianapolis has Endorsed Film Matinees 724
Intermountain Managers Organize..... 54
Iowa, Pretty Girls Are Picturing History of 560
Is the Public Educated to Expect Too Much? 1907

J

Jacksonville Screen Club Ball..... 1366
James, Edwin F., Gets Big Theater..... 123
Japan Likes American Pictures..... 375
Jaxon Film Corporation Enters Field.... 1934
Jersey Movie Ball Huge Success..... 993
Jerseymen on Edge for Coming Ball..... 849
"Joan, The Woman," at National Press Club 259
"Joan" Emphasizes Sunday Opening..... 859

K

Kalem's Achievements as Pioneer..... 1504
Kalem Signs Another Big Author..... 62
Kalem Signs Ham and Bud..... 1554
Kansas City Entertains "Fatty"..... 1750
Kansas City Film Men Progress..... 117
Kansas City Movie Ball Is Shaping Up.. 1053
Kansas City Screen Club Ball..... 1935
Kansas City Screen Club to Hold Ball.... 1230
Kansas City Star Show a Success..... 1065
Kansas Commissioner Calls on Film Men.. 117
Kansas Has New Censor Bill.....2083
Kansas May Lower Censor Fees..... 883
Kansas, Starts Suit Over Censor Fees Paid 1004
Kaufman to Direct George M. Cohan..... 385
Keefe, Zena, in Moss Pictures..... 1166
Kennedy, Madge, Signs With Goldwyn.... 820
Kerrigan Blows Into New York..... 1935
Kerrigan Has His Own Company..... 210
K-E-S-E Feature Every Week.....1784
Kick on the Deposit System, A..... 343
King Goes to South America.....1584
Kleine, George, Talks on Trade Outlook... 214
Kleinschmidt Shows War Pictures.....1198
Knack in Naming Picture, The.....1198
Kunsky New Theater Opens.....1969

L

Labor Rebukes Rockford Mayor.....1389
Land Show, Picture Men and, The..... 508
Lee, Jennie, Character Actress..... 534
Legislative Fund 1932
Legislative Investigators Get Busy..... 695
Legislators Divided on Tax Question.....1162
Lehrman, Henry..... 95
Legislative Committee Still Nosing Around. 988
Le Guere, George—McClure Pictures..... 91
Leslie, Gladys, The Girl With the Million Dollar Smile.....1783
Levy, Col. Fred..... 62
Lillian's Dimples.....1753
Lincoln, E. K., Wins Trophies.....1337
Linder Finishing First Comedy..... 211
Linder Finishes First Comedy 353
Lindsey, Vachel, on the Photoplay.....1583
Livingston, Jack, New Ince Leading Man..1197
Lloyd, Harold, as "Lonesome Luke".....1928
Local International Turns Over..... 573
Local Number One Meeting a Hummer.... 500
Loew Circuit Offices Come to Atlanta..... 886
Looking Back..... 1500
Looking Over the Files of the World.....1484
Lopsided Journalism.....1022
Louisville Has Fewer Five-Cent Houses..1967
Louisville Keith Chain Grows.. 507
Louisville, Putting "Crisis" on in..... 883
Loyal Picture Stories Wanted.....1227

M

Macauley to Make Peace Pictures..... 352
Macnamara, Walter, Off for Keystoneville..1938
Mails, How to Take Advantage of..... 886
Making a Hit.....1330
Manitoba Censors Make Misstep..... 733
Manitoba Exchange Association Formed....2150
Manitoba Exhibitors' Meeting.....2082
Mann, Frankie, Visits Pennsylvanians.....10..
Mace, Fred, Dead.....1550
Maritime Exhibitors Meet 1535
Maritime Exhibitors Protest..... 505
Maryland Censors Feel Oats..... 883
Maryland Effects Permanent Organization.. 848
Maryland Exhibitors Organizing..... 505
Maryland League Ball a Certainty.....1933
Massachusetts Censor Bill Opposed.....2083
Massachusetts Exhibitors Elect Officers.... 200
Mastbaum in Million Dollar Deal..... 350
Master Company Buys Site.....1200
Masterpiece of Modern Drama..... 496
May Tax Film Distributors..... 1934
McClure Pictures Selling Force..... 63
McClure Preparing New Series.....1187
Maine College Town, Censorship Flurry In. 111
Meeting of Electrical Committee.....1360
Metro Films Concealed in Canada.....1811
Metro Planning Special Productions..... 803
Metro Suit in Maritime Provinces.....1034
Michigan Censorship, Second Hearing On..1805
Michigan Exhibitors Get Busy.....1338
Michigan Faces State Censorship..... 725
Michigan Film Men Condemn Censorship... 887
Michigan Theaters, Coal Shortage Hits...1388
Michigan, Two Problems in.....1059
Michigan, Watch Censorship in..... 509
Mignon Feature Co. to Exploit "Civilization" 729
Millions Lost to Exhibitors..... 50
Milwaukee, Modern Film Building Proposed. 725
Minneapolis F.I.L.M. Club.....1003
Minneapolis F.I.L.M. Club Banquet.....1971
Minneapolis Filmdom Last Week.....1233
Minneapolis Filmdom News of Holiday Week 403
Minneapolis, Permanent Association..... 727
Minister Denounces Sunday Pictures..... 352
Missouri Censorship Fight Warms.....1240
Missouri Censorship Hangs Fire.....1650
Missouri Faces Censorship.....1001
Mitchell, Rhea, New Company for..... 215
Mix, Tom, Joins Fox Film..... 91
Mock, Edgar, J., Death of..... 83
Moore, John Edward (Jack), Death of.... 90
Moore's (Victor) Comedies..... 96
More Censorship Graft.....1022
More Trouble for Griffith Picture.....2115
Motion Picture Educator, by Rev. W. H. Jackson and Margaret I. Macdonald: 79, 235, 314, 523, 686, 842, 1005, 1178, 1349, 1509, 1722, 1926, 2094
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The, 53, 205, 348, 505, 667, 848, 991, 1150, 1335, 1546, 1..., 1932
Motion Picture Men Discuss Defense Measures 345
Motion Picture Photography, by Carl Louis Gregory, 46, 231, 371, 5..., 683, 849, 1003, 1176, 1347, 1567, 1770, 1918, 2105
Motion Picture Studios in California.....1509
"Motion Picture Trust" Again Sued..... 673
Move in the Right Direction, A..... 822
Murdock, Ann, of Mutual.....1009
Muncie Judge Moves for Sunday Closing..1057
Murray, Mae, Marries Jay O'Brien..... 212
Music for the Picture, by Clarence E. Sinn and Norman Stuckey, 77, 232, 372, 520, 684, 840, 1004, 1177, 1348, 1568, 1771, 1919, 2106
Music, Kansas Exhibitor Wants Special... 204
Mutual Secures Charles Frohman Stars and Plays 504
Mutual's New Series 64

N

Nashville Producing Co. Releases Films.. 462
National Association Directors Meet.....2078
Newark, N. J., Exhibitors Prosperous..... 539
Newcastle, N. S. W., Business Increased in.2091
New Edison Production. 93
New Express Rules.....1928
New General Film Policy..... 61
New Glasgow Roseland Theater Opens.... 565
New Jersey Insurance Question..... 351
New Kalem Studio..... 92
New License Schedule in Spokane..... 208
New Officers of Chicago Local Installed..1932
New Orleans Charity Hospital Tax 561
New Orleans Considers Sunday Closing....1391
New Orleans, Distinctive Picture in.....1652
New Orleans Exchange Men Join Association 1972
New Orleans, Feature Booking in.....1060
New Orleans Globe Theater Opens..... 404
New Orleans, Roundabout Near..... 116
New Orleans Strand Opening Delayed.....1391
New Orleans, Suburban Exhibitors' Luncheon 116
News From the Black Hills..... 508
New Pathe Serial 1334
New Theater Will Seat 6,000.....1642
New State Rights Company Opens Office..1054
New Theaters in Gulf States..... 892
New Victoria's Children's Matinees Popular 884
New York Exhibitors Meet at Albany..... 825
New York F. I. L. M. Club Dines..... 38
New York Hearing Continues.....1162
New York Inquisitors Will Go Slowly..... 860
New York Legislative Hearing.....1754
New York Local Gives Dinner.....1668
New York May Have Film Commission....1907
Night at Teatro Delicias, A..... 237
No Additional Tax on Exhibitors.....1749
No Censors for Indiana.....1007
No Longer Unhonored and Unsung.....1519
Nord, Hilda 2084
Normand, Mabel, in "Mickey"..... 66
No Other Business Would Stand Censorship.1543
North Carolina Convention..... 53
North Carolina Exhibitors' Convention.... 204
Northrup, H. S., in Metro Pictures.....1165

O

Objectionable Slides, Refusing.....1393
Objection to the Deposit System, An..... 497
Ohio Censors Becoming Liberal.....1357
Ohio Censors, Circular Warning From.... 889
Ohio Censors Pass "Birth of a Nation".... 990
Old Cooper-Hewitt Light.....1574
Oklahoma Convention.....1547
Oklahoma Meeting Called.....1184
Old Rut and New Ideas in Film Business.. 484
Olive Branch at Albany..... 500
One Decade of Picture Acting.....1510
Ontario Exhibitors' Association..... 508
Ontario Exhibitors to Hold Convention... 507
Ontario, New Theater in.....1386
Ontario Picture Men Organize..... 849
Ontario Ticket Tax Nets Half Million....1803
Ontario Will Not Change Licenses.....1058
Operators to Meet in Cleveland..... 827
Optimistic Mechanical Outlook.....1514
Organizations in Buffalo Are Active..... 114
Oregon Exhibitors Need Organization..... 732
Orient, Picture Conditions in.....2093
Ontario May Rescind Recall Rule.....1227
Oregon Has its Exchange-Exhibitor Question 1013
Our Exchange Department and its Editor.1748
Outlook in Albany, The.....1334

P

Paramount Buys Minneapolis Exchange.... 81
Paramount Pictures 1916-1917..... 80
Paris as Seen by a New Yorker.....1015
Parke, William.....1937
Paterson, N. J., Has Too Many Shows....1019
Pathe and International Join Forces..... 202
Pathe Gets "Luke" Comedies.....1187
Pathe Serial Plans..... 65
Pathe to Show No Hearst Films in Canada.1058
"Patria" Thrills Spokane Society Audience.1236
"Patsey Bolivers" of the High Cost Pictures 1161
Pearce Will Boost Program.....1972
Pennsylvania Censors Give Data.....1962
Perfect Organization, No Small Task..... 664
Perret, Leonce, Famous Frenchman, Here.1014
Persuading Actors Into Pictures.....1516
Philadelphia Exhibitors Entertain.....1435
Philadelphia's Clean Streets..... 258
Philadelphia Exhibitors Will Entertain.... 991
Philadelphia Filmdom Doings..... 885
Philadelphia Filmdom Notes..... 121
Philadelphia Film Happenings.....1224
Photoplay League at Rialto..... 666
Photoplay League Sees Vicar of Wakefield.1358
Photoplaywright, The: by Epes Winthrop Sargent, 70, 226, 366, 514, 678, 834, 998, 1170, 1342, 1562, 1766, 1914, 2101
Photoplay Writing Then and Now.....1491
Pickford, Mary, to Go to Los Angeles....1018
Picture Business in Java, The.....1190
Picture House Near Boston Slum..... 391
Picture Houses in Roseville and Orange, N. J. 846
Picture Materials at War Prices..... 209
Picture Men Try Baseball.....1166
Pictures for the Children.....667, 1925
Pictures for Children, Meeting Discusses.. 563
Picture Shows in Southern Brazil.....2093
Picture Situation in Germany.....1921
Pictures to Aid Mobilization.....2114
Pittsburg Filmdom Notes.....1644
Pine Tree State Filmdom News.....1962
Pittsburg Has New Booking Company..... 721
Pittsburgh News Letter, Week of March 1..1709
Pittsburgh Screen Club Has Social Meeting. 395
Pittsburgh Screen Club Holds Meeting....1226
Pittsburgh Screen Club Stages a Smoker.. 563
Plans for Albany Convention..... 668
Playing Petty Politics 498
Popular Picture Personalities, 78, 234, 373, 522, 691, 847, 1010, 1183, 1355, 1571, 1778, 1929, 2108
Portland, Another Censorship Seizure in... 574
Portland's Local Censors Meet..... 268
Portland, Me., Theaters Raise Admissions.1052
Portland, Ore.: Two Bits Admission in....1810
Portland's New Years Prospects..... 408
Posters, Exhibitors Think They Could Be Better 1977
Predicts Big Year for Mutual..... 65
President Attends Picture Show..... 61
President Ochs vs. Universal Company.. 663
Pretty, Arline, Leading Lady to Fairbanks.1750
Prevent Loss of Film, To.....1751
Prizma-Color Demonstration 1201
Program of Variety Will Come Back Again.1516
Programs and Features 1359
Prohibition Picture Seen at Press Club.... 720
Projection Department, by F. H. Richardson, 71, 227, 367, 515, 679, 835, 999, 1171, 1343, 1563, 1767, 1915, 2102
Projection Light 1537
Projection, Past and Present.....1494
Province, Not City, Should Watch Operators 1396
Province Uses Shows to Urge Recruiting....1643
Pueblo Has New Commission, Will Censor.. 118
Puyallup, Wash., Needed a Ten Cent Show.1395

Q

Questions on Sunday Pictures..... 822

R

Random Shots About Export.....1545
Raving Preachers and Moving Pictures.....2073
Ray, Charles, Triangle-Kay Bee Star..... 519
Regarding "An Unfair Condition"..... 538
Regina, A Censorship Conference in..... 575
Reminiscenses of Pictures Babyhood Days.1524
Report of Wheeler Legislative Committee in Full. 2076
Return Entry Question Decided.....1489
Rialto Books Metro's "White Raven"..... 535
Richardson Has Tussle With Jupiter Pluvius 1509
Richardson Received With Enthusiasm....2079
Richardson's Trip Appreciated.....2081
Richmond, Va., Jake Wells to Build New Theater In 1225
Rivalry of Churches and Picture Shows... 567
Riley, Edna G.....1188
Rockford Has Sunday Shows as Formerly.1649
Rockford's Mayor Closes Shows..... 265
Rockford's Mayor Wants No Sunday Shows.1804
Rockford, Thinks of Censorship.....1062
Rocky Mountain Screen Club Ball.....1105
Rocky Mountain Screen Club Rewards Huffman 1855
Rotary Club Out for Censorship.....1062
Ruffner, Ralph, Analyzes His Year's Business 733
Rumored Sale of Universal 353

S

St. John Film Men Honor Jules Wolfe....1222
St. Louis Association Growing.....348
St. Louis Exhibitors' Meeting..... 105
St. Louis Exhibitors in New Home..... 992
St. Louis, Mo., Croakers in..... 726
St. Louis Operators Dance.....1488
Saenger Theater Co. Opens Lafayette.....1972
Salisbury Back After Remarkable Trip.... 502
Salisbury Shows Some of His New Pictures.1021
Salter, Thelma, in "The Crab"..... 95
San Francisco's Film Board's Year..... 267
San Francisco, Long Runs in.....1066
San Francisco, More Seats in.....1809
San Francisco Sees "Patria"..... 896
San Francisco Fox Exchange's New Quarters 1235
Says the New York Globe.....1746
Schlesinger, Leon, With Radium..... 844
Schools Advertise Good Films.....1232
Schulberg Is Paramount's General Manager.1196
Screen to Aid the Government.....1748
Seattle Exchange in Sunday Closing Fight. 886
Seattle Parent-Teacher Matinees Start.... 732
Seattle Exchange Men's Club..... 122
Seattle Exhibitor Loses Appeal..... 402
Second Run Pictures in Western Theaters. 116
Secret of Big Profits, The..... 662
Selig Predicts a Good Year..... 93
Selznick, Myron, Makes Important Deal....2115
Senate Passes Radical Bill.....1223
Send Out Slides on Sunday Closing..... 55
Shear, Mrs., Building a Theater..... 568
Sheehan Escapes U-Boats.....1038
Shelbyville, Ind., Managers to Open Sundays 570
Shall Stylists Write Scenarios.....2070
Short Story of Large Contracts, A.....1521
Showing Pictures Under "Fire" Conditions.1490
Signal Company Re-opens the Majestic.....1387
Signs of Co-operation.....1650
Slim Days in Keystone Beginnings.....1535
Slimm Now Chief of Northwestern Ohio.... 850
Small Exhibitors Safe From Tax.....1333
Small Town Exhibitor, The.....1531
Smoky City Filmdom Doings. 260
Snow Demoralizes Mountain Business..... 406
Snow, Marguerite, Opposite George M. Cohan 221
Song Slide, The Little Father of Photodrama 1520
Southern Exhibitors Organize.....1548
Southerners Organize Exchange.....1554
Spain, Picture Situation in.....2092
Spokane, Hope for Admission Raise in...1635
State League Gets Into Sunday Campaign.. 55
Status of Business in Tropical Regions....1025
Steger to Direct Norma Talmadge.....510
Stevens Director for Bluebird..... 501
Stevens, Emily, for Four Metro Features...2081
Story of the Beginning.....1481
Suggestions for the New Year, A Few.... 201
Sunday Local Option in Wisconsin.....1231
Sullivan, Lillian, in "The Great Secret".. 859
Sunday Opening Protest 2071
Summing Up the Industry..... 861
Sunday Closing Issue in Three States..... 827
Sunday Movies, The..... 498
Sunday Opening and the Church..... 499
Sunday Opening Bill in Nebraska Senate.. 1390
Sunday Show Decision..... 55
Sunday Shows Win.....1550
Sun Theaters Newspaper Is Different..... 884
Supercensors Make a Visitation..... 113
Swanson-Noland Theater Newspaper a Hit. 406

T

Taking a Chance 1747
Tapley, Rose, Reaches Capital City..... 259
Temperance Film, Prohibitionists See.... 722
Tennessee Women Draft Bill..... 566
Tenth Anniversary Recollections.....2113
Ten Years of Film Advertising.....1480
Ten Years of Film Publicity.....1530
Texas Amusement Bills, Two New.....1807
Texas Managers' Association Grows.....1392
Theater Tax, Change in Federal..... 259
Thoughts of a Jellyfish.....1541
Toast to Those Who Made Mistakes.....1525
To Open Studio in Month.....1785
To Organize the West Coast..... 52
Toronto, Congestion Troubles Film Men....1045
Toronto Exhibitors Meet.....1933
Toronto Promised a 2,500 Seat Theater.... 723
Toronto's Regent, Week Runs at.....1665
Toronto, Week Runs in..... 261
To Tax Excess Profits..... 665
Trailers 553
Triangle Official Clears "Big T" Situation..1753
Triangle Takes Over Producing Interests..1784
Tri-City League Meets..... 1185
Trigger Not a Candidate..... 991
Trigger, Sam, Heads Manhattan Exhibitors.
Trigger Protests Against Deposits..... 208
Troublesome Changes in New Orleans.... 892
Tucker, George, in New York..... 353
Turning of the Ways, The.....1515
Twelve Years in One Studio.....1507
Twenty-four Years in the Picture Business.1520
Twenty States Have Censorship Bills..... 861
Twin City Exchange Changes..... 891
Twin City Price Rise Flivvers..... 571
Two Metro Companies Going South..... 538
Two New Kalems Under Way..... 830

U

Unadulterated Graft 821
Uncle Sam Going After Film Business.... 987
Unfair 51
Unique Making Films for Catholics.....1024
Universal Employes Celebrate..... 104
Upstate Man Champions Sunday Shows....1544
Utah Censorship Discussion.....1237

V

Vancouver Considers Tax on Show Tickets. 575
Vancouver Operators, Many, Fail to Pass..1009
Vancouver Supports Week Runs of Features 897
Vanderbilt, W. K., Heads Film Company... 500
Van Der Veer Going to South America.... 207
Varian, Miss, Wins Fox Art Prizes..... 524
Varner Secretary, in Legislation Fight.. 991
Vaudeville to the Rescue.....1970
Vaudeville, Turns From, to Films.....1945
Vaughn Thanhouser Leading Man..... 510
Vice Pictures, To Bar..... 909
Victory for Chicago Local 110, I. A. T. S. E. 1011

View of Trade Conditions, A..... 535
Volare, Baby Lorna 526

W

Waking Up in Idaho..... 668
Warning to Michigan Exhibitors..... 206
Warren Edward, Starts Company.....1197
Washington Chiluren's Shows Begin..... 394
Washington, D. C., More Children's Shows In 1384
Washington Club Women Appeal to Public. 720
Washington State Censor Measure.....1223
Washington Wants No State Censor Board.1236
We Are Facing Facts, Not Theories.....1542
We Are Just Beginning.....1904
We Are Now in Society..... 986
We Have "Flashed Our Roll"..... 497
We Have Troubles Enough of Our Own.... 821
Wells, Jake, Buys More Theater Interests. 566
We're at the Dawn.....1540
We Should Be a Law Unto Ourselves..... 498
Wharton to Establish Exchanges.....1188
What Fox Is Doing..... 697
What State Censorship Would Cost..... 664
What to Say to Your Lawmakers.....1546
What Theater Men Are Doing.....1497
What the World's Initial Number Contained 1483
Wheeler Committee Reports.....2075
Wheeler Committee Report in Full.....2076
When the Field Was Fresh.....1523
Why Not Boost Good Films?..... 572
Will Have Auto Pick Up Films.....1800
Williamson Brothers to Make Films.....1013
Willis Wood Damaged by Fire..... 533
Will This Merger Ever Come to Pass?....19005
Wisconsin Senate Passes Option Bill.....1651
With the N. A. M. P. I.....1753
Wolfberg, Harris P.....2114
Woods, Al., Forms Picture Company.....1944
Word From the Far East.....210
World Film to the Trade..... 94

Y

Your Home Town Paper..... 820

Z

Zukor Back From Coast.....1936

Index to Reviews, Comments, and Stories of the Films

Appended is a list of subjects covered by our reviews and comments and the synopses furnished by the manufacturers released for the three months ending March 31, 1917. This list of releases with dates is as accurate as it is possible to make it with the information that we have received from the companies whose productions are included. Should any of our readers detect errors, we shall be pleased to have our attention called to them so that we may correct our card index. The letter before the folio indicates the page where the reviews, comment, or synopsis can be found. "R" stands for review; "C" for comment; and "S" for synopsis. Where reference letter is omitted to either review or comment it signifies that none was published, and the omission of reference letter "S" indicates that synopsis was not furnished by the manufacturer. Of the later releases where any or all reference letters are omitted it may be said that the missing information, or part of it, will probably be published in the next volume.

(N. B.)—Synopses, comments, or reviews of episodes of serials or series, are indexed in connection with general title of such serial or series, and not under title of each episode.

A

Ablaze in Mid Air (No. 5 of the Purple Mask) 2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Jan. 28.
Absent Minded Willie (Cartoon) and See America First, No. 72 (Mutual Gaumont)—Jan. 24.
Accomplice, The (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Sherrill)—Feb. 8—C-1212; R-1206.
Ace High (No. 3 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 10.
Actress' Romance, An (2 parts) (Gen. Film-Selig)—S-1819; C-1787.
Adventurer, The (5 parts; (Art Dramas—U. S. Amusement)—Feb 15—C-1374; R-1208.
Adventures of Buffalo Bill (5 parts) (K-E-S-E —Essanay)—Jan. 20—S-910.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 1 (Shorty and the Yellow Ring) (2 parts) (Mutual-Monogram)—Jan. 15—S-418; C-707.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 2 (Shorty in the Tiger's Den) (2 parts) (Mutual-Monogram)—Jan. 22—S-585; C-707.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 3 (Shorty Goes to College) (2 parts) (Mutual-Monogram)—Jan. 29—S-742; C-873.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 4 (Shorty Joins the Secret Service) (2 parts) (Mutual-Monogram)—Feb. 5—S-1078; C-1213.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 5 (Shorty Turns Wild Man) (2 parts); (Mutual-Monogram)—Feb. 12—S-1078; C-1375.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 6 (Shorty Promotes His Love Affairs) (2 parts) (Mutual-Monogram)—Feb. 19—S-1249; C-1593.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 7 (Shorty Hooks a Loan Shark) (2 parts) (Mutual-Monogram)—Feb. 26—S-1406; C-1593.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 8 (Shorty Traps a Lottery King) (2 parts) (Mutual-Monogram)—Mar. 5—S-1668; C-1788.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 9 (Shorty Trails the Moonshiners) (2 parts) (Mutual-Monogram)—Mar. 12—S-1823; C-1951.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 10 (Shorty Bags the Bullion Thieves) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Mar. 19—S-1985; C-2124.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 11 (Shorty Lands a Master Crook) (2 parts) (Mutual —Monogram)—Mar. 23.
Afloat and Ashore (No. 4 of Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual)—Jan. 26.
After the Balled Up Ball (Universal—L-KO)—Feb. 21—S-1404; C-1213.
Aladdin From Broadway (5 parts) Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 19—S-1991; C-1950; R-1949.
Aladdin Up-to-Date (2 parts) (General Film—Black Cat—S. & A.)—S-1982; C-2123.
Alaskan Scenic, and All in a Day (Comedy) (General Film—Essanay).
Alaskan Scenic, and Canimated Nooz No. 23 Cartoon) (General Film—Essanay)—Jan. 24.
Algeria, Picturesque, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 19 (Pathe)—Feb. 18.
Algerian Harem, An, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 17 (Pathe)—Feb. 4.
Alias Nemesis (No. 6 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe-International)—Feb. 18.
All at Sea (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Feb. 6—S-748.
All in a Day, and Alaskan Scenic (General Film —Essanay)—S-1244; C-1374.
Alone in the World (Universal—Laemmle)—Jan. 3—S-275.
Almost a Friar (Mutual—American)—Jan. 20—S-586.
Amazing Adventure, An (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 8—S-1664; C-1594.
America is Ready (5 parts) (M-C Film Co.)—March -C-1594; R-1588.
America, Know: The Land We Love (Pathe—Combitone)—Mar. 18.
American Consul, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Feb. 15—S-1252; C-1375; R-1370.
American Girl, No. 1 (Black Rider of Tasajara) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—S-1660; C-1374; R-1368.
American Girl, No. 2 (The Phantom Mine) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—C-1592; R-1588; S-1980.
American Girl, The (The Fate of Juan Garcia) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—C-1787; R-1758; S-1980.
American Girl, The (The Lost Legion oof the Border) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem) —C-1950; R-1947; S-2155.
American Girl, The (The Golden Eagle Trail) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—R-2119.
Americano, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts) —Feb. 1.
Among Those Present (2 parts) (General Film —Essanay—Black Cat Feature Comedy)—Jan. 9—S-414; C-546.
Animated Weekly No. 51 (Universal)—Dec. 20—S-276; C-102.
Animated Weekly No. 52 (Universal)—Dec. 27—S-276.
Animated Weekly No. 53 (Universal)—Jan. 3—S-417; C-361.
Animated Weekly No. 54 (Universal)—Jan. 10—S-584; C-547.
Animated Weekly No. 55 (Universal)—Jan. 17—S-739; C-707.
Animated Weekly No. 56 (Universal)—Jan. 24—S-905; C-873.
Animated Weekly No. 57 (Universal)—Jan. 31—S-1077; C-1040.
Animated Weekly No. 58 (Universal)—Feb. 7—S-1247; C-1213.
Animated Weekly No. 59 (Universal)—Feb. 14—S-1405; C-1375.
Animated Weekly No. 60 (Universal)—Feb. 21—S-1661; C-1593.
Animated Weekly No. 61 (Universal)—Feb. 28—S-1822; C-1788.
Animated Weekly No. 62 (Universal)—Mar. 7—S-1984; C-1951.
Animated Weekly No. 63 (Universal)—Mar. 14; S-2157; C-2124.
Animated Weekly No. 64 (Universal)—Mar. 21.
Animated Weekly No. 65 (Universal)—Mar. 28.
Argonauts of California (10 parts) (Grafton Film Pub. Co.)—Jan.
Argyle Case, The (7 parts) (Selznick Pictures) —January—S-139; C-1213; R-1205.
Arizona, Grand Canyon of (Universal—Powers) —Mar. 28; S-2155; C-2124.
Arsene Lupin (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 12—S-1409; C-1374; R-1369.
Art Aches (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 17—S-1821; C-1788.
Art and Paint (General Film—Vim)—S-1402.
Ascent of the Matterhorn (Educational Films Corp.)—R-1772.
Ashes on the Hearthstone (No. 10 of Is Marriage Sacred? (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Feb. 17.
As Luck Would Have It (Christie)—Mar. 5—S-1824.
As Man Made Her (5 parts) (World)—Mar. 26 —S-2160; C-2124.
As Men Love (5 parts) (Paramount—Pallas—Morosco)—Mar. 29.
Austrian Ski-School (Educational Film Corp)—R-1772.
Avarice (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 9—S-904; C-1040.
Awakening of Helen Minor (Metro—Drew)—Mar. 26.

B

Babette (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Apr. 2—C-2123; R-2119.
Bachelor's Finish, A (Triangle Komedy)—Feb. 25.
Back of the Man (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee) —Mar. 4—C-1593; R-1587.
Bad Boy, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts) —Feb. 18—S-1250; C-1213; R-1209.
Bad Man of Cheyenne, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Jan. 13—S-275; C-246.
Bare Living, A (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 23—S-1246.
Barred from the Bar (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 20—S-416; C-361.
Barricade, The (5 parts) (Metro—Rolfe)—Mar. 5—S-1670; R-1761.
Barrier, The (9 parts) (Rex Beach Producing Co.)—Feb.—C-548; R-545.
Battle Hymn of the Republic (General Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 29.
Battle of Lets Go (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO) —Jan. 24—S-584; C-547; R-358.
Battle of Wits (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 2—S-1403.
Bay of Fundy to the St. Lawrence (Paramount —Burton Holmes)—Jan. 1.
Bearded Fisherman, The (Mutual—American) —Mar. 28.
Bears, American (No. 3 of Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp—Ditmars)—Feb. 19.
Beauty Doctor, The (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 9—S-1664; C-1593.
Beaver, The, Prepares for Winter (No. 5 of the Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 5.

Bees and Butterflies, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 16 (Pathe)—Jan. 28.
Behind the Great Wall of China, and Boomer Bill's Awakening (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 28—S-584.
Beloved Vampire, The (3 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker Star)—Feb. 16—S-1075.
Beloved Rogues (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production)—Jan. 15—S-586.
Be Sure You're Right (Mutual—Cub)—Mar. 29—S-2159.
Betsy's Burglar (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Mar. 4—C-1593; R-1587.
Betty to the Rescue (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Jan. 15—S-590; C-547; R-541.
Big Bluffs and Bowling Balls (Greater Vitagraph)—Jan. 22.
Billy the Bandit (Universal—Victor)—Dec. 12, 1916—C-102.
Billy Smoke (3 parts) (General Film—Broadway Star—Vit.)—Jan. 6.
Bird's Christmas Carol, The (Warrenton Photoplays)—Mar. 15.
Birds of a Feather (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Dec. 26, 1916—C-103.
Birds of Prey (No. 8 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 21.
Birds of Warm Climates, Small; and Florence Rose Fashions No. 15 (Pathe)—Jan. 21—C-361.
Bitter Truth, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 15—S-421; C-546; R-544.
Black Circle, The (No. 14 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 19.
Black Door, The (No. 2 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 3—S-419.
Black Evidence (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 25—S-582; C-547.
Black Hands and Soapsuds (Christie)—Jan. 15—S-421.
Black Magic; and Landmarks of France (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 20—S-1982.
Blackmail (Metro—Drew)—Feb. 5—C-1039.
Black Nine, The (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 25—S-584.
Black Orchids (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 1—S-136; C-101; R-98.
Black Rider of Tasajara, The (No. 1 of The American Girl) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1660.
Black Wolf, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Feb. 12—S-1252; C-1375; R-1208.
Blind Justice (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Jan. 29.
Bloodhounds of the North (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 18—S-416.
Blood Money (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Jan. 6—S-132; C-103.
Blood-Stained Hand, The (Universal—Laemmle)—Jan. 27—S-585.
Blood Will Tell (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay Bee)—Mar. 18—C-1951 R-1760.
Blue Streak (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 19—S-1988.
Blundering Blacksmiths, The (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 23—S-738; C-706.
Bobby Bumps in the Great Divide, and Paramount Bray Pictographs (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 11—S-1411.
Bogus Bride, The (General Film—Kalem)—C-1950; S-2154.
Bon Bon Riot, A (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 26—S-1672.
Bombs and Banknotes (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 2—S-133.
Bombs and Blunders (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 19.
Bondage of Fear (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 22—S-591; C-548; R-540.
Boomer Bill's Awakening, and Behind the Great Wall of China (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 28—S-584.
Boonton Affair, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Feb. 3—C-708; S-739.
Border Wolves (2 parts), and The Girl Who Lost (3 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 12—C-1594; S-1820; R-1761.
Borrowed Engine, The (No. 3 of A Daughter of Daring) (General Film—Kalem)—C-1787.
Bottle Imp, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky) Mar. 26.
Boycotted Baby, The (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 4—S-415; C-546.
Boy Girl, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Mar. 6—S-1668; C-1374; R-1372.
Boyhood He Forgot (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 24—S-1983.
Brainstorm (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 22—S-1081.
Brave Little Waldo (Universal—L-KO)—Feb. 16—S-1077.
Braving Blazes (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Jan. 8—S-140.
Bride of Hate, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Jan. 14—S-589; C-246; R-99.
Bride and Gloom (2 parts) (Christie Special)—Feb. 15—R-1184.
Bridges Burned (5 parts) (Metro—Popular P. & P.)—Jan. 29—S-744; C-872; R-871.
Bringing Up Father (Cartoon), and Winter in Yellowstone Park (Pathe-International)—Mar. 4—C-1788.
British Columbia, and Tiny, Slim and Fat (Cartoon) (General Film—Essanay).
Broadway Jones (Artcraft)—Mar. 26.
Broken Hearted (Universal—Laemmle)—Feb. 17—S-1076.
Brother's Sacrifice, A (Gen. Film—Selig)—Feb. 24—S-1661; C-1787.
Brute Force (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Jan. 20—S-415; C-361.
Bubble of Love (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 21—S-416; C-362.
Bulldogs of the Deep (No. 6 of Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual)—Feb. 9.
Bullies and Bullets (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8.
Bullis or Bullets (General Film—Kalem)—C-1787; S-1980.
Bundle of Trouble, A (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 5—S-1662; C-1375.
Buried Alive (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 4—S-1404.
Burlesque Blackmailers (No. 6 of Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film Vitagraph)—Jan. 26.
Burning Band, The (No. 1 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 16, 1916—C-101.
Burning the Candle (5 parts) (K-E-S-E-Essanay)—Mar. 5—C 1787; R-1755; S-1988.
Bursting Buds and Florence Rose Fashions No. 20 (Pathe)—Feb. 25—R-1927.
Butcher's Nightmare, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Feb. 25—S-1249; C-1593.
Butterflies and Bees, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 16 (Pathe)—Jan. 28.
Butterfly Girl, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Jan. 8—C-547.

C

California, Southern—Know America, The Land We Love (Pathe—Combitone)—Mar. 18.
Calamity Anne's Legacy (Mutual—American)—Feb. 16.
Calamity Anne's New Job (Mutual—American)—Feb. 23—S-1249.
Calamity Anne's Protege (Mutual—American)—Mar. 2—S-1407.
Call for Help (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 14—S-416.
Canada, Beautiful Baniff (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 12—S-1251.
Canada; British Columbia and Canimated Nooz No. 25 (Cartoon) (Gen. Film—Essanay).
Canada, Exquisite Lake Louise (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 26—S-1674.
Canada, Harvesting in Alberta, and The Shooting Star (General Fiim—Essanay).
Canada, Vancouver and Victoria (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Mar. 26.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 21, and Lake Tahoe, Cal. (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 27, 1916—C-245.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 22, and Yosemite Valley No. 2 (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 10—S-414; C-546.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 23, and Alaskan Scenic (Gen. Film-Essanay)—Jan. 24—S-738; C-872.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 24, and Alaskan Scenic (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-902; C-1212.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 25, and British Columbia Scenic (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1403; C-1592.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 26, and How Cars and Locomotive Are Made) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1819; C-1950.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 27 (General Film—Essanay)—S-2154.
Capt. Jinks' Alibi (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 12.
Capt. Jink's Baby (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22.
Capt. Jink's Better Half (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 29.
Capt. Jink's Cure (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 19.
Capt. Jink's Explosive Temper (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 26.
Capt. Jinks' Great Expectations (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 26.
Capt. Jink's Kids (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 5.
Capt. Jink's Love Insurance (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1.
Capt. Jink's Partner (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8.
Capt. Jink's Love Letters (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 12.
Capt. Jink's Stingy Spirit (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 15.
Capt. Jink's Trial Balance (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22.
Capt. Jink's Wife's Husband (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 5.
Capt. Jinks the Plumber (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 19.
Capture, The (No. 3 of the Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 14—S-275.
Carriage Call No. 101 (No. 5 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 29; S-589.
Cascades, in the Heart of, and Cartoon (Pathe—International)—Mar. 11.
Casket of Tainted Treasure, The (No. 2 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 15.
Castles For Two (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Mar. 5—S-1827; C-1788; R-1757.
Caught With the Goods (Triangle—Komedy)—Mar. 11.
Caught in the Web (No. 12 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 26.
Cave Man's Buff (Metro—Drew)—Jan. 8—C-546; R-358.
Ceylon, Buried Treasure; and A Day in the Life of a Dog (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 24—S-1246.
Chased into Love (2 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 12—S-1253; R-1818.
Chicken Casey (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Jan. 28—S-745; C-707; R-704.
Child of the Wild (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 26—S-1253.
Childish Delights and Florence Rose Fashions No. 18 (Pathe)—Feb. 11.
China, Foreign Legations in, and The Tale of a Thomas Kat (Cartoon) (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 18.
China, North, and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 4—S-740.
China and Japan, Artistic, and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 25.
Circus Cyclone, A (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Jan. 28—S-742; C-873.
Clash of Steel, The (No. 2 of Perils of the Secret Service) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 16.
Cliff Dwellers of New Mexico (Pathe)—Mar. 25—C-1788.
Cloud, The (5 parts) (Art Dramas, Inc.—Van Dyke)—Mar. 8—C-1950; R-1946.
Cloud Puncher, The (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 5—S-1981.
Clue from the Klondike, A (No. 8 of the Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 26.
College Boys Special (Episode of A Daughter of Daring) (General Film—Kalem).
Collie Market, The (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—March.
Colonel's Orderly, The (No. 15 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 11.
Comeback, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Feb. 24—S-1246; C-1213.
Common Sin, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 13—S-1820; C-1788.
Cops and Cussedness (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 19.
Country Life Stories, Paula Blackton's (Gtr. Vitagraph)—March—C-1039; R-1037 (Six separate stories).
Counterfeiters, The (No. 14 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Metro—Niagara)—Mar. 28.
Courage of Silence, The (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 12—S-1080; C-1039; R-1036.
Crab, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Feb. 4—S-1082; C-707; R-543.
Crime and Punishment (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Feb. 25—S-1408; C-1213.
Crimson Arrow, The (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 9—S-1076.
Crimson Blade, The (No. 4 of Perils of the Secret Service) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 30.
Crossed Trails (Gen. Film—Knickerbocker Star)—Feb. 2—S-1074.
Crystallization, Mysteries of (Educational Films Corp.)—R-524.
Cupid and a Brick (Mutual—American)—Mar. 3—S-1407.
Cupid and a Button (Mutual—American)—Mar. 21.
Cupid's Caddies (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 16—S-581; C-360.
Cupid's Thumbprint (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1244; C-1212.
Cupid's Touchdown (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 20—S-739.
Cupid's Puzzle (No. 9 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 5.
Cure, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Chaplin)—Mar. 19—S-1985.

D

Damaged Goods (New Edition) (7 parts) (Mutual—American)—Feb. 12—S-1078.
Dancer's Peril, The (5 parts) (World)—Mar. 12—R-1755; C-1788; S-1990.
Dangerous Double, A (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 25—S-1246; C-1213.
Dangerous Girl, A (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Feb. 12.
Dangers of Doris No. 2 (The Luck Charm) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.)—Dec. 29,1916.
Dangers of Doris, No. 3 (The Twin Fedoras) (Gen. Film—Broadway Stars—Vita.)—Jan. 5—C-360.
Dangers of Doris No. 4 (One Good Turn) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.)—Jan. 12.
Dangers of Doris No. 5 (The Suitor of Siam) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.)—Jan. 19.
Dangers of Doris No. 6 (The Burlesque Blackmailers) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.)—Jan. 26.
Dangers of Doris No. 7 (The Gang) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.).
Dangers of Doris, No. 8 (Up and Down) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.).
Dangers of Doris, No. 9 (The Old Fourth Ward) (General Film—Broadway Star—Vitagraph).
Dangers of Doris, No. 10 (The Road to Eternity) (General Film—Broadway Star).
Daring Chance, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Jan. 27—S-582; C-548.
Dark Road, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Apr. 2—S-2164; R-2120.

Darling of Paris, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 22—S-591; C-872; R-869.
Daughter of Daring, A, No. 1 (In the Path of Peril) (Gen. Film—Kalem) S-1660; C-1592.
Daughter of Daring, A, No. 2 (The Registered Pouch) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1592; S-1981.
Daughter of Daring, A, No. 3 (The Borrowed Engine) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1787; S-1981.
Daughter of Daring (The College Boy's Special) (General Film—Kalem)—C-1950; R-1947; S-2154.
Daughter of the Poor, A (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Mar. 18—C-1951; R-1949.
David's Idol Dream (2 parts) (Universal—Imp) Mar. 29—S-2156; C-2124.
Day at West Point, A (Ultra Films Inc.)—Jan.
Day in the Life of a Dog, and Buried Treasures of Ceylon (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 25—S-1246.
Deal in Furniture, A (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1819.
Death Siding, The (No. 117 of The Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Feb. 3.
Defective Detectives (2 parts) (Universal—L-Ko)—Mar. 21—S-1982; C-1951
Deemster, The (9 parts) (Arrow Film Corp.)—Mar.—S-1249; C-1212; R-1210.
Deep-Dyed Villainy (Pathe-Mittenthal)—Mar. 4—C-1375.
Deep Stuff (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1819.
Deer, Foreign (No. 4 of Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp. Ditmars)—Feb. 26.
Defense or Tribute? (5 parts) (Defense or Tribute Film Co.)—February.
Delayed in Transit (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 15—S-739.
Der Captain is Examined for Insurance (Cartoon), and In the Southern Highlands (Pathe—International)—Jan. 28—C-873.
Desertion and Non-Suport (No. 9 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Feb. 10.
Desperation (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 6—S-1661; C-1594.
Devils Pay-Day (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 29—S-742; C-706; R-704.
Diary of a Puppy (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph).
Diamonds of Destiny (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 4; S-740; C-873.
Diamond Thieves, The (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 1—S-739.
Did It Ever Happen to You? (Paramount—Klever Komedy)—Jan. 15—S-140.
Different Ending (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 27—C-2124.
Dimple's Baby (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—C-1950.
Dimples, The Diplomat (2 parts) (General Film—Vitagraph).
Dippy Dan's Doings (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Mar. 28—S-2158.
Dr. Zippy Opens a Sanitorium (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Feb. 19.
Dodging His Doom (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett Keystone)—Mar. 11—S-2164.
Dollar Down, A; and Yosemite Valley Scenic (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 3—S-130; C-360.
Dominion of Fernandez (No. 25 of The Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 31.
Done in Oil (Triangle—Komedy)—Feb. 25.
Dorothy Dares (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 15—S-1982.
Double Crossed (No. 4 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 4—C-1040.
Double Revenge (Mutual—American)—Jan. 27—S-586.
Double Room Mystery, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 15—S-416; C-361.
Down Went the Key (Universal—Nestor)—Feb. 19—S-1246; C-1213.
Drama's Dreadful Deal (Pathe—Rolin)—Jan. 28—C-547.
Dragon's Den, The (No. 6 of the Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 12
Dreaded Tube, The (No. 3 of Perils of The Secret Service) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 23.
Drifter, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 10—S-1062; C-1594.
Dubs and Dry Goods (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 26.
Dummy, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Mar. 19—S-2161; C-2124; R-2120.

E

Each to His Kind (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Feb. 5—S-1083; C-1040; R-1038.
Easy Street (2 parts) (Mutual—Chaplin)—Feb. 5—C-1040; R-1037.
Efficiency Experts (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1660; C-1592.
Elusive Idea (Cartoon), and See America First, No. 77 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 28.
Empress, The (5 parts) (Pathe—P. P. & P.)—Mar. 11—C-1593; R-1585.
End of a Perfect Day, The (Universal—L-KO)—Feb. 14—S-1077.
End of the Tour, The (5 parts) (Metro-Columbia)—Feb. 5—S-907; C-1039; R-1037.
Enlighten Thy Daughter (7 parts) (Enlightenment Photoplay Corp.—Ivan)—January—S-280; C-101; R-89.
Envy (No. 1 of the Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClure)—Jan. 29—C-873.
Eternal Sin, The (Selznick)—Mar.
Eruption of Mt. Kilauea (Universal)—R-1350; R-1179.
Everybody Was Satisfied (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-2154.
Evil Eye, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Jan. 4—S-419; C-361.
Evil Hands (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 2—S-1404; C-1375.
Extravagant Bride, The (No. 11 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Feb. 24.
Eyes of the World (10 parts) (Clune Film Mfg. Co.)—Jan.—S-592.

F

Face Down Stairs (Universal—Laemmle)—Jan. 10—S-417.
Facing Death (No. 4 of the Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 21—S-417.
Fairy Godmother, A (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph).
Faking Fakers (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 31—S-740; C-548.
False Prophet, The (No. 21 of The Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Jan. 3—S-130.
Fate of Juan Garcia (Episode of "The American Girl") (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
Fatty's Feature Film (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Mar. 7—S-1061; C-1594.
Fearless Freddy in the Woolly West and Joys and Tears of China (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 11—S-903.
Feeding the Bears (Episode of the Living Book of Nature) (Educational Film Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 26.
Feeding the Fish Eaters (Episode of the Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 19.
Fighting Blood of Jerry McDub (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Feb. 19.
Fighting for Love (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Jan. 8—S-374; C-246; R-238.
Fighting Gringo, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 26—R-1758; S-2157.
Film Expensive, A (Triangle Komedy)—Mar. 4.
Final Chapter, The (No. 15 of The Shielding Shadow) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 7—S-112; C-102; R-96.
Finish, The (2 parts) (General Film—Black Cat—S. & A.)—S-2154.
Fireman's Bride (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 20—S-1245.
Fireman's Nemesis, The (No. 114 of the Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 13.
Fishing Off Sandy Hook Banks (Educational Film Corp.)—R-1927.
Fishing Trip Through Uncle Sam's Wonderland, and A Tankless Job (Cartoon) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 21.
Five Dollar Bill (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1819; C-1950.
Flag Despoiler (No. 4 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 4.
Flivvering (Paramount—Klever Komedy)—Mar. 12—S-1827.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 13 and Lion Cubs (Pathe)—Jan. 7—S-282; C-102.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 14 and Little Feathered Songsters (Pathe)—Jan. 14—C-246.
Florence Rose Fashions (No. 15) (Pathe)—Jan. 21—C-361.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 16 and Butterflies and Bees (Pathe)—Jan. 29—C-547.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 17 and An Algerian Harem (Pathe)—Feb. 4—C-873.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 18 and Childish Delights (Pathe)—Feb. 11—C-873.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 19 and Picturesque Algeria (Pathe)—Feb. 18—C-1040.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 20 and Bursting Buds (Pathe)—Feb. 25.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 21 and Picturesque Catalonia, Spain (Pathe)—Mar. 4—C-1375.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 22 and Birds of Gay Plumage (Pathe)—Mar. 11—C-1592.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 23 and Nomads of the North (Pathe)—Mar. 18—C-1788.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 24 and The Gardeners Feathered Friends (Pathe)—Mar. 25—C-1951.
Florence Rose Fashions No. 25 (Pathe)—Apr. 1 C-2124.
Flower Making, Artificial, and Jerry on the Job, cartoon Pathe—International)—Mar. 18.
Flyer in Flapjacks, A (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1402; C-1374.
Flying Target, A (Mutual—Cub)—Mar. 8—S-1666; C-1951.
Folly of Fanchette (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 28—S-1246; C-1213.
Foolish Virgin, The (5 parts) (Selznick)—December, 1916—S-139.
Footlights and Fakers (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 12.
Forbidden City and The Trials of Willy Winks (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 7.
Forbidden Game, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 2—S-739; C-707.
Foreign Alliance, The (No. 12 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 18.
For Honor's Sake (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 15—S-1821.
For Reward of Service (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1403; C-1374; R-866.
For the Stars and Stripes (No. 7 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 14—S-420.
Fortunes of Fifi, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Feb. 26—S-1674; C-1593; R-1590.
Four Cent Courtship (2 parts) (Gen. Film Black Cat—S&A)—S-1403; C-1592.
Fourth Witness, The (2 parts) (Universal—Laemmle)—Feb. 16—S-1076; C-1040
France, Landmarks of, and Black Magic (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 20.
Freed by Fido (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 31.
Friends in San Rosario (2nd of O. Henry Series) (2 parts); (Broadway Star Feature)—R-2121.
From Civilian to Soldier (No. 1 of Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual—Jan. 5.
From Sunshine to Shadow (No. 4 of the Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 29—S-424.
Fugitive, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 26—S-582; C-548.
Funicular Railway of Niesen and The Rented Man (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 1—S-1406.

G

Gang, The (No. 7 of Dangers of Doris) (Gen.—Broadway Star—Vita.).
Garden of Allah (10 parts) (Selig).
Gard of Service (2 parts) The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 11.
Gardeners' Feathered Friends, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 24 (Pathe)—Mar. 25.
Gates of Doom (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 5—S-1664; C-1593; R-1589.
Gay Deceiver, A (Christie)—Jan. 29—S-744.
Gentle Intruder, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Jan. 19—S-1248.
Gentleman of Nerve, A (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 9—S-275; C-246.
Georgian Bay to Winnipeg (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Jan. 29—S-910
Germany and Its Armies of Today (10 parts) (Germanic Official War Films Inc)—January; C-872; R-690; R-701; R-843.
Ghost Hounds (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1074; C-1212; R-1035.
Ghost Ship (No. 7 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb.
Giants of the American Forest (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 8—S-903.
Gift Girl, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Mar. 26—C-1787; R-1758; S-2160.
Gilded Youth, A (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Jan. 1—C-547; R-542.
Girl and the Crisis, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Feb. 26—S-1405; C-1375; R-1372.
Girl from Frisco No. 21 (The False Prophet) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 3—S-130; S-414; C-360; R-243.
Girl from Frisco No. 22 Resurrection of Gold Bar) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 10—S-414; C-546; R-356.
Girl from Frisco No. 23 (The Homesteader's Feud) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 17—S-581; C-706; R-543.
Girl from Frisco No. 24 (Wolf of Los Alamos) 2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 24—S-738; C-872; R-702.
Girl from Frisco No. 25 (The Dominion of Fernandez (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 31—S-902; C-1039; R-870.
Girl from Rectors, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Mar. 5—S-1666.
Girl God Made for Jones (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—S&A)—Jan. 2—S-130; C-360.
Girl Like That, A (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Jan. 18—S-748; C-707; R-701.
Girl of the Hour (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 13—S-1076.
Girl of the Timberclaims (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Feb. 11—S-1082; C-873; R-704.
Girl Reporter's Scoop, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 14—S-1076.
Girl's Folly, A (5 parts) (World)—Feb. 26—S-1410; C-1375; R-1369
Girl Who Can Cook, The (Mutual)—Jan. 6—S-277; C-547.
Girl Who Didn't Think (6 parts) (Creative Film Corp.)—February—C-1039; R-870.
Girl Who Doesn't Know, The (5 parts) (B. S. Moss)—January—R-1815; C-1821.
Girl Who Lost, The (3 parts) and Border Wolves (2 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 12—C-1594; S-1820; R-1761.
Girl in Number 7 (No. 1 of Mystery of The Double Cross) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 18.
Girl Phillippa (8 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—S-589; C-360; R-356.

Glory of Yolando (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 20—S-744; C-706; R-703.
Glory (6 parts) (Unity)—Jan. 15—S-743; C-708; R-704.
God of Little Children (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Apollo)—Jan. 18;—S-422; C-546; R-543.
God's Crucible (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 22—S-591; C-546; R-542.
God's Man (9 parts) (Frohman Amusement Co.)—Mar.
Goin' Straight (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 24—S-1982; C-1954.
Golden Eagle Trail (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-2123.
Golden Fetter, The (5 parts)—Jan. 25—S-910; C-873; R-868.
Golden Rosary, The (5 parts) (Film Exchange)—Jan.
Gold Lust, The (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 31—S-740.
Good for Nothing Gallagher (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 8—S-1661; C-1593.
Good Morning, Nurse (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 6—S-1664.
Grab Bag Bride, A (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 1.
Grant, Police Reporter, No. 12 (The House of Secrets) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 5—S-414; C-360; R-243.
Grant, Police Reporter, No. 13 (The Trail of Graft) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 12—S-581; C-546.
Grant, Police Reporter, No. 14 (The Black Circle) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 19—S-581; C-706; R-544.
Grant, Police Reporter, No. 15 (The Violet Ray) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 26—S-738; C-872; R-702
Grant, Police Reporter, No. 16 (The Net of Intrigue) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Feb. 2—S-1074; C-1039; R-870.
Grant, Police Reporter, No. 17 (The Trap) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1074; C-1212; R-1035.
Grant, Police Reporter, No. 18 (Winged Diamonds) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1402.
Grant, Police Reporter, No. 19 (The Screened Vault) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1402; C-1374; R-1368.
Grant, Police Reporter, No. 20 (The Mirror of Fear) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1660; C-1592; R-1588.
Grant, Police Reporter (In the Web of the Spider) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1787; R-1759.
Grant, Police Reporter (The Veiled Thunderbolt) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1787; S-1981.
Grant, Police Reporter (The Vanishing Financier) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—C-2123; R-2119.
Great Expectations (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Jan. 8—S-420; C-547; R-357.
Great Secret, The, No. 1 (The Secret Seven) (3 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 8—S-136; C-361; R-355.
Great Secret, The, No. 2 (Casket of Tainted Treasure) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 15—R-355.
Great Secret, The, No. 3 (The Hidden Hand) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 22—S-281; R-355.
Great Secret, The, No. 4 From Sunshine to Shadow) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 29—S-424; R-355.
Great Secret, The, No. 5 (The Trap) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 5—S-589; R-355.
Great Secret, The, No. 6 (The Dragon's Den) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 12—S-908; C-1212; R-1206.
Great Secret, The, No. 7 (The Yellow Claw) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 19—S-1080; C-1212; R-1206.
Great Secret, The, No. 8 (A Clue from the Klondike) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 26—S-1252; C-1212; R-1207.
Great Secret, The, No. 9 (Cupid's Puzzle) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 5—S-1411; C-1787; R-1757.
Great Secret, The, No. 10 (The Woman and the Game) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 12—S-1825; C-1787; R-1757.
Great Secret, The, No. 11 (A Shot in the Dark) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 19—S-1987; C-2123; R-2117.
Great Secret, The, No. 12 (Caught in the Web) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 26—S-2166; C-2123; R-2117.
Great Torpedo Secret, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Feb. 20—S-1245.
Great Treasure (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1660; C-1787.
Greater Woman, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star—Powell)—Feb. 26—S-1406; C-1593.
Greed (No. 3 of The Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 19—S-1083.
Grey Seal, The (No. 1 of Jimmie Dale, Alias The Grey Seal) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monmouth)—Mar. 23.
Grudge, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 25—S-1983; C-1951.
Gun Fighter, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Feb. 11—S-1082; C-873; R-869.

H

Half-Breed's Confession, The (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 15—S-1076.
Hall Room Girls, The (Gen. Film—Vitagraph).
Ham What Was, The (2 parts) (General Film—Black Cat—S. & A.).
Hans and Fritz Cartoon (Pathe)—Apr. 1—C-2124.
Happiness of Three Women, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco—Pallas)—Jan. 11—S-590; C-547; R-541.
Happy Hooligan Cartoon, and Blackfoot Indians (Pathe—International)—Feb. 11.
Happy Hooligan Cartoon (The Double Crossed Nurse), and Rope Making (Pathe—International)—Mar. 25; C-2124.
Happy Nat's Dilemma (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1244; C-1374
Harry's Pig (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1244; C-1374.
Hash House Mystery, The (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 22—S-1982; C-1951.
Hasty Hazing, A (Universal—Nestor)—Feb. 12—S-1077; C-1040.
Hazards of Helen, No. 113 (The Mogul Mountain Mystery) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 6—S414; C-101.
Hazards of Helen, No. 114 (The Fireman's Nemesis) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 13—S-581; C-245.
Hazards of Helen, No. 115 (The Wrecked Station) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 20—S-582; C-546.
Hazards of Helen, No. 116 (The Railroad Claim Intrigue) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 27—S-738; C-546.
Hazards of Helen, No. 117 (The Death Siding) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Feb. 3—S-1074; C-706.
Hazards of Helen, No. 118 (The Prima Donna's Special) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1074; C-1039.
Hazards of Helen, No. 119 (The Side Tracked Sleeper) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1244; C-1212; R-1035.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 1—Jan. 2—C-360.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 2—Jan. 5—C-360.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 3—Jan. 8.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 4—Jan. 10—S-588.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 5—Jan. 13—S-746.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 6—Jan. 17—S-746.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 7—Jan. 20—S-912.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 8—Jan. 24—S-912.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 9—Jan. 27—S-1084.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 10—Jan. 31—S-1084.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 11—Feb. 3—S-1249.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 12—Feb. 7—S-1249.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 13—Feb. 10—S-1407.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 14—Feb. 14—S-1408.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 15—Feb. 17—S-1674.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 16—Feb. 21—S-1674.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 17—Feb. 24—S-1826.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 18—Feb. 28—S-1826.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 19 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 3—S-1991.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 20 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 7—S-1992.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 21 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 10—S-2159.
Hearst-Pathe News No, 22 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 14.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 23 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 17.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 24 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 21.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 25 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 24.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 26 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 28.
Hearst-Pathe News No. 27 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 31.
Hearts and Saddles (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Mar. 12—S-2162.
Heart of Mary Ann (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 22—S-1246; C-1213.
Heart of Texas Ryan (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Selig)—Feb. 26—S-1253; C-1374; R-1369.
Heartsick at Sea (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 17—S-415; C-361
Heart Strategy (Triangle—Keystone)—Jan. 28.
Heart Strings (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Jan. 22—S-582; C-547; R-544.
He Did It Himself (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Jan. 22—S-420.
He Got There After All (Paramount—Klever Komedy)—Feb. 12—S-1083.
Hell by the Enemy (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 26—S-584; C-547.
Hell Morgan's Girl (5 parts) (Bluebird Special)—Mar. 5—S-1668; C-1592; R-1590.
He Meant Well (Paramount—Klever Komedy)—Jan. 1—S-140.
He Never Touched Me (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 12.
Henry W. Zippy Buys a Pet (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Jan. 29.
Her Beloved Enemy (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Mar. 4—S-1676; C-1375; R-1368.
Her Candy Kid (Triangle—Komedy)—Mar. 25.
Her Cave Man (Triangle Komedy)—Mar. 4.
Her Circus Knight (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennet—Keystone)—Mar. 18—S.1670.
Her Condoned Sin (6 parts) (Biograph State Rights)—January—C-706; R-705.
Her Fame and Shame (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett—Keystone)—Mar. 25.
Her Father's Station (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Mar. 12—S-1987.
Her Friend, The Chauffeur (Christie)—Jan. 23—S-591.
Her Father's Keeper (Triangle)—R-2121.
Her Good Name (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Van Dyke)—Jan. 25—C-872; R-867.
Her Life and His (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Feb. 18—S-1084; C-1040; R-1035.
Hermit's Hoard, The (Mutual—American)—Feb. 17.
Her New York (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Jan. 7—S-142; C-102; R-96.
Her Obsession (Metro—Drew)—Feb. 19.
Hero of Bunko Hill (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 2—S-739; C-707.
Heroes of the Plains (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 23—S-1246.
Her Own People (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco and Pallas)—Feb. 8—S-1083; C-1375; R-1209.
Her Right to Live (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22—S-589; C-548; R-542.
Her Scrambled Ambition (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Feb. 19—S-1251.
Her Soul's Inspiration (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 15—S-590; C-360; R-356.
Hidden Children, The (5 parts) (Metro—Yorke) Mar. 26—S-2166.
Hidden Danger, The (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 18—S-1821.
Hidden Hand, The (No. 3 of the Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 22—S-281.
High Cost of Living (Metro—Drew)—Mar. 19—C-1950.
High Cost of Starving (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 9—S-904; C-873.
High Finance (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 26—S-2162.
Highlands, In the Southern; and Der Captain is Examined for Life Insurance (Cartoon) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 28.
High, Low and the Game (Educaitonal Films Corp.—Bruce)—January—R-523.
His Bogus Boast (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 10—S-1668; C-1951.
His Coming Out Party (Universal—Joker)—Feb. 3—S-740; C-707.
His Deadly Undertaking (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 11.
His Father's Son (5 parts) (Metro—Rolfe)—Mar. 19—S-1987; C-2123; R-2121.
His Flirting Ways (Christie)—Mar. 12—S-1990.
His Lesson (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—Jan. 1.
His Little Room Mate (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 19—S-415.
His Little Spirit Girl (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 26—C-872.
His Merry Mix-Up (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Mar. 26.
His Model Wife (Christie)—Jan. 1—S-137; C-101.
His Movie Mustache (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 11.
His Perfect Day (Metro—Drew)—Jan. 15.
His Rise and Tumble (Triangle Komedy)—Mar. 18.
His Sweetheart (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco)—Jan. 29—S-910; C-873; R-868.
His Ticklish Job (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 29—S-1081.
His Wife's Relatives (Universal—Nestor)—Feb. 5—S-904; C-873.
Hobbled Hearts (Triangle Komedy)—Mar. 11.
Homeless (Universal—Laemmle)—Jan. 20—S-417.
Homesteader's Feud, The (No. 23 of The Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 17.
Homicide's Weapon, The (Mutual—American)—Mar. 10.
Honeyless Honeymoon, The (Paramount—Klever Komedy)—Jan. 29—S-590.
Honeymooners, The (Mutual Star Comedy)—Jan. 13—S-418; C-706.
Honeymoon Surprise, The (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 23—S-584; C-547.
Honest Thieves (Triangle—Keystone)—Jan. 25.
Honorable Mr. Oxenham, The (No. 4 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22—S-423.
Honorably Discharged (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 12—S-274; C-246.
Honor System, The (10 parts) (Fox Special)—February—C-1374; R-1370.
Hoodooed Story, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—S&A)—Feb. 10—S-902; C-1212.
Hooey Heroes (Patne—Mittenthal)—Mar. 11—C-1593.
Hotel Mix-Up, A (Belmont Film Co.)—Feb. 26.
Hour of Terror, An (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 1 S-1404.
House of Mystery, The (No. 10 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 4.
House Built Upon Sand (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Dec. 31—S-282; C-246; R-100.
House of Secrets, The (No. 14 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 5.
House of Terrible Scandals (2 parts) (Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 26—S-1824.

How to Be Happy Though Married (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 5—S-133; C-102.
Hubby's Night Out (Christie)—Feb. 19—S-1251.
Human Flame, The (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 8—S-1660.
Hungry Heart, A (5 parts) (World)—Feb. 5—S-909; C-874; R-866.

I

Iced Bullet, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Jan. 25—S-745; C-361; R-244.
If We Should Go to War (2 parts) (A. Stone)—Feb. 14.
Image Maker, The (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Jan. 21—S-588; C-547; R-541.
In Again, Out Again (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 23—S-1983.
India, the Brightest Jewel in the British Crown, and Inbad the Sailor (Universal—Powers)—Apr. 1—S-2155.
Indians, Blackfoot, and Happy Hooligan Cartoon Comic (Pathe—International)—Feb. 11.
Indian's Hand (No. 14 of Lass of the Lumberlands) (2 parts) (Mutual-Signal)—Jan. 21.
Indian's Lament, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Feb. 13—S-1075; C-1040.
Indiscretion (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 15—S-138; C-245; R-98.
Infidelity (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Erbograph)—Jan. 11—S-744; C-546; R-544.
Innocence of Lizette, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star—American)—Dec. 25, 1916—S-278; C-361; R-358.
Inspirations of Harry Larabee (4 parts) (Gen. Film—Fortune)—S-1819; C-1787; R-1759.
International Split Reel—Dec. 25, 1916—S-137.
International Split Reel—Jan. 1.
In the Beef and Butter Country, and The Lucky One (General Film—S. & A.).
In the Dead of Night (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Dec. 22, 1916—C-102.
In the Hands of the Law (B. S. Moss)—Mar.
In the Shadows of Night (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 11—S-904.
In Payment of the Past (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 6—S-131; C-546.
In the Path of Peril (No. 1 of The Daughter of Daring (General Film—Kalem).
International Diplomacy (No. 8 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 21.
Intrigue (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 26—S-1670; C-1592; R-1586.
Invisible Web, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—Essanay)—S-1819; C-1787.
Island of Desire (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 1—S-137; C-546; R-243.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 1 (The Burning Band) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 16—C-101.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 2 (Dancing With Folly) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 23—C-360.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 3 (Wife in Sunshine) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 30.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 4 (When the Man Speaks) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 6—S-130; C-546.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 5 (The Wide Wrong Way) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 13—S-414; C-706.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 6 (The Sinful Marriage) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 20—S-581; C-872.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 7 (The Magic Mirror) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 27—S-738; C-1039.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 8 (Shifting Shadows) (2 parts) Gen. Film—Essanay)—Feb. 3—S-738; C-1212.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 9 (Desertion and Non-Support) (2 parts) (Gen. Film-Essanay)—Feb. 10—S-902; C-1374.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 10 (Ashes on the Hearthstone) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1244; C-1374.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 11 (The Extravagant Bride) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1403; C-1592.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 12 (The Vanishing Woman) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Mar. 3—S-1819; C-1950.
Is Marriage Sacred? No. 13 (The Pulse of Madness) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1819.
Is Marriage Sacred? (The Pallid Dawn) (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—S-1982; C-2123.
Is Marriage Sacred? (The Wifeless Husband) (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—S-2154.
Is Marriage Sacred? (Meddling With Marriage) (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay).
Is Money All? (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 28—S-2157; C-2124.
It Makes a Difference (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 11—S-1664; C-1593.
It's All Wrong (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-902.
It's Cheaper to Be Married (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 1—S-739; C-707.
Ivy and the Oak, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Dec. 21, 1916—C-102.

J

Jack Tar in the Making, A (No. 3 of Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual)—Jan. 19—S-418.
Jade Necklace, The (No. 1 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Dec. 28, 1916—C-102.
Japan and China, Artistic, and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 25—S-1983.
Jealous Jolts (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Dec. 31, 1916—S-134; C-361.
Jeb Jenkins, The Village Genius (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Jan. 15.
Jerry's Romance (Mutual—Cub)—Mar. 1—S-1406; C-1787.
Jerry's Triple Alliance (Mutual—Cub)—Mar. 15—S-1823; C-2123.
Jerry's Winning Ways (Mutual—Cub)—Jan. 11 S-418; C-547.
Jerry on the Job Cartoon, and Artificial Flower Making (Pathe—International)—Mar. 18; C-2124.
Jerry and His Pal (Mutual—Cub)—Feb. 1—S-741; C-1039.
Jerry and the Outlaws (Mutual—Cub)—Jan. 25—S-585; C-873.
Jerry McDub Collects Some Accident Insurance (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Jan. 22.
Jerry Saves the Navy (Pathe—International—Feb. 18.
Jerry's Big Doings (Mutual—Cub)—Jan. 18—S-906; C-706.
Jerry's Big Mystery (Mutual—Cub)—Feb. 15—S-1078; C-1374.
Jerry's Big Raid (Mutual—Cub)—Feb. 8—S-906; C—1213.
Jerry's Brilliant Scheme (Mutual—Cub)—Feb. 22—S-1247; C-1593.
Jerry's Double Header (Mutual—Cub)—Jan. 4—C-361.
Jewel of Death, The (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 7—S-416.
Jim Bludso (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Feb. 4—S-1082; C-873; R-869.
Jimmy Dale, Alias The Grey Seal, No. 1 (The Grey Seal) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monmouth)—Mar. 23—S-2159.
Jimmy Dale, Alias The Grey Seal, No. 2 (The Stolen Rubies) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monmouth)—Mar. 30—S-2159.
Joan, The Woman (11 parts) (Cardinal Film Corp)—December, 1916—C-245; R-239.
Job for Life, A (Gen. Film—Vim)—Feb. 2—S-903.
John Bates' Secret (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 13—S415.
John Osborn's Triumph (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Feb. 17—S-1075; C-1040.
Jolts and Jewelry (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 15.
Jones Keeps House (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 8.
Joys and Tears of China, and Fearless Freddy in The Woolly West (Universal-Powers)—Feb. 11—S-903.
June Madness (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 30—S-740; C-548.
Jungle Tragedy, A (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 28—S-584.
Jungle Vaudeville (One of the Living Books of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 12.
Just a Song at Twilight (5 parts) (Dixie Film Co.)—December, 1916—S-138.

K

Kartoon Komics and See America First, No. 70 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 10.
Keeper of the Gate, The (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 22—S-1245; C-1213.
Keys, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Feb. 12.
Kick In (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Jan. 14—S-426; C-246; R-241.
Kidding Sister (Christie)—Feb. 26—S-1670.
King of the Rails (General Electric Co.)—R-842.
Kitty Mackay (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 19—C-1374; R-1372.
Know America, the Land We Love (Pathe—Combitone)—Mar. 18.
Krazy Kat Cartoon, and In the Heart of the Cascades (Pathe—International)—Mar. 11 C-1951.

L

Lady in the Library, A (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Feb. 2.
Lady in No. 7 (No. 1 of Mystery of The Double Cross) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 18.
Lake Louise, Exquisite (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 26.
Land of Intrigue, The (No. 1 of the Secret Kingdom) (3 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1—S-278.
Land of Buddha and Mr. Fuller Pen, An Old Bird Pays Him a Visit (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 4—S-1403.
Land of Nowhere, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Jan. 7—S-134.
Land of the Son of Heaven and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 21—S-417.
Landmarks of France, and Black Magic (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 20—S-1982.
Lash of Destiny, The (Art Dramas—Van Dyke)—Dec. 21—C-101; R-96.
Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 10 (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Dec. 25, 1916—S-134; C-102.
Lass of the Lumberlands, A, No. 11 (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Dec. 31, 1916—S-278; C-361.
Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 12 (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Jan. 7.
Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 13 (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Jan. 14.
Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 14 (The Indian's Hand) (2 parts)—Jan. 21—C-707.
Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 15 (2 parts)—Jan. 28—C-873.
Last Cigarette, The (No. 1 of Perils of the Secret Service) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 9.
Last of the Fighting Channings (No. 1 of Patria) (3 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 14.
Last of the Ingrahams (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Mar. 1—C-1375; R-1210.
Last Sentence, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Edison)—Jan. 1—S-420; C-546; R-243.
Last Volunteer, The (3 parts) (Pathe)—Jan. 7—C-102.
Law That Failed, The (Art Dramas—Apollo)—Mar. 29.
Leap, The (No. 13 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 25.
Liberty, No. 20 (A Daughter of the U. S. A.) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Dec. 31, 1916—S-132; C-103.
Life's Pendulum (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 4—S-904.
Lighted Lamp, The (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1244; C-1374.
Limberger Cyclone, A (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 10—S-415; C-246.
Lion Cubs and Florence Rose Fashions, No. 13 (Pathe)—Jan. 7—S-282; R-235.
Lisle Bank, A (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Jan. 14—S-418.
Little Brown Mole, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—Essanay)—Dec. 19, 1916—C-101.
Little Brother, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Mar. 11—S-1828; R-1371; C-1951.
Little Feathered Songsters and Florence Rose Fashions, No. 14 (Pathe)—Jan. 14.
Little Lost Sister (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Selig)—Mar. 12—C-1950; R-1946.
Little Partner (3 parts) (Universal—Special)—Dec. 19, 1916—C-102.
Little Rebel's Sacrifice (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 19—S-416.
Little Shoes (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Jan. 15—S-281; C-706; R-700.
Little Strategist (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb.
Little Yank, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Jan. 14—S-589; C-246; R-244.
Living Book of Nature, The, No. 1 (The Orang.) (Educational Films Corp—Ditmars)—Feb. 5—S-1409.
Living Book of Nature, No. 2 (Mammals of Strange Form) (Educational Film Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 12—S-1410.
Living Book of Nature, No. 3 (American Bears) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 19—S-1410.
Living Book of Nature, No. 4 (Foreign Deer) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 26—R-1772; S-1992; S-2165.
Living Book of Nature, No. 5 (The Beaver Prepares for Winter) (Educational Film Corp.)—Ditmars)—Mar. 5—S-1992; S-2165; R-1926.
Living Book of Nature, No. 6 (Jungle Vaudeville (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 12—S-1992; S-2165.
Living Book of Nature, No. 7 (Feeding the Fish Eaters) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 19—S-1992.
Living Book of Nature, No. 8 (Feeding the Bears) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 26—S-1992.
Little Missionary (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—S&A)—Jan. 16—S-581; C-706.
Locked Out (Metro—Drew)—Mar. 12.
Lonesome Luke, Lawyer (Pathe—Rolin)—Feb. 18—P-1040.
Lonesome Mariner, The (Mutual—American)—Mar. 16—S-1823.
Lonesome Luke's Lively Life (2 parts) (Pathe—Rolin)—Mar. 18—C-1788; R-1756.
Long Lane, A (No. 6 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 31.
Losing Winner, The (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 15—S-1076; C-1040.
Lost and Found (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 29—S-1074; C-1039; R-866.
Lost and Won (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Jan. 22—S-758; C-707; R-700.
Lost in the Streets of Paris (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 25—S-1245.
Lost Legion of the Border (Episode of The American Girl) (2 parts), Love Affairs of Ima Knutt (Cartoon; and Artistic China and Japan) (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 25—S-1983.
Love Aflame (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Jan. 29—S-905; C-707; R-702.
Love Bugs (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-902.
Love in Suspense (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 6—S-134.
Love Me, Love My Biscuits (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 27—S-585; C-547.
Love on Crutches (Universal—L-KO)—Mar. 16 S-1821.
Love's Law (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 12—S-1825.

Love Sublime, A (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Mar. 11—S-1828; R-1760; C-1951.
Love Thief, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Dec. 18—C-101.
Love Under Cover (Triangle Komedy)—Jan. 14—C-547; R-543.
Luck That Jealousy Brought (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 27—S-902; C-1039.
Lucky One, and In the Beef and Butter Country (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1982; C-2123.
Luke's Busy Day (Pathe—Rolin)—Jan. 21.
Luke's Lost Liberty (Pathe—Rolin)—Jan. 7—C-102.
Luke's Shattered Sleep (Pathe—Rolin)—Dec. 31, 1916—C-141.
Luke's Trolley Troubles (Pathe—Rolin)—Feb. 4—C-707.
Luke Wins Ye Ladye Faire (Pathe—Rolin)—Feb. 25.
Lured and Cured (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Feb. 18—S-1078; C-1300.

M

Macaroni Sleuth, A (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 22—S-584; C-547.
Mad Hermit, The (Universal—Big U)—Dec. 31—S-133.
Maggie's First False Step (2 parts) (Triangle Mack Sennett—Keystone)—Feb. 25—S-1412.
Magic Vest, The (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Mar. 19.
Magic Mirror, The (No. 7 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 27.
Major Brent's Perfidy (No. 6 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 7.
Making of Bob Mason's Wife (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 13—S-274; C-706.
Making Raisins and Florence Rose Fashions, No. 12 (Pathe)—Dec. 31—S-141.
Male Governess, The (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 4.
Mammals of Strange Form (No. 2 of Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 12.
Man He Might Have Been, The (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 23, 1916—C-245.
Man of Mystery (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8—S-423; C-360; R-244.
Man of Mystery (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 11—S-1661.
Man of Thunder, The (No. 7 of The Vampires) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 4—C-102.
Man Who Forgot, The (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 15—S-422; C-362; R-[illegible].
Man Who Saved the Day (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 22—S-1246.
Man Who Took a Chance (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Feb. 19—S-1252; C-1039; R-1036.
Man, A, and The Woman (Art Dramas—U. S. Amusement)—Mar. 22.
Manx-Man, The (8 parts) (Cosomofotofilm Co.)—March.
Many a Slip (No. 5 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 24.
Married But Single (Metro—Rolma)—Jan. 22—C-706.
Mary from America (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Feb. 27—S-1404; C-1375.
Mary Lawson's Secret (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Apr. 1—C-2124; R-2118.
Mask of Love (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 29 S-2157.
Masked Cupid, The (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 16—S-415; C-361.
Masked Stranger, The (No. 2 of Mystery of the Double Cross) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 25.
Masks and Mishaps (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 5.
Master Passion, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Edison)—Jan. 8—S-421; C-360; R-355.
Matinee Idol, The (Metro—Rolma)—Jan. 1—C-245.
Matrimonial Shock (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 17—S-1823; C-2124.
Max Comes Across (2 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Feb. 26—S-1253; R-1207.
Max Wants a Divorce (2 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—S-2166.
Max Feet are Pinched, and a Rolin Comedy (Pathe)—Mar. 25—C-1951.
Max in a Difficult Position, and a Rolin Comedy (Pathe)—Mar. 11.
Max's Vacation (Pathe)—Feb. 25.
Me and My Pal (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Feb. 5—S-1075; C-1040; R-1036.
Medicines, "Patent," How Made (Pathe)—Feb. 25.
Meeting, The (No. 11 of the Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 5.
Meeting, The (Gen. Film—Broadway Star).
Meddling with Marriage (Episode of Is Marriage Sacred) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay).
Melody of Death, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 8—S-904; C-874.
Melting Millions (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 19—S-1409; C-1787; R-1760.
Mentioned in Confidence (4 parts) (Gen. Film—Fortune)—C-1787; R-1759; S-1981.
Midnight (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 14—S-275; C-246.
Million in Sight, A (Universal—Nestor)—Feb. 26—S-1403.
Minding the Baby (Mutual—Cub)—Mar. 22—S-1985.
Mines and Martimony (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 13.
Mirror of Fear (No. 20 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
Misfit Millionaire (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-2123.
Misjudged (No. 10 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 21.
Mr. Common Peepul Investigates, and See America First, No. 71 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 17.
Mr. Fuller Pep, an Old Bird Pays Him a Visit; and The Land of Buddha (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 4—S-1403.
Mr. Fuller Pep, He Celebrates His Wedding Anniversary; and Wonders of the Orient (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 14—S-275.
Mr. Fuller Pep, He Does Some Quick Moving; and Drama of the Orient (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 18—S-1078.
Mr. Fuller Pep, He Goes to the Country; and in the Land of the Son of Heaven (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 21—S-417.
Mr. Fuller Pep, His Day of Rest; and the Mysterious City (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 11—S-1662.
Mr. Fuller Pep, His Wife Goes for a Rest; and In Northern China (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 4—S-740.
Mr. Wright in Wrong (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 31—S-738.
Missing (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph).
Missing Financier (Episode of Grant, Police Reporter (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-2123.
Mission of State, A (No. 11 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Dec. 29—R-100.
Model Janitor, The (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1402; C-1212; R-1035.
Modern Cinderella, A (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 8—C-546; R-357.
Modern Buccaneers (No. 13 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 25.
Modern Monte Cristo, A (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Feb. 4—S-748; C-707; R-700.
Modern Mother Goose (5 parts) (Lea Bel Co.)—February.
Monster of Fate, The (Hawk Film Co.).—March.
Modern Romance, A (Metro—Rolma)—Mar. 5—C-2124.
Mogul Mountain Mystery, The (No. 113 of The Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 6—C-101.
Money Magic (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 5—S-909; C-872; R-867.
Money Mill, The (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 5—S-1825; C-1787; R-1756.
Monroe Doctrine (No. 9 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 28.
Montreal, Old and New (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Jan. 15.
Moral Code, The (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Erbograph)—Feb. 22—R-1586.
Moral Right, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 5—S-131.
Mortal Sin, The (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Mar. 12—S-1824.
Morals of Men, No. 1 (The Painted Lie) (5 parts) (Mutual Star Horsley)—Mar. 19—S-1986.
Mormon Maid, A (5 parts) (Friedman Enterprises)—February—S-1409; R-1372.
Mortal Sin, The (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Mar. 12—S-1824; C-1950; R-1948.
Mose Is Cured (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Jan. 1.
Most Excellent Way, The (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 26.
Motherhood (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Mar. 26.
Mothers of France (World).
Mouth Organ Jack (2 parts) (Mutual—American)—Feb. 24—S-1249.
Mule Mates (Universal—Joker)—Feb. 17—S-1077; C-1593.
Musical Marvel, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Feb. 11—S-906; C-1213.
Mutiny (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Mar. 12—S-1988.
Mutual Weekly No. 103 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 20—S-135.
Mutual Weekly No. 104 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 27—S-277.
Mutual Weekly No. 105 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 3—S-419; C-361.
Mutual Weekly No. 106 (Mutual—Gaumont—Jan. 10—S-419; C-547.
Mutual Weekly No. 107 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 17—S-587; C-706.
Mutual Weekly No. 108 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 24—S-741; C-873.
Mutual Weekly No. 109 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 31—S-907; C-1039.
Mutual Weekly No. 110 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 7—S-1247; C-1212.
Mutual Weekly No. 111 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 14—S-1248; C-1374.
Mutual Weekly No. 112 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 21—S-1407; C-1592.
Mutual Weekly No. 113 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 28—S-1668; C-1787.
Mutual Weekly No. 114 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 7—S-1822; C-1950.
Mutual Weekly No. 115 (Mutual)—Mar. 14—S-1986.
Mutual Weekly No. 116 (Mutual)—Mar. 21—S-2159.
Mutual Weekly No. 117 (Mutual)—Mar. 28.
My Fighting Gentleman (5 parts) (Mutual Star—American)—Mar. 1—S-1407; C-1593; R-1589.
My Official Wife (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Dec. 11, 1916—S-138; C-101.
Mysterious City, The; and Mr. Fuller Pep, His Day of Rest (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 11—S-1662.
Mysterious Mrs. M. (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Feb. 5—S-908; C-706; R-703.
Mysterious Man in Black, The (No. 2 of Voice on the Wire) (2 parts) (Universal—Special—Mar. 25.
Mystery of Lake Lethe (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 15.
Mystery of My Lady's Boudoir (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 9—S-275; C-246.
Mystery of the Double Cross No. 1 (The Girl in Number 7) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 18—S-1826; C-1788; R-1756.
Mystery of the Double Cross, No. 2 (The Masked Stranger) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 25—S-1992; R-1948.
Mystery of the Double Cross No. 3 (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Apr. 1—C-2124; R-2118.
Mystery of the North Case, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Feb. 3.

N

Natural Born Shooter, A (Ebony Film Corp.)—Feb. 26.
Nature's Calling (Mutual—American)—Feb. 3—S-742.
Nellie, the Fireman's Daughter; and Some Baby (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 30—S-739.
Nellie's Nifty Necklace (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-2154.
Net of Intrigue, The (No. 16 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Feb. 2.
Newlyweds' Mistake (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1402; C-1950.
Never Again (Cartoon) and See America First No. 73 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 31.
Never Too Old to Woo (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 27—S-2155; C-2124.
New Mexico (Pathe—Combitone)—Apr. 1—C-2124.
New York Peacock, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 5—S-1081; C-1212; R-1207.
Nick of Time Baby (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett—Keystone)—Feb. 11—S-1412.
Nina the Flower Girl (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Jan. 21—S-745.
Noble Fraud, A (Triangle—Keystone)—Jan. 21.
Nomads of the North, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 23 (Pathe)—March 18.
No Place Like Home (Gen. Film—Selig).—C-1787; S-1981.
Nora Declares War (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1244.
North of Fifty-three (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 26.
Novel Romance, A (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 27—S-1404; C-1375.

O

Oh! For a Wife (Christie)—Feb. 12—S-1079.
Old Faithful (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 21—S-1983.
Old Forty-Niner (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Jan. 8.
Old Fourth Ward, The (No. 9 of The Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita).
Old Glory in the Far East, and Jerry Saves the Navy (Pathe—International)—Feb. 18.
Old Sheriff, The (Mutual—American)—Feb. 10—S-906.
Old Soldier's Romance, An (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 2—S-134; C-103.
Old Toymaker, The (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 28—S-585; C-547.
On Dangerous Ground (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 8—S-279; C-246; R-239.
One Touch of Sin (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 29—S-744; C-872; R-871.
One Good Turn (No. 4 of the Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—Jan. 12.
One of Many (5 parts) (Metro—Arthur James)—Feb. 12—S-1080; C-1212; C-1374; R-1210.
One on Him (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 17—C-796.
One Thousand Miles an Hour (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 8—S-275; C-246.
On Italy's Firing Line (3 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 22—S-131; C-360.
On Record (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Feb. 22—S-1411; C-1593; R-1586.
On the Brink of War (No. 20 of the Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Dec. 20, 1916—C-101.
On the Great Glacier (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Mar. 12—C-2160.
On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 3—S-133; C-103.
Orang, The (No. 1 of the Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 5.
Orient, Drama of the; and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 18—S-1078.
Oriental Death Punch (No. 1 of The Voice on the Wire) (2 parts) (Universal—Special)—Mar. 18.

Other Girl, The (Gen. Film—Vim)—Feb. 1—S-903.
Ottawa and Toronto (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Jan. 22.
Our Boys at the Border (No. 2 of Uncle Sam's Defenders (Mutual)—Jan. 12—S-1358.
Out for the Dough (Universal—Joker)—Feb. 10—S-903; C-873.
Out for the Coin (2 parts) (Christie)—Mar. 1—S-280; C-101.
Outlaw and the Lady, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Feb. 10—S-904; C-874.
Out of the Wreck (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco and Pallas)—Mar. 8—S-1827; C-1951; R-1947.
Over the Garden Wall (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1981; C-2123.

P

Painted Lie, The (No. 1 of the Morals of Men) (Mutual—Horsely)—Mar. 19.
Pangs of Jealousy (2 parts) (Mutual)—Jan. 1.
Pantnea (5 parts) (Selznick)—January—S-139; R-540.
Paper; How It Is Made From Wood Pulp; and Throwing the Bull (Cartoon) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 4—C-1040.
Paramount Pictographs No. 44 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 3—S-419.
Paramount Pictographs No. 45 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 10—S-419.
Paramount Pictographs No. 46 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 17—S-419.
Paramount Pictographs No. 47 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 24—S-419.
Paramount Pictographs No. 48 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 31—S-419.
Paramount Pictographs No. 49 (Paramount—Bray)—Jan. 7—S-910.
Paramount Pictographs No. 50 (Paramount—Bray)—Jan. 14—S-910.
Paramount Pictographs No. 51 (Paramount—Bray)—Jan. 21 (S-910).
Paramount Pictographs No. 52 (Paramount—Bray)—Jan. 28—S-910; S-1083; C-873; R-842.
Paramount Pictographs No. 53 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 4—S-1251.
Paramount Pictographs No. 54 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 11—S-1411; R-1179.
Paramount Pictographs No. 55 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 18—S-1672; C-1215; R-1569.
Paramount Pictographs No. 56 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 25—S-1826; R-1349.
Paramount-Pictograph No. 57 (Paramount—Bray)—Mar. 5—R-1772; S-1886; C-1951.
Paramount-Pictograph No. 58 (Paramount—Bray)—Mar. 12—R-1926; S-2161.
Paramount-Pictograph No. 59 (Paramount—Bray)—Mar. 19; C-2124.
Paramount-Pictograph No. 60 (Paramount—Bray)—Mar. 26
Pardners (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Jan. 29—S-906.
Passing the Grip (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 3—S-1403; C-1593.
Passion (No. 5 of The Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClure)—Feb. 26—S-1670.
Past One at Rooney's (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—R-2121.
Pathe News No. 101—Dec. 16—S-141.
Pathe News No. 102—Dec. 20—S-141.
Pathe News No. 103—Dec. 23—S-281.
Pathe News No. 104—Dec. 27—S-281.
Pathe News No. 1—Jan. 3—S-424.
Pathe News No. 2—Jan. 6—S-424.
Pathe News No. 3—Jan. 10—S-587.
Patria No 1 (Last of the Fighting Channings) (3 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 14—S-137; C-707.
Patria No. 2 (Treasure) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 21—S-280; C-707.
Patria No. 3 (Winged Millions) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 28—S-588; C-707.
Patria No. 4 (Double Crossed) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 4—S-912; R-867.
Patria No. 5 (The Island That God Forgot) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 11—S-1084; C-1213; R-1036.
Patria No. 6 (Alias Nemesis) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 18—S-1676; C-1213; R-1211.
Patria No. 7 (Red Dawn) (2 parts) (Pathe—Internathional)—Feb. 25—S-1408; C-1374; R-1368.
Patria No. 8 (Red Night) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 4—S-1676; C-1593; R-1585.
Patria, No. 9 (Cats Paw and Scapegoat) (2 parts) Pathe—International)—Mar. 11—S-1826.
Patria, No. 10 (War in the Dooryard) (2 parts) (Pathe—International) — Mar. 18 — S-2160; C-2124; R-2118.
Patria, No. 11 (Sunset Falls) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 25.
Pearl of Greater Price (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1981; C-2123.
Pearl of the Army No. 6 (Major Brent's Perfidy) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 7—S-142; C-102; R-96.
Pearl of the Army No. 7 (For the Stars and Stripes) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 14—S-426; R-242.
Pearl of the Army No. 8 (International Diplomacy) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 21—S-588; C-361; R-354.
Pearl of the Army No. 9 (Monroe Doctrine) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 28—S-746; R-701.
Pearl of the Army No. 10 (The Silent Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 4—S-1084; R-1056.
Pearl of the Army No. 11 (A Million Volunteers) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 11—S-1676; C-1213; R-1211.
Pearl of the Army No. 12 (The Foreign Alliance) (2 parts) Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 18—S-1408; C-1375; R-1368.
Pearl of the Army No. 13 (Modern Buccaneers) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 25.
Pearl of the Army No. 14 (Flag Despoiler) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 4—S-1676; C-1788; R-1756.
Pearl of the Army No. 15 (The Colonel's Orderly) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 11—C-2124; R-2118; S-2159.
Perils of a Plumber, The (Universal—L-KO)—Dec. 27, 1916—C-102.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 1 (The Jade Necklace) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Dec. 28, 1916—S-418; C-102.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 2 (The Black Door) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 3—S-419.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 3 (Ace High) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 10—S-586.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 4 (The White Trail) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 17.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 5 (Many a Slip) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 24.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 6 (A Long Lane) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 31—S-1078.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 7 (The Smite of Conscience) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb 7—S-1247.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 8 (Birds of Prey) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 14—S-1078.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 9 (Misjudged) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 19—S-1247.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 10 (Taking Chances) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 26—S-1406.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 11 (The Meeting) 2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 5—S-1688.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 12 (Outwitted) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 12—S-1823.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters, No. 13 (The Schemers) (2 parts)—(Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 21—S-1985.
Perils of Our Girl Reporters, No. 14 (The Counterfeiters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 28.
Perils of the Secret Service No. 1 (The Last Cigarette) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 9—S-1661; C-1594.
Perils of the Secret Service No. 2 (Clash of Steel) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 16—S-1820; C-1788.
Perils of the Secret Service, No. 3 (The Dreaded Tube) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 23 S—1983; C-1951.
Perils of the Secret Service, No. 4 (The Crimson Blade) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 30 S-2156; C-2124.
Pest, The (Metro—Drew)—Jan. 29—C-872.
Peter, The Comic Poet (Mutual—Novelty)—Dec. 16—C-245.
Phantom Buccaneer, The (5 parts) (K E S E—Essanay)—Dec. 18—C-101; R-97.
Phantom Mine (No. 2 of The American Girl) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1592.
Pidgin Island (5 parts) (Metro—Yorke)—Dec. 25, 1916—C-245; R-244.
Pipe of Discontent (Triangle Komedy)—Jan. 14—C-547; R-543.
Piper's Price, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 8—S-281; C-245; R-241.
Poison Man, The (No. 8 of The Vampires) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 11—S-277.
Polly Put the Kettle On (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Jan. 1—S-132; C-103; R-100.
Polly Red Head (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Mar. 19 S-1988; C-1950.
Polly's Day at Home (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 21.
Poor Little Rich Girl (6 parts) (Artcraft)—Mar. 5—S-1823; C-1787; R-1760.
Porter, The (2 parts) (S. B. Lust).
Portrait of a King (No. 4 of The Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Apr. 2.
Pots and Pans Peggy (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Mar. 18—R-1756; C-1951; S-1992.
Practice What You Preach (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 1—S-134; C-102.
Price She Paid (7 parts) (Selznick Pictures)—February—C-1594; R-1588; S-1827.
Price of Silence (5 parts) (Fox Special)—Jan. 8—C-546; R-357.
Pride (No. 2 of the Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 5.
Pride and the Devil (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Apollo)—Feb. 22—C-1592; R-1590.
Pride of the Clan (4 parts) (Artcraft)—Jan. 8—S-425; C-360; R-354.
Prima Donna's Special (No. 118 of The Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
Primitive Call, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 22—S-745; C-706; R-705.
Princess of Patches (5 parts) (K E S E—Selig)—Jan. 22—S-592; C-546; R-542.
Princess of the Dark, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Feb. 18—S-1250; C-1040; R-1036.
Prison Without Walls, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Mar. 15—S-1986; C-2124; R-2120.
Prodigal Widow, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 16—S-417; C-361.
Prodigal Papa (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 30—S-2155.
Professional Patient, The (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 19.
Promise, The (5 parts) (Metro—Yorke)—Feb. 19—S-1252; C-1592; R-1589.
Property Man, The (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 12—S-130.
Pulse of Madness (No. 13 of Is Marriage sacred, (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay).
Pulse of Life, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Apr. 2—R-2119.
Purple Mask, The, No. 1 (The Vanished Jewels) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Dec. 31—S-132; C-103.
Purple, Mask, The, No. 2 (Suspected) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 7—S-132, C-103.
Purple Mask, The, No. 3 (The Capture) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 14—S-275.
Purple Mask, The, No. 4 (Facing Death) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 21—S-417; C-361.
Purple Mask, The, No. 5 (Ablaze in Mid-Air) (2 parts) Universal Special)—Jan. 28 S-582; C-707.
Purple Mask, The, No. 6 (The Silent Feud) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 4—S-740; C-707.
Purple Mask, The, No. 7 (The Race for Freedom) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 11—S-903; C-874.
Purple Mask, The, No. 8 (The Secret Adventure) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 18—S-1075; C-1040.
Purple Mask, The, No. 9 (A Strange Discovery) (2 parts) Universal Special)—Feb. 25; S-1245; C-1213.
Purple Mask, The, No. 10 (The House of Mystery) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 4—S-1405; C-1375.
Purple Mask, The, No. 11 (Garden of Surprise) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 11—S-1662; C-1375.
Purple Mask, The, No. 12 (Vault of Mystery) C1594; S-1820).
Purple Mask, The, No. 13 (The Leap) (2 parts) (Universal—Special)—Mar. 25—S-1984; C-1951.
Purple Mask, The, No. 14 (Sky Monsters) (2 parts) (Universal — Special) — Apr. 1 — S-2155; C-2124.
Putting One Over on Ignatz (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 18—S-415; C-361.

Q

Quacky Doodle's Cartoon and Paramount Pictograph No. 55 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 18.
Quaint Quebec (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Jan. 8.
Question of Honesty, A (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-2154; C-2123.

R

Race for Freedom (No. 7 of the Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 11.
Racing Death (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 17 S-1821.
Raid, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 20—S-1984; C-1951.
Railroad Claim Intrigue, The (No. 116 of The Hazards of Helen (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 27.
Rainbow, The (5 parts) (Sherrill Feature Corp.)—Jan. 4—S-422; C-360; R-357.
Ram-Bunctious Endeavor, A (Mutual—American)—Mar. 16—S-1823.
Ranch Life in the Big Horn Mountains (2 parts) (Rothacker Film Mfg. Co.)—February—S-1252.
Rastus Runs Amuck, and See America First No. 78 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 7.
Rebel's Net, The (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 25—S-1983.
Reckless Romeos (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 5—C-101.
Redeeming Love (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco)—Dec. 28, 1916—S-279; C-246; R-242.
Redemption of Red Mullin (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1403; C-1592.
Red Dawn (No. 7 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb 25—S-1408.
Red Goddess, The (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 24—S-582.
Red Night (No. 8 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 4.
Red Saunders Plays Cupid (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 26—C-2124.

Red Stain (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 4—S-133; C-103.
Red Vengeance (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 7—S-904.
Red Woman, The (5 parts) (World)—Feb. 12—S-1081; C-1040; R-1034.
Reel Life No. 33 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 17—C-102.
Reel Life No. 34 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 24—C-102; R-235.
Reel Life No. 35 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 31—C-245.
Reel Life No. 36 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 7—S-135; C-361; R-523.
Reel Life No. 37 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 14—S-277; C-547; R-686.
Reel Life No. 38 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 21—S-417; C-706.
Reel Life No. 39 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 28—S-587; C-873.
Reel Life No. 40 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 4—S-741; C-1039; R-1179.
Reel Life No. 41 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 11—S-907; C-1212; R-1349.
Reel Life No. 42 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 18—S-1079; C-1305; R-1569.
Reel Life No. 43 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 25—S-1248; C-1593; R-1772.
Reel Life No. 44 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 4—S-1666; C-1788; R-1927.
Reel Life No. 45 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 8—S-1666; C-1950.
Reel Life No. 46 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 15—S-1666; C-2124.
Reel Life No. 47 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 22—S-1823.
Reel Life No. 48 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 29—S-1984.
Regina to the Rockies (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 5—S-1083.
Registered Pouch, The (No. 2 of The Daughter of Daring) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
Rehabilitated (Mutual)—Dec. 8—S-419.
Rehearsal, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Biograph Reissue)—Dec. 27—S-274.
Reliable Henry (Metro—Drew)—Feb. 26—C-1592.
Rented Man, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 1—S-1406; C-1375.
Resurrection of Gold Bar, The (No. 22 of The Girl From Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 10.
Rex Beach on the Spanish Main (5 parts) (Grand Feature Film Co.)—March—R-1927.
Rex Beach in Pirate Haunts (5 parts) (Grand Feature Film Co.)—March.
Rex Beach in the Footsteps of Captain Kidd (5 parts) (Grand Feature Film Co.)—March.
Reward of the Faithless (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Feb. 12—S-1079; C-872; R-868.
Rival Romeos (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 9—S-414; C-101.
Right Hand Path, The (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 30—S-131; C-360.
Right to Be Happy, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Dec. 25, 1916—S-136.
Road Agent, The (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 4.
Road to Eternity (No. 10 of Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star).
Road to Fame (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 11, 1916—C-101.
Robinson Crusoe (3 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 18—S-1075.
Rods of Wrath (3 parts) (Pathe)—Feb. 4.
Room of Mystery, The (3 parts) (Gen. Film—Knickerbocker Star)—Jan. 19—S-738; C-872.
Rope Making, and Happy Hooligan Cartoon (Pathe—International)—Mar. 25.
Roped In (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 17—S-1821; P-1788.
Rosie O'Grady (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Apollo)—Feb. 1—R-1034.
Rosie's Rancho (Universal—Joker)—Feb. 24—S-1245; C-1213.
Rough and Ready Reggie (Paramount—Klever Comedy)—Mar. 26—S-2161.
Royal Pauner, The (5 parts) (K E S E—Edison)—Feb. 19.
Royalty at Red Wing (No. 2 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8—S-279.
Rum Cay (No. 8 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 19.
Rummy Romance, A (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 4—S-1407; C-1788.

S

Saddle Girth, The (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1074; C-1212.
Safari (4 parts) (Picture Producing Co.).—February.
Safety Pin Smugglers (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 30—S-902; C-872.
Saintly Sinner, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Feb. 26—S-1410; C-1212; R-1208.
Sapho (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Mar. 12—S-1986; C-1951; R-1915.
Satan's Private Door (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Mar. 19—S-2166; C-2123; R-2117.
Satin & Calico (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph).
Sauce for the Goose (Christie)—Mar. 19—S-2165.
Scarlet Crystal, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 19—C-1951; S-2157.
Scarlet Letter, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 12—S-908; C-1374; R-1371.
Schemer Skinny's Scandal (Pathe—Rolin)—Feb. 18.
Schemer Skinny's Schemes (Pathe—Rolin)—Jan. 14.
Schemers, The (No. 13 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 21.
Scouts of the Sea and Sky (No. 4 of Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual)—Feb. 2.
Screened Vault, The (No. 19 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
Sea Lions (Educational Films Corp—Ditmars)—R-842.
Sealed Packet, The (No. 3 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 15—S-279.
Secret Adventure, The (No. 8 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 18.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 1 (The Land of Intrigue) (3 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1—S-278.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 2 (Royalty at Red Wing) (3 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8—S-279.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 4 (The Honorable Mr. Oxenham) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22—S-423.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 5 (Carriage Call No. 101) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 29—S-589.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 6 (Human Flotsam) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 5—S-755.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 7 (The Ghost Ship) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 12—S-909.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 8 (Rum Cay) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb 19—S-1080.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 9 (The Swamp Adder) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 26—S-1252.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 10 (A Goat Without Horns) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 5—S-1409.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 11 (The White Witch) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 12—S-1670.
Secret Kingdom, The, No. 12 (Shark's Nest) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 19—S-1825.
Secret Kingdom, No. 13 (The Tragic Masque) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 26—S-1991.
Secret Kingdom, No. 14 (The Portrait of a King (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Apr. 2—S-2165.
Secret of Eve, The (5 parts) (Metro—P P & P)—Feb. 26—S-1410; C-1592; R-1589.
Secret Seven, The (No. 1 of The Great Secret) (3 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 8.
See America First No. 67 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 20—S-135; C-102; R-235.
See America First No. 68 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 27—C-102; R-236.
See America First No. 69 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 3—C-361.
See America First No. 70 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 10—S-135; C-361.
See America First No. 71 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 17—S-277; C-547; R-686; R-842.
See America First No. 72 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 24—S-418; C-706; R-686.
See America First No. 73 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 31—S-587; C-873.
See America First No. 74 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 7—S-741; C-1039; R-1179.
See America First No. 75 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 14—S-907; C-1374; R-1569.
See America First No. 76 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 21 (S-1079; C-1593; R-1772.
See America First No. 77 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 28—S-1248; C-1787; R-1926.
See America First No. 78 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 7—S-1666; C-1950.
See America First No. 79 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 14—S-1666; C-2123.
See America First, No. 80 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 14.
See America First, No. 81 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 21.
See America First, No. 82 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 28.
Seeing Double (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1274.
Self-Made Hero, A (Triangle Komedy)—Mar. 18.
Selig-Tribune No. 98 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 7—S-130; C-1819.
Selig-Tribune No. 99 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 11—S-131.
Selig-Tribune No. 100 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 14—S-131.
Selig-Tribune No. 101 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 18—S-131.
Selig-Tribune No. 102 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 21—S-274.
Selig-Tribune No. 103 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 25—S-274.
Selig-Tribune No. 104 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 28—S-580.
Selig-Tribune No. 1 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 1—S-580; C-360.
Selig-Tribune No. 2 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 4—S-580.
Selig-Tribune No. 3 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 8—S-580.
Selig-Tribune No. 4 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 11—S-739.
Selig-Tribune No. 5 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 15—S-739.
Selig-Tribune No. 6 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 18—S-902.
Selig-Tribune No. 7 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 22—S-902.
Selig-Tribune No. 8 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 25—S-1074.
Selig-Tribune No. 9 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 29—S-1074; C-1039.
Selig-Tribune No. 10 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Feb. 1—S-1244.
Selig-Tribune No. 11 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1244.
Selig-Tribune No. 12 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1403.
Selig-Tribune No. 13 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1403.
Selig-Tribune No. 14 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1660.
Selig-Tribune No. 15 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1660; C-1592.
Selig-Tribune No. 16 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1819.
Selig-Tribune No. 17 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1819.
Selig-Tribune No. 18 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1981.
Selig-Tribune No. 19 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1981; C-1950.
Selig-Tribune No. 20 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-2154.
Selig-Tribune No. 21 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-2154.
Serene of Index (Educational Films Corp.—Bruce)—R-524.
Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 1, Envy) (5 parts) Triangle—McClures)—Jan. 29—S-746; C-707; R-701.
Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 2, Pride) (5 parts) (Triangle--McClures)—Feb. 5—S-910; C-1040; R-866.
Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 3, Greed) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 12—C-1040; R-1034.
Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 4, Sloth) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 19—S-1412; C-1213; R-1205.
Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 5, Passion) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 26—S-1670; C-1593; R-1586.
Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 6, Wrath) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Mar. 5—S-1828; R-1757.
Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 7, The Seventh Sin) (7 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Mar. 12.
Seventh Sin, The (No. 7 of The Seven Deadly Sins) (Triangle—McClure's)—Mar. 12.
Seventh Son, The (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Feb. 11.
Shadows of Shame (Pathe)—Jan. 14—C-246.
Sharks Is Sharks, and Uncle Sam's Wards (Pathe)—Mar. 4.
Shattered Ideals (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 11—S-416.
Sheep of Chelan (Educational Films Corp.)
Shielding Shadow, The, No. 15 (The Final Chapter) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 7—S-142; C-102; R-96.
Shifting Shadows (No. 8 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Feb. 3.
Shooting Star, The, and Harvesting in Alberta, Canada (Gen. Film—Essanay).
Shorty and the Yellow Ring (No. 1 of the Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Jan. 15—S-418.
Shorty in the Tiger's Den (No. 2 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Jan. 22.
Shorty Goes to College (No. 3 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton((2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram—Jan. 29.
Shorty Hooks a Loan Shark (No. 7 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Feb. 26.
Shorty Joins the Secret Service (No. 4 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Feb. 5.
Shorty Promotes His Love Affair (No. 6 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Feb. 19.
Shorty Traps a Lottery King (No. 8 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Mar. 5.
Shorty Turns Wild Man (No. 5 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Feb. 12.
Shorty Bags the Bullion Thieves (No. 10 of the Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Mar. 19.
Shorty Lands a Master Crook (No. 11 of the Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts)—Mar. 26.
Shorty Trails the Moonshiners (No. 9 of the Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Mar. 12.
Shot in the Dark, The (No. 11 of The Great Secret) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 19.
Shot in the West (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 26—C-1951; S-2156.

Side-Tracked Sleeper, The (No. 119 of The Hazards of Helen (Gen. Film—Kalem).
Silent Army, The (No. 10 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 4.
Silent Feud, The (No. 6 of the Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 4.
Silk Industry (Pathe)—Dec. 31—S-141.
Sin Unatoned (Universal—Laemmle)—Feb. 21—S- 1244.
Sinful Marriage, The (No. 6 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 20.
Sins of a Brother, The (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 14—S-1820.
Sister Against Sister (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 5—S-1672; C-1950; R-1947.
Skinner's Dress Suit (5 parts) (K E S E—Essanay)—Feb. 5—S-744; C-1039; R-1033.
Skinny's False Alarm (Pathe—Rolin)—Apr. 1—C-2124.
Skinny's Love Tangle (Pathe—Rolin)—Feb. 11—C-873.
Skinny Gets a Goat, and Max Linder Comedy (Pathe)—Mar. 25.
Skinny Routs a Robber, and Max Linder Comedy (Pathe)—Mar. 11.
Sky Monsters (No. 14 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Apr. 1.
Slave Market, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous—Players)—Jan. 1—C-246; S-419; R-242.
Slave of Fear, A (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 17—S-415; C-361.
Sleepwalker, The (Paramount—Klever Komedy)—Feb. 12—S-910.
Sloth (No. 4 of Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 19.
Small Change (Christie)—Feb. 5—S-909.
Smite of Conscience (No. 7 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 7.
Snow White (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Dec. 25. 1916—S-139; C-246; R-97.
Snow White (3 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Apr. 1—S-2158.
Social Leper, The (5 parts) (World)—Mar. 19—S-1990; C-1952; R-1945.
Social Pirates (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Jan. 15—R-1818.
Sold at Auction (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster—Feb. 11—S-912; C-873; R-867.
Soldier's Dream, A (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 7—S-1661.
Some Baby, and Nelly, the Fireman's Daughter (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 30—S-739.
Some Doctor (Paramount—Klever Komedy)—Feb. 26—S-1412.
Some Specimens (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 12—C-1593; S-1821.
Somewhere in Any Place (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 29.
Somewhere in Mexico (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-2154.
Soul Master, The (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1.
Souls United (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 23—S-584; C-547.
Spain, Picturesque Catalonia, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 21 (Pathe)—Mar. 4.
Speed (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Mar. 5—S-1674.
Speed and Spunk (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1.
Spike's Busy Bike (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Feb. 28—S-1405; C-1375.
Spirit of Romance (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco—Pallas)—Mar. 22—S-2161.
Spring Idyl, A (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph).
Square Deal, A (5 parts) (World)—Feb. 19—S-1250; C-1213; R-1206.
Square Deal Man, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay Bee)—Mar. 25—R-1949; S-2164; C-2124.
Stage Struck (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Feb. 25—C-1375; R-1371.
Starring in Western Stuff (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 8—S-274; C-546.
Stars and Bars (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett—Keystone)—Feb. 18—S-1412.
Startling Climax, A (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 27—S-2156.
Steel Hearts (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 31—S-2157.
Sticky Fingers (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Feb. 4—S-742; C-1040.
Stolen Birthright (3 parts) (Pathe)—Jan. 21.
Stolen Inheritance, The (Pathe)—Jan. 28—C-547.
Stolen Rubies (No. 2 of Alias the Grey Seal) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monmouth)—Mar. 30.
Strange Adventure, A (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1402; C-1212.
Strange Discovery, A (No. 9 of the Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 25.
Strangest Army in the World (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 22—S-1983.
Stronger Than Steel (2 parts) (Universal—Laemmle)—Dec. 27, 1916—C-103.
Studio Cinderella, A (Universal—Laemmle)—Feb. 10—S-904.
Studio Stampede, A (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 24—S-1985.
Stumpland, In (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-2154.
Suitor of Siam, The (No. 5 of Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—Jan. 19.
Summer Boarders (Universal—L-KO)—Mar. 14—S-1821; C-1788.
Sunny Jane (5 parts) (Mutual Star—Horkheimer—Mar. 6—C-2124; R-2120.
Sunset Falls (No. 11 of Patria) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 25.
Susons Gentlemen (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Apr. 2—C-2123.
Suspected (No. 2 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—S-132; C-103.
Swamp Adder, The (No. 9 of The Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 24.

T

Tail of a Thomas Kat, and Foreign Legations in China (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 18—S-1821.
Tailor's Trimmings (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Jan. 21—S-585; C-707.
Tale From the Decameron (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 26—C-245.
Tale of Two Cities, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 12—S-2162; C-2125; R-2118.
Taking Chances (No. 10 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 26.
Taking the Count (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 20—C-101.
Tangled Threads (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 4—S-1404; C-1375.
Tankless Job, A (Cartoon, and a Fishing Trip Through Uncle Sam's Wonderland) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 21—C-707.
Telephone Belle, The (Triangle Komedy)—Feb. 18.
Tell-Tale Arm, The (Mutual—American)—Mar. 9—S-1822.
Temptation and the Girl (3 parts) (Gen. Film—Knickerbocker Star)—Jan. 5—S-415.
Terrible Kate (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 18—S-580.
Terrible Wedding, The (No. 9 of The Vampires) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 18—S-417.
Terror, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Feb. 12—S-1245; C-1040.
That Dawgone Dog (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Feb. 7—S-903; C-874.
That Terrible Tenderfoot (Gen. Film—Kalem) Jan. 2—S-414; C-101.
There's Many a Fool (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 19.
They Practice Economy (Gen. Film—Vim)—Dec. 27—C-101.
They Were Four (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 1—S-1404; C-1375.
They Say Pigs Is Pigs, and See America First, No. 80 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 14.
Third Ingredient, The (3rd of O. Henry Series) (Broadway Star Feature) (2 parts)—R-2121.
This Is Not My Room (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1819.
Those Without Sin (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Mar. 1—S-1684; C-1788; R-1758.
Threads of Fate (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Jan. 22—S-589; C-706; R-705.
Three of Many (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Dec. 24, 1916—S-142; C-102.
Three Ways Out (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 30—S-738; C-1039.
Through Canadian Canyons (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Mar. 19.
Throwing the Bull (Cartoon and Paper: How It is Made from Wood Pulp) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 4.
Tiger's Claw, The (No. 10 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Dec. 22—C-101.
Tiger Woman, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 19—S-1672; C-1592; R-1585.
Tillie Wakes Up (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 29—S-743; C-708; R-793; R-703.
Tiny, Slim and Fat (Cartoon, and British Columbia) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1819.
Told at Twilight (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Mar. 25—S-1992; C-1951; R-1948.
Tornado, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 3—S-1404; C-1593.
Tough Tony (Cartoon, and See America First No. 75) (Mutual Gaumont)—Feb. 14.
Tours Around the World No. 7 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 19—S-134; C-102.
Tours Around the World No. 8 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 26—S-102; R-236.
Tours Around the World No. 9 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 2—C-245.
Tours Around the World No. 10 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 9—C-381; R-523.
Tours Around the World No. 11 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 16—C-547; R-686; C-873; S-277.
Tours Around the World No. 12 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 23—S-417; C-707; R-842.
Tours Around the World No. 13 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 30—S-587; C-873.
Tours Around the World No. 14 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 6—S-741; C-1039; R-1179.
Tours Around the World No. 15 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 13—S-907; C-1212; R-1349.
Tours Around the World No. 16 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 20—S-1079.
Tours Around the World No. 17 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 27—S-1248; C-1787; R-1926.
Tours Around the World No. 18 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 6—S-1666; C-2150.
Tours Around the World No. 19 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 13—S-1666; C-2123.
Tours Around the World No. 20 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 20—S-1823.
Tours Around the World, No. 21 (Mutual—Baumont)—Mar. 27—S-1984.
Tragic Masque, The (No. 13 of The Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 26.
Trail of Graft, The (No. 13 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 12.
Trap, The (No. 17 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1074.
Trap, The (No. 5 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 5—S-589.
Treasure (No. 2 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 21—S-281.
Treat 'em Rough (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 15—S-415.
Trials of Willie Wink and The Forbidden City (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 7—S-131.
Trip through China (10 parts) (China Film Co.)—March—R-1761; C-1952; R-1926.
Trooper 44 (5 parts) (E. I. L. S. Co.)—March.
Trooper of Troop K (3 parts) (Lincoln M. P. Co.—January.
Truant Soul, The (7 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Dec. 25—S-281; R-1816.
Truthful Tulliver (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Jan. 7—S-426; C-102.
Tuner of Notes, A (Triangle Komedy)—Mar. 25.
Turks and Troubles (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 26.
Turn of the Wheel (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec. 11—C-361.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea (2 parts) (Universal State Rights)—January—C-246; R-240; R-524 (Educ.).
Twin Fedoras (No. 3 of The Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 5.
Twin Kiddies (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Jan. 28—S-746; C-547; R-354.
Two Men and a Woman (5 parts) (Ivan)—February—S-1409; C-1374.
Two Men of the Desert (Gen. Film—Biograph Reissue)—Dec. 25—S-130.
Two Small Town Romeos (Universal—Nestor)—Dec. 11.

U

Uncle Sam (1 of 2 parts) (Moore Feature Film Co.)—Jan. 10.
Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 1 (From Civilian to Soldier) (Mutual)—Jan. 5—C-547; R-686.
Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 2 (Our Boys at the Border) (Mutual)—Jan. 12—C-547; R-686.
Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 3 (A Jack Tar in the Making) (Mutual)—Jan. 19—S-418; C-706.
Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 4 (Afloat and Asbore) (Mutual)—Jan. 26—C-707; R-843.
Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 5 (Scouts of the Sea and Sky) (Mutual)—Feb. 2—S-742; C-873.
Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 6 (Bulldogs of the Deep) (Mutual)—Feb. 9—S-1078; C-873.
Uncle Sam's Wards, and Sharks is Sharks (Pathe)—Mar. 4—C-1375.
Undoing Evil (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 3—S-1403.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 4—Jan. 5—S-134; C-102.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 5—Jan. 19—S-417.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 6—Feb. 2—S-740; R-523.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 7—Feb. 16—S-1077; C-1040; R-842.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 8—Mar. 2—S-1403; C-1213; C-1375.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 9—Mar. 9—S-1662; C-1593; R-1349.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 10—Mar. 16—S-1821; R-1569.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 11—Mar. 23—S-1821; R-1926.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 12 (Universal) Mar. 30—S-2158; C-2124.
Universal Screen Magazine, No. 13 (Universal)—Apr. 6; S-2158.
Up and Down (No. 8 of The Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph).
Uprising, The (Universal—Big U Special)—Jan. 4—S-275.
Up the Flue (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 21; S-584; C-547; C-361.

V

Vagabond, The (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 22.
Valley of Beautiful Things (Universal—Victor) Feb. 6—S-904; C-1593.
Valley of Fear (6 parts) (John W. Heanty)—January.
Valley of Lost Hope (3 parts) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—Jan. 27.
Valley of the Hoh (Educational Films Corp.)—R-523.
Vampires, No. 7 (The Man of Thunder) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 4—S-135; C-102; R-241.
Vampires, No. 8 (The Poison Man) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 11—S-277; C-245; R-241.

Vampires, No. 9 (The Terrible Wedding) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 18—S-417; C-361; R-241.
Vanished Jewels (No. 1 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Dec. 31—S-132; C-103.
Vanishing Bishop (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-2123.
Vanishing Woman, The (No. 12 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay).
Vanity (5 parts) (Metro—P. P. & P)—Jan. 1—S-136; C-245; R-100.
Vault of Mystery, The (No. 12 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 18.
Vicar of Wakefield (8 parts) (Pathe—Thanhouser)—R-1927.
Victim, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Dec. 25—C-99.
Villa of the Movies (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett—Keystone)—Mar. 4—S-1828.
Violet Ray (No. 15 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 26.
Voice on the Wire, No. 1 (Oriental Death Punch) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 18—S-1820; C-1788.
Voice on the Wire, No. 2 (The Mytserious Man in Black) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 25—S-1984; C-1951; R-1948.
Voice on the Wire (No. 3, The Spider's Web) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Apr. 1—S-2155; C-2124.

W

Wall of Money, The (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 6—S-276.
Wanta Make a Dollar? (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 10—S-1661; C-1593.
Wanted, a Bad Man (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1980.
War Correspondents (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 19—S-580; C-872.
War of the Tongs (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Feb. 19—S-1245; C-1213; R-1209.
War Waif, The (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 1—S-740; C-707.
War, The (Gen. Film—Official War Films, Inc.)—A Weekly Release.
War in the Dooryard (No. 10 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 18.
Wax Model, The (Paramount—Morosco—Pallas)—Feb. 1—S-910; C-1040; R-1035.
Weaker, Sex, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Jan. 7—S-426; C-102.
Web of Desire, The (5 parts) (World)—Mar. 5 S-1670; C-1594; R-1585.
Web of Life, The (5 parts) (Gold Medal Photoplays)—March.
Wat's the Use? (Gen. Film—Vim)—Dec. 21, 1916—C-101.
What the——? (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 31—S-2156; C-2124.
What Would You Do? (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—Essanay)—Jan. 23—S-738; C-872.
Whelp, The (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 7—S-131; C-102.
When Damon Fell for Pythias (2 parts) (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 11—S-416; C-246.
When Hands are Idle (2 parts) (Mutual)—Jan. 8.
When Hearts Collide (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 18.
When the Cat's Away (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 19—S-1982; C-1951.
When the Man Speaks (No. 4 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 6—S-130.
When Thieves Fall Out (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 11—S-904; C-874.
Where Glory Waits (2 parts) (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 14—S-1821; C-1788.
Where Love Is (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Feb. 5—C-1040; R-1037.
Whip, The (8 parts) (Paragon Films, Inc.)—March.
Whispered Name, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 12—S-276.
White Raven, The (5 parts) (Metro—Rolfe)—Jan. 15—S-423; C-872; R-870.
White Trail, The (No. 4 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 17.
White Witch, The (No. 11 of The Secret Kingdom (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 12.
Whose Baby? (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 24—S-1983; C-1951.
Whoso Findeth a Wife (Art Dramas—U. S. Amusement Corp.)—Dec. 28—R-240.
Why Uncle? (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 29—S-740.
Wide, Wrong Way, The (No. 5 of Is Marriage Sacred) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 13—S-414.
Wife by Proxy (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Jan. 8—S-280; C-546; R-358.
Wife's Folly, A (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 25—S-582; C-548.
Wifeless Husband (Episode of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film)—Essanay.
Will You Marry Me? (Major Film Corp.).——February.
Willie Walrus Pays Alimony (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1820.
Winged Diamonds (No. 18 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
Winged Millions (No. 3 of Patria) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 28.
Winning an Heiress (Metro-Rolma)—Feb. 12—C-1212.
Winning of Sally Temple (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Feb. 19—S-1411; C-1375; R-1370.
With the Stony Indians (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 19.
Wolf of Los Alamos (No. 24 of the Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 24.
Woman Alone, A (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 1—S-138; C-103; R-98.
Woman in the Case (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 13—S-1821; C-1788.
Woman and the Game, The (No. 10 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 12.
Woman's Awakening, A (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Mar. 25—S-2164.
Woman Who Dared, The (7 parts) (Ultra Pictures Corp.—California)—March.
Won by a Foot (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 11.
Won by Grit (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Feb. 6—S-903; C-874.
Wonders of the Orient, and Mr. Fuller Pep Celebrates His Wedding Anniversary (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 14—S-275.
Wrath (No. 6 of The Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle-McClure's)—Mar. 5.
Wrecked Station, The (No. 115 of The Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 20.
Wrong Mary Wright, The (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 12—S-275; C-246.

Y

Yellow Claw, The (No. 7 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 19—S-1080.
Yellowstone Park, Winter in, and Bringing Up Father (Cartoon) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 4.
Yoko Valley, The (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Mar 5.
Yosemite Valley, The, and "A Dollar Down" (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 3.
Yosemite Valley, The, and Canimated Nooz No. 22 (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 10.

Z

Zoo-Illogical Studies (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Feb. 5.

EXHIBITORS

Your most consistently helpful and dependable paper has always been the MOVING PICTURE WORLD

ADVERTISERS

The paper with by far the largest circulation and the one enjoying to an exceptional degree "Reader Confidence" is the MOVING PICTURE WORLD

The MOVING PICTURE WORLD has always been free and independent of any trade connection, either manufacturing or exhibiting.

Its policies are founded on principle and consider only the best interests of all. Injustice to any one side can only mean ruin in the long run.

We offer, now or never, no bribes for your support or the endorsement of any special interest in the trade. With us no endorsement has been necessary outside of furnishing the best and most reliable paper that you can read.

We stand on no insecure foundation of false claims as to exhibitors representation, either organized or unorganized, nor any equally false intimations as to independance of advertising patronage.

We have, for nearly ten years, given the best value by long odds to exhibitors and advertisers impartially and without special favor to any.

We thank you for your confidence and support heretofore and solicit a continuance of same, believing we are in position to give you even better value through our greater experience and understanding of all your problems.

For nearly ten years the representative paper of the industry, built on principle without the slightest MISREPRESENTATION at any time or of any sort.

Yearly subscriptions means less than a single admission to your theatre weekly. If not already a subscriber send your remittance NOW --- TODAY --- THIS MINUTE

Vol. 31, No. 1 January 6, 1917 Price 15 Cents

H. E. HOFFMAN

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM INDEX

EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Scene from "The Burning Band" (Essanay).

Post Office Box 226
Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue
Telephone Madison Square 3510

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

from

McCLURE PICTURES

and the Seven Stars of SEVEN DEADLY SINS

BOOK SEVEN DEADLY SINS-

Combining the entertainment value of a feature with the drawing power of a series

Seven five-reel features, released by Superpictures, Inc. through Triangle Exchanges

McCLURE PICTURES

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

MAX LINDER

MR. EXHIBITOR:

I am here to make your patrons laugh. Meet me face to face on the screen and see for yourself.

Yours for Success,

Max Linder

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

Essanay

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

A Torrent of BOOKINGS OF THE TWO GREATEST Grace Cunard

Written and Staged by GRACE CUNARD and FRANCIS FORD

Mystery—Swift Action Romance—Adventure —A Lavish Production With a Huge Cast

The announcement of a Cunard-Ford Serial was met by an overwhelming response. Bookings are pouring in to every Universal Exchange. Live Exhibitors who have made big money on Universal Serials before are eager to get the first showing of this newest and greatest—sensational serial success.

BOOK NOW for PROFIT

The advertising possibilities of "The Purple Mask" are simply tremendous—the unequaled co-operation of the mighty Universal—the expert advertising service given in the magnificent Advertising Campaign Book will put this serial over for you in a way that will mean popularity, prestige and profit. Book now through any Universal Exchange, or

UNIVERSAL

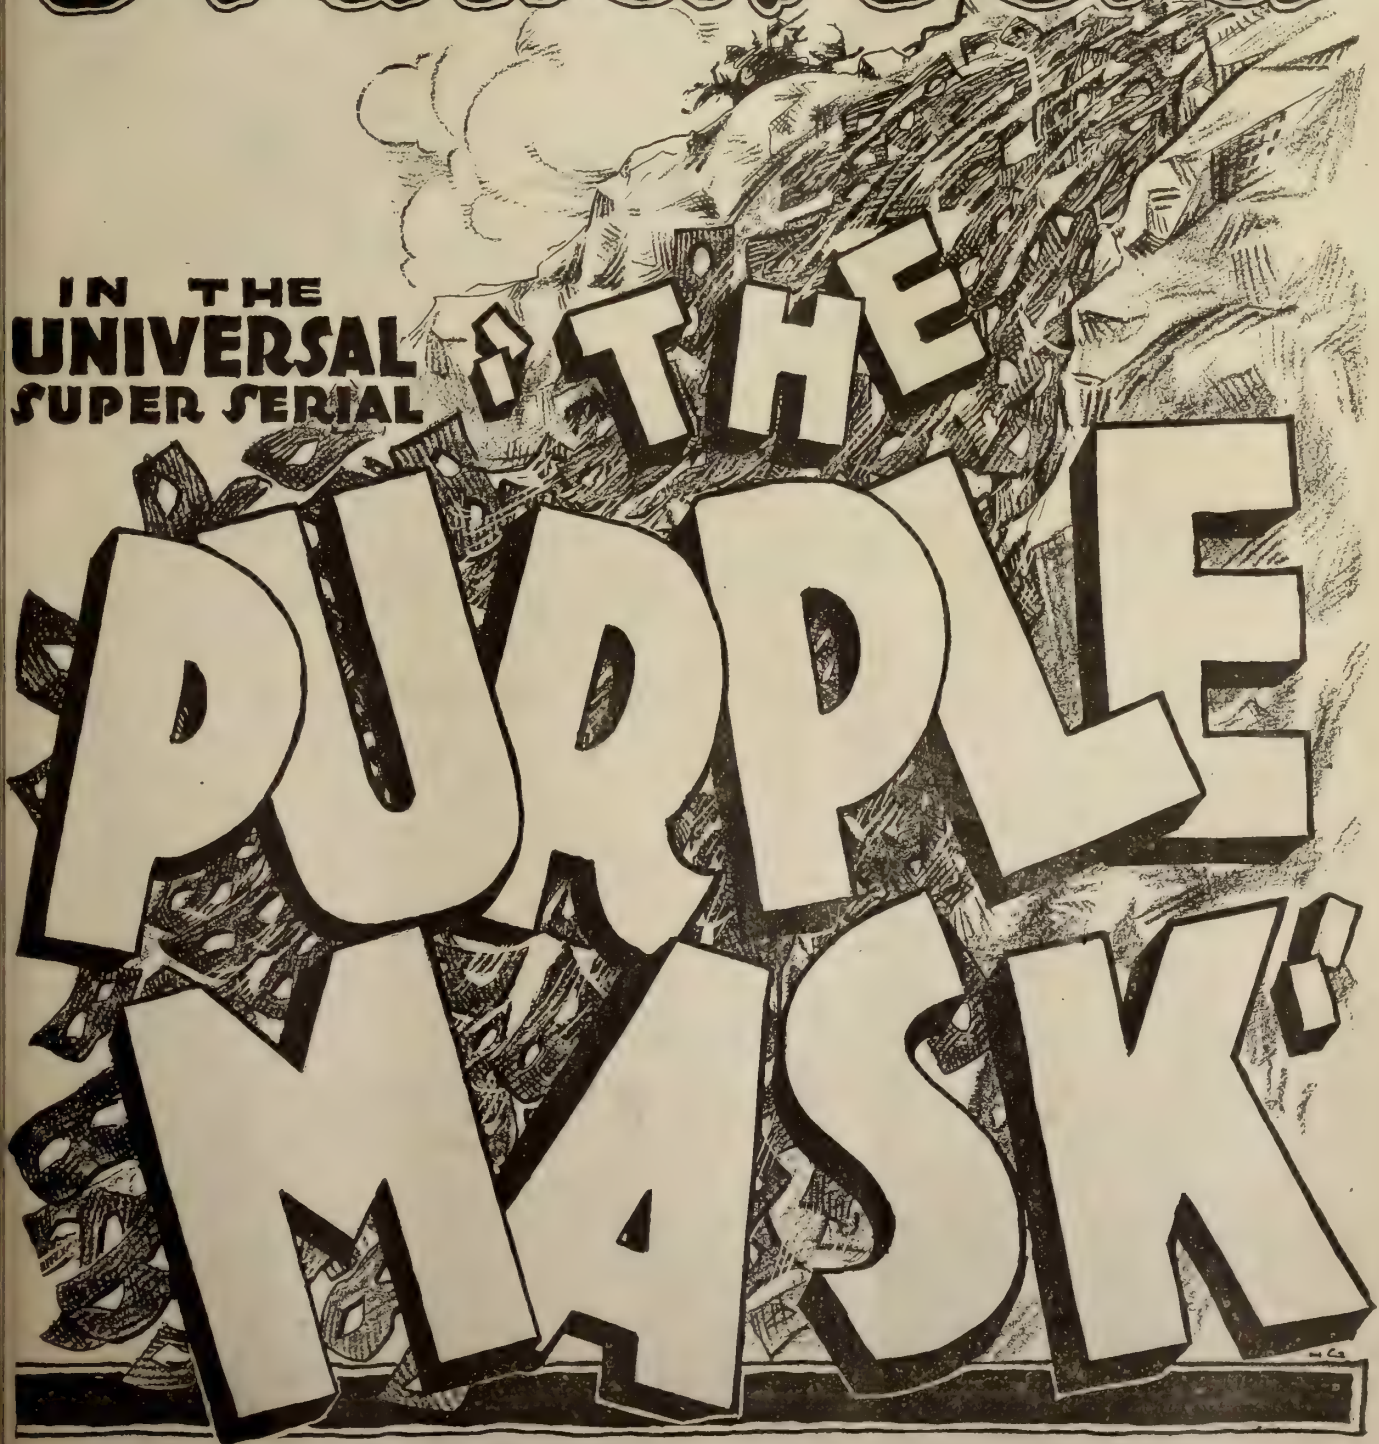
FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY

CARL LAEMMLE, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 Broadway, New York

Prove the Popularity
SERIAL STARS ON EARTH
Francis Ford



Red Feather Photoplays

PRESENT

"THE DOUBLE-ROOM MYSTERY"

WITH

HAYWARD MACK and ED. HEARNE

Directed by Hobart Henley

Book thru any Universal Exchange

STATE RIGHTS

Now Selling

Wire Today

Universal Pictures

Present an Unusual State Rights Proposition in the Sensational Cinema Production—

"The People versus John Doe"

WRITTEN, DIRECTED AND PRODUCED BY

LOIS WEBER

Producer of Such Huge Successes as "Where Are My Children?"—"Hypocrites"—"Scandal"—"Jewel"—"Shoes" and others

This stupendous LOIS WEBER production played to capacity at the Broadway Theatre, New York, and received from the newspaper and film trade critics an endorsement rarely given to any cinema production. It is the type of picture that makes the people discuss it; the class that is self-advertising; the strong meat play that makes a deep impression on pulpit, press and public. It is the ideal type of State Rights Production. Full particulars regarding choicest open territory on application to the STATE RIGHTS DEPARTMENT of the UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.

CARL LAEMMLE, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK

Act Now

A BOX OFFICE WINNER and TREMENDOUS DRAMATIC PRODUCTION

STATE RIGHTS

NOW SELLING

UNIVERSAL FEATURES PRESENT

A TREMENDOUS DRAMATIZATION of DANIEL DE FOE'S THRILLING STORY

"ROBINSON CRUSOE"

With ROBERT LEONARD---supported by MARGARITA FISCHER and an all-star cast

A beautiful, big production that appeals to young and old. A picture that will please everyone; that will prove a tremendous drawing card for neighborhood houses and down town theatres as well. The spirit of romance and adventure; realistic details visualized from the old and familiar story carry an appeal to every moving picture fan. State Rights on this superb dramatization NOW SELLING—Write or wire today for open territory, terms, etc. Address all communications to STATE RIGHTS DEPT.,

UNIVERSAL

FILM MANUFACTURING CO.
Carle Laemmle, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"
1600 Broadway
NEW YORK

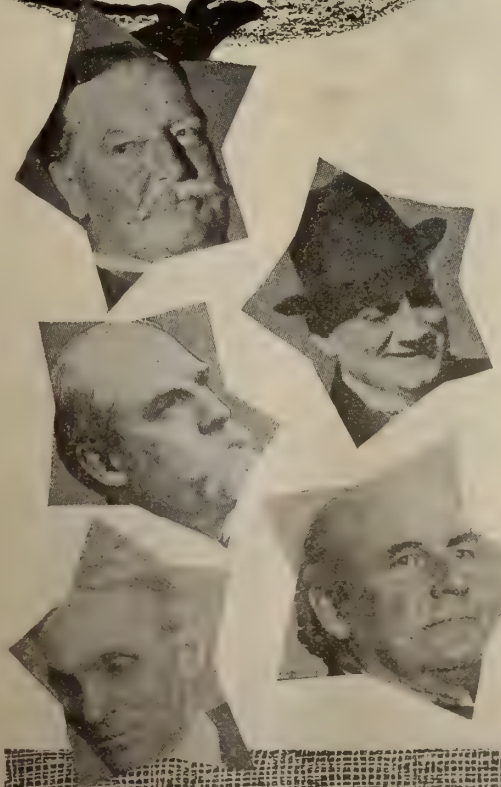
The STATE RIGHTS Opportunity of a Lifetime!

THIS IS EDNA AUG in

The Funniest Craziest Picture ever Produced

"WHERE DYE GET THAT STUFF?"

But look at the Stars WHO ARE IN THE PICTURE WHO ARE NOT BILLED



You get that Stuff—the greatest stuff you ever saw—right here.

A State Rights proposition that is the biggest crowd-getting, box-office attraction you ever heard of. A regular entertainment that will pack 'em in wherever shown.

Bill It Like a Circus—
Play It Like a Road Show

That's the way buyers are already playing this big burlesque comedy production. The time to get in on this is NOW. There's the swellest bunch of paper, all the way from one to twenty-four sheets you ever saw. It is attractive, snappy and strictly up-to-date. Write, wire, phone or call for particulars as to choice territory still open.

ARGOSY FILMS (INC.)
1600 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

STATE RIGHT BUYERS

"The Girl Who Doesn't Know" is the greatest sermon yet presented to parents through the medium of the screen—a theme positively untouched in motion pictures—a dramatic, heart-throbbing story

B.S.MOSS
729 SEVENTH AVENUE . NEW YORK CITY

Newest Photoplay

"The GIRL WHO DOESN'T KNOW"

Featuring
MARIE EMPRESS

will make parents think and discuss whether it is not best that their children learn the physiological facts of life in an earnest and chaste manner from one who is both mother and companion to her.

Everybody will Want to see it!

GUARD CHILD
MORALS, WARN RAND JURORS

Body, Stirred by Wave
enile Offenses, Urges
Watch by All Parents

Lewis Urges Chaper-
Girls in Homes--Third
Indicted Are Boys

ES THAT DRIVE
LS INTO DISHONOR
g. Low Wages, Unfortu-Surroundings Named ch Commission.

NEW YORK JOURNAL

"What Is the Greatest SAFE-GUARD to Young Men or Women Against Temptation?"
The Reverend F. W. Adams Asks the Question. The Answer Is KNOWLEDGE.
Copyright, 1916, by the Company

ST. ANDREW'S PARSONAGE,
120 WEST 76TH STREET,
NEW YORK.

Editor New York Evening Journal:
My Dear Sir—I shall continue my questionnaire on Temptation Sunday evening, December 10.
I will highly esteem it if you will answer to be used in my sermon that evening question. "What is the greatest SAFE-GUARD to young men or women against temptation?"
With appreciation,
F. W. ADAMS.

REV. FRED WINSLOW ADAMS.

The Reverend Mr Adams's question is literally answered in one word. It is KNOWLEDGE that old men and women against temptation. The only efficient safeguard is EDUCATION.

ST. ANDREW'S PARSONAGE
120 WEST 76TH STREET
NEW YORK

"The Girl who Doesn't Know", is a story of life that carries conviction in an earnest, chaste, and straight forward way. It is better a girl should learn some things from a moving picture than to learn them in the peril of society. It is best of all that she learn them at first hand from one who can be both mother and companion to her daughter. The Girl who Doesn't Know speaks its mute appeal to mothers everywhere, to supplant ignorance with knowledge that girls forewarned may be forearmed.

See it 4/16

Club Women Hear
Lax Discipline With Children Derided

Dr. Charles E. Barker Says Indulgent Mother Is Child's Worse Enemy.

SYSTEMATIC EXERCISES FOR MOTHERS URGED

Teaching of Sex Hygiene in the Schools Declared to Be Harmful

SEVERAL TERRITORIES ARE STILL OPEN!

Takes Blame From Fallen Girl

Its Responsibility.

Dr. Carson
On Educating Young Girls

A NEW

MOROSCO-PARAMOUNT PICTURE

Released December 28th

OLIVER MOROSCO Presents

KATHLYN WILLIAMS

SUPPORTED BY

THOMAS HOLDING

IN

"REDEEMING LOVE"

Produced by

OLIVER MOROSCO PHOTOPLAY CO.

485 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

Agents for Canada: Famous Players Film Service, Ltd., Calgary, Toronto, Montreal

MARGUERITE CLARK

IN THE

FAMOUS PLAYERS

picturization of her greatest stage success

SNOW WHITE

has been proclaimed by critics and exhibitors

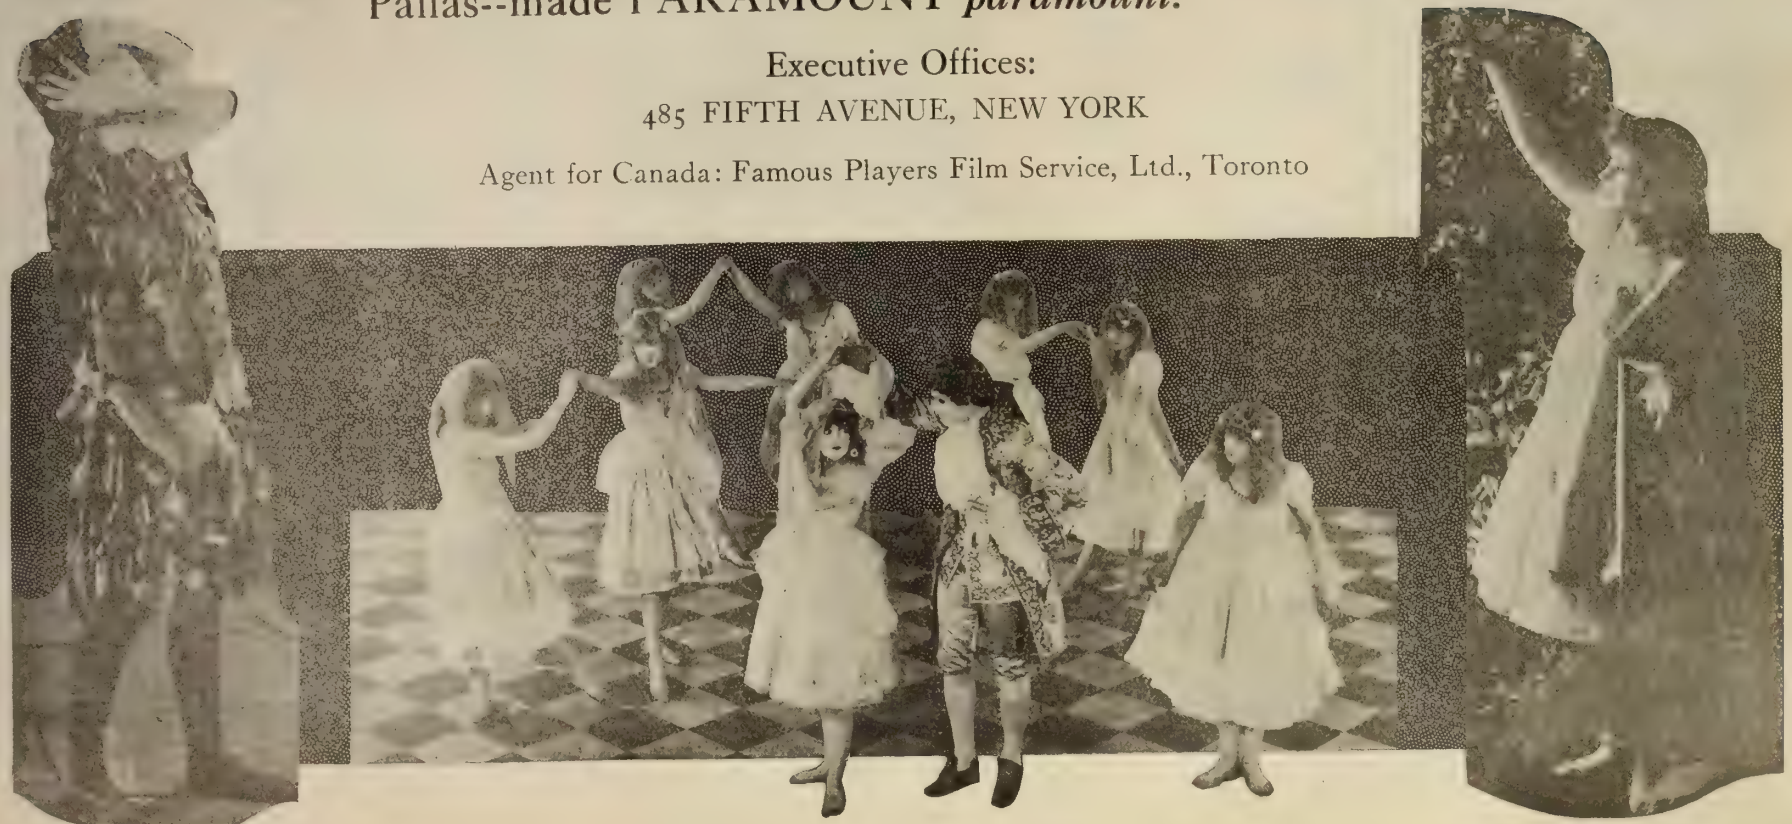
An Unparalleled
Paramount Picture

Scores of telegrams received from prominent exhibitors throughout the country indicate that they consider it extraordinary for Snow White to be a regular program release even for Paramount. We don't!

Such Pictures as SNOW WHITE and the 103 others produced by Famous Players, Lasky, Morosco and Pallas--made PARAMOUNT paramount.

Executive Offices:
485 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

Agent for Canada: Famous Players Film Service, Ltd., Toronto



"BRAVING BLAZES"

Release Date January 8th

The newest, most original

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY

yet produced by these masters of mirth

UNITED STATES MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION

WILKES-BARRE, PA.

J. O. WALSH, Pres. F. W. HERMANN, Vice-Pres.
D. L. HART, Treas.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE AT FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Paramount announces Victor Moore

in the third

one reel "Klever Komedies"

"HE MEANT WELL"

Vic starts off the New Year meaning well—
But, Oh! the consequences!!

You'll laugh! You'll scream! You'll howl!

Released New Year's Day, January 1st

KLEVER PICTURES, INC.
220 West 42nd St., New York City

Artcraft's Next Great Offerings

Commencing with January, ARTCRAFT will release one picture a month, and that picture, you may depend, will be the most towering feature of the industry.

One ARTCRAFT picture a month with the world's greatest artist will bring your playhouse the prestige that no other amusement medium can duplicate.

Inquire for particulars now.

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION

Mary Pickford in The Pride of the Clan

Start the new year with one of Miss Pickford's greatest achievements.

THE 81 FIRST RUN ARTCRAFT THEATRES will show this picture for the first time

JANUARY 8TH, 1917

Have you a Pickford contract?

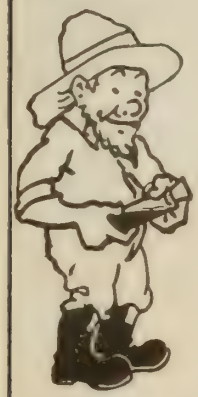
George M. Cohan in Broadway Jones

This event is the millennium in moving pictures—the one feature that America has awaited for years.

This will be an ARTCRAFT February release.

729 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

K KEEN CARTOONS K

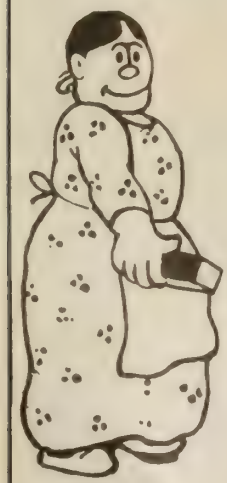


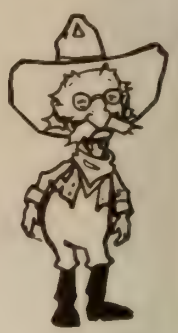
Comical Characters

Presented in

Hilariously Funny Comedies

make





Keen Cartoons

The Greatest Laugh Producers Ever Offered

One Each Week Released Through Foremost Independent Exchanges

Write or Wire For Full Information

KEEN CARTOON CORPORATION

729 Seventh Avenue, New York.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS
PRESENT
"THE PIPER'S PRICE"
FROM THE STORY BY MRS. WILSON WOODROW With DOROTHY PHILLIPS
MAUDE GEORGE-LON CHANEY AND WILLIAM STOWELL
DIRECTED BY
JOSEPH DE GRASSE
RICE

THE tremendous momentum of BLUEBIRD popularity is wholly unprecedented, though confidently expected by BLUEBIRD Executives ever since the inception of these marvelous film drama achievements.

Each succeeding release is widening and strengthening the extreme favor in which BLUEBIRDS are held by moving picture patrons throughout the country.

Greatness of plays; superiority of stars; the farthest advance in direction—these have been combined in a manner never before considered possible. The flood of publicity and generous advertising space in the Saturday Evening Post is further increasing the popular demand for BLUEBIRD Photoplays. You can share in this demand with profit.

IMPORTANT TO EXHIBITORS: Arrange to see the photoplay triumph of the season—"GOD'S CRUCIBLE." A play that will astonish you as evidence of the super-excellence possible in the art of the screen drama. It is a BLUEBIRD of the true BLUEBIRD standard.

Book through your local BLUEBIRD Exchange or

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, (Inc.)
Executive Offices
1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Released on the METRO
PROGRAM
January 8th

COLUMBIA
Pictures Corporation
presents

The Star Delightful

MABEL TALIAFERRO

IN

A WIFE BY PROXY

A METRO wonderplay
from the supreme story written by Charles Logue and John B. Clymer - Directed by John H. Collins.

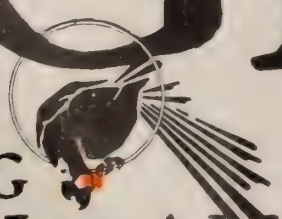
Biggest box office attraction ever offered to Motion Picture Theatres since motion pictures began

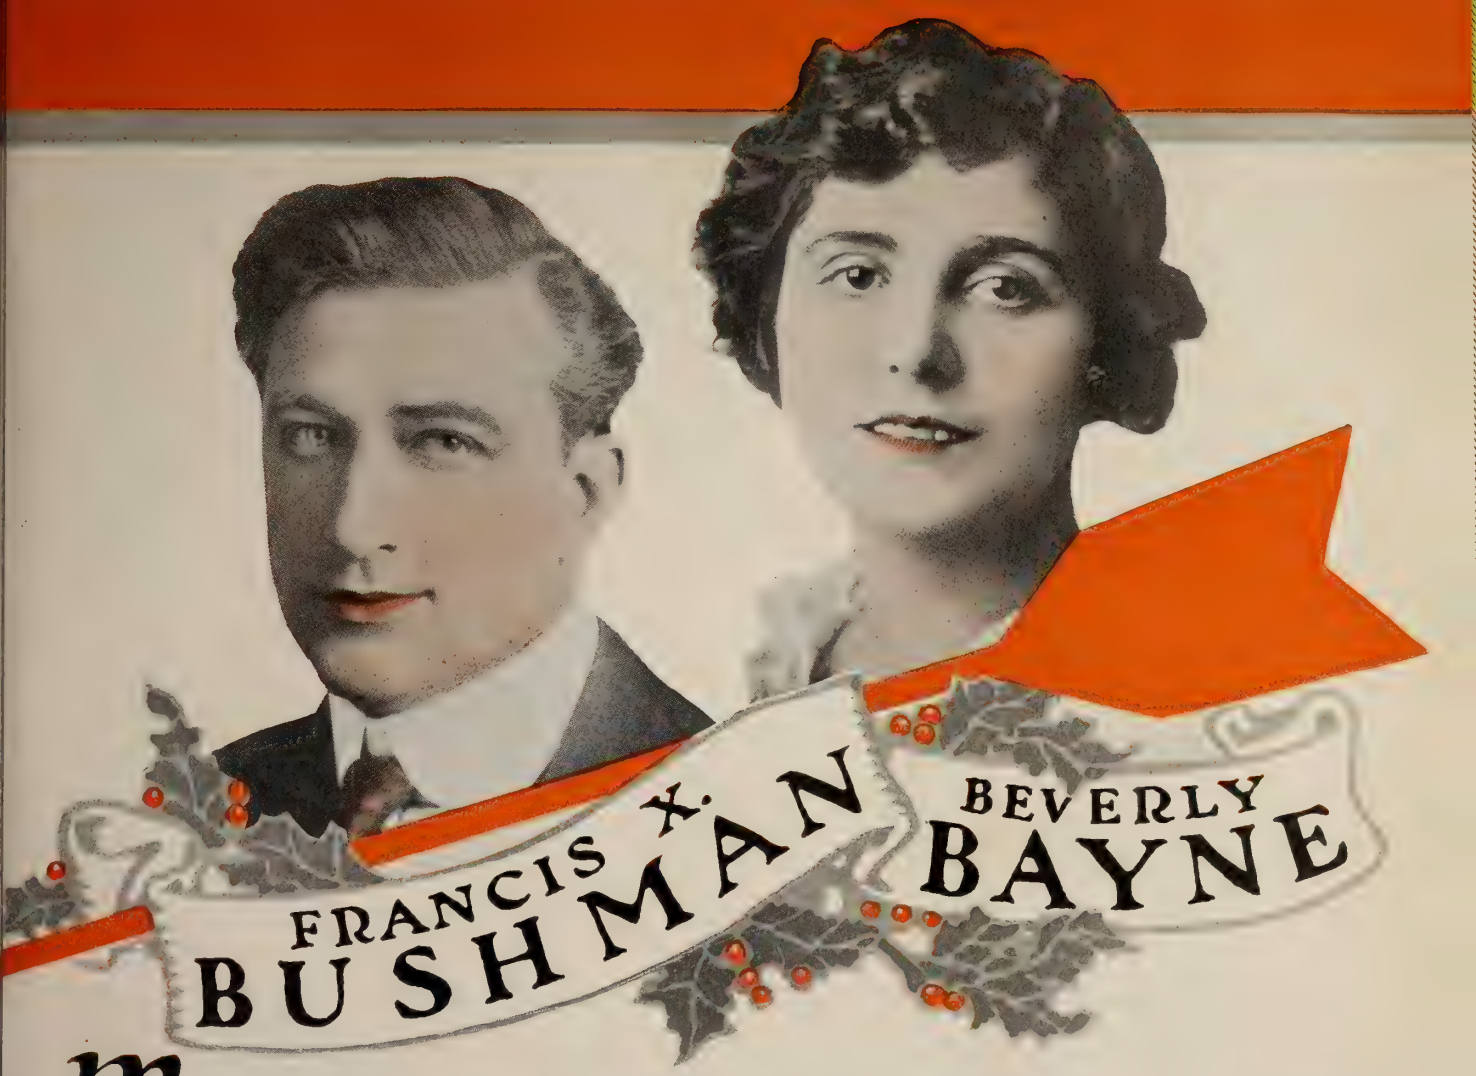
15 consecutive weeks

The Great



BOOKING NOW AT ALL

METRO



FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN

BEVERLY BAYNE

Wm. Christy Cabanne's master production of romance, thrill and power.

Whirlwind Advertising Campaign – Newspaper and Billboard – Unique in Showmanship.

Secret

Story by Fred de Gresac

Presented by QUALITY Pictures Corporation

Produced by SERIAL Producing Company

EXCHANGES

A YEAR of Prosperity and Profit for every Motion Picture Exhibitor in these METRO PICTURES for 1917

Jan. 1	Vanity	Emmy Wehlen
" 8	A Wife by Proxy	Mabel Taliaferro
" 15	The White Raven	Ethel Barrymore
" 22	Threads of Fate	Viola Dana
" 29	The Weaker Sex	Mme Petrova
Feb. 5	The Promise	Harold Lockwood - May Allison
" 12	One of Many	Frances Nelson
" 19	The End of the Tour	Lionel Barrymore
" 26	The Secret of Eve	Mme Petrova
Mar. 5	The Belle of the Season	Emmy Wehlen
12	The Beautiful Lie	Frances Nelson
19	The Hidden Children	Harold Lockwood - May Allison

METRO-DREW COMEDIES
METRO TRAVELOGS
and so on through the year

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

WILLIAM FOX'S
FIRST SUPER DE LUXE PHOTODRAMAS

WILLIAM FARNUM
in
A powerful indictment of child labor evils,
THE PRICE OF SILENCE
Directed by Frank Lloyd
RELEASED ON JAN. 8

THEDA BARA
in a photodrama of love and intrigue,
The DARLING OF PARIS
Suggested by Victor Hugo's
"THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME"
Directed by J. Gordon Edwards
Released
Jan. 22

FOX FILM CORPORATION

LOVE AND PEARLS—IN SOUTH SEAS.

Freebooters attempting to steal priceless gems from a young girl are foiled by the bravery of one man. See the

WILLIAM FOX-

PHOTOPLAY WITH THAT MATCHLESS STAR

GEORGE WALSH

IN

The Island of Desire-

STORY BY J. ALLEN DUNN
SCENARIOIZED AND DIRECTED BY OTIS TURNER

FOX FILM CORPORATION

FOXFILM COMEDY SERVICE

YOU'LL LAUGH AFTER NEW YEAR'S DAY,

1917

BECAUSE IT IS THE RELEASE DATE FOR

FOXFILM COMEDIES

Start the year right by making your patrons happy. Give them comedies that are so funny that they are automatic laugh-producers.

FOXFILM COMEDIES

are that kind. They are two-reel gloom-dispellers of the most contagious sort.

ANY PRODUCER ANYWHERE
CAN BOOK FOXFILM COMEDIES.
THEY ARE RELEASED INDEPENDENTLY
OF THE
REGULAR FOX PROGRAM.

FOXFILM COMEDIES ARE
- Laugh Looseners
- Mirth Makers
- Joy Jugglers
- Gloom Grabbers
- Sorrow Slammers
- Sadness Squelchers.

BOOK THEM NOW

FOX FILM CORPORATION

MR. EXHIBITOR

Beginning in January

MACK SENNETT

KEYSTONE COMEDIES

For the First Time Anyone
Can Have them regardless of His Program

ONE EVERY WEEK AND
THEY ARE PIPPINS

RELEASED THROUGH
TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION

KEYSTONE FI

KESSEL &

EXECUTIVES

MISS MABEL NORMAND

IN

"MICKEY"

Mickey is a quaint little mountain girl who runs the gamut of life. Laughter and tears take their turn in the unfolding of the story.

* * *

A vivid and appealing comedy-drama with real living characters, told without squash pies, battles or the seduction of the innocent heroine.

* * *

No padding. When the story is over, the curtain goes down.

* * *

COMING SOON.

LM COMPANY

BAUMAN

NEW YORK CITY

SELZNICK PICTURES

ANOTHER
CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG TRIUMPH
"THE FOOLISH VIRGIN"
By Thomas Dixon
Directed by
ALBERT CAPELLANI

HAS GONE OVER WITH A RUSH

WHAT THE CRITICS SAY

"Characterized by splendid direction and acting. Carefully staged. Marked by especially clever touches." G. BLAISDELL, Motion Picture World.

"The picture will please. And wise exhibitors will book "The Foolish Virgin." W. R. ANDREWS, Motion Picture News.

"In each scene there is something that stands out because of its punch." Dramatic Mirror.

"A story replete with heart interest—should prove a sterling attraction." Exhibitors Trade Review.

Greater than "The Common Law." See this picture.
"ZIT" N. Y. Evening Journa

NEXT PRODUCTION
"THE PRICE SHE PAID" By David Graham Phillips
WONDERFUL SOCIETY STORY BY ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST AUTHORS
DIRECTED BY CHARLES GIBLYN

SOLE DISTRIBUTORS
LEWIS J. SELZNICK EXCHANGES
BRANCHES EVERYWHERE

SELZNICK PICTURES

HERBERT BRENON
Creator of The Photodramatic Sensation of 1916. . . . .
NAZIMOVA in "War Brides"
Has Nearly Completed a
" New Film Masterwork. . . "

THE ETERNAL SIN

Starring The Brilliant American Actress

FLORENCE REED

SOLE DISTRIBUTORS
LEWIS J. SELZNICK EXCHANGES
BRANCHES EVERYWHERE

SELZNICK PICTURES

Joseph M. Schenck
Presents

NORMA TALMADGE

In

"PANTHEA"

By Monckton Hoffe

DIRECTED BY ALLAN DWAN

Harry Rapf
Presents

ROBERT WARWICK

In

(By Arrangement with Klaw & Erlanger)

THE ARGYLE CASE

By Harrey J. O'Higgins Harriet Ford and William J. Burns

DIRECTED BY
RALPH W. INCE

SOLE DISTRIBUTORS
LEWIS J. SELZNICK EXCHANGES

Pathé

"After sitting through the first three episodes of the audience would willingly have sat through the whole fifteen!"

Pearl of the Army

Cleveland Plain Dealer, Dec 2nd

Read what they say about it. It's good!

"Every once in awhile some chronic kicker comes along, and, in wearied tones, complains against that twenty-minute entertainment he frequently encounters on a moving picture program that ends with a 'continued next week.'

"It seems to injure his feelings to be invited to come again on the same day next week and watch an impossible but thrilling and mysterious plot slowly unfold.

"But in spite of chronic kickers, producers, particularly Pathé, continue to produce moving picture serials, and exhibitors continue to book them to boost their business on the poorest night in the week. And if the public didn't prove that they liked this melodramatic form of entertainment would Mr. Exhibitor and Mr. Producer continue spending their good coin?

" 'Pearl of the Army' starring Pearl White and featuring Ralph Kellard is the newest serial from the house of Pathé, and if the first three episodes may be considered as a criterion, it should prove as popular as 'The Shielding Shadow' which is rapidly drawing to a satisfactory close.

"When it comes to injecting real mystery in serials Pathé walks away with the blue ribbon every time. Mystery and thrills in 'Pearl of the Army'? Whew!

"After sitting through the first three episodes the audience would have willingly sat through the whole fifteen, so mysterious is the action of not only one person, but two. Even the operator, who had seen the first six reels several times, would have gladly cranked the remaining footage of the entire serial. He admitted it himself.

Praise like this should make you want to show "Pearl of the Army", Mr. Exhibitor.

Produced by Astra
under the direction of Edward José.

Pathé Serials

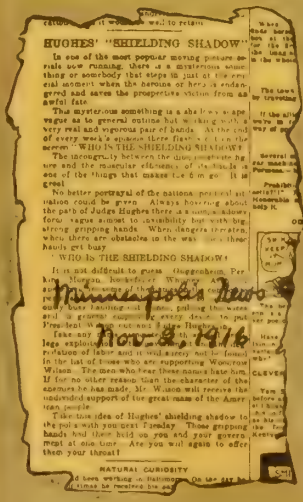
Standard Oil
Dollar Watches
Ford Cars

Theodore Roosevelt
Thomas Edison
Andrew Carnegie

-All are American institutions known to every man, woman and child as definite positive factors in the life of the world.

Read the newspapers and you will find Pathé Serials occupying as much space as any of the above names. Here are some notices on

The Shielding Shadow



HUGHES' "SHIELDING SHADOW"

In one of the most popular moving picture serials now running, there is a mysterious something or somebody that steps in just at the critical moment when the heroine or hero is endangered and saves the prospective victim from an awful fate.

The mysterious something is a shadow, vague as to general outline but working with a very real and vigorous pair of hands. At the end of every week's episode three fingers of the mysterious "WHO IS THE SHIELDING SHADOW?"

The interplay between the dim, unseen figure and the muscular efficiency of the hands is one of the things that makes the film go. It is great.

No better portrayal of the nations present situation could be given. Always hovering about the path of Judge Hughes there is a somewhat shadowy form, vague almost to invisibility but with big, strong gripping hands. When dangers threaten, when there are obstacles in the way, those hands get busy.

WHO is THE SHIELDING SHADOW?

It is not difficult to guess. Oppression, Perfidious Monopoly, Bossism, Wealth Against Manhood, Privilege, Greed, Graft, Corruption, Disloyalty, Treason, Anarchy, Class Hatred, Class Legislation, Class Exploitation, Disregard of Human Rights, Defiance of Labor and it would surely not be found in the list of those who are supporting Woodrow Wilson. The men who fear these names hate him. If for no other reason than the character of the enemies he has made, Mr. Wilson will receive the undivided support of the great mass of the American people.

Take the idea of Hughes' shielding shadow to the polls with you next Tuesday. Those gripping hands and them hold on you and your govern- ment at one time. Are you will again to offer them your throat?

Newspaper News
Nov 2 1916

NATURAL CURIOSITY

The Lewiston Maine Journal says:

"THE SHIELDING SHADOW" is fraught with thrilling suspense."

The Bridgeport, Connecticut, Telegram says: "'THE SHIELDING SHADOW' Pathe's Wonder Serial is the greatest of all serials."

The Omaha Sunday Bee of October 1st says:

"THE SHIELDING SHADOW" is one of the cleverest mystery serials that has yet been released, as it deals with a scientific research that develops a result long sought by the scientists."

The Baltimore American of Sept. 26th says

"A PICTURE WORTH SEEING.

"THE SHIELDING SHADOW" which is in fifteen episodes of two reels each is a wonderful portrayal of motion picture art. For the lover of mystery there is plenty in the picture, there are many thrilling climaxes to each episode. The production is a most elaborate one and shows that no expense was spared in making the film."

N.Y. Sun, Dec. 8, 1916

HIS WIFE FINALLY IDENTIFIES OLIVER

Elusive One Gets Red Socks and Green Hats to Liven Up Sombre Tombs.

PROVES A PHILOSOPHER

Prisoner Jarred When Former Landlady Says He Jumped $25 Board Bill.

This Oliver Osborne lately shared by Post Office inspectors and is used as a witness in the Tanner case. Following a lot of knuckles these days in the Federal Building. Before he was [illegible] with the popular thing [illegible] as a Have-[illegible] the Mysterious [illegible] Lamp Lady. All wrong. He [illegible]

Newspapers reflect public opinion. The Manager who doesn't show "The Shielding Shadow" is passing up good business.

Produced by Astra
under the direction of
Louis J. Gasnier and Donald Mackenzie.

Pathé

Do you know this man?
He is "Snub" Pollard and with Harold Lloyd
he makes up the greatest laugh team in the country.

Luke comedies now once a week

CONSOLIDATED AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES

2139 EIGHTH AVENUE

TEL. MORNINGSIDE 1176

OPERATING:
MORNINGSIDE THEATRE
REGENT THEATRE
72nd ST PLAYHOUSE
DRURY LANE THEATRE
YORK THEATRE
NEW AMSTERDAM
44th ST THEATRE
MOVIES THEATRE

NEW YORK,
Oct. 5th 1916

Pathe Exchange,
115 East 23rd St.
New York City.

Attention of Mr. A.S. Abeles, Mgr.

Gentlemen:-

I have been showing the "Lonesome Luke" comedies here for some time and it gives me pleasure to inform you that they are growing steadily in favor among the patrons of this theatre.

The slap stick comedy work of Harold Lloyd is clean, does not offend and is enjoyed by grown-ups as well as children.

With well wishes for his continued success, we are

Yours truly,
Andrew Bolzgunius

Produced by Rolin

PATHÉ

Announcing
the Star whom one picture,
"The Shine Girl," made a national favorite

Gladys Hulette

in the five part Gold Rooster Play of innocence, sorrow, and joy

"Her New York"

written by Agnes Johnston, author of Miss Hulette's other successess, "The Shine Girl" and "Prudence the Pirate"

Produced by Thanhouser
Released Jan. 7

Current Gold Rooster Plays "Joy and the Dragon" Dec. 31, "The Romantic Journey"
Dec. 24, "King Lear" Dec. 17, and "The Challenge" Dec. 10.

Thanhouser-Made Pathé Gold Rooster Plays

GLADYS HULETTE
IN
"'HER' NEW YORK"
Released Jan. 7

VALKYRIEN
(BARONESS DEWITZ)
IN
"The IMAGE MAKER"
Released Jan. 21

THANHOUSER FILM CORPORATION
NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. EDWIN THANHOUSER PRES. JACKSONVILLE, FLA.
EUROPEAN OFFICE, THANHOUSER FILMS LTD., 167 WARDOUR ST., W., LONDON

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

When you hire a man to work for you

You want one who is loyal, honest, always on the job—dependable, in fact.

You need the same qualities in the Pictures you hire to work for you.

World Pictures Brady-Made

Are loyal. They never go back on you.

Are honest. Honestly advertised by honest Producers.

Are on the job. All the time. World Service is an intelligent anticipation of your needs and conditions.

Are dependable. Our product is identified with this word.

World Film Corporation
130 West 46th St. New York City
Canadian Distributors REGAL FILMS, Ltd.
37 Yonge St. Toronto, Ont.

WILLIAM A. BRADY
in association with WORLD PICTURES
presents
ALICE
BRADY
in "A Woman Alone"
Directed by
HARRY DAVENPORT Story by WILLARD MACK

MRS. VERNON CASTLE in Patria

THE SERIAL SUPREME

Written by Louis Joseph Vance Produced by Wharton Inc.

NOW BOOKING INTERNATIONAL

PATRIA has been accorded the most remarkable reception ever given a motion picture serial. At private showings held in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and Strand Theatre, New York; Congress Hotel, Chicago; Tremont Theatre, Boston; Sinton Hotel, Cincinnati, and in other cities Patria was proclaimed the Serial Supreme. Now booking.

EXCHANGES

ATLANTA 146 Marietta St.	CINCINNATI 532 Walnut St.	LOS ANGELES 912 So. Olive St.	PHILADELPHIA 1335 Vine St.	ST. LOUIS 3313 Olive St.
BOSTON 48 Piedmont St.	CLEVELAND 750 Prospect Ave., S. E.	NEW YORK CITY 729 Seventh Ave	PITTSBURGH 804 Penn Ave.	SEATTLE 1214½ Third Ave.
CHICAGO 207 So. Wabash Ave	KANSAS CITY 1305 Walnut St	OMAHA 1417 Harney St.	SAN FRANCISCO 280 Golden Gate Ave	WASHINGTON 712 11th St., N. W.

AGENCIES

ALBANY 68 State St.	BUFFALO 39 Erie St.	DETROIT 71 Griswold St.	MINNEAPOLIS 606 Produce Exch. Bldg.	NEW ORLEANS 338 Barronne St.

INDIANAPOLIS New Lyric Theatre Bldg. SALT LAKE CITY 314 McIntyre Bldg.

INTERNATIONAL

CHRISTIE COMEDIES

"CHUCK FULL OF LAUGHS"

"HER CROOKED CAREER"

Open Market Release for January 8th

FEATURING

BETTY COMPSON and EDDIE BARRY

Book this CHRISTIE COMEDY. You'll want more of 'em.

Christie Film Co.

SUNSET BOULEVARD AT GOWER ST.
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The GOLDEN ROSARY

A Super-Cinematographic Masterpiece

in Five Parts
Featuring

Olga DeCosta
and Jack Meredith

Produced by TOM VAN PLANCK

BETSEY RANDOLPH

FOR [redacted]

EXCLUSIVE TERRITORY

APPLY

The Film Exchange

729 7th Ave.
N. Y. City

A Big Money-Making Opportunity!

Reserve Your Territory Early!

We Beg to Announce to the Trade

That in keeping with our policy of releasing only the very best pictures shown on the screen today

We Have Acquired

The Sole and Exclusive Rights

To the Wonderful Pictures

ENTITLED

"The Living Book of Nature"

Produced by RAYMOND L. DITMARS, Curator of the NEW YORK ZOOLOGICAL PARK

These pictures, showing in most interesting and intimate detail the habits of strange, wild animals, have been running each week at the

Strand Theatre, New York, for the Past Three Months

Do you know of any other pictures, aside from ours, that ever ran for three months at New York's largest Broadway Theatre???

Educational Films Corporation of America

729 Seventh Avenue New York City, N. Y.

MUTUAL

AMERICAN FILM CO. INC., Presents

The Noted Star

RICHARD BENNETT

in

"A GILDED YOUTH"

A quaint story of happy-go-lucky John Slocum and his love for Mary, a waitress in a New York boarding-house. It contains real heart-throbs—a tear or two, and more than a few smiles.

Fourth of the Richard Bennett Series of Mutual Star Productions. Five Acts. Released the Week of January 1st.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS

Featuring RICHARD BENNETT

Now Playing:

"PHILIP HOLDEN, Waster."
"—AND THE LAW SAYS"
"THE VALLEY OF DECISION"

BOOKINGS NOW AT ANY MUTUAL EXCHANGE

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS 68 EXCHANGES

JANUARY 6, 1917

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN GREATER MUTUAL SPECIALS IN 1917

WHEN Charlie Chaplin signed the famous $670,000 contract with the Mutual Film Corporation, he was generally conceded to be the world's greatest comedian. In the months that have passed since that time, he has not only preserved that reputation, but has added to it. He starts the New Year with the greatest popularity he ever enjoyed. And in accordance with the 1917 Mutual policy of "Only Big Stars," Chaplin will again be presented in Mutual-Chaplin Specials, as the world's greatest comedian.

Still Without a Rival.

When Chaplin became a Mutual star he had many imitators. Other comedians, anxious to gain a little popularity, were satisfied to bask in the reflected glory of Chaplin. Today Chaplin stands alone in his particular style of fun-making. Exhibitors found by actual experience that there is but one Charlie Chaplin. Entering 1917, Chaplin finds himself without a rival. He stands alone —supreme—in the comedy field.

Pursuing its policy of "Only Big Stars for Mutual," the Mutual Film Corporation announces that during the coming year Charlie Chaplin will appear in even greater Mutual attractions—"the world's greatest comedian in the world's greatest comedies." The Mutual-Chaplin Specials already released have all established new records. They have all made big profits for the theatres which ran them. Exhibitors know that such comedies as "The Floorwalker," "The Fireman," "The Vagabond," "One A. M.," "The Count," "The Pawnshop," "Behind the Screen," and now his newest—"The Rink"—are unequaled as box-office attractions. These productions are all available now at any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges. New ones will soon be offered. Exhibitors should make booking arrangements now at the nearest Mutual Exchange.

Nance O'Neil in "Mrs. Balfame"

Gertrude Atherton's famous novel, "Mrs. Balfame," is now in production at the studios of the Frank Powell Producing Corporation. This is the first of a series of Mutual Star Productions in which Nance O'Neil is to be starred. It will be released through the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges. Bookings can be arranged now at Mutual Exchanges.

Mutual Star Productions For January

Week Beginning January 1st.

Title. Lead.

The Gilded Youth.....
.....Richard Bennett

Week Beginning January 8th.

The Butterfly Girl.....
.....Margarita Fischer

Week Beginning January 15th.

Beloved Rogues.....Kolb & Dill

Week Beginning January 22d.

The Gentle Intruder.....
.....Mary Miles Minter

"THE GIRL REPORTERS"

Mutual's Big Serial of Newspaper Life

PROVING A NOVELTY

There is something new in motion pictures—something really "different." After seeing the first few chapters of the new Mutual serial, "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters," exhibitors are admitting that fact. Here are stories of newspaper life, told from the "inside." Here are stories altogether new—altogether different. Theatre patrons the country over—ever searching for novelties in the way of photoplays—are packing houses to see "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters." This new serial is in fifteen chapters. A new chapter is released each week. First chapter released December 28. Each chapter is complete in itself. Each tells a fascinating story of real newspaper life. Earl Metcalfe, Helen Greene and Zena Keefe are the featured stars. George Terwilliger is the director. The serial was filmed at the Niagara Film Studios. Bookings can be made now at any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges in America.

Marjorie Rambeau in "The Greater Woman"

Studio work is progressing rapidly on "The Greater Woman." This is the first of the Marjorie Rambeau Mutual Star Productions. It is being made at the studios of the Frank Powell Producing Corporation. It features Miss Rambeau, supported by an all-star cast. Bookings can be made now at any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges.

RICHARD BENNETT SCORES A TRIUMPH IN "THE GILDED YOUTH"

THE Mutual Star Production for release the week of January 1 is entitled "The Gilded Youth." It features Richard Bennett. It is the fourth of the Richard Bennett Series of Mutual Star Productions. The others are "Philip Holden, Waster," "—And the Law Says" and "The Valley of Decision." All of them are now available at the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges. All of them feature Richard Bennett, the famous star of "Damaged Goods." Today Richard Bennett is conceded to be one of the greatest drawing cards ever presented.

A Quaint Little Story.

"The Gilded Youth" is a quaint little story. It has for its theme the love of John Slocum, a happy-go-lucky sort of chap, for Mary, a waitress in a New York boarding house. John and Mary declare their love and decide to marry. Each contributes a weekly mite toward a fund for their establishmen in a little home of their own. One day the finding of a raffle ticket leads to a complete change in all their plans. John finds himself in possession of a wonderful sable coat. In order to wear the coat he finds it necessary to replenish his entire wardrobe. Heavy withdrawals are made from the fund. Mary discovers one day that the fund is completely exhausted. She fears John has been unfair to her. And then—but to tell you more would spoil your enjoyment of the story. Needless to say, however, John, the gilded youth, proves to be pure gold and not mere gilt.

Released Week of January 1.

"The Gilded Youth" is released by all Mutual Exchanges the week of January 1. That week is sure to mean capacity business for the theatres showing this Bennett Mutual Star Production. Bookings can be made now.

Lumberlands Serial Crammed With Action

"It's the best serial I ever ran," writes an exhibitor of Van Wert, Ohio, after running a few chapters of the new Mutual serial, "A Lass of the Lumberlands." Thousands of other exhibitors agree with him. Men who didn't think it possible to improve on previous Helen Holmes-Mutual serials, are astonished to discover that "A Lass of the Lumberlands" is really the best Helen Holmes serial yet released. Bookings are being made now at the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges. This epic of the big north woods is packing theatres all over the United States.

MUTUAL

"THE BEST SERIAL I'VE EVER HAD!"—Lyric Theatre.

W. L. Bowers, manager of the Lyric Theatre of Van Wert, Ohio, writes: "I am playing 'A Lass of the Lumberlands' and want to say it is the best serial I have ever had. I stand them clear out to the street. I would heartily recommend it to anyone who wants a big box-office attraction." Take the advice of a fellow exhibitor. Capacity business is the rule at theatres playing "A Lass of the Lumberlands." Book this big serial today—at any Mutual Exchange!

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS

Featuring

HELEN HOLMES

Produced by SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION

Now Booking At 68 Mutual Exchanges!

MUTUAL

Thrilling Scenes In This Startling Serial!

Featuring
Earl Metcalfe
Helen Greene
Zena Keefe

The reporter's life is one of the most thrilling positions one can conceive. They face death without a tremor. They go through any peril to land "a story." How real newspaper stories are actually secured forms the basis of this thrilling new serial—"The Perils of Our Girl Reporters." It is new. It is novel. It is "different."

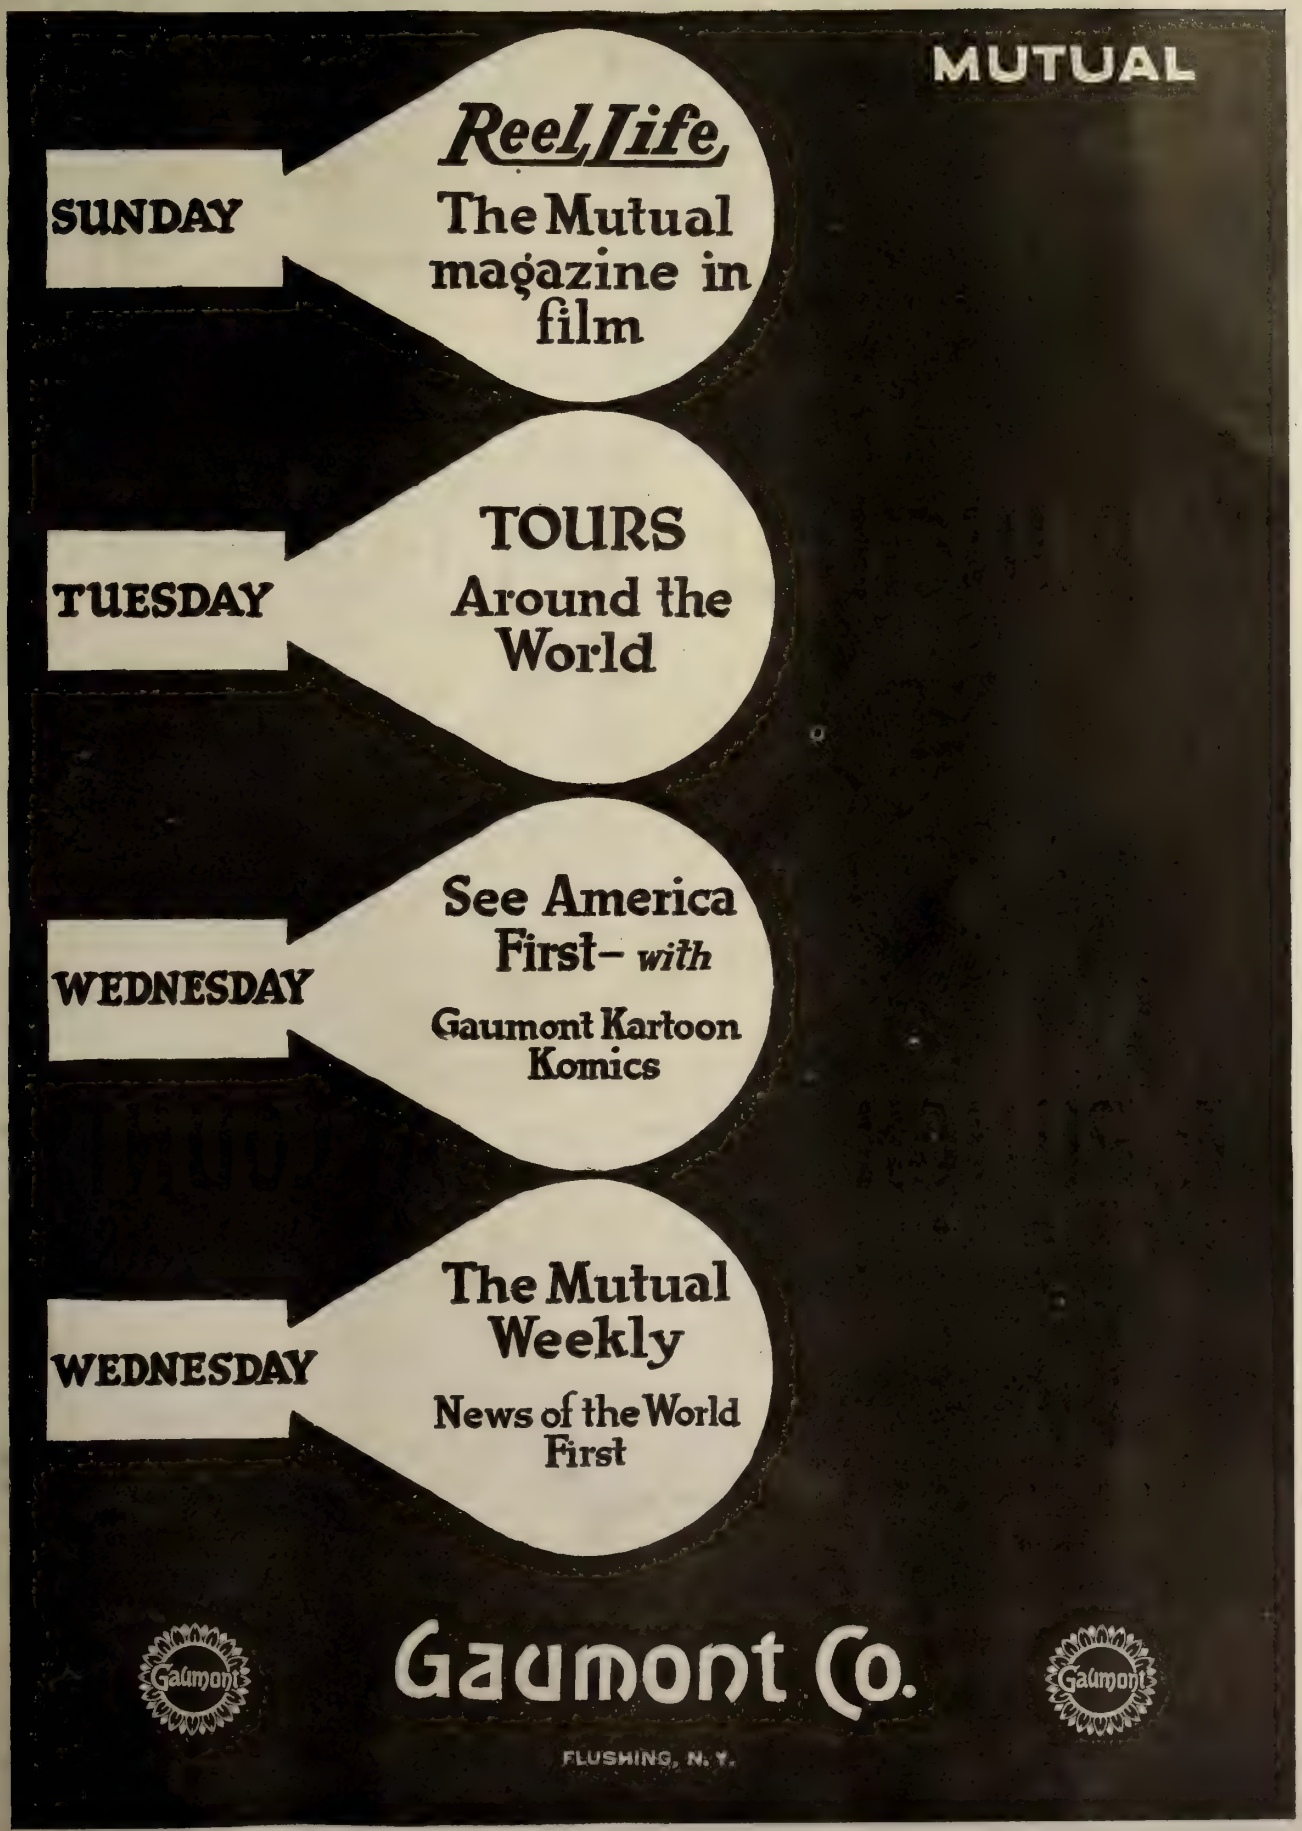
THE PERILS OF OUR GIRL REPORTERS

15 STARTLING MOTION PICTURE STORIES—EACH COMPLETE!

Theatre patrons the country over will welcome this Mutual serial. It is the "something new" in motion pictures for which they have been waiting. They will pack the theatres showing it. It means capacity business for 15 weeks. A new story each week. Each story complete in itself. Featuring Earl Metcalfe, Helen Greene and Zena Keefe. Directed by George Terwilliger. Backed by a tremendous national campaign of advertising and exhibitor helps. See the newspapers. Watch the billboards. Wire or write your nearest Mutual Exchange for complete details.

BOOKING NOW AT 68 MUTUAL EXCHANGES

Produced by NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS



MUTUAL
SUNDAY
Reel Life
The Mutual magazine in film
TUESDAY TOURS
Around the World
WEDNESDAY
See America First– with
Gaumont Kartoon Komics
WEDNESDAY
The Mutual Weekly
News of the World First
Gaumont Co.
FLUSHING, N. Y.

When is the best time to wake up? After the other fellow has grabbed the Unicorn program? DO IT NOW!

There's just two kinds of service—Unicorn and the other kind. Unicorn defies competition. LOOK INTO IT!

The proof of any service is the drawing power of the film. Book Unicorn and see the INCREASE IN YOUR RECEIPTS.

If you don't care whether your competitor puts one over on you, let him beat you to THE UNICORN PROGRAM.

Thousands of Theaters are making money with Unicorn Films. Why not you? It's a SERVICE TO SUIT YOUR NEEDS.

THE PUNCH THAT LANDS

THE PUNCH THAT COUNTS

THAT'S

Unicorn Film Service

126-30 West Forty-Sixth Street N.Y.

28 Branches Everywhere

You can make money with the Unicorn's ONE REEL DRAMAS AND WESTERNS.

You can make money with the Unicorn's TWO AND THREE REEL DRAMAS.

You can make money with the Unicorn's TWENTY-ONE REELS A WEEK SERVICE.

—And, PASTE THIS IN YOUR HAT,

THE BILLY WEST COMEDIES

Two-Reel Screams

"His Married Life," "Boarders and Bombs," "His Waiting Career."

Watch for the next release.

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

Miss

Billie Burke

By special arrangement with F. Ziegfeld, Jr.

in

GLORIA'S ROMANCE

Supported by HENRY KOLKER

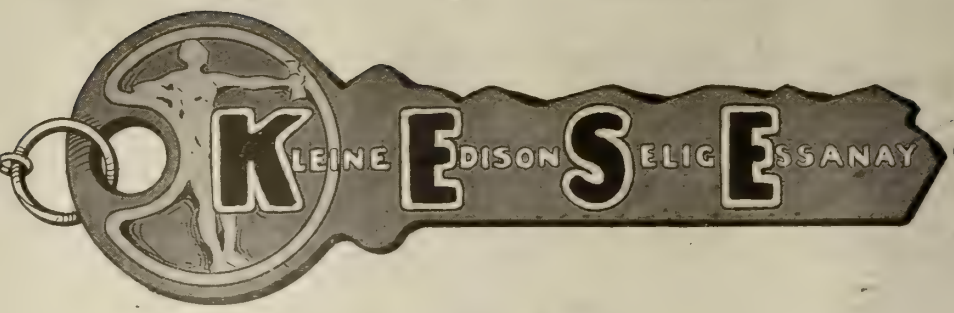
A Motion Picture Novel by Mr. and Mrs
RUPERT HUGHES

Small Town Exhibitors!

Has it ever occurred to you that Billie Burke is just as popular in your town as she is in any big city on earth? Have you thought of the opportunity for big box office receipts that await you if you book "Gloria's Romance" now when BILLIE BURKE'S name is on everyone's tongue? Start the New Year right. Make YOUR theatre the society center of your town. The best people in every community flock to the theatre showing "Gloria's Romance"— a society romance of Palm Beach, Florida, and Riverside Drive, New York. It's in twenty feature chapters—a new chapter every week for twenty weeks. The Lucile, Henri Bendel and Balcom gowns are a feature in themselves. Bookings can be obtained at the nearest Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay exchange or write direct to

GEORGE KLEINE
89 5th Avenue
NEW YORK CITY

"Most Elaborate Of All Picture Plays"



THE FINAL JUDGMENT

The final judgment as to the worth of a motion picture play really lies with the Exhibitor. If the production is mediocre, Mr. Exhibitor is first to learn of that fact for his patrons have no hesitancy in telling him; also the box office receipts slump. When a play pleases and the till is filled to overflowing with the clinking shekels, the Exhibitor is first to take his pen in hand to write congratulations to the Producer.

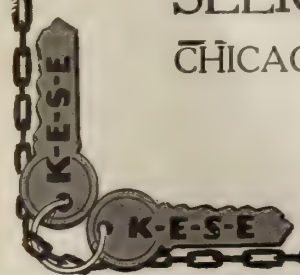
The Crown Theatre, Cleveland, Ohio, says: "'The Country That God Forgot' is an excellent production, the star was well liked and the play is worth repeating." The Garden Theatre, of Canton, Ill., writes: "I beg to advise that 'The Country That God Forgot' is one of the most unusual pictures I have ever played. Santschi was fine. My patrons, which consist of the best class of people, applauded frequently, which is also very unusual."

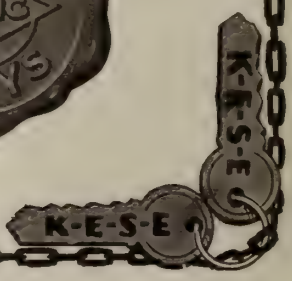
These are just a few of hundreds of unsolicited letters we have received praising the Selig Red Seal Play, "The Country That God Forgot."

Do you want to cash in with a Red Seal Play De Luxe? Then book "The Country That God Forgot."

SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.

CHICAGO - - - ILLINOIS





KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

THE CHICAGO EVENING POST,

—"All
D—"The D ple."

"The Truant Soul" Is Henry Walthall's Best

"THE TRUANT SOUL."

Produced by Essanay, released thru K. E. S. E. service; privately shown. The cast:

Dr. John Lancaster.....Henry B. Walthall
Joan Wentworth.....Mary Charleson
Myers.....Patrick Calhoun
Mrs. Dana.....Anna Mae Walthall
Mrs. Fraser.....Mary Parkyn
Dr. Jenkins.....U. K. Haupt

By Oma Moody Lawrence.

When Henry Walthall said that his role of Dr. John Lancaster in "The Truant Soul" was his best effort we who remembered "The Avenging Conscience" and "The Birth of a Nation" smiled dubiously and thought it was one of those little remarks that the press agent sometimes demands from even the most truthful star. But Mr. Walthall was too modest. For straight dramatic value we cannot expect better on the stage or the screen. That sounds like a strong statemen, but when an audience large enough to fill the Studebaker Theater sits tense and still for two hour and the voice of a little child in the balcony tells all of us to "look at the little mouse," we know that we have seen a masterpiece. Photoplays there have been with more beauty of pageantry, with more cleverness of dialog expressed in the subtitles, but for emotional acting there has not been anything seen lately that can compare with "The Truant Soul."

All the parts call for strong trion ability. The play is st a ram t the only is t nurs situ ave int wi is sl r st a Cl th let me sai was fus wit som pers her We som blu pleas to be

*This is a sensation * Book it early*

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle St., Chicago

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

RICHARD C. TRAVERS

and

GERTRUDE GLOVER

are presented in

"The Phantom Buccaneer"

By VICTOR BRIDGES

Directed by J. Charles Haydon

SCREEN TIME 1 HOUR, 20 MINUTES

A London adventurer overthrows a South American republic, slaying the president. The daughter swears vengeance. She forms a conspiracy and drives the adventurer from the country. She follows him and attempts to kill a double he has hired to impersonate him. She falls in love with the double. The two are accused when the real adventurer is slain. They are saved from the gallows by a dying man's confession.

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

General Film Service

IS MARRIAGE SACRED?

Essanay's New Stock Company

Marguerite Clayton Edward Arnold
Lillian Drew Sydney Ainsworth

Thomas Commerford

is presented in this striking series of photoplays on marriage and divorce.

It is a flaming banner that will attract every individual for it touches on a subject close to every heart.

Look over this list of titles.

"The Burning Band" -	Dec. 16	"The Magic Mirror" -	Jan. 27
"Dancing with Folly" -	Dec. 23	"Shifting Shadows" -	Feb. 3
"Wife In Sunshine" -	Dec. 30	"Desertion and Nonsupport"	Feb. 10
"The Sinful Marriage" -	Jan. 13	"Ashes on the Hearthstone"	Feb. 17
"When The Man Speaks"	Jan. 16	"The Extravagant Bride"	Feb. 24
"The Wide Wrong Way"	Jan. 20	"Social Obligation"	Mar. 3

By Charles Mortimer Peck Directed by E. H. Calvert

SCREEN TIME APPROXIMATELY 30 MINUTES

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago.

TRADEMARK Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907.

General Film Service

BIG SEAT SELLING ATTRACTION!

The first

ESSANAY-CHAPLIN REVUE OF 1916

will fill your theatre and keep them standing in line to get in.

Read what these theatre owners say:

Essanay Film Mfg. Company, Chicago.

"Sure did make a cleaning on the 'Chaplin Revue.' Our patrons were more than satisfied. The receipts beat all expectations."

Swan & Schwarz, Empress Theatre, Kearney, Neb.

Mr. George K. Spoor, President,
Essanay Film Mfg. Company, Chicago, Ill.

"Broke all records in my largest theatre on the Essanay-Chaplin Revue of 1916. I congratulate you and recommend it to any exhibitor as a big money getter."

Bell Enterprises, Galveston, Texas.

Mr. George K. Spoor, President,
Essanay Film Mfg. Company, Chicago, Ill.

"We surely did a wonderful business with the Essanay-Chaplin Revue of 1916. Had them standing out in the street. I consider this a wonderful box office attraction."

Casino Theatre, Marshalltown, Iowa.

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. 1907

Essanay
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle Street, Chicago

General Film Service

"On Italy's Firing Line"

A noteworthy production presenting probably for the first time the activities of the Italian armies in the great conflict in Europe. Exclusive pictures showing battles in the Alps above the clouds, artillery duels and entrenchments. Three sensational reels released in General Film Co.'s regular service on Monday, January 1.

"IN PAYMENT OF THE PAST"

An unusual drama with an all-star cast. Released in General Film Co. service on Saturday, January 6.

"THE SELIG-TRIBUNE"

The world's greatest news film. Always ahead with pictorials. Released twice every week.

"Starring in Western Stuff"

A comedy-drama of extraordinary work featuring Tom Mix, the daring cowboy star, and a notable cast. A story of strong love interest but which also contains many laughable situations. Mix performs many interesting feats of riding and roping during the action. Released in General Film Co.'s regular service on Monday, January 8.

"THE MAKING OF BOB MASON'S WIFE"

A strong love story released through General Film service Saturday, January 13.

"THE SELIG-TRIBUNE"

Which always gets the news and shows it first. Most popular of news reels. Twice every week.

THE SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.

CHICAGO, ILL.

KALEM KONQUESTS

in the Realm of SERIES Pictures

THE prestige of this pioneer organization as a producer of successful SERIES pictures in one and two reel lengths remains unquestioned in the face of the keenest competition.

Never spectacular in our methods, we have pursued the even tenor of our way, always giving of our best to the Exhibitors of the world.

To be able to anticipate, to be able to supply, the exact type of pictures that the Masses want is no small task for any Producer. Yet that is exactly what the Kalem Company has done, is doing and will continue to do. We cite the unprecedented success of "The GIRL from FRISCO" series of two reel Westerns as evidence of this fact. They are not the usual clap-trap, "sheriff-on-the-run" style of Western films; they are red-blooded, wholesome stories of the Far West as it is today, written by authors who have lived the dramas Kalem is re-creating upon the screen.

Robert Welles Ritchie and Frederick R. Bechdolt are the authors referred to. Ritchie has written the first twenty-five episodes and Bechdolt will continue the Series indefinitely.

Look over the entire field of motion pictures and you will not find a single failure chalked up against the record of the Kalem Company. Its conquests in the realm of SERIES pictures are many; and the reason therefor is this: Vigorous stories written by celebrated authors.

Announcing a NEW Series of

"STINGAREE"

adventures, written by E. W. HORNUNG, internationally famous as the author of "Raffles." The NEW Series, for which we have Mr. Hornung's manuscripts, will feature the Kalem favorite—who created the title role in the original series.

TRUE BOARDMAN

Owing to the unusual number of requests received from Exhibitors for the release date of the first episode, we can announce that production will begin at once. Each episode will tell a complete story.

KALEM

235 West 23rd

"GRANT, POLICE REPORTER"

By Robert Welles Ritchie

THIS Super Series of single reel adventures is without a doubt the most popular Series picture the Kalem organization has ever fostered.

It has a punch that compels admiration. It has plot and plausibility, being written around a Man. It has thrills. It has action and it has that peculiar something that holds the interest of the Public just as we predicted it would when the first episode was released months ago.

And now that the author, Robert Welles Ritchie, is going to give his entire time and attention to the Series it is going to reach the highest pinnacle of Success. Ollie Kirkby and George Larkin, co-stars in this series of newspaper stories, need no introduction from us. Their splendid work speaks for itself. Larkin has proved himself to be the greatest daredevil in picturedom; Miss Kirkby is always admirably cast.

We want every Exhibitor to see some of these exciting episodes screened. There is no better way than to arrange with the nearest General Film Exchange for a showing. Do it today!

—not forgetting those clever, mirth-provoking

HAM Comedies

To see them is to book them for they are so genuinely funny, so full of the snap and zest of life they never fail to get under the skin of the most confirmed pessimists. HAM and BUD are comedians from the soles of their funny feet to the crowns of their funny sky pieces. And as for petite ETHEL TEARE and comical HENRY MURDOCH—their pantomime is irresistible.

P. S.—We're proud of our HAM Comedies.

"The HAZARDS of HELEN"

—the Railroad Series that has made History. Now in its THIRD YEAR of record-breaking success. If there can be devised a stunt too dangerous for HELEN GIBSON to perform, the Kalem Company has never heard of it. "The Hazards of Helen" carry more thrills, more action and more story to the reel than pictures of five times its length. In hundreds of theatres "The Hazards of Helen" are making money for Exhibitors.

COMPANY

St., New York City

General Film Service

Like a blazing Sun, the KALEM trade mark illuminates the pathway of bewildered Exhibitors who have wandered off the beaten trail of SUCCESS chasing phantom profits.

KALEM'S Formula for Producing SERIES Features of One and Two Reels That Are Good Enough to Be Released Indefinitely

First, the IDEA is worked out from the Exhibitor's viewpoint. Next, the STORY. And it must be a whale of a story to pass inspection. Then the AUTHOR is selected. He must write from experience—must have lived most of the situations he sets down for the camera. Finally, the story is ideally cast. Stars? Yes, but the story is not sacrificed for the sake of high salaried stars. And there you have it—the secret of KALEM'S unprecedented success as a producer of SERIES pictures.

The KALEM KALENDAR

Tuesday, January 2nd

"That Terrible Tenderfoot"

A side-splitting burlesque on the Wild and Woolly West as it is generally thought to be.

Wednesday, January 3rd

"The False Prophet"

A bully episode of "The Girl from Frisco," featuring MARIN SAIS and TRUE BOARDMAN. The Girl exposes a religious fakir who was reaping a golden harvest by predicting the end of the world. Real, dramatic thrills are crowded into these two reels.

Friday, January 5th

"The House of Secrets"

A timely episode of "Grant, Police Reporter," dealing with a secret submarine base on the American Coast, featuring GEORGE LARKIN and OLLIE KIRKBY. Never was another thrill just like this one. Trapped by the landing crew of the enemy submarine, Grant hangs from the cross-arm of the wireless, cuts it loose from its support and swings down through space, describing a huge half circle, until he is able to catch his legs over the limb of a tree on the opposite side of the yard.

Saturday, January 6th

"The Mogul Mountain Mystery"

Another gripping "Hazard of Helen," one that calls upon HELEN GIBSON for the last ounce of her physical strength and a vast amount of courage. Helen foils the conspirators by dropping into an open runaway car from the cross-arm of a tall telegraph pole. A de luxe thrill.

KALEM COMPANY
235 West 23rd St., New York City

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
THE FILM INDEX EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.
Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY
17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.
(Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr.....President
J. F. Chalmers.....Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers.....Secretary and Treasurer
John Wylie.....General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands .....$3.00 per year
Canada. . . ..3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid).....4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.

(Index to this issue will be found on page 144.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, January 6, 1917

Facts and Comments

OUR motto this year as in all former years: Bigger, better and more helpful than ever. The exhibitor and film men's most dependable, most complete, most comprehensive paper will continue to be the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

* * *

WITH this first issue of the New Year, we are pleased to announce to our readers that the Department of Photography is resumed in this issue, again under the editorship of Carl L. Gregory, after being unavoidably discontinued for a few weeks.

* * *

WE HAVE also secured Norman Stuckey to collaborate with Mr. Sinn in conducting the weekly department on Music for the Picture. Music is becoming a greater factor in the success of picture theaters everywhere, and this department will prove of increasing interest and helpfulness to many exhibitors.

* * *

WE ALSO take pleasure in calling attention to a new department beginning in this issue, entitled "Picture Personalities." It will contain authentic, short biographical sketches of leading picture artists, together with a photo reproduction. Exhibitors and theater managers will find these valuable in preparing their house programs or special press matter or circulars on productions in which these artists appear from time to time. Save your files of all issues for future reference.

* * *

THERE is no necessary relationship between the cost of making a picture and the public favor that it wins. There is a big demand for superfilms and bright star features at advanced prices or they wouldn't be. But the weakness of the system is that the program picture that precedes the feature may be, even if it isn't apt to be, more amusing and satisfying. The bright star feature costs so much to make that the producer can't afford to scrap it when it fails to come up to the mark. It is good for a barrel of money and he puts it out.

* * *

CENSORSHIP is the popular topic of conversation in Kansas City this winter. Something seems to have irritated a large enough part of the community to set the whole bee-hive abuzz. The thorn seems to be the lurid advertising rather than any film; but the result is not unlikely to be unpleasant for the whole business, at least for the time. A little profit followed by a considerable loss doesn't pay anybody. The film business is being more ably handled every year; but it seems that we still need to be taught by experience that an ounce of diplomatic foresight will often save an expensive battle.

* * *

EVEN a censorship advocate may use the brains God gave him once in a while. We get snap-shots of him when he is not doing it, and one of the most amusing silhouettes of this kind in our gallery recently came from Denver, Col. The subject is Ralph Pitts, a teacher in the East Denver high school, and his specialty is psychology. He knows very well how the tongue functions at the will of the mind. He knows that it may work almost semi-consciously like an eyelid, as when a man reading a newspaper answers a prattling child without thinking. And it may work as in a business man who has just heard an important report and whose mind has waited before answering till it has had time to touch and weigh every element that is going to affect his problem.

* * *

Professor Pitts, before the Mothers Congress at Denver, recently gave as a reason for censorship of pictures that they prompt extravagance, "because the desire to go to a show becomes a habit and that regular attendance for a year or more runs into money." That's a pretty deep saying even for a professor of psychology. Truly there are people who have bad habits, like buying cigars, or candy, or objects of art, and these run into lots of money. The probability is that some humorist suggested "Habit" to the Mothers' Congress meeting and they all began to pop off like so many firecrackers. One member advocated limiting the shows to one performance in the afternoon and one in the evening. We wonder what the common-sense citizen of Denver thinks of such arguments. And whether Professor of Psychology Ralph Pitts remembers the deep argument that he advanced against the picture shows.

Millions Lost to Exhibitors

By Louis Reeves Harrison

MORE than one flock of daws is chattering in unison "We are the exhibitor's friend," an assertion about as inexpensive as good advice for Christmas, and a lot of that sort of stuff finds its way into print. It may fool those who are new in the business, but it does not drop a single dime in the box office of those who are devoting their time, their capital and their energies to providing a winning entertainment for the public. That public is the one great, big, best friend of all of us, the one friend we cannot do without and exist.

In spite of all the minor interests which must now and then engage the attention of men in the various departments of this business, there is one great, big, vital question, far more important than all minor issues combined, absolutely essential to an increase of box office receipts and through them to the greater profit of all concerned, and that is the quality of product we are asking the public to come and see. The public looks to the exhibitor. The exhibitor looks to the producer. The wise producer recognizes the necessity of superior quality, but he is essentially a business man, and cases are not unknown where he is either devoting most of his attention to publicity and distributive arrangements or inclines strongly to making as much money as possible out of the game.

Any man who imagines that moving pictures have reached the height of their popularity is the same kind of a man who imagined the same thing when there were not half as many people going to the picture show as now. There are millions upon millions of people in this country who attend the picture shows rarely if they attend them at all.

Improvement in quality will more strongly attach the regulars; it will help to convince the half-satisfied, and it may bring into line those millions who attend rarely if at all. We help to make the box office returns larger and larger when we help to improve that quality, and that is what has been going on in these columns for many years. Week after week, year in and year out, through suggestive and constructive criticism, there has been here offered all that one man could possibly contribute to that enhancement of picture values which must come from the producer to increase the exhibitor's gate receipts.

Artistry means skilled workmanship in production. Fine actors show artistry in interpreting the story, and our fine actors have risen to the full limits of their opportunities. Fine directors show artistry in visualizing the stories so that the exhibitor feels that his presentation is satisfying to the audience, and our best directors have accomplished marvels of skilled workmanship in handling the stories intrusted to their care. They are earning the big salaries they are paid to express effectively the work of some creative mind.

The leak of millions is not with the fine actor and not with the fine director. The loss of millions upon millions of dollars to the producer, quite as well as to the exhibitor, lies in a lack of new, brilliant, forceful, varied and entertaining stories for the actor and the director to express. It is all right for us to give attention to this or that little weakness in production and exhibition—we must not forget the smaller details—but we must not let them blind us to the biggest leak of all, bigger than all combined, our failure to give this beautiful art of expression what it must have to express.

There are two great essentials to the success of a visualized story. First, it must deeply interest the people who are watching it. Second, it should contain some truthful element of value that it may endear itself and this new art to the hearts of people so that they will come again and bring their friends with them, opening the eyes of those who have but a poor idea of motion picture possibilities. Our way to growth is through the whole public, not through a small portion, and that progress can be materially helped with superior stories, those which brighten and sweeten our lives, broaden our outlook, or enrich our experience. A live story is one giving the meaning of our times.

To increase attendance by millions means a tremendous increase in box office receipts. Toward that end intelligent criticism is aimed, sometimes by elimination of the unfit, sometimes by the encouragement of merit, at other times, as on this page, by every possible suggestion which can help those sincerely ready to do and to learn. The MOVING PICTURE WORLD long ago adopted a policy of fearlessness, just and incorruptible criticism for the immediate benefit of the exhibitor, and to the great ultimate benefit of exhibitor, public and producer as well.

The question naturally arises, "Where are we to get better stories and how?" Nearly all large producers realize that here is the weakest spot in production. Many of them are brave enough to say so. Yet this problem, involving a loss of millions to exhibitors and producers alike, has not yet been satisfactorily solved. We are slowly and gradually coming nearer a solution through the establishment of scenario departments, but it is not yet fully realized that there is such a thing as screencraft outside of the working force of a studio.

It is not an impossibility to have a thousand creative minds at work on fine stories for screen visualization. That is what we are so slowly approaching. But the creation of an interesting and valuable story, not its critical review, is more purely the act of an individual than any other kind of work. There is not the slightest doubt that he should know something about his medium of expression before attempting to express himself through it, but a genuine author is so extremely conscious of his environment that he loses his sense of freedom and is never at his best in the atmosphere of a studio.

There are several capable writers of screen stories regularly employed at studios, and some of them turn out good stories when not called upon to perform distracting duties, but it looks like a bad mistake to put them in a scenario department, where they can plagiarize if pushed beyond their native resources. Then the outside playwright must not only run the merciless gantlet of criticism from directors, actors and the producers themselves, but be more or less at the mercy of his fellow-craftsmen should they appropriate the work he has done.

It is the distinct purpose of this page, and the general purpose of this paper, to increase excellence of production, to enlarge its capabilities and make it of greater value to the exhibitor, to raise the public estimate of moving pictures, to increase the profits of all dependent on this business. We are trying to benefit the whole trade by betterment of its product. Our whole policy is one of progress and improvement, even to the extent of disproving the false and undesirable. The way to increased profits and public confidence is a simple and straight one, that of increasing knowledge and skill in the business.

In the death of Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, the motion pictures lose a firm friend and advocate. He was a close student of the possibilities of the pictures along educational and test lines and, had he lived, it is very probable that pictures would have been liberally used in the universities within a short time.

An Unfair Condition

By F. H. Richardson

THE writer hereof is a firm believer in adequate remuneration for labor performed, no matter whether that labor be the digging of a sewer or the performance of the duties of the President of the United States. It has always seemed that the holding of remuneration of labor down to the lowest possible level is bad business, from any and every point of view, and a policy which must perforce react detrimentally upon the industries of any country.

The moving picture industry has, however, in one of its branches, gone to an utterly absurd length in the other extreme, and this condition has been brought about by the use of tactics to which I think no one who has studied the situation could give unqualified approval. I refer to the salaries of "stars."

There are today scores of artists playing leading roles and receiving therefor sums absolutely out of all proportion to any remuneration they could, by any stretch of the wildest imagination, hope to receive were their efforts confined to the legitimate stage. In fact, until some of the thousand-dollar-a-week talent broke into moving pictures they considered one-tenth of that sum as the standard price.

The matter of salaries paid by producers would not be of interest to the moving picture world if these salaries were really paid by the producer, but when we come to analyze the situation it is found that this is not the fact. True, the producer makes the contract and pays the actual money, but in effect he merely advances that sum, later collecting it from the film exchange, which in turn collects it from the exhibitor, who is the real goat.

I have remarked that an element of unfairness was contained in the matter and firmly believe my statement to be correct. Let us examine into that phase, taking an extreme case of the untrained school girl, who "butts" into moving pictures, and due, of course, to some measure of talent, plus certain personal qualities, "makes a hit." As soon as she displays the fact that she has real ability, coupled with the energy and sticktoitiveness necessary to success, she is placed in leading roles and the producer proceeds to advertise her. Now this advertising is not done for nothing. It costs money; also it is likely to cost a lot more money in kick-back, which almost invariably results. Mazie has now become a "movie queen." She has made good, is now given leading roles, and calls herself a star; also the producer overlooks no opportunity to advertise her as such. Mazie now, in the parlance of the racing stable, "begins to feel her oats," and promptly demands added remuneration, backed by the threat that unless she gets it she will go over, bag and baggage, to an opposition company.

Now, if her demands were reasonable, taking into due consideration the fact that she owes to the producing company the advertising which has made it possible for her to become a popular star, there would be no complaint. Mazie does not do anything of that sort, however. Far be it from her to indulge in such unseemly modesty. It is a case of "grab the money" with, please remember, the exhibitor as the goat. A few months ago Mazie was literally tickled out of her shoes when she was put on the salary roll at fifty dollars per week. Now she demands five hundred, with a short-time contract, and when that contract is up she, having meanwhile nosed around among other producing companies, comes in with a demand for double that sum, again backed up with the threat that if the producer don't "come across" she can get it elsewhere.

The second contract is signed at the higher figure. She is still advertised to the limit, and pretty soon some "enterprising" feature producer hunts Mazie up and says: "You working for one thousand dollars a week? Why, good heavens! I would not insult you by offering such an absurd sum. Come over to us and we will pay you three thousand!"—and so it goes.

The figures may be somewhat exaggerated, but the fact unquestionably remains that the moving picture industry, as a whole, and the exhibitor in particular, is laboring under an unwarranted burden of absurd salaries paid to leading men and women. Mind you, I say this as one who, as I said in the beginning, firmly believes in adequate remuneration for labor performed. I don't, however, regard it as reasonable to pay moving picture stars the huge salaries which are now all too common. It is this burden which is pushing up the film rentals to absurd and impossible figures.

The exhibitor has it in his own hands to remedy this condition by refusing to pay exorbitant film rental fees which he knows the very largely based on unreasonable salaries paid to actors. Why kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, for that is what it will mean in the long run to all concerned?

Sam Spedon Joins M. P. World Staff

Popular Motion Picture Publicity Man Becomes Associated With Most Popular Journal of the Trade.

READERS of The Moving Picture World and the friends of Sam Spedon, designations which are synonymous, will be pleased to learn that their favorite publicity man and old-time motion picture booster has become a member of The Moving Picture World editorial staff and will take up his duties at once. Since leaving the Vitagraph Company, with which he was associated for many years as head of the publicity and advertising department, Mr. Spedon has managed several publicity campaigns for different producing companies at lucrative salaries and his services, based upon his long experience in the business, have been in good demand. On account of his experience, The Moving Picture World has secured his co-operation and he will devote his time to assisting exhibitors throughout the country in working out their many problems.

Sam Spedon.

Everybody in the film business knows Sam, so what's the use of rehearsing his pedigree? It's just possible, though, that some of you may not know that he is an old newspaper man and that he knows all the curves of the game. This training, plus his intimate and expert knowledge of the motion picture business from all its varied points of view and his wide acquaintance with motion picture producers, exchange men and exhibitors, eminently fits him for an editorial position on the best motion picture trade journal. The combination is perfect.

Mr. Spedon's talents will be used to the best advantage. His work will bring him into close relation with the exhibitor throughout the country. It is probable that he will attend many conventions and other gatherings of exhibitors where, it is unnecessary to say, he will receive a hearty welcome. It is not necessary for us to say that the exhibitor will profit from the knowledge of the business which Mr. Spedon is able and qualified to dispense. Exhibitors' and other trade organizations will receive the same earnest co-operation from the staff of this paper that it always has given.

Brandt Discusses Chain Theaters

Executive Secretary of Brooklyn Local Says Situation Is More Menacing Than That of Deposits.

AT THE last meeting of the Associated Motion Picture Exhibitors of Brooklyn, New York State League, Local 3, William Brandt among other subjects discussed the effect on the community theater of the chain houses. Mr. Brandt, who is the wide-awake executive secretary of the Brooklyn local, is the proprietor of the New Albany Theater, a 600-seat house in Albany avenue. Immediately adjoining the structure is one of the finest open-air show places in Brooklyn, having a capacity of 1,100 seats. Mr. Brandt is one of the officers chiefly responsible for the standing of the Brooklyn organization. Its membership of 80 owners, representing 110 houses, probably outranks that of any other league local in the country, not to mention outranking many states. But there are approximately two million inhabitants in the geographical section once known as the city of churches.

William Brandt.

"When I speak of the effect of the chain house on the local theater I am not speaking for myself," said Mr. Brandt to a World man who called at the New Albany last week. "You can see for yourself I am outside of their 'curtain of fire.' But I do know how it is affecting many of my fellow-members here in Brooklyn and I believe also in many cities throughout the country. One of the most serious problems confronting the exhibitor today is the effect upon his individual house of the chain theater.

"The question is of interest just now because the owners of several of these chains are also engaged in the manufacture of film which they are releasing to the very theaters affected by the competition of their houses and upon the bookings for which they depend to a considerable extent for the financial success of their producing concerns. I think it is conceded that 85 per cent. of the picture theaters of the country have a seating capacity of 600 or less. These houses are the backbone of the industry. If their business is based upon an insecure foundation, the structure of the entire industry must sooner or later totter. I am as disinclined as any other man to yell calamity, but just look into the situation as it affects us here.

"In the Borough of Brooklyn are 242 theaters showing motion pictures exclusively with a seating capacity of 600 or less. There are 39 seating over 600, and many of these are houses in which vaudeville is the chief attraction. Of these 39 fully half belong to the Loew or Fox or Moss circuits, the others being operated independently.

"These chain houses are scattered all over Brooklyn, in direct competition with the smaller theaters. William Fox prereleases his pictures two weeks in advance to his own theaters, reserving the following two weeks for the Loew chain. Other manufacturers who are not exhibitors also favor the chain houses by giving exclusive prereleases. This is a decided advantage to the chain house, as any one may see. This in itself is sufficient to handicap the small independent house, who receives no such favor.

"However, if this were the only grievance the small house would be less affected, but the chain house in addition to the prerelease offers as added attraction a complete bill of vaudeville and a large orchestra at the same admission price or lower than that charged by the small house for large subjects. As an instance, it was possible to see 'The Common Law,' a serial and eight acts of vaudeville in a Loew house for 10 and 15 cents in the afternoon and 15 and 25 cents at night. Now the smaller theater, because of limited seating capacity and high rentals, was compelled to charge an admission fee of 15 cents for the matinee and 25 cents evenings for all seats, and this, mind you, after the chain house had previously run the feature.

"The problem is of greater import than the deposit question. The same situation prevails all over the country. I was talking with an exhibitor from the West and he told me they were up against the identical condition out there.

"The whole question affects the manufacturers even more than the exhibitors because, as I have already stated, the backbone of the industry is the large number of houses seating 600 or less. On them and their success all the manufacturers must depend for by far the largest proportion of their patronage."

To Organize the West Coast

P. A. Powers and Donald J. Bell, Representing National Association, Will Aid in Work.

THE organization of an advisory committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry on the Pacific coast will probably be completed in January, when P. A. Powers, treasurer of the Universal, a member of the executive committee of the association, and Donald J. Bell, president of the Bell & Howell Company of Chicago, and a vice-president of the Association, will be in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The two representatives from the East are remarkably fitted for their mission. While their western trips were on their own business, they are anxious to make the Association's business theirs also. Mr. Powers will have immediate entree to one of the powerful organizations which is expected to affiliate, for H. O. Davis, who is an officer of the Universal, is president of the Producers' Association on the coast. Mr. Powers has been close to all the activities of the association in New York, as he has been one of its most enthusiastic supporters and workers since its organization.

Mr. Bell was active in the recent organization of the Chicago Advisory Committee. He has an intimate knowledge of the advantages of and the work being done by the Chicago Committee, on which the California Committee will be based.

The general division of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry will hold its quarterly meeting in New York in January in the form of a dinner and entertainment. This was decided at a meeting of the Executive Committee of that division, held December 21 in the association's rooms in the Times building, New York.

Carbon Makers Confer With N. A. M. P. I.

Speer and National Officers Discuss Plans of Affiliation and Express Desire to Co-operate.

THIRTY million carbons would be used annually by the motion picture theaters of the United States if they were available, according to information given the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry last week by the two greatest makers of carbons in the country.

These two manufacturers, the Speer Carbon Company, of St. Mary's, Pa., and the National Carbon Company, of Cleveland, manufacture 15,000,000 carbons annually, and at the present time this is practically the entire available stock. Previous to the war, the majority of the carbons came from Germany.

The two carbon manufacturers, the National, represented by N. C. Cotabish, general sales manager, and the Speer by J. S. Speer, president and general manager, and J. P. Fryling, secretary and treasurer, were in conference with Executive Secretary Elliott at the National Association's rooms last week. Plans of affiliation were discussed, and the carbon makers expressed their interest in the activities of the National Association and their desire to co-operate.

In connection with the Sunday closing issue, the carbon makers offered to inclose in all their shipments a card urging the support and co-operation of exhibitors in the fight for the free Sunday which is being made by the National Association and the Exhibitors' League.

MABEL NORMAND'S PICTURE IS "MICKEY."

Mabel Normand's big new feature, produced at her studio in Los Angeles, is entitled "Mickey," without any frills such as through a telegraphic inadvertence we last week tagged on to "Mickey." It is just plain "Mickey," that's all.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE ORGANIZER.

In answer to recent inquiries in regard to the Exhibitors' League Organizations and for the information of exhibitors in any of the States, readers will kindly note that Fred J. Herrington is National Organizer for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. All correspondence on the subject may be addressed to him at 402 Knox avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

North Carolina Convention

Big Meeting Held at Charlotte, N. C.—Enthusiastic Opening Session Gives Promise of Successful Gathering.

WITH approximately two hundred exhibitors and representatives of concerns allied with the motion picture business assembled at Charlotte, N. C., the annual convention of the North Carolina Branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League opened Tuesday evening, December 19, with considerable eclat. Among the men who stood out among the crowd was Percy W. Wells, state president, and it was not to be wondered at, for he practically carries the motion picture business of Wilmington, N. C., around in his vest pocket. Besides being president of the North Carolina League he is president of the Howard-Wells Amusement Company, which owns all Wilmington's theaters except one. His houses are the Academy of Music, 1,100 seats; Royal, 800 seats; Victoria, 1,100 seats; Grand, 500 seats; the Bijou, seating 800, which belongs to Bijou Amusement Company, of which Mr. Wells is president.

P. W. Wells.

Mr. Wells is an old-time vaudeville actor, a keen business man and has the reputation of being a good fellow.

The secretary of the league, H. B. Varner, of Lexington, N. C., is a big man, physically and mentally. Outside of being secretary of the league, manager of the Lyric theater of Lexington, managing editor of the Good Roads Magazine, president of the Good Roads Association of North Carolina, publisher of the Lexington Dispatch and a few other little things like that, he is a gentleman of leisure. One can readily see that he hasn't much to do except to run for Congress occasionally and to help others to keep their political fences in repair. During one of his unoccupied moments he, Wells and the writer sat in the latter's room and talked for nearly two hours. I wish I could tell you how extremely interesting it was.

Another very live wire is R. D. Craver, secretary of the Piedmont Amusement Company, which owns twenty-two theaters in various cities of the state. Friend Craver is chairman of the local amusement committee. He is a hustler from Hustlerville and, from what I have observed and heard during my few hours here, there are quite some few towns in North Carolina which might change their names to "Hustlerville" without doing violence to the eternal fitness of things.

R. V. Anderson, secretary of the local amusements committee and manager of Pathe's Charlotte branch exchange, is on the job with both feet helping to make visitors feel at home, greasing the wheels of entertainment and, incidentally, boosting the Pathe end of things.

Representing the Enterprise Optical Manufacturing Company of Chicago appears my old chum, J. E. McAuley, with a latest model Motiograph under each arm and a wonderful flow of language for use in describing its merits.

Matters to Be Considered.

Among the things to come before the convention will be the question of state taxation of theaters which has been twisted out of all reason and is a distinct burden; return charges on reels; advance deposits; insurance on theaters and underwriters' regulations, both of which latter charges are unreasonable.

The convention was addressed by Col. T. L. Kirkpatrick, mayor of Charlotte, to whose words of welcome President Wells responded; F. H. Richardson, editor of the Projection Department of the Moving Picture World, and A. F. Sams, attorney for the League.

A full report of the convention will appear in next week's issue.

Sam Trigger Heads Manhattan Exhibitors

Threescore Members Attend Annual Meeting and Applaud Report of Healthy Treasury.

SAMUEL TRIGGER was elected president of the Manhattan Local No. 1, New York state branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, at the annual meeting on December 20. The session, a lively one, was held in the League's headquarters at 218 West Forty-second street. Mr. Trigger received 39 votes, his opponent, Charles Steiner, receiving 18.

Louis Blumenthal, treasurer, in his report stated that $20,787 was taken in during the year, in the course of which two balls and an exposition had been held. At the beginning of the year there was $42 in the treasury. On December 15, 1916, there was in the treasury $2,304, with bills receivable bringing the balance approximately to $6,700. The ball early in the year netted $5,000, and the Thanksgiving Eve affair a sum slightly in excess of that.

Henry E. Cole resigned as organizer for Manhattan.

The secretary reported 105 members on the books, of which 86 are theater owners in good standing and 19 are associate members.

Retiring President Lee A. Ochs addressed the threescore members present, saying he had done for them in the past year the best he could. He bespoke for the incoming officers the full support of the membership. "The presidency is not a pleasant position to hold," he said, "very unpleasant at times. It is one that keeps you in hot water whether you are right or wrong. The incumbent will succeed only by having the co-operation of all the members."

The remaining officers were as follows: First vice-president, C. R. Martineau; second vice-president, Ike Hartstall; secretary, Thomas Howard; treasurer, Morris Needle; sergeant-at-arms, Gus Koenigswald; finance committee, William Hilkemeier, chairman; S. Rhonheimer, Otto Lederer, L. Brecher and Jacob Klein.

On the day following the election President Trigger made a statement to the members of the organization.

"Let us start in good," he said. "On the first day after eletcion I am appealing to all the newly elected officers for the loan of their brains and time for about four hours per week. We have promised the organization to do things. I have not, and neither have you, any desire to let this remain an election promise only. We are going to do work and I cannot work alone, therefore I need your help.

"I have formulated a plan whereby every officer must give an accounting. I will know at the end of the year how many members each and every one of you have brought in, how much time you have devoted to the interest of the organization, or how neglectful you may have been. This will be one of my formulas that will be read at the monthly meeting of the whole body, and I hope to have the pleasure of having the exhibitors say: 'Well done, good and faithful servants.'

"I have boasted and am still boasting that every officer is thoroughly qualified for the position to which he was elected. Let us prove this by our actions to commence this good work.

"I am enclosing two subscription blanks. Will you have them filled out by two new members? It may take a week or two weeks, but have this done. The organization needs your help and the exhibitors of the state and country are practically looking to Local No. 1 to set an example to all exhibitors' organizations."

Intermountain Managers Organize

New Association Formed at Salt Lake to Improve Amusement Conditions

FOR the stated purpose of waging warfare against a certain class of amusements—photoplays and otherwise—the theatrical managers of Salt Lake have formed an association, to be incorporated under the name of the "Intermountain Amusement Managers' Association." It is hoped that eventually the association will list as members, every manager of a theatre in the intermountain district.

The first gathering of the local theatrical men was held early this week at the general offices of the Swanson theater circuit in the American theater building and initial steps were taken toward effecting the organization.

It is hoped, primarily, by the men concerned, that the association will be effective in curbing sensational, suggestive and misleading theatrical advertising. Back of this, according to the managers, is a desire to reach the producers and salesmen of objectionable photoplay films and the organization, it is stated, will be prepared to make it interesting for these persons.

H. E. Ellison, general manager of the Swanson circuit, said that while the association would be formed for the purpose of promoting the general interests of the managers, it would also protect the public from the somewhat prevalent epidemic of objectionable photoplays and "frisky" stage productions and would suppress suggestive and misleading advertising matter.

So far as photoplays are concerned, the managers say they will oppose the state or municipal censorship board idea. They believe that exhibitors should abide strictly by the rulings of the National Board of Review and not attempt to show any picture which had failed of passage before that body. Mr. Ellison has addressed a letter on the subject to Mayor W. Mont Ferry of Salt Lake, suggesting that an effectual means of keeping objectionable photoplays out of local theaters would be to immediately revoke the license of any exhibitor who showed a film which had not been passed by the National Board. This, of course, would be possible only on condition that the proper municipal authorities were kept constantly posted on the rulings of the board, so that the offending exhibitor might be given due and proper warning.

It is proposed that the new association include not only theatrical managers but the proprietors and managers of amusement resorts as well. The local theaters represented in the early formation of the association were the Paramount-Empress, by George E. Carpenter; the American, Rex and Liberty, by W. H. Swanson, H. E. Ellison, R. L. Stearn and Robert Sanders; the Mehesy, by Edward Mehesy; the Empire by Manager Shipler; the Orpheum by Edward P. Levy; the Pantages by Frank B. Newman. Other theaters which are expected to list themselves in the new association are the Salt Lake theater, Wilkes, Broadway, Isis, Jitney and Photoplay.

The new organization of managers is generally regarded here as a distinct "uplift" movement, as the exhibitors have entered upon their work with the determination of protecting the public as well as themselves. In the face of a small but growing sentiment for censorship, the managers, it is felt, have taken a wise step. Their evident desire to show the public that they are eager to protect their patrons instead of turning over this job to a censorship board, is regarded as commendable.

Canadian Exhibitors' League Proposed

President Golding of the Maritime Provinces League Says All Exhibitors in Canada Should Get Together.

A FEELING that there should be a national organization of Canadian exhibitors is spreading throughout the dominion. The idea had its inception in the provincial and district leagues, and not one of the motion picture men in the country can deny the need for such an organization. The exhibitors in the Maritime Provinces have been the first to effect a combined front with which to meet the adversities of the business, and they are now the first to get down to real business. It has been suggested that there should be a national Canadian body. This suggestion has found many ardent followers, and Montreal has been named as the most likely place for holding a grand conclave.

By so doing all Canadian exhibitors could get down to solid, concrete facts and deal with them unitedly, which would unquestionably mean effectively.

Walter H. Golding, president of the Maritime Exhibitors' League, and manager of the Imperial in St. John, was asked what he thought of the advisability of a national organization. He said:

"Our Maritime Province organization has disclosed such a hearty spirit of co-operation, and our complaints have been found to be identical and so common to us all, that it is a sure indication that all Canada is suffering from the same diseases, and one grand conclave would strike a death blow at some of these existing evils. The 'auctioning system' of selling films and pitting one house against another is highly inequitable, and with the high cost of conducting motion picture houses so great in all departments, I think the thumb screw tactics employed by some companies are becoming very oppressive. Unless some radical change is brought about and film prices standardized the whole enterprise is endangered."

At the present time Canada is being very heavily taxed for patriotic purposes. Many thousands of the patrons have taken up arms and gone overseas, and it is pointed out that the profits are now all going into the coffers of the film companies. One method of "auctioning" films, against which some of the exhibitors are rebelling, has been employed in St. John. An exchange manager will ask an exhibitor to witness a screening of a special feature he is offering. Later he will call another exhibitor in and show him the same piceure, telling him that such and such a theater is offering him so much for the feature, but that he might have it for so much more. Later the first exhibitor is notified that another house has offered him a big advance over the first named figure, and so one house is pitted against another, unknowingly, it seems, and the exhibitors are obliged oft times to surrender what they have come to call "blood money."

This and other evils, it is felt, could be eliminated through a national organization, and a movement for such a body is slowly gathering momentum, and it is hoped that before the expiration of another six months a definite and forward step will be taken towards the organization of a moving picture league of Canada.

An Appeal to Jersey Exhibitors

President Hespe Urges All Theater Managers to Join in Movement for Better Conditions.

A STATE-WIDE campaign will be inaugurated for the modification of the blue laws of the State of New Jersey. Every exhibitor in the state, every landlord of every moving picture theater and hundreds of owners of candy, cigar and drug stores, baseball parks, etc., will be interested. The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the State of New Jersey proposes to enter this campaign and not let up until its efforts are successful.

The exhibitors of New York State at the present time contemplate legislative enactment that will assure the protection of the Sunday show for all time. It will be of material benefit to the exhibitors of New Jersey, to have a bill for Sunday movies before their legislature at the same time.

The president of the state league has every assurance that the common people of this state, not only have no opposition to the Sunday shows, but have a strong desire for them.

At the last legislative session a Sunday bill was introduced and at its hearing fifty ministers of the state opposed it and one-half dozen of exhibitors were for it. Had we the same number of exhibitors and showed the same co-operation as our opponents we would by this time have been well on the road for Sunday shows.

An exhibitors' meeting is held every Friday morning at our headquarters in Newark in connection with the ball committee, who are working hard on the details of the affair.

On February the first, 1917, the ball will be given in Newark. Every exhibitor in the state should use all of the resources at his command to make this ball a financial success. Its social success is already assured.

In view of the fact that whatever money is made through the committees' efforts will be used for the benefit of every exhibitor in the state. Can you not arrange your time some Friday morning and join us in our work?

I would like to meet you personally and talk over with you matters of general interest. If you have a local organization in your district I would be glad to visit you at any time you can arrange a meeting. If you have no local, send $6 to our secretary and enroll yourself as a state member. The protection of your business demands it.

Join this organization and let New Jersey stand foremost in the ranks of organized exhibitors in the Union. Better your own conditions and be an active unit in the tremendous force of our immense industry.

Hoping to see you soon, I am,

DR. H. CHAS. HESPE, President,
New Jersey State Branch, M. P. E. League of America.

ST. LOUIS ASSOCIATION MEETS.

A meeting of the Theater Managers' and Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of St. Louis, Mo., was held in the Benoist Building, Friday evening, December 8, at which President Mogler presided. William Sievers, Steve Kaiman, W. Slinger and Nick Angellich were elected to membership. Special committees reported that a dispute between the Arsenal theater and the I. A. T. S. E. Local had been settled and that several exchanges had agreed to withdraw their demands for advance payments on serials.

Messrs. Williams, Bloston, Sigoloff, Pellman, Wehrenberg, Whitman, Fay, Scherer, Mayer, Pasmezoglu and President Mogler were appointed as a special committee to take necessary steps to defeat the proposed tax measure which contemplated taxing theaters $100 per annum.

Sunday Show Decision

Exhibitor Rosenburg of Ossining, N. Y., Wins Decision in Action Brought to Close His House on Sunday.

OSSINING, N. Y., comes under the jurisdiction of the recent decision rendered by the Appellate Division, Fourth Department of the Supreme Court of New York, which said that it was unlawful to operate a motion picture show on Sunday. Acting upon that decision Albert W. Twiggar, president of the village of Ossining, applied for a court order to restrain Louis Rosenburg, manager of the Alhambra theater of that town, from opening his house on Sunday. The motion was heard by Justice William P. Platt of the Supreme Court, sitting at White Plains, N. Y., who denied the motion and handed down with his decision the following opinion:

This is a motion to restrain the defendant from conducting moving picture show, pending this action, in one of the thickly settled sections of the Village of Ossining, and in close proximity to several large churches.

The Appellate Division of this Department held in People vs. Hemleb, 137 A. D. 356, that the only law applicable is Section 265 of the Penal Code, and that that section does not apply to moving pictures, but only to similar shows to those enumerated.

Moving picture shows were not known at the time this section was enacted. The penalty prescribed for its violation was not exceeding $5.00 fine, and five days in imprisonment, and not much more than after all the trouble and expense of securing a second conviction of the same person.

In Bender vs. Hamlin the Appellate Division of the Fourth Department differs with our department and states that the authorities are in conflict, and the question can only be settled by the Court of last resort.

Since then the Appellate Division of the Third Department have agreed with the Fourth Department in People ex rel Bender vs. Joyce and others, but by a divided court.

The village charter only expressly authorizes the president to prosecute all such suits in the name of the corporation as shall be ordered and directed by the trustees.

The resolution of the trustees found here does not expressly authorize him to maintain the action.

It has long been held that courts may not resort to injunctions to enforce the criminal law, principles of religion, etc., and morality, except where property rights are involved, and that as it is a harsh remedy it should not be granted, until a clear prima facie case is established in law and fact, and usually at the suit of the People, etc., a private person who alleges special damages. Therefore the motion must be denied without costs.

Village of New Rochell vs. Lang, 75 Hun 608; A & E Enc. of Law, Vol. 10, page 914-966, 1002, 1st edition.

It is no part of the mission of a Court of Equity to administer the criminal law of the State, or to enforce the principles of religion or morality except so far as it may be incidental to the improvement of property rights, and perhaps again then matters of equitable cognizance. Vol. 10 p 914 A & E Enc. of Law 1st edition.

A court of equity will not interfere to prevent an act merely because it is illegal. Vol. 10 p 966 A & E Enc. of Law 1st edition.

An injunction, which is a harsh remedy should not be granted until a clear prima facie case is made by the bill. Vol. 10 p 1002 A & E Enc. Law 2d edition.

Isaac Miller, of New York, was the attorney in the proceeding for Mr. Rosenberg.

State League Gets Into Sunday Campaign

Notes to Ask Contributions from Exhibitors on Basis of Three Cents for Each Seat in Theater.

IN CO-OPERATION with the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, New York state branch of the Exhibitors' League held a meeting on Friday, December 22, at Wurlitzer Hall, to take up the question of raising funds to defray expenses for counsel in connection with the battle for the legalization of the Sunday showing of motion pictures. State President Lee A. Ochs presided. It was voted to ask for contributions from all exhibitors in the state on a basis of 3 cents for each seat in their house or houses. Committees were to be appointed from every local in the state on December 25 to make the resolution effective. Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, is the treasurer of the fund.

Robert Adamson, fire commissioner of the City of New York, spoke as the representative of Mayor Mitchel. He said personally he was in favor of the Sunday showing of motion pictures, and he was glad to say the Mayor was of the same mind. He said further that if the legislature should go on record as continuing the motion picture on the same basis as it is at present, the Mayor would be in favor of such a measure.

Several motions were made in the effort to suit the members' ideas as to what constituted an equitable basis for raising funds to pay the lawyers in the coming fight, but Grant Anson's motion making it 3 cents a seat prevailed.

Senator Boland promised that not only would he vote in favor of the proposed amendment to the code, but that he would be glad to introduce such a measure in the upper house. He urged the members to give especial attention to the up-state members of the legislature, believing that among these they would be most likely to find the major part of the opposition to the bill. He promised that the New York City members will wage a strong campaign on behalf of the motion picture men.

Joseph Callahan, leader of the Democratic minority in the lower house at Albany, spoke for Sheriff Al Smith, of New York County, and incidentally for himself. "If the motion picture has an elevating influence," he said, "why can't men be elevated on Sunday as well as on Saturday? I can pledge you this, that so far as concerns the members of my party from the City of New York you may rest assured that without a single dissenting voice they will support legislation tending to permit motion pictures to be shown on Sundays just the same as on other days of the week. We number forty-two in this city. You need seventy-six votes to pass your measure. It is up to you to get the balance."

On motion of William Brandt, of Brooklyn, a rising vote of thanks was tendered to Senator Boland and to Assemblyman Callahan.

Send Out Slides on Sunday Closing

National Association Asks 1,500 New York Exhibitors to Aid It in Obtaining Signatures to Petition of Protest.

THE National Association of the Moton Picture Industry is sending to 1,500 New York State exhibitors slides reading as follows: "Do you want this theater closed on Sunday? It provides you decent, clean amusement at a price within the reach of every pocketbook. Signify your desire by signing the petition at the box office." In an accompanying circular the exhibitor is requested to throw the slide on the screen at every performance, and especially as the crowd is leaving between pictures.

"Attached is the form of petition we are using," says the circular. "We suggest that you have these petitions printed up with your theater and town in the blank spaces and your advertisement on the back, give it out with tickets and have some one to collect the cards as the crowd leaves. If this form of publicity does not appeal to you, attach blank papers to the form and place a table in your lobby where every one can sign. Send the cards and petitions to us. If we can get the three million signatures we look for our fight will be half won."

The petition reads as follows: "We, the undersigned patrons of the —— theater in ——, N. Y., herewith file a petition and a protest against the closing of this or any other motion picture theater on Sundays. The motion picture has become a part of the pleasure and profit of our lives, and to deprive us or any of the 3,000,000 patrons in New York of the privilege of spending a part of our Sunday in viewing motion pictures is an infringement of our liberties and a reflection on the moral character of the overwhelming majority of the citizens of the Empire State."

City Fathers Take Up Sunday Fight

New York Aldermen Petition Legislature to Amend Law Permitting Showing Seven Days.

THE Aldermen of New York City have gone on record for the Sunday showing of motion pictures. They have adopted a resolution urging the legislature of the State to so amend the Penal Code that there will be no question as to the legality of motion picture exhibitors catering to the desires of their public on Sunday as well as on week days. The measure received the vote of all the aldermen present—fifty-three Democrats and twenty-two Republicans. Here it is:

Whereas, The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Third Department, has rendered a decision holding that under the Penal Law the exhibition of moving pictures on Sunday in this state is illegal; and,

Whereas, The exhibition of moving pictures furnishes instruction and recreation to many hundred thousands of our fellow citizens and does not interfere with the sanctity or holiness of the Sabbath, and does not, in our judgment, disturb religious worship; and,

Whereas, Many believe that the spirit of modern times makes possible the regulation of the Sabbath as a day of rest without violation of religious principles, and without denying to any one the innocent diversions that should not be forbidden. Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Aldermen of the City of New York does hereby record itself as favoring the enactment of a statue amending the Penal Law to permit the exhibition of moving pictures on the Sabbath, and respectfully recommends to the members of the State Legislature the passage of such a measure.

Canon Chase Would Favor Sunday Showing If—

The Rev. W. S. Chase of Brooklyn, who is known also as Canon Chase, and who for years has been prominent in movements tending to restrict Sunday amusements, declares in an interview in the New York World that he would not oppose amending the laws to permit motion pictures to be shown on Sunday. There is a big if in Mr. Chase's declaration, however. He adds "provided no admission fee, directly or indirectly, can be charged and they are shown in the public schools under the direction of the Board of Education."

This amendment will hardly be taken seriously by motion picture men.

F. I. L. M. Clubs Growing

Exchange Men's Credit Organization Idea Is Spreading Rapidly.

A WELL attended meeting of the New York F. I. L. M. Club was held at offices of Hoy Reporting Service, 1482 Broadway, Tuesday evening, December 12th. The weekly meetings of this club draw out a full membership. Various subjects of interest to distributors are discussed. Reports were made, showing the formation of F. I. L. M. Clubs in Buffalo, Albany and Pittsburgh.

Mr. Hoy, president of Hoy Reporting Service, announced many other large centers were preparing to organize clubs; that inquiries for his credit service were increasing so rapidly, that office managers would be placed in training both here and in Chicago to meet demands.

A report was made by the Transportation Committee that all but a very few exhibitors were willing to pay expressage both ways, after January 1st, 1917, which indicated that one common carrier would soon be selected.

The announcement by Chicago F. I. L. M. Club to hold a National Convention was received with keen interest. All present agreed that Chicago deserved the honor of the first convention, owing to the fact that it was first introduced there.

Secretary and treasurer, W. E. Raynor suggested that an assistant be appointed to relieve him of part of his work. It was decided to engage Mr. Hoy's private secretary, Miss Marie Morgan, to perform part of the duties. Mr. Hoy introduced his new associate, John T. Cronin, who is to aid in the developing of F. I. L. M. Clubs throughout the country. On account of his organization experience, he will be a valuable acquisition to the Hoy Reporting Co.'s staff. Mr. Cronin is at present serving his second term as mayor of Beacon, N. Y., which he will now be compelled to relinquish.

Buffalo F. I. L. M. Club.

At an enthusiastic meeting of exchange managers, at Hotel Statler, Friday evening, December 9th, a F. I. L. M. Club was organized. Following were elected officers for the ensuing six months: J. E. Kiberley, president; F. S. Hopkins, vice president; C. A. Taylor, secretary and treasurer.

Other members are H. E. Coffey, G. H. Christoffers, H. E. Hughes, J. H. Schwall, C. H. Barolet, V. H. Hoduff and W. A. Mack.

As there were only a few exchanges not represented, a membership committee was appointed with instructions to have every exchange manager's application by next weekly meeting. The club contracted with Hoy Reporting Service for the coming 12 months for credit reports.

Messrs. E. H. Saunders, Walter Schoyer and C. H. Hoy were present from New York City F. I. L. M. Club. Mr. Hoy went to Pittsburgh to attend a meeting of exchange men there, called for the purpose of organizing a club.

The Pittsburgh F. I. L. M. Club was organized December 10th, 1916, with almost every exchange manager in the city as members. Negotiations are underway with Hoy Reporting Service, Chicago and New York City, to open offices for furnishing credit information.

Agitation in Connecticut

Regulations Asked by Officials in Bridgeport and New Britain.

THE question of motion picture regulation has been simmering in Bridgeport and New Britain, Conn., for some time. In Bridgeport there are twenty-seven theaters. One or two films of an unsatisfactory character gave rise to complaints to the city officials. In at least one case the advertising was the cause. New Britain has an abnormally large alien population. In that city the School Board had complained, declaring the children were attending motion picture shows when they should be in school. Some form of censorship had been proposed.

H. F. Sherwood, assistant secretary of the National Board of Review, visited both cities a few days ago and met the officials. In New Britain he was invited to address an informal meeting of the City Council, which he did.

In Bridgeport it has been decided that the weekly bulletin of the National Board will be utilized by the Police Department as an impartial basis of action, which will satisfy all interested parties. In New Britain there was every indication, following Mr. Sherwood's talk, that the same plan would be followed. There will be no legalized censorship in New Britain.

Grant Just Won't Feel the Cold

In Freezing Weather New England Film Man Sticks to Summer Garb and Talks Business Without Shivering.

SAM GRANT dropped into New York the week before Christmas on one of his frequent visits. A World man spied the Bostonian walking down Broadway on a twenty-above-zero afternoon sans waistcoat and overcoat and in an unlined summer suit. This garb, or rather lack of it, indicated not a lessening of prosperity on the part of the Hanover Film Company, but merely that the manager of the annual ball of the Massachusetts exhibitors practises what he preaches—that most persons wear too many clothes. Mr. Grant had Broadway all to himself on the summer stuff.

"What are we doing over in the Hub?" replied Mr. Grant in response to a question. "Why, 'The Battle Cry of Peace' is beginning its second year on tour in New England since its initial run at the Majestic theater, Boston. During this time there never has been less than two shows playing, and for a considerable part of the time three or four companies were exploiting the production. This picture has the unique distinction in New England of never having been rented, but always having been played as a production at a uniform scale of prices. After two companies have finished six weeks' engagements the picture will be offered on a rental basis.

"Hugo's 'Les Miserables,' the Pathe production, is booked for Tremont Temple, Boston, starting Christmas week. This is the fifth engagement in Tremont Temple for this subject and its twenty-third week in Boston, a record for any picture in New England at an advanced scale of prices."

Adam Kessel, Jr., President of the New York Motion Picture Corporation, sailed for Havana on Thursday. Mr. Kessel has been confined by illness to his home for the past two weeks and the trip to Cuba has been forced on him by his physician in order that he may get in proper shape to put through successfully the many big things which are already planned for the Kay Bee and Keystone productions in 1917. A large party of friends saw Mr. Kessel off and wished him bon voyage. He will return about the middle of January.

Federal Censorship Sentiment Not Growing

Producers Declare Statements Attributed to William H. Kemble Do Not Reflect Opinion Prevailing in Trade

THE Moving Picture World is in receipt of a story from its correspondent at the national capital telling of the activities in that city of William H. Kemble, head of the organization distributing Triangle pictures in Brooklyn and Long Island. Some of the statements ascribed to Mr. Kemble seemed to be so much at variance with what this journal deemed to be the actual situation that it delegated one of its reporters to make an investigation among some of the producers who might be found in New York. It was confirmed in its view that there distinctly is not a growing sentiment among producers in favor of Federal censorship. It learned that two manufacturers formerly inclined to favor the national overseeing of motion pictures had flatly changed their minds, that they now were opposed to it. These are Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro, and William L. Sherrill, president of the Frohman Amusement Corporation.

But here is the story from Washington sent by Clarence L. Linz, our correspondent in that city:

> WASHINGTON, D. C.—Chairman Dudley M. Hughes of the Committee on Education of the House of Representatives has been informed by William H. Kemble, of the Triangle Distributing Company, that the majority of the reputable producers of motion picture films of the United States are in favor of early action on the Hughes bill looking to the establishment of federal censorship. Mr. Kemble conferred with Judge Hughes as the chairman of the motion picture section of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, also visiting other members of the committee.
>
> He told the members of Congress that the motion picture industry is coming around to the view that it will be better to have federal censorship than so many State boards, and that he came to Washington representing his own and other interests, and as chairman of the Rotary Club's motion picture section, to tell Judge Hughes that he believed that the Hughes bill would be satisfactory to the best producers if one or two changes are made therein.
>
> "I believe we will get action on the bill at this session," said Chairman Hughes and Mr. Kemble after the conference. "Reputable producers are coming around rapidly to the plan of federal censorship, and with a few changes the Hughes bill will meet the satuation," Mr. Kemble added.
>
> There is, however, a feeling among the others of the committee that it will be impossible to get action on the Hughes bill at this session of Congress, in view of the fact that there is so much important legislation pending on the House calendar to be transacted within the next three months. There is also a very decided opposition to the bill among a large number of members of Congress, and its introduction on the floor would create a controversy that would keep it before the House for a considerable period of time.
>
> Mr. Kemble stated that he did not want to be appointed a member of the commission, nor had he any axe to grind. He came to Washington to assure Judge Hughes of his support and to give the bill his indorsement.

Mr. Linz sent a telegram also later saying Mr. Kemble had given an interview to two prominent Washington newspapers.

When a World man called on Frederick H. Elliott, executive secretary of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, he suggested that William A. Brady, the president of the association, be asked about the matter. He said he already had taken up the matter with Mr. Brady. "And the harder he gives it to you the better I will be pleased," said Mr. Elliott.

"I cannot say that I ever heard of Mr. Kemble," said Mr. Brady, when seen at his office, "and while it does not necessarily follow that he is of no consequence on that account, I am sure his name would have been familiar to me if he had any prominence in the motion picture industry. It is a sure thing that he does not represent much of anybody in the trade but himself in setting forth the slightest wish or sympathy for Federal or other censorship.

"Nobody will dispute the fact that the National Association of the Moving Picture Industry is thoroughly representative of the business in all its branches. Not so many weeks ago this association officially repudiated every form of censorship for motion pictures in terms so sweeping and emphatic that I do not see how anyone could possibly have doubted just what was meant or who meant it.

"But, as an occasional interloper may manage to gain a momentary hearing by claiming to voice the sentiments of others who have not commissioned him to speak, I will repeat that the motion picture business is unalterably opposed to censorship of any kind, and is organized to fight it to a finish."

Views of Other Producers.

"So far as I know Mr. Kemble represents nobody but himself in a motion picture way," said P. A. Powers, treasurer of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. "Personally I think it is ridiculous for a man to talk to legislators with a view to influencing them on censorship and giving them the impression that the majority of producers are in favor of Federal censorship. Certainly Mr. Kemble did not speak for Universal.

"I want to thank The Moving Picture World for seeking out what authority Mr. Kemble may have had to make seemingly authoritative statements about the attitude of producers in regard to Federal censorship, assuming Mr. Kemble has been correctly quoted," said Adolph Zukor, president of Famous Players-Lasky. "I do not know of any authority having been given to him by the trade, by its official association, or certainly not by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, to present their views to Congressmen or any others in this important matter."

Hiram Abrams, president of Paramount Pictures Corporation, who was in conference with Mr. Zukor when The World man called, remarked that so far as Paramount was concerned there was nothing to add to what Mr. Zukor had said, that Mr. Kemble had no authority to speak for Paramount.

"Certainly Mr. Kemble could not have represented the views of the International," said General Manager E. A. McManus of that company. "We are, as is well known in the trade, absolutely opposed to Federal censorship."

"Mr. Kemble had no authority to speak for this company," said Samuel Goldfish of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation.

"I have not discussed Federal censorship or any other kind with Mr. Kemble," said Charles H. Sherrill of the Frohman Amusement Corporation. "I am thoroughly opposed to them. You may say without any question Mr. Kemble does not represent this company. You know my original position was on the side of Federal censorship, but not any more. I have changed my mind—and I have given the question a lot of thought, too."

"Artcraft is not in favor of censorship in any form," said Walter E. Green, president of the new organization. "Mr. Kemble does not speak for us."

"I am not acquainted with Mr. Kemble," said Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro Pictures Corporation. "We were at one time in favor of Federal censorship. Now we are opposed to it, absolutely against it."

"Mr. Kemble did not speak for the Kalem company," said Frank Marion of the Kalem company.

"What Mr. Kemble is reported to have said about Federal censorship does not reflect the views of Mr. Fox," said General Manager Winfield R. Sheehan of the Fox Film Corporation. "We are as always against all forms of censorship. We believe the American public the best censors. If this great question is left in its hands it will put the bad companies out of business and will support those making desirable pictures. The legitimate stage has no censorship, and there are plenty of men and women in every community who will take care of anything wrong in pictures and in a legitimate and drastic manner."

"I am unalterably opposed to censorship of motion pictures in any form, Federal, state or municipal," said Lewis J. Selznick. "There is nothing selfish in my opposition to censorship, as I shall never lend my name to a picture that will give offence to any one, but merely for the general good and advancement of the industry I am willing to fight censorship as hard as any producer in the business."

Chronological Record for 1916

Important Events of the Past Year Briefly Noted for the Convenience of Moving Picture World Readers

FOR the convenience of readers of the Moving Picture World a careful compilation of the principal events in filmdom, which have occurred during the year, 1916, has been made and is here given in chronological order with references to the volume and page where the event is recorded at length. The Roman numerals give the volume number and the Arabic numerals indicate the page.

Jan. 1—Cines Manila, E. M. Gross, managing director, started business at Manila, P. I.—XXVIII; 70.
Jan. 2—"Birth of a Nation," big Griffith picture, closes long run at Liberty Theatre, New York—XXVII; 250.
Jan. 2—Death of A. Arthur Caille of Detroit, Mich—XXVII; 396.
Jan. 3—Board of Trade Holds annual meeting and election of officers—XXVII; 391.
Jan. 5—National Executive Committee of Motion Picture Exhibitors' League Meeting held in Chicago—XXVII; 289.
Jan. 7—Paramount Pictures Corporation gives house warming upon formal occupancy of new offices in Rogers Peet building, 485 Fifth Avenue, New York—XXVII; 393.
Jan. 8—Metro Pictures Corporation announces the acquisition of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew for comedy series—XXVII; 218.
Jan. 8—Lasky Feature Play Company moves to new offices in Rogers Peet Building, 485 Fifth Avenue, New York—XXVII; 233.
Jan. 8—Universal Film Mfg. Company wins Latham Loup patent suit by decision in its favor given by Judge Hough in United States District Court—XXVII; 250.
Jan. 9—First meeting of Pittsburgh Screen Club—XXVII; 636.
Jan. 13—Censorship hearing before the House Committee on Education at Washington, D. C.—XXVII; 391; 566.
Jan. 13—Bronx Exhibitors' League installs officers—XXVII; 571.
Jan. 14—Samuel L. Rothapfel takes over management of the Knickerbocker Theatre for Triangle—XXVII; 405.
Jan. 15—Announcement of the formation of the Famous Players—Mary Pickford Company—XXVII; 394.
Jan. 15—First annual Pathe Club dinner at Healy's, Columbus Avenue and 66th Stret, New York—XXVII; 570.
Jan. 16—New York Operators' ball at Central Opera House, New York—XXVII; 781.
Jan. 18—J. A. Berst announces his determination to leave the General Film, of which he was president, to accept position with Pathe—XXVII; 574, 751.
Jan. 19—George Kleine elected president of the General Film Company—XXVII; 752.
Jan. 22—Massachusetts League Election held in Boston—XXVII; 565.
Jan. 22—Death of Arthur Johnson, popular motion picture actor, announced—XXVII; 574.
Jan. 22—Announcement made that General Film Company would not be dissolved as result of government suit—XXVII; 582.
Jan. 24—Decree in the case of the United States against the Motion Picture Patents Company signed by Judge Oliver B. Dickinson, of the U. S. District Court in Philadelphia—XXVII; 753.
Jan. 24—Triangle Film Corporation moves from Masonic Temple building, 71 West 23d Street, to Brokaw building, Broadway and 42d Street, New York City—XXVII; 935.
Jan. 27—President Wilson addresses motion picture men at Board of Trade dinner at Biltmore Hotel, New York—XXVII; 928.
Jan. 28—Annual Ball of Static Club held at Rutherford Hall, Los Angeles, Cal.—XXVII; 1112.
Jan. 28—Reorganization of World Film Corporation and resignation of Lewis J. Selznick—XXVII; 931.
Jan. 29—Clara Kimball Young Film Corporation formed by Lewis J. Selznick—XXVII; 931.
Jan. 29—Exhibitors organize at Pasadena, Cal—XXVII; 1284.
Jan. 30—Exhibitors of Essex County, N. J., for organization at offices of Nicholas La Vecchia—XXVII; 933.
Feb. 2—Rocky Mountain Screen Club organized at Denver, Colo.—XXVII; 1335.
Feb. 3—Hudson County, N. J., Exhibitors organize at Jersey City, N. J.—XXVII; 1107.
Feb. 6—Screen Club of Michigan organized at Detroit, Mich.—XXVII; 1330.
Feb. 7—Ramona, W. H. Clune's production of Helen Hunt Jackson's novel, given premiere at Clune Auditorium, Los Angeles, Cal.—XXVII; 1284.
Feb. 7—North Dakota Theatrical Association organized at Fargo, N. D. XXVII; 1451.
Feb. 13—North Carolina Exhibitors Convention at Greensboro, N. C.—XXVII; 1449.
Feb. 14—Pittsburgh Screen Club holds annual ball in Motor Square Garden, Pittsburgh, Pa.—XXVII; 1273.
Feb. 17—Maryland Censorship hearing before Assembly Committee on Ways and Means at State House, Annapolis, Md.—XXVII; 1444.
Feb. 17—Alameda County Exhibitors elect officers—XXVII; 632.
Feb. 19—Announcement of occupancy of new offices by American Film Company at 6227 Broadway, Chicago, Ill.—XXVII; 1105.
Feb. 19—Screen Club and Exhibitors' League of New York give ball at Madison Square Garden—XXVII; 1442.
Feb. 20—Toronto Moving Picture Exhibitors elect officers—XXVII; 1632.
Feb. 21—Nicholas Power Company Employees' Ball at Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn, N. Y.—XXVII; 1657.
Feb. 21—Buffalo Screen Club formed at Buffalo, N. Y.—XXVII; 1680.
Feb. 23—New York censorship bill hearing at Albany before Committee on Codes—XXVII; 1628.
Feb. 23—Censorship hearing at Trenton, N. J.—XXVII; 1632.
Feb. 23—Massachusetts Legislative Committee holds hearing on bills affecting motion picture shows—XXVII; 1862.
Feb. 24—Washington Exhibitors hold "get-together" banquet at Hotel Ebbett, Washington, D. C.—XXVII; 1630.
Feb. 26—Announcement of election of officers of Motion Picture Board of Trade—XXVII; 1275.
Feb. 26—Announcement of the withdrawal of G. M. Anderson from the Essanay Company—XXVII; 1283.
Feb. 26—Mutual Film Corporation signs contract with Charles Chaplin for record salary of $670,000—XXVII; 1622.
Feb. 26—Triangle opens Colonial Theater, Chicago—XXVII; 1804.
Feb. 26—Death of Charles Manley at Universal City, Cal.—XXVII; 1841.
Feb. 29—New Jersey Senate Committee makes unfavorable report on Sunday legislation—XXVII; 1863.
Feb. 29—Funeral of "Daddy" Manley—XXVIII; 94.
March 1—Fourth Annual Convention of New York Exhibitors' League at Albany, N. Y.—XXVII; 1799.
March 1—Cincinnati Exhibitors' League meets and installs officers—XXVII; 1803.
March 2—Indiana Exhibitors' League Convention at Indianapolis, Ind.—XXVII; 1802.
March 3—Death of Mounet-Sully, French actor, in Paris—XXVII; 1821.
March 4—Essanay Film Manufacturing Company announces the occupancy of its new studio buildings at Chicago, Ill.—XXVII; 1452.
March 4—Metro Pictures Corporation annual election of officers—XXVII; 1453.
March 6—Selig reopens studios at Chicago—XXVII; 1835.
March 11—Oklahoma Exhibitors' Convention at Oklahoma City—XXVII; 1631.
March 12—Board of Trade dinner held at Hotel Astor. Editor Brisbane makes notable speech; XXVII; 1980.
March 15—Leon Gaumont visits America—XXVIII; 95.
March 18—Louis J. Gasnier forms the Astra Film Corporation—XXVII; 1834.
March 18—Announcement of opening of Paragon Studio at Fort Lee, N. J.—XXVII; 1837.
March 18—New Lasky laboratories opened at Hollywood, Cal.—XXVII; 1839.
March 18—Universal Ball at Grand Central Palace, New York—XXVIII; 166.
March 18—Vitagraph beefsteak dinner—XXVIII; 264.
March 23—Hearing at Albany on Wheeler Bill—XXVIII; 234.
March 23—San Francisco League reorganized; XXVIII; 445.
March 24—Death of (Edith Richtie) Mrs. Stephen Morris—XXVIII; 431.
March 25—Death of Bartley McCollum—XXVIII; 431.
March 29—San Francisco League completes reorganization—XXVIII; 599.
March 29—Metro celebrates first birthday—XXVIII; 237.
March 29—Farnham-Boone Service Bureau opens at 220 West 42d Street, New York, by Joseph W. Farnham and J. Allen Boone—XXVIII; 247.
March 30—Southern Motion Trades Exposition holds three days' exposition at Atlanta, Ga.—XXVIII; 597.
April 1—Alice M. Long elected vice-president Kalem Co—XXVIII; 95.
April 1—Rayer Film Corporation establishes studio at Rockville Centre, L. I.—XXVIII; 60.
April 1—Peerless Pictures Corporation of 18 E. 41st Street, New York, acquires Glen Island for studio purposes—XXVIII; 63.
April 1—Thanhouser Club of Jacksonville, Fla., give charity ball—XXVIII; 412.
April 5—"Ramona" opens New York run at Forty-fourth Street Theater—XXVIII; 628.
April 5—Ball of Moving Picture Exhibitors' Protective Association at Arena Hall, Toronto—XXVIII; 661.
April 7—Death of Arthur H. Spiegel—XXVIII; 599.
April 7—Screen Club of Michigan gives dinner to Henry Gutkard at Hotel Ponchartrain—XXVIII; 835.
April 8—Louis J. Selznick Productions, Inc., Organized—XXVIII; 272.
April 8—Screen Club dinner for benefit of Actors' Fund—XXVIII; 566.
April 12—Death of Will Rex—XXVIII; 1520.
April 14—Metro quits Board of Trade—XXVIII; 779.
April 14—Atlanta Screen Club launched—XXVIII; 840.
April 15—Biograph closes western studio—XXVIII; 417.
April 15—National Board of Review succeeds National Board of Censorship—XXVIII; 446.
April 15—Associated M. P. Exhibitors of Brooklyn Organize—XXVIII; 446.
April 15—William A. Brady assumes active control of production of World Film Corporation, Equitable, Motion Picture Corporation and Paragon Films, Inc.—XXVIII; 410.
April 20—Edward Arnold Marries Harriett Marshall—XXVIII; 1155.
April 21—Rialto Theater, New York, opens—XXVIII; 633.
April 22—World Film absorbs Equitable—XXVIII; 594.
April 22—Arrow Film Corporation elects John F. Schellenberger vice-president and Warren H. Small secretary—XXVIII; 600.
April 22—Metro New York Exchange moves to 7th Avenue and 40th Street—XXVIII; 601.
April 24—Unicorn Film Service, Ike Schlank, general manager, opens office at 126 West 46th Street—XXVIII; 816.
April 24—Chaplin brings suit against Essanay Film Mfg. Co. and V-L-S-E, Inc., for permanent injunction against the distribution of "Charlie Chaplin Burlesque on Carmen"—XXVIII; 949.
April 25—Thomas A. Edison, Inc., resumes releasing through General Film—XXVIII; 607.
April 27—Thanhouser Benefit Ball at Germania Hall, New Rochelle—XXVIII; 636.
April 28—Death of Emmett A. Williams at New Rochelle—XXVIII; 1143.
May 1—Third International Exposition of the Motion Picture Art under the auspices of the National Exhibitors' League of America opens at the Grand Central Palace, New York—XXVIII; 1136.
May 2—Second annual convention Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of the Northwest, at National Guard Armory, Minneapolis—XXVIII; 1315.

May 5—First dinner and entertainment of Boston Film Club at Brunswick Hotel, Boston—XXVIII; 1314.

May 6—Popular Picture Corporation capitalized at $1,500,000, with Milton H. Goldsmith, president, A. C. Langan, vice-president, and A. J. Bimburg, treasurer, with offices at 218 West 42 Street, New York—XXVIII; 962.

May 6—Exposition Motion Picture Board of Trade of America opened at Madison Square Garden, New York—XXVIII; 1307.

May 6—Anniversary dinner Hudson County, N. J., Motion Picture Operators' Union, Local 384, I. A. T. S. E., at Old Fellow's Hall, Hoboken—XXVIII; 1314.

May 6—Dinner of Pathe Club at Hotel McAlpine, New York—XXVIII; 1495.

May 12—Fifth Annual Convention Kentucky Branch Number 7 Moving Picture Exhibitors' League of America at Louisville, Ky.—XXVIII; 1673.

May 13—Rialto Film Corporation organized with I. Goldberg, president, S. T. Goldberg, treasurer, and Jesse J. Goldberg, manager, with offices at 218 West 42d Street, New York—XXVIII; 1137.

May 13—General Film Co., Inc., moves its headquarters to 440 Fourth Avenue, New York—XXVIII; 1141.

May 13—Theater Film Service Co. of San Francisco brings suit against Moving Pictures Patents Co. in U. S. District Court—XXVIII; 1142.

May 13—Milton H. Hoffman becomes general manager of Lasky, Hollywood, Cal., studios—XXVIII; 1155.

May 13—Katherine Carter joins Gustav Frohman's Boston Exchange—XXVIII; 1157.

May 15—Richard Barry wins suit against American Film Co. and others to establish his rights in "The Secret of the Submarine"—XXVIII; 1493.

May 15—Detroit Screen Club Ball—XXVIII; 1674.

May 15—Buffalo Screen Club Ball—XXVIII; 1677.

May 16—Schenectady, N. Y., exhibitors organize—XXVIII; 1673.

May 18—Explosion in Universal's Detroit cleaning room does $150,000 damage—XXVIII; 1698.

May 20—New Vitagraph Company announced—XXVIII; 1305.

May 20—Isadore Bernstein resigns as producing manager of World Film—XXVIII; 1322.

May 23—General Federation of Women's Clubs in convention in New York holds motion picture conference—XXVIII; 1486.

May 23—Ball and Convention of Des Moines Screen Club; XXVIII; 1500,

May 24—Supreme Court of State of New York denies application of Charles Chaplin for injunction to restrain V-L-S-E and Essanay from distributing "Charlie Chaplin Burlesque on Carmen"—XXVIII; 1897.

May 25—Ball of Omaha Screen Club and Photoplay Managers' Association—XXVIII; 2045.

May 30—Death of Henry Reimers—XXVIII; 2049.

June 2—Kathlyn Williams and Charles F. Eyton Married—XXVIII; 2226.

June 3—Governor Whitman vetoes Censor Bill—XXVIII; 1671.

June 6—"Fall of a Nation" has first public presentation at Liberty Theater, New York—XXVIII; 2219.

June 9—Kansas City Screen Club organized—XXVIII; 2217.

June 10—Charles Urban returns to England—XXVIII; 2251.

June 12—Percival L. Waters and James B. Clark ask receiver for General Film Co.—XXVIII; 2211.

June 12—Death of Acton Davies—XXVIII; 2215.

June 12—Hearst-International News Pictorial launched—XXVIII; 2244.

June 13—Hiram Abrams elected president of Paramount—XXVIII; 2214.

June 13—Michigan exhibitors hold state convention and elect officers—XXIX; 65.

June 13—Cleveland film men form Screen Club—XXIX; 66.

June 20—McClure interests sue Paramount stockholders—XXIX; 67.

June 20—Donald W. Rayburn, publicity manager American Film Company, killed in automobile accident—XXIX; 441.

June 22—Page Peters, Morosco player, drowned—XXIX; 465.

June 25—Pennsylvania exhibitors elect G. W. Sahner of Pittsburgh, president—XXIX; 430.

June 26—Selig releases athletic serial to run twelve weeks—XXIX; 78.

June 28—Famous Players and Lasky companies combine with capital of $12,500,000—XXIX; 434.

July 1—Albert E. Smith, referring to suit of Messrs. Waters and Clark against General Film Company, declares the company is in no danger of a receiver—XXIX; 64.

July 1—Famous Players Company offers $100,000 for 100 scripts in thousand-word lengths—XXIX; 70.

July 1—Mutual adopts elaborate plans to prevent duping of Chaplin subjects—XXIX; 72.

July 1—Nordisk Films seeks to enjoin Beacon Films from showing "German Battles at Verdun"—XXIX; 75.

July 1—Ontario censors increase fee for censoring pictures, adding $10,000 yearly to cost—XXIX; 119.

July 1—Kansas City's Screen Club begins business with seventy members—XXIX; 125.

July 2—Pittsburgh Screen Club elects officers—XXIX; 664.

July 5—Cleveland exhibitors elect officers—XXIX; 617.

July 6—Temporary organization formed of the National Association of Motion Picture Industry—XXIX; 612.

July 8—Appellate Division decides against Chaplin in his suit over "Carmen" against Essanay—XXIX; 236.

July 8—Dominion Exclusives, Limited, take up distribution of Fox pictures in Canada—XXIX; 287.

July 10—Sixth convention of Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America at Chicago—XXIX; 758.

July 15—The evolution of exhibiting. Stories of the early days of picture shows gathered by correspondents—XXIX; 367 to 425.

July 15—Patents Company and General Film deny violation of Sherman law—XXIX; 435.

July 15—Ohio Supreme Court refuses to review ruling of State censors on "The Birth of a Nation"—XXIX; 485.

July 17—Pathe's "The Grip of Evil" starts—XXIX; 76.

July 17—National convention at Chicago closes with banquet—XXIX; 912.

July 19 and 20—North Carolina convention—XXIX; 1080.

July 20—First of six Florence Turner pictures released on Mutual program—XXIX; 98.

July 22—"The Fall of a Nation" to be released July 24—XXIX; 622.

July 22—Universal announces release of "Liberty" August 14—XXIX; 644.

July 25—Meeting of N. A. M. P. I. in Chicago—XXIX; 1079.

July 27—Death of William T. Rock, former president of Vitagraph—XXIX; 1078.

July 29—Herbert Brenon announces he will become independent producer—XXIX; 766.

July 29—Kalem announces "Girl from Frisco" ready August 9—XXIX; 768.

July 29—B. S. Moss enters production field, to release one feature a month—XXIX; 771.

July 29—In big theater deal in Massachusetts Messrs. Howard, Horstmann and Lord retire from Olympia Corporation—XXIX; 773.

Aug. 5—Universal buys eight Laemmle and Powers exchanges—XXIX; 919.

Aug. 5—Paramount holds publicity convention in Chicago—XXIX; 934.

Aug. 15—Death of Sam D. Drane, the impersonator of Lincoln in "The Crisis"—XXIX; 1845.

Aug. 16—William A. Brady chosen president of the N. A. M. P. I.—XXIX; 1517.

Aug. 17—Imperial censorship announced for Great Britain—XXIX; 1812.

Aug. 19—Announcement of engagement of Max Linder by Essanay—XXIX; 1220.

Aug. 19—Larry Trimble, after directing pictures in England for three years, returns to United States—XXIX; 1223.

Aug 19—Herbert Brenon Film Corporation leases Ideal studios—XXIX; 1258.

Aug. 22—Convention of Kansas exhibitors—XXIX; 1672.

Aug. 25—Arthur Kane goes to coast for Artcraft—XXIX; 1670.

Aug. 26—C. R. Macauley takes intimate motion pictures of President Wilson and his cabinet—XXIX; 1376.

Aug. 26—Mary Pickford Film Corporation opens offices at 729 Seventh Avenue—XXIX; 1376.

Aug. 26—William Patch takes over Pitt Theater, Pittsburgh—XXIX; 1387.

Aug. 26—Thirty thousand photoplay patrons of Portland, Oregon, sign petition asking for fairer censorship—XXIX; 1436.

Aug. 30—Mutual closes chief executive offices in New York and goes to Chicago—XXIX; 1671.

Sept. 2—Description of status of Federal tax bill—XXIX; 1512.

Sept. 2—Work started on Pickford films, to be released through Artcraft, Walter E. Greene, president—XXIX; 1516.

Sept. 2—New Vitagraph absorbs Lubin and V-L-S-E—XXIX—1516.

Sept. 2—Sol Lesser, in association with Leon D. Netter, to exploit features on state rights in East—XXIX; 1524.

Sept. 2—Mrs. Vernon Castle selected for lead in "Patria"—XXIX; 1556.

Sept. 2—Kleine, Edison, Selig and Essanay in combination, to release through Kleine exchanges—XXIX; 1907.

Sept. 9—Publication of papers in suit of Vitagraph Company against Henry Ford for $1,000,000—XXIX; 1667.

Sept. 9—Jacksonville (Fla.) residence organize Southeastern Film Corporation, with capital of $300,000—XXIX; 1676.

Sept. 9—Al Christie becomes independent producer—XXIX; 1680.

Sept. 9—Announcement that Consolidated Film Corporation—Ludwig G. B. Erb and O. E. Goebel—are to release sixteen-episode serial, "The Crimson Stain Mystery"—XXIX; 1712.

Sept. 16—Exhibitors of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward's Island hold meeting and form the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the Maritime Provinces of Canada—XXX; 248.

Sept. 19—Pacific Film Laboratories in Los Angeles destroyed by fire—XXX; 402.

Sept. 20—Oliver Morosco denies having made prediction of the ultimate doom of the motion picture—XXX; 52.

Sept. 20—Exchangemen listen to arguments against censorship in general and Federal censorship in particular at Shanley's Restaurant—XXX; 51.

Sept. 23—Review of "Intolerance," shown in New York for first time—XXIX; 1950.

Sept. 23—Universal completes "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea"—XXIX; 1953.

Sept. 23—Elaine Sterne novelizes her "Sonny Jim" scripts—XXIX; 1956.

Sept. 23—Robert Brower retires from screen with appearance in Famous Players "Quest of Life"—XXIX; 1957.

Sept. 23—J. D. Walker buys British rights on Chaplin films—XXIX; 1977.

Sept. 26—William L. Sherry Feature Film Company opens offices and exchange in Godfrey Building, Seventh avenue and 49th street, New York City—XXX; 212.

Sept. 27—Exhibitors of New York City, Long Island, and Eastern New Jersey protest against return charges on films—XXX; 211.

Sept. 30—Samuel Goldfish resigns from Famous Players-Lasky, but continues on Board of Directors—XXIX; 2089.

Oct. 2—Society of Motion Picture Engineers effects permanent organization at Hotel Astor meeting. Officers elected and committees named—XXX; 219, 533.

Oct. 5—The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of New Jersey holds state convention at Newark—XXX; 373.

Oct. 5—New Hampshire exhibitors meet at Manchester. Officials elected—XXX; 528.

Oct. 6—Illinois Branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League holds meeting at Masonic Temple, Chicago—XXX; 528.

Oct. 7—Charles E. Hughes talks on the fallacy of Federal control of motion pictures—XXX; 375.

Oct. 7—W. H. Clune, film magnate, announces his intention of building 2,500 seat house in Los Angeles to cost $500,000—XXX; 58.

Oct. 7—Announcement of organization of Art Dramas, Inc—XXX; 60.

Oct. 7—Lule Warrenton, former Universal directress, forms company to produce children's pictures—XXX; 507.

Oct. 7—Utica exhibitors meet at Hotel Martin and elect temporary officials and committee on organization—XXX; 54.

Oco. 7—Nat C. Goodwin Photoplay Corporation incorporates under the laws of the State of New York—XXX; 54.

Oct. 7—Justice Cohalan at a Special Term of the Supreme Court in New York County hands down decision suppressing Anti-Vice Company's picture, "Is Any Girl Safe?"—XXX; 52.

Oct. 7—Commissioner McGoldrick for the U. S. Court for the Eastern District of New York dismisses copyright infringement proceedings—XXX; 50.

Oct. 7—The National Committees of both Democratic and Republican parties decided to use motion pictures in their campaign—XXX; 53.

Oct. 7—Sherman & Elliott, Inc., purchasers of Selig's production, "The City—XXX; 53.
Crisis," opens offices at 220 West 42d street, New York

Oct. 8—Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of Ontario at third annual meeting held at Carls-Rite Hotel, Toronto, elects officers and discusses conditions—XXX; 528.

Oct. 12—Death of George A. Magie, prominent film man—XXX; 556.

Oct. 14—Mayors of many cities voice emphatically that Federal censorship will not be binding upon them—XXX; 251.

Oct. 14—Louis B. Jennings, president of the American Film Laboratories, Inc., of New York City, announces the incorporation of the Standard Film Industries, Inc., under the laws of Virginia—XXX; 253.

Oct. 14—President H. E. Aitken of Triangle Film Corp. makes announcement to the effect that an interest in the twenty-one branch distributing offices of his company will be sold to local investors at the different points where the exchange is now located—XXX; 214.

Oct. 17—Exhibitors of Paterson and Passaic, N. J., effect organization and elect officers—XXX; 676.

Oct. 21—Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Massachusetts condemns white slave pictures—XXX; 374.

Oct. 21—President Wilson against legalized consorship—XXX; 371.

Oct. 21—Morosco and Pallas Pictures merge with Famous-Players Lasky Corporation—XXX; 376.

Oct. 21—Thomas H. Davison of the Davison Film Sales Agency, Ltd., London, arrives in New York with English productions—XXX; 399.

Oct. 28—Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association, Inc., of the Northwest and the film exchange managers of Minneapolis hold joint meeting and adopt plans for trade regulation—XXX; 991.

Oct. 25—Texas Amusement Managers' Association at meeting debate censorship and Sunday opening—XXX; 992.

Oct. 28—Commissioner Louis Brownlow of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia warns exhibitors against the showing of pictures portraying nudity—XXX; 560.

Oct. 28—J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., defends the organizing of exchange associations—XXX; 526.

Oct. 28—Exhibitors of Deadwood, S. D., organize the Black Hills Exhibitors' League and elect H. B. Hurst president—XXX; 529.

Oct. 31—Governor Whitman stigmatizes censorship as abhorrent to American spirit—XXX; 986.

Nov. 3—A mass meeting of San Francisco exhibitors discusses plans for the formation of a State local organization—XXX; 1141.

Nov. 3—Plans for the organization of a Chicago Executive Division of the National Association of the Moving Picture Industry discussed at meeting held in the offices of John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corp.—XXX; 1149.

Nov. 4—Screen Club moves into its new home at 117 West 45th Street, New York City—XXX; 676.

Nov. 6—Bronx exhibitors hold fourth annual ball at Hunt's Point Palace, New York—XXX; 1143.

Nov. 7—Max Linder, the famous French comedian, arrives in New York—XXX; 1144.

Nov. 9—At a meeting of the National Committee on Films for Young People a preliminary report was read purporting to consider the advisability of the formation of a federation for better films—XXX; 1332.

Nov. 10—Chicago Reel Fellows Club holds second annual reception and ball in the Gold Room of the Hotel La Salle—XXX; 1177.

Nov. 10—F. I. L. M. Club of New York holds meeting—XXX; 1307.

Nov. 10—Film exchange men of Cincinnati form the Associated Film Association. Officers elected—XXX; 1307.

Nov. 11—Lee A. Ochs, president of National League, institutes libel suit against Variety—XXX; 830.

Nov. 11—The Famous-Players Lasky Corp. terminates offer of buying 100 suitable scripts in the form of a 1,000-word synopsis at the rate of $1,000 a script by the acceptance of the one hundredth script—XXX; 866.

Nov. 11—Lewis J. Selznick leases Biograph studio—XXX; 871.

Nov. 11—Cecil De Mille elected to the presidency of the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company and to the vice-presidency of the Pallas Pictures Corp.—XXX; 875.

Nov. 11—Ralph Ince leaves Vitagraph to become independent producer—XXX; 876.

Nov. 11—Screen Club gives first party in its new quarters—XXX; 1177.

Nov. 12—Florence Turner, of Turner Films, Ltd., London, returns to New York—XXX; 1309.

Nov. 14—Members of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest gather at West Hotel, Minneapolis—XXX; 1476.

Nov. 14—At a meeting of the Ohio branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America held in Cleveland plans for a State convention were discussed—XXX; 1307.

Nov. 15—Baltimore operators hold seventh annual ball—XXX; 1471.

Nov. 15—Laemmle's parent exchange at 205 West Washington street, Chicago, destroyed by fire—XXX; 1310.

Nov. 18—The Motion Picture Patents Company is granted a writ of certiorari in Latham Loup patent infringement suit by the United States Supreme Court—XXX; 988.

Nov. 18—Laemmle, Selznick and Brenon take over Broadway Theater—XXX; 988.

Nov. 18—F. I. L. M. Club of New York City holds meeting at Wurlitzer Hall and discusses conditions—XXX; 991.

Nov. 18—Circle Theater at Indianapolis, Ind., with a seating capacity of 3,000, opens—XXX; 1016.

Nov. 18—The fifth annual reception and ball of the Screen Club of New York held at Hotel Astor—XXX; 1309.

Nov. 18—Annual luncheon and meeting of National Board of Review held in east ball room of the Hotel Astor—XXX; 1308.

Nov. 18—Brooklyn Exhibitors' League at special meeting held in Triangle Theater in Brooklyn passes resolution asking for information as to the scope and plans of the Exhibitors Trade Review—XXX; 1307.

Nov. 20—The Monday Evening Club of Washington, D. C., talks about censorship—XXX; 1648.

Nov. 22—The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Hudson County, N. J., holds second annual banquet—XXX; 1475.

Nov. 22—The Exhibitors' League of Troy and vicinity holds successful banquet—XXX; 1476.

Nov. 22—The Massachusetts of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League holds its fourth annual ball at Boston Arena—XXX; 1472.

Nov. 25—New York film salesmen form the Film Salesmen's Association at meeting in Wurlitzer Hall, New York—XXX; 1629.

Nov. 25—William W. Hodkinson to head Superpictures, Inc—XXX; 1140.

Nov. 25—Alec Lorimore goes to Australia to represent the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation—XXX; 1148.

Nov. 25—D. J. Sullivan promoted to the position of general manager of Mutual Film Corp. by President Freuler—XXX; 1173.

Nov. 27—Buffalo Screen Club holds meeting—XXX; 1624.

Nov. 27—Buffalo exhibitors plan to combat the movement to close motion picture theaters on Sunday—XXX; 1621.

Nov. 28—Gustavus A. Rogers believes that the court will uphold Sunday pictures—XXX; 1620.

Nov. 29—The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, Local No. 1 of New York, holds successful sixth annual ball at Madison Square Garden—XXX; 1624.

Nov. 29—National Association of the Moving Picture Industry transacts much business—XXX; 1618.

Dec. 1—Ochs' investigating committee decides to debar press from hearings—XXX; 1622.

Dec. 2—The Motion Picture Patents Company and others sued for damages—XXX; 1302.

Dec. 2—Judge Ward of the United States Supreme Court of Appeals decides against the exhibition in this country of the Pantomimic Corporation pictures of the Johnson-Willard fight—XXX; 1302.

Dec. 2—H. P. Wolfberg of St. Louis form Masterpiece Film Corporation to handle state rights pictures—XXX; 1335.

Dec. 2—B. Brodsky, general manager of the Cinema Company, Ltd., Hong Kong, visits this country and brings many Chinese pictures—XXX 1312.

Dec. 2—Difficulties heretofore existing between exhibitors of New York and New Jersey and the F. I. L. M. Club are amicably adjusted—XXX; 1307.

Dec. 2—Chairman Trigger of the committee of the Manhattan branch of the Exhibitors' League investigating charges against Lee A. Ochs decides to admit the press to the hearing and is sustained by fellow members—XXX; 1306.

Dec. 2—Ben B. Hampton elected to the presidency of the General Film Company—XXX; 1303.

Dec. 2—Stormy scenes at Ochs' investigation—XXX; 1304.

Dec. 6—Stanley V. Mastbaum plays host to over two hundred film men in Philadelphia—XXX; 1779.

Dec. 6—Exhibitors of Albany, Troy and Schenectady, N. Y., at a meeting held in the New Mohawk Hotel, Schenectady, form the Capitol District Association and elect officers—XXX; 1783.

Dec. 8—Famous Players-Lasky Corporation acquires the controlling interest in the Paramount Pictures Corporation—XXX; 1778.

Dec. 9—Members of the Association Brooklyn Exhibitors decide to look into the activities of the Hoy Reporting Service—XXX; 1784.

Dec. 9—Phil Lang, scenario editor for Kalem Company, moves his department to main studio at Glendale, Cal.—XXX; 1477.

Dec. 9—The Court of Appeals affirms legislative right to exclude minors under sixteen from theaters without guardian—XXX; 1476.

Dec. 9—The National Association of the Motion Picture Industry to discuss questions concerning film transportation and fire prevention—XXX; 1474.

Dec. 9—Appellate Division of the Third Department of the State of New York hands down decision affecting the legality of the exhibition of motion pictures on Sunday—XXX; 1471.

Dec. 11—Justice William P. Platt, of the Supreme Court, sitting at White Plains, N. Y., denied motion to restrain Louis Rosenberg, manager Alhambra theater, White Plains, from open on Sunday—XXXI; 55.

Dec. 12—The Exhibitors League of Michigan holds second annual convention in Detroit—XXX; 1937.

Dec. 12—Inter Mountain Amusement Managers' Association of Salt Lake City, Utah, organized—XXXI; 54.

Dec. 16—Tom North, popular film man, comes to New York—XXX; 1625.

Dec. 16—Goldwyn Pictures Corp., with a capital stock of $3,000,000, enters the field—XXX; 1627.

Dec. 18—Death of Edgar J. Mock—XXXI; 83.
Harry A. Sherman purchases world right of "The Garden of Allah,, December 18 from William N. Selig—XXXI; 99.

Dec. 20—Samuel Trigger elected president Manhattan Local Number 1, New York State Branch Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America—XXXI; 53.

Dec. 23—Apollo Pictures, of which Harry R. Raver is president, is the name of the newest producing organization to affiliate with Art Dramas—XXX; 1793.

Dec. 23—W. H. Clune enters the state rights field—XXX; 1788.

Dec. 23—George W. Trendle, a prominent Michigan exhibitor, says that the only way to obtain satisfactory results along legislative lines is to co-operate with those who are advocating reforms—XXX; 1782.

Dec. 30—Manager E. M. Clark of the Baker-Grand Theater at Natchez, Miss., visits brother exhibitors in New Orleans and discusses the formation of an exhibitors' league—XXX; 1937.

Dec. 30—Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest holds meeting in Minneapolis and appoints committee to abolish advance film deposits—XXX; 1938.

MUTUAL RELEASES POPULAR IN CALIFORNIA.

Four of the eight theaters in principal centers in Los Angeles are given over to Mutual Star productions with Mary Miles Minter at Tally's Broadway, "The Pearl of Paradise" at The Superba, Charlie Chaplin in "The Rink" at the Garrick, and "A Lass of the Lumberlands," at Pantages. Also "Peck o' Pickles," featuring Kolb and Dill, opened at Clune's Broadway on December 3 and holds crowds which obstructed traffic all day. All the Mutual shows are running to capacity business.

President Attends Picture Show

Accompanied by Mrs. Wilson He Sees Initial Presentation in Capital City of William Fox's "A Daughter of the Gods."

ON DECEMBER 18 President and Mrs. Wilson had been married one year. The chief executive and the first lady of the land celebrated the event in the morning by playing golf. In the evening, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Galt, they atended the initial presentation in the capital city of Annette Kellermann in "A Daughter of the Gods." The presidential party arrived at the Belasco Theater five minutes before the raising of the curtain and remained until the last scene was flashed on the screen. Then, as is customary when the President attends the theater, the orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner" and the house stood until the President and his party had left the theater.

It was the first time the President and Mrs. Wilson had attended the public showing of motion pictures. There have been instances where subjects in which the President was interested have been screened at the White House. What the chief executive said as to his impressions of "A Daughter of the Gods" cannot be quoted, but from remarks dropped by one of his official associates there is every reason to believe Mr. Wilson was delighted with his evening's entertainment.

When a World man dropped in on Winfield R. Sheehan, he found the general manager of the Fox company more than willing to receive congratulations on the unique distinction that had come to his company's big production.

"'A Daughter of the Gods' is doing a remarkable business everywhere," said Mr. Sheehan. "The picture opens in Sydney, Australia, on Christmas Day. Here in New York its receipts this week, just before the pocket-depleting holiday of the year, are matching those of last week. I believe we are doing as much business as any stage show in town. How long will the New York run last? We expect it to extend through the spring."

Speaking of the general affairs of the Fox company Mr. Sheehan said Mr. Fox planned sooner or later to erect in each city throughout the world where the company's pictures are distributed a building to be devoted exclusively to company business. "We have such a one now in London," he said. "We are building another in Golden Gate avenue in San Francisco, which will probably be occupied by February 1. Another already is planned for Boston, the details of which are now in the hands of Manager Campbell of that city. On account of leases, etc., it will require three or four years' time to complete our program in the building line, but we are going steadily ahead on it."

Asked as to the responses he was getting on the proposition of the Fox company to employ William Farnum and Theda Bara in special productions throughout the coming year the general manager became enthusiastic.

"The responses we have had from our exhibitors are practically unanimous in favor of our departure," said Mr. Sheehan. "We have been releasing fifty-two feature subjects a year. We are going to extend that by adding the eight productions in which Miss Bara and Mr. Farnum each appear. These will go to the exhibitor at the regular price he has been paying, the only difference being that we ask in the case of these sixteen more elaborate pictures that the exhibitor take them for two days instead of one. No program can be made up entirely of winners, at least I know of none that has been. We do believe, however, these subjects will operate as an insurance to the exhibitor, as more than a protection against the occasional film that will fail to strike fire.

"There is a picture coming that I think will arouse interest. It is 'The Conqueror,' the second William Farnum production and directed by Raoul Walsh. The battle scenes have been declared by some to be the best ever made. The cost of the production was $126,000. The fact of its release on our program, despite its cost, is occasioning talk in film circles on the coast, where, of course, the expense we went to is well known. I think we will be perfectly safe in claiming it to be the most expensive picture ever released on a regular program."

KALEM PLAYER A BENEDICT.

Frank Jonasson, of Kalem's Glendale Players, has forsaken his bachelor ways for the life of a mere married man. Jonasson, who portrays Ace Brent, the father of the Girl from Frisco in Kalem's series of that name, was quietly wed on December 9 to Miss Jessie Alice Nash, of Portland, Oregon, after a courtship that has all the earmarks of a heart-throbbing scenario.

New General Film Policy

President Hampton Says Present Conditions Demand Different Manner of Handling Pictures—Abandons Footage System.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT made over the signature of Benj. B. Hampton, president of the General Film Company, forecasts several important changes in the methods of handling motion pictures by that distributing organization. The most important change is the abandonment of the "footage system," so-called, of dealing with the producer and the placing of all pictures on a percentage basis. The statement is given here in full:

From the day of its start—as the pioneer distributing medium of motion pictures—until now, the General Film Company has conducted its business on the basis of footage. That is, the company has leased, or purchased, film from the manufacturers enjoying the privilege of distributing through its exchanges. This film has been paid for at a certain price per foot. The exchanges, or branch offices, have dealt with the exhibitor on practically the same basis, charging the exhibitor a specified sum for a "program" of so many reels a week.

In the early days of the industry this was an excellent system. In fact, it was practically the only method by which the exhibitor could be assured of a steady program of consistent quality.

The demand of the present seems to call for a different method of handling the business. While in the great majority of theaters the demand is still for the reliable program of General Film, there are many exhibitors who want to use some of the longer subjects, usually known as "features," with the shorter program items.

To meet this condition the manufacturers who constitute the board of directors of General Film Co. have voted unanimously to do away with the footage system and to place the entire business on a percentage basis. This change takes place January 1st, 1917. Likely this is the most radical change ever made in the industry, and I feel that its effects will be of untold value to exhibitors and theatergoers everywhere.

General Film programs have justly earned the reputation of regularly carrying the highest grade short-length product in the world. This revolutionary change means that they will be even better. In fact, I think I am within the facts when I predict that within a few months theatergoers will see short features of a quality heretofore believed impossible. This prophesy is based on the sound reason that now the best producers can afford to spend more money than was possible under the old system. With each picture renting solely on its own merits, the good short picture will have an opportunity to earn to its fullest capacity. For the first time in the history of the industry the manufacturer is justified in making masterpieces of his one, two and three-reel subjects—because now he knows that he can get the money out of them.

Every picture produced under this new system will be a "feature," no matter what its length may be.

In addition to the shorter subjects, General Film will soon announce a definite plan of releasing longer pictures. "Footage" will not be first in these photoplays. They will be boiled down to whatever length is right. A 5,000 foot "feature" that needs to be cut to 4,000 feet will be cut and dramas that would move quickly through 3,200 feet will not be padded out to "five-reelers."

In addition to the pictures now known to the trade as "features" General Film will distribute special plays of five to ten reels in length.

In short, we plan to develop our distribution to handle everything needed by everyone—from the greatest to the humblest.

Tom Mix Joins Fox Films

New Comedy Organization Gets Famous Cowboy Photoplayer—Eight Years With Selig.

TOM MIX, cowboy, rough rider, motion picture actor, scenario writer and director, has signed with the William Fox forces and will immediately begin work on a series of western comedies for the Foxfilm comedy program.

The engagement of Mr. Mix for Foxfilm comedies marks the first change America's most famous cowboy has made in his picture career. For eight years he was leading man with Selig and his followers are numbered by the hundreds of thousands in all parts of the world.

For staging the Mix comedies Mr. Fox has leased a large tract of land on the Winna Brown ranch, near Los Angeles, erected a complete western city from dance hall to undertaking establishment and arranged for the maintenance of a large stock farm to furnish horses and cattle for the films.

Opposite Mr. Mix, when he begins work for Foxfilm comedies, will be Victoria Forde, who has played his female leads ever since he has been in pictures.

Tom Mix is one of the most picturesque figures on the Pacific Coast. He is typically a westerner and unmistakably a cowboy, always wearing a sombrero, which fits exactly with his rugged virile features. He is a familiar character in and about Los Angeles.

HANK MANN HAS OWN COMPANY.

Hank Mann, noted motion picture comedian, who has been starring in Foxfilm comedies under the direction of Charles Parrett, will begin a new picture for the Fox forces Christmas week under his own direction. This adds another comedy company to William Fox's already big organization. At present six companies are at work on Foxfilm comedies.

Kalem Signs Another Big Author

Fred R. Bechdolt, Famous Short Story Writer, Will Prepare Future Episodes of "The Girl from Frisco."

IN LINE with its recently announced policy, that of establishing an "authors contributing department," the Kalem Company has contracted with Fred R. Bechdolt, celebrated writer of thrilling fiction, to prepare an indefinite number of additional episodes of "The Girl from Frisco." This important acquisition to Kalem's scenario department follows closely the news that "The Girl from Frisco" series of two-reelers will be continued indefinitely in response to a general demand by exhibitors.

Fred R. Bechdolt

Robert Welles Ritchie, who has prepared all of the Frisco scripts up to this time, will now devote his entire time and attention to the "Grant, Police Reporter" series being produced by Director Robert Ellis with George Larkin and Ollie Kirkby as the stars. Authors Ritchie and Bechdolt are fast friends and in fact it was Mr. Ritchie who succeeded in interesting Mr. Bechdolt in scenario writing.

Bechdolt has been living all his life the stories that he is now writing for the Kalem Company. When but a small boy he ran away from home and was found later by his parents on the ranch of a relative in Montana. He attended the University of Washington at Seattle but, filled with the Wanderlust, went to Alaska just before the big gold rush of 1897. He did placer mining, living in a tent when the thermometer registered 60 below zero.

Returning to the States, Bechdolt took up newspaper work in earnest and spent in all about ten years on first one newspaper and then another. When he was with the Los Angeles Examiner, Death Valley Scotty began his sensational spending and exploitation of fake mines. Refused an assignment to "get" the truth about Scotty, he shifted to the Los Angeles News and the story that he eventually turned in to the city editor of that paper, after trailing Scotty all over the Mojave Desert, was one of the biggest "scoops" ever put over in newspaperdom.

After this achievement, Bechdolt began to "land" regularly in the biggest magazines in the country. With James Hopper he wrote the serial "9009," the story of a convict which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. He also wrote the Post serial, "The Hard Rock Man." His "Lighthouse Tom" stories ran for eighteen months in the Red Book, and he has been a consistent contributor to Collier's and Everybody's Magazine.

With such training and such a fund of experiences to draw from, Kalem's newest scenario contributor should be able to weave a spell of enchanting glamor around Marin Sais, who, as everybody knows, is the heroine of "The Girl from Frisco."

BECK REPRESENTS HARRY MOREY.

Louis J. Beck, who has given valuable publicity to many members of the theatrical profession, has been engaged as the personal and press representative of Harry T. Morey, the popular Vitagraph Star. Mr. Beck was the publicity representative of Miss Marguerite Bertsch, author, director of the great film "Within the Law." He also handled this class of work for Ralph W. Ince and conducted a country-wide campaign for Ince when he was director with the Vitagraph forces. Lucille Lee Stuart and Huntly Gordon, other celebrities of the screen, owe much of their fame to Mr. Beck's well-directed efforts.

Col. Fred Levy

New and Important Figure in the Motion Picture World—Heads State Right Concern.

IN COL. FRED LEVY, of Louisville, the man who startled filmdom by paying $50,000 cash to the Sherman-Elliott Company for "The Crisis" for seven states, after only five minutes consumed in negotiations, a new figure looms big in the financial film world. Although Col. Levy has been actively identified with the theatrical end of the business for the past five years, through his association with the B. F. Keith interests, he has only been in the picture business a little over a year, yet during this brief period his purchase of territorial rights on big features such as "The Battle Cry of Peace," "The Little Girl Next Door," "Marvelous Machiste" and others, together with his methods of exploiting and presenting the attractions, have been of such a nature as to make even the most heretofore daring owner of state rights pictures sit up and take notice.

Col. Fred Levy.

Col. Levy's association with things theatrical began when, as a director of the National Theater, Louisville's independent vaudeville house, he effected to everyone's satisfaction a merger with the B. F. Keith house. Since the merger, Col. Levy has been B. F. Keith's managerial director for his vaudeville and picture theaters in that vicinity.

Col. Levy has many varied interests and is rated as not only one of Louisville's foremost business men, but of Kentucky and the South as well. He is senior member of the well known men's department store of Levy Bros., the biggest concern of its kind south of the Ohio River. He is president of the Kentucky Retail Merchants' Association, and is prominent in the council boards of the National Clothiers' Association. Col. Levy is also president of a big printing establishment and head of a leading automobile supply house.

One of the Colonel's hobbies is the acquiring of race horses, his stables comprising a string of Kentucky thoroughbreds, whose performances furnish daily subject matter for sporting editors.

Two Governors of Kentucky have honored Col. Levy with positions, Governor (now Senator) Beckham ten years ago putting him on his staff, while Governor Stanley, the present incumbent, gave him a Colonelcy for the second time. As a Park Board Commissioner, a public office carrying no salary, and to which he was elected by a vote considerably leading the entire ticket, Col. Levy proved his business qualities in administering Louisville's famous park system and boulevards. Col. Levy also made an enviable record as President of the Commercial Club, Louisville's leading public welfare organization. It is doubtful if there is a man more highly thought of or better known than Col. Levy.

Col. Levy's film company is known as the Big Feature Rights Corporation, and the same sound business principles practiced in his other enterprises have been injected into his picture business. The organization is large and efficient, comprising men who have had actual experiences as theater managers, advertisement writers, and booking agents, respectively. Two newspapers, "The Battle Cry News," exploiting "The Battle Cry of Peace," and "The Daily Truth," exploiting "The Little Girl Next Door," issued by the company, caused a lot of comment both in film circles and from the public. A special newspaper will be gotten out to exploit "The Crisis."

Col. Levy expects to have a dozen road shows touring his territory on "The Crisis," which comprises Indiana, Kentucky, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina and South Carolina, and, judging from the requests for reservations for dates from every section of the big territory, a new record is expected to be set fof theater-going by the public this coming winter.

Pathe Serial Plans

"The Double Cross," One of Pathe's First Serial Offerings for 1917, Is New Type—Three Other Big Ones.

ONE of Pathe's first serials for 1917 will be "The Double Cross," a new type of serial that establishes new standards for production, direction and story. It is based on Gilson Willets' famous novel, "The Double Cross," that has been pronounced one of the greatest stories ever written. The production by the Astra Film Corporation is on a more lavish scale than has ever before been attempted in a Pathe serial.

"The Double Cross" is one of four serials completed for release during the first six months of the new year. Announcement plans for the $5,000,000 serial program for 1917 show that J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., has planned far ahead to maintain Pathe's supremacy in the serial field.

Every episode of every one of the serials has been produced with a view to making it as great a box office attraction as a five-reel feature. This is in line with Mr. Berst's serial policy of all star casts, feature productions and powerful dramatic stories by famous authors.

Mollie King is the featured player in "The Double Cross," a story of love, mystery and thrills. The role is so hazardous that all of the insurance companies in this country and England have refused to assume the risk of possible injury to her in the thrilling "stunts" that characterize this serial. Miss King, who is a newcomer to Pathe's serial program, has been pronounced one of the prettiest girls on the screen. Playing opposite her is Leon Bary, who played the part of Sebastian in "The Shielding Shadow" serial. William Park is the director.

"'The Double Cross' marks a departure in serials," says Mr. Berst. "It is generally known now that by reason of our long experience Pathe knows how to make successful serials. 'The Double Cross' is a new type of serial including all of the elements of popular appeal that distinguish 'Pearl of the Army,' 'The Shielding Shadow,' 'The Iron Claw,' and our great serial successes. It has been produced with a view to making every episode a greater feature than most of the five-reel offerings now on the market.

"In addition to the splendid cast and feature production, there is an even greater reason why, in my opinion, 'The Double Cross' will outrival the success of all of our other serial offerings. That reason is the story. From the very start, until the last reel of the fifteenth episode, there is a mystery that will thrill and enthrall motion picture audiences. Mr. Willets' book, 'The Double Cross,' was the most promising material we ever had to work with for a serial."

The serial to follow "The Double Cross" will probably be "The Neglected Wife," based on the famous story by Mabel Herbert Urner, which has been published in the best newspapers in every important city of the United States. These stories are now being syndicated in a great number of newspapers. This serial also is different from anything that has ever been attempted before. It is a true to life story about "The Neglected Wife," "The Woman Alone and The Man." It is a story that will interest every man, woman and child, because it is a story of real life. There is no author of any time who painted characters more interestingly than has Mabel Herbert Urner in her famous story. Every episode abounds with dramatic situations and suspense.

The star of "The Neglected Wife" is Ruth Roland, who is numbered among the most popular serial stars in the country. Her work in "The Neglected Wife" is said to be the best she has ever done. Featured with her is Roland Bottomley, a distinguished actor with a long list of successes to his credit. "The Neglected Wife" has been produced by Balboa. The story has been scenarioized by Will M. Ritchey.

Miss Pearl White, the featured star of "Pearl of the Army," has started work in a new serial by Fred Jackson, the well known magazine author, and George B. Seitz, author of some of Pathe's greatest serial successes. Miss White is enthusiastic over her part—that of a wealthy young society girl, who, bored to distraction by the monotonous life of a social butterfly, joins forces with a desperate young man, driven by mysterious circumstances to assume the role of a burglar. The story was written expressly for Miss White, and gives her wonderful opportunities for her unusual talents.

Fourth on the serial list for Nineteen Seventeen is another original story by H. M. Horkheimer and Calder Johnstone, the working title of which is "The Twisted Thread." The leading role will be played by two prominent stars.

"In Pearl White, Mollie King and Ruth Roland we believe we have the greatest serial stars in the world," says Mr. Berst. "In the past three years we have spent more than $2,000,000 in the leading newspapers of the country and in billboards telling the public about Pathe serials and the Pathe Stars."

Predicts Big Year for Mutual

President John R. Freuler Outlines Mutual's Policy for Coming Year—Gives Views on Past Year's Importance.

PRESIDENT John R. Freuler, of the Mutual Film Corporation, predicts big things for the motion picture industry for the year 1917. Mr. Freuler believes that an indication of the advancement to be expected during the coming year is seen in the outstanding features of the industry for 1916, which in his estimation are, he writes:

> That this industry, involving the use of stupendous capital, has been placed on a sound business basis. The uncertainties and waverings of 1915 have vanished. It was the period of business readjustment, which, being boldly met, meant the rebirth of the photoplay industry.
>
> Introduction of the present big feature phase of the industry, which is certain to dominate production for the future, in which the boldest operators set the pace. In this fruitful field, I may say, the Mutual Film Corporation pioneered with those master pictures, "The Quest" and "The Miracle of Life."
>
> The signing of the $670,000 annual contract with Charlie Chaplin, calling for his appearance in twelve two-reel comics, this being the highest salary ever paid any man in the world's history—this being the first gun in the Mutual's campaign of which the slogan is "Only Big Things for the Mutual."
>
> A definite joining of the issue involving motion picture censorship, by which I mean an awakening of the lay press to the importance of this issue to the business of publication in general. It is now generally recognized that the pretentions of censorship violate the principle of a free press. There appears also to be a better general public understanding of the issues involved.

"On the matter of censorship," Mr. Freuler says, "its arrogant pretensions, its absurd claims, its utterly ruinous influence on art and enterprise alike and last, but not least, its flagrant violation of the constitutional letter and principle, I need not say that I have strong convictions and equally strong determination.

"The Mutual Film Corporation's announcement of 'Only Big Stars for the Mutual,' referring to the policy of the corporation for 1917, means in effect that the Mutual is interested in distributing only productions of the highest quality—work representative of the best work of the greatest stars. In this category I may mention Nance O'Neil, Marjorie Rambeau, Richard Bennett, Mary Miles Minter and Margarita Fischer.

"An interesting bit of film history concerns the production by the American Film Company and release by the Mutual Film Corporation of 'The Sequel to the Diamond from the Sky,' the success of this issue having been completely in line with that which attended the original, 'The Diamond from the Sky.' Including both productions this was the biggest chapter play in film history. There were sixty-eight reels in the two plays and $20,000 was paid the writers of the scenarios—more than was ever paid scenario writers before. Ten thousand dollars was paid for each story. Roy L. McCardell, of New York, received the first $10,000, and at the time that this is written the winner of the second $10,000 remains to be announced on the screen presentation of the final chapter of 'The Sequel to the Diamond from the Sky.'

"It is well to advert to the determination of the Mutual Film Corporation and its allied producing concerns to insure service of the foremost directors in the field, as indicated by the commissioning of James Kirkwood, director of Mary Miles Minter and also of many of the Mary Pickford pictures.

"Another director whose work it would be difficult to duplicate is Frank Powell, of the Frank Powell Producing Corportion, who produced "Charity" and numerous other powerful plays known to the motion picture world.

"Founding of the Gaumont line of educational pictures, based on the foundation of the Mutual Weekly, including the series known as 'See America First,' 'Reel Life' and 'Mutual Tours Around the World' may also be referred to as an important development of a growing phase of the industry."

Mabel Normand in "Mickey"

Bids Farewell to Squash Pie Comedy and Other Strenuous Picture Plays to Do Something More Genteel.

MABEL NORMAND has bidden a fond farewell to comedies made out of squash pies. Stories about the seduction of beautiful, innocent heroines, or battles swimming in blood, etc., are not on her calling list. For many months she has been out of public view at work on a new comedy, "Mickey," which will be the keynote for the plays that are to be turned out by the Mabel Normand Feature Film Company. This will be released soon after the first of the year.

Mabel Normand.

It would not be surprising if "Mickey" proved to be a characterization which would live for a long time in this new dramatic literature of the screen. It is a delicious little play—as sweet and quaint as Peter Pan. There is a fragrance in it like the breath of a California canyon when the bees are in the sage flowers.

One of the canons of art is that the test of greatness is simplicity. "Mickey" is simple as the coming of the dawn. A fortune in money and months of patient effort have been expended in achieving the delicate shades of this simplicity. The money that, in other pictures, went for big mob scenes, battles and street riots has, in "Mickey," been spent on an effort to lay in the colors of this work of art with delicacy and effect. There are fifty ways to do anything. Mabel Normand has tried all fifty in "Mickey" to find the one that rings true. Forty-nine have been thrown away to get the picture the public will see. The result is a picture of a sweet little ragamuffin, who will live in your heart with "Peter Pan" and "Huck Finn."

Miss Normand plays in this play the part of a ragged little mountain girl—an orphaned waif, who has been "mothered" by a poverty stricken miner in the mountains of California. Dear little "Mickey!" Her pathetic little shoes are scuffed over on one side and she has to wear boys' clothes because girl's apparel is a little scarce out there—"in back of beyond."

She lives in the mountains with the old miner, a funny old Indian squaw who worships her, a pony, a burro and a fighting bull dog. After a while Providence catches her up and whirls her into the life of a big city and into a family where she alternately is todied to and bullied.

It is a sweet appealing little story and one that no one will forget. No one can have followed Miss Normand's work in the films without the realization that she had bigger and more subtle work ahead of her than the comedies in which she earned her name. In "Mickey" she has justified this belief. In her hands Mickie is a real character, laid in with good taste and delicacy and a rare instinct for dramatic values. Every one is sure to love "Mickey," and equally sure to love the Mabel Normand characters in the other plays to follow "Mickey."

Miss Normand has definitely entered a new field of work, under the supervision of Mack Sennett, wherein she will have an opportunity to do plays and to draw characters that will live.

CHANGES IN PARAMOUNT EXCHANGE.

Henry P. Zapp, formerly special traveling representative of the Pittsburgh Exchange, distributors of Paramount Pictures in that district, has been transferred to the Chicago office, and will devote his entire time to the Chicago city interest for Paramount.

Frank Cain, assistant shipper of the Paramount Pittsburgh Exchange, has resigned to accept a position with the Adams Express Company. He has been succeeded by Jacob Hicks.

C. J. Kingsley, manager of Paramount's Pittsburgh Exchange, is making a tour through the State of Ohio, visiting all the Paramount exhibitors in that district.

Victor Moore's Comedies

Will Make "Klever Komedies" Clever and Have Funny Actors Who Are Funny—New Studio in Jacksonville.

By Victor Moore.

AS 1917 approaches I realize that I have only one obligation to fulfill for the new year, and that is to make Klever Komedies that are clever comedies! To do this we are at present building our own studio in Jacksonville, Fla., where the conditions are excellent to get results. We have engaged a company that we think will be unsurpassed, each actor or actress that has been engaged is engaged with the understanding and full knowledge that they are to be funny—and when I say funny, I mean funny. By doing this, it means that we will have action in every foot of film which we turn out. We are making it our policy that each foot of film must contain a laugh or it will not be used. Our comedies will never be of the slapstick variety, but will always have a good story and every now and then a little touch of heart interest. I have found it to be a fact in my long experience on the stage, as well as in my experience on the screen, that an audience is willing and glad to laugh and cry at the same time and in order to do this we have set out writing stories that set the audience laughing their heads off, and then we will pull them up with a little touch of pathos—following this with another big laugh.

I think these comedies will prove to be lasting, and that instead of dying out after they have had their run, will be the kind that can be re-issued and always be enjoyed by the audience.

Together with all this we have arranged with three or four of the best comedy writers of today and from the present outlook of the material they have turned in it looks like great comedies for the public.

I have arranged for a technical staff to make these productions so as to be on a par with any five-reel productions that are made. It is my idea to mount these comedies better than any comedy that has ever been produced, so that with this idea in view we have spared no expenses for a staff that will include a high class decorator which, in my estimation, is the most essential for interior scenes. Our studio at Jacksonville will be an open air one and with splendid lighting conditions. This will insure the best photography obtainable in pictures. Added to all this we have arranged with two directors to direct these comedies. Both directors are of a different temperament and different style and under these conditions we should have plenty of variety in our pictures

In the company that will support me we have a cast of players that can play any kind of parts assigned to them; for instance, the juvenile man could play character parts and the grande dame could play leading business, so this gives us a most versatile company. Taking all these things into consideration, I feel quite sure in stating that Klever Komedies will stand alone in the market as being comedy that is different—really funny comedies that will get the money. I feel that my success in the Lasky productions on the Paramount Program, "The Clown," "Snobs" and "Chimmie Fadden" have placed me in a very prominent place before the screen public. With only this one obligation to fulfill for the new year I feel that we have it "lashed to the mast."

MABEL TALIAFERRO GIVES A "RAG PARTY."

Mabel Taliaferro, Metro star, gave a house-warming in her new apartments, No. 315 West 98th street recently, and although many prominent persons were present everyone was in rags.

"It is too near Christmas time for anyone to be wearing expensive clothes," the little hostess told her friends, "and I wouldn't like to have it on my conscience that anyone even had a pair of gloves cleaned for a party of mine." So in a lower corner of the invitation was written "Rags."

Present in "Rags" were Mr. and Mrs. Irvin S. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Krager, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Rolfe, Miss Ethel Barrymore, Miss Viola Dana, John H. Collins, Thomas J. Carrigan, Elsie Janis, Mrs. Janis, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Manners, Miss Marguerite Clark, Miss Cora Clark, Miss Laura Hope Crews, Miss Edith Taliaferro, Earl Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Winchell Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gordon, Miss Ada Patterson, the Marquis de Castillo, Miss Marjorie Rambeau, Mrs. Rambeau, Julian Eltinge, Thomas Meighan, John Golden, Augustus McHugh, D. F. McSweeney, Benjamin Piatzi, Roy Atwell. Miss Janis wore her "Cinderella costume" and many of the men were clad in overalls.

Miss Taliaferro is famous for her hospitality, and the quaint ideas she carries out in entertaining.

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Beat Them Out.

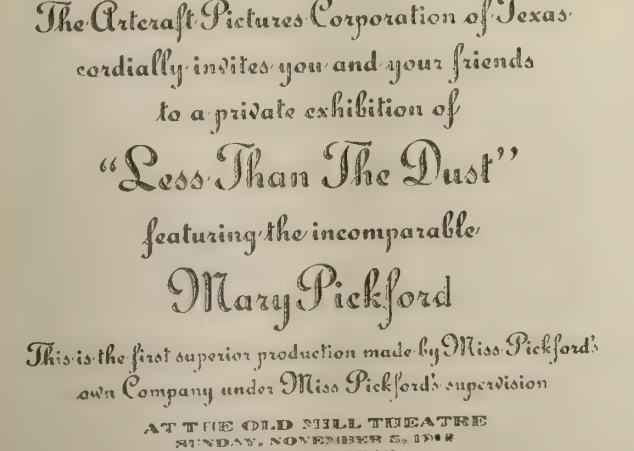
LATELY in a college town a group of professors from the preparatory school and some from the college itself conducted a meeting in favor of better films. One of the houses is municipally owned and there was some talk of appealing to the city government to give the lease to some other manager who would bring to town a grade of film better planned to interest the student body. As a matter of fact the manager runs a fairly good program as a rule, but he snaps up the noisy titles because he can clean up some money with them. The teachers forgot all about the good films and probably they did not see the others, but they might have cost the manager his license. Perhaps you argue that this does not concern you, but it does. You may not have the city for a landlord, but there is always some scheme of police control or local censorship that can be worked in any town. This particular manager got some very undesirable advertising, that possibly competing houses will profit by. You may get the same sort of advertising, and it is not going to make you happy. Start to clean up now. Do not wait until you are forced to or until you become the victim of an unjust and onerous censorship. Beat the reformers out. You may not make as much money some nights, but you will do a more uniformly good business.

Working Doubles.

Joe E. R. Kohler, of the Orpheum, Sheridan, Wyoming, is working the double-page stunt. This was mentioned some time ago in connection with the advertising of Shoes by another exhibitor. It is not always possible to find a play that works so well with the advertiser, but this difficulty has been surmounted by printing in each advertising space the portrait of some Paramount player. Prizes are offered for the most accurate identifications, and of course ties bring equal prizes to winners. This stunt serves to hold the page together at small cost in tickets and helps both advertiser and theater, to say nothing of the paper.

Here It Is.

Compare this Typo Shaded with the Old English that too many printers think is the real thing. Don't you like this better? Note, too, how well it works with shaded gothic. It is part of an announcement-invitation from Dallas, Texas, and was sent to exhibitors. The other half is to the effect that the second portion, when filled in with the name and address of the exhibitor will admit two to a private showing



The Artcraft Pictures Corporation of Texas cordially invites you and your friends to a private exhibition of "Less Than The Dust"
featuring the incomparable
Mary Pickford
This is the first superior production made by Miss Pickford's own Company under Miss Pickford's supervision
AT THE OLD MILL THEATRE
SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 5th 1916
DALLAS, TEXAS

of the picture. The entire sheet is 5 by 8 inches, giving the effect of two four by five cards cut with perforating rule. On the reverse a cut of Miss Pickford backs the invitation and the blanks for the name and address the lower half. Heavy laid paper is used for stock. It is neatly done from all angles and in keeping with the atmosphere Miss Pickford's managers are seeking to create.

In Stripes.

The Fox company has put out a booklet for their Honor System that is designed to help the exhibitor who has the subject as well as to advertise the film to him. There is material here for all sorts of real press work to supplement the straight theater advertising, extracts from the writings of authorities on the subject, poetical quotations and the like. It is unusually complete and helpful and is appropriately covered by a striped design that suggests the old prison suits.

From the Jay.

Jay Emanuel called the other day, thoughtfully selecting a time when we were out, and dropped some contributions in the mail slot. After he came out of the Turkish bath he went right back to Philadelphia. One of his specimens is a handsome portrait in colors of Valeska Suratt, printed up on the back with her family history and an advertisement for Emanuel's Ridge Avenue theater. Two other bits are booklets gotten out by Julian (Kink) Solomon for the Morosco plays. One of these is a folder so arranged that when the pages are opened three cutouts of the star spring up at you, to rise above the top of the page. It is a device familiar enough in fancy valentines and Christmas cards, but neatly adapted to press work. They sell for only $3.50 a thousand. The other is for "He Fell in Love With His Wife," a teaser booklet. Both are novel and will help make business for Morosco exhibitors. We do not want to hurt Jay's feelings, but we think he lacks the nerve to make a date in advance and wrestle with a Fireman. If he has the nerve, he knows the address.

Advertising It.

Tarleton Winchester, of the Pathe Exchange, sends in some work from the family theater, Hazleton, Pa. Exhibit A is a two-inch, single-column advertisement from the local paper. In 19-point caps it advises the reader:

"WATCH YOUR DOOR-KNOB ON THURSDAY;
THERE WILL BE A NICKEL HANGING ON IT!"
says the Shielding Shadow.

On Thursday they sent out a d-k on red card 7 by 14 inches, headed "This circular is worth 5c. to you" and going on to advertise "The Shielding Shadow." At the end it explains that the standard price is 10 cents, but they have arranged to show the series at a five-cent admission; therefore the patrons save the much-advertised nickel. Local conditions may demand the five-cent admission, but we think that a well-advertised serial would be just the thing to use to accustom the patrons to the ten-cent price. In any event the hooking up of a newspaper advertisement with the doorknob is a new idea and a good one, since a two-inch newspaper advertisement pages the way for about 30 inches of space.

A Form Letter.

The Princess, Clarksville, Tex., sends in a form letter for "If My Country Should Call" that is about what a form letter should be, not overlong, to the point and written with conviction. The last paragraph offers to return the admission should it be decided that the story was not all that J. R. Rainey says it is. He also sends in a four-page folder well gotten up, but the red of the stock is so deep that it sinks the ink a little. For a deep red, a glossy ink that stands on the surface of the paper is required; preferably one of the glossy inks.

Steve Is Out.

Steve Farrar sends in his last hunting license with this letter:

> Say, Sargent! every darn exhibitor in the country is writing me for hunting license. I only have one left; if it will reproduce, I suggest that you publish it, for I can't supply the demand. Business was never better, still sticking to hand bills. You will notice that I have adopted a slogan—CASINO THEATER—The sign of ten years' success—going to use it on everything from now on.

Several have written us for details, too. There are no additional details. The hunting license was reproduced, in our issue of September 23, from the original card sent in by the Kleine Exchange, Denver. Steve took this card and changed the wording to apply to his own Casino, Eldorado, Ill. With a numbering machine that stamps in duplicate he stamped on a number. On the card, above and below the panel, he printed:

> Note.—These cards are numbered in duplicate. Find the party holding your number and you will both be admitted to the Casino FREE.

Then he shuffled the cards and gave them out. That is all there was to it, except that he had the whole town running around looking for their affinities. This was all explained in the paragraph mentioning Steve's scheme, and any exhibitor could have turned back for the original and have added the extra line a lot easier than he could have written a letter asking for a sample. Keep your back numbers, or at least the pages of this department. They will come in handy. Turn back and you'll find the hunting license in cut form. That is where Steve got his.

Steve's throwaways are familiar to most readers of the department, and the new batch offer no departures, but they do show some good lines; for example:

Check your troubles at the door and Ham and Bud will make you forget to take them home.

If you don't see the best show, it's your own fault.

Just for fun we present—

Steve's slogan is a good one. Ten years in a town means something, but Steve is a sticker. He was one of the first friends of this department and still is one of the most regular.

Easily a Record.

Just about the record is the advertising display of the Paramount theater, Latrobe, Pa., in the Bulletin for November 2. The Bulletin is the name of the local paper and is not a house organ. The theater has three full pages, one each for Paramount, Triangle and World Film. It also runs in the same issue 30 inches for the running program and 49 inches for "The Birth of a Nation." This is more than three and a half pages for one house in one issue of a daily paper, and we think that it will be some time before this record is taken down, even granting that the three film companies paid all or part of their respective pages.

Philadelphia Programs.

The Aurora theater uses a green card 3½x5½. For a catchline it employs the rather awkward "The Paramount House Accompanied by the Aurora Orchestra." As it uses also Metro, Triangle and Fox, the line does not stick well and is badly phrased at best. Where the title is run on the same line with the player it is well to use quotes for the title, for here we get "Fay Tincher in Skirts," which is natural enough, and "Charlie Murray in His Feathered Nest," which suggests that Mr. Murray is a bird.

The Somerset uses much the same form of card, with boxed side dates, but by using a slightly larger card gets a better display. The two would make an interesting contrast, but both are on colored stock and will not reproduce. The Somerset also uses a four-page, 6x9.

The Globe has a four-pager, 4½x7, but by using comparatively small type, gets plenty of display in the limited space. There does not seem to be much text, but the complete bill is adequately covered, and they have a page for house chat as well.

Back in October the Eureka changed from 5 to 10 cents and handles the change very neatly in this argument:

Change of Policy.

Commencing week of October 9, the Popular Eureka becomes a NEWER and GREATER Eureka, showing only the choicest and costliest feature productions and charging 10 CENTS FOR ADULTS and 5 cents for children DAILY.

This step is made necessary by the improvement in the public taste from ordinary films in one or two reels to costly features in five to nine reels, with prominent, high-salaried stars; by the tremendous increase in the cost of films—over 300 per cent. in two years; and by the natural growth of the business itself from a novelty operated to satisfy the curious to a dignified industry catering to a clientele of intelligence and discrimination.

We earnestly believe that you are wearied of seeing mediocre pictures, hurriedly produced, and interpreted by players of obscure reputation, and that your intelligence and knowledge of movie plays and players demands the best in films regardless of cost—Fox, Metro, Paramount, etc. Such features are never shown anywhere at less than 10 cents admission, the average price being 15 cents to 35 cents.

This week's program at the Eureka is the strongest ever presented by any one theater in any one week at any price. It is a standard we are setting for theater. We shall live up to it. Have we your support?

EUREKA THEATER,
C. H. GOODWIN.

This program uses too many cuts for the best results. Cuts are useful, but not when they exclude a reasonable amount of type. The back page is given over to three cuts that do not tell much of anything. House talk would have been better and would have looked better, for few programs get good results with cuts.

Here's Mr. Wall.

S. E. Wall sends in a scheme he is using with good effect. It is not a new one; indeed we suggested this some years ago and it is to be found in Picture Theatre Advertising (of course), but it is a good scheme, and Mr. Wall tells precisely how he worked it, which will help. He writes:

> I made arrangements with the Pathe company to furnish me three reels each Friday, consisting of twenty-one-day old Pathe news, a split reel scenic and educational, and a Luke or Heinie and Louie comedy; the split reel we cut into and run one subject of it ahead of the Pathe news and the other subject of it ahead of the comedy, making four distinct subjects, although I took care not to advertise four reels, but merely specify the names of the four subjects.
>
> Next I went to the superintendent of schools and told him that I had secured some educational subjects to be shown every Friday evening during the school year, explaining to him in detail what a number of the subjects were that I had booked, and some of them being of exceptional value from an educational point of view, he became enthusiastic over the proposition. Then I told him that I was willing to grant one ticket each week, to one pupil in each room, as a reward of merit, and the holder of this ticket would be admitted on Friday evening as our guest. It was necessary to get permission from the Board of Education to do this, but it was done after some little delay, and now tickets like the one enclosed are distributed each Friday afternoon, one in each of the eight grades, and one in each of the four high school classes, making twelve free tickets given away in as many rooms each week, under conditions that are sure to advertise Wall's theater, besides the free advertising I get in having our Friday subjects discussed during botany, physics and geography classes. After we had the plan going good, our competitor attempted to spoil it by offering to admit the winning pupils to his theater, which fact accounts for the way we have the article written on our post card of September 25-30, but his attempt to do this only acted as a boomerang and has done him no end of harm.

Twelve tickets do not cut into the box office much and, as Mr. Wall points out, the advertising value of having the reels studied in class is of real benefit. It benefits the pupils as well. Moreover, it gives the mothers something to talk about. The post card announcement referred to does not slam the opposition house for its action. It merely announces that the management is so anxious to have all children see the program that the price for school children will be five cents instead of ten for that evening only. It seldom pays to try and steal the other fellow's thunder, and we are glad that, in this case, the scheme reacted in Mr. Wall's favor. The ticket is reproduced in type for the benefit of others. The original is a pink card 1½x2½ inches.

This ticket issued under the authority of the Supt. of Schools, as a
REWARD OF MERIT
will admit the holder to our "Special Educational Program"
FRIDAY
Wall's Theatre.

Mr. Wall still holds to his very convenient post card program, which gives him six boxes for the program and a narrow column for chat. If you do not recall the reproduction made some time ago, send him a self-addressed stamped envelope to Wall's theatre, Plain City, Ohio, and ask for one.

Tell Them All.

When you give your program, give all of it. This is something that too many program editors overlook. They tell of the feature and add "and other good reels" or "a corking comedy" and let is go at that. Sometimes the despised little one-reeler will make business where the feature will not. Tell it all.

Stillman Ideas.

Here are some more ideas from the Stillman, Cleveland, Ohio. The first is the lower half of the front page of their program. Part of these are sent out to a select list about the Thursday before the week indicated. The overprint is to guard against possible error. Some patrons might fail to note the date directly below and suppose it to be the program for the current week. The note makes it impossible to fall into this error. It is a small thing, but the big house is careful of small things. The programs are mailed out in special envelopes that takes the sheet with a single fold. The front is printed up with "Some news about next week—and things otherwise." Below is the house monogram cut and then "It's good reading, too."

Mr. Madden, by the way, explains that the cards lately spoken of are run through the press again for the nicked edges, pointing out what we should have realized, that the rule would have cut the roller up. A special form is made up carrying only these two small bits of cutting rule set at the proper angle. The rollers are taken off and the job fed through without ink. If an occasional card gets off centre the slits are still in direct opposition because the two cuts are made at the same time.

Press work in Cleveland means a lot of passes, for Cleveland is one of those towns where the advertising department bleeds the theaters for tickets with which to keep other advertisers happy. Mr. Madden issues press cards which must be presented at the box office for a ticket for the current performance. Both ticket and stub carry the number of the press card, and the number of times any one card is used is easily noted and abuses corrected when they become chronic. The season card is on stiff board, but the daily ticket is merely a light pasteboard, since it is used immediately.

Another recent stunt was check list for the program. For one week each patron entering was handed a private mailing card asking the patron to check three questions and add suggestions if desired. The three questions were as to the patron's approval of the program, if he reads the articles and if he takes the copy home with him. There are lines for the name and address, and to each card was fastened a tiny lead pencil with which the answers could be checked. The card was handed to an attendant, dropped into a box or could be mailed. The pencil probably decided many to reply at once—and pencils are cheap in thousand lots. They come ready strung and the cord is merely looped over the card. The value of such a set of replies, if the response is good, is two-fold. It proves efficiency and it is a powerful argument with which to approach the outside advertiser for his business.

Along the same lines is another card, but this was mailed to the list, asking the patron to reply whether or not he wished to be continued on the mail list. A three-fold card was used, one section of which was a reply card, ready stamped.

In some of the newspaper advertising Mr. Madden uses a "keep posted" coupon and says he averages about eight replies for each insertion. This does not seem to be much, but it is a list made up of the names of those sufficiently interested to provide their own envelope and stamp. Such names are valuable to a house.

One secret of Stillman success is the emphasis laid upon the courtesy of the attendants. For example, when the cards already referred to were given out, they were handed out with a smile and a "Will you please fill this out before leaving," instead of being thrust at the entering patron. Even so small a thing as this helped the results.

Something New.

The Pathe Exchange is the first to waken to the fact that the straight publicity campaign in the daily press is getting a bit too common to attract attention, so they went at the country precisely as a live theatrical press agent attacks a town. Instead of working one town, they worked more than half a hundred, but the idea was much the same. The fake was "sprung" in the Washington papers in the shape of an advertisement asking for information as to a man closely described. The following day the advertisement was repeated in out-of-town papers and this was followed by two other advertisements offering large rewards for this man, who was supposed to have stolen important government plans. Replies were to be addressed the New Ebbitt, and answers came from all over the country. Then the straight newspaper advertisements were released and the fake exploded, but not before some of the smaller cities had been turned upside down. In Atlanta an innocent bystander was arrested on suspicion, and when the story broke he was fined $10.75 for loitering, which was rubbing it in. Other cities came forward with the strange man, and all of these men were declared to have the unusual double horseshoe scar that was put in to make a getaway for men of military bearing and six feet tall. It was the best press campaign yet worked, and it brought results even against the high cost. J. A. Berst and George A. Smith are credited with the planning and execution of the scheme.

Uses Post Cards.

The Gem theater, Rogers, Ark., uses regulation post cards for its advertising, getting out a card for all specials. They are neatly printed and carry a cut of the proper screen. In these days of the high cost of paper it is foolish to buy your own stock and stick stamps on when you can purchase postals for the face value of the stamps. If any cards are spoiled running the job, you can take them back to the post office and get new ones.

Some Useful Color Work.

The Kline Poster Company, Philadelphia, sends in some fine samples of color work. Three exhibits are sent, post cards, larger cards 3¾ by 7¾, and some program covers. All carry portraits of stars in color, and the program covers are printed with color frames front and back, evidently offset work. The colors are brilliant and well placed and the job does not sink into the paper, as is sometimes the case. It is clean work and effective, and with a long list of players they can fit any program. The post cards are especially useful as souvenirs, but the panels probably do not cost much more and sound very much larger. For an extra "flash" they can be mounted on home-prepared sheets of neutral tint card, for instance, a French gray printed with a frame in a deeper tint, a blue or silvered. Prices are not given, but as they write that they are selling all over the country, it is to be presumed that the prices are reasonably moderate for the high class of work. The secret of low cost lies in enormous production at one run.

For Lumberlands.

S. S. Stevenson, of the Princess, Anderson, N. C., sends in a photograph of his lobby decorated for "The Lass o' the Lumberlands." We are afraid that it will not show up very well in the cut, but you can get the idea. Mr. Stevenson writes:

> I am sending this photo only because it attracted a great deal of attention and gave us an excellent start on this serial, and again we would like to pass it on to some other exhibitor for the reason that the whole cost of the display was not even as much as one dollar. I hired a dray for twenty-five cents, went to the edge of town and cut a number of small pine trees. I fastened these to the floor and braced them with limbs of the same trees to the side walls so that the bracing did not show. The signs tacked on the trees are taken from the booklets and other advance advertising matter sent out by the exchange and pasted on stiff cardboard. A piece of black paper was pasted over any reading matter not intended for patrons, and numbers of people stopped to read these small signs. The floor was covered with pine straw which made it still more effective.

By pine straw Mr. Stevenson has reference to what is known further north as pine needles. This scheme is a good one for any woods picture and may, if desired, be carried into the house for stage decoration as well if the importance of the subject warrants it.

Passionate Words.

In speaking of "The Common Law," the Victoria, Buffalo, says it is "A play so packed with dizzy truths it will glue the observers to their seats." Sounds as though they might get stuck on that play.

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World)

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throwaways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. All practical because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave., New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewriter or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticised, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

A list of companies will be sent if the request is made to the paper direct and not to this department, and a return stamped envelope is inclosed.

Opening Up.

REALLY it looks as though the long-promised opening up of the the market had started, for the smaller stuff, at any rate. Editors are writing around asking for comedies, and there will be a demand for dramatic stories presently. Later the larger market will open for three to five reels, but the comedies are the opening wedge.

The past six months have been hard on the script writers and many have turned to other lines. There have been comparatively few companies buying to any appreciable extent, and some of them undoubtedly have been stealing, though this latter fact is not known in such a fashion that a direct charge can be made against a specified company without incurring a libel suit. The trouble has been that men have come into the business who know nothing about it. They have hired the specious, glib editors rather than the competent men. They have given small heed to the script department so long as the expense was not great.

But gradually some of these newcomers are finding out that their junk stories are not received with favor. They are commencing to look about them, and they are presently going to find out that editors who hold their jobs through pull or lying promises are the most costly drags upon an expensive business. They are presently going to kick those editors so far out of the studios that they will land too distant to get back again. To have good photoplays there must be good stories, and good sories are not written regularly by staff men. Already some jobs are threatened, though pull is a hard thing to combat, but it is better to throw out the friend of a friend of the third assistant vice-president than to lose the entire business. In time the business money will appreciate this fact and then editors will be hired to bring back into the fold the good writers who have gone astray and coax others to come in, too.

The star system has done much to disorganize business in many ways, and in no way more than through the effect on the real writers. The staff writer can grind out stuff enough to be slaughtered for a star's holiday. If Miss Jones will not do this and insists upon doing that, there is no use paying out several hundred dollars for a story for her. Let the staff men lick something into shape for the star to pull and tear apart and fix over to suit. Real authors will not write for finical stars. They have some sense of proportion, and when they see one or two of their stories slaughtered they go somewhere else. They are clever enough to tak up other lins while they wait. They do not have to write photoplay plots.

As soon as this is realized—and business men will find it out presently—there will be a housecleaning. It is something more than a year overdue now, but conditions are getting so rotten that the smash is bound to come just as an egg of a certain age generates gas beyond the strength of its shell. The trouble has not yet reached the publication stage, but it is pretty safe to say that the smash must come presenly, and when it does some of the men who strut and pose are going to be right in the middle of things and yelling for help. Our own interest is largely academic, since we never tried to sell five reel stories, because we have not the time for writing them, but we shall welcome the coming of The Day, because it will mean a better business generally.

The business of making pictures is slightly more than twenty years old. In that time manufacturers have twice relaized that they must have better stories. This was about eight years ago, when the demand for outside work first sprang up, and again a couple of years ago when there was a shortage of fives. And yet, each time, so short sighted have been the men at the head of the things, that as soon as the pressure was relieved they drifted right back into their old contempt for stories and turned to trickery again. They cannot understand, even yet, that a thousand dollars for a really first class story is a better investment that the same amount or more for a railroad wreck or a foundering shfp. They are rapidly losing the business to men who have more business sense. That will be the day of the writer. And it would seem to be closer to hand than most persons realize. The old guard dies hard and never surrenders, but the fool killer is sharpening his axe and presently he will be on the march. Stick around a while.

No Kisses.

In accordance with the notice appearing at the head of this department each week, questions will be replied to. But please note that no promise is made that you can sit in the editor's lap while he is answering the inquiries. You will receive a reply, but it will not begin with "Dear Friend" and end with "Love and Kisses." The question will be replied to briefly and without greeting of subscription. Several inquirers seem hurt that they do not get a letter instead of merely a reply. Some, indeed many, of the large concerns no longer greet their correspondents. It is still less necessary where merely a question is asked.

The Judicious Use of Fades.

Phil Lang, of the Kalem company, who has never upheld the "synopsis only" fallacy, suggests that if authors expect their scripts to be followed they must make a more intelligent employment of effects. He takes for example, the injudicious use of fades for two or more purposes, by no means uncommon in produced plays to-day, but always something incompetent and inartistic, and in discussing the matter he says:

> Writers should exercise judgment in calling for "fade-outs" if they expect their scenarios to be followed literally. Particular care should be taken when the fade is used for different purposes in one story.
>
> The quick fade has largely supplanted the double exposure for visions and explanatory narratives. John tells Mary of his former love affair. Scene fades out. Next scene fades in showing John and Nell. This scene fades out. We now go back to John and Mary and the opening of this scene fades in. Then the action proceeds.
>
> Some writers, apparently influenced by slipshod productions they see, have the idea that a fade covers a lapse of time. John writes a letter. The scene fades out. In the next scene, Mary, perhaps a thousand miles away, receives the letter. The fade is supposed to cover the lapse of time necessary for the letter to travel. This is crude. A sub-title between the scenes, indicating a lapse of time, is indispensable. Even at that, the case cited (and a common one) merely shows bad construction and lack of ingenuity. Care and thought would suggest intervening scenes, carrying forward the action, which would allow the letter time to make its trip.
>
> When a scenario is filled with fade-outs for different purposes, the editor, anxious to give the director a scenario that can be produced literally, has his work cut out for him.
>
> Artistic, intelligent directors frequently fade out a scene when there is to be lapse of time, but they do not depend on the fade. Their purpose is merely to take the mind away from the action and prepare the audience for the next episode in the story.

Properly the fade should be used, as Mr. Lang suggests, to avoid the too abrupt terminnation of a scene that ends a run of action. This is its best and most legitimate use. But it is more generally used to replace the dissolve when matter is to be visioned; an awkward use, but to some extent sanctioned by custom. The third use is to suggest the passage of time. There may be instances wherein this employment of the fade is permissible, but these are so unusual that no illustration presents itself at the moment. But if the fade is used to indicate the passage of time it should not also be used to indicate a vision in the same production, and more than one feature production has lost clarity through this usage.

It is best to avoid all of this flummery of fading and disphraming and the like, leaving it to the director to use his own judgment. It is far easier to write in a lot of fades and dissolves and masks and vignettes than it is to write in plots, and too many writers do what is easy rather than what is proper—BUT IT WON'T SELL SCRIPTS.

Feeling It.

"I cannot write plays," declared a man the other day. "I have what I think are good ideas, but I cannot put them down in such a shape that I can convey my real ideas. I want to help make plays, not to write them, and I cannot write plays if I do not feel any interest in that end." Here is one man who is frank with himself. He has good ideas, but he has no enthusiasm for script writing and he knows that without enthusiasm his work would be dull and lifeless. He is the first man we have met in a long time who had the good sense to size himself up accurately. You must write with all your heart and all your brain if you would do your best work. Nothing less will suffice.

The THIRD Edition of

Technique of the Photoplay

IS NOW READY

This is virtually a new book under the old title. More than double the text and with an arrangement especially adapting it for the student. The most complete book ever written on the subject of scenario or photoplay construction.

By Mail, Postpaid Three Dollars

Address all orders direct to nearest office

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers' Notice.

IT IS an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual cost) will receive carbon copy of the department reply by mail without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department one dollar.

Both the first and second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

Bronx Operators Notice.

At midnight, December 28th, there will be a meeting of all moving picture machine operators of the Bronx at Cortland Casino, 585-597 Cortland Avenue, the Bronx.

This meeting is held by Local 306 and admission thereto can only be gained by those holding a New York license card. All licensed operators, either union or non-union, are cordially invited to attend. Non-union operators will not incur any obligation by attending, though it is hoped we may be able to convince you of the advisability of joining with your fellows in organization in order to properly protect your interests.

Local Union 306 asks you to attend, and this Department and its editor advises you to do so. The editor will himself be there and address you. There will also be other thoroughly competent speakers.

Notice to Unions and Examining Boards.

During the past years a great many requests have come to the editor asking him to set forth a list of questions for examination. This has been an impractical thing to do, for reasons which have been repeatedly explained.

I now, however, make this offer. During my tour of the country next spring I will be glad to, wherever time permits, appear before either official or union examining boards, and examine either a genuine candidate or one of the examiners himself, in order to show what, in my opinion, an examination ought to consist of, and the way in which it should be given.

I cannot promise to do this in all cities, because in some cases where the distances to be traveled are long I might not have tht time, but where time and physical and mental strength will permit, I will be very glad to accommodate in this respect.

Question No. 169.

What, in your opinion, ought to be the attitude of local unions with regard to the admission of competent operators located in small towns away from the immediate vicinity of the local, but within its jurisdiction?

Roll of Honor on Question No. 160.

The Roll of Honor on Question 160 consists of M. M. Moon, Sherman, Texas; W. B. Allen, Edmonton, Alberta; John W. Creamer, Chillicothe, Mo.

In asking question 160, I only expected to bring out the idea of individual operators. The only way the actual average life of a rectifier tube could be known would be for large dealers or the maunfacturers to keep a record of say fifty or a hundred tubes, add the total hour life of the whole number together and divide by the number of tubes.

The answers to this question varied all the way from 500 hours to 11,000 hours. Brother Moon says he has used one tube for a little more than 11,000 hours, and another one for 8,274 hours. He says the average life of a tube in the hands of high class operators is 6,500 hours, but, take operators as they come, it won't be more than 4,000 to 5,000 hours, which estimate certainly will not be at all displeasing to rectifier manufacturers.

On the other hand, Brother Creamer thinks the life of a tube which is rarely or never overloaded will average 600 working hours, which estimate will not cause joy in the hearts of the aforesaid rectifier manufacturers.

Personally, the editor thinks both these estimates are quite extreme. I would say if a rectifier tube works ten hours a day for 300 days, it certainly ought to be considered as having given satisfactory service. This would be, at present prices of 50 ampere tubes, about 11½ cents per day, if the tube be of 50 ampere capacity, which would represent practically the entire cost of up-keep of the rectifier. I know of instances, however, where tubes have run several times this length of time; also I know of instances where they have not lasted even as long as 300 hours. Brother Moon makes the following pertinent remarks:

> The life depends on the following things: (A) That the anodes be located precisely in the center of the arm; that the vacuum be of the highest possible percentage; that the anodes and cathodes be sealed as nearly perfect as possible. All of which, I am sorry to say, is not always done; that the glass be of the highest grade and free from air bubbles, or other defects. (B) That the tube be not overloaded, and if it is run a little under capacity it will last longer. For instance: If you run a 30 ampere tube at 25 amperes it will last at least 10 per cent. longer than if run at full capacity. (C) Location plays an important part. The rectifier should be in a clean, dry place which is free from draught, although well ventilated. (D) Proper installation of the tube; proper connections and proper attention have an effect on the life of a tube, and frequent freezing of the carbons, which has the effect of largely raising the amperage, has a decided effect in shortening the life of a tube.

Brother Allen says:

> The mercury arc rectifier will not stand abuse. It should be in a dry, clean room, and the room should preferably be warm. If it is not warm there is likely to be difficulty in starting the mercury arc in the tube. It is also quite important that you test out occasionally with an ammeter and see that you are not pulling more current than the rated capacity of the tube. Freezing the carbons is very hard on the tube. Many a tube has gone bad in a few hundred hours which would have given yeoman's service had it received a "square deal."

And now I think we will let it go at that, because under the conditions beyond setting forth these facts I don't believe any of us could really given an authoritative answer to Question 160.

Film Cement. Nothing Doing.

B. H. Rock, Whitehall, N. Y., says:

> For some time past I have been experimenting on a new film cement, the idea being to make a nice, clean, soft splice, which will not leave the film hard and brittle like some other cements do. When this cement is properly used it is impossible to pull the splice apart. I absolutely guarantee any film patched with it will never break. I have been in the projection and electrical field for nine years, and think I have made a step in progress in discovering this method. I find that most of the cements put on the market are very poor. Am sending you, under separate cover, a sample of this newly manufactured cement and desire you to pass opinion on same, and let me know if you think I would be able to market it successfully. It will cost a little more than the cheap grades, but has the necessary qualities which they lack.

I would be very glad indeed to have this cement tested, and to pass judgment upon its excellence or lack of excellence, but a number of former experiences warn me it literally cannot be done. I have on several occasions had cements tested by operators in different parts of the country, whose reports were favorable, only to find that, later on, the cement did almost anything but "deliver the goods." I attribute this not to any fault in the formulas, but to the variation in different lots of chemicals. I could not attribute it to anything else, but, due to these former experiences, must decline, absolutely, to give the approval of this department to any cement which has not withstood the test of time of at least one year. What the brotner says about poor cement is absolutely true, nor do I doubt that he has a cement which would stand the present test. If he had not, he certainly would not send it to the department. The question is, however, would the formula work out the same with the next batch of chemicals? There's the rub! I am sorry, Brother Rock, but I have been stung on this particular proposition once too often. Some gentlemen in Chattanooga made up a cement a couple of years ago which was splendid. I had it thoroughly tested, gave it the approval of this department, and six months thereafter got all kinds of kicks. The same formula didn't make the same cement, and the only possible answer to that question seems to be difference in chemicals, which is a thing no manufacturer can, I believe, guard against.

An Error.

John Griffiths, Ansonia, Conn., writes:

There is an error in my reply to J. W. Remillard, page 852, November 11th issue. On the fifth line from the bottom, second column, it says: $4.2 - (1\frac{1}{8} \div 1\frac{1}{4}) = 3.36$. The answer to this should read 2.95 instead of 3.36. Also where I say the equivalent focal point, or plane of the menicus-bi-convex condenser set (the word "set" is omitted), is situated between the lens at a point ⅛ of an inch in front of the meniscus, I should have said, when the lenses are nearly touching the point of equivalent focus is within the bi-convex lens. To make this a little more clear. There are two planes from which measurements X and Y are taken. Which one should be used depends upon the type of condenser. With the plano-convex type both X and Y are measured from the optical center of the lens, viz.: the apex of the curve surface, but with the meniscus-bi-convex while X and Y are still measused from the optical center of the lens the optical centers are differently located. With the 6½ meniscus, which has an approximate depth of concave of ⅛ inch, the optical center will be ⅛ inch in front of the optical center of the curved surface, and with the bi-convex lens the optical center is midway between the apex of the two curved surfaces, if both curvatures are equal, but if one surface has a greater curvature, then the optical center will be nearer the surface having the greater curvature in proportion to the difference between the powers of the two curvatures, and the distance between the optical center of the meniscus and the optical center of the condensers are in actual contact, so that if we use a plano-convex condenser in front, in combination with a meniscus behind, it is possible to have the back equivalent plane in front of the front equivalent plane; also it makes no difference in calculation if the back equivalent plane should be actually within the front condenser, so long as we know its theoretical location.

Brother Griffiths then goes on with some other matters along the same lines, but I think his only real purpose was to point out the error he had made in the calculations, and that being done the purpose of publication is served.

Local Gets Representation.

H. C. Roddan, secretary Local No. 348, Vancouver, B. C., writes:

J. R. Foster, of Local 348, I. A. T. S. E., Vancouver, B. C., has been appointed to represent the operators on the Provincial Board of Examiners. The personnel of the board is Messers. C. L. Gordon, censor; William A. Oswald, inspector; J. R. Foster, operator. The Province is divided into four districts, and operators working in their respective districts will have to pass an examination of a certain standard. Mr. Oswald and Brother Foster are at present (October 25th) touring the Provinces, examining operators in Districts 2, 3 and 4. In District No. 1, comprising Vancouver, Victoria, Westminster, and Nanaimo, the operators will be examined later. The examination is to take place in the Court House in Vancouver. There is to be a specially constructed examining room, and the examination will be in the presence of the entire board. Brother Foster is especially anxious for you to see this examining room at the time you visit us next spring, he being of the opinion that it is second to none on this continent, though, of course, that is all the information Brother Foster is giving out at present.

Congratulations to both Brother Foster and Local 348. In the opinion of this department THERE SHOULD BE ONE THOROUGHLY COMPETENT PRACTICAL OPERATOR ON EVERY EXAMINING BOARD. In fact, I don't regard any board which does not contain one competent, practical operator as being competent to give a fair examination. There are so many points where theory and practice clash and theory must give way to practice. The board simply MUST contain one man thoroughly conversant with actual operating room practice if it is going to give a competent examination. I shall be very glad indeed to examine the room in question, which I have no doubt is an excellent one.

Foolish Statement.

Recently a film fire occurred in Easton, N. J. The fire was quite a serious one, in so far as the operating room itself be concerned, as several reels of film were consumed. The operator seems to have completely lost his head and threw a blazing reel out of the operating room door down a flight of wooden stairs leading from the entrance to the balcony. Due to the cool headedness on the part of the theater employes a serious panic was averted. The audience rushed for the doors, but having arrived there, stopped, and but few actually left the theater. But this is not the point I wish to discuss. The theater management, after the fire was all over, said it was caused by a spark from the arc lamp igniting the film, or at least that is the way the public prints had it. Now this would presumably mean that a spark from the carbons struck the film and ignited it, a thing which with modern apparatus is an absolute physical impossibility. Everyone connected with projection knows that to be the fact, but the general public don't, and a statement of that kind makes them believe that there is always a danger of something of the kind happening; also it sets up the same idea in the minds of the powers that be in officialdom, and is apt to bring about the enactment of a lot of unnecessary regulations which accomplish actually nothing at all in the way of safety, but make for additional complications in the construction of projectors, as well as additional cost.

Just how this fire really did start I don't know, but I do know that the statements as given out by the newspapers, purporting to come from the management of the theater, are not true. They are misleading, and injurious in several ways.

The Geneva Movement and Its Adjustment.

Due to the courtesy of our old friend, Nicholas Power, of the Nicholas Power Company, we are enabled to present to you a very interesting chart prepared by Mr. Power for this purpose, and a discussion of the relation of the various parts of the Geneva Movement to each other, which, I think, will not only be to a considerable extent surprising to the average operator but extremely interesting as well.

In the opposite diagram figures 1A and 1B show the relation of the parts of a new, unworn cam. Now it will be observed by studying these diagrams that the Geneva Movement contains two very separate but very fixed centers, namely, the center of the star, X, and the center of the cam, Y. I believe it requires but a moment's study on the part of even a tyro to establish the fact that any disturbance of points X and Y, with relation to each other, must of necessity disturb the entire combination and alter the fitting of the parts with relation to each other.

Looking at Figure 1A, it will be observed that the points of the star have a considerable thickness, also the cam pin fits the slot of the star exactly.

Looking at Figure 1B, we observe that the circle of the lock on the star and the circle of the lock on the Geneva fit each other as closely as is permissible, taking into account the affect of the expansion caused by heat. It will be obvious that so long as these various relations remain unaltered, they will function together perfectly, or, in other words, with mechanical accuracy.

Looking at Plate 2, Figure 2A, we observe markings which indicate the points at which wear will take place after these parts have been operated together for a considerable time. The slots in the star will be found to be materially wider than they were, particularly near point a. Also, the circle of the lock on the star and the cam will be found to have worn until there is a separation such as is indicated at the arrow points in Figure 2B.

As time goes on this wear continues, until the wear on the lock, as shown at Figure 2B, which is not likely to be the same on all sides of the star, becomes so great that the picture is no longer steady on the screen. Also this wear has a tendency to set up a considerable amount of noise, which is highly objectionable. And now we get down to the kernel of this particular nut.

The operators observing this condition proceeds to connect himself with his little screw driver and "readjust" the Geneva Movement by revolving the eccentric bushings slightly, so as to bring the parts closer together. Now what does this really mean? Why, in the very nature of things, in order to make a readjustment he is compelled to disturb the fixed centers originally established and automatically fixed by the diameter of the cam lock. What happens when he does this? Well now it is just a little more difficult to follow it, and follow it closely too.

First, referring to Figure 1A, note the direction of rotation of the cam, as indicated by the arrow, it will readily be understood that the wear must be wholly and entirely on that side of the star slot lying in the direction of rotation of the star, which, in the case of Figure 1A, would be the upper side of the slot.

Examining Figure 3A, Plate 3, you will observe that the upper side of the slot is worn down to a thin point, whereas the lower point is broken off. This lower point, however, you will observe, has its original thickness, as you can determine by measuring at a corresponding point on Figure 1A corresponding to the point of breakage. You will also observe, at Figure 3A, that the pin is badly worn on one side, this being materially weakened and the slot has been gouged out on the upper side at its inner end. This is not a theory, but an exact reproduction of actual conditions observed in thousands of worn Geneva Movements. The gouging out of the slot on one side at the bottom of the star is due to the fact that during a considerable portion of the movement of the star the pin is at the extreme bottom of the slot, where the leverage is shortest, hence the greatest force is exerted and that, too, while the star is at its greatest speed of movement. A little study will show you that at the beginning of movement the speed of rotation of the star is very slow, and that the speed of rotation increases as the pin approaches the bottom of the slot, where both the force exerted by the cam pin on the one side of the star slot and the speed of movement reaches maximum.

But, you ask, why do points b, Figure 3A, break off? The answer is simple. Remembering that in readjusting the parts you have disturbed centers X and Y, it will be readily seen that you have created two new circles, and in bringing the two parts together, remembering that the lower side of the slot in Figure 1A is absolutely unworn, you have caused the cam pin to strike the unworn point and bind upon it, perhaps with a great deal of force, with result that it is either broken off or bent over, in either of which events the function of the parts will never again be perfect.

A summing up of this lesson simply means that it is in fact utterly impossible to readjust the star and cam type of Geneva Movement and retain its former accuracy of movement.

About the only thing the operator can hope to do by adjusting the star and cam type of Geneva Movement is to lessen the noise. Of course it is a fact that the adjustment can be and is often made without breaking the cam pin or star slot, but this is only a proof of a rather surprising flexibility of the movement itself. The adjustment really, however, amounts to putting the parts out of true mechanical adjustment with each other, as has already been pointed out.

Some operators may, on the spur of the moment, dispute the proposition that the star of the Geneva type of intermittent is not susceptible of proper adjustment, but before doing so I would recommend to them a further careful study of the plates submitted herewith.

This subject will probaly be continued and followed through in the form of a complete study of the Geneva Movement.

PLATE I

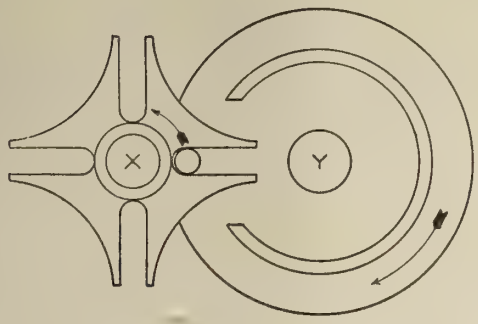

Fig. 1A

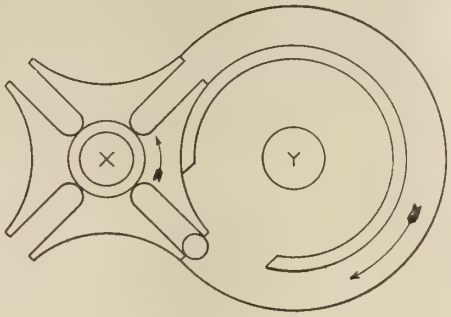

Fig. 1B

Figures 1A and 1B showing view of New Cam and Geneva when properly adjusted- not too tight.

PLATE II

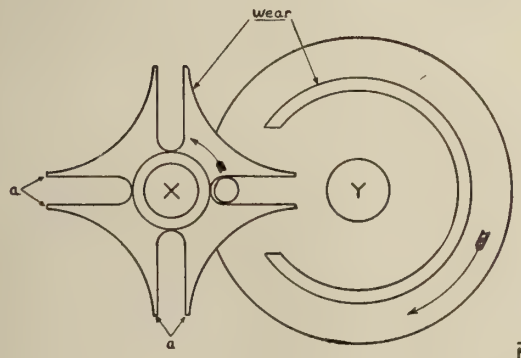

Fig. 2A

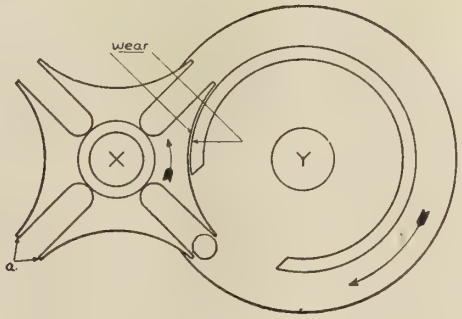

Fig. 2B

N. POWER

Fig. 2A and 2B showing wear on Cam and Geneva Lock before readjustment. Note wear at ends 'a'.

PLATE III

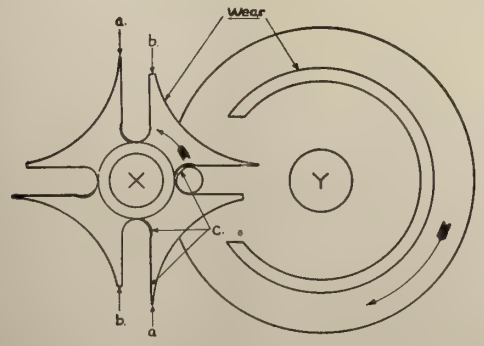

Fig. 3A

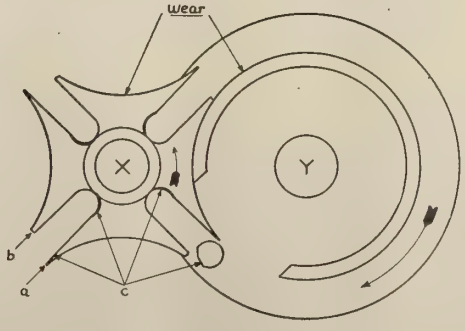

Fig. 3B

Fig. 3A and 3B show Cam and Geneva after readjustment- Result - knife edge 'a' broken corners 'b' worn slots and pin 'c'

NICHOLAS POWER CO.
NEW YORK
NOV. 23 1916 H Muhlbach

Local Union No. 306 Moves.

Local Union No. 306 had, at the date of November 16, 1916, about six hundred members in good standing. The local has in the past experienced many vicissitudes, and has hoed what is commonly called a pretty tough row of stumps. The organization of the men in New York has been made vastly difficult by the cosmopolitan character of the city, in which about every language under the canopy of heaven is spoken, and among the inhabitants of which is found almost every possible grade of humanity from the lowest to the highest.

There are in Greater New York about 2,800 licensed operators, whereas there are really only about 1,000 jobs. The explanation of the tremendous disparity between licenses issued and available positions is, I think, found in the fact that in the early days of the business a board of incompetents secured licenses, and since no re-examination has since been required, provided a man has his card renewed yearly before the date of its expiration, these incompetents hung on, because many of them were employed in the lower class theaters, where quantity took the place of quality and almost anything was acceptable provided it was cheap enough. Of late, however, due to the educational work of the department and to the work of the union, these men are gradually being pushed off the map, and many of them are not renewing their license, because they have found that even the grocery clerk who has blossomed forth into a "theater manager" realizes that a man must know at least a little something about projection besides sticking a film together (somehow) and squirting oil on a machine.

Due to these various facts the effective growth of Local 306 has been slow; also it was retarded for a matter of three or four years by reason of internecine fights brought about, for the most part, by the personal ambitions of one man.

Of late, however, things have been going better, and the morale of its membership has been gradually rising. Its meetings, while still susceptible of improvement, are no longer a riot, and while there is still much to be accomplished, it may now be fairly said that Local Union 306 has entered the road leading to success.

As evidence of its prosperity it has just moved into larger and very much better quarters on the tenth floor of 145 West Forty-fifth street. In the new home there is an office for the secretary and business agent, a nice room for the members, and commodious quarters where the Executive Board will hold its meetings. In the new offices three telephones are installed.

Much credit is due those men who have stood by Local 306 through thick and thin; who, when success seemed almost impossible, nailed the flag to the mast, and said: "Well, anyhow, we'll go down fighting." It is those men who kept the good ship afloat, plugged up the holes in the hull and slowly but surely won forward toward the goal of success. I would not attempt to name them, because there are too many, and I might do an unintentional injustice by omission.

Six months ago the editor of this department attended a meeting and on the floor of the Union issued a warning that unless active steps were taken to complete the organization of the New York operators, particularly Brooklyn, he would start quite some considerable commotion, and do it in print, too. The Union agreed that I was right in the matter; also it agreed to get busy, but the infantile paralysis scare held things in status quo until this fall. But at last the Union has perfected its plans, and intends to bend every effort toward the 100 per cent. organization of Greater New York, a thing which is to be devoutly desired from any and every point of view. If accomplished I am very sure it will in the end prove to be of great benefit, not only to the men themselves, but to the moving picture industry as a whole, through the elimination of the incompetent, whose only merit is that he is cheap—if one can call that a real merit.

Fine Work.

Recently through the courtesy of the Fox Film Corporation, I viewed that truly remarkable photoplay, "A Daughter of the Gods," featuring Annette Kellermann. This play is entirely out of the ordinary. It is a fairy story which holds the interest of the audience from start to finish, and incidentally reveals a surprising number of Miss Kellermann's charms.

The projection of this picture at the Lyric is in charge of Brothers Tom Costello and Ben Leffler, both high class men who unquestionably delivered the goods on the screen. The boys did not know I was in the house, but in the entire production I found only one thing which could be fairly made the subject of any criticism at all and that was the matter of over-speeding in a short section of the film in which swimmers were made to swim at an utterly impossible speed. I taxed Brothers Costello and Leffler with this, but was informed that it was done through the order of Mr. Fox himself, who wanted more action in that particular scene. Well, Friend Fox certainly got what he wanted all right. The only trouble is he overdid the matter, and I would respectfully suggest that, whereas a scene of that kind could doubtless be made much more interesting by speeding up, still when the point of possibility of actual performance is reached, anything beyond that makes the whole thing absurd, therefore he will do well to reduce the speed of this particular scene materially. Aside from that, as I said, there is no criticism to offer. The light was brilliant, and at no time was there the slightest apparent change in its candle power value; also the dissolving from one lamp to the next was done so perfectly that you could not tell when the machines were changed.

The projection equipment consists of two Power Six B motor driven machines, the arcs being handled by controllers. The boys are pulling 75 amperes. The room is a Johns-Manville steel-frame asbestos operating room, and the distance of projection is about 80 feet.

The screen is the invention of Charles Johnson, who has general charge of matters pertaining to projection in all the Fox houses. Mr. Johnson is expecting to place this screen on the market. I could not, of course, pass final judgment on it until it has withstood the test of time for at least six months, but the screen at the Lyric at present certainly forms a perfect foundation for high class projection. Johnson is one of the old timers, and I am inclined to believe anything he invents will be as free from error as many years of experience in the projection game can make it.

Halifax Objects.

H. J. Ward, Halifax, N. S., says:

In the department of November 25, I note a lengthy letter from Mr. Archibald Mason, St. John, N. B., in which he criticises projection in Halifax. Criticism is a thing which may be of distinct benefit by enabling the one criticised to improve, but in order to accomplish this the criticism must be based in fact, and now I am going to set forth that particular variety of article, viz: FACT. Halifax has at the present time six theaters running pictures, as follows: Orpheus, pictures only; D.C. turough A.C. to D.C. set; distance of projection more than 100 feet; picture 18 feet. Two latest models of Motiograph machines. Imperial, pictures only. Size of picture less than 14 feet; distance of projection about 72 feet A. C. through transformer. One Power's Six A and one Power's Six B projector. Acker's, pictures and vaudeville. Size of picture less than 12 feet; distance of projection more than 60 feet; A.C. through transformer; Power's Six A machine. Strand, pictures and vaudeville. Width of picture less than 15 feet; distance of projection 72 feet; A. C. through transformer; Power's Six A machines. King Edward, pictures only. Distance of projection more than 60 feet; pictures 16 feet; distance from plaster screen to front row of chairs 18 feet; ceiling about 58 feet from floor; one Power's Six A, motor driven, and one Edison Exhibition all steel machine (must be an Edison Underwriters Model, Brother Ward. The Exhibition Model has a wood frame.—Ed.); alternating current through a Fort Wayne compensarc. Empire, pictures only. Distance from lens to screen 92 feet; 18½ foot picture; 23 feet between screen and front row of seats; alternating current through Hallberg economizer. Two Power's Six A machines.

Now it will be interesting to compare the above facts with Mr. Mason's allegations of unnecessarily large pictures, comparatively short throws, antiquated machines and projection below the standard. (Hub! Here is where you get yours, Mason.—Ed.) Of course, Mr. Mason knows what the standard should be, therefore we would greatly appreciate his telling us how we may improve. The opinion of St. John exchangemen, operators, etc., and the opinion of hundreds of Halifax theater-goers differ very widely, for we operators of Halifax hear remarks of commendation by patrons on the quality of projection, and our box office receipts prove they mean it, still we are always looking for something better, and if Mr. Mason will be more explicit and inform us to which house he alludes in particular, he would be favoring us, for I wish to say that the operators of this city pull together for good projection, and are always ready and willing to lend a helping hand to the next man. It is largely due to this fact that the present Operators' and Stage Employes' Association of Nova Scotia is in existence today, with the promise of enrollment of every operator in the Province before Christmas. Our constitution does not, at the present time, include a schedule of wages, therefore you may say that the only inducement we could hold out to prospective members was the possibilities of such an organization in promoting efficiency. If the operators in New Brunswick would begin organizing in this manner, and thus learn to crawl before trying to run, perhaps they would succeed. An organization cannot be judged by the ability of one, or even the ability of a dozen of its members, but by the ability of its most backward members, and it is to advance these backward members that we have become an organized body, with the object of improving projection for the whole Province. When this is done it will not be necessary to go down on our knees and beg entrance into any International organization; we will be gladly welcomed by such.

While I am about it I would call Mr. Mason's undivided attention to that little argument we had in Halifax, on the day of the boat trip, when he said "all surplus voltage was not consumed at the electrical device, but that a portion remained to force the current back to the generator." Since that argument I have been busy re-reading books, already known by heart, and doing a tall lot of thinking, but have given up in despair, and now I ask you, Mr. Richardson, to kindly tell us if Mason's theory is correct, at the same time explaining the matter, for the real facts were not then given by Mason, who instead told us to "dope it out." I may write you in an official capacity shortly, giving details of the Association. Meanwhile accept for yourself and the department my best wishes.

I shall be glad to hear from you with regard to the Association, or upon any other topic. I don't want to see this thing develop into a dispute between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, but will be glad to print anything that will tend to help either the New Brunswick men or the Nova Scotia men. My own comment on the size of the picture would be that with less than 75 feet between the screen and the last row of chairs, my opinion is that a 12-foot picture is plenty large enough, particularly if A.C. be used, but if the illuminant be D.C. and the distance from the screen to the front row of chairs be not less than 20 feet, then there is no serious objection to increasing up to, say, 14 feet. The King Edward could, in my opinion, cut down the size of its picture at least three feet with distinct advantage, covering the area of the screen thus left blank with black velvet or paint. The Empire's picture, too, could, I think, be reduced somewhat, say a foot and a half, and, personally, I would consider it an improvement to reduce it by 3½ feet. I would consider 16 feet a maximum if the house were mine. Acker's is good. The Orpheus is not bad, though up to 100 feet, I would not recommend a greater width than 16 feet.

As to the patrons being the better judge, why that does not necessarily follow. It is quite possible that the average patron has not seen anything better, and therefore accepts an inferior quality as excellent because he does not know any better. Now, don't take that as a slam at your work, because I do not mean it that way. I have not myself seen your projection, and have only the statements of yourself and Brother Mason to guide me. What I meant was that the patron will accept almost anything if it is the best he can get.

As to the voltage question, why I don't believe that man lives who can give a really authoritative and intelligent answer to the query. it is an exceedingly puzzling thing. The presumption is that the entire voltage is consumed at the arc and in the resistance, or, in other words, in the device, whatever it may be. The question is, however, is it? And, frankly, I'm darned if I know, nor do I think anyone else on the face of this little old footstool does know. If we say it is all consumed, very naturally men who hold your theory will come baock at us with the question: "Well, how does the current get back to the generator?" To which some very eminent electrician replies: "It don't," claiming that nothing flows along the wire at all, and what we term amperage is only a "molecular bombardment."

I once asked this same question of Thomas A. Edison, who replied by saying that we must consider voltage as acting from both directions. I have rolled that particular reply around in the sawdust which occupies the cavity where brains are supposed to be for quite a long while, but, with all due respect to Brother Edison, I cannot see that it means anything in particular. If any of our electrician department fans think they can give an intelligent answer to that question, let them arise and be heard. I am afraid when Friend Mason said "dope it out" he was side-stepping just a little bit, though I have quite some considerable respect for his knowledge in the matter of electrics. A man has certainly got to know something in regard to that particular subject when he handles 2,500 volt current in a building; that is, unless he desires to make a quick trip to the Happy Hunting Grounds.

A Remarkable Machine.

Recently the editor was requested by the Bettini Syndicate, New York City, to examine the Bettini projector, camera, etc. This is indeed a most remarkable piece of mechanism, and one which, within the scope for which it is intended, delivers very high class results. The machine is by no means designed for theatrical use, nor could it be adapted to theatrical use; it is strictly a home projector, and each scene is limited to a little more than one minute. But notwithstanding this fact it seems to me the Bettini is going to have a tremendous big field, because of the fact that the photographs are on glass, and therefore if properly developed and thoroughly washed are, aside from breakages, practically indestructible. The glass plates are approximately 5x8½ inches, and each plate equals about 75 feet of standard film. Projection is accomplished by means of either a high power incandescent lamp, or a specially constructed baby arc lamp. The mechanism is extremely ingenious. The plate stands upright, the rows of pictures, each approximately ¼ inch square, being in horizontal rows. The plate itself remains absolutely stationary while each row is projected, and then automatically drops down one row. It is the lens which moves, projection being accomplished by means of prisms which move along horizontally. The first row of pictures "reads" to the right and the one next "reads" to the left.

Mr. Bettini, the inventor, aside from being a most pleasant gentleman, is a mechanical genius; also he is thoroughly versed in optics. There is one remarkable advantage secured through the use of this particular projector, and that is the fact that it is possible to take a close-up of a moving picture and enlarge it by means of an apparatus Brother Bettini has invented, into any size photograph desired, and this in itself, especially in view of the fact that the resultant reproduction is highly artistic, seems to open a wide field to the Bettini machine.

Operators' Ball.

Thursday, December 7, the editor, in response to a we-won't-take-no invitation, attended the third annual ball given by Hudson County Moving Picture Machine Operators' Union, Local No. 384, I. A., held in Grand View Hall, Jersey City. The fact that the affair was given by Local 384, the livest kind of a live wire organization, is equivalent to saying that it was a success. Grand View Hall is quite some considerable place, so far as size goes. To fill it to capacity requires a real genuine crowd of people, and a big one at that, but huge as was the gathering place, it was comfortably filled by members and friends who thoroughly enjoyed the evening. I don't pretend to have anything even faintly resembling a complete list of the important personages who graced the affair with their presence, but among them I noticed Dr. Hespe, president Hudson County Exhibitors' League; Joseph Hornstein, of the Picture Theatre Equipment Company; William C. Smith, assistant general manager of the Nicholas Power Company; D. Narcey, of the Precision Machine Company; Messrs. Joseph A. Lavin, Al. Bruckner and R. L. Abbott, of the Optigraph Company, Chicago; H. M. Davis, manager of the Unicorn, and Sister Rose Tapley, who has been made an honorary member of Local Union No. 244, Newark, N. J., who had journeyed from Philadelphia especially to be present. Of course old friend Ira G. Sherman, past president of the Hudson County Local, was there with his hair in four distinct braids. In fact, Brother Sherman met me at the tube station and acted as pilot through the wilds of Jersey City, it being quite some considerable job to negotiate the streets of that classic city after the shades of night have descended. Jersey City is a perfectly lovely place, this fact being admitted even by the natives, but to find any given locality therein, especially after dark, one needs two guides, a map and a geography. Fred Stoffregen, secretary Local Union No. 306, also was "among those present"—darn him. I add that remark because we had hardly fairly arrived when Fred began trying to shoo us into a taxi to attend a meeting called by Local Union 306.

Walter A. Bemis, president Local 384, was busier than a bumble bee in clover time, while Floor Manager William Ebenau moved so fast that he left a trail of pale blue smoke behind. Harvey Sapp, vice-president Local 384, was also extremely busy making the guests of the local comfortable, and in fact all the executive officers of the union did their duty nobly.

The grand march was led by F. H. Richardson (that's us) and Sister Rose Tapley.

Among the ladies we noted Mrs. W. A. Bemis, wife of President Bemis, Mrs. Ed. W. Bordmann, wife of Financial Secretary-Treasurer Bordmann, and Mrs. Ira Sherman, wife of Past-President Sherman. The hall was filled with charming ladies; that is to say, all that portion not occupied by their escorts was, but the editor is bashful and therefore did not secure many names—also he was kept busy shaking hands, and dodging liquid refreshment, insisted on by well meaning friends.

Taken altogether, the ball was a decided success, which fact was, of course, in large measure due to the able committee which handled it as follows: Arrangement committee: Edward Bordmann, chairman; Conrad Daubener, Jr., secretary and treasurer; Jack Hertner, Harvey Sapp, Louis Ulffers, Ed. Dougherty, William Meyer, William Ebenau. Reception Committee: Anthony Boscarilli and Walter Kolbenhayer. Floor Manager: William Ebenau; Assistant Floor Manager, Louis Ulffers. Executive Board: Walter A. Bemis, Harvey Sapp, Ed. W. Bordmann, Conrad Daubener, Jr., Frank Kirshgessner. Query: Who blew the fuse, and why?

For the First Time.

Ypsilanti, Mich., says:

> Just to stick my nose in, I am now writing for the first time. I am a reader of the department, and when I cannot find the Moving Picture World around the theater at the time it is due to come I am cranky all that day. I run ——— twice a week, and it seems to me our show must be taken out of an oil barrel. The proprietor has made kick after kick, but it seems to get worse instead of better. What is the cause of it? The reels are not smeared with oil all the way through, but the first half of each one is so thick with it that you can lay a stiff piece of paper with its edge on the film and the oil will run off the paper after you have rewound about one hundred feet, meaning by this that the paper is full of oil. Our theater is an 800 seat house, and one of the best in Michigan for a town of this size; population about 8,000. And I think I have about one of the best managers in the state, as she,—well, she is a lady, which expresses a lot in a few words. Her name is Mrs. Florence Signor She is owner of the theater, and I do not have to ask for supplies twice. My principal reason for writing, however, is to find out what is the matter with the ——— of Detroit, which sends out film in this condition.

Why, Ypsilanti, the oil is due to the crass stupidity of some operator who is not satisfied with putting a drop of oil on each machine bearing, but squirts oil all over it, or oils his intermittent movement (this particularly applies to the Powers) while the machine is running. When this is done the intermittent will suck the oil well jam full, and then the oil seeps out along the cam shaft, if the bearing is the least bit worn, and will either fly off on the film or drop down where the film will get in it if the lower loop is a trifle too long. It is the duty of the exchange to put a stop to this. An exchange has no right to send out film in that condition. I have no doubt but that if the exchange took the matter up it could locate the guilty operator and put a stop to it. I am writing the exchange in question today. If the condition of the film does not improve let me know and I will take the matter up with the powers that be, higher up.

When You're in Trouble
RICHARDSON'S
MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOK
FOR MANAGERS AND OPERATORS
Is the Doctor That Can Unfailingly Prescribe for Your Ailments.
There isn't an operator's booth in the universe in which this carefully compiled book will not save ten times its purchase price each month.
BUY IT TODAY! $4.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID
Your bookseller can supply you or the nearest Moving Picture World office will promptly fill your orders.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Schiller Bldg. Chicago, Ill. 17 Madison Ave., New York City. Haas Bldg. Los Angeles, Cal.

Motion Picture Photography*

Conducted by CARL LOUIS GREGORY, F. R. P. S.

Inquiries.

QUESTIONS in cinematography addressed to this department will receive carbon copy of the department's reply by mail when four cents in stamps are inclosed. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in this department, $1.

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Foreword.

AFTER an absence of nearly two months the "conductor" of this department resumes again the easy (?) chair of its editorship. The object of this weekly page is to assist and stimulate in every possible way the photographic technique of the motion picture. It is not the object of this department to teach raw recruits to become cameramen. While this department stands ready to be of service to anyone who feels, after mature deliberation, that his abilities are naturally such as would permit him, with perseverance and studious work, to become an ornament to the profession, yet its chief aim is to instill a genuine desire in every worker from the head cameraman down to the humblest hypo boy to turn out the highest quality of pictures that they can possibly make.

Not one of us can hope, even if we could be so ideally placed as to be able to devote a lifetime of study to the subject, to be able to say that we have mastered every detail of the profession. There is not one of us, however, who cannot improve his knowledge, himself and his work by a little regular attention and study. If you are one of the unfortunate few who feel that they already know all they need to know on the subject, you will not be reading these lines. Let us inoculate ourselves with the get-to-gether spirit. Every man in the business is our brother and every little bit that one man does for the others will come back to him a hundred fold.

The day of the "secrets" of the business has passed, the day when the few camera operators who had arrived guarded jealously every bit of knowledge they possessed, lest their jobs be wrested from them by another at a lesser salary. Today the jobs with the worthwhile salaries do not go to the men whose dog-in-the-manger souls hide a few measly "secrets"; they belong to the men who know and apply their knowledge, and see to it that their knowledge keeps abreast of the times. They are not averse to helping a fellow cameraman, for they know that any moment that same fellow cameraman may be able to return the favor with interest.

One of the most helpful signs for the advancement of cinematography is the promotion of camera clubs with healthy organization and loyal membership wherever enough men can be mustered to form a gathering. Jacksonville started a lusty club with only seven members, and is growing rapidly! And the object of every one of these clubs is the advancement of the art of cinematography.

A large number of letters received by this department indicate the interest that is taken in learning more about the business. Too large a proportion of them, however, are from inquirers who are evidently unfitted to become cameramen, and yet who, tempted by the stories of large salaries, wish to become camera operators at once by some easy method of "Cinematography at a Glance." Most of the remainder are questions about some detail or other, mostly from isolated workers who are not able to benefit by contact with companion workers, and who are so situated that they do not have an opportunity to visit other factories and thereby get practical demonstration of the things which they wish to know. Only a very few of the communications are from advanced workers who are able to make interesting contributions to the department. It is this last and smallest class whose letters are most welcome, for they nearly always contain things which are of general interest and which can only reach others by being published. If you know of anything of interest to your fellow workers, by all means send a description of it, with photographs if possible, so that others may benefit. A great number of the questions which are asked by readers are about something which has been published a short time previously, and which they have failed to preserve, or which they are too lazy to look up in their files. It has been gratifying to find the number of readers who have clipped the department each week and preserved it in the form of a scrapbook. The accumulation of the pages over a year or two contains articles and formulas touching upon nearly every phase of the business, and when some toning or developing formula is wanted, or some information about exposure or relative diaphragm openings, it may be found in a few moments by turning over the pages of such a scrapbook.

*Copyright, 1916, by the Chalmers Publishing Co.

It would help very much in the conduct of the department if some of the readers would make suggestions in regard to subjects of general interest which they would like to see discussed.

Lens Definition.

Among the last articles which appeared in this department was an article by P. D. Hugon, which excited considerable interest. A. C. Abadie's letter in regard to this article was published from among several interesting replies, together with some comment on his criticism. Some of the points raised by Mr. Abadie are now cleared by the return from England of Mr. Hugon, who writes as follows:

I have returned from Europe just in time to enjoy Mr. Abadie's criticism of my article on "Soft Focus Lenses."

If you do not object to publishing the name of the lens referred to, it is the Voigtlander Heliar.

The French firm that supplies a 1½-inch lens with their outfit is the De Brie Company, the lens being a Goerz. Mr. Abadie can see one at the Edison studio in New York, used by Charles Gilson. The lens is invaluable on wide-angle close-ups under certain circumstances.

"Depth of field" and "depth of focus" are so nearly synonymous as to be interchangeable terms. I prefer to use "depth of field" when referring to the actual scene, and "depth of focus" when referring to the result obtained. Thus, I would say, "To photograph a scene with great depth of field, a lens of such focal length and aperture as will give great depth of focus should be used." In other words, "depth of field" means the fact of there being several planes to be photographed, while "depth of focus" would be defined as the power of a lens, at a certain stop, to give sufficiently sharp focus on various planes.

As to the reason why the iris diaphragm gives greater sharpness in inverse ratio to the light it lets through, I have found so few practical photographers who have troubled to work out the problem that I thought a simpler statement of the causes than the one generally given was necessary. It is so easy to take stock statements from books, and repeat them, that even the authors of textbooks, in all branches of learning, keep copying one another.

A friend of mine, who is a professor of Latin, told me a few days ago of a rule given in every Latin grammar he has ever seen, which is absolutely false, as anyone can verify for himself by going over ten pages of Latin text and taking careful count. The grammarians simply copied previous grammarians.

Now I am told that the iris diaphragm "reduces the diameter of the pencils of light." Precisely the same thing as my statement that the iris cuts off the oblique rays.

Rays of light are not pieces of macaroni, to be squeezed by the physical pressure of the mouth, or diaphragm. They are mathematical lines, going in all directions. If the iris is open, they get in; if it is closed, they keep out—all except those that are straight enough to get in through what remains of the opening. That they are affected by the laws of refraction as they reach the lens is a totally different question, which in no way affects the immediate problem before us.

The rays of light that are cut off are those that would fall in focus either before, or behind, the plane where the plate or film is inserted. Those rays, on their way to a focus which they are prevented from finding, or in prolongation of a focus where no obstacle was offered, strike the plate all round the point where the direct rays are in focus, thus forming the "circles of confusion" observed at full aperture.

Suppose, now, we shut down the iris. The more oblique rays are cut off and the outer ring of the circles disappears, making the circles smaller. We shut down still more, cutting off more rays, and the circles become smaller and smaller. When we have shut down to such an extent that only the direct rays reach the plate from all planes, the circles have disappeared, and we have in their place sharp points, corresponding with the points in the object photographed.

The easiest way to study these effects, I have found, is with 12x10 camera, pointing the lens toward foliage with tiny spots of light in between, and moving the ground glass back and forth. The formation of foci can thus be seen plainly.

The between-lens iris, while more advantageous, somewhat complicates the calculations, as the rays of light have already been deflected before they reach the iris; but this in no way modifies the principle. In this case, the pencils of light considered are those presented to the iris after being collected and refracted by the front lens.

(To be continued)

Music for the Picture

Conducted by CLARENCE E. SINN and NORMAN STUCKEY.

Announcement.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD has engaged Norman Stuckey, a musician of wide experience, to edit, in conjunction with Clarence E. Sinn, the "Music for the Picture" department of this magazine.

Mr. Stuckey has had ten years' experience playing for moving pictures, as pianist, organist and orchestra director. He has also been connected with some of the largest theaters and hotels in this country. With his knowledge of music and practical experience in arranging music for the film, his articles should prove of exceptional interest to readers of the Moving Picture World.

Any questions concerning music for the film, suitable instrumentation for motion picture theaters, questions relating to the pipe organ; in fact, any questions, criticisms or suggestions dealing with musical interpretation for moving pictures will be answered by Mr. Stuckey through this department. Inquiries should be addressed to Musical Editor, Moving Picture World, 17 Madison avenue, New York City.

The Importance of Tone Color in Relation to Musical Interpretation.

By Norman Stuckey.

The significance of tone color and its relation to interpreting the varied emotions on the screen is an important subject that should command the attention of every musician who is interested in securing the best musical results, whether from piano, organ or orchestra.

Character, emotional appeal and atmosphere are the chief things that we should consider when selecting a number to portray action. The two important materials of music must either be (1) fast or slow, (2) loud or soft. These are the main factors of emotional appeal.

In cataloging a music library to be used for depicting the screen action, every musician should have his music classified under the following titles: Characteristic, Descriptive, Andantes, Moderatos, Marches, Waltzes, Rags, Fox-trots, One-steps, Oriental, etc.

There is a new method of cataloging your music library which will prove more practical than the method used by many musicians and, as these are days of progress, it is hoped that the following suggestions will prove of value to the musician who endeavors to interpret pictures correctly.

There are often times when a mere suggestion as to a plaintive or an agitato number will not exactly portray the emotion on the screen. There are scenes of impending danger; scenes of despair, of longing, of rage, of humor, of mystery, of gloom and of terror. There are scenes requiring humorous or grotesque music. Often sacred and national music will be required.

A piece of music catalogued under the head of plaintive does not always fit the picture as a plaintive scene may be one of despair or longing. It is therefore suggested that another classification be prepared, one that adequately covers the demands of tone coloring, and a system that will lighten the labor of the musician who plays for moving pictures.

The various emotions can be summed up under the following titles: Agitation, Agony, Despair, Energy, Exultation, Mystery, Pathos, Response, Rage, Romance, Storm, Terror, Yearning, Pleading, etc.

The experienced musician knows that music of a minor nature portrays more accurately scenes of agitation, agony, despair, gloom, rage, storm, terror, than major music. These are scenes of longing, love, joy and romance that are better portrayed by major music.

The leader who takes the time to reclassify his catalog under the above emotions will be able to depict more accurately emotional scenes than if his library is classified in the usual manner.

Beethoven's music, more particularly than any other composer, is replete with emotional appeal. Movements from his symphonies can be described as follows: Six impassioned, two tragic, four sublime, five joyous, four peaceful, three sweet and charming, six cheerful and serene, eight wild and boisterous. A careful analysis of the nine symphonies will disclose the emotional movements above described.

Many of the standard overtures contain many tone pictures that fit the screen action well, but the difficulty with many overtures and selections, too, is the fact that certain movements are too short. They will bear repeating sometimes, but to repeat a movement more than once, unless used as a theme in different parts of the program, is not considered good judgment by experienced musicians playing for the film.

Suites are very practical for pictures, each number usually being long enough to carry out the action as desired. Many musicians who use suites lament the fact that there are not more published. The number of published suites is very limited at the present time. Often an entire suite can be played through and it will be found to fit the action perfectly, though many leaders find it more practical to play but one movement for a feature, reserving the others for future use.

Wagner was a past master in the use of music to depict human emotions. A close study of his operas will give the musician an insight into music and their importance in relation to portraying the language of emotion.

In the prelude to Act III. of "Tristan and Isolde," the slow, sustained music, low in pitch, wonderfully portrays an atmosphere of sickness and gloom.

The grand march from Tannhauser is an excellent example of tone color. Opening with the martial peal of trumpets, this number is characterized throughout by pomp and grandeur.

(To be continued.)

Better Results in Piano-Playing.

Many pianists form the habit of playing nothing but classical music. This is a mistake, as every program should be varied with a little popular music. There are many light intermezzos that are popular with an audience and now and then a popular song worked into a certain scene is effective.

It is best, though, to confine the playing of popular music strictly to comedy pictures, saving the better music for the dramas.

For scenic pictures a concert waltz played in a brilliant manner is pleasing. For comedy-cartoons a grotesque dance or lively rag is appropriate.

For weeklies requiring many changes of scene, a selection of marches, waltzes, dances and descriptive music is necessary.

Some pianists can memorize pieces easily and this is a great advantage when playing for pictures, but it is not absolutely necessary to memorize everything you play. Rather than play a number incorrectly, it would be better tact to play from the music. Unless absolutely sure of the fingering and phrasing, the pianist should never fail to play from music.

There are many pictures requiring improvisation. It is then an excellent plan for the pianist to know several numbers that he can play at once without referring to any music. For example, martial airs, church music and a number of waltzes, dances and marches are music that the pianist should memorize and have ready to play, should the occasion demand them.

Brevities.

William Furst, the well-known composer, prepared the musical setting for "Joan, the Woman," featuring Geraldine Farrar, which opened at the Forty-fourth Street theater on Christmas.

* * *

Musicians throughout the country will be glad to know that Carl Fischer is publishing another set of moving picture music containing forty-six numbers. The set includes: Characteristic numbers, Marches, Western music, Spanish, Indian, Chinese and Oriental numbers, as well as a liberal number of Agitatos, Hurries, Allegros, etc., for which there is always a constant demand.

* * *

William Fox is sending a number of companies of "A Daughter of the Gods" on tour. Theater musicians should not miss the opportunity of witnessing this artistic film masterpiece and every musician who is interested in appropriate music for the film should pay particular attention to the beautiful musical score which Robert Hood Bowers composed for this production.

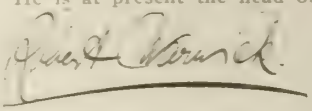
Scene from "On the Brink of War" (Kalem).

Popular Picture Personalities

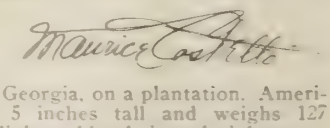
WHO'S WHO IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

COMPILED BY THE STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT.

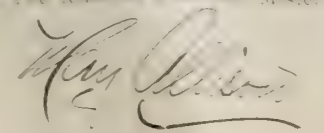
WARWICK, Robert. Born in Sacramento, Calif. German-American parentage. Is 6 feet, 1¼ inches tall and weighs 185 pounds. Brown hair and eyes and olive complexion. Making his stage debut in 1901, Mr. Warwick has been leading man for such players as Grace George, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Mary Mannering and Frances Starr and was a member of the all-star cast to present the Celebrated Case a few years ago. He came over to pictures in 1914 and made his debut in The Dollar Mark, produced by the World Film Corp. Some of his successes have been Alias Jimmie Valentine, The Man of the Hour, Nathan Hale, The Face in the Moonlight, and The Argyle Case, all notable stage plays which he has made his own in pictures. He is at present the head of the Robert Warwick Film Corp. He is catholic in his taste for sports, for he is a good boxer, is fond of tennis and squash.



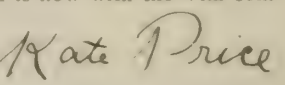
COSTELLO, Maurice. Born in Pittsburgh. Irish-Spanish ancestry. Is 5 feet, ten inches tall and weighs 160 pounds. Dark complexion, brown hair, grey blue eyes. Made his stage debut about twenty-four years ago and in 1909 went to Vitagraph, being a member of the first motion picture stock company ever formed, playing opposite Miss Florence Turner. Appeared in most of the early Vitagraph successes and has had so many and such varied roles that it is difficult to select any titles for particular mention, though his sound work in The Tale of Two Cities is probably best remembered by the picture enthusiasts. His present studio connection is with the Consolidated-Metro company, heading the cast of The Crimson Stain. Is fond of motoring, boating, swimming and all outdoor sports. Having the advantage of an early start, he has probably played the record number of leading roles.



ALLISON, May. Born in Georgia, on a plantation. American parentage. Five feet, 5 inches tall and weighs 127 pounds. Light complexion, light golden hair and violet eyes. On the stage she has played "Beauty" in Everywoman, the name-part in The Quaker Girl, was ingenue lead with De Wolf Hopper and was featured in Apartment 12-K. Made her picture debut in 1912 in support of William H. Crane in Famous Players' production of David Harum, and has also been connected with Lasky and American. She is at present leading woman for the Yorke-Metro, jointly starring with Harold Lockwood. Some of her best remembered parts are the leading roles in The House of Scandals, The Secretary of Frivolous Affairs, The End of the Road, The River [illegible] Master 44 and Pidgin Island. She is fond of music and possesses an unusual singing voice of concert quality.

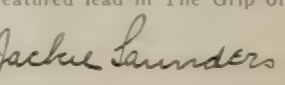


PRICE, Kate. Born in Cork, Ireland. Irish descent. Height 5 feet, 11 inches and weighs 220 pounds. Dark complexion, brown hair and blue eyes. Made her stage debut 23 years ago in vaudeville, and her picture debut in 1908 in Vitagraph's Jack Fat and Jim Slim at Coney Island. Remained with the Vitagraph for many years and became a pronounced favorite. Some of her best parts were in The Old Fire Horse, The New Fire Chief, Nothing to Wear, and the Vitagraph's "Kate" series as Officer Kate, Fisherman Kate, Conductor Kate, etc. Prefers character parts of robust type and has shown a strongly marked personality and a real sense of humor. Following her long connection with Vitagraph, she joined the Keystone forces and is now with the Vim company at Jacksonville, playing opposite Babe Hardy. She sums up her fads as her work, reading human nature, motoring.



BURNS, Robert Paul. Born in Philadelphia. Irish parentage. Is 5 feet, 10 inches in height and weighs 150 pounds. Dark brown hair and deep blue eyes. Made his stage debut in 1899, and has been seen to advantage in Babes in Toyland and The Wizard of Oz. Also did much musical and vaudeville work. Made his picture debut in May, 1908, playing in The Fighting Parson (Selig), directed by Otis Turner, but soon turned his attention to the comedy end, in which his early training gave him better opportunity. Was for a long time a member of the Lubin company and from there went to the Reliance company. Later he joined the Wizard and then went over to the Vim, and is now located at the Amber-Star studios in Jacksonville. With Walter Stull he created the Pokes and Jabs idea, and plays the part of Pokes in the innumerable comedies of that name which have been shown under three different brands.

SAUNDERS, Jacqueline ("Jackie"). Born in Philadelphia. American descent. Is five feet, 3 inches in height and weighs 128 pounds. Golden hair, blue eyes. Has had considerable experience in vaudeville with dancing and musical acts, has played in stock companies and was with the Orpheum Players and the Forrest stock in Philadelphia, which has graduated many favorite film players. In 1913 she turned her attention to the pictures and went first to the Universal, but changed to her present connection with the Balboa and is now at that company's studios in Long Beach, Calif. Among her favorite plays are The Twin Triangle, The Shrine of Happiness, Adventures of a Madcap, and she knows the strenuosity of serial work for she was the featured lead in The Grip of Evil. She is fond of outdoor sports, but she is also a reader of good literature and is interested in art and needle work.



Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MACDONALD

Interesting Educationals

Three Travel Subjects, Two Industrials and Lessons in Cooking, Physical Culture and the Purchase of Fowl.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"By the Blue Mediterranean."

THIS beautiful scenic, found in "Mutual Tours Around the World, No. 7," contains delightful views on the Gulf of Tropez with its pine rimmed shores. Views of the seaport town of St. Tropez, showing the ancient citadel and other instructive scenes, are also interesting. The close of this subject is especially charming, and presents several impressive views of the Mediterranean, as it appears when storm tossed.

"Life in Morocco."

The most western point of the Mohammedan world has been filmed in these scenes, which illustrate the daily life of Morocco, in Northern Africa. Here we see its people, camels, nomads and carpenters. The city streets, covered to shade them from the burning sun, are lined with people of various types, among them the snake charmer, the juggler and the dancer. The picture closes with the firing of the Twelve O'Clock Gun. This subject will be found in "Mutual Tours Around the World, No. 7."

"The Castle of Chantilly."

Another delightful subject appearing in No. 7 of "Mutual Tours Around the World." This beautiful old castle presented to the French Institute is surrounded by wonderful parks, views of which are given in this film. The picture is further remarkable for the interiors which are shown, in addtion to a display of old Rennaissance architecture which is presented in the Chatelet. The interiors include the museum in the Grand Chateau, the small study and the large study, the picture gallery, the grand salon and the library.

"French Sweetmeats."

"Reel Life, No. 33" contains this interesting subject as an opening number. The first of the sweetmeats, the preparation of which is explained, is candied fruit, showing how the fruit is dipped in two solutions of sugar, the second stronger than the first, after which it is iced, dried on racks and then packed in attractive baskets. Candied violets come next, showing astonishing heaps of the plucked blossoms which are sorted, dipped also in liquid sugar and then rolled in powdered sugar. After this they are scattered on trays for coloring, then separated and packed. The making of chocolate bonbons is also of interest. The finale shows the preparing of baskets of the various kinds of sweetmeats in the attractive arrangement in which they greet our eyes.

"The Fleecy Staple."

An excellent industrial subject, also appearing in "Reel Life, No. 33." This takes us to the Southern cotton plantation, shows us the picking of the cotton, the hauling of the cotton seeds to the gin, the conveying of the cotton to the gin by means of suction, the extraction of the seeds and the pressing of the cotton into 500 pound bales, previous to conveying it to the shipping depot, where the bales are then further compressed into about three quarters of their original size, before being placed aboard ship. The interior of a cotton factory is also glimpsed in the course of this subject, showing the carding, rolling and spinning of the cotton into thread, which is then fed to the looms where the cotton cloth is made.

"Waffles."

The screen cook book section of the Universal Screen Magazine No. 5 contains a detailed explanation of how to make waffles. Close-up views of the cook preparing the batter from which the waffles are made, along with views of the actual cooking of them, comprise a comprehensive cooking lesson. This, as well as other cooking lessons, appearing weekly in the Universal Screen Magazine, are presented by courtesy of the National Housewives' League.

"Physical Culture."

A section of the Universal Screen Magazine No. 5 is given over to a detailed description of useful physical culture exercises. These exercises, as presented, are designd for the benefit of the business woman, and show how to reduce hips, keep ankles supple, give lungs proper exercise, etc.

"Dishonest Feeding of Chickens."

This subject made with the sanction of the Board of Health of New York City, contains a valuable lesson for the housewife on how to purchase fowl, and will be found in No. 5 of the Universal Screen Magazine. It draws attention to the dishonest practice of mixing the food given to the market fowl with sand and gravel, and offering for sale fowls whose crops packed with this heavy mixture weigh a half pound, while the normal crop should weigh not more than two ounces. A well-made picture showing the health inspectors at work inspecting the fowl.

"Oliver Twist"

A Picture of Dickens' Story, Throwing Light on the Times and Characters Depicted by the Great Novelist

Reviewed by the Rev. W. H. Jackson.

THIS is a good picture, we are glad it has been filmed and we commend it; for all general purposes it will rank well, but for educational purposes there is much we could desire. We are of course well aware that it is not intended for an educational picture, but if it had followed the course of similar pictures from the books of standard authors, it might have served the double purpose of meeting both general and educational requirements. To those of the younger generation who are not yet familiar with Dickens, we advise them to begin such a desirable familiarity by seeing this picture which throws some light on the "Times and Characters" he so sought to depict. To those familiar with the book from which this subject is taken, there is an immediate sense of hunger for more of it in the film; it is easily two reels too short, making it fragmentary, and lacking in justice both to the author and his characters, besides failing to satisfy the educated appetite of the lovers of Dickens.

May we indulge in the hope that before it is too late it might be recast, and filled in with so much that has been omitted even in justice to young Oliver himself who suffers from brevity; by this means a good picture will be perfected, the list of standard authors on the screen be increased, and the cause and value of the educational picture advanced: in general review we agree with the views expressed in a recent issue of this paper.

Films Demonstrate Use of Ambrine

Edwin Bower Hesser in Possession of Films of Extraordinary Surgical Value.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

WHILE the great European war has been working havoc and bloodshed among the nations of the Eastern hemisphere, science has also been working overtime, and beyond the invention of all sorts of ingenious mankilling devices, she has invented various ways and means of saving life and alleviating pain. One of the most important of these scientific discoveries is to be found in the use of ambrine, a chemical preparation which makes possible and accelerates the growth of new skin in cases where ordinary medical or surgical treatment would have utterly failed.

Among the collection of moving picture films from the French front line, sent to America by Donald C. Thompson, are what we have judged to be between one and two thousand feet of film taken in a Red Cross hospital, in which Dr. Santfort, discoverer of the ambrine method, is carrying on in person his mission of mercy.

One of the first awful sights which is forced upon the eye in these films is a leg wound in which the flesh is laid open from the hip almost to the knee, with the hip bone visible. This wound was dressed before the camera with little or no pain to the victim, the ambrine having been applied probably several times previously.

Another shows the horribly disfigured face of a young officer who had been burned with liquid fire, swollen, scarred and hideous. Here we are shown what we would suppose to be the second or third application of the ambrine. This is followed by a picture of this man taken two weeks later in which his face is almost normal, forming a remarkable illustration of results. Still another illustration is found in a head wound; another is the arm of a woman which had been mangled by a shell exploded in an unfortified town. The last, but none the less horrible, example shows us a couple of soldiers whose feet have been reduced to mere stumps by gangrene contracted in the trenches. The spectacle presented by these feet, which were also being treated with ambrine, is too horrible to bear description.

These films now in the possession of Edwin Bower Hesser are not intended for ordinary exhibition purposes, for which they are unsuited on account of the horrible sights displayed therein, but for uses such as schools of medicine and surgery might apply them to.

Another Point of View

The Educational Value of Experienced Criticisms in Questionable Pictures.

IS EXPERIENCE the best teacher? If so to what extent may the experienced in crime be the best judges of that which leads to crime, or of that which will act as a deterrent to crime? The old question of the morality of pictures, or the criminally suggestive picture which causes so much confusion to censors is now to be submitted to a new and experienced tribunal.

The National Board of Review of Moving Pictures has under consideration the idea of inviting a number of graduates from the Elmira Reformatory to join with them in their reviews so that they may give the regular reviewers a new view-point regarding the effect of the appearance of crime or near-crime on the screen. That the opinions of these people will possess some value is without doubt, their experiences added to those opinions faithfully expressed by contrite minds will have a new and helpful educational value in picture making as also shedding some light on the vexed question of censorship and Sunday opening; we look for great assistance from this source if it can be faithfully given.

From the State Prison at Sing-Sing we have recently been furnished with some guidance along this line in the reports given by a prisoner as to the way in which a picture of the nature referred to was received by the prisoners generally. The picture shown was entitled "Blind Justice" before the Mutual Welfare League in the prison under the auspices of the National Board of Review. In report the prisoner writes:—"The pictures have done the fellows a lot of good. They are affected by the criminal acts on the screen just as order-loving people on the outside are affected. When they see a man committing crime in a motion picture they realize how despicable the deed is. They see it with the eyes of a good citizen. When they see an assault they react in accordance with the social viewpoint on brutality. The things appear to them in their proper light, and many a man has understood for the first time through seeing crime in a picture the import of that particular error that put him in prison; I wish this might be made clear to those people who would prohibit the showing of crime on the screen. Censorship as some would have it keeps may men from getting the right 'slant' on criminal acts, for the picturing of sin shows the conflict between good and evil to the disadvantage of the evil. The Motion-Pictures in Sing-Sing have made us resent the evils in life in ourselves as well as in others."

All this information is very valuable and will serve a very helpful purpose, we must however express the hope that in the course of this very commendable enquiry the Board of Review will endeavor to obtain information as to how far the showing of any shade of crime picture has been a source of temptation, or with the temptation determined upon how far the picture has been suggestive in methods. We are thoroughly convinced of the helpfulness of the above experiences but we also seek some forethought advice as well as some afterthought experience; in a word we need help at both ends of the crime. This will be truly educational for education is the enemy of censorship and the instructor on that most difficult subject how to deal with crime in the pictures where it must have a place in dealing with life problems.

W. H. J.

Bible Film Co.

New Motion Pictures Concern Organized at Las Vegas, N. M., to Produce Bible Stories.

AGAIN Las Vegas, the little New Mexico city noted for its pep and progressiveness, bobs into the limelight. Sometime ago Las Vegas appeared in the World's advertising columns looking for motion picture companies to locate in their city. They succeeded, figuring about 1,000 per cent returns on their investment. But now comes the news of the launching at Las Vegas of a million dollar corporation known as the Bible Film Company. Less than a year ago the World ran a story regarding the National Bible Play Society which was also to hold forth at Las Vegas. Well, the "hold" slipped and the National Bible Play Society has been taken over in its entirety by the above mentioned company. Also the Bible Film Company has purchased outright the magnificent Montezuma Hot Springs of nearly 1,000 acres, including many buildings and the 300 room Montezuma hotel, and will use this princely estate, so long operated by the Santa Fe railroad as a resort, as their studio site.

The Bible Film Company will produce motion pictures of stories taken from the Bible, the latter to be censored by an inter-denominational Board composed of the most eminent clergymen and laymen of the country. This will insure the entrance of the Bible Film Company's output into churches, Y. M. C. A.'s, etc. Also the new company will stage a stupendous religious spectacle fashioned somewhat after the Passion Play at Oberammergau. By early 1917 summer the Bible Film Company will have harnessed up the 38 highly medicated and efficacious hot springs and a full fledged resort in operation.

The financial man in the Bible Film Company is Harry C. Grigsby of Los Angeles, California, who is associated with the Singletary Brothers, well known Pacific coast bankers. The officers are: Dr. A. L. Andrews, of Fort Worth, Texas, President; Harry C. Grigsby, Vice-President and General Manager. Roger Topp, also a prominent Los Angeles business man, is Secretary and Treasurer, while Phil H. LeNoir, formerly Secretary of the Las Vegas and later the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce and also Secretary of the New Mexico State Fair, author of a number of photoplays, has the double post of Director of Publicity and Scenario Editor.

New Distribution for Ditmars Films

Educational Films Corporation of America Contract for Future Releases of Ditmars Films.

ONE of the interesting developments of the past week is the taking over of the releasing rights of the Ditmars Zoological films by the Educational Films Corporation of America. Monday, December 18, saw the signing of agreements between the contracting parties. These films will be released, one a week, in five hundred-foot lengths, and will be obtainable in all parts of the country through exchanges which have recently been negotiated with by the Educational Films Corporation of America.

This new development will no doubt be looked upon with much interest by exhibitors and educators, who have already found, especially among the geographical subjects which have been distributed from time to time by this corporation, delightful entertainment for their patrons. The popularity of the Ditmars films has been an assured fact for some time past; and for the information of those who may be unfamiliar with them we will say that these remarkable animal pictures are subtitled and arranged in the most entertaining fashion. Humorous situations that frequently occur unnoticed in the animal kingdom are noted and recorded on the screen by Prof. Ditmars, and made further grotesque by appellations applied to them by this ingenious friend of dumb animals. The beginning of the year will see the first of the Ditmars releases through the Educational Films Corporation of America.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS' NEW QUARTERS.

On the eighth floor of the Godfrey Building, 729 Seventh avenue, will now be found the new offices of the Educational Films Corporation of America. Here they have ensconced themselves after the manner of a business that intends to succeed; and we believe from the substantial foundations apparent that success with this corporation has already begun. The exchange end, one of the weightiest problems which the educational end of the business had had to contend with, has evidently been solved by them, and the entire territory of the United States, and part of Canada, has now been satisfactorily covered, exchange centers having been established in Philadelphia, Pa.; Dallas, Texas; Minneapolis, Minn.; San Francisco, Cal.; Kansas City, Mo.; Washington, D. C.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Atlanta, Ga.; Boston, Mass.; Memphis, Tenn.; Toronto, Can.; Seattle, Wash., and Detroit, Mich. The class of films being added to the stock of the Educational Films Corporation of America from time to time is of a quality to be highly recommended.

WHERE "CHARLIE CHAPLIN" COMES IN.

There is no doubt about the general popularity of Charlie Chaplin, we do not regret this; we want humor, we want fun and Charlie stands for all this before the moving picture audiences of today. The special reference we have to make on this page is because of the educational interest we take even in the fun-making part of the educational program; we also want to do justice to Charlie. A few years ago when John Bunny occupied the center of the stage to the delight of both young and old, we always depended upon a good clean cut piece of fun and the provoked laughter was healthy to both body and mind; John Bunny was never vulgar; on the contrary he carried much of his well-known natural refinement into his work no matter what character he represented.

Unfortunately at the beginning of his screen career this could not be said of Chaplin, often the lack of refinement and the positive vulgarity left an unpleasant effect on the mind after the body had passed over the thrill caused by the laughter. It is possible that Chaplin was not altogether to blame for this, and while the general critic would pass over those lapses from the cleaner plane, the Educator could never find occasion to allow a full reference to be made to them lest it be looked upon as an educational endorsement, so that silence was indulged rather than adverse criticism.

We are glad now however to note not only the omission of the former vulgarities, but the introduction of, and general indulgence in, good clean situations which produce genuine mirth for young and old, to the exclusion of occasion for criticism by the fastidious. Having reached this stage our old friend Charlie Chaplin now finds a good place on the program of an educational compilation when one is being prepared for the use of institutions which demands that educational requirements shall be first met, even when fun-making is to be a legitimate part of the program; we are glad of this because the humorous part of the program had been very much neglected and much that is now being produced by Chaplin was much needed we congratulate him and promise him that he will be used more and oftener on the educational program than was possible before.

Paramount Buys Minneapolis Exchange

Will Be Operated in Connection With Other Paramount Exchanges in the Middle West—C. L. Peavey in Charge —Steele Makes Tour of West.

PARAMOUNT Pictures Corporation purchased during the past week from Bert Barnett the Famous Players Star Feature Film Service, distributors of Paramount Pictures in Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, which exchange in the future will be operated by Paramount in connection with the other Middle West exchanges, of which James Steele, treasurer of Paramount, is president. Prior to the purchase of the Minneapolis exchange by Paramount, it had been operated for many years privately by Mr. Barnett.

Paramount's aim and purpose in purchasing the Minneapolis exchange from Mr. Barnett and conduct it as it does its other exchanges was mainly to increase the efficiency in this territory and to render the exhibitors there a far greater sevice than before.

C. L. Peavey, one of the best known film men in the Middle West, and who was associated with Paramount's Pittsburgh exchange for a number of years, has been appointed the new manager of the Minneapolis exchange. Mr. Peavey is known to practically every exhibitor in this district and has always had their confidence, which he gained through his fair dealings and his co-operative services he has always rendered in whatever territory he represented Paramount.

James Steele left Friday evening to make a personal tour of all the Middle West exchanges, and to visit many of the theaters in that territory telling them of the exceptional quality of pictures that will be distribued in the future and of the exhibitors co-operative services that will be carried out during 1917. Mr. Steele will spend considerable time at the Minneapolis exchange arranging for its future betterment and inaugurating the same high class departments that are to be found in the Famous Players Film Service, Inc., in the Middle West.

The tour of the exchanges and exhibitors of the Middle West by Treasurer Steele will be the first of a number of similar trips that the officers of Paramount and its producing companies will make during 1917. He will visit the exchanges in Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland and Minneapolis, which exchanges distribute Paramount Pictures in Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

British Notes

THE film salesman is evidently not the only individual in the moving picture business who occasionally finds his interests prejudiced through underquoting. The Authors' Society points out this week an aspect of the danger likely to affect its members seriously. When American and other producing companies offer to purchase the rights of a novel there are, it would seem, two courses open, either to purchase the rights from the author's agent in America or direct from the author himself. That there must often be considerable discrepancy in the two quotations for the same work is proved by a case brought to the notice of the Society, where a producer first obtained a quotation for a certain work from the author's American agents then cabled the author direct and, naturally, closed immediately with the lowest offer. This principle will destroy prices on both the English and U. S. A. markets, adds the Society.

* * *

After interminable speculation the fate of the multiple-reel features released in the States on the Mutual program has been settled. A new company capitalized at $70,000 named Bolton's Mutual Films, Ltd., has been formed for the express purpose of distributing them on the English markets and certain of the colonies. The corner premises at 89-91 Wardour street, London—only recently taken over by the American Co.—are to be used by the new company. One of its first releases will be the serial, "The Girl and the Game."

* * *

The Pathe serial, "The Laughing Mask," has now, I am informed, been passed for exhibition in France after the deletion of a few scenes.

* * *

A film entitled "Masks and Faces" is being produced by the Ideal Film Renting Co. with a cast that would make any producer's mouth water. Among "others" it includes Irene Vanbrugh, Gladys Cooper, Lillah McCarthy, Winifred Emery, Helen Haye, Doris Keane, Weedon Grossmith, Matheson Lang, Renee Mayer, Lyall Swete, J. Fisher White, H. B. Irving, Gerald du Maurier, Sir Geo. Alexander, Dion Boucicault, C. M. Lowne, Sir J. Forbes-Robertson, Allen Aynesworth and Owen Naves, with Gertrude Elliott, Lilian Braithwaite, Lottie Venne, Stella Campbell, Ellaline Teriss and Charles Hawtrey as "supers." As an ordinary commercial undertaking such a galaxy would have been impossible, for, it must be stated, the production is being made by the Ideal Co. on behalf of the British Academy of Dramatic Art, who will utilize the film as a means of raising its new building fund.

* * *

A prominent Italian producer has just made a contract with a South American shipper to produce one feature photo-play per week for a year of a type specially suitable for the South American market.

* * *

J. D. Tippett, of the Trans-Atlantic Film Co., has agreed with the National Council of Public Morals to only show the film "Where Are My Children" at special presentations and to adult audiences. A private exhibition of the film was given a few days ago at the Philharmonic Hall, when a number of distinguished visitors were welcomed by the Bishop of Birmingham.

* * *

The Oliver Morosco film, "Pasquale," released by Jury last week, has come in for a very considerable share of deservedly favorable publicity. Quite a number of celebrities in different walks of life endorse the simple beauty of the story of the humble Italian, contrasting this type of film with the more prevalent "vampire" picture. Dr. Saleeby, an eminent prelate, says that a really fine film is as good as a sermon, particularly mentioning "Pasquale" as a thing of beauty from beginning to end.

J. B. SUTCLIFFE.

Exhibiting In Closed-Sunday Cities

By Hanford C. Judson

Mt. Vernon and New Rochelle Are the Only Cities in Westchester County with No Sunday Amusements—Not an Inspiring Spectacle

THE burden of running a picture house without Sunday shows is, unfortunately, a thing not wholly unknown to exhibitors. Mt. Vernon and its sister city, New Rochelle, are within easy trolley car reach of New York City, full of Sunday amusements; yet they permit none within their own city limits. A considerable percentage of the whole population makes trips to the Metropolis every Sunday. This is unfortunate if you look at it from the viewpoint of the mental health of the community, and it is rather ungenerous, to put it mildly, to the home industries, valuable in themselves and serving the community well. The picture industry is the one we have in our minds first, but others suffer too. The restaurant business is one of the immediate sufferers and, though we can't prove it to our readers, the churches also suffer.

The picture theaters not only suffer the loss of the Sunday receipts, but it is a fact that the habit is formed of dropping down to what is termed "the City" to see a show and the mental attitude of many a patron to the home show is changed. A certain kind of spectator becomes friendly with some other exhibitor, it tickles his vanity to be so. He can talk in Mt. Vernon as though he were almost as important in the big city as a film leading man. There are not so many of this kind, but they are great advertisers. Then there are many who, though they never become friendly with any other particular show, are kept from getting the habit of dropping in at the home house, and the home exhibitor loses every day in the week from the Sunday exodus to New York.

The "power" in Mt. Vernon, as in New Rochelle, doesn't do business there. He goes to New York to business every week day and on Sunday he may either go to church—he believes in churches—or play golf in summer or motor or sail on the Sound. He has a house, pays taxes and votes. His idea is to have a model town for his home. He will proudly tell you that all "commercial amusements are closed down in his place on Sunday and that the drinking places are also shut tight."

New Rochelle and Mt. Vernon are good towns for churches and church organizations of all kinds. I noticed among the signs in the street cars one of a furnishing house agreeing to give coupons that any church in the city can cash in at the rate of 3 per cent of the price of all goods bought before Christmas. How members of the Christian Endeavor societies must be booming furniture sales in New Rochelle!

If one is wrapped up in religion he wont want to waste Sunday in going to a picture show and all would be fine if only the majority were wrapped up in the particular kind of religion that the local churches are promoting. But the man on the sidewalk isn't. Though the churches are not run by rich people, the average man on the street isn't the particular friend of the church-man and doesn't want to be. In the first place, he doesn't believe the church is necessary to his special salvation. If he comes to church, he sees a certain kind of rich man with his family come in and it pains him. Finally, the minister's sermon is apt to trespass on the soul God gave him and to which God speaks in many ways.

He remains an outsider and if he leaves the city every Sunday afternoon, what chance has the church to find and make friends with him? If the churches held their services morning and afternoon and permitted the shows to be open Sunday evenings, it might inconvenience some church people and greatly discontent a few; but the church would be meeting a big problem in a human way and would grow more human itself. Some ministers might have courage enough to go to the picture show themselves on Sunday nights and see what the amusements of their people were. That would raise a rumpus in some places—but "good people" hindered Christ.

In New Rochelle.

There are but two exhibitors in New Rochelle with a population of 30,000. The two are W. H. Coughlans and Loew. The first has two small houses and the Loew house is a splendid big theater, with pictures and vaudeville. The latter, a few months ago, tried out an all-picture policy, but discontinued it. At present it changes twice a week, both its features and acts. The extent of the ground we had to cover made it impossible to have a talk with the house manager, who was busy when we called.

Mr. Coughlans, the exhibitor, runs the Little theater and the La Rochelle, with 300 seats at 5 cents in the afternoon and 5 and 10 cents at night, and I had a profitable conversation with him. He is a quiet, thoughtful talker, whose ideas win your respect, in fact, a typical exhibitor. It would be a fine thing for the business and the country if we could only take all rabid censors about to meet the kind of men who are successfully running shows. It would be a revelation to some of them.

There are in New Rochelle three or four fine theaters that are now dark. Mr. Coughlans is a survivor of what was a pretty hard struggle for existence. The ghosts of gone exhibitors may haunt the darkened houses with no shadowy audiences to keep them company; but Mr. Coughlans' theaters are still bright, and living patrons, friends and neighbors of the much-alive, kindly exhibitor meet there. He talks of these one-time competitors of his; he knows they were fine men and tells me they have made good elsewhere, some of them. He doesn't seem to realize that he has been and is making good where they failed. What is it that keeps many fairly well intentioned people from realizing the value to a community of the right kind of exhibitor? Mr. Coughlans has his small difficulties. I had to fish for them for he realizes that they are a part of the business. He has to take them into account and make good in spite of them. And he makes no fuss while doing it.

In Mt. Vernon.

Mt. Vernon has 32,000 inhabitants and it also is not strictly an industrial city, but a residential suburb. It has two exhibitors in competition and one vaudeville and picture house combined. The latter is Proctor's, under the able care of J. R. Haug. The prices are 10, 15 and 25 cents. This house opens with a news weekly, a comedy and perhaps a scenic, changed every night, an hour and a half of vaudeville and then a feature, which is also changed every night. The two exhibitors have to buck against this and have no Sunday shows. They are also in competition with each other.

The oldest of the two in point of service to the town is M. Fienberg, who runs the Crescent theater, a 750-seat house. He is not enthusiastic, but says that he is holding his own. He has a way of pointing his chin at you when he discusses the situation and of bringing his lower lip forward aggressively like a man who is a determined fighter. He sees the situation clearly. I got a good deal of information from him. He has watched the political make-up of the city and knows why the shows are closed on Sundays and feels sure that a referendum of the people would favor opening. He has made a practice of taking the trip Cityward on Sundays and of asking the chance neighbor why he was going to New York. He says that between five and seven thousand leave Mt. Vernon every Sunday. He is running a diversified program, with one good five-reel picture and says that, while a fair audience comes right along, many drop in just for a place to go and seldom to see any particular feature.

His competitor is of a different type. New in Mt. Vernon, he hasn't as yet really felt the rub, and is absolutely sure that he is going to make good. It is pleasant to meet him. His ideas are clear and his talk makes pictures for you so that you see the things he sees. He is going in to get the churches on his side and is interested in the Y. M. C. A., and in local charities. His house is the Westchester and seats about 1,000 persons. He has already given the house over for one Sunday night to a Y. M. C. A. meeting and the other day had a potato benefit, which brought in three barrels of fine tubers which he turned over to the Day Nursery. Just now he is opening "Pearl of the Army," and is giving free admission to boy scouts who come accompanied by their parents or guardians. He put on "Idle Wives" at 25 cents and did a satisfactory business with it. He has installed an $800 Atmospheric screen and put a handsome marquise over his entrance.

SHERRY SENDS HOLIDAY GREETINGS.

William L. Sherry, vice-president of Paramount and head of the distributing agency of that company for New York State, has sent Christmas and New Year's greetings to the exhibitors and public of this State by means of a slide mailed to each exhibitor.

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

Death of Edgar J. Mock, Publisher of Motography

THE trade generally will learn with sincere regret of the death of Edgar J. Mock, president and treasurer of the Electricity Magazine Corporation, and better known as the publisher of Motography, in which he took a special interest.

The end came Monday morning, December 18, after an illness that lasted over three months. Mr. Mock had been unable to attend to his affairs for most of that time, but his interest in the corporation founded by him remained unabated until the day of his death.

Paul Woodruff, editor of Motography, Telephone Engineer and Electric Vehicles, three publications launched by the Electricity Magazine Corporation under the guidance of Mr. Mock, informs me that Mr. Mock's successor, and the executive and the editorial staff of Motography will continue the policies established by the founder. Mr. Woodruff, the editor of Motography, and of the old Nickelodeon, from which Motography sprang in April, 1911, will continue in charge of that publication, after a service of eight years on both the papers mentioned.

Mr. Mock was born in Fort Wayne, Ind., on March 26, 1870. Twenty-six years later he was publisher of the Weekly Record in Alma, Neb., which he gave up to establish the Daily Record in Hastings, Neb. This he published until 1898, when he became superintendent of the Western Newspaper Union at Omaha. Shortly afterward he married Miss Estelle R. Long, and in 1902 he became business manager of the Telephony Publishing Company, resigning five years later as secretary-treasurer. He then bought Sound Waves, a telephone trade paper, which he sold afterward to the McGood Publishing Company of New York. He next organized the Electricity Magazine Corporation, of which he was president and treasurer until his death.

Mrs. Mock, a sister and two brothers survive the deceased. He was a member of the Midlothian Country Club, the Illinois Athletic Club and Normal Park Lodge, 797, A. F. & A. M. Funeral services were held by the Masonic fraternity from his home, 9345 Pleasant avenue, Chicago, Wednesday afternoon, December 20.

Mr. Mock was held in high esteem by many in every branch of the film industry. He recognized the importance of every department in the trade, and honestly sought the good of all. He was conservative in his views and his policy always aimed at upbuilding. Firm in his convictions he was fearless in opposing any measure which he considered inimical to the welfare of the trade.

As a man Mr. Mock won the friendship and good-will of many in a wide circle of acquaintances, who sincerely mourn his untimely taking off. They also join in tendering to Mrs. E. J. Mock their heartfelt condolences in her great bereavement.

The Rothacker Ball a Delightful Affair.

The ball given at the Rothacker studios, at 1339-51 Diversy Parkway, Friday evening, December 15, has been pronounced one of the most enjoyable society affairs given in Chicago during the early winter season. The entire floor space of the great studios was used for the occasion, with the dance hall in the center, surrounded on all sides by tables at which the 468 guests sat down to supper shortly before midnight.

The decorations were artistic and attractive, giving the general impression of a beautiful and expansive garden scene. Evergreen festoons drooped in graceful curves from lofty ceiling to ceiling, while here and there cosy resting places were almost hidden by potted plants and palms, affording delightful retreats for a tete a tete. Over all, lights of varied hue shed a subdued radiance on the kaleidoscopic scenes on the floor.

The guests represented not only the moving picture business, but professional, legal and society circles as well. Among them, throughout the evening, was the smiling and thoroughly pleased host—Watteron R. Rothacker. He was here, there, and almost everywhere at the same time, eager to contribute to the enjoyment and home-feeling of everyone present, and it was clear to an observant onlooker that Mr. Rothacker was a friend and a good fellow to everyone in the big throng. At least that was the prevailing opinion. Mrs. Rothacker was also a charming hostess.

During the ball moving pictures were taken at various points, and guests had the novelty of seeing themselves on the screen as they appeared in the mazes of the dance.

Exhibition dances were given by Miss Josephine Harriman, a Chicago favorite, and by Wellington and Cross, who are featured in "Go To It," now playing at the Princess.

Among the guests representing moving pictures in the making were: Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Washburn, Miss Marguerite Clayton and Mr. H. Tipton Steck, of the Essanay Company; Mr. Art Smith, the famous aviator, was also there, with his manager, Mr. Wm. Bastar.

Some of the others present were: Dalmores, Octave Dua and Scienti, from the Chicago Grand Opera Company; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Smith (Syd Smith, the cartoonist), Mr. and Mrs. Fred Corley, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Durborough (Mr. Durborough is the well-known photographer who took the moving pictures of the war in Europe), Mr. and Mrs. Evan Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frey (Mr. Frey is the well-known illustrator), Judge Pettit and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Eastman, Dr. and Mrs. Golden, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Grau, Mr. and Mrs. Hyland, Mr. and Mrs. David Hack, Dr. and Mrs. Filip Kreissl, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lampert, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Matteson, Judge McKinley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ogilvie, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Nehls, Miss Louella Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ripley, Mr. Wallace Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wiley, Mr. Paul Hinz and Miss Marion Marston.

Chicago's "Go-to-Movie-Week."

Rob Reel, photoplay editor of the Chicago Evening American, known to his friends as F. W. McQuigg, is the originator of a lively boost for moving pictures during the week between Christmas and New Year's. He coined the slogan, "Go-to-Movie-Week," about three weeks ago, and his first boost appeared in the issue of December 8. Since then he has kept daily at the task of reminding Chicagoans that it is due moving pictures that they should have a special week during the year, and that moving picture theaters should be filled to overflowing all through that week.

The idea has "caught on," and everything points to the most successful week in Chicago yet known by moving picture exhibitors.

The American has also taken up the slogan editorially, as will be seen by the following excerpts from an editorial which appeared Tuesday evening, December 19:

The hundreds of thousands of photoplay fans of Chicago—bankers, brokers, professional and business men of all lines, and workers of all classes; society women, club women, home women, business women and the suffragette; bachelors and benedicts, and practically every child in the city—have adopted the slogan, "Go-to-Movie-Week," Christmas to New Year's.

Here is a testimonial to the greatness of the fifth largest industry in the country, which undoubtedly will be repeated as an annual event in Chicago. Here is a step toward the greater Chicago which cuts a pattern for the nation. Let the whole United States say thank you to the men who spend millions upon millions each year creating interesting, educational and amusing film pictures for the country. Let Christmas to New Year's be "National-to-Go-to-Movie Week" hereafter, patterned on the instant success of the idea as adopted by the Chicago fans.

Of course, there can be but one "greatest distribution center" for the motion picture industry. "Go-to-Movie-Week" here is intended to so rivet the attention of the film world on the fact that Chicago logically and geographically is the pivotal point that all the great companies will follow the example of those which already are sending out millions of feet of film every week from Chicago.

Chicago, the Hub of the Film Industry—the fifth largest industry! Chicago will only be satisfied with that title. "Go-to-Movie-Week," Christmas to New Year's, as an annual event from now on, will make that title clear and retain it for our wonderful city.

Aside from the point of being the center of the film industry, there is another viewpoint big enough to make "Go-to-Movie-Week" worth while throughout the country as a national event. The vast army of manufacturers and exhibitors and workers which constitute the fifth largest industry are entitled to this encouragement from the public. It will stimulate the film-maker to still higher results before the camera, and the exhibitor toward building yet more beautiful theaters. It will make of Christmas to New Year's a still more gala week. And it will keep alive that spirit of clean, wholesome fun which makes the nation and the individual young.

Chicago Film Brevities.

Wm. J. Sweeney, national secretary of the M. P. E. L. of America, had a narrow escape from serious injury Thursday, December 14. Mr. Sweeney was coming down a narrow stairway when one of his heels caught, causing him to fall several steps. He sustained a severe nervous shock, which kept him indoors for a week. His numerous friends will congratulate him on his lucky escape.

* * *

The story of the Sequel to "The Diamond from the Sky" appeared in the Chicago Sunday Tribune of December 17. It was written by Terry Ramsaye, publicity manager of the Mutual, and was widely read. The fourth episode of the Sequel was released December 18. The first three episodes, I have been told, proved quite as popular through the country as "The Diamond from the Sky," and the fourth episode is keeping pace as a business getter.

* * *

Watterson R. Rothacker announces that each of the employes of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company will be given a savings book with a cash amount credited therein this Christmas. Accompanying the book will be a small savings bank, issued by the Central Trust Company of Illinois. For the past six years each employe of the firm has received a money present at Christmas.

* * *

H. M. Warner and Albert Warner came on from New York specially to attend the ball given by Watterson R. Rothacker at the Rothacker studio, Friday evening, December 15. G. P. Hamilton, who was also an invited guest, accompanied them from New York. H. M. Warner made a pleasant call at the office and assured me that the Warner Brothers are coming back stronger and bigger than ever, and that they have confidence that their success this time will be lasting on account of the benefits derived from former experiences. Mr. Warner specially enjoined me to state that they will bear watching, and that no stock certificates will be offered on the deposit of the proverbial "one dollar."

* * *

Gilbert P. Hamilton was seen during his brief stay in the city the week of December 18. He informed me that the Problem Film Co. had recently been formed in New York, with H. M. Warner as president and Mr. Hamilton as vice-president and general manager. Mr. Hamilton left for Los Angeles Tuesday evening, December 19, where he intends starting work on a production for the company. Dorothea "Dot" Farley and William Conklin will have the leads.

* * *

Fred and Frank Schaefer, who are known in moving picture enterprises as the Schaefer Brothers, are building a structure on the site of their old Crystal theater that will cost in the neighborhood of $300,000. In this new building their new Crystal theater, with a seating capacity of 3,000 people, will be included. The upper floors of the building will be devoted to lodge and dance halls, while six stores will adjoin the theater on the ground floor. The new Crystal will be thoroughly up-to-date and will be provided with every safety and healthful device for its patrons. The interior walls of the theater will be faced with marble and the seats will be roomy and comfortable. It is expected the new Crystal will be in readiness for opening late in the spring.

* * *

Harry Fox, who played the part of Jimmy Barton, the reporter in International's photoplay series, "Beatrice Fairfax," was in the city last week. It is said that he was summoned from New York by two prominent theatrical producers, who desire to secure his services in forthcoming musical comedies.

* * *

"Civilization" has been booked by Alfred Hamburger for his neighborhood theaters in this city for the week between Christmas and New Year's.

* * *

E. H. Sothern, who played the leading role in Vitagraph's "An Enemy to the King," running at the Ziegfeld theater at the time of writing, is in Chicago playing "If I Were King," at the Blackstone theater. He was present at the showing of the Vitagraph feature in the Ziegfeld, Thursday afternoon, December 21, and delivered a short address to club and society people on the relation of the stage to the screen.

* * *

The midwinter circus and charity ball in the First Regiment Armory Saturday evening, December 16, cleared $6,000 for the American Theatrical Hospital Association. This money will be devoted to furnishing and equipping the actors' hospital at 850 Irving Park Boulevard.

* * *

Lois Weber (Mrs. Phillips Smalley) spent several days in the city last week with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Laemmle. She signed a new contract with Mr. Laemmle to direct productions and star for Universal for a long term at a big figure, it is said.

* * *

"On Italy's Firing Line" will be released Monday, January 1, by the Selig Polyscope Co., through the General Film Co. This war subject, in three reels, was received direct from Italy by Wm. N. Selig. Remarkable scenes of war in the Trentino region, taken by permission of the Italian government, are shown. The scaling of the Alps by Italian soldiers and the transportation of artillery over seemingly inaccessible cliffs create awe and wonder in the mind of the spectator. Fighting amidst the clouds is seen, with shrapnel bursting over the trenches in which the Italian forces are concealed. Infantry charges through the streets of ruined cities add to the realism of the pictures.

A reader of the New York Sun recently wrote to that paper deploring the dearth of comedy in moving pictures and urging the production of the Hoyt farces and similar stage successes. This would-be critic of moving pictures will doubtless be surprised to learn that all the best of the Hoyt farces have been filmed for some time by the Selig Polyscope Co., and are at present being released through the K. E. S. E. Service.

* * *

The following programs have been announced at the prominent downtown theaters in Chicago for the ensuing week:

Colonial—"Intolerance" (D. W. Griffith) is still showing to capacity houses.

Studebaker—Second and last week of "The Foolish Virgin" (Clara Kimball Young Film Corporation). Very good business is reported. This feature will be followed on December 30 by Annette Kellermann in "A Daughter of the Gods" (William Fox). A symphony orchestra of 30 pieces will accompany the picture. Mr. Fox and his general manager, Winfield R. Sheehan are expected to attend the premiere.

Ziegfeld—Peggy Hyland in "The Enemy" (Vitagraph), and the second episode of the Vitagraph serial, "The Secret Kingdom," with Charles Richman and Dorothy Kelly in the leading roles.

La Salle—Fourth week of "Idle Wives" (Universal). Good business is reported.

* * *

Bill "Kalem" Wright arrived in the city by the Twentieth Century Wednesday, December 20, and left for Los Angeles the same evening. He was accompanied by three directors, headed by Howard M. Mitchell, who will direct the "Further Adventures of Stingaree" in Los Angeles. The series will include fifteen episodes of two reels each. E. W. Hornung, the author of "Raffles," has written the sequel under the title given. The series will be released through the General Film Co. Mr. Wright states that he will organize three additional companies in Los Angeles, the principals to be brought on from New York and the balance to be engaged in Los Angeles. The Kalem Company is engaging in these productions because of the increased demand for one and two-reel pictures throughout the country. Mr. Wright will remain in Los Angeles for about three weeks.

* * *

Alfred Hamburger delights to give pleasure to the children who attend his neighborhood theaters in this city. He played Santa Claus at four of his neighborhood theater Saturday, December 16, at the matinee presentations and will again don his furs to represent the same good old Saint at his remaining theaters on Saturday, December 23. Toys and other little keepsakes are distributed by Mr. Hamburger when going these rounds.

* * *

Bennie Zeidman telegraphs from Albuquerque, New Mexico, that Douglas Fairbanks, John Emerson and Anita Loos will arrive in this city Friday morning, December 22, leaving the same day on the Twentieth Century for New York.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. VON HARLEMAN

Douglas Fairbanks Bids Goodbye to California

Triangle Star Will Deliver Letter from Mayor Woodman of Los Angeles to Mayor Mitchel of New York.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, Triangle comedy star, will depart for New York Monday, December 18. His departure promises to be spectacular and in truly Douglas Fairbanks' style. Local Rialto is sad, for friend "Doug" is a mighty good fellow and we will all miss that friendly smile of his. The Fine Arts comedian will be gone for several months, and with him that popular little scribe, Bennie Mayor Woodman of Los Angeles Giving Douglas Fairbanks the Letter to Mayor Mitchel of New York.

Zeidman, as personal representative and press agent de Luxe. On Wednesday afternoon, 2.30 p. m., this week, "Doug" Fairbanks said official goodbye to our city. Mayor Woodman of Los Angeles entrusted the Triangle star with a letter of greetings from the capital of Southern California to the Metropolis of the East, which Fairbanks will personally carry and deliver to Mayor John P. Mitchel of New York on Christmas morning.

The letter reads:

Hon. J. P. Mitchel, Mayor of New York.

My Dear Mayor Mitchel:

Through the courtesy of the bearer, Douglas Fairbanks, noted stage and screen star, I am conveying to you the compliments of the season and the hearty good wishes of the City of Los Angeles. Very truly yours, (Signed) F. V. WOODMAN, Mayor.

On Thursday Fairbanks called at Culver City and, though he did not entirely demoralize the four hundred and fifty employees of the plant, he brought about a partial suspension of activities during his visit, while the Thomas H. Ince forces watched and admired, it is said, the dexterity and ease with which he performed—impromptu—many of the inimitable "Fairbanks stunts."

"Doug's" entrance to the studios was nothing if not spectacular. Not waiting for "John Law" to open the gates, he vaulted this fifteen-foot obstacle, grasping the hands of Producer Ince and "Bill" Hart, who were waiting for him, as he alighted. After being formally presented to Ince, and doing an Indian war-dance with Hart, he found himself hemmed in by William Desmond, Dorothy Dalton, Margery Wilson, Director Walter Edwards and several other Ince players, all of whom are his personal friends.

After a few minutes chat he begun a tour of the studios, accompanied by Ince, Hart and Desmond. The four forgot the cares and worries of everyday life and frolicked, it is said, like boys just let out of school. Fairbanks discovered a lariat in the "prop" room, and he lassoed everyone and everything in sight. Then he and "Bill" Hart engaged in many feats of strength, after which Desmond boxed with him.

The party eventually wound up on the lawn facing the Wardrobe Building, and before the performance of the final "stunt" all were minus hats, coats and vests, while Fairbanks and Hart had even discarded their shoes in a moment of athletic enthusiasm.

Long after the noon hour, the "Big Four" adjourned to the commissary, and everyone enjoyed a hearty lunch. So hearty, in fact, that the chef was later heard in telephonic communication with a Los Angeles market, ordering relays of steaks and chops.

A parting toast was drunk to Fairbanks, coupled with hearty wishes for a pleasant journey.

A number of other events were staged this week in honor of Fairbanks' departure. He will leave on Monday, December 18, 1 p. m., on the Santa Fe, and the entire local photoplay colony is expected to be present.

Joseph M. Schenck in Los Angeles

Selznick Producer Will Not Locate Studios for Norma Talmadge and Roscoe Arbuckle on the Coast.

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK, producer for Lewis J. Selznick, is on the coast, accompanied by Mrs. Schenck (Norma Talmadge), and Marcus Loew, the New York vaudeville magnate. Mr. Schenck arrived in Los Angeles on December 12, to look over severel studios that have been offered to the Selznick interests. As previously announced in this paper Roscoe Arbuckle, the rotund Keystone comedian, has been signed up by Mr. Schenck to head a company of his own to produce comedies for the Selznick program. His contract with the Keystone expires January 1st, and Mr. Schenck and his associates offered Arbuckle, we are informed, a salary only equalled by Charlie Chaplin, and also an interest in the company. Roscoe Arbuckle will direct and play lead in his own pictures. His assistant director will be Al. St. John, also of the Keystone. They will produce one two-reel comedy feature a month. Later on St. John will be given a company of his own under Arbuckle's supervision.

Mr. Schenck, when interviewed by a representative of The Moving Picture World, stated that after a conference with Arbuckle they had decided not to build or rent a studio in Los Angeles for Roscoe Arbuckle comedies and Norma Talmadge's productions. All the pictures for the Selznick program will, for the present, be produced in New York.

Mr. Schenck, as becomes a recent bridegroom, was exceedingly enthusiastic about his honeymoon trip and predicts a brilliant future for the professional activities of the Norma Talmage Company.

The Year 1916 at Balboa Studio

Long Beach Studios Humming With Activity—The Past Year Busiest in the History of the Plant.

FROM the Balboa Studios in Long Beach, California, we learn that the year 1916 has been the busiest in the history of the plant. Messrs. Horkheimer makes the following statement:

"In the three years of its life Balboa has increased more than forty fold and 1916 saw its greatest growth. Physical improvements, embracing equipment, buildings and the beautifying of the grounds, were extensive and there was practically no dull season.

"During the year the 'Grip of Evil,' a serial of twenty-eight reels, was filmed complete, two other serials were begun and will be completed before the end of the year. A series of twenty-eight reels has also been started and six Little Mary Sunshine plays are under contract, two having been already completed. Numerous Balboa Features have been filmed and a few three-reelers were turned out.

"During 1916 two new warehouses to house props were built and a force was kept steadily at work painting new sets, painting scenery and constructing woodwork in preparation for a busy winter.

"We have contracts ahead and we go into 1917 with a humming studio. The plans for the next year include physical expansion and betterments in every department of the Balboa concern, in addition to some surprises in production of pictures. Counting the series and the serials in the course of production, Balboa studio now leads the world in continued stories of the screen and has earned its title, 'The House of Serials.'

"Balboa, having taken rank as pioneer in the world-wide movement to produce better films for children, by filming of the play 'Little Mary Sunshine,' has planned to maintain its prestige by production of a dozen similar features for children during 1917 with the original Little Mary Sunshine as the featured star.

"From a Balboa point of view, the motion picture industry in Southern California is flourishing and the outlook for 1917 is the brightest in the history of the Balboa plant."

Los Angeles Film Brevities.

Charles H. Christie, the business manager of the Christie Film Company, returned this week to Los Angeles. Mr. Christie has visited practically every city where the Christie exchanges are located, and he reports that business is decidedly gratifying. The Christie Film Company has now under way negotiations for opening an exchange in every city of importance of the United States.

* * *

A. B. Burnd, a New York newspaper man, who has been appointed director of publicity of the Fox studios, arrived in Los Angeles this week and will make his headquarters at the Hollywood studios. Reed Heustis, the former publicity representative, will be associated with Mr. Burnd.

* * *

Tyrone Power, Director Wm. J. Bowman and the rest of the Nevada Motion Picture players, returned this week from Gautamala, where they have been filming exterior scenes for a ten-reel production of Herman Witaker's story, "The Planter." The company is now taking the interior scenes at the old studios of the Crown City Film Company, at 40 West Mountain street, Pasadena. The business offices of the Nevada Film Company have been removed from the Union Oil Building to the studio headquarters.

* * *

Tom Mix, the well-known actor and director of western dramas, informs us that he has signed this week with the Fox Film Company. Mr. Mix, we understand, takes with him his entire company, including his leading woman, Victoria Forde. He will produce for Fox the same type of western features which made him so popular with Selig Company.

Tom Mix and Victoria Forde.

* * *

Director H. G. Stafford, former scenario editor at Universal City, has returned to Los Angeles from a trip to Honolulu. The trip was a combination of business and pleasure, as Dr. Stafford went to the Hawaiian Islands for his health and at the same time produced a five-reel photoplay for the Hawaiian Moving Picture Company. Claire Simpson, Ned Steele and John Wise are the featured players and returned to Los Angeles with Director Stafford.

* * *

Charming Ruth Stonehouse, one of the stars of the Bluebird Company, is now directing a company of her own in a one-reel story, entitled "Red Dick, the Good-Hearted Gunman." Miss Stonehouse not only wrote the story, but is playing the lead as well as directing it. She is being supported by Lydia Yeamans Titus.

Ruth Stonehouse in Her New Car.

* * *

Director Robert T. Thornby has arrived from New York to photograph scenes, requiring a western locale, for the International Film Service's production of Gouveneur Morris's five-act drama, entitled "When My Ship Comes In." Mr. Thornby was accompanied by Nigel Barrie, his leading man and various assistants. The leading woman of the production is Jane Grey. Scenes of the picture have already been taken in New York, Boston and Virginia. Director Thornby expects to be here about two weeks and will then return to New York with his company to film the remaining scenes.

* * *

A number of prominent players have recently joined the local Fox studios. Among the latest are Ralph and Vera Lewis from the Fine Arts, Jack Standing from Ince, who is to play opposite Gladys Rockwell in a feature which Director Stanton is now producing. Marc Robbins and Charles Conklin, formerly with Universal, start this week rehearsals under the direction of Otis Turner in support of George Walsh and Anna Luther. Announcement has been made by the Fox studios that in the new year they will put forth a number of special productions, featuring Theda Bara and William Farnum. We are informed that a great deal of money will be expended on these features, and that the first of these releases will be a child labor drama, entitled "The Price of Silence," in which William Farnum is to be starred. Miss Bara's first feature will be an adaptation of Victor Hugo's well-known story, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

* * *

Kolb and Dill, with their company of "American" players, were down a few days this week from Santa Barbara, to take some scenes in and around Los Angeles for their latest feature comedy. Al Santell is directing the picture, and May Cloy is the leading woman.

* * *

Munroe Salisbury and Kathleen Kirkham, who took leading parts in the Clune Film Company's production of Harold Bell Wright's story, "The Eyes of the World," have joined the Pollard Picture Play Company in San Diego. At the present time the company is producing "The Devil's Assistant," a multiple feature play, featuring Margarita Fisher, under the direction of Harry Pollard. Jack Mower, who recently was connected with western Vitagraph studios, is also included in the cast.

* * *

Director Lloyd Ingraham, we are informed, was the victim of a pair of automobile bandits last Monday evening. While driving along Los Feliz road with Mrs. Ingraham, their car was pursued by two men in a small runabout, who thrust pistols in their faces and commanded them to stop. Mr. Ingraham put on more speed, but the bandits fired at the car and the Fine Arts director thought it safer to slow up. Mr. and Mrs. Ingraham were relieved of a large sum of money, their watches and jewelry. They were commanded to get out of their car, which the bandits took possession of and drove off, leaving a small runabout behind. Mr. Ingraham's big touring car was found abandoned in Los Angeles by the police, but as yet the robbers have not been captured.

* * *

This picture shows Louise Fazenda, Harry Booker and Charles Murray, a trio of favorite Mack Sennett-Keystone Charlie Murray, Louise Fazenda and Harry Booker, a Trio of Keystone Fun Makers.

comedians, in a terribly mussed up state. It seems to be the daily pastime of these three rollicking fun makers to break most everything but their contract at the Keystone fun factory. Murray is seen at the helm of a "flivver" and Miss Fazenda is guiding the destiny of a powerful motor bike, both having entered a department store via a thick brick wall.

* * *

Howard Estabrook, who was featured in the International Film Service's serial, "The Mysteries of Myra," has arrived in Los Angeles to join the directorial staff of the Morosco Company. Mr. Estabrook's first production will be looked for with interest by his many friends in the industry, who have followed his excellent work in former Pathe, World and International releases.

* * *

From Redlands comes the announcement that Julius Frankenberg has organized a new company under the name of "The Redlands Beauty Film Company," which will produce a series of twenty-six comedy pictures. The series is entitled "Pietro, the Italian," and Mr. Frankenberg will enact the leading role in all of the company's productions. The cast has been engaged in Los Angeles and will go to Redlands this week. The films will be released in England through the Motion Picture Sales Agency, Ltd., of London. A Chicago agency will handle the release in the United States.

* * *

Director John Emerson, Douglas Fairbanks and the other principals in the Triangle Fine Arts comedy drama, "The Americano," returned from their three trips to San Diego last week where the final scenes of this photoplay were staged. The cast includes Carl Stockdale, Spottiswood Atkin, Lillian Langdon, Tote du Crow, Charlie Stevens and Alma Reubens, who plays opposite Douglas Fairbanks. The company worked on the exposition grounds at San Diego, using some of the exposition buildings as a setting for the South American atmosphere, which is required in the story. The company worked all day Sunday in order to complete the production.

* * *

Co-directors Tod Browning and Wilfred Lucas with their company of Fine Arts players have returned from a three weeks' stay at Rio Vista, on the Sacramento river, where scenes were filmed for a five-reel Triangle feature, entitled "Jim Bludso." The photoplay is a picturization from the drama by the same name, based upon the "Pike County Ballads," by John Hay. The story is laid in the picturesque atmosphere of the Mississippi river front and contains many unusual scenes, graphically staged by the Fine Arts directors and their company. Among other exciting scenes is a race between two fast river boats, in which one of the boats is set afire. The boat cost the Fine Arts Film Company $10,000 and some unusual close-up views of the sinking vessel were secured. Wilfred Lucas is featured as Jim Bludso, with Olga Grey playing the opposite lead. The supporting cast includes George Stone, Charles Lee, Winnifred Westover, Sam De Grasse, James O'Shea and Monte Blue.

* * *

A crew of painters are busily engaged at the Triangle Fine Arts studios, painting all the building in a pleasant shade of dark green. All the studio buildings, including the office, laboratory, rehearsal rooms, dressing rooms, etc., have been dolled up to look nice and green for Christmas.

* * *

Director "Chet" Willy is producing a story by Frank E. Woods, entitled "The Bad Boy," featuring Bobbie Harron. Charming and youthful Pauline Starke plays the opposite lead. Included in the cast are Richard Cummins, Josephine Crowell, Carmel Meyers, William H. Brown, Elmer Linkell and Harry Fisher. Notable in the cast is Carmel Meyers, she is the daughter of Rabbi Isador Meyers of Los Angeles, and pronounced by D. W. Griffith to be one of the most beautiful young women now acting in the silent drama.

* * *

Dario Resta was an interested visitor to the Mack Sennett-Keystone Film studios this week. Director Walter Wright was host to the famous speed demon and escorted him throughout the big fun plant. The Keystone director met Resta when he was filming some racing scenes for a Keystone production and extended him the invitation to visit the studios. Resta accepted it and rode out in a big racing car. Walter Wright was the director associated with the late L. B. Jenkins, a Keystone cameraman, who was killed in an automobile crash at the Santa Monica races.

* * *

Comedians at Mack Sennett's Keystone studios are recruited from the ranks of varied amusement enterprises, such as carnival shows, stock companies, vaudeville, stage drama and even the prize ring. Just recently quite a bit of circus talent was added to the Keystone forces when Mack Sennett employed two leading performers of the Sells-Floto circus upon the recommendation of Director Walter Wright of the Keystone studios.

Grace De Garro, who was a member of the famous De Garro Troupe, which did acrobatic stunts and swung by their teeth, signed a Keystone contract last week. At the same time came Harry Bayfield, who was head clown of the big show.

Director Wright, who is completing "Her Circus Knight," a new Mack Sennett comedy, traveled out of Los Angeles with Sells-Floto's circus for the purpose of filming real circus scenes for his new comedy. It was on this sojourn that he "discovered" these two performers as favorable Keystone material. Miss De Garro and Bayfield joined the Keystone Film Company when the circus went into winter quarters.

* * *

Claire Anderson, who has seen in evidence in many of Mack Sennett's Keystone comedies, was injured in an auto accident last Sunday.

Claire Anderson and Reggie Morris.

Miss Anderson was taken home, considerably bruised and shaken up, but no bones were broken and it is hoped that she will be able to resume her work at the studio within a week or ten days.

* * *

Our little friend, Doris Baker, the nine-year-old film star, is going to take a vacation. Saturday Doris is going to Baltimore, Md., so that on Christmas Day she can be at the home of her grandfather, Joseph Rassa, and play with her little cousins, who are in the east. Doris starred in "Aladdin from Broadway," and also took the part of Little Bobby in "Jimmy Valentine." Doris has been in pictures four years and before that acted in vaudeville. While in the east she will go to Notre Dame convent. In the spring she will fill several engagements in the east before coming back here.

* * *

At the Kalem Hollywood studios we found ever funny "Ham" Hamilton directing and playing a rip-roaring "Ham" comedy. It was something about a chicken, and Ethel Teare, of course, was THE chicken.

"Ham," the Kalem Fun-maker, in a Recent Pose.

There was lots of commotion and Bud and Ham seized unfortunate Henry Murdoch, who is a king in the play and fond of fair Ethel, and dumped his Majesty most unceremoniously in a trunk. There followed several hair raising falls for the trunk, and Ethel finally decides that she will marry her slightly damaged king after all.

* * *

Helen Gibson, the Kalem railroad girl, performed some unusual stunts this week in the filming of "A Daughter of Daring." Jumping into a steam shovel she is hoisted to its entire height and then dropped into a dump car which is released on an inclined track. After traveling down the track at high speed she jumps to the cross arm of a pole from the car and then to the ground, throwing a switch which prevents the dump car from crashing into an express train. The car is thrown to a spur line built for the stunt and crashes through a railroad station, also built for the scene.

* * *

Lydia Knott, who is well-known on the legitimate stage, and more recently as a screen character woman with Pathe and World Film, arrived at Culver City this week from New York and will become a member of the Thomas H. Ince players. Her son, Lambery Hillyer, is a scenario writer of the Ince forces, having been engaged by Ince some time ago. Miss Knott will play, it is understood, character parts of a strong nature, for which she is said to be specially suited.

* * *

Director Walter Edwards, William Desmond and company of fifteen Ince players have returned from Monterey, where they have been for ten days, making scenes for a forthcoming Triangle-Kay Bee drama by John Lynch, featuring William Desmond. Regardless of the heavy storm that has been sweeping the California Coast for more than two weeks, over one hundred and fifty scenes were "shot" by Director Edwards.

* * *

Another building is in course of construction at the Ince studios in Culver City, making the twenty-eighth, exclusive of the five glass enclosed stages, so far completed at this plant. The structure will be used as a paint shop and the large staff of scenic and decorative artists will move into their new quarters at an early date.

* * *

Kate Carew, the caricaturist and interviewer, who was formerly the wife of H. Kellett Chambers, author and playwright, spent two weeks at Universal City recently, gathering material for "The Tattler" and other London publications. She was assisted in her work by H. O. Davis, manager of Universal City, and by Eugene B. Lewis, scenario editor, and Eugene Magnus Ingleton, scenario editress at the big plant.

Miss Carew was followed across the Atlantic and also the American continent by John A. Reed, a wealthy Englishman, whom she had promised to marry upon her return from the United States. Reed came to Universal City this week and the following day the hymeneal knot was tied at Hollywood, a number of Universalites being among the witnesses of the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Reed were bidden Godspeed on their honeymoon journey, leaving for Santa Barbara, whence they returned to New York on their way back to London.

* * *

A number of society leaders and club women of Hollywood, Cal., are taking an interest in the comfort of the many young girls employed as actresses in the different motion picture studios, and in order that they might see for themselves how the girls work and what their environment is like, a number of these women recently were guests of Lois Weber at Universal City.

They met the younger actresses, talked with them, visited the beautiful green room which has been provided for their comfort at Universal City by General Manager H. O. Davis, and became thoroughly conversant with the studio life. At luncheon with Miss Weber the club woman declared they were more than pleased with the treatment accorded the girls at the film capital and arranged for all of them to be guests at the new studio club which the women have organized.

* *

J. Morris Foster, a young actor well-known on the speaking stage and in Thanhouser and Famous Players pictures, has been added to the acting forces at Universal City. He was on the stage from 1901 until 1914, having played not only in stock in different parts of the country, but with such well-known players as Henrietta Crossman, George M. Cohan and Olive Wyndham.

* * *

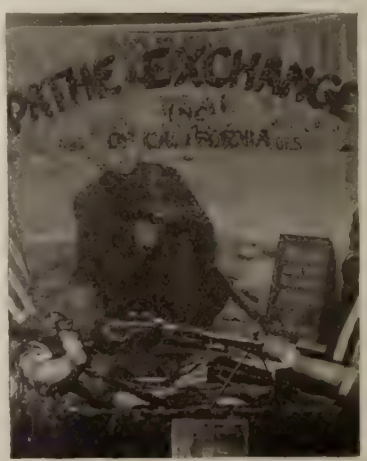
Wm. Wright, vice-president of the Kalem Company, will arrive at the coast during the early part of the coming week. Mr. Wright will make plans while here for a developing plant for the Hollywood and Glendale studios of the Kalem Company and arrange for the enlarging of both studios.

* * *

Billy Garwood almost landed in hospital this week when Director Charles Miller wanted some real "fight stuff" in the picture, he plays opposite Enid Bennett. The company was on "location" in Los Angeles, and Miller had rehearsed Garwood and another player in a fist fight until he was satisfied that they were ready to be "shot." He told the fighters to "scrap, and scrap hard." This they did, but with the result that Garwood had two dislocated toes, a sprained ankle and many minor bruises and scratches. His opponent has not as yet returned to the studios, so it is impossible to learn whether he had survived or not. Kenneth O'Hara vouches for this story.

* * *

Manager B. E. Loper, of the local Pathe Exchange, has been complimented upon his attractive window display, illustrated in the picture. The display featured Pearl White's latest serial, "Pearl of the Army." Mr. Loper stated that an unusual feature of the display was the number of Japs that each day closely examined the machine gun, which was a prominent feature of the display.



Pathe's "Pearl of the Army" Display.

* * *

William Farnum and several other Fox stars appeared at the Mason Opera House on the night of December 15 for the benefit of the Children's Hospital of Hollywood. Farnum acted the last two scenes from his biggest stage success, "Virginius." In the cast with him were Willard Locis, William Burress, Olive White, Charles Clary and Marc Robbins, all of the Fox Company.

This was the first time William Farnum has appeared on the stage since his performance in "Julius Caesar" at Hollywood's Fourth of July celebration this year.

* * *

Henry (Pathe) Lehrman completed this week at the Christie Studio his first comedy for Fox. Billie Ritchie, Gertrude Selby and Dot Farley are included in the cast.

* * *

Charlie Chaplin, the Mutual comedian, was all mussed up at his studio Friday this week. He was rehearsing a scene in a new picture in which, as a policeman, he was to break off a lamp post. Down came the lamp post with Charlie underneath. At first it was thought he was badly hurt and he was removed at once to his apartments at the L. A. Athletic Club. He will not be able to work for several days.

* * *

Producer Balshofer has bought a large tract of land in Hollywood, where the Yorke-Metro will build a new studio.

Oscar Apfel recently engaged to direct Harold Lockwood and May Allison, will be the first producer to work in the new Yorke studio, and he is devoting a great deal of his time conferring with Balshofer on the plans of the new stages, etc.

The new studio will be thoroughly modern in equipment, with a portable roof, that can be used during the rainy season and easily removed when sunshine is available. A portion of the ground will be devoted to a permanent electric light studio, where night scenes and photographic effects will be staged.

In the meantime, production on "The Promise" by James B. Hendryx will be continued at the present Yorke Studio, 1329 Gordon street. It is hoped that the new Metro studio will be ready for occupancy about the first of February of next year.

* * *

At the L-Ko studios Phil Dunham and Lucille Hutton, under the directorship of Kitty Howe, have completed this week a comedy entitled "Air Currents and Currency." Dick Smith now has a company of his own and (Funny) Sammy Burns is his leading man.

Burning the midnight oil is quite the thing around the L-Ko lot. It is nothing uncommon to see Abe Stern and Louis Jacobs there until the wee hours of the mornin'.

* * *

Fifty new dressing rooms have been erected at the Lasky studios. These dressing rooms will be used to house the minor members of the company.

Concrete flooring has been laid for the fourteen new garages to house the Lasky Company cars. In addition to the garages there will be a complete repair shop and a special washing platform.

* * *

James R. Quirk, manager of the Photoplay Magazine, Chicago, who has been a visitor in Los Angeles for some little time, was the host for an elaborate spread in honor of the local publicity purveyors, at Sunset Inn, on Wednesday night of this week. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wing, Mabel Condon, Mr. and Mrs. Don Meaney, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McGaffey, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Jonas, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O'Hara, Harold Keeler, Ried Heustis and others.

* * *

Frank Borzage has begun his second Lasky engagement. This time it is with Fannie Ward as juvenile lead in the feature under direction by George Melford. The company chose San Diego as location for the first scenes of the new picture.

* * *

George Mauk, the general manager of the Phoenix Amusement Company, of Phoenix, Arizona, was a recent visitor at the local film row. Mr. Mauk announces that he has bought the interest of Joseph Ricard in the Phoenix Amusement Company, and is now the sole owner of that string of theaters. At the present time Mr. Mauk is showing Metro releases and reports business good all along the line.

Mick Dimos, who owns theaters in Tucson, Nogales and Bisby, Arizona, is in town to contract for features for the new $100,000 theater that he is erecting in Bisby. The architect's plans call for the most ornate theater in the entire southwest.

* * *

Charles Groog, the manager of the Groog theater in Bakersfield, is in town in the interests of his theater. Mr. Groog runs Fox, Paramount and Selznick releases.

* * *

Manager Irving Lesser of the Golden Gate Film Exchange announces that Mr. Applestill, of the Palace theater, El Centro, made a special trip this week to Los Angeles, relative to the booking of the Clara Kimball Young features for his theater.

* * *

Irving Lesser of the Golden Gate Film Exchange, having done considerable business in the past month, is rewarding himself by a ten days' vacation trip to Frisco, leaving here on the 22nd.

* * *

D. Stubbs, a former eastern exhibitor, has taken over the Keystone theater at Pico street and Western avenue, Los Angeles. We welcome Mr. Stubbs to the local film colony.

* * *

Director Ruth Ann Baldwin took her Universal company into the heart of the business section of Los Angeles a few days ago, where she made a number of scenes for her current production. These called for the use of automobiles, street cars, newsboys, and shoppers, and when Miss Baldwin started to make the scenes at Sixth and Broadway at noon, when the triffic was heaviest, crowds gathered around and the streets and the sidewalks became congested with people. This was only for a few moments, however, for the director had the scene so well mapped out that, with the aid of the traffic officer and other policemen, she was able to keep the crowds moving. A little later Miss Baldwin took her company to Fifth and Spring, another business corner, where she remained almost a half hour and here the crowds were just as large.

* * *

The making of motion pictures in the busy thoroughfares of Los Angeles at a time of day when the rush of people was at its height was quite a novelty, especially as it was the first time that the people of the southern city had ever seen a woman directing in their streets.

* * *

A new record in the filming of a serial has been established by Director Henry McRae at Universal City and which he declares will not be excelled for a long time to come. McRae took over the filming of "Liberty, a Daughter of the U. S. A.", in the middle of the twelfth episode on October 20, at 1 p. m., and by 4.30 that same evening he had exposed 1,800 feet of film.

* * *

In the succeeding thirty-eight working days, including those which were too cloudy to permit work, he photographed seven episodes of two reels each, or 14,000 feet of film, but in addition, with each episode he increased the tensity, suspense and surprises in the big border drama, making it one of the most thrilling and exciting serials ever filmed.

* * *

After having played leading parts in Thanhouser films, Mignon Anderson, one of the daintiest actresses of filmdom, has joined the acting forces of Lois Weber at Universal City and is playing opposite Ben Wilson in a five-reel current production.

Among her notable screen successes are "Mill on the Floss," "The Price of Her Silence," "The Substitute," "Her Menacing Past," "The Tin Soldier and the Doll," and "The City of Illusion."

COMMUTER HORSLEY IN AGAIN, OUT AGAIN.

David Horsley, the Los Angeles producer and Hollywood's first motion picture manufacturer, stepped into New York on December 14 and stepped out again December 20 so as to be with the family for that Christmas turkey. The visit marks Mr. Horsley's sixth round trip for the year and his twenty-sixth since October, 1911. During his stay the producer executed a new contract with the Mutual Film Corporation. By the terms of it Mr. Horsley will be enabled to make pictures for distribution through other agencies. He intends to enter the state right field. Just now he is at work on a story of the Kimberley diamond fields, and scenes are being taken for the picture in London and South Africa. The subject is expected to run six or seven reels and will contain spectacular "stunts" in the way of publicity and marketing accelerators.

HORKHEIMERS SEND OUT ARTISTIC SOUVENIRS.

Horkheimer Brothers, the California motion picture manufacturers who put Long Beach on the map and renewed to memory the name and fame of Balboa, have sent to a few of their friends handsome combination bill folds and card cases. These are of a superior quality of leather. Across the outside is stamped a sheaf of grain. In the center of the inside is an identification card. On one of the two-card case covers is printed in letters of gold the name of the recipient. Altogether it is a most acceptable souvenir. Those lucky members of the World crew who received one unite in saying: "Yes, sirs; thank you for the remembrance."

1916-Paramount Pictures-1917

Review and Preview of Big Feature Distributing Organization

By Hiram Abrams, President.

THE accomplishments of Paramount Pictures Corporation during 1916 far exceeded our expectations. The plans for 1917 are more elaborate, far more efficient and thorough than ever before. Our accomplishments have been great because our first thought has been the exhibitor, to whom we have given our sincere co-operation in every phase of his business, giving him exclusive territory through which we have attained and maintained his confidence, while the productions he has been given have been better pictures for better theaters and a better public. Our future efforts will naturally be based upon these same principles in a far more elaborate way.

There is every reason in the world for Paramount to be justly proud of the productions of Famous Players, Lasky, Morosco and Pallas, which it distributes, together with the short reel features it has added during the past year. Pictures we distributed in the beginning of the year were of the highest quality, but they became better and better as the year grew older until we ourselves wondered whether there would ever come a limit to photoplay perfection.

Take, as a matter of comparison, the record for the past ten years of a few theatrical producers and figure the number of successes they have produced. The average has been two each year, and the majority have had fewer that have continually played to standing room on Broadway and the largest theaters in the country, as has been the case in Paramount Pictures. Paramount's producers have made 104 "standing room only" productions in the past year. Is there any wonder why we are justly proud of our productions?

With these productions in hand our first thought has been the exhibitor, because without the exhibitor all our efforts would be wasted; because we have selected the lowest cost selling plan to keep the price down to such a figure that the smallest town in the country and the smallest neighborhood theater could play the same pictures that were shown in the largest and most beautiful theaters in the States; because we have given every exhibitor an absolute protective territory in which his price has been in equity with the size of his community and the size of his theater; because we have brought the greatest stars into our pictures to attract for the exhibitor the better class of people and have provided for him a given number of consistently high grade pictures each week.

During the latter part of the year, 1916, Paramount, through its exchanges, went a step further than any other company in the industry in its exhibitors' co-operative service, in that they distributed over $200,000 worth of accessories of every description to help the exhibitor to present to the public in a quality manner the productions they were distributing. In every exchange there was established Publicity and Exhibitor's Aids Departments to carry out the gigantic plans that had been made, and from every section of the country thousands of congratulatory letters have been sent to us because of this move.

The program pictures are the pictures that will hold absolute sway in the future, so long as the program features are maintained to the standard of high quality, which we have had in the past year. The program is the logical method. The exhibitor has often been called upon to figure out what his service is based upon. They know that it is based on the cost of production plus the cost of distribution. The cost of production averages about the same for all producers. The cost of distribution, however, is mostly selling cost. The exhibitor knows that it costs less to sign up a man once for a period of weeks for quality pictures than it does to sell him on each separate picture, nine or ten times a month. Paramount selected in the beginning the program plan, so that it would always be possible to give the exhibitor the best pictures at the fairest price. And that's why the program is the logical way.

The greatest hope of the motion picture theater rests with the people. It makes no difference how you approach the subject—the public is always concerned and very largely determines, through public opinion, future tendencies.

As wonderful as pictures have been in the past, so much more wonderful will they become in the future, proportionate to the growth and advancement of the art. Pictures were good two years ago, better last year and far superior will they be during the year to come. There is no limitations to the art, and there will be no limits our companies will not go to to bring this advancement about.

"The Garden of Allah" Sold

Selig's New Feature Purchased by Harry A. Sherman, Who Takes World's Rights at a Record Price.

NOTWITHSTANDING all reports to the contrary, Harry A. Sherman has purchased the rights for the entire world for William N. Selig's film dramatization of Robert Hichen's novel, "The Garden of Allah," in ten reels. The price paid is said to be the largest in the history of moving pictures. Mr. Sherman bought the picture in his usual rapid and fiery way, meeting William N. Selig in New York last Monday morning. He witnessed a private showing. "What's the price?" asked Sherman. "Half a million dollars," said Selig. "I'll take it," said Sherman, and the half million dollar deal was closed.

Harry A. Sherman, one of the foremost buyers of state's rights, is a trained investigator in the motion picture industry and in the last six months has invested over a million and a half dollars in state rights features. A little over two months ago he bought the rights for the United States and Canada for "The Crisis," and in five weeks successfully exploited all the rights.

William N. Selig in an interview declares: "'The Garden of Allah' is the most elaborate picture I have completed, and the only one in which I have ever taken such a personal interest."

Colin Campbell, who directed the picture under Mr. Selig's supervision, says that "it is the most wonderful film I have directed." "The Spoilers," "The Ne'er Do Well," and "The Crisis" were all under Mr. Campbell's direction.

"I am satisfied that the super feature, 'The Garden of Allah,' is a marvelous piece of work, founded as it is on the famous novel by Robert Hichens; already in print in some twenty-eight languages, the book has a wide circulation. Not only that, but the picturization of the play follows the book closely. Not a character or scene in the book but what you find it in the screen version. The acting and the photography is marvelous. In securing the rights for 'The Garden of Allah' I have the greatest feature in the motion picture industry today, and expect to dispose of it in even less time than 'The Crisis,'" declared Mr. Sherman.

Death of John Edward (Jack) Moore

Young Newspaperman of Unusual Promise Passes Away After Short Illness—Son of J. J. Moore, of Moore & Perry, Bankers.

IN THE death of John Edward Moore at the age of twenty-four years, a distinct gap has been left that will be noticed by his associates and a large number of personal friends. One of the happiest gifts that a young newspaperman can possess, that of winning not only the respect but the esteem of those with whom his business brings him in contact, was his in large measure. It was the result partly of his heart qualities of sincerity and innate justice—he stood upon his own feet and didn't need to be conscious that he was the equal of the best—and it was partly the result of the brilliant texture of his mind that made him worth while as a companion.

His success is proof enough that this brilliance was no more play of quick wits in John Edward Moore. He had substantial grasp. His father, J. J. Moore, senior partner of the banking firm of Moore and Perry, wanted him to find a life work in the bank. Jack, for his friends always knew him by the familiar diminutive and in a year's time he became assistant to the advertising manager of George Kleine. Ten months later he took a position on the staff of The Textile World and was already a man who had to be taken into account.

His sudden death was unexpected by his friends. He was a good deal of an athlete, fond of out-of-door sports and a good man among men in the field. He was born and brought up in Hoboken, N. J., and the interment will be made at Point Pleasant, N. J.

J. K. BURGER VISITS BRANCHES.

J. K. Burger, Assistant General Manager of the International, in charge of branches and agencies, is now on an extended trip to the principal cities of the Middle West, South and Southwest in the interest of the forthcoming production of "Patria," in which Mrs. Vernon Castle is starred.

The International now has fifteen branches and Mr. Burger keeps in constant touch with them all. His present trip includes Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis, Atlanta, Washington and Philadelphia. He will return for the holidays.

Chaplin Scandinavian Rights

Sold by Chester Beecroft to John Carlson at Record Price

A RECORD sale has just been closed between the Lone Star Film Corporation and John Carlson for the rights to the Chaplin-Mutual Series for Scandinavia. The sale was negotiated and concluded by Chester Beecroft who is now operating as an independent exporter of films on a mammoth scale. This is the third Chaplin deal that Mr. Beecroft has closed, each sale calling for a sum of money that has astonished even those who were most confident in the unusual drawing power of the $670,000 a year comedian.

The most conspicuous of Mr. Beecroft's Chaplin sales was the deal by which he obtained nearly a half million dollars—one-third cash in advance plus the cost of prints for the United Kingdom. It has been announced from Mr. Beecroft's office at 71 West Twenty-third street, that he has opened up negotiations from all other parts of the world for Chaplin pictures and that announcement of the closing of contracts for three other foreign territories will be made within the next few days. Mr. Beecroft's activities are not confined to disposing of the Chaplin pictures, as he has already established relations with the most powerful distributors in Great Britain, France, Australia, Africa, India, Scandinavia and Argentine thru which the product of premiere American manufacturers will be distributed, contracts having already been closed amounting to a gross business of from two to two and one-half million dollars a year to the manufacturer and distributor.

Mr. Carlson controls all of the Chaplin pictures made previous to the Chaplin-Mutual Series in Scandinavia, and is said to have paid $18,500 on account of a total which will be far in excess of the advance payment for the twelve Chaplin-Mutual subjects.

GOLLAN, KLEINE DIRECTOR, PASSES ON

The many professional friends of Campbell Gollan, director of several successful George Kleine features, were immeasurably shocked when the New York papers of December 14 announced his death the day previous at his home in West Eighty-Sixth street. Mr. Gollan's illness was a short one, and few of his associates were prepared for the sad tidings.

Campbell Gollan was born in Scotland fifty years ago. When but sixteen years of age he came to America and soon won recognition for his splendid work on the stage. His natural artistry and conscientious studiousness gave him an enviable position in the profession. Among other important parts, Mr. Gollan played the role of Jean Du Barry in "Du Barry" with Mrs. Leslie Carter, and was a member of the company of American players, headed by Mrs. Carter, which George Kleine took to Europe for the making of the film version of the play. Later he became a motion picture director and produced several multiple-reel features for Mr. Kleine, including "Wild Oats," "The Scarlet Road," and others. He also assisted in the direction of "Gloria's Romance," the great Kleine serial featuring Miss Billie Burke.

Professionally, Mr. Gollan was a consummate artist, both as actor and director. His charming personality won for him the universal affection and esteem of a wide acquaintanceship. In his passing, the motion picture industry has suffered a distinct loss.

APOLLO TAKES SOLAX PLANT.

Apollo Pictures, Inc. has taken over the U. S. Amusement Corp. studio at Fort Lee, N. J. for the production of its pictures. The property was formerly known as Solax Studios but has been since enlarged by the addition of a new glass structure, 100 by 250 feet, and a number of other improvements. Harry R. Raver, president of Apollo Pictures, Inc., completed the arrangements for the use of studio and all its facilities with Herbert Blache, head of the U. S., the term of the lease being five years with renewal privileges. This gives Apollo Pictures ample equipment for staging productions of any magnitude at a minimum of expense.

PATHE'S "THE LIGHT THAT FAILED" OPENS NEW THEATER

The opening feature at Turner and Dahnken's new Oakland theater, Oakland, California, was "The Light That Failed," the Pathe Gold Rooster play produced from Kipling's masterpiece.

This theater has the biggest seating capacity on the coast and has been erected at an enormous cost. It is one of the most complete houses in the United States, including tea rooms for the ladies and a number of other innovations.

George Le Guere—McClure Pictures

GEORGE LE GUERE, one of the seven stars of the Seven Deadly Sins, the McClure series of five-reel features, studied to be a writer. Instead, he became a motion picture actor. Mr. Le Guere was born in New Orleans. Although he really did come from "an old Southern family," Mr. Le Guere seldom mentions it. A genuine Southerner, like a genuine millionaire, seldom boasts about a fact that should be self-evident.

George Le Guere.

He attended Georgetown University, at Washington, D. C., and was graduated at the age of twenty. He was prominent in literary work at college, being the editor of the Georgetown College Journal, and winner of four gold medals for English and debating.

In college Mr. Le Guere became ambitious to go on the stage. He went to work in a railroad office, trying to forget his histronic ambitions, but finally he gave up railroading and went to New York, where he obtained a part in Blanche Walsh's company.

After an engagement with "Strongheart," he became leading man in "Under Southern Skies," with Henry Walthall as the heavy. Since then Mr. Le Guere has created twelve parts on Broadway. He was with William Hodge in "The Man From Home," playing the part of the American boy 830 times. He was in "Rebellion" with Gertrude Elliott, in "Mr. Woo," with Walker Whiteside, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," with Eleanor Robson, and other equally popular plays. Last season he played "Gerald" with Margaret Anglin and Holbrook Blinn, in "A Woman of No Importance."

Mr. Le Guere has been extremely successful in motion pictures. He was featured in dramas produced by Pathe, Famous Players, Kleine, Essanay, Universal and Metro. In the Seven Deadly Sins, Mr. Le Guere is the young lover who protects Shirley Mason in her seven five-reel battles with temptation.

KALEM COMPANY ENTERTAINS EMPLOYES.

As this is written the stage is all set for a grand old celebration of Christmas by the Jacksonville Kalem players, which will include a dinner and dance in the studio, and the Glendale and Hollywood Kalemites are anxiously awaiting the arrival of William Wright, who is to be their host at a magnificent banquet served by the Hotel Alexandria, Los Angeles, Christmas Day.

Down Florida way, Ollie Kirkby, George Larkin, Director Ellis and other Kalemites are also going to set up a tinseled tree in the middle of the studio floor and there will be gifts from everybody to everybody.

ARTCRAFT PICTURES AT STRAND.

The management of the Strand Theatre, New York, has signed a contract with the Artcraft Pictures Corporation whereby all Mary Pickford and George M. Cohan features will be shown at the Strand Theatre exclusively in New York City.

SAMUEL ROSKAM DEAD.

Samuel Roskam, father of Edward M. Roskam, film cutter and assembler, of 220 West Forty-second street, died on the evening of December 13. The elder Roskam, who was a great believer in and lover of motion pictures, died suddenly from a heart attack.

GREENE BUYS MOSS EXCHANGE.

An announcement of interest to the exhibitors and others connected with the distribution of films in the New York territory, is the sale of the New York Exchange of the B. S. Moss Motion Picture Corporation to the Modern Feature Photoplay Co., of which Walter E. Greene is the treasurer.

New Kalem Studio

It Will Be at Glendale—To Put Several New Companies to Work.

SAFELY packed away in the suitcase carried by William Wright, of the Kalem Company, when he left this past week for California, were the plans for a new indoor studio to be erected immediately in Glendale. It will be equipped with the very latest illuminating devices and will provide room for several companies to work at the same time. The new glass-topped studio will triple Kalem's producing capacity, and it will also guard against any delays that might be caused by California's freaky weather; the outdoor studios will also be used, but they are only practicable when the sun shines.

Immediately upon his arrival, Mr. Wright will call a conference of the Coast staff to determine upon the number of new companies and their personnel that are to be set to work upon one and two-reel dramas, comedies and series pictures. Frederick R. Bechdolt, famous author, has been engaged specially to prepare an indefinite number of additional episodes.

Kalem's 1917 policy, as announced, calls for nothing over two reels in length. Its determination to stick to the short-length pictures that are the logical kind for the smaller theatres to exhibit, is based upon carefully tabulated statistics which prove, to Kalem's satisfaction, that one and two reel features are as necessary to the industry as films of greater length.

Another important bit of Kalem news is its decision to proceed at once with a new "Stingaree" series, written by E. W. Hornung, that will feature the popular True Boardman, who portrayed the Australian bushranger in the original series. Mr. Hornung's further adventures of "Stingaree" are now in the hands of Phil Lang, Kalem's scenario chief, who is now making his headquarters in Glendale.

During this year the Kalem Company will continue its policy of gradual expansion as conditions warrant increases in its producing units. Under the new plan adopted by the General Film Company, that of putting the manufacturers whose releases make up its program upon a percentage basis, an unusual incentive is offered to create a country-wide demand for Kalem subjects. In this connection, Kalem will enlarge its advertising appropriation for a direct-by-mail campaign to reach exhibitors and the public and will cooperate to the fullest extent of its ability with the General Film exchanges in aiding exhibitors to get the advertising helps, lithos, photos, etc., that they need to exploit Kalem pictures successfully.

Several changes in the personnel of the Jacksonville company are under consideration, but they are not ready to become public, nor will they interfere with the continuation of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series of single-reel thrillers directed by Robert Ellis and featuring George Larkin and Ollie Kirkby.

All in all it looks like a prosperous, eventful year for the Kalem organization and for the exhibitors who have come to rely upon Kalem releases as business-getters for their programs.

At Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of December 24 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"Snow White" at the Strand.

THE principal film feature on the Christmas week program at the Strand Theater was an adaptation of Grimm's fairy tale, "Snow White," in which Daniel Frohman presented Marguerite Clark. The introduction of "Snow White" is a novel one. Santa Claus is seen coming down the chimney, to a Christmas tree and takes from it a number of dolls. The dolls come to life and assume characters in the play. The Famous Players Film Company, the producers, have given the play elaborate settings and surrounded the star with a capable cast, including Creighton Hale, Dorothy G. Cummings, Lionel Braham and Alice Washburn.

Other interesting film attractions to be shown were "Oddities in Film Form," another chapter of Ditmar's Living Book of Nature, and a Bud Fisher comedy cartoon entitled "The Promoters."

The soloists were Nadine Lerot, Grace Hoffman, Mabel Beddoe, Enrico Arenzen, and Alfred Widerholt.

"The Americano" at the Rialto.

Douglas Fairbanks in "The Americano" was the chief dispenser of cheer on the Christmas week program at the Rialto. The picture is based on Eugene P. Lyle's story, "Blaze Derringer," and deals with the escapades of an American mining engineer who gets tangled up with a revolution in the mythical South American republic of Paragonia. Fairbanks, in the role of Derringer, falls in love with the daughter of the Paragonian presidente, rescues her father from prison, stops the revolution, restores the government to order, and does any other little thing that needs doing at the moment.

A new Christmas comedy added its share to the fun.

"20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" Next at Broadway.

Jules Verne's wonderfully imaginative story, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," visualized in screen form, followed "The People vs. John Doe" at the Broadway Theater. The famous French novelist was fifty years before the times, but in this production shows that his dreams have come true in practically every detail. Traveling twenty thousand leagues under the sea is now a fact, and the beauties which are to be found on the bed of the ocean are faithfully reproduced in this picture, which is of as great interest from a scientific trend as from an entertainment standpoint.

Eighty-first Street Theater Bill.

At the Eighty-first Street Theater four new pictures were shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Clara Williams in "Three of Many," and the latest Keystone comedy were on the program.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Bessie Love in "The Heiress at Coffee Dan's," and a Mack Sennett comedy were the picture features.

EDITH ELLIS JOINS GOLDWYN.

Edith Ellis, author of "Mary Jane's Pa," and a half a dozen other successful plays, has joined the literary staff of the new Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, the alliance forced by Samuel Goldfish, Edgar and Archibald Selwyn and Arthur Hopkins.

Miss Ellis is to be the literary adviser and judge of all manuscripts and stories submitted to the producers of Goldwyn Pictures. Working in co-ordination with Margaret Mayo and Edgar Selwyn, these three brilliant playwrights will, from the outset, insure quality for Goldwyn pictures and impart to them a definite standing—not merely for individually brilliant films but for all of the productions of the company.

Almost from childhood Edith Ellis has been an actress and dramatist. As a girl of seventeen she wrote "Dialogues From Dickens" for amateur production. Her second play was "A Path of Blunders," a musical comedy, which proved successful beyond all expectations. Her first dramatic effort was the three-act farce, "Mrs. B. O'Shaughnessy, Wash Lady." "Mary Jane's Pa" was produced in 1908.

WILLIAM C. PARKE NOW AN ASTRA DIRECTOR.

William C. Parke, who as a Thanhouser director, directed "The Shine Girl," one of the best photoplays of the year, has been engaged by the Astra Film Corporation to direct "The Double Cross," a serial which is now being made for Pathe. Mr. Parke was born in Bethlehem, Pa. He was a stock actor in the Girard avenue theater in Philadelphia, and later assistant manager. From Philadelphia he went to New York where he staged a revival of "The Sporting Duchess," with which he toured the country. In 1900 he joined E. H. Sothern and was with him for six years as advance stage manager. Then he went with Richard Mansfield and for him put on and directed Peer Gynt. Later with Arnold Daly and Helen Ware he played Bernard Shaw's "How He Lied to Her Husband." The Castle Square in Boston then sent for him to become John Craig's stage director, and he remained there for four seasons. In New York he rehearsed seven companies of "Potash and Perlmutter" and went from there to Thanhouser.

Mr. Parke is a believer in the "big little things" and delights in filling his pictures with charming little touches.

TO ISSUE ANNUAL REVIEW IN SINGLE REELS.

Films are already coming in for the first issue of the Annual Review of the year's great pictures to be distributed by the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry shortly after the first of the year. The first two reels, "Greatest Love Scenes" and "Greatest Fights of the Films," will be assembled at the same time, and will be released through the exchanges of one of the members of the National Association.

Special posters will be prepared, publicity sent out, and the merchandizing of the reels handled in the usual manner. While the Review will go out one reel at a time, it will be booked as a feature, as the interest already created and the publicity given it in the daily newspapers of the country indicate that the Review will appeal to the public and to the exhibitors wherever it is spoken of.

New Edison Productions

Under the Brand Name "Conquest Pictures" a New Weekly Program Will Be Released.

A NEW plan of producing motion pictures has been originated by Thomas A. Edison, Inc., and it soon will be given to exhibitors and the public in the form of weekly grouped programs consisting of approximately five reels of a variety of pictures under the brand "Conquest Pictures." Instead of the melodramatic type of productions that depict life from morbid and depressing viewpoints, the new Edison pictures will be clean and refreshing and will mark what their sponsors believe will prove the beginning of a new era of the silent drama. The dramatic features of the program, for the greater part, will be two and three-reel stories in which youthful characters will appear and in which clean and laudable ambition and desire for achievement will underlie the development of the plots. One and two-reel farce comedies and some unusual scientific subjects and novelties will supplement the other features.

The dramatic features of "Conquest Pictures" will be stories of the open places: the mountains, the sea, the plains and the forests. No anaemic men and neuresthenic women will be found among the characters appearing in them. The heroes of "Conquest Pictures" will be men who see the world stretching before them and who hasten into the combats and chances of life with songs in their hearts and smiles on their lips. That they will be clean stories, in every sense of the word, goes without saying.

The comedy productions that will appear on the "Conquest Pictures" program will be as high class and distinctive as anything of the kind that is being offered at the present time. They will be one and two reels in length and will be designed to dovetail with the two and three-reel dramatic productions. Each weekly program will be composed of a dramatic feature, a comedy and approximately one thousand feet of split-reel subjects. The latter will be both entertaining and educational and will consist of scientific subjects, novelty pictures and new forms of productions that will be developed as a result of continual experimental work that is being carried on at the Edison studios.

It was an endeavor to get completely away from the old "stuff" that turned the attention of the Edison Company to the project of making a series of pictures based upon the more notable stories that have been written for young people. These productions were to be adapted from the works of Ralph Henry Barbour, John Bennett, Kirk Munroe and other authors whose works have real virility and literary merit and whose stories are read by young and old.

The best portrayers of youthful roles that the stage and screen can boast will be secured to appear in "Conquest Pictures" and the present corps of Edison directors will be increased to meet the demands of producing the program. All of the present vast resources of the Edison studios, augmented in many ways, will be concentrated on the task of making these new pictures the cleanest, the most original and the most attractive ones on the market.

It is understood that they will be released through one of the largest motion picture exploiting combinations now existing, but the identity of the concern is not revealed.

Pictures for Political Propaganda

Jack London's "John Barleycorn" Used in Prohibition Campaign in Texas.

RECENTLY the Prohibition headquarters in Texas, which are carrying on a very active campaign against the saloons, have engaged Mrs. M. L. Fulton to demonstrate the evil influence of liquor on mankind by the presentation of such films as Jack London's "John Barleycorn" and others.

Mrs. Fulton contends that the saloons are as prominent a detriment to the moving picture theaters as to humanity at large, and being able to impress this fact on the Prohibition party, succeeded in getting that organization to utilize this much abused medium of education and entertainment as one of the strongest arguments for their cause.

Lately, Mrs. M. L. Fulton has taken up headquarters in Austin, Texas, in order to introduce an amendment of the Texas Sunday laws prohibiting the opening of moving picture shows on that day, also a state regulation of local censorship, and a lively campaign will be carried on until these two points have been satisfactorily adjusted for the benefit of the motion picture interest in Texas. Incidentally, owing to her support given to the cause of abolishment of the saloons, hundreds of warm friends have been gained for the cause of Sunday opening among the leading church people of Texas.

Selig Predicts a Good Year

Says 1917 Will Be One of Great Importance in Motion Picture Industry.

ISSUING a prognostication on the trend of business for the new year William N. Selig is happily optimistic, especially as his forecast concerns his own activities and those of the companies with which he is affiliated. This is what he says:

"I think the new year will be one of the most important for the motion picture. Despite the efforts of those who seek to tear down anything that is entertaining, I look for increased power and prosperity in the film industry. The manufacturers are coming to understand that it is quality and not quantity that is essential to success and they are acting logically on this understanding.

"To my mind one of the most important actions in the film world during the past few months was the organization of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service. The companies affiliated in this service are to be actuated only by quality films and not quantity. There are no stereotyped release dates that must be met. Plenty of time is accorded to the productions released through the service. In fact, there is nothing to hamper the production of quality films. I am confident that this policy will result in some marvelous changes before the new year has an opportunity to age.

"There is a distinct revival of the demand for meritorious dramas and comedies of one, two and three reels. I would not be surprised to see the split-reel come into favor once more. The demand for good subjects of shorter length will become more pronounced, I think. There is also a cry for novelty—something out of the beaten pathway and those who can supply the novel and unusual productions in 1917 will profit thereby.

"During the past year the Selig Company learned by active practice that the public was partial to feature films of seven reels or more. As an example I would cite the successful presentations of our productions, 'The Ne'er-Do-Well' and 'The Crisis.' I have no hesitancy in stating that 'The Garden of Allah' will prove wonderfully popular. The story was written by Robert Hichens, a world-famous novelist; Miss Helen Ware, a world-famous actress, has the leading role; Colin Campbell, a world-famous director, had charge of 'The Garden of Allah'; the love interest is very strong throughout the play and so there is no reason why it should not prove the most popular feature drama we have as yet released. The title in itself is of great value.

"As previously stated I think the new year will be the most auspicious ever known in the industry. The wheat is being sifted from the chaff, the business is being conducted without the elements of chance and the survival of the fittest can mean but one thing—motion pictures of quality."

MME. OLGA PETROVA BECOMES LASKY STAR.

One of the latest acquisitions of stellar talent, announced by the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, is Mme. Olga Petrova, who has signed a long term contract with Jesse L. Lasky, president of the company. In order to give ample time for the preparation of her first photoplay for the Paramount Program, on which her motion pictures will appear, the release date of her initial appearance under the new management has been set for April.

The staff of the Lasky scenario department is already at work on the examination of material for Mme. Petrova and the announcement of the selection of a number of big theatrical successes and notable literary masterpieces will shortly be made by the concern. Mme. Petrova will spend one half of each year in California and will devote the remainder of her time to the East.

EAGLE OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATION IS SPREADING.

The call for the cuts of the emblems of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry indicates that before the new year is very old, the spreading eagle of that insignia will be familiar to the trade through the advertising and stationery of such distributors of pictures as Artcraft, Cosmofotofilm, Ivan, Erbograph, Evans Manufacturing Company, Gaumont, International, Metro, Pathe, Paramount, Thanhouser, Universal, Vitagraph, World, etc., besides such supply men as J. H. Hallberg, J. P. Seeburg Piano Company, Motion Picture Supply Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, and the individual members who are using the emblem on their personal letterheads.

In addition to the cuts, the National Association is issuing proofs of the emblem for the use of artists in incorporating into advertising designs. These were sent out to the advertising members last week.

World Film to the Trade

General Manager Brady's Christmas Address to Exhibitors and Exchanges Promises Much.

THE World Film Corporation has issued to its exchanges and exhibitors a Christmas "broadside" in colors, which in addition to its pictorial attractions contains a number of interesting declarations of policy and fact. The forecast for 1917 promises that:

"World Pictures will be produced by and bear the official O. K. of William A. Brady.

"All World Pictures Brady-made will be released on the World program—(no specials).

"The policy of the World permits only the filming of big, clean, virile pictures that make for increasing and continuing patronage.

"World Pictures Brady-made will be made months in advance—a guaranteed product not marred by the necessity for hasty release.

"Dependability will be the keynote in production; seat selling the accomplishment of a highly developed, keen distributing organization.

"These are our policies and promises for 1917.

"We send them as a Christmas message, wishing that ours may be the opportunity of assisting you further in making the coming New Year a most prosperous one."

Elsewhere in the "broadside" the portraits of the stars and principals appearing in current and coming World pictures are printed. The list is altogether formidable, including Alice Brady, Kitty Gordon, Ethel Clayton, Gail Kane, Marie Dressler, Clara Kimball Young, June Elvidge, Gerda Holmes, Muriel Ostriche, Evelyn Greeley, Doris Kenyon, Olive Tell, Madge Evans, Robert Warwick, Lew Fields, Carlyle Blackwell, Alexis Kosloff, E. K. Lincoln, Arthur Ashley, Montagu Love, Johnny Hines, Edward Langford, George McQuarrie, Rockliffe Fellowes, John Bowers, Henry Hull, etc.

Mr. Brady's personal "Merry Christmas" to the employes of the World Company, issued separately from the broadside, took on a note of sincere friendly enthusiasm, as follows:

"It is peculiarly gratifying to be able to wish one's associates a Merry Christmas with something more than the feeling that commonly springs up with this greeting—a sense of reliance, of comradeship, of regard based upon the knowledge that none has been found wanting.

"This has been a great year for World pictures, for various reasons.

"They have kept up to the promise I made you concerning them months ago. In some instances they have far excelled that promise.

"If you ever felt in advance that possibly you were extolling these pictures too highly, the pictures themselves have justified you.

"There has been no time when any of your patrons could accuse you of overembellishment of World products or that you could feel otherwise than proud of your association with them.

"On the other hand, I feel in similar measure proud of the allegiance of men like you, individually and collectively. You have been on deck at all times, every man at his post, knowing what to do—and doing it.

"It would avail me little to make the best motion pictures in the world and be unable to sell them by reason of an inefficient selling force.

"But World pictures are being sold, in extraordinary and multiplying volume. The advancing record is one of the most amazing features of the motion picture industry.

"I am profoundly grateful to you for your very important part in producing this result—but more than this, for the spirit, the loyalty, the enthusiasm, the man-to-man determination with which you have carried forward the conquest.

"On the record of the parting year I feel that we may well adopt the slogan of the Three Guardsmen of undying romance, 'One for all, and all for one!'

"And so it is that with all my thanks and out of a full heart, I wish you A Merry Christmas."

JOHNS-MANVILLE GIVES EMPLOYES 10 PER CENT. BONUS.

Every employe of the H. W. Johns-Manville Company who has been with the company a year or more was gladdened by the receipt of a Christmas greeting signed by President Manville announcing the Board of Directors' decision to give a bonus equal to 10 per cent. of the year's salary.

This action was prompted by the very satisfactory earnings of the company in 1916 and the splendid service rendered by the J-M employes.

Nathan H. Friend

THE importance of the animated cartoon as a branch of the moving picture industry can perhaps best be illustrated by the strides that have been made in recent months of the Bray Studios, Inc., the largest producers of this kind of picture.

Six short years ago this business was started by J. R. Bray in a tiny studio, rigged up in an attic room in a farm house, in Ulster County. With infinite patience and untiring perseverence, Mr. Bray managed to produce a series of fairly well animated drawings. The drawback, however, from a business standpoint, lay in the fact that the time required was too great to allow of a selling price that would compensate him for his efforts.

Nathan H. Friend.

From the attic room in the farm house, the little business was moved to a studio in New York City, and grew slowly up to a few months ago, when Bray cartoons came into so wide a demand that it was found necessary to enlarge the company's facilities at once. Nearly half of one entire floor in the Neptune Building at 23 East 26th street was leased and a score of artists, camera men and assistants engaged.

Consequent with this expansion the Bray Studios found need for some one to take over the business end, in order to make it possible for Mr. Bray to devote his entire time to production. Nathan H. Friend, a brother of Arthur S. Friend, treasurer of the Famous Players-Lasky Co., was brought in and installed as business and publicity manager.

Mr. Friend, up to the time of his association with the Bray Studios, was advertising and sales manager of one of the largest manufacturing concerns in the East and will, without doubt, be a factor in the moving picture world. He has concluded plans for the further popularization of the Bray Studios' products which he promises will bring good round dollars to every live exhibitor.

INTEREST CHECKS ON CASH DEPOSITS.

George Kleine made a decided hit with the exhibitors last week when, for the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service, he sent out hundreds of checks representing accrued interest on cash deposits left by exhibitors with the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service under Mr. Kleine's booking plan.

It is so unusual for an exhibitor to receive cash recognition in any manner, shape or form from exchanges that Mr. Kleine's personal mail is burdened these days with letters from exhibitors thanking him for the interest checks and commending without qualification his new booking plan. Many of the exhibitors throughout the country wrote to Mr. Kleine that they were so pleased with his fair treatment of them in connection with their cash deposits that they had the checks framed and hung in their office as reminders of a "square deal." Among those who did this were John Murray of Warren, Ohio; James Sherwood, Grand Theater, Madison, Wis., and William Cadoret, New Princess Theater, Kankakee, Ill.

The checks referred to represent accrued interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. They average about $14 each.

NEW MANAGER FOR K-E-S-E BRANCH.

B. M. Moran, who has been traveling through the West and Northwest as a special representative of George Kleine, has been assigned as manager to the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay New Orleans Branch, where, until Monday, Dec. 18, J. C. Ragland was in charge.

Mr. Moran is expected to stimulate greatly the business at the New Orleans Branch. Exhibitors will find that he brings with him a thorough knowledge of the needs of exhibitors and interprets correctly the word "service" as used in connection with a big film exchange.

Thelma Salter in "The Crab"

THELMA SALTER, with whom Frank Keenan will soon be co-starred in the Triangle-Kay Bee production, "The Crab," is the youngest member of the Ince acting forces at Culver City, but is considered by many competent judges to possess more talent than many of her associates three or four times her age. It is expected that the general army of film fans will acquiesce in this opinion when "The Crab" is released some time next month.

Thelma Salter.

Thelma takes the part of Ivy Marten, a homeless waif, who is given a home by Foster Borrum, a grasping and unsympathetic man of affairs in a poor community. Although she is barely seven now, Thelma has been a motion picture actress for three years. She first attracted the attention of E. H. Allen, business manager of Kay Bee studios, by the dramatic instinct she displayed in acting out a scene with her dolls on the porch of her home. Mr. Allen lost no time in becoming acquainted with the child and her mother, and it was soon discovered that Thelma could act even better before the camera than she could for an audience of dolls. Her first success was in "The Flower of the Desert," and she also scored in "The Sign of the Rose." Besides acting in Kay Bee productions, Thelma has been loaned to both the Keystone and Fine Arts companies for special features.

The pet of the entire plant at Culver City, Thelma plays among the unused sets when off duty, or rides her pony over the surrounding hills, accompanied by one or more of her favorite cow-punchers, who are her devoted admirers and loyal henchmen.

Henry Lehrman

WITHIN a few weeks Henry Lehrman's first comedy for William Fox's Foxfilm brand will be released. He is making it now, and all the talent which has been manifested in his previous comedies will be used to evoke laughs from the most serious-minded observer. Mr. Lehrman began work in motion pictures a long time ago with the Pathe company as an extra, but his light could not be hid beneath a bushel. Quickly rising to the fore as a comedy actor, he soon proved that he was more valuable than the directors who had charge of him.

Henry Lehrman.

He joined Mack Sennett in the Keystone company at its organization. He remained about two years. Then Lehrman took charge of the Ford Sterling company, which released through Universal. A short time later he formed the L-Ko company, company, continuing to release on the Universal program. With this company he remained until his recent arrangement with William Fox.

During a brief illness a few months ago, Mr. Lehrman had a projection machine erected above his bed, and every night the work his directors had done that day would be shown him. He would not let a day go by without keeping up with everything which was being done at his studios.

The first comedy which Mr. Lehrman is making for William Fox has a cast headed by himself, Billie Ritchie, Gertrude Selby and Dot Farley. "Montana Kid," the famous comedy dog, is also down among the principals.

GEORGE R. ALLISON.

GEORGE R. ALLISON, known as one of the best exchange managers in the south, is to again assume charge of Pathe's Atlanta office. Everybody in the industry knows "Geo. R." and exhibitors south of the Mason and Dixon line swear his word is as good as a government bond. A splendid advertising and publicity man as well as a thorough young business executive who has had years of training in the theatrical and film business, Mr. Allison ranks among the leaders of Pathe's star organization.

George R. Allison.

Immediately preceding his former two years with Pathe, Mr. Allison acted as manager for the General Film Company and was the original path finder in the South for their larger feature productions when they distributed them from separate branches several years ago.

Mr. Allison several years ago inaugurated and edited the first motion picture section on a daily and Sunday newspaper in the East devoted exclusively to news of the silent screen. Since then his prediction that high class feature subjects would be reviewed in the columns of our dailies just as conscientiously as stage plays has come true. Allison is able to invest in his work an experience of eleven years in the front of the house in theaters where the eminent stars of the theatrical world made their biggest hits and he has established a reputation from coast to coast.

J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of Pathe welcomes Mr. Allison's return. "It is this tvpe of man," he says, "that is making the sales organization which C. R. Seelye is building with such a marked success.

MARY McALISTER IN "LITTLE SHOES."

Mary V. McAlister, the little girl of seven years, who has made quite a success in Essanay pictures, will shortly be seen in "Whomsoever Shall Offend." She has just completed her part in "Little Shoes," the next Henry B. Walthall feature.

ONE A MONTH.

Eleven motion pictures in eleven months is the record of Carlyle Blackwell, the principal male star of the World Film Corporation, and by a curious coincidence the eleventh play on the list carries the title, "The Eleventh Hour."

CASSARD WINS AN UMBRELLA, A REGULAR ONE.

S. S. Cassard, advertising manager of the Nicholas Power Company, has been presented by the men in his department with a silver-handled umbrella. And that's a most useful gift these weathery days in New York.

JANE GREY TO CONTINUE IN MOVIES.

Such an attraction has the silent drama proved for Jane Gray that she gave up the leading part in "Her Market Value," which was about to be produced, to play the part of Silver Sands in "When My Ship Comes In," the new Golden Eagle feature now being filmed by the A. H. Jacobs Photoplays for the International.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

On Pathe Program

"Her New York," Five-Reel Gold Rooster Photoplay With Gladys Hulette; Sixth Episode of "Pearl of the Army," and the Final Installment of "The Shielding Shadow."

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"Her New York."

"HER NEW YORK," the five-reel Pathe Gold Rooster photoplay produced by Thanhouser with Gladys Hulette as the star, has much of the ingeniousness and most of the charm of a fairy tale. It is the story of a little country girl who runs away to the city, falls into the trap of a female white slaver, is saved through the instrumentality of a pet hen, and is married to a young chap who boldly proclaims that he is going to support her by writing poetry—and makes good. If this doesn't prove the story's close connection with tales of fairy lore, we have all been mightily deceived as to the chronic condition of the verse market, both here and abroad.

Scene from "Her New York" (Pathe).

Agnes C. Johnson, the author of the scenario, has woven other artless bits of fiction into the play, one incident being to supply the hero with a ready-made family by the simple expedient of having an unfortunate woman place her baby upon the young chap's dumbwaiter and send the little fellow up as a sort of novel Christmas present. The youngster is welcomed by his new foster father and received in the same spirit by the foster father's sweetheart, when she arrives on the scene. The poet's rascally employer attempts to separate the couple by hinting at a scandal surrounding the baby's origin, but the young wife's faith in her husband foils the villain and causes him to experience a change of heart. He clears Philip's good name and secures him a job at verse making—at greatly increased rates.

The setting forth of Miss Johnson's brain child in cold type fails to bring out its attractive qualities. Right from the start "Her New York" lulls the spectator's hard common sense to sleep and forces him to accept, and enjoy, a series of experiences that while they lack the extravagance of "Alice in Wonderland," have no firmer foundation in fact. Much of the success of the picture may be contributed to the acting of Gladys Hulette in the character of Phoebe. Although she must be aware that only simple country maidens that come to the city and land in the Ziegfeld chorus find New York such a particularly delectable plum, she enters into the spirit of her role with such hearty good will and belief and bestows upon it such a likable personality and so sure a knowledge of the art of acting, the result is five reels of solid enjoyment. William Parke, Jr., exhibits equal faith in the reality of the youthful poet whose muse finds inspiration in extolling the merits of the succulent canned bean, and Riley Chamberlain adds one of his authentic character studies to the general joy. Carey Hastings, Robert Vaughn and Ethyle Cooke are adequate selections for the other parts.

"Major Brent's Perfidy."

The previous installment of "Pearl of the Army," it will be recalled, left Pearl and Adams almost submerged by the rapidly rising water in the cellar of their prison. They succeed in making their escape, at the opening of the sixth episode; then follows a series of startling adventures. Pearl gets away from Adams, by using a flying machine, but is first forced to surrender the plans to him. The important bit of paper next passes into the hands of Brent, who returns it to Col. Dare, and is sent to Washington with the plans. The Silent Menace learns of this, and follows Brent and Pearl on board the train. There is a struggle and Pearl, who now has the plans in her possession, is thrown from the train. Chased by Bolero's band, she paddles across a river, only to be relieved of the prize by a masked man.

"The Last Chapter."

The final number of "The Shielding Shadow" brings matters to a satisfactory close. Sebastian, finding that he cannot escape capture, plunges to death from a high cliff, and Jerry discloses himself to Leontine as Ravengar, the man who has so mysteriously shielded her from so many dangers. His explanation of his escape from the cuttlefish is a realistic piece of screen reproduction and the serial vindicates its claim as a "thriller" that delivers more than the specified number of thrills.

"The Lash of Destiny"

First of Art Dramas Pictures Is Moderately Strong Five-Reel Drama—Produced by Van Dyke Film Corporation.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

ART DRAMAS, INC., offers as its first release "The Lash of Destiny," a moderately strong five-reel drama, with Gertrude McCoy in the leading role. The picture, which was produced by the Van Dyke Film Corporation, can be relied upon to hold the interest of an average audience throughout the running of the five reels. Although the old idea of the young country girl who is caught up in the whirlpool of the big city is the foundation on which the story was built, enough new material has been used to make the finished product dramatically interesting. There are a number of good situations to be found in the picture.

Scene from "The Lash of Destiny" (Art Dramas).

Miss McCoy is equal to the demands of the role of the country girl who gets a position singing in a city cabaret. The role is not entirely a happy one, inasmuch as the girl is responsible, although innocently so, of breaking up a home. Miss McCoy has been surrounded with a capable supporting cast, which includes Duncan McRae, Arthur Housman, Mabel Scott and Helen Green. Mr. McRae is seen as the country youth who makes good in the city. Mr. Housman's work as the heavy is especially good. Miss Scott and Miss Green are competent. Directed by George Terwilliger.

"Snow White"

Marguerite Clark Has Title Role in Remarkable Six-Part Production of Famous Players.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

MARGUERITE CLARK comes into her own in "Snow White," the Famous Players-Paramount release of Christmas Day. "Snow White" may not have been made for her, but easily it may be said she was made for "Snow White." For into the interpretation of this mite of a princess she puts all the witchery, charm and suppleness of which she is capable—and that is saying a lot. Into the direction of the subject J. Searles Dawley has injected what he knows in the way of artistry, of imagery, of dramatic values—and that, too, is also saying a lot. H. Lyman Broening was the man who stood behind the camera, the man who skillfully transferred to the screen the shadowy counterpart of that artistry and that imagery and that beauty.

Scene from "Snow White" (Famous Players).

A six part picture is a novelty for Paramount, but there was abundant justification for letting "Snow White" run. Plainly a matter of expense or of time has not deterred Mr. Dawley in the making of the subject. Another novelty that will be noted in the picture—that is, so far as this producing company is concerned—is in the titling. It is of the illuminated atmospheric description and is well done. The notable exteriors were photographed in Georgia. Here we have great trees and little trees, "bearded with moss and in garments green." The former is of the deep-hanging Spanish variety, picturesque always and a treat to Northern eyes.

Miss Clark entered upon the making of the picture no stranger to the role of Snow White. For two seasons she played the part in the Little theater, under the direction of Winthrop Ames. The latter gave the company the benefit of his knowledge of staging the subject and also loaned the costumes used in the stage presentation.

Scene from "Snow White" (Famous Players).

"Snow White" is not only a Christmas story; it is a fairy story, with its witches, its drawfs, and its giant. And there is magic, too. Its opening is strong in the flavor of Christmas. Old Santy climbs out of the fireplace, and from his bag arrays on a great table a wonderful assortment of dolls. A little girl slips down the stairs and peeks at him at his work. As she runs back upstairs and the bearded figure departs the dolls are transformed into miniature humans. A moment later we are in babyland. A giant stork, bearing the appeal of the queen, goes straight to the dispenser of heirs and heiresses, and after one is selected from among the forest of kicking infants' legs bears it back to its new mother. And in the bundle is "some" baby, too.

Dorothy G. Cumming, an Australian player, is Queen Brangomar, who by means of foul magic seeks the destruction of Snow White. Creighton Hale is Prince Florimond, who falls in love with Snow White and will have none other for his princess. Lionel Braham, who played Caliban at the Stadium during the Shakesperean revival in New York, is the huntsman of robust mold, the good friend of Snow White who refuses to kill her at the direction of the evil Brangomar. Alice Washburn is Witch Hex, who employs her powers for the destruction of the abused princess. Then there are the seven drawfs, the real things, too, and the three children of the huntsman.

"Snow White" is a remarkable picture—remarkable for the way it establishes illusion, for the way it makes the unreal seem real, for its pictorial quality, and for its real drama, which will hold and move the adult as it will the child. It is a picture for the family, and if in the family there be small children you don't have to guess the chief topic of their conversation for days after seeing "Snow White."

"The Phantom Buccaneer"

A Thrilling Essanay Production Founded on Victor Bridges' Novel, with Richard C. Travers and Gertrude Glover in the Leading Roles.

Reviewed by James S. McQuade.

"THE PHANTOM BUCCANEER" has a story that will permit no napping by the spectator, as the action is fast and furious at times—and at no time can it be called tame. At certain points, however, one has difficulty in following the story clearly, owing to the introduction of characters that are unfamiliar, and while the mind is engaged in the effort to establish their identity things are happening that demand one's complete attention. Hence the obfuscation referred to.

Scene from "The Phantom Buccaneer" (Essanay).

Richard C. Travers will win a warm welcome in this adventurous photo-melodrama. He has as many lives as the proverbial cat, judging from his numerous escapes from sudden death in the assumption of the role by Jack Burton, of the villain Stuart Northcote. Mr. Travers appears in both roles, apparently at the same time, by an ingenious use of double exposure, and the spectator cannot fail to note that these characters, while alike in face and figure, are very different in manner and in facial expression. In other words the spirit of each man always retains its separate identity, while the bodily appearance is apparently the same always.

Mr. Travers has evidently lost none of his dashing scrapping powers, and this despite his mishaps from swiftly moving trains and other deadly playthings encountered in his career. The melee aboard the yacht, where Jack Burton and his associates rescue Mercia Solano from an attempted abduction, gives full proof of that. In his love scenes with Mercia, Jack Burton is tenderness itself.

Gertrude Glover's Mercia is a winsome little creature. When a shy, retiring young woman binds herself by oath with a gang of cutthroats to avenge the death of her murdered father, we do not expect any extraordinary exploits on her part. But the real story brings surprises. Mercia turns out to be fearless and determined, and both these qualities, strange to say.

are shown in her endeavor to save the man who is supposed to have been the prompting agent in the murder of her father.

The photography is up to the Essanay standard.

The release was made Sunday, December 17, through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay service.

"A Woman Alone"

Five-Reel Peerless Screen-Drama With Alice Brady as the Heroine Released by the World Film Corporation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

AN UNSOPHISTICATED country girl who nearly becomes the victim of a well-dressed scoundrel from the city is the heroine of "A Woman Alone," a five-reel Peerless screen drama on the Word Film Corporation program. Frances Marion, who wrote the scenario, has kept close to the approved and well-tried pattern for dramas of this order, in following the general outline of the story; but has shown considerable ability in putting the material together and in the use of local color. The discontent of the young wife who finds existence, at the lonely railway station, even with the man she loves, too much for her nerves, and who attracts the advances of the dissolute young cub whose father is president of the road, is an excellent motive, and the ensuing consequences are not overdrawn. The characters in "A Woman Alone" are all simple-minded folk and their mental processes result in the most obvious and matter-of-fact views of life; but, as it is also an undisputed fact that there exists a large number of faithful followers of the screen that take a deep interest in the fate of such persons, the drama under discussion more than justifies its being. Harry Davenport has directed it with skill and chosen the locations with a keen eye to the story's requirements.

Scene from "A Woman Alone" (World).

Alice Brady as Nellie Waldron, the unhappy young wife who learns her lesson by practical experience, has a part to which she is suited in every respect. She is in evident sympathy with the varying moods of the character and leaves herself open to possible criticism on but one point—the number of becoming frocks she wears that were never fashioned by a country dressmaker.

Edward T. Langford is another happy choice on the part of the casting committee. His performance of Tom Blane is unlabored, forceful and physically satisfying. Arthur Ashley succeeds in giving his impersonation of young Carter the requisite stamp of conviction, and J. Clarence Harvey presents an equally truthful type of the modern master of finance. Edward M. Kimball, Justin Cutting and Walter H. Greene complete the cast.

"Indiscretion"

There Are Strong Situations in Vitagraph Picture Featuring Lillian Walker.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

SITUATIONS of strength characterize the last third of "Indiscretion," the Vitagraph release for New Year's Day. Lillian Walker is featured in a story of a willful girl's abiding faith in human kind, regardless of warnings by those older and more experienced in the world's ways. Strange as it may sound to some, Miss Walker displays a higher degree of art in situations of stress and of danger than she does when depicting the exuberance of care-free girlhood. The latter by many has been considered her best role; a while ago perhaps it was.

William Addison Lathrop has written a good story and Wilfrid North has ably put it on the screen. Mr. North has surrounded his leading player with a cast comprising Walter McGrail, Thomas R. Mills, Richard Wangeman, Mrs. West, Josephine Earle, Thomas Brooks and Robert Gaillard. Mr. McGrail portrays the lover and Mr. Mills the husband admired by every woman except his own wife.

There is a bit of comedy in the opening scenes. Miss Walker in a not elaborate one-piece bathing suit establishes her unconventional tendencies by trouncing and pushing into the lake a young man who had attempted to steal her clothes. At another time she pushes into the lake a groom delegated to accompany her on a ride, thereby enabling her to have her own way and be by herself. These and similar incidents go far to create a frame of mind on the part of the spectator that give increased force to the stern situations near the close—the flirtation with the married friend, the unwise automobile ride, the battle behind the locked doors in the hotel.

The picture is well acted and well staged; altogether it is a strong subject.

"Black Orchids"

Artistic Production of a Five-Reel Romance Bearing the Bluebird Seal, to Be Released New Year's Day.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE author of "Black Orchids," a five-reel romance produced for the Bluebird by Rex Ingram, is a master of his profession—a writer fit to rank with Guy de Maupassant or Edgar Allan Poe. The story has all the unbridled passion of the French author's work and several touches of the uncanny and horrible that is associated with the creator of "The Murder in the Rue Morgue." Love and lust, a fatal duel, murder by poison, insane jealousy that ends in a horrible death for two more of the characters, and a father that succeeds in supplanting his son in the affections of a notorious woman, are the main incidents of a drama which deals almost exclusively with open defiance of all moral law, but which nevertheless holds the spectator's undivided attention to the end of the last reel.

The heroine of this carnival of crime is a beautiful woman, a fortune teller who reads the destinies of others by the aid of crystal gazing, but fails to foresee her own finish. She becomes, successively, the mistress of three men, then doubles back to the first of the trio—the young chap whose father has had him sent to the front battle line so that he may not interfere with the elder man's intrigue with the fascinating sibyl. The drama gets its title from a wreath of black orchids which the woman has procured for the tomb of her third lover, after the young soldier fights with and supposes he has killed the gentleman—a wealthy marquis who has willed the crystal gazer a larger fortune. Although fatally wounded, the nobleman has sufficient strength to plan and execute a terrible revenge on the woman and his rival. He succeeds in trapping them both in an air-tight vault, and then dies upon the threshold, the fourth victim of a violent death.

It goes without saying that the one factor that could make such a story acceptable to the greater portion of moving picture patrons is a display of the highest artistic achievement in the drama's production. "Black Orchids" has received just such treatment at the hands of the director, the cameraman and the members of the cast. Rex Ingram has been particularly successful with his part of the work. While no points of the plot are glossed over or left in doubt, there is no undue stress put upon any of the incidents, and the atmosphere which surrounds the entire story belongs to it by right of birth. Artistic settings and effects are of frequent occurrence, and Duke Hayward's camera has lost none of their beauty or weird suggestion.

Scene from "Black Orchids" (Bluebird).

Cleo Madison plays the French Vampire, and Wedgewood Nowell, Howard Crampton and Francis McDonald her trio of lovers. All are excellent selections physically and show fine artistic perception. "Black Orchids" is a tale within a tale, a story written by a celebrated French novelist and told to his capricious daughter, that she may be warned of the harm which lies within the power of a fickle woman. Heroic treatment, perhaps, but it effects a speedy cure.

"Enlighten Thy Daughter"

Seven-Reel Screen Drama Written and Directed by Ivan Abramson Lives Up to its Title—Released by the Ivan Film Productions.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

IN "ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER" Ivan Abramson again demonstrates his keen sense of dramatic values; he also proves that he has an unfortunate weakness for overloading his plot with extraneous matter. Stripped of the side issues which clog the action and befog the mind of the spectator, the story of "Enlighten Thy Daughter" resolves itself into a powerful object lesson on the subject indicated by the title.

The story is slow in getting underway, because of the introduction of the motive involving the Laurence family. This motive should be entirely eliminated. Once the action does strike fire, however, and save for a few minor incidents, the story moves forward with a dramatic sweep that is irresistible and ends only with the death of the unfortunate girl whose fate is the principal reason for the play's existence. The interest in this portion of the story is maintained in a masterly manner, the author's understanding of the law of contrast being a valuable aid to driving home the power and pathos of the situations. The happiness and peace of mind of the lighthearted bride is shown in opposition to the suffering and despair of the girl, who has not been warned in time. Her deathbed scene is impressive to the last degree, and all the incidents in which she figures have been treated with commendable restraint. Th bachelor supper, at the moment when the groom-elect receives the letter breaking off the engagement, is another fine dramatic point, and numerous examples of a similar nature are found throughout the play.

Scene from "Enlighten Thy Daughter" (Ivan).

To sum up the merits of "Enlighten Thy Daughter" in a sentence: Ninety per cent. of the picture is drama of excellent quality. The ending is a concession to commercialism; it is also anti-climatic. The finish comes at the death of Lillian Stevens. Justice demands that a woman of such low moral fibre as the girl's mother should pay the penalty of her sins; but a reconciliation between Lillian's parents closes the story. The father is not blameless in the matter of his daughter's downfall and were the same fault the sum of the mother's guilt such an ending would be natural and right. The woman, however, is so lost to all sense of decency that she becomes the partner of a physician whose practice is mostly of a criminal nature, in order that she may indulge her passion for gambling. She also encourages him when he makes love to her and places her daughter in his hands when she learns her secret and is thus the indirect cause of her child's death. The strength of the moral lesson that is the excuse for selecting so bold a theme loses much of its value when Mrs. Stevens is seen in her husband's arms as the story ends.

Of the work of the cast, it is a pleasure to write. The quality of histrionic ability contributed by Zena Keefe as Lillian Stevens is the high-water mark for this feature of the performance. In a part that might easily have been made mawkish and repugnant, she shows a fine restraint and conveys the mental anguish of Lillian with sure effect. Quick intelligence and deep feeling are apparent all through her work. Another consistent and earnest impersonation is the Daniel Stevens of Frank Sheridan. James Morrison, Katharine Kaelred, Marie Shotwell, Ruby De Reimer, Mathilda Brundage, Arthur Donaldson, Bernhard Neimyer, Violet Horner, Runo Hodges and Walter J. Gould are equal to the demands of their several roles.

The photography by Marcel L. Picard, the settings and the direction by Ivan Abramson are adequate.

"The Victim"

Valeska Suratt as the Persecuted Heroine in a Five-Reel Melodrama Produced by the Fox Film Corporation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

IN "THE VICTIM," a five-reel Fox photo-melodrama, Valeska Suratt, who has always been identified with the worldly-wise type of ladies during her connection with the screen, has combed her hair back, donned a simple frock and is introduced at the opening of the picture in the character of a heroine whose line of conduct is as straight as her hair. This radical departure from her previous line of impersonation is accomplished with earnestness and a creditable amount of skill.

"The Victim" is a melodrama of the obvious sort that has a large following among picture patrons that prefer an appeal to the emotions and the stimulation to be derived from witnessing a rapidly-moving crime play. Valeska Suratt impersonates a young girl whose father is a criminal, and who is forced to pay the price of her parent's sin. She becomes entangled in a robbery and, although innocent, is convicted and sent to prison. On her release, she meets and is eventually married to a wealthy young doctor, but is again accused of crime, and her past record is used against her. This leads to a third-degree scene which somewhat overtaxes the star's emotional powers, but which, nevertheless, gives the story a vigorous finish. The robbery of the bank is a well-sustained incident, and Will S. Davis, who wrote and directed the picture, has handled the entire cast to good effect. Herbert Heyes, Claire Whitney, John Charles, Joseph Granby, Charles Davis and Oscar Nye are the leading members of the support.

It should also be stated that during the latter portion of the picture the star is afforded an opportunity to wear a number of the striking and expensive gowns that have always been an important item of her screen creations.

"The Bride of Hate"

Intense Five-Reel Kay Bee, With Frank Keenan in an Exceptionally Fine Role.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

THE Bride of Hate" is a bold story by John Lynch, admirably pictured by Walter Edwards. As to the man who is responsible for the artistry of subtitle presentation only words of praise can be given. Wonderfully effective are the designs of beauty enfolding printed sentiment and conversation. They may not be always appreciated, but love of beauty is pretty general, and the harmony of effect is worth the added cost. That harmony pervades the entire release. Exteriors, interiors, it matters not, one continually senses a satisfaction to the eye. To the art of action is subtly added that of the picture in delightful composition. The story is a tragic romance of the South during slavery days in lower Mississippi.

Frank Keenan represents forcefully and with dignity a true Southern gentleman of mixed ethics. The soul of honor in finance and family purity, the wealthy planter sincerely believed that the smallest taint of negro blood drew a sharp line between the possessor of it and human beings. While in a friendly game of poker on a Mississippi steamboat he won a slave who was pure white, who had been brought up from babyhood as a negro as a matter of spite. On returning to his magnificent home, he finds that the little grand-niece he adored, the last of his blood, has killed herself from shame. He extorts the name of her betrayer from an old negro mammy and finds that Paul Cranshaw, a young sport from New Orleans, whose gambling debts he has just paid. He overcomes an impulse to kill and plans a deferred revenge.

Scene from "The Bride of Hate" (Triangle).

The supposed negress is carefully trained in conduct and dress to impersonate a wealthy young Spanish girl and given her choice of winning the young blood or going to work in the cotton fields—the contrast is powerfully enforced. She yields to the scheme of revenge and is married to Paul Cranshaw before an aristocratic social group. No sooner has the ceremony been made legal than the betrayed planter denounces the groom before his assembled guests and laughs him to scorn for having married a negress. The young man is socially tabooed and finally driven to an ignominious death. Almost at that moment, the true identity of the supposed negress is revealed and the planter makes superb restitution by her complete social re-establishment.

Quite as impressive as Keenan's fine impersonation is the subtitle theme, that of racial injustice. The story is boldly told, powerfully so at times, yet it is so well handled that it should not give offense in any part of this country. It stands in striking relief to conventional situations and is, in that respect and in beauty of presentation, a distinct contribution to the list of attractive original plays just beginning to be shown.

Latest "Grant" Episode

George Larkin Furnishes Thrills in "A Mission of State," Episode of Kalem's "Grant, Police Reporter" Series.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

TWO unusually daring feats are performed by George Larkin in "A Mission of State," latest one-reel episode of Kalem's "Grant, the Police Reporter" series. One thrill comes when Mr. Larkin leaps from the porch roof a house into the branches of a tree, and the other is furnished when Mr. Larkin jumps from a bridge into a speeding automobile that is passing under the bridge. This he does in pursuit of a man and woman spy who have stolen valuable papers from a government representative.

The story of this episode is melodramatic in the extreme. For instance, Mr. Larkin is strapped to the wall of a dungeon and faces death from a dagger that, electrically driven, moves slowly toward his throat. He manages to free himself just in time.

In the cast with Mr. Larkin are Ollie Kirkby and Director Robert Ellis. Released December 29.

"Polly Put the Kettle On"

Five-Reel Red Feather Offering Tells Satisfying Story, Adapted Particularly to the Holiday Season.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THIS offering, by Grace Helen Bailey, abounds in home scenes and has a strong holiday atmosphere. The story itself is pleasantly sentimental and while somewhat obvious in plot, leaves a nice impression on the observer. Ruth Clifford, Douglas Gerrard, Anna Dodge and Thomas Jefferson play the adult parts and Zoe Rae leads a contingent of four juveniles who win the sympathies readily.

Polly, the girl of the piece, is the sole support of the four small youngsters, whom she mothers with the help of a kindly neighbor woman. The father, an elderly widower, is an inventor of the old school, always on the verge of riches and yet unsuccessful in his numerous ventures. He dies in the course of the story and Polly is forced to look for employment.

She enters into the employ of a maiden lady of wealth, who is sending her nephew to college. An attachment springs up between Polly and the nephew, but the latter incurs his aunt's displeasure because he defends the girl when she is criticised. They both leave the house in high temper. The nephew keeps a kindly eye over the girl and the other children. He is finally blinded by an explosion.

The aunt, relenting from her anger when she learns of the accident, passes herself off as "Miss Timkins," so she can be near her nephew. Of course the latter regains his sight and all ends happily.

There are some good humorous touches strung along through this little story. Its appeal is a seasonable one and it will no doubt please a majority of observers, young and old.

"Vanity"

Emmy Whelen Featured in Five-Reel Detective Drama Drama Produced for Metro by Popular Plays and Players.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

THE screen-telling of the story visualized in "Vanity," a five-reel drama produced by Popular Plays and Players for release by Metro on December 25, should interest almost any audience. There is an element of suspense, well-sustained throughout, that keeps interest keyed up to a considerable pitch, and a leavening of romance that helps make a trifle more smooth and more palatable some of the more sordid spots and some of the illogicalities. Emmy Whelen is seen in the leading role—that of a model whose love of good clothes leads to her being placed in the power of an unscrupulous chief of detectives. Miss Whelen, a capable player, has received meritorious support. Chief among those in the supporting case are Tom O'Keefe, who is seen as the chief, and Paul Gordon, the hero. Others in the cast are Edward Martindell, W. W. Black, J. W. Hartman, Esther Evans, Norman Kaiser, Tom Cameron, Dixie Marshall and Emile Agoust.

Aaron Hoffman's story has received quite careful production in the hands of John B. O'Brien. The story tells of a girl model who is "framed" by the detective chief so that she must become a "stool pigeon." She is deputized to obtain a confession from the son of a wealthy man, in whose home a blackmailer has been murdered. The girl falls in love with the youth, but to save herself from prosecution allows the detectives to carry out their plan. The youth is brought to headquarters and confesses, although the crime was committed by the father. The girl gets evidence that the detective chief is a bigamist, and he drops the murder charge. Some exception may be taken to the fact that a murderer is allowed to go unpunished.

The film embraces some good "third degree" scenes, and numerous pretty exteriors. Photography is not always of the best.

"A House Built Upon Sand"

Five-Reel Fine Arts Romantic Comedy by Mary H. O'Connor, Featuring Lillian Gish.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

A HOUSE Built on Sand" starts with all the promise of a delightful romantic comedy, and it may justly be so entitled, but it loses attraction in every departure from that original intention. That the plot is one barred to stage playwrights of today, the will which compels two young people to wed for the sake of an inheritance, might be excused of characterization and character contrast had been made psychologically fascinating, or even if the "Daniel Rochat" situation had been developed in some one of its infinite varieties, but the natural opportunities of Romantic Comedy are thrust aside for sops to melodrama with the eternal spectacle of a burning building, that outworn mechanical accessory, and the introduction of the Fine-Arts group of children. Interest in the romantic situation of both hero and heroine are thus scattered to the winds.

Another weak spot in this story is that the hero seems incapable of doing much on his own initiative. The scheme of carrying off his bride and the punishment for her love of beautiful clothes (what a terrible crime!) are devised by the hero's fat attorney. The young husband seems to be like some men in moving picture politics, incapable of doing anything without consulting his attorney. Miss Gish does her best to give piquancy and charm to her characterization, but the man she marries has a painful role to perform. He excites but little interest because he is made to appear as a very gullible business man and lacking in force of self-expression. It is the act of a boor, rather than of a gentleman, to take away his young bride's pretty clothes and substitute those of a factory girl.

Selig's New Year Program

Has a Number of Excellent Subjects for Release in the General Film Service.

WILLIAM N. SELIG proposes to start the new year with an excellent program and has determined to maintain a high standard throughout the year 1917 in General Film Co.'s service. On Monday, January 1, the Selig Company will release a three-reel feature production in General Film Company's regular service and it is entitled, "On Italy's Firing Line." This production presents the activities of the armies of Italy in the great conflict now waging. These motion pictures of bonafide warfare have never before been released. Battles in the Alps, above the clouds, are shown. Artillery duels are seen and charging troops brave a rain of shot and shell. Cities and towns, almost wiped out by bombardments, are also shown.

"In Payment Of The Past" is a very unusual story, written by Marc Edmund Jones, and featuring Virginia Kirtley and an all-star cast. "In Payment Of The Past" will be released in General Film Service on Saturday, January 6.

On Monday, January 8, the Selig Company will release a comedy-drama, "Starring in Western Stuff," which presents Tom Mix and a capable cast. The plot concerns an Eastern movie company which goes West for material and how a movie queen meets her fate when she sees the cowpuncher. The cowboy star pulls a series of exciting and sensational stunts during the action. "The Making of Bob Mason's Wife" is the Selig release in General Film service on Saturday, January 13.

The Selig-Tribune, the world's greatest news film, will continue to present all the latest news pictorials every Monday and Thursday in regular service of the General Film Company. The Selig-Tribune, according to the Selig Company, will be made even better if that were possible, during the new year.

Mutual's "The Pearl of Paradise" a Hit.

Reports of the spectacularly successful showings of "The Pearl of Paradise," Margarita Fischer's charming play, which marks her return to the Mutual cohorts and to the screen, after an absence of a year, are flooding the home office of the Mutual and the press of the country. This play, with its marvelous settings, its romantic story, dominated by the charming personality of Miss Fischer is proving a remarkable drawing card for exhibitors everywhere.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company.

WHAT'S THE USE? (Vim), Dec. 15.—Pokes and Jabbs are seen in this comedy reel. While there is humor in the reel, there are touches that could have well been left out. Two divorces and two marriages take place, Pokes and Jabbs thereby changing wives; but as it is only a dream everything ends as happily and as mirthfully as could be expected.

THE ROAD TO FAME (Selig), Dec. 16.—There is nothing much to this reel, evidently made some time ago. On the screen is told the story of a young man who goes to the city to study music. He falls into evil ways, and deceives the girl back home. She and her father come to the city. The youth robs the old man, but is shot by a "pal." The girl tells the police the youth was shot in attempting to protect the money. In the cast are Robyn Adair, Virginia Kirtley, E. J. Brady and Leo Pierson.

TAKING THE COUNT (Essanay), Dec. 20.—A comedy reel with Ben Turpin doing most of the work. He and his friend, both stewards on a ship, are mistaken for noblemen by a delegation of society women who have come to the boat to meet the Count and his friend. The usual things happen when the two are entertained. An ordinary reel.

THEY PRACTICE (Vim), Dec. 20.—Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby indulge in a little more slapstick than usual in this number of the Vim Feature Comedies. The film is more or less humorous. Mr. and Mrs. Love try to save money—Mrs. Love discharges the maid and Mr. Love fires the office boy. Then their troubles begin, and before they are through the house is almost a complete wreck. Mr. Myers is seen in some fairly funny water stuff.

THE TIGER'S CLAW (Kalem), Dec. 22.—A number of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series. Convincing underworld types are seen in the film. George Larkin furnishes several thrills when he climbs up a drain pipe, leaps from one roof to another and when he is later catapulted into a window of a building when the rope on which he is climbing breaks. The story is good melodrama, too. Reviewed on page 1975 of last week's issue.

RECKLESS ROMEOS (Vim), Dec. 22.—Pokes and Jabbs are seen in this comedy reel—an average number. Pokes, Jabbs and Reggie are rivals for the hand of Edna, and they go to reckless lengths to win her. Considerable knockabout work is done by Pokes and Jabbs, and lively action is seen in the reel. There is quite a fast finish.

THAT TERRIBLE TENDERFOOT (Kalem), Jan. 2.—A laughable comedy reel with Bud and Henry Murdoch. The film is a burlesque on Wild West melodrama and the laughs are many. Bud is hired as a bouncer in a tough joint, and his arguments with "The Wolf" cause most of the fun. But he finally rescues the fair maiden from the clutches of the dastardly villain and they live happily ever after.

THE MOGUL MOUNTAIN MYSTERY (Kalem), Jan. 6.—An episode of the "Hazards of Helen" railroad series. Helen Gibson in this reel swings from the arms of a lineman who hangs suspended on the top of a telegraph pole, into a moving freight car. The freight car has been set running wild and a box of powder placed in it, through which the villains hope to wreck the special and thus make a franchise void. Helen manages to stop the freight car just as it is about to crash into the special. Included in the cast are P. S. Pembroke, George Routh, William Burns, Gus Pulliam, C. A. Williams and W. Foster.

RIVAL ROMEOS (Kalem), Jan. 9.—This "Ham" comedy has the full comedy cast of Ham, Bud, Henry Murdoch and Ethel Teare. The quartette are responsible for a number of laughs. Ham and Bud decide to forsake their bachelor ways and go to a matrimonial agency. They are both told to meet the same young lady in the park. The resulting complications cause the mirth.

General Film Company Specials.

THE BURNING BAND (Essanay), Dec. 16.—The first of Essanay's "Is Marriage Sacred?" series. These two reels of drama augur well for the films to follow. This two-reel picture is a quite good short-length subject. It is the screened story of a girl who is forced by cruelty to desert her husband, and who later marries a wealthy man, believing her husband to be dead. The man she first married steals into her house, and is shot by a fellow-crook. In the cast are Marguerite Clayton, Sydney Ainsworth, Thomas Commerford and Edward Arnold.

THE FIVE FRANC PIECE (Selig), Dec. 18.—A rather fanciful two-reel drama that nevertheless contains considerable interest. The story tells of Napoleon's order for the issuance of five-franc pieces and the result of that order on a descendant of the Villairs family, who today is an inventor. It develops that Napoleon's order was hidden in a coin, which the young inventor's sweetheart discovers. In the cast are Lafayette McKee, Charles Wheelock, Barney Furey and Edith Johnson.

THE LITTLE BROWN MOLE (Essanay), Dec. 19.—One of the "Black Cat Features." This two-reel drama is a good short-length offering. The element of suspense in the screen telling of the story keeps the spectator keenly alive to the plot. The story tells of how a man discovers that another woman is posing as the wife he quarreled with shortly after a hasty marriage. The two women are strikingly alike physically, except for a mole behind the ear of one. Some good double-exposure work has been done in filming the story. The leads are Sydny Ainsworth and Lillian Drew.

ON THE BRINK OF WAR (Kalem), Dec. 20.—Twentieth two-reel episode of Robert Welles Ritchie's "The Girl From 'Fresco" series. The number, according to a review printed on page 1975 of last week's issue, is as good as any released thus far. The film is a Western of exciting gun fighting, fist fighting and sensational riding. Marin Sais, True Boardman and the usual cast are seen.

Art Dramas Inc.

THE LASH OF DESTINY (Van Dyke), Dec. 21.—A five-reel drama of cabaret life and a girl who makes sacrifices because of her innocent wrong-doing. Gertrude McCoy is featured. The picture is a moderately strong offering, and can be relied upon to hold the interest of an average audience. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

BLACK ORCHIDS (Bluebird), Jan. 1.—A five-reel romance in which a beautiful fortune-teller and a trio of lovers meet violent deaths, this drama from a French source has been produced with fine artistic results under the direction of Rex Ingram. Cleo Madison heads the cast. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Christie Film Corp.

HIS MODEL WIFE (Christie), Jan. 1.—This comedy is not one to be strongly recommended, for the reason that too much has been made of a woman's posing in the nude. Various flashes of this naked feminine are presented in the course of the picture, as well as frequent displays of a painting of her, which, although exceedingly artistic as regards pose, etc., is rather a breach of good taste as well as moral fitness when used in connection with farce comedy.

OUT FOR THE COIN (Christie), Jan. 8.—Rather an amusing farce comedy in which a hypocrite and manufacturer of counterfeit money finds himself caught in his own trap. When he tries to foreclose a mortgage, he is paid back in bills of his own making, and is therefore caught with the goods.

Fox Film Corporation.

THE LOVE THIEF (Fox), Jan. 1.—Rattling good melodrama from start to finish, this five-reel photoplay has a lively mix-up between American and Mexican soldiers as the big situation. The picture is well acted and equally well produced. A review was published on page 1975 of December 30 issue.

Greater Vitagraph

MY OFFICIAL WIFE, December.—This is a re-issue of the five-reel photoplay made from the novel by Richard Henry Savage. The picture was a great success when first released and still retains its power to interest.

International Film Service, Inc.

HEARST-INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, NO. 101, 1916 (International), Dec. 19.—Transport Sumner aground off Barnegat, N. J.; President Wilson visited by several Governors, Washington, D. C.; "The Shaw," new U. S. torpedo boat, launched at Mare Island Navy Yard; Fashions De Luxe: with the Austrian army on the Austro-Russian front; twenty-nine tons of iron melted for a big war order, Marquette, Mich.; goats raised much the same as in Balkans, Manchester, N. H.; Commerce Congress members and Secretary Daniels review Atlantic fleet; New York covered by foot-deep snow blanket.

Ivan

ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER (December).—As the title indicates, this seven-reel photoplay has a distinct moral purpose. It achieves its object and is also a well-acted and, for the most part, well constructed drama. A number of the scenes are very powerful. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay

THE PHANTOM BUCCANEER (Essanay), Dec. 17.—An Essanay five-reel feature with numerous thrilling incidents, in which Richard C.

Travers and Gertrude Glover take the chief characters. It is adapted from the novel of the same title by Victor Bridges. The acting of Mr. Travers in a double role is excellent, and the entire cast is competent. An extended review appears elsewhere in this issue.

Mutual Film Corporation

GROUCHY (Mutual Star), Dec. 2.—Tom Wise is featured in this very acceptable little comedy, which will please children as much as adults. The story shows how an old, grouchy, rich man's disposition is changed by association with the two little children of his married niece.

REEL LIFE, NO. 33 (Gaumont), Dec. 17.—A diversified and instructive number. It pictures the way in which French sweetmeats are made, including candied fruit, flowers and the like. Modish coiffures, expert costume designing and a comprehensive study of the cotton industry, from field to loom, are included.

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD (Gaumont), Dec. 19.—This number leads off with a study of native life and customs in Morocco. Views are then shown of the Castle Chantilly in France. The Chatelet and Grand Chateau are pictured; also interior rooms of the castle itself. The reel closes with scenes taken along the Mediterranean sea. The number is attractive throughout.

SEE AMERICA FIRST NO. 67 (Gaumont), Dec. 21.—"Picturesque Virginia" is the subject of this issue, which presents a number of delightful views taken throughout the state of Virginia. The reel ends with a comic cartoon pertaining to the children's Christmas, entitled, "'Twas Ever Thus."

REEL LIFE NO. 34 (Gaumont), Dec. 24.—This issue contains as its opening number "Life in the Soudan," following which are articles such as "Building Sailing Vessels," and "Pork and Beans," the great American dish.

FICKLE ALL AROUND (Vogue), Dec. 24.—This two-part farce comedy is not an objectionable one. It is built around the fickleness of some restaurant and candy store employees. The picture is not what might be termed keenly amusing.

THE LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS, No. 10 (Signal), Dec. 25.—"The Gold Rush" is the title of this unusually interesting number of the serial. In it a successful attempt is made by Helen to get one hundred workmen to the aid of the Dawson gang. The effort of "Dollar" Holmes to thwart her efforts, affords the usual spectacular finish.

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD, NO. 8 (Gaumont), Dec. 26.—One of the most delightful of this excellent travel series. Its first subject is the River Theve, France, which is a tributary of the Oise river; its second subject is Florence, Italy, showing its various points of artistic and historic interest; its third subject presents scenes in the Swiss Alps above the St. Gothard tunnel.

SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 68 (Gaumont), Dec. 27.—The subject chosen for this issue of "See America First" is "West Virginia's Rivers and Mountains." This subject is especially charming, taking us through the picturesque mountain valleys and along the beautiful rivers of this section of the country. A comic cartoon entitled "Mr. Bonehead Gets Wrecked," finishes the reel.

THE PERILS OF OUR GIRL REPORTERS, No. 1 (Niagara), Dec. 28.—"The Jade Necklace" is the title of the first chapter of this new serial, which claims to present in an entertaining way the pitfalls which are always open for the young girl reporter. The girl of the story is too unsophisticated and there are too many apparent exaggerations with regard to situation and detail. The picture is spectacular and highly melodramatic. The majority of its scenes are laid in Chinatown, where the girl is trapped by a vile Chinaman, and later rescued through the instrumentality of the star reporter of the newspaper for which she is in search of a story.

Mutual Film Corporation Specials

THE MASTER OF THUNDER (Gaumont), Jan. 4.—Episode No. 7 of the "Vampire" series, in three reels. This number is packed with incidents, displaying the criminal cunning of the Vampire gang and the equally clever work of the detectives. Irma Vep is taken a prisoner on board the "Jean-Bart." The vessel is blown up by the electrical gun which is mystifying the police. Dupont, or Satanas, then claims the principal interest. He tries to kill Guard by means of an infernal machine. Normandin and his small son capture Satanas in a clever way. Irma, who escaped death on the Jean-Bart, turns up among her Apache friends. The installment closes with Satanas either dying or feigning death in prison. An absorbing number.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

HER NEW YORK (Thanhouser), Jan. 7.—Agnes C. Johnson is the author of this five-reel photoplay and Gladys Hulette is the star. The result of the combination is a comedy-drama that is filled with ingenuous situations of a highly diverting nature. The picture is reviewed at length on another page in this issue.

LUKE'S LOST LIBERTY (Rolin), Jan. 7.—High life behind the bars is the subject of this one-reel farce. Luke and his pal find existence in prison so amusing that they depart with regret. The reel is well played and filled with slap-dash comedy.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 13 (Pathe), Jan. 7.—"Part of a Debutante's Life" is the name given to No. 13, of the Florence Rose Fashion Reviews. The number and attractiveness of the gowns displayed will delight the women. The reel also contains colored studies of a pair of active and amusing lion cubs.

THE LAST VOLUNTEER (Pathe), Jan. 7.—This picture is a three-reel version of the five-reel romantic photodrama made by Pathe in 1914. Irving Cummings, Robert Broderick, Paul Panzer and Eleanor Woodruff are members of a large and proficient cast, and the scenes of battle and political intrigue are ably handled under the direction of Oscar Apfel.

MAJOR BRENT'S PERFIDY (Astra), Jan. 7.—The sixth episode of "Pearl of the Army" shows the heroine being thrown from a rapidly moving train, and other incidents of a similar nature are introduced. The number is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

THE FINAL CHAPTER (Astra), Jan. 7.—The closing episode of "The Shielding Shadow" is reviewed on another page of this issue.

Triangle Film Corporation.

THREE OF MANY (Kay Bee), Dec. 24.—A five-reel story of a tender-hearted woman's attempt to keep alive the fine friendship of two men called upon by a difference of nationality to destroy each other in battle. A fine performance in all its details, with Clara Williams at her best in the leading role.

THE FEMALE OF THE SPECIES (Kay Bee), Dec. 31.—A powerful contrast of two kinds of women, opposite in their moral code and way of living, yet extremely alike in the dominating sex impulse. Dorothy Dalton and Enid Markey in the leading roles.

TRUTHFUL TULLIVER (Kay Bee), Jan. 7.—One of the strongest Hart pictures ever shown on the screen. Satisfactory and complete in every detail, it should go well with any audience.

THE WEAKER SEX (Kay Bee), Jan. 7.—A very brilliant and beautiful presentation of a life topic by a fine cast, with Dorothy Dalton, Louise Glaum and Charles Ray in the leading roles.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

THE FASCINATING MODEL, OR, WHO'S BOSS? (Powers), Nov. 30.—A comedy number, by Harry Walze, featuring Ed. Sedgwick, Violet Eddy and others. A young wife takes a job as tailor's model in order to earn a new dress. Some farcical situations of a fairly amusing sort occur. The number is one of average strength.

BILLY, THE BANDIT (Victor), Dec. 12.—A comedy number, by L. V. Waters, featuring Billy Mason and Peggy Custer. The action is so jerky that it interferes with the plot development at times. Billy first sells a sand lot to an unsuspecting woman purchaser, and then abducts his girl in cave man fashion. The number is one of only fair strength.

ANIMATED WEEKLY, NO. 51 (Universal), Dec. 20.—Dynamiting a giant dam, fresh air hikers leaving New York, Greek dancers posing in St. Louis, a cattle round-up, Christmas preparations and other diversified features are included in this number.

PERILS OF A PLUMBER (L-KO), Dec. 27.—This knockabout number features Dan Russell as a plumber with flirtatious proclivities. He and his assistant create considerable humor in repairing a hotel bath room. A gay wife and an angry husband keep the plot moving. The slapstick work brings numerous laughs and is generally inoffensive. An amusing comic.

PRACTICE WHAT YOU PREACH (Nestor), Jan. 1.—A comedy number, by Bess Meredyth, featuring Eddie Lyons, Edith Roberts and Harry Nolan. An indifferent young husband neglects his wife. Later, at the club, he advises a friend to run off with another man's wife. The wife turns out to be his own. He saves her and awakens to his own selfishness. This is an enjoyable subject, nicely worked out.

HOW TO BE HAPPY, THOUGH MARRIED (Victor), Jan 5.—An amusing number, by Harvey Gates, featuring Agnes Vernon and Millard K. Wilson. The young husband reproves his wife for looking so dowdy around the house. She fixes up and flirts with his chum, which angers him. He breaks this off by bringing the chum home unexpectedly when she is looking her worst. The wife revenges herself by buying a lot of fine clothes and making hubby pay for them. An original and entertaining offering.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE, NO. 4, Jan. 5.—This issue is full of entertaining and instructive pictorial topics. It pictures a new mail-handling device, modern methods of treating horses when sick or injured; a lesson in mixing tea biscuits; plants that catch insects, and some amusing animated sculpture work. A diversified and pleasing subject.

THE WHELP (Imp), Jan. 7.—A number, by Harvey Gates, featuring Ray Whittaker, Elizabeth Janes, Edith Roberts, Millard K. Wilson and Malcolm Blevins. This tells of two girls in the hands of a thief. He sends them out to steal, like Fagan, but two detectives get wise and the girls are rescued from their unhappy fate. The oldest girl falls in love with one of the detectives. This underworld story is slight in plot, but quite agreeably presented; it holds the interest rather well.

Universal Film Mfg. Co. Specials

LITTLE PARTNER (Universal Special), Dec. 19.—A sympathetic three-reel offering, adopted by Calder Johnstone from a story by James Dayton. Agnes Vernon is appealing as the daughter of an old prospector whose hard luck leads him to turn holdup. The father is hanged and the girl, unknowing the real truth, becomes the ward of two young and successful miners. This is developed in a pretty, attractive way, Wm. Worthington having charge of the direction. Franklyn Farnum, Clyde Benson and others appear. The later scenes are taken in the East, where the girl is being educated. A pleasing production.

THE IVY AND THE OAK (Rex), Dec. 21.—A two-reel number, by R. W. Kaufman, featuring Lee Hill, Lillian Concord, Dorothy Davenport and Clyde Benson. This reverses the usual plot of the actress and the simple country girl. In this case the hero, after reflection, marries the country girl. She becomes a spendthrift and proves untrue to him. His former actress friend, on the other hand, saves his honor and he afterward marries her. The subject is well-constructed and carries the interest along nicely.

IN THE DEAD O' NIGHT (Imp), Dec. 22.—A two-reel number, by Willis Woods, featuring Douglas Gerrard, Doc. Crane, George Berranger and Ruth Clifford. This is drawn up and pictured along the lines of the oldtime melodrama, but so well handled that it carries nicely. It is not exceptionally well constructed in the opening scenes, but the story is a strong one of the type and makes up for the slight confusion in certain situations. The hero prevents the villain from poisoning his grandfather, and discovers the alterations in the old man's will. A strong melodramatic subject.

GIANT POWDER (Bison), Dec. 26.—A two-reel subject, by Maxwell Ryder, featuring Edith Johnson, Fred Church and others. This is a Western story, telling of a young city man who comes to a mining camp, falls in love with the trader's daughter and wins her after proving his mettle in numerous ways. The plot is slightly conventional, but is given a number of fresh twists. The scenic effects are also unusually good. This makes good entertainment.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER (Gold Seal), Dec. 26.—A three-reel subject, written by Wm. V. Mong, who plays the leading part, assisted by Nellie Allen and others. This is a slum story which leans a little too strongly to the sordid. It tells of the return of a convict to the out-of-doors. He is urged to go back to the old life by his two pals, but refuses. He loses his life in trying to prevent a bank robbery to save the honor of the girl's father. The return of Annie to her parents is pathetic and rather appealing. This part of the picture is stronger than the main plot.

STRONGER THAN STEEL (Laemmle), Dec. 27.—A two-reel number, from a story by George Bronson Howard, featuring Alan J. Holubar, Wm. Dwyer and Louise Lovely. A young society man invites an old derelict to his apartments and gives him a big dinner. He tells the old fellow he should steal rather than go hungry, and fills his mind full of false sociology. The old fellow, acting on the advice, tries to steal from his benefactor. There is a desperate struggle, at the close of which the police come, and the derelict is allowed to go. This contains food for thought and is unusually well handled throughout. A strong subject.

THE VANISHED JEWELS (Universal Super-Serial), Dec. 31.—This is instalment No. 1 of a new serial entitled, "The Purple Mask," written and directed by Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, who also play the leading roles. The former appears as Patsy Van Nuys, an adventurous society girl, whose love for excitement leads her to join forces with the notorious Paris Apaches. The latter appears in the detective role of "The Sphinx," better known as Phil Kelly. The girl hides the family jewels in this number to trick the detective, and in so doing compromises her own name. The interior and exterior views of the country place are very attractive, also the photography throughout. This gets a promising start and shows more preparation than some serials in which these popular players have appeared.

A DAUGHTER OF THE U. S. A. (Special—Universal), Dec. 31.—This instalment, No. 20, brings to a close this very successful serial. Liberty, Rutledge, Pedro and his sweetheart repair to Washington, where they have been summoned to testify before the war department officials. Spies follow Pedro and he and his sweetheart are killed. Liberty also is marked for death, but the assassin's bullet merely grazes her arm. She and Bob Rutledge are then married and Liberty receives a reward from the President for bringing about the death of the bandit Lopez.

POLLY PUT THE KETTLE ON (Red Feather), Jan. 1.—A holiday offering in five reels, by Grace Helen Bailey, featuring Ruth Clifford, Zoe Rae, Thomas Jefferson, Martha Maddox, Douglas Gerrard and others. The story concerns a young girl who mothers a flock of four children, the father being an unsuccessful inventor. The father dies during the story and she becomes companion to a maiden lady. Polly and the latter's nephew fall in love and are married after numerous trials of an interesting sort. This is full of semi-humorous home scenes and is pleasantly sentimental throughout. It makes a family offering of a pleasing type and is particularly adapted to the holiday season.

AN OLD SOLDIER'S ROMANCE (Gold Seal), Jan. 2.—A three-reel subject, by Arthur Maude and Constance Crawley, featuring Wm. V. Mong as a veteran at a soldiers' home. He falls heir to a fortune and leaves the home. He has always wanted a baby and adopts not one, but half a dozen. This part of the picture is laughable. The discovery of the long-lost son is not very convincing, but will be acceptable. This would have been stronger in two reels, as the first part drags considerably. The main situation is very pleasing.

ON THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PILL (L-Ko), Jan. 3.—A two-reel comic featuring Phil Dunham as a hobo who visits a hop joint and smokes opium. Some of the interior scenes are rather dark. The hobo's dream is pictured in full and contains some funny knockabout work. This is not exceptional, but makes a good average feature.

BLOOD MONEY (Bison), Jan. 6.—A two-reel Western number, by Harry Carey, featuring Louise Lovely, Jack Richardson and the author. There are some good episodes in this, but some of them are not entirely convincing. The wife's solicitude for the bandit is not well accounted for. She terms the reward money, "blood money," and the efforts to obtain this leads to her husband's death. A fair subject.

THE RED STAIN (Rex), Jan. 4.—A two-reel subject, by L. V. Jefferson, featuring Jack Nelson, Mollie Malone, Annette Defoe and Fred Montague. The young architect is in love with the elder of two sisters. Cecile, the elder, conspires with her father, also an architect, to steal her lover's plans. The younger sister outwits them and the young architect transfers his love to her. It is rather hard to believe the younger sister could be honest with such a strong streak of dishonesty in the others. It would have been better to show her as a maid or friend. In spite of this weakness the story is entertaining and well presented.

SUSPECTED (Universal Super-Serial), Jan. 7.—No. 2 of "The Purple Mask" series. Phil Kelly has recovered the missing Van Nuys jewels, after following Patsy to the Apache headquarters. But the girl escaped. He suspects her identity, however, and later when she steals the Dupont pearls, he takes up her trail speedily. She enters into confidential terms with the family butler, a member of the Apaches. The series begins to appear like an interesting succession of detached adventures on the part of the girl, with the detective close on her heels. Such plot as there is is not to be taken too seriously, but merely as a vehicle for light-running amusement. In this the opening numbers have succeeded very well.

World Pictures.

A WOMAN ALONE (Peerless), Jan. 1.—The leading role in this five-reel drama is taken by Alice Brady, who justifies her position at the head of a thoroughly good cast. Railroad life, in which the wife of a station agent and the son of the president of the road figure, furnishes most of the local color. The story is well told. It is reviewed at length on another page.

Paramount Has Dickens Week

Two of Famous Author's Stories and a Flock of Other Subjects for Week of Jan. 8.

CHARLES DICKENS, the immortal English writer, whose beloved characters have been handed down in literature, has proved to be the source for the most splendid material for the photoplay that can be found among the writers of old. The success of "Oliver Twist," the Lasky production on the Paramount program a few weeks ago, proves that Dickens offers splendid material and, for the week of January 8, Paramount will release the Famous Players' production of "Great Expectations," another of this writer's works, and, aside from being the work of a master novelist, combines action and mystery to an unusual degree, making it one of the most successful productions that the Famous Players have presented on the Paramount program for many months. Louise Huff and Jack Pickford, who secured such a tremendous success when they appeared in Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen," will co-star in this picture, which has been produced under the supervision of Robert G. Vignola.

The other feature for the week will be the Lasky production of "A Mormon Maid," in which Mae Murray, who recently made such a success in "The Plow Girl," will play the title role. This is a thrilling story of Mormon life in Utah, and the picture contains more action than any other in which Miss Murray has appeared since her adoption of the screen in preference to the stage. Special accessories, advertising and publicity have been prepared by Paramount for this production, which will undoubtedly prove to be one of the most elaborate for the month of January.

Surrounding the program for the week of January 8 will be three single reel "little features," including the forty-eighth edition of the Paramount Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen; the forty-ninth of the series of "Weekly Trips Around the World," in which Burton Holmes will take his fellow travelers to "Quaint Quebec," and a Black Diamond comedy, entitled "Braving Blazes."

The forty-eighth edition of Paramount Pictographs contains four exceedingly interesting subjects, of which the first is "Fine Arts with Hammer and Anvil," which deals with the artistic work that has been accomplished in shaping metals at Columbia University. The pictures were posed especially for Paramount by Professor Edward Thatcher, who holds a chair at this university and instructs a large class of ambitious students in jewelry and art metal work.

The second subject deals with the interesting subject, "Experiments in Physics," telling of the great problem of vibration. Another subject is "The Remaking of Useful Citizens," photographing the "Children's Village" at Dobbs Ferry, New York, where a great deal of usefulness has been given the young children by combining both outdoor advantages of the country, vocational training recently taken up by the Board of Education, and the idea of self-government, which is an important factor in training children and giving them self-reliance.

The closing subject deals with "How Niagara Is Harnessed," and shows the twenty million tons of water flowing over these falls each hour are harnessed and made to do the work which lights the many towns throughout the state of New York.

Burton Holmes, in forty-ninth "Weekly Trips Around the World," takes his fellow travelers this week to "Quaint Quebec," in which little travelette he introduces his fellow journeyers to the most picturesque of all Canadian cities, and which is the most foreign looking city in all North America, having taken its name from the Indian word which means "The Strait," as the city itself dominates a narrow strait of the St. Lawrence river, the city being dominated by a citadel mounted behind the city on a lofty bluff.

A comedy full of rollicking fun and a great deal of keen comedy suspense is "Braving Blazes," which will be released this week, and which is filled with a number of scenes in which trick photography is used and which completely dazzles the mind of the motion picture lover.

Paramount, having started its co-operative service of "exhibitor first" for the year 1917, has planned many additional series for the presentation of the features on the Paramount program and the single-reel features surrounding it for this week. One, three and six sheets of every description, together with cuts, mats and other necessary advertising accessories, are being issued through the exhibitors' co-operative plan, in accordance with the plan which will enable a Paramount exhibitor to better present these "better pictures in better theaters to a better public."

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

MARC MacDERMOTT IN "THE LAST SENTENCE."

Marc MacDermott, co-starred with Miriam Nesbitt in the Edison feature "The Last Sentence," for release January 1 through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service, probably has played leads in more successful motion pictures than any other male star now before the public. Long before the day of the multiple reel feature, Mr. MacDermott was the idol of the "fans." His work in many Edison one-reel subjects still ranks with the most artistic portrayals of character ever seen on the screen.

Scene from "The Last Sentence." (Edison).

In "The Last Sentence," Mr. MacDermott has a role which is particularly well suited to his powers, and film critics are unanimous in saying that he has never been seen to better advantage. Miss Nesbitt, too, is given splendid opportunities. These two popular players are supported by an unusually well chosen cast, including Grace Williams, Herbert Prior, Elaine Ivans, Gladys Gane and Raymond McKee.

FIFTH EPISODE OF "PEARL OF THE ARMY."

The dramatic possibilities latent in a conflict between unscrupulous foes of America and undaunted patriotism are utilized effectively in the fifth episode of Pathe's military-mystery serial "Pearl of the Army," which is announced for release under the title "Somewhere in Grenada," the week of December 31st.

Again Pearl White as the heroine has the leading part in a group of bewildering adventures. The Silent Menace urges that an immediate blow be struck against America. By display of courage, amounting to rashness, Pearl Dare recovers the Panama Canal plans stolen from Captain Ralph Payne, and entrusted by the Silent Menace to one of his messengers. She turns them over to her father, but T. O. Adams, a new and strange figure in the case, substitutes a worthless envelope for the valued packet in Colonel Dare's pocket.

At Paso del Norte, Colonel Dare establishes a patrol base. The town is attacked by Bolero, under orders from the Silent Menace. In the kaleidoscopic succession of thrills that follow Pearl and Adams who is acting as her father's orderly in order that Colonel Dare might watch him carefully, are made prisoners in a secret cellar under Bolero's headquarters, the water works. A shell from an American gun bursts in the water works. Pearl and Adams are imprisoned as the water rises. "There is no means of escape," he says, "we will both be drowned. Before that, there is something I must tell you." With that he takes her in his arms and kisses her.

JANS BUYS JERSEY RIGHTS OF "WITCHING HOUR."

The New Jersey Metro Film Service, 71 West Twenty-third street, through its president, Herman F. Jans, announces the purchase of the New Jersey rights to "The Witching Hour," a Frohman picture production. Accompanying this is a statement from Mr. Jans, in which he announces an arrangement with the Frohman Amusement Company whereby the New Jersey Metro will handle all the Frohman picture productions for New Jersey.

"MASQUE OF LIFE" SENSATION AT LOEW THEATERS.

"The Masque of Life," the European film production which recently played at the Park Teater in New York, has proved a sensation in the Marcus Loew Theaters in Greater New York. Big crowds everywhere turned out for the initial showing, and the picture broke all records for week day business at the New York. In spite of the fact that it was but a short time before Christmas enormous business resulted.

Rita Jolivet, who, as Pierette, with Hamilton Revelle as Pierot, presents the picture to American audiences, accepted Mr. Loew's invitation to appear at his houses with the picture and talk about the film. Her appearance everywhere was greeted with storms of applause.

Marcus Loew has purchased the rights for the state of New York for this film, and is in a way to get back seven times the price he paid for it in rentals from other exhibitors. The picture broke all records at his 116th street theater in Harlem, and is being used two days in all his picture theaters, where films are shown only one day, and three and four days in vaudeville theaters.

"THE POISON MAN" (Gaumont).

As episode succeeds episode in the great Gaumont photo-novel, "The Vampires," and spectators are amazed at the ingenuity which provides new thrills for each installment. January 11, through Mutual, the eighth episode, "The Poison Man," will be released. Venenos, who made his first appearance in the preceding chapter, now takes the center of the stage with the other favorites. Charles Moriss, who has the part, practically dominates this and the following chapters.

The story of "The Poison Man" recites the efforts of the Vampires to revenge themselves upon Philip Guard and the girl he is to marry. Venenos, now leader of the band, installs Irma Vep in an apartment next that of the girl they seek to kill. Irma's maid becomes friendly with the maid in the other apartment and learns of a betrothal dinner. Venenos sends away the caterer and installs Vampires to cook and serve the dinner. The guests are to be murdered by poisoned wine. The trick is discovered when a bottle is given before the dinner to the janitor. His death reveals the plot. There is a thrilling fight, in which the Vampires are successful enough to make their escape.

Philip plans to send his fiancee to the country, but Irma Vep and her maid try to foil the lovers by spraying the limousine with a powerful anaesthetic. The automobile arrives with a trunk strapped to the running board. As the women set to work, Normandin emerges from the trunk. However, he is overpowered by the noxious fumes, and Irma takes his place in the trunk. The queen of the Vampires is thus taken to the country, and is enabled to telephone the hiding place's location to her pals. A sensational flight and fight from automobiles is staged as the conclusion of this episode. Juliet Musidora as Irma Vep is seen at her best.

Scene from "The Poison Man" (Gaumont).

Fox Releases for January

Super De Luxe Production by William Farnum Will Be Offered on the Seventh—Other Good Subjects on the List.

TO INAUGURATE Fox Film Corporation's recently declared policy for 1917, William Fox will present in January to motion picture exhibitors and to the public, two of the biggest and finest film masterpieces ever offered on any producing program. The photoplays, remarkable cinema achievements from a dozen standpoints, are "The Price of Silence," William Farnum's first super de luxe release, and "The Darling of Paris," Theda Bara's premiere production under the new policy.

The initial super de luxe production will be Mr. Farnum's. This is "The Price of Silence," scheduled for release on January 7. A pathetic story of love and sacrifice for a friend's honor has been conjoined effectively with a mighty plea for the child slave of the factory. While acting in "The Price of Silence," Mr. Farnum spoke frequently of how completely the character of Senator Deering, whom he portrays, had mastered him completely—far more than any one of his previous screen impersonations had done. In consequence, the brilliant actor gives a performance which is memorable for its unrestrained appeal.

The production of the super de luxe subjects by Miss Bara and Mr. Farnum will in no way interfere with William Fox's established weekly release system. On many weeks throughout the year, there will be, therefore, two Fox pictures.

This will be the order of releases for the first three weeks in January:

January 1—George Walsh in "The Island of Desire," a fast moving film of romantic adventure in the South Sea Islands, with one of the finest surprises in a thousand photoplays, as a climax. Mr. Walsh is supported by a cast of exceedingly high quality, headed by Anna Luther and Margaret Gibson. Willard Louis, Hector V. Sarno, William Clifford, William Burress, and Herschel Mayall, Sam Searles and Marie McKeen are also among the players. Otis Turner directed the screening. The characters in the film are novel, and not hackneyed.

January 8—William Farnum in "The Price of Silence," directed by Frank Lloyd, a picture that will not only interest, but will do, unquestionably, a deal of constructive good.

William Fox's weekly release for this date will be "A Modern Cinderella," a new June Caprice subject, most of the exteriors for which were snapped outside a beautiful winter resort in Florida. In the cast are Frank Morgan, Betty Prendergast, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Grace Stevens and Tom Brooke.

On January 15, Virginia Pearson will be seen in "Bitter Truth," the drama of a woman's soul. Jack Hopkins plays opposite the beautiful star of the Southland. The production was directed by Kenean Buel.

GAUMONT PROGRAM FOR WEEK OF JAN. 7.

The week of January 7 brings from the Gaumont studio, through Mutual, the customary four single reels and the eighth installment of the sensational photo-novel, "The Vampires." The first to reach the screen is "Reel Life," the Mutual Magazine in Film, No. 36, January 7. It shows making "Turpentine from Waste Timber," "An Argosy from the Arctic," "Growing English Walnuts in the United States" and "How to Design Your Own Gown."

Two days later "Tours Around the World" No. 10 is released. It contains wonderful pictures of "The Foothills of the Pyrenees," characteristic scenes of "Life in Egypt" and views of Budapest, Hungary.

The third single reel of the week is the split reel, "See America First" (No. 70), "In the Heart of the Blue Ridge" and a Gaumont Kartoon Komic, "The Gourmand." The scenic views are of great historical interest, showing Lexington, Va., where are located the Washington and Lee University, the Virginia Military Institute, the home of "Stonewall" Jackson and the grave of Robert E. Lee. Another interesting view is of the celebrated Natural Bridge.

The fourth single reel of the week is the Mutual Weekly. No announcement of its contents can be made in advance of its release, as it is only made up the day it is shipped.

"The Poison Man" is the name of the eighth episode of "The Vampires." It is released January 11. All the leading characters who remain alive after seven chapters of highly sensational activities have prominent parts in this duel between Philip Guard, the brave reporter, and the arch criminals of Paris. Juliet Musidora, who has established herself as a favorite, has many exciting moments in her role as the queen of the Vampires.

TRIANGLE JANUARY 14TH RELEASES.

Frank Keenan and Margery Wilson and Dorothy Gish are the stars of the Triangle feature releases for January 14. Keenan and Miss Wilson appear in a Kay Bee production of life in Louisiana before the war, when yellow fever was a constant menace and slavery a commonplace. The title of this feature is "The Bride of Hate," and it was written by John Lynch and directed by Walter Edwards. Dorothy Gish is starred in a Fine Arts play of Civil War times entitled "The Little Yank," written by Roy Somerville and directed by George Siegmann.

"The Great Secret" to be Shown

First Five Chapters of Metro Serial to Be Presented to Exhibitors at Special Showing.

IN RESPONSE to thousands of queries from exhibitors regarding "The Great Secret," the new Metro serial, with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne as co-stars, the Metro Pictures Corporation has arranged to show the first five chapters, for exhibitors only, throughout the United States and Canada. The biggest of these showings will be in New York city. Arrangements have been made for projecting the chapters in a theater on Broadway, with an orchestral accompaniment. Exhibitors are showing a tremendous interest in this, the first serial to be offered by Metro, and the demand for it already much greater than had been anticipated.

The serial is replete with those incidents of daring and thrill, interspersed with romance and love, that go to make a great picture. Experts who have seen the first chapters of "The Great Secret" pronounce it an amazing screen novel, having in it a plot that gives reminder of the best works of Dumas, Gaboriau or Sir Conan Doyle. The operations of a band of wealthy and unscrupulous men, known as The Secret Seven, forms the basis of the action.

"The Great Secret" is the first serial in which Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne have appeared. It has been produced under the direction of Wm. Christy Cabanne, who was chief of staff for D. W. Griffith. The serial promises to provide an abundance of heart interest, brand new situations, thrills and relief comedy. It also serves to provide Francis X. Bushman with the most arduous role in his screen career. Miss Bayne shines with unusual splendor in her role of Beverly Clarke. Surrounding these screen favorites is a company of unusual excellence, especially chosen for the fidelity to types of modern life that they represent. The production promises to be one of the motion picture sensations of 1917.

"ENVY," M'CLURE'S PICTURE, FULL OF GASPS AND GRINS.

McClure Pictures announce this week, for the first time, the details of "Envy," the initial one of the Seven Deadly Sins, the series of five-reel features to be released by Superpictures, Inc., through the Triangle exchanges beginning in January.

Ann Murdock, the star of "Envy," will be supported by Shirley Mason and George Le Guere. Miss Mason, talented sister of Viola Dana, has played many leading parts in Edison pictures and was a hit on tour in the leading role of "The Poor Little Rich Girl." Mr. Le Guere, widely known juvenile. has supported such stage stars as David Warfield, Walker Whiteside, Dorothy Donnelly and Gertrude Elliott. He has played leading parts in such film productions as "The Blindness of Virtue," "The Turmoil," "The Upstart" and "The Evil Thereof."

Others in the cast are Lumsden Hare, Jessie Stevens, William Wadsworth and Robert Cain. Mr. Hare has appeared under the management of Charles Frohman, supporting Ethel Barrymore, Maude Adams, John Drew, Billie Burke and many other stars. In motion pictures he will be remembered for his work in "Friday, the Thirteenth," "Arms and the Woman," "Love's Crucible" and "The Test."

Mr. Wadsworth has been on the stage for 23 years, supporting among others James K. Hackett, Madame Modjeska Annie Russell, Otis Skinner and Blanche Walsh. He is readily remembered for his work in Edison's "Wood B. Wed" comedies

Scene from "Envy" (McClure).

"Envy" was directed by Richard Ridgely and photographed by George Lane. The opening play of the group, of the "Seven Deadly Sins" introduce Eve Leslie (Miss Mason) and Adam Moore (Mr. Le Guere), whose love story is carried through the entire series.

Universal Opens New Year Strong

Week of January 1 Brings Five-Part Red Feather Feature and a Host of Other Subjects.

As a fitting greeting to the year 1917 the Universal Film Company has arranged an exceptional program for the week of January 1, headed by a strong dramatic five-act Red Feather feature, "Polly Put the Kettle On," with Douglas Gerrard in the leading role. The story is by Grace Helen Bailey and was suggested by that well-known song, Scene from "Polly Put the Kettle On" (Universal).

"Polly Put the Kettle On; We'll All Have Tea." Elizabeth Chandler Hendrix wrote the scenario from which Douglas Gerrard produced the play. The cast includes Zoe Rae, Lena Baskette, Thomas Jefferson, Ruth Clifford and other well-known players. "Polly Put the Kettle On" will be released Monday, January 1, the same day that Eddie Lyons and Edith Roberts appear in "Practice What You Preach," a one-reel comedy under the Nestor brand. This is from the pen of T. Shelley Sutton and produced by L. W. Chaudet.

On Tuesday, the 2nd, William V. Mong and Nellie Allen are featured in a three-reel human interest drama to be released as a Gold Seal, under the title of "An Old Soldier's Romance." Constance Crawley and Arthur Maude wrote the story from which Mr. Mong wrote the scenario, and then produced the play. Also on that day a Victor comedy, "Bombs and Bank-notes," with Wallace Beery, will be released.

Phil Dunham appears in a two-reel L-KO comedy that will be released on Wednesday, January 3. This is called "On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill," and portrays the ludicrous experiences of Phil. Supporting Mr. Dunham are Lucille Hutton and Vin Moore. The fifty-third edition of the Universal Animated Weekly is released the same day. "Alone in the World," featuring the Smalleys and Antrim Short, is on the program for the same day. This is a gripping, tense drama produced under the Laemmle brand.

"The Red Stain," a two-reel society melodrama, featuring Molly Malone and Jack Nelson, will be the main release on Thursday, January 4. This is a Rex photoplay and was produced by George Cochrane from the scenario of Harvey Gates taken from the story by L. V. Jefferson. Burton Law, Fred Montague and Annette De Foe support the leads. Appearing the same day is a Big U Indian drama entitled "The Uprising" with Mona Darkfeather.

Friday, January 5, the Imp two-reel drama of modern life, "The Moral Right," with Douglas Gerrard in the lead, will be released. The story is from the pen of Harry Man, scenarioized by Fred Myton and produced by Douglas Gerrard. Francelia Billington and A. W. Wertz give excellent performances in the support of Mr. Gerrard. "How to Be Happy, Though Married," a Victor comedy featuring Agnes Vernon, is also scheduled for release the same day. F. A. Kelsey produced this scream from the story by Harvey Gates. Issue No. 4 of the Universal Screen Magazine is released this day.

Harry Carey and Louise Lovely are featured in "Blood Money," a two-reel western drama released under the Bison brand on Saturday, January 6. F. A. Kelsey produced the picture from the story by the leading man. Jack Richardson, William Gettinger and Vester Pegg do some clever acting in the support. "Love in Suspense," a Joker comedy with Gale Henry and William Franey is another release for this day. The production was directed by William Beaudine from the story by Karl Coolidge. "The Wall of Money," a one-reel Rex drama featuring Pauline Bush and Wallace Reid, is on the program for the same day.

"The Whelp," a one-reel Imp drama featuring Edith Roberts and Malcolm Blevins, will head the releases for Sunday, January 7, produced by M. K. Wilson from the story by Harvey Gates. Supporting the leads are: Millard K. Wilson, Raymond Whittaker and Elizabeth Janes. A Power's split-reel consisting of "The Trials of Willie Winks," a comedy cartoon, and an Educational, is also released this day. On the same date appears "The Jewel of Death," a two-reel Big U Hindoo drama.

The second episode of "The Purple Mask," featuring Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, is released this week. This is entitled "Suspected," and further discloses the thrilling adventures of Miss Cunard as Patricia Montez, and Mr. Ford as Phil Kelly, the detective, who is trying to solve the mysterious robberies committed by the terrible band of Apaches. Exhibitors were very enthusiastic in their praise of the first episode of "The Purple Mask"—not only because of the tremendous drawing card it proved, but also for the exactness of detail in production and the lavish manner in which it was handled. Miss Cunard wrote the story and Mr. Ford directed the production.

VARIETY SUBJECT AT PREPAREDNESS BAZAAR.

The feature of the National Preparedness Bazaar which opened last week at the Grand Central Palace, was the Variety Film Corporation's preparedness picture, "My Country First," starring Tom Terriss. Louis Rosenbluh, President of the Variety concern donated the picture to the Bazaar, among the patrons and patronesses of which are Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Jules S. Bache, Mrs. Ledyard Blair, Mrs. John R. Drexel, and Messrs. Major William H. Elliott, Sterling P. Story, Count James Minotto and many others of equal note.

Mr. Terriss appeared in person and delivered a speech on Preparedness at each showing of the picture which is in six reels. His remarks were listened to by delegations from the army and navy and from The Boy Scouts and similar organizations as well as by the throngs that packed the Grand Central Auditorium. Mr. Rosenbluh announces that the picture will be shown every afternoon and evening during the continuance of the Bazaar which will last ten days.

"THE ISLAND OF DESIRE" (Fox).

More time was probably devoted to the production of "The Island of Desire" than to any five reel photoplay within a twelve-month. The result is that George Walsh's new subject is a genuinely superb feature. It is released on Jan. 1, 1917. Anna Luther, the titian-haired darling of the films, appears opposite Walsh, and her performance is even better than the finished work which she did in "The Beast."

The cast is unexcelled—one of the best which William Fox has ever put forth. Besides Walsh and Miss Luther, there are Willard Louis and William Burress, veterans of many Fox pictureplays; and Herschel Mayall, William Clifford, Samuel Searles, Hector V. Sarno, Marie McKeen and Don, Mr. Walsh's dog. Margaret Gibson, who is seen in a leading role, makes her debut in William Fox pictures. The direction was in charge of Otis Turner, who made "The Mediator."

"THE GREAT SECRET" (Metro).

One of the greatest screen novels of 1917 is "The Great Secret," the Metro-Quality serial, in fifteen chapters, with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne as stars. On New Year's day the first chapter of this production will be seen. It is a story of New York life, powerfully told, and is really a motion picture novel that ranks with the best stories of Dumas, Gaboriau or Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Scene from "The Great Secret" (Metro).

"The Great Secret" was written by Fred de Gresac, and was adapted for the screen and directed by William Christy Cabanne.

Mr. Bushman is supported by a specially chosen cast, containing such names as Edward Connelly, Fred Stanton, Helen Dunbar, Belle Bruce, Dorothy Hydell, Sue Balfour, Tammany Young, Ed Lawrence, Charles Ripley, Art Ortego, John Leach, Baron Wenther, William J. Calhoun, Fred Roberts, Robert Carson, Tom Blake, W. J. Butler, Charles Fang, Lillian Sullivan, Marie de Chett and others.

Mary Maclaren Coming Back

Will Appear in New Subject for Bluebird Series—Other Good Bluebirds.

AFTER an absence of twenty weeks, Mary MacLaren, who made her bow to Bluebirds as the heroine of "Shoes," returns to the series in "The Mysterious Mrs. Musselwhite," with Harrison Ford her co-star, on February 5. Lois Weber, who brought Miss MacLaren up from maid parts to star-dom in "Shoes," still directs her and has created an unusual feature in the oddly-titled "The Mysterious Mrs. Musselwhite."

Following the excellent impression she made in "Shoes," "Saving the Family Name," and "Wanted—A Home," Miss MacLaren, for a time, turned her services, under Miss Weber, to features that have been marketed on state right lines—"Idle Wives" being the most popular of the lot. Her return to the Bluebird program will be good box-office news to the exhibitor.

The feature preceding "The Mysterious Mrs. Musselwhite" will introduce Franklyn Farnum as the star of "The Devil's Pay Day" with Leah Baird his leading lady, scheduled for January 29. This is Miss Baird's first appearance in Bluebirds, but Mr. Farnum will be remembered as the star of "A Stranger from Somewhere," in which he was favorably received by the "fans."

What Bluebird asserts is the prettiest picture it has made will be "God's Crucible," to be released January 22. This feature will begin Bluebird's second year as a releasing corporation and was selected particularly to give the program a flying start on the new period. Lynn F. Reynolds who has given Bluebird such popular releases as "The End of the Rainbow," "The Girl of Lost Lake," "The Secret of the Swamp," etc., took his company, headed by Val Paul, George Hernandez and Myrtle Gonzales, to Arizona's Grand Canyon and there reproduced the wonderfully beautiful and impressive nature-settings that have fixed Grand Canyon as one of the world's wonder spots.

Ella Hall, in "Her Soul's Inspiration," on January 15, will appear as Bluebird No. 52 in the Bluebird series, affording one of the most attractive subjects she has appeared in since she became a Bluebird star.

EDISON COMPLETES "THE ROYAL PAUPER."

The final scenes of Edison's five-part feature "The Royal Pauper" have been completed and it is announced that the subject will be forthcoming through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service February 12th. The story is that of a little poorhouse girl whose dreams of splendor come true in dramatic fashion. "The Royal Pauper" introduces to filmland a new screen star in the person of Miss Francine Larrimore, the little actress who substituted occasionally for Madge Kennedy in the New York production of "Fair and Warmer," and attracted so much favorable attention that she was placed at the head of the company organized to play this popular farce for the delectation of Chicago audiences.

"WHEN THE MAN SPEAKS" (Essanay).

A thrilling battle between railroad workers and their "boss" opens this drama. Tense dramatic action continues to the end,

Scene from "When the Man Speaks" (Essanay).

without let-up. The photoplay is the fourth of Essanay's "Is Marriage Sacred?" series. It presents the marital problem growing out of a young wife's wrong conception of her husband's kindly indulgence. A variety of scenes are shown from the saloon hangout of a disgruntled mob to a ballroom with a society dance in progress. The roles are portrayed by Essanay's stock company, including Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold, Lillian Drew, Sydney Ainsworth and Thomas Commerford. The screen time is 29 minutes.

PAULINE FREDERICK IN "THE SLAVE MARKET."

The completion of the Famous Players production, "The Slave Market," in which Pauline Frederick is the star, and the first Paramount picture for the year 1917, has served to impress upon at least one director the fact that there is war going on in Europe. That man is Hugh Ford, who has been in charge of Pauline Frederick's newest starring vehicle.

The cause for Mr. Ford's sudden interest in the war lies in the fact that "The Slave Market," which was written by Frederick Arnold Kummer, is a pirate story. That means, of course, that a good sized ship would be required for the settings of many scenes—for it is not a tale of the submarine or of river pirates, but of the Spanish Main. Mr. Ford's first idea was to take these scences in Cuba when Miss Frederick, Thomas Meighan and Ruby Hoffman, Wellington Plater and the rest of the company were there, but the only ship that in any way answered his requirements was to be had only on such terms that he virtually bought the ship outright for the privilege of using it three days, whereat Mr. Ford rebelled.

Scene from "The Slave Market" (Famous Players).

Mr. Ford is noted, among other things, as being a great globe trotter, and during his many sea voyages he has become very friendly with the officers of some of the liners. After he had come as near to giving up the search as any motion picture director ever comes to giving up any search, Mr. Ford boarded a ship, at the Tiebout Basin and found, to his surprised delight, that the captain had been the second officer of one of the British liners on which he had traveled, and with whom he had many smoking-room chats.

After a brief interchange of pleasantries, Mr. Ford outlined his difficulties and was informed that, inasmuch as the freight blockade had delayed the arrival of the cargo for which they were waiting, they were at his disposal for a very reasonable sum. Mr. Ford rushed back to the Famous Players' studio and assembled his company as rapidly as possible, determined to take the pictures before the captain changed his mind or the ship's cargo arrived.

"THE WHITE RAVEN" (Metro).

"The White Raven," the second great photodrama starring Ethel Barrymore since the announcement that the celebrated star has forsaken the speaking stage to act in Metro wonderplays, has been completed and will be released on the Metro program January 15, 1917. George D. Baker has directed this five-part feature photoplay, adapting it from the original story by Charles A. Logue, and Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., is the producing company.

In "The White Raven" Miss Barrymore has the part of "Nightingale Nan," supported by a notable cast, including William B. Davidson, who plays "the stranger," Walter Hitchcock (John Blaisdell), Ethel Dayton, Viola Fortescue, George A. Wright, H. H. Pattee, Mario Majeroni, Phil Sandford and Ned Finlay. For vigor, for sheer imaginative power that grips the spectator, "The White Raven" is unparalleled, furnishing a remarkably strong vehicle for this most magnificent of stars.

ELAINE IVANS IN KLEINE-EDISON FEATURE.

Marc MacDermott and Miriam Nesbitt are the featured players in Edison's "The Last Sentence," which will be the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service offering January 1st. Prominent in their support is Miss Elaine Ivans, a newcomer to the screen, whose work in this story has caused those who have seen the advance showings to venture the prediction that Miss Ivans will ere long be featured as a star. Besides being young, beautiful and attractive, Miss Ivans is possessed of real acting ability, as her strong emotional work in "The Last Sentence" clearly proves. Other well known players in the cast are Grace Williams, Florence Stover and Raymond McKee.

Bennett on Mutual Program

Appears in "The Gilded Youth" with Other Releases for Week of Jan. 1.

RICHARD BENNETT in a five-reel Mutual Star Production entitled "The Gilded Youth," heads the Mutual releases for the week beginning Monday, January 1, 1917. This is the fourth of the series of Mutual Star Productions in which he has starred. Mr. Bennett's impersonation of a young scion of a wealthy family, who is reduced to poverty and want through gambling and drink, is most convincing.

The story of "The Gilded Youth" is interesting and deals with the re-establishing of a lost fortune by means of a coat won in a raffle. There are some rattling good race track scenes in the production in which our hero wins and loses a fortune, finally becoming a jockey, in order that he may follow the horses. Supporting Richard Bennett in "The Gilded Youth" are Rhea Mitchell, who gives a delightful impersonation of the little boarding house slavey.

On Monday, January 1, Ethel Grandin in a two-reel drama, entitled "Pangs of Jealousy," will be released. This is a strong drama and gives Miss Grandin splendid opportunities to prove her ability as an emotional actress.

"Tours Around the World," in one reel and picturing Rio de Janerio (capital of Brazil), and a ramble around Luchen will be offered on Tuesday, January 2.

"Mutual Weekly" No. 105, presenting the world's most important and interesting happenings, together with "See America First," a one-reel scenic, showing the beautiful scenery around Pasadena, California, "The City of Roses," on the same reel with "Miss Catnip Goes to the Movies," "Kartoon Komics," by Harry Palmer, will be released on Wednesday, January 3, 1917. On Thursday, January 4, a one-reel comedy will be offered. J. Warren Kerrigan in a one-reel American drama will be shown on Friday, January 5.

Lois Meredith in "The Girl Who Can Cook," another of the one-reel Mutual Star comedies, will appear on Saturday, January 6. The story of this delightful comedy tells of how the uncle of a rich young bachelor tries to make a match between a girl at a house party and his nephew. Finding that she cannot cook, he decides on a plainer and simpler girl, who cooks a delightful meal, in the absence of the cook. Of course the nephew is also fond of good cooking and asks the simpler miss to marry him.

"Reel Life," the film magazine from the Gaumont studios, and "The Land of Nowhere," a two-reel Vogue comedy featuring Rube Miller, will be released on Sunday, January 7. "The Land of Nowhere" is a typical Vogue comedy and deals with the mishaps Rube has in a Bowery dance hall.

LOIS MEREDITH IN "THE GIRL WHO CAN COOK" (Mutual).

There is a very old saying that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach." This is proved without a doubt and in a most interesting way in the sixth of the series of seven Mutual Star Comedies, "The Girl Who Can Cook," featuring Lois Meredith, which will be released the week of January 1.

"Mary Sheldon," the character which Miss Meredith assumes, is a genial, comfortable, nice little girl, but not sufficiently stunning in appearance and sophisticated in manner to attract attention at the house party where "Julian Wilks," a striking coquette, is also present. But when the cook suddenly leaves, and the hostess is left stranded, Mary saves the situation by going into the kitchen and preparing dinner herself, a fact which at once makes her eligible in the eyes of the handsome and wealthy young gentleman of the party, and of his eccentric old uncle.

Scene from "The Girl Who Can Cook" (Mutual).

Miss Meredith, who is herself very popular both on the stage and screen from her work in "Help Wanted," "Peg O' My Heart" on the former and "Help Wanted" and "The Woman" on the latter, is supported by an unusual cast.

Theodore Babcock, formerly associated with "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines," with Fritzi Scheff in "Pretty Mrs. Smith," with Blanche Walsh in vaudeville, and of many other notable productions, appears in the cast, as does Ann Warrington, Margarette Chaffee, and Paul Edwards.

Twelve Essanay Dramas

Titles of Forthcoming Dozen Dramatic Releases Announced By President Spoor.

THE complete list of titles of the twelve photoplays which will comprise Essanay's dramatic series, "Is Marriage Sacred?" have been announced. "The Burning Band" was the first release and was followed by "Dancing with Folly."

"Wife in Sunshine," released December 30, reveals a wife who is loyal to her husband so long as he is prosperous. She learns, to her greatest misfortune, that this is the wrong attitude to take.

"When the Man Speaks," released January 20, is the parents' intolerant treatment of their daughters. It leads the girls to deceive them in meeting their beaux.

The girl trifles with the serious purposes of her many suitors in "The Magic Mirror," released January 27, and finds herself without suitors when finally she seeks marriage.

"Shifting Shadows," released February 3, presents the joys and sorrows of married life, but show that always there is sunshine at the end.

"Desertion and Nonsupport," released February 10, are the two main charges upon which divorce suits are based. This drama shows how such complications might easily have been avoided, had reason entered into the scheme.

"Ashes on the Hearthstone," released February 17, are the ashes of what had been a happy marriage, destroyed by divorce. The child of the couple, however, enters the play, to rebuild the home and happiness.

"The Extravagant Bride," released February 24, tells its own story.

"Social Obligations," the last of the series, shows a wife who neglects her husband and home for pink teas, card parties and trouble.

The "Is Marriage Sacred?" series is being enacted by a stock company of noted screen stars, specially formed. In the cast is included such well-known actors and actresses as Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold, Lillian Drew, Sydney Ainsworth and Thomas Commerford. Each of the photoplays has a separate and distinct plot, and is offered under an individual title, as above. The screen time for each one is approximately thirty minutes.

"OLIVER TWIST" PROVES ONE OF SEASON'S GREATEST FEATURES.

The Lasky adaptation of Charles Dickens' great masterpiece, "Oliver Twist," which has just been released on the Paramount program, has proven one of the greatest photoplay successes of the year now drawing to a close. In it Miss Doro has scored a tremendous personal triumph and the photoplay itself has been hailed as a master production.

From the many congratulatory telegrams which have been received by Jesse L. Lasky, president of the company which bears his name, the following was selected from W. H. Seely, manager of the Piccadilly theater in Rochester, which opened with the exhibition of this production, as being typical of the sentiment which was expressed by many:

Rochester, New York, December 10, 1916.

To William Sherry,
729 Seventh Ave., New York.

More than eight thousand patrons of Piccadilly theater have today seen Lasky infuse blood into the viens, strike light into the eyes, and breathe life into the nostrils of Dickens' characters in the Paramount classic, "Oliver Twist." The directors of the theater congratulate you upon this marvelous production by a cast that Dickens' himself might well have chosen it has held our huge audiences breathless all day. Thank Miss Doro and everybody who had anything to do with "Oliver Twist."

"THE MASTER PASSION" (K-E-S-E).

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay make the announcement that "The Master Passion," an Edison production, featuring Mabel Trunnelle and Robert Conness, in five acts, will be released Jan. 8th instead of "Little Shoes," a Selig production, as was first planned. "The Master Passion" is presented by an all-star cast in which, aside from Mabel Trunnelle and Robert Conness, there appears Helen Strickland, Richard Tucker, Raymond McKee, Olive Wright, Bigelow Cooper and A. Lincoln. The story is said to be fascinating and deals with a situation extraordinary in connection with the rise of an ambitious woman to become the idol of the Paris Opera after having deserted her husband and child. Finally, with the world at her feet, she tastes life's bitter dregs. Disillusionment brings regeneration and the triumph of mother-love. Finally, through sacrifice to save her daughter from a scoundrel, the woman's debt is paid and Destiny leads her once more to the family hearthstone, there to find eternal peace of soul.

"THE PIPER'S PRICE" (Bluebird).

Dorothy Phillips will make her second appearance as a Bluebird star on January 8, appearing in Joseph De Grasse's screen version of Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's story of the same title. Maud George, William Stowell, Lon Chaney and Claire Du Brey complete the cast. Ida May Park prepared the scenario and King Gray photographed the scenes.

There in one paragraph are the salient points for the exhibitors' program and advertising. Although this picture employs a "short cast" there is no likelihood of any of the "fans" being disappointed because numbers are lacking. The quartet of principals, not forgetting Claire Du Brey's role as the maid, provide five acts of intense emotional proceedure, with interest sustained to the last foot of film.

Scene from "The Piper's Price" (Bluebird).

Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's story deals with the divorce problem and sheds new light upon the increasing vogue of marital disagreements that end in the courts. Lon Chaney, who has hitherto been Bluebird's principal villain, is the hero in "The Piper's Price." The leading man, William Stowell, is new to Bluebirds.

"BILLY WEST COMEDIES" POPULAR.

Manager H. M. Davis, of the New York branch of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, reports an almost overwhelming rush of business with the "Billy West Comedies," which are being produced by the Unicorn concern. "These two-reelers," states Mr. Davis, "have been eagerly booked by every exhibitor in the New York territory, and the same holds true of the volume of business done by the Unicorn exchanges of which there are twenty-eight throughout the country. According to Mr. Davis, this proves that there is a distinct demand for brisk and smart modern comedies, which, while they are clever and brilliant in theme, are still not of the slap-stick variety.

The "Billy West Comedies," already released, are "His Married Life," "Boarders and Bombs" and "His Waiting Career." Director Fritz Wintermeier is busily engaged on the production of a series of succeeding "Billy West Comedies," the titles of which will be announced shortly.

"A NEAR-SIGHTED AUTO-PEDIST" (TWEEDLEDUM).

If the director and the Eagle Film Co. can keep Tweedledum supplied with autopedes to replace the ones he breaks, this energetic comedian will soon be ready to release his newest comedy, "A Near-Sighted Auto-Pedist." To the despair of his director, Tweedledum has already broken four of the machines and no way seems to have been found to make them strong enough for the rough handling he gives them. When this comedy is finished it is destined to create a sensation such as was produced by Tweedledum's famous release, "A Near-Sighted Cyclist," made by the Eclipse Company, and of which the record number of 950 prints were sold throughout the entire picture world. The Unity Sales Corporation expects to release this picture the early part of January, provided there is no further postponement.

SPECIAL MUSIC FOR NEW MARY PICKFORD SUBJECT.

Particular care is being devoted to the musical settings of the new Mary Pickford production, "The Pride of the Clan," to be released by Artcraft on January 8th. For this work the Artcraft Pictures Corporation has secured the services of William C. Stickles, the well known composer, of the firm of George W. Beynon, Inc. Mr. Stickles and has associates are pioneers in preparation of musical scores for motion pictures and have had wide experience in this field, having turned out eighty-five orchestra scores for screen productions during the past year.

One of the features of the musical accompaniment for "The Pride of the Clan" will be displayed in the fact that the entire score can be presented as a piano solo. The piano sheets in such musical scores in the past have never in themselves presented a comprehensive accompaniment for the picture. "The Pride of the Clan" piano score will offer a distinct departure from the usual motion picture music in that it fits a perfect accompaniment in itself and can be handled entirely separate from the complete score. The score prepared by Mr. Stickles will be published by Schirmer, Inc., the well known music house.

"THE FINAL STAND," LAST OF "YELLOW MENACE."

The sixteenth and last episode of "The Yellow Menace" will be released this week by Unity under the fitting title "The Final Stand." In this exciting conclusion to a most thrilling serial, we see Ali Singh defeated in all his nefarious schemes and recalled in disgrace by the mysterious Council of Ten whose destinies he has been supposed to reign. Determined, however, not to be caught, he prepares to escape and dresses a substitute in his own clothing, sending this man away with Katisha, his faithful slave, in a car. They are pursued by soldiers and the spurious Ali Singh is shot and expires.

For those who like melodrama and thrills in serials, there is ample to hold them to the last in "The Yellow Menace." The interest in Ali Singh's demoniacal career is not allowed to lag for an instant and the suspense as to the final outcome is sustained throughout the serial at its highest pitch.

"LITTLE SHOES" ESSANAY'S NEXT WALTHALL FEATURE.

"Little Shoes" is the title of the next Henry B. Walthall feature to be offered by President George K. Spoor of Essanay. It will be produced for a screen time of approximately one hour and fifteen minutes. It will be released on January 15 through Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay service.

"Little Shoes" is taken from "The House of the Little Shoes," a widely read novel by Eleanor M. Ingram. It is a sensational and romantic story, in contrast to the intense drama of "The Truant Soul."

Mr. Walthall has begun work in this feature. As in "The Truant Soul," he will be supported by Mary Charleson. Patrick Calhoun, who played the heavy in the superfeature, will also appear in Mr. Walthall's supporting cast. Arthur Berthelet is directing the play.

"THE ETERNAL SIN" COMPLETED.

Herbert Brenon has returned from St. Augustine, Florida, where he passed nearly two weeks in making more than a hundred scenes for his next Selznick-Pictures production, "The Eternal Sin," in which Florence Reed will be seen as Lucretia Borgia. The quaint city of the south, one of the oldest on the American continent, was admirably adapted to the purpose for which Mr. Brenon selected it. "The Eternal Sin" is now almost completed, the few remaining episodes being interior scenes, elaborate settings for which were built in the big studio on Hudson Heights while the company was in the sunny south.

Scene from "The Eternal Sin" (Selznick).

Absolute fidelity to all detail is one of Mr. Brenon's fixed principles, and a great deal of research was necessary in building the magnificent palace scenes. The throne room, the banquet hall, the library of the Duke d'Este, Lucretia s husband, and all of the other spacious rooms were copied from rare prints and authentic copies of famous paintings.

General Film War Pictures

Intensely Thrilling Realism In British Government's Motion Pictures of the Great Conflict.

PHOTOGRAPHED while history was in the making, the British government war films, which are to be released by the General Film Company in weekly divisions of two reels of 1,000 feet each, show war in all its horror. Close-range pictures of trench fighting and scenes in which the camera's eye looked upon miles of batlefronts are seen. Those who have seen the films say that such thrilling and intensely realistic pictures can neither be described or imagined. To see them is to be actually in the war, and a part of it.

They are real pictures of real fighting, taken on the firing line. The cameramen did not follow at a safe distance behind the surge and shock of battle. The photographers were especially commissioned officers. Often the tripods were shot from under the cameras. Many of the photographers gave their lives for these pictures. Again and again films were brought in by soldiers, who found them in exposed positions, with no word as to the fate of the men who had done their duty.

Naturally, these films differ radically from the "war pictures" taken "somewhere" in the rear, the familiar views of the men and materials of warfare posed for the camera. They are vital and vivid, with a grim, desperate realism which cannot be simulated, and convey an idea of the frightfulness of modern warfare.

It was not the original purpose to allow these pictures to be seen by the public. Finally, the British government decided to send them to this country for the benefit of war relief funds, and the Patriot Film Corporation was formed for this purpose. Its entire gross profits will be turned over to the various relief funds.

These are the only motion pictures showing Great Britain's tremendous war activities, and the only war pictures of any kind which have been allowed to leave England uncensored. They include pictures of all processes in the manufacture of munitions; of the training and mobilization of the great army of 5,000,000 men; of all phases of the Battle of the Somme; of the Grand Fleet in the North Sea, showing the maneuvres of all the varied units! the Aeroplane Corps, including thrilling encounters 5,000 feet above the clouds, and the American Red Cross Ambulance Corps in action.

Keen Cartoon Program for New Year

Releases Completed for January and February—Pictures Cover a Variety of Subjects.

THE Keen Cartoon Corporation has just announced its releases for the beginning of the New Year. The list, which covers the period from January first to February 26th, inclusive, embraces a variety of subjects which are as follows:

January 1st, "Mose Is Cured"; January 8th, "Old Forty Niner"; January 15th, "Jeb Jenkins, the Village Genius"; January 22d, "Jerry McDub Collects Some Accident Insurance"; January 29th, "Henry W. Zippy Buys A Pet"; February 5th, "Zoo-Illogical Studies"; February 12th, "A Dangerous Girl"; February 19th, "Dr. Zippy Opens A Sanatorium" and February 26th, "The Fighting Blood of Jerry McDub."

Each release is a comic story, illustrated by characters originated for the story by one of the many high-class comic artists in the employ of the Keen Cartoon Corporation and, unlike the usual run of cartoon film, these stories are complete with plot and situations and are not secondary to the characters themselves. Rather, the characters are conceived with the object of bringing out in every detail the amusing conception of the authors.

E. I. S. Enters Feature Field

Dixon Boardman is President—Company Now at Work on "Trooper 44," a Story of the Pennsylvania Constabulary.

THE latest entrant into the production field is the E. I. S. Motion Picture Corporation, of which Dixon Boardman is president and director general. Hitherto known as producers of high-class educational pictures, the E. I. S. concern now intends aggressively to enter the production field and put out features.

The first production is entitled "Trooper 44," and is now in the process of making in the coal and iron regions of Pennsylvania. A unique feature is the fact that for the first time in the history of that famous force it enlists the services upon the screen of the mounted Pennsylvania state police.

The E. I. S. players are now working on outside locations at Greensburg, Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, where are situated the barracks of Troop A, the largest and most important of the mounted police garrisons.

The picture is being directed by Roy Gahris, under the general supervision of Mr. Boardman. The leading role, that of "Jack," otherwise Trooper 44, is played by George Soule Spencer. W. W. Black is intrusted with the heavy character of Ian Sanford. June Daye is seen as Ruth Moreland, and Betty Dodridge enacts Cora Watson.

The camera work is directed by Fred Armitage, with whom is associated Charles Charlton. "Trooper 44" will in all probability be released early in the New Year.

"PATRIA" SCORES WONDERFUL HIT.

Following the enthusiastic reception given to the International's "Patria," the serial supreme at the Ritz-Carlton, by New York's most exclusive society, Chicago's social set had its opportunity to see the great patriotic photoplay at a private showing at the Congress hotel in that city recently. The reception given this wonderful cinema drama in Chicago was no less spontaneous and enthusiastic than in New York.

Similar private showings of "Patria" were also given in Pittsburgh last week. One was at the palatial residence of Mr. Hay Walkers in Sewickley, the millionaire's suburb of the great industrial city. There were seventy guests for dinner and to view the photoplay afterwards, and all of them were unanimous in their praise of the picture. A trade showing was also given at Pittsburgh at the Moose Temple, at which exhibitors from all over the district were present. Members of the National Security League of Pittsburgh who saw it pronounced "Patria" to be the finest screen drama from a preparedness standpoint ever produced.

BURKE & JAMES HANDLE UNIVERSAL CAMERA PRODUCTS.

Arrangements have just been completed by Burke & James, Inc., of Chicago, whereby they have become the sole and exclusive wholesale distributors for the products of the Universal Camera Company of that city. The Burke & James Company are by no means new in the motion picture field, as they have handled the famous Voigtlander and Dallmeyer motion picture lenses for several years and up until the opening of the European war did a large business in Ernemann and Bioscope motion picture cameras. This arrangement will enable the manufacturers to devote their entire time to turning out Universal cameras, tripods and accessories, so that they will be able to supply those who desire Universal cameras on short notice, a condition which, due to the great demand, has not existed previously. Burke & James, Inc., also maintain an office at 225 Fifth avenue, New York City, for taking care of Eastern business.

FEDERAL FEATURE FILM REORGANIZES.

The reorganization of the Federal Feature Film Company, whose offices are located on the twelfth floor of the Forty-Fifth Street Exchange building, was effected recently. In announcing the policy of the coming year, one of its officers said:

"We entered this branch of the film business to cater to the wants of the small exhibitor. It is he who needs the most help. The small exhibitor cannot afford to pay top prices for feature films, but there is no doubt to the fact that he would be willing to have them shown in his theater if he could secure them at a reasonable price. In this connection, attention is drawn to the fact that the Federal Feature Film Company has purchased the rights to many feature film successes dating two years and less back. Naturally, the price we paid for these features is considerably less than the production's actual worth, but it is in this way that we can rent pictures to the exhibitor at a price which he can meet.

"ON ITALY'S FIRING LINE" (Selig).

"On Italy's Firing Line" is a noteworthy Selig feature, in three reels, released in General Film Company's regular service on Monday, January 1st. This film presents motion pictures of the great conflict waging in Europe, and are pictures that have never been shown to the public before. Additional interest is attached to this production because of the fact that perhaps for the first time, the activities of the Italian armies are shown in detail. The pictures include regimental charges, the bringing of heavy artillery up to mountain fortifications, battles in the Alps above the clouds, Italian troops on the march, the cutting of military roads on mountain sides, artillery duels with bursting shells and shrapnel, and finally the death toll caused by war. These pictures are not only of deserving interest, but they are educational, and properly open the New Year program of the Selig Company, in General Film Service.

NOTICE ! ! ! !

Attention of Moving Picture Producers is called to the fact that any scenarios written by the late Sully Guard, my son, are the exclusive property of the undersigned, and any companies purchasing same do so at their own risk. I hold the original and registered scenarios. I am giving this warning because I have been informed that other parties have attempted to dispose of some of these stories.

INDA PALMER GUARD.

EVERY CAMERA MAN

CAN AVOID SCENE MIX-UPS

and keep accurate record of each exposure, by using the book we will send you, postage prepaid, if you will send us 15c in stamps.

ROTHACKER FILM MFG. COMPANY

1339 Diversey Parkway, Chicago

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Censorship Flurry in Maine College Town

Waterville, Site of Colby College and Coburn Institute, Has a Discussion on Censorship but Wants No Local Censors.

From John P. Flanagan, 147 Park View Ave., Bangor, Maine.

WATERVILLE, Me.—Attempts of a few would-be guardians of the public morals in Waterville to have local censorship on the ground that the people do not know what pictures they want, and that it is the duty of some who feel they know about moral matters to censor the pictures, have met with the cordial disapproval of a majority of the people of this city.

Waterville has been talking of better moving pictures seriously during the past few weeks, but has put a quietus on the attempt to censor. The conclusion reached after holding several meetings of women's clubs, prominent educators of Colby College, which is located here, and ministers, is that the people of Waterville must cooperate with Manager Cornelius B. Kelleher of the City opera house.

The Waterville Woman's Club was behind the movement to censor pictures, and the Coburn Classical Institute authorities also started to make a similar move, but so quickly did the idea meet a frost that but little has been heard of it since.

Coburn Faculty Felt Need of Better Film

At the meeting held to discuss the matter, Principal Hathorn of Coburn said that the Coburn faculty had for a long time felt that there should be a higher grade of pictures shown in the city and that it was time to do something. Dean Cooper of the woman's division of Colby College said that she had taken the matter of good pictures up with Manager Kelleher of the opera house, who had always seemed willing to do what he could but that somehow nothing had come of it. She felt that Mr. Kelleher was trying to put on the pictures that the people demanded and that it was necessary to arouse a sentiment for better pictures so that the house showing them would be patronized as it should be. She felt that the average young person cared very little about the quality of the picture and that it was the duty of those who have them in their care to see that only the best pictures were shown them.

Want No Censors.

It was agreed that the city is not ready for a censor and the thing to do is to cultivate a taste for better pictures among the people, particularly the adults.

Some of the people interested gave out a statement that at the City opera house the plan will be tried of putting on for two days of the week a series of pictures that will be all that the sincerest critics of the movies would wish. All are agreed that the Paramount pictures now being shown at the opera house are fully up to the standard. They are clean, have some of the best people in the profession, and in general are above criticism. Objection is made, however, to some of the serial pictures.

A Waterville man says "Waterville is entertaining during nine months of the year several hundred young men and young women who are away from home, who desire amusement, and who are entitled to the very best kind of amusement that it is possible for the people of the city to give them."

Manager Kelleher has expressed himself as being eager to do his share in bettering conditions, but like any other practical business man, feels that he should not be asked to bear the cost of it, and if the people will attend the shows of pictures that are of the very highest order, he will be only too pleased to run them.

Maritime News Letter

By F. F. Sully, 68 Lansdowne Ave., St. John, N. B.

A Holiday Attraction to the Goldings.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Golding recently entertained at their home, 36 Richmond street, a very distinguished visitor—the Stork—and it left as a special holiday attraction a bouncing baby girl. In spite of the many temptations to name the new patron of the Imperial, Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark or Lillian Walker, she will have the quaint but pleasing old family name, Martha Lillian, after her mother.

Local Famous to Move.

St. John, N. B.—The local exchange of the Famous Players is making preparations to move into its new quarters in the Odd Fellows' building at Union and Prince William street, the same structure in which the Canadian Universal now has its offices. There will be a large general office, a private office for the manager, a spacious projection room and shipping quarters. It is expected that with the completion of necessary renovations and improvements by the first part of the year, the Famous Players men will be settled in their new offices.

Remodeled Empire Theater Ready.

Halifax, N. S.—J. G. B. Metzler is to have the remodeled Empire on Buckingham street all ready for the holiday trade after extensive repairs and improvements that have necessitated an outlay of more than $5,000. A new brick front has been erected; 150 new seats have been added, making the total seating capacity now 900. The front of the Empire is now said to be one of the most attractive in the city, and the appointments throughout have been made modern in every respect. Mr. Metzler has been running the Bluebird features, and says he is highly pleased with the results. The Empire has been established only two years, but business has so increased as to warrant the improvements.

St. John Opera House Leased.

St. John, N. B.—With the application before the City Council for permission to erect a large overhead sign at the entrance of the opera house, it became generally known last week that J. M. Franklin, manager of the Strand theater, Halifax, had signed a lease for the St. John opera house, becoming effective March 1, at the expiration of the lease now held by Fred G. Spencer, who is running a high-class program of features through his manager, Walter C. McKay. Mr. Franklin will change the policy somewhat, offering five acts of vaudeville and pictures. He has already signed a contract for the "Crimson Stain Mystery" for the opening week. It is understood that Mr. Franklin is to make general improvements throughout the building.

President Golding at New Theater Opening.

Halifax, N. S.—Walter H. Golding of St. John, president of the Maritime Exhibitors' League, was a recent visitor in the city, coming in his official capacity as president of the league to extend felicitations to R. J. McAdam on the opening of his beautiful new $100,000 Casino theater. Mr. Golding made a thorough inspection of the building, and pronounced it as second to none in Canada.

No Artcraft and Monarch Pictures Here.

St. John, N. B.—I. Soskin, of Toronto, general sales manager of the Monarch Film Company, spent a week in the city recently endeavoring to close negotiations for bringing the Clara Kimball Young and the Mary Pickford productions into this territory. It is understood that none of the local exhibitors could afford to pay the price demanded, and, furthermore, the company, in view of the recent action taken by the Maritime Exhibitors' League, declaring themselves opposed to the deposit system, said that it would not bring the Monarch and Artcraft pictures into this territory. So far as men of the trade in St. John now know, these pictures will not be seen by Maritime audiences. This seems to be a reason for general regret, for these widely advertised features have caused much comment, and it is not at all unlikely that they would draw big houses.

On his return to Toronto, Mr. Soskin was accompanied by Louis Rosenfeld, who will make his headquarters in the Queen City as distributing agent for the Monarch company, after serving several years as the St. John manager for the Famous Players, a position which has fallen to Mitchell S. Bernstein, who was formerly of the Toronto office.

Manager Thomas Prince Weds.

St. John, N. B.—Thomas Prince, manager of the Palace theater, signed a new contract, promising faithful and perpetual service in all departments, one morning during the past week in the Mission Church, Paradise Row, when he was united in marriage to Miss Florence May Wilson, youngest daughter of Mrs. and the late Benjamin Wilson of this city. The bride was attended by Miss Ollie Prince, sister of the bridegroom, and Benjamin Wilson, brother of the bride, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Prince received a wealth of gifts, including two substantial checks from the bridegroom's brother, Edward Prince of Timmins, Ontario. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a beautiful platinum mounted diamond ring.

St. John, N. B.—I. Secours, formerly with the Montreal office of the Fox Film Corporation, has arrived and taken up his duties in the local exchange under Manager Carl Crawford.

Capital City Film Matters

Plan Erection of Exchange Building—Shipping Congestion Delays S hows—General Film Exchange Gets More Territory—Women Revise Dates for Children's Shows—Milliman Guest of Government.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The next regular meeting on January 8 of the Washington Exchange Managers' Association is expected to be one of the most important since its organization, for there are many interesting matters to be brought up. This meeting will be of the usual type, consisting of a supper at the National Press Club, following which the meeting will be addressed by W. J. Costello, who is planning the erection of a film exchange building at Sixth and G streets, northwest. The special committee, of which George Mann, of the Famous Players exchange, is chairman, will have a very interesting report on the controversies between the exchange managers and the express companies doing business in Washington. The meeting scheduled for December 18 was called off because of the fact that a number of the managers had gone to Charlotte, N. C., to participate in the semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Motion Picture Exhibitors' League. The next meeting will be held Monday evening, January 8.

No More Mounted Paper for Mutual.

Washington, D. C.—E. G. Evans, manager of the Mutual's Washington office, has just announced that the handling of mounted paper will be discontinued the first of the year. Mr. Evans said that he believes this will result in a considerable saving to his exhibitor patrons. In the first place, a saving will be effected in express charges and it will be found that the unmounted paper is much easier to handle when transported any distance. Another factor is the high cost of poster production and the difficulties experienced in obtaining mounting facilities. This latter is largely due to an inability to freely secure supplies of cotton backing. The cost of poster production has increased enormously during the past year or two. The high cost of cotton must be considered, and there is also considerable difficulty in securing the posters themselves on account of the shortage of colors and the shortage and high cost of paper.

Congestion in Express Offices.

Washington, D. C.—"If you don't get your show on time, please don't blame the exchange managers." That is the plea that has gone out from Washington, where the exchange managers are decidedly up against a shipping proposition because of the shortage of cars. It is understood that transportation was more heavily burdened this year than ever before, and that the express companies have found it impossible to unload incoming trains because the platforms have been loaded with outgoing shipments, making it almost impossible to handle the trucks. This has resulted in a congestion that will last until early in January. The companies have pressed freight cars into service and these are being loaded with express matter and attached to the regular trains. Usually this condition is present only for two or three days around Christmas; this year it will be a question of two or three weeks. When the exchangemen learned of the possibilities of a tie-up they started in to ship their shows two days in advance of booking dates, and in a number of cases they sent men with shows by trains to the cities where the theaters of their customers are located to forestall any possibilities of disappointment.

Milliman Guest of Uncle Sam.

Washington, D. C.—Quite an honor was last week conferred upon C. R. Milliman, manager of the Universals Washington branch, when he was selected to be the guest of the United States Government, and as such proceed to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., with the Universal feature, "The Eagle's Wings." Mr. Milliman exhibited this picture to a committee of twenty-eight of the Council of National Defense. The Council consists of a group of men selected by the War and Navy Departments to promulgate plans for an industrial national defense in the event of war. Following this exhibition a print of the feature was purchased by the Government and placed in the care of Dr. Franklin H. Martin, a member of this committee, who is to travel throughout the United States appearing before business and social clubs and organizations speaking on the subject of national preparedness. While at White Sulpher Springs, Mr. Milliman also exhibited the picture to a convention of surgeons in session at that time.

More Territory for General Exchange.

Washington, D. C.—The Washington branch of the General Film is continuing to grow, for there has just been added to the territory of Manager A. J. Nelson the states of North and South Carolina. The theaters in that territory were formerly served from the Atlanta, Ga., branch of the General Film Company through a sub branch in Charlotte. This latter office is now in charge of O. B. Swift, who recently arrived in Charlotte from New York. As previously mentioned in the Moving Picture World, Mr. Nelson had turned over to him the preceding week the business of the city of Richmond by the Philadelphia office This now gives him full control, so far as the business of the General Film is concerned, of Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, and part of West Virginia and the District of Columbia. Mr. Nelson spent the week in Charlotte attending the convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of North Carolina and arranging with his assistant, Mr. Swift, for the handling of the business. The Charlotte office is well established and in position to give a most excellent service to the exhibitors of the two states. Efficiency is the watchword of Manager Nelson and he will make every effort to improve the business relations between the Washington and Charlotte offices and the theater men of the territory.

President Sees Fox Feature.

Washington, D. C.—Last week President and Mrs. Wilson celebrated their first wedding anniversary by attending the opening performance of the William Fox production, "A Daughter of the Gods" at the Belasco theater.

This was the first time since he entered the White House that President Wilson has gone to a theater to see a moving picture. He has seen photoplays before, but always at the White House or at private entertainments.

The attendance of the President and Mrs. Wilson on their first wedding anniversary at a motion picture will be pleasing to the motion picture fans and exhibitors of the country.

Revised List of Special Film Shows.

Washington, D. C.—The District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs has issued a revised list of theaters and dates for the demonstration motion picture performances to be held in Washington under its auspices. This organization is carrying on what it is pleased to call a "campaign for cleaner films for the District of Columbia."

According to the association's list, children's matinees will be held between the hours of two and three o'clock, Friday afternoons, January 5, 12, 19 and 26 at the following theaters: Avenue Grand, Empire, Home, Lyric, Olympic, Victoria and Howard. The Saturday afternoon matinees, to be held at the same hour, on January 6, 13, 20 and 27, will be given at the Masonic Temple Auditorium, Circle, Dumbarton, Truxton, Florida and Blue Mouse theaters.

Boy Scouts in uniform are to act as ushers, and members of the Women's clubs are to supervise the exhibitions. The theater managers have agreed to donate the use of their respective houses, the various exchange managers will furnish the films without charge, and Union operators will be on the job as volunteers.

Motion Pictures in Inaugural Ceremonies.

Washington, D. C.—A committee to take charge of motion picture arrangements incident to the inaugural ceremonies of the Fourth of March is to be appointed by Robert Harper, chairman of the general committee and in charge of everything pertaining to the inaugural festivities. It is said that in view of the present-day importance of motion pictures in all educational publicity work, such a committee would prove a valuable adjunct in the promotion of the inaugural. A. Brylawski, one of the pioneer moving picture men of Washington, has been made a member of the general committee, and he will also serve on the finance committee.

Phillips Takes Washington Theater.

Washington, D. C.—Lawrence Phillips, who formerly conducted the Opera House in Alexandria, Va., has taken over the Staunton theater, securing possession of the house from Louis A. Atkinson, who has been operating a chain of theaters in Washington. Mr. Phillips is also well known in the baseball world, being the official announcer of the American League team in Washington.

Benefit for Orphans at Circle.

Washington, D. C.—Dr. William P. Herbst, of the Circle theater; George Mann, of the Famous Players exchange, and E. G. Evans, manager of the Mutual co-operated with the Girls' Civic Club to the extent that 500 orphan children were given a special Thanksgiving matinee at the Circle theater. The program included "The Patch Work Girl of Oz," a travelogue and comedies.

New Hippodrome to Open This Week.

Washington, D. C.—Work on the new Hippodrome theater on Union street is being pushed. W. A. Donlevy, manager of the new theater, states the house will open for business Christmas week. The house seats 900 and is beautiful. Big features and vaudeville will be shown.

Pleased With Children's Shows.

Charlotte, N. C.—Manager H. L. Morrow is well pleased with the manner in which the children's matinees are taking at the Piedmont theater. Recently he started out showing a selected program of Universal educational films. The performances have been highly successful, not from a financial standpoint so much as meeting the wishes of his patrons. Mr. Morrow is a live, up-to-date manager, quick to take advantage of popular demands and in co-operating with the Federation of Women's Clubs he is bringing additional patronage to those of his exhibitions intended largely for adults.

New Jersey

By Jacob J. Kalter, 25 Branford Place, Newark, N. J.

M. P. Ex. Co. Serves Schools and Churches.

NEWARK, N. J.—The Motion Picture Exhibition Company, under the able management of Robert S. Sumner, serves a distinctive purpose in this community. Mr. Sumner books films to schools, churches and institutions exclusively. All of the pictures are educational, scenic or topical in character. Mr. Sumner is a keen advertiser, and is distributing several booklets describing methods by which motion pictures can be made both interesting and instructive in the class-room and in the church. The Motion Picture Exhibition Company also are the distributors for the Atlas projector, a machine made especially for class-room use. An example of the work done by the concern is a benefit for the Armenian War Relief [illegible] on Dec. 15, at which Mr. Sumner [illegible]hed the motion picture part of the [illegible]n. The offices of the company are [illegible] in Proctor's Palace theater building, [illegible] Market street.

Hespe Building Another.

[illegible]y, N. J.—Dr. H. Charles Hespe, [illegible] the Motion Picture Exhibi[illegible] of New Jersey, is having [illegible]d by William Neuman, ar[illegible]ect, 202 Ogden avenue, for the erecti[illegible] of a brick, terra cotta and concrete m[illegible]ing picture theater 65x136 feet, at Cen[illegible]ral avenue near Charles street. The new house will seat 1,400.

Thomas Egan at Unicorn.

Newark, N. J.—Thomas Egan is the successor to Jack Kraemer at the local office of the Unicorn Film, in the Strand theater building, 118 Market street.

Herbert Yudkin Loses Suits.

Newark, N. J.—Herbert Yudkin, manager of the local office of the Nation Film Company, suffered the loss of two new suits valued at $100. The suits were stolen from Mr. Yudkin's automobile Saturday evening while the auto was parked in front of the Proctor's Palace theater. The loss was reported to the police.

C. J. Straehle Managing the Star.

Newark, N. J.—Alterations costing $1,275 have been made on the Star theater, 650 Bergen street, by Mrs. Minnie Albe, the owner. The building is a concrete and brick affair, and after alterations will have a seating capacity of several hundred more than at present. Charles J. Straehle, who formerly managed the house, has again become associated in the same capacity.

Addition Built to Theater.

Union Hill, N. J.—Dominick Orlando, 467 Bergenline avenue, West New York, has the general contract for alterations and an addition to the one-story brick building at 312-316 Columbia street. S. Lottauer, the proprietor, will spend $3,000 in securing the improvement.

To Exploit "The Crisis."

Newark, N. J.—To exploit the film spectacle "The Crisis," the Crisis Picture Corporation has been incorporated under the laws of New Jersey. The registered agent is Fred W. Falkner, with offices at 116 Market street. The authorized capital is $2,000. The incorporators are Thomas McManus, Albert E. Arge and George J. Watson.

Olympia Theater Robbed.

Newark, N. J.—The Olympia theater, 324 Norfolk street, under the management of Isaac Itzkowitz, was entered Friday night and a bundle of carbons and other moving picture supplies were stolen.

"Where Are My Children?"

Newark, N. J.—During the week of Dec. 4 at the Terminal theater, "Where Are My Children?" did exceptionally good business. At the Goodwin theater during the entire week of Dec. 11 the film also did very well. James M. Ashcraft, manager of the northern New Jersey Supreme Photoplay Productions, is handling the film throughout this territory. His offices are located at 56 Proctor's Palace theater building.

"Montclair Moviefied."

Montclair, N. J.—The activities of Montclair were shown in a moving picture entitled "The Mystic Mountainside or Montclair Moviefield."

Supercensors Make a Visitation

Committee, Said to Represent 200,000 Sensible Women, Descends on the Legal Censor Board—Wants Guarantees of Respectability in Work of the Legal Body—Are Appointed Inspectors of Screens.

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Ter., Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The censorial fireworks have started and the equipoise of certain ladies connected with the igniting end of the business assists one to believe that they may have dynamite which might accidentally leave nothing in Baltimore but the smoking ruins of a flourishing motion picture center. They claim to represent 200,000 women. A committee led by Mrs. H. E. Parkhurst descended upon the state censors on Dec. 16. While they blamed their onslaught primarily on the showing of "War's Women" in this city, still, with all due respect to the ladies, we wonder if they haven't found other things so dull that they have been compelled to take up a new amusement?

It was quite a tea party. All the members of the Censor Board, Charles E. Harper, Wm. F. Stone and Mrs. T. B. Harrison, were present, and they had quite a tete-a-tete concerning the problems of moving picture censors. The committee was very graciously received by the members of the board and a petition was presented by the former which read in part:

Want Censors to Guarantee Respectability.

"We come today, not in a spirit of antagonism, but one of co-operation, and encouraged by the apparent desire of the board to do what is right, beg to inquire what power the board has in such a case and what protection they can offer our boys and girls attending the local houses. In other words, may we not expect that the stamp of the censors which precedes each film will be a guarantee of respectability in all cases and at all times?"

Mrs. Parkhurst explained that they were acting, feeling it their duty to protect children in the city from the pictures with a taint of immorality, and yet she admitted that she did not like the moving pictures. Then up spoke Mrs. Troupe and said that she loved them (the moving pictures) and went on an average of five times a week and admitted that there were more good than bad ones. Mr. Stone pinned her down with the question as to the names of some of the bad ones, but she refrained from giving an answer.

No Money to Inspect Screens.

It was then explained to the committee, who by the way are all mothers, that the board could not employ inspectors to examine the screens of all the theaters to see if the eliminations had been made, owing to their having to depend on the fees for the support of the office and that half of this sum had to be turned over to the state treasurer. It was also stated that they had to depend on the police and the public to report any improper scenes being shown at the theaters.

Made the Ladies Inspectors.

The outcome of the whole affair was to the effect that the ladies were advised by the board to notify them of any improprieties which they observe while watching the moving pictures in the theaters. Also be it noted that after January 1 no pictures will be permitted to be shown in the state of Maryland unless they bear the stamp of approval of the Maryland Censor Board.

Theater Company Alleged Insolvent.

Baltimore, Md.—On Saturday, December 16, an order was signed by Judge Dawkins in the Circuit Court requiring cause to be shown by December 26 why a receiver should not be appointed for the Lord Calvert Theater Company, conducting the Gertrude McCoy theater, at Fulton avenue and Baker street, of which F. C. Weber is the manager. The complaint was made by Charles L. Stockhausen and the bill was filed through Attorneys Baker and Orth. It is alleged that the company is insolvent and that fifty shares each of its common and preferred stock are owned by the complainant at a par value of $50 a share.

B. S. Seligman to Guide Crescent.

Baltimore, Md.—The Crescent theater, 1110-12 South Charles street, has again changed its manager and now has Benjamin S. Seligman acting in that capacity. His association, just prior to his present position, was with George M. Mann of the Paramount Washington office. Before this he worked with the Lubin Company and the Mastbaum interests in Philadelphia. Those who have met him like his manner. That he is on the job is illustrated by the fact that he immediately had a masher who annoyed a girl in his house arrested and fined $5 and costs.

Children's Matinees at Walbrook.

Baltimore, Md.—E. R. Beveridge, who, it is understood, is acting as manager of the Walbrook theater at North avenue and Rosedale street, has now inaugurated children's matinees for Saturday afternoons and, from all accounts, they are proving a great success. He ran as his feature on Saturday, December 10, "Rip Van Winkle."

Maryland Theater Benefit.

Baltimore, Md.—During the entire week of December 18 Frederick C. Schanberger, manager of the Maryland theater, ran a benefit for the crippled children of Baltimore and the state of Maryland to aid in providing gifts and Christmas cheer for the little sufferers.

Great Wizard Theater Improves.

Baltimore, Md.—A big improvement has been made in the exterior of the Great Wizard theater, 30 West Lexington street. Bohannan, Lewy & Fuld, the owners, realizing, as they always have done, that it is well to keep abreast of the times, have now had the large lobby of this house, which has heretofore been open, enclosed in a framework of plate glass and wood. It gives a very artistic effect to the house and will protect the patrons who have to wait.

New Ruling on Building Franchises.

Baltimore, Md.—It is understood that, according to a new system, unless a franchise to erect a moving picture theater is taken advantage of within sixty days, that it is forfeited. This happened in the case of John T. Langville, who applied for permission to build a theater at 1318-20-22 East Fort avenue. This ordinance passed the Council some months ago and now it has been reintroduced by Thomas D. Johnson of the Twenty-fourth ward.

Organizations in Buffalo Are Active

Film Club Grows and Will Get Down to Work January 1st—Buffalo Screen Club Wants to Unite Screen Clubs All Over the Country—Big Film Ball Coming —Theater Managers' Association Gets More Members.

By Joseph A. McGuire, 5 Lewis Block, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Local film organizations are active this week. The following exchanges have joined the recently organized Film Club of Buffalo, viz.: Mutual, General, Merit, Popular, Pathe, World, Metro, Universal, Bluebird, K-E-S-E, Unicorn and Hughes Features. The club will be in working order by January 1.

J. E. Kimberley, World, is president, and C. A. Taylor, Metro, is secretary and treasurer. They are working out a practical program. A grievance committee will be appointed at an early date. One of the subjects to be taken up will be the improvement of the express service in this territory. Twelve out of the fourteen exchanges here have now joined the club.

"The purpose of the club is the mutual protection of the exhibitor as well as the exchanges," said Secretary Taylor. "Any complaint of either side can be satisfactorily adjusted by the club as a body. Any exhibitor can depend on receiving an absolutely fair hearing."

The Buffalo Screen Club continues to take the initiative in uniting the screen clubs of the country into a national body. It is hoped that the first national convention of the clubs will be held in this city. Several out-of-town screen clubs have sent replies that are favorable to the movement. It is expected that Pearl White and Francis X. Bushman will be among the stars who will grace with their presence the Screen club's ball in this city on the evening of January 29.

A band and orchestra, with fifty pieces in all, will supply the music for the dancers. Tickets for nine boxes at the ball have already been sold. The decoration committee claims that the hall will be transformed into a veritable fairyland.

The membership campaign of the Theatrical Managers' Association of Buffalo is proving very successful. The number of members has been increased to forty-five. Jules H. Michael, manager of the Academy, is actively working with his grievance committee and plans of the other committees are progressing.

The managers are co-operating with the New York organizations in the fight against Sunday closing. W. Stephen Bush will address the local association at the Star theater on the afternoon of January 4.

Small Fire in Salamanca,

Salamanca, N. Y.—Recently a blaze started in the projecting room of the Palm Garden theater, filling the place with smoke. The fire was extinguished by Manager W. B. Fox before much damage was done.

W. H. Teeple Moves Family Here.

Buffalo, N. Y.—W. H. Teeple, road representative of the Mutual, Buffalo, has moved his family from Rochester to this city. While in Rochester recently Mr. Teeple met Mr. Cobb, who is with the Eastman Kodak Company and is perfecting an invention for producing cartoon comics. The possibilities of the machine are wonderful, according to Mr. Teeple.

Theaters Change Hands.

The Star theater, Elmira, has been reopened by W. D. Burrill.

Fluke & Evans are the new proprietors of the Star theater of Kane, Pa.

N. F. Johnson, formerly of Hammondsport, N. Y., has taken over the Lyric theater of Elkland, Pa.

Personal Notes.

H. L. Byrne, former manager of the Bijou moving picture theater, Buffalo, has been here on a furlough. For several months he has been with the Seventy-fourth regiment, National Guard, at Pharr, Texas.

M. L. Morley has resigned as salesman for the General Film, Buffalo.

Walter Scheuer of the Dispatch Film Corporation was here recently in the interests of "Purity," which showed at the Family theater. Mr. Scheuer said that later he would probably bring the new feature, "The Crisis," to Buffalo.

Atlantic News Letter

By A. M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

Jack Wells Changes Theater's Name.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Atlanta is to have a Rialto theater. Not a new playhouse, but an old one under a new name. Jake Wells, who now owns and operates the Piedmont theater, in making a new start and with a changed policy, has adopted also the new name, Rialto, the change to become effective Monday.

The continuous performance idea at this house is also a thing of the past. Three distinct shows are given each day, afternoons starting at 3 o'clock and evenings having two shows. Numerous improvements are being made for the betterment of the theater.

Leo Garner Visits Washington.

Atlanta, Ga.—Leo Garner, manager of the New Film Corporation, left for Washington, D. C., Friday on a brief visit to his family and to consult his company in regard to future business. Miss M. E. Karst is in charge during his absence.

Xmas Benefit at the Criterion.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Criterion was open Sunday from 2 o'clock to 10 p. m., under the auspices of a committee of ladies, who have made up their minds that the forty little children who are inmates of the Southern Christian home shall have as merry a Christmas as any other little boy or girl in the city.

Every cent taken in will go to buy dolls and horns and candy for the little tots at this orphan home. A great big Christmas dinner will also be served by the committee of ladies for the little tots.

A. C. Bromberg Goes to International.

A. C. Bromberg, who has been Atlanta manager of the Triangle since its organization, has resigned this position to take charge of the local office of the International.

Mr. Bromberg's resignation became effective immediately, and he assumed the management of the International office Monday morning, December 18. Mr. Bromberg has many friends in the South who will be interested to know of his change.

Federal Film to Open Branch.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Federal Film Company is preparing to open an Atlanta branch in the Moore building on Walton street.

S. A. Lynch Visits Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga.—S. A. Lynch, known among his friends as one of the finest and cleverest men in the picture business today, spent the week in Atlanta. Mr. Lynch is now one of the largest individual factors in Atlanta film industry, if not in the whole South.

Mr. Lynch is head of the Southern Paramount Picture Corporation, controlling all the Paramount releases in this territory; head of the Southern World Film Company, and also the Triangle Film Corporation for this territory.

Ted Hardcastle Joins Essanay Players.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Announcement was made Saturday of a change in management of the Piedmont theater. Ted Hardcastle, who has been in charge of the house, will soon head a company of Essanay film artists who will produce a number of pictures in the vicinity of Atlanta and Chattanooga, with Mr. Hardcastle as the star. Mr. Hardcastle is well known through his work in a number of successful western reels. His headquarters will be either in Atlanta or Chattanooga.

Cincinnati Exchanges Form New Bureau

Credit Troubles Will Be Handled for Associated Film Exchanges by New Committee—Standing Committees Appointed.

By Kenneth C. Crain, 610 First National Bank Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CINCINNATI, O.—A credit rating bureau, affiliated with that operated by the Retail Merchants' Association of the Chamber of Commerce, is to be established by the Associated Film Exchanges, which will be, it is believed, one of the first of its sort in the country. Credit troubles have been numerous in the past, giving rise to some warm discussions between film men and exhibitors, and it is thought that a business-like system for determining who is and who is not entitled to credit will enable the film men to separate the sheep from the goats with general satisfaction—excepting, perhaps, to the goats.

President W. C. Bachmeyer, of the Associated Film Exchanges, has appointed the following standing committees for the organization: Membership, Clarence Runey, H. A. Bugie and S. W. Hatch; trade rules, I. W. McMahan, W. S. Wessling, C. C. Hite; entertainment, C. E. Holah, L. W. Greenstein, R. H. Haines; traffic, H. J. Wessel, G. F. Weaver and C. E. Penrod.

Features and Prices at the Walnut.

Cincinnati, O.—With the completion of arrangements under which only films of special interest and drawing power will be shown at the Walnut theater, Manager I. Libson has determined to make permanent the schedule of prices heretofore placed in effect for films of unusual interest. Starting several weeks ago with the Metro presentation of "Romeo and Juliet," featuring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, this schedule has since remained practically continuously in effect, as one big attraction after another has been shown, and it has been made the regular thing at the Walnut. For the entire lower floor 25 cents is charged, with 15 cents for the balcony, and, while the balcony is extremely popular with the thrifty, the house has been so well filled for the most part that the lower floor has received its full capacity quite regularly. Following a series of Clara Kimball Young pictures, and that featuring Nazimova in "War Brides," Ethel Barrymore in "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," was a pronounced hit, Miss Barrymore being one of the best drawing cards on the screen. The success of Mr. Libson's move in placing higher prices regularly in force at a house which has at times been considered a failure, as too much out of the way, is the more interesting, in view of the fact that the regular price at all other feature houses is 10 cents.

Wanted to Film Spanking in Court.

Cincinnati, O.—Eight youngsters, caught in the act of stoning the Hippodrome theater, in Newport, Ky., after being ejected for disorderly conduct, were arrested and publicly spanked in the Juvenile Court by order of Judge Edward Boltz. The crime and its penalty were of some interest as providing amusement for the onlookers.

but a real "punch" was lent to the matter by the anxiety of a film company furnishing news service to one of the big circuits to take pictures of the affair. The Cincinnati manager wrote to the judge, asking permission to film the spanking, pointing out that the pictures would have a deterrent effect on other youthful criminals; but the court refused to see it that way, and this form of poetic retribution to the culprits—film immortality of an undesirable sort for disturbing a film show—was therefore not visited upon them.

Filming Men's Clothing Styles.

Cincinnati, O.—The Associated Film Companies will take moving pictures of the demonstration of men's clothing styles, which will be a feature of the annual convention of the National Association of Clothing Designers, to be held in Cincinnati at the Sinton hotel January 4 to 6. The designers, always have something interesting to spring, and interest in the new styles, while not as great as that in women's styles, is always great. Living male models will be used, parading up and down the Sinton lobby and "Peacock alley," and this will afford splendid scope for the pictures. They will be distributed through one of the news weeklies.

Screening of New Fox Features.

Cincinnati, O.—One of the most interesting advance showing for some time was that arranged by Manager Harry B. Day, of Fox, for the initial presentation to Cincinnati exhibitors of William Farnum in "The Price of Silence." The big ballroom at the Hotel Sinton was used for the exhibition, and it was well filled with exhibitors from Cincinnati and neighboring towns, as well as newspaper men and public officials. The publicity value of the picture's showing at this time, due to the recent enactment of a national law prohibiting interstate shipment of child labor products, was fully utilized by Mr. Day, and exhibitors have booked the picture liberally, appreciating the amount of public interest created by it. It will be first shown publicly at one of the large downtown houses.

New Tri-State Film Exchange.

Cincinnati, O.—The newest of the rapidly growing list of Cincinnati film exchanges is the Tri-State Film Company's office, at 23 Opera place. The company distributes in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky the productions of the Art Dramas, Inc., and Christie comedies, and is pushing its work rapidly, with considerable success. Ralph E. Peckham is in charge.

Canadian Exchanges in Jam

Metro Pictures Transfers Its Franchise From Standard Film to Specialty Film—Interim Injunction Secured by Metro Against the Former's Use of Metro Releases—Independent Metro Releases Not Affected.

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerrard St., E., Toronto, Ontario.

TORONTO, Ontario.—Developments of a sudden and sensational nature concerning several film distributing companies in the Dominion of Canada have occurred during the past week or two and the assistance of the courts has been sought to secure a definite solution of the situation. The case is this:

The Metro Pictures, Limited, with headquarters in Montreal, holding the releasing rights for all regular Metro productions in the Dominion, had vested the Standard Film Service, Limited, with its Canadian franchise after it had passed into the hands of receivers last spring. The Metro Pictures, Limited, with the consent of its fiscal agents, the Prudential Trust Company, decided to transfer its franchise from the Standard to the Specialty Film Import, Limited, which is the distributor in Canada of Pathe releases. At the same time, Metro Pictures, Limited, sent out telegrams to practically every exhibitor in the country instructing that Metro reels be sent to the nearest Specialty Film office instead of to a branch of the Standard. Letters were also sent to each Specialty Film Import branch authorizing those in charge to handle Metro business. Incidentally, seven current Metro subjects were taken out of Customs by the Specialty Film Company, on the authority of the Metro Pictures, Limited.

An interim injunction has been secured by the Metro Pictures, Limited, which restrains the Standard Film Service, Limited, from doing business with Metro releases or from disposing of the Metro reels in any way. At time of writing, an application for a permanent injunction is pending in the court.

Independent Metro Releases Not Affected

The jam between the three companies does not affect in any way, it is declared, the independent releases of Metro, such as the Metro "Romeo and Juliet" and others, as well as the new Bushman-Bayne serial, Sidney Drew Comedies, etc.

According to James Travis, Toronto manager for the Pathe distributing company, the Specialty Film Import, Limited, has definitely secured the Metro franchise in Canada through the Metro Pictures, Limited. "We have not done anything yet with the Metro subjects, however," said Mr. Travis, "and will probably not do so until all legal matters are disposed of. With Metro features along with Gold Rooster features and other Pathe releases, including comedies and weeklies, we will be able to furnish any exhibitor with a complete service."

Both L. E. Ouimet, manager of the Specialty Film Import, Limited, and A. H. Sawyer, manager of the Standard Film Service, Limited, have been in New York to take up matters in connection with the change, while N. A. Brodeur, head of the Metro Pictures, Limited, has remained in Montreal to look after that end of the situation. Mr. Rondeau, of the Montreal office of the Specialty Film Import, Limited, has been in Toronto to watch local developments.

At this writing, no exhibitor has yet been affected by the order of the Metro Pictures, Limited, or the court's injunction regarding the handling of Metro releases which had been booked from the Standard office, but it was intimated at the Toronto Pathe office that if any exhibitor disregarded the instructions action would be taken.

Permits to Make Appeals to Patrons for Charity.

Toronto, Ont.—Official announcement has been made by the Toronto Board of Police Commissioners that all persons appealing for funds for either patriotic or charitable purposes in any theater of Toronto must first secure a written permit from Mayor T. L. Church, regardless of the circumstances or the cause. This will not be issued by the mayor without a recommendation for the sanction from the local chief of police.

The reason for this step is that the appeal thing has been overdone.

Police May Charge 5 Cents a Sheet for Censoring Posters.

Toronto, Ont.—Toronto exchange managers turned wrong side out a few days ago when they received the intimation that the Toronto Board of Police Commissioners had decided to charge five cents per sheet for the censoring of every poster to be used in front of a theater or on a bill board. For a twenty-four sheet poster the charge would be $1.20, which sum is practically equal to the cost price of the poster when bought in large quantities. The Exchange Managers' Association immediately held two emergency meetings to discuss the situation and, with the municipal elections coming off on January 1st, it is more than likely that theaters around town will be used to good effect for a few days before the ballots are cast.

According to one or two exchange managers, if the proposed charge becomes effective it will seriously affect the use of posters. Some say that the burden of paying for the police censors' charge cannot be placed on the shoulders of exhibitors and the posters will be handled at a distinct loss.

Big "U" Notes.

Toronto.—Advertising Manager W. A. Bach of the Canadian Universal announces that the Big "U" in Canada is making arrangements for securing of a number of important British war features, including prints of official war-time views.

A private projection room has been established at the Universal headquarters in Toronto.

Exhibitor Gets Order Against Exchange

Crescent Palace Theater Wins Suit to Get Twenty Episodes of "The Iron Claw"—Got First Paper—No Contract.

TORONTO, Ontario.—A legal decision which emphasizes the necessity of business-like methods between exchanges and exhibitors has just been recorded in Toronto in the case of Rappaport v. Specialty Film Import, Limited, when the County Court jury gave damages to the plaintiff. The case arose from the claim of Abraham Rappaport, manager of the Crescent Palace theater, Dundas street, Toronto, that the Specialty Film Import, Limited, had failed to supply him with the twenty episodes of "The Iron Claw." In defense the exchange company denied that there had been an agreement for the booking and the plaintiff was unable to produce a contract. The jury, however, decided in favor of the exhibitor, partly on the strength of evidence submitted that other exchanges in Toronto did not require a signed contract for bookings.

Specialty Will Appeal Case.

Speaking to the MOVING PICTURE WORLD correspondent here, James Travis, Toronto branch manager of the Specialty Film Import, Limited, declared that steps would be taken for an appeal from the decision. "Mr. Rappaport and I disagreed about the price to be paid for a booking of the serial and that was the end of it so far as I was concerned," declared Mr. Travis. "I then proceeded to release the serial on the same dates with Manager Joy of the Beaver theater. Mr. Rappaport secured the paper from our shipping department for the first episode of 'The Iron Claw' without my knowledge. He claims that the fact that he secured the paper from our office was evidence that he had arranged for the booking."

Mr. Travis produced many signed contracts to show that his office requires signed agreements for bookings, but the court accepted as evidence a statement that some exchanges have not been securing signatures for bookings.

Sidney Taube Joins Regal.

Toronto.—Sidney Taube, formerly Montreal branch manager for the Universal, has joined the staff of Regal Films, Limited, Toronto, Canadian distributors for World Brady-Made pictures, whose headquarters have been established at 37 Yonge street, Toronto.

Roundabout Near New Orleans

Cotton Selling Is About Over and Business Is Steadier—Theaters in Mississippi Are Having Plenty of Patrons and Managers Are Contented—Good Cooking in Mobile—Doughnuts and Releases.

By N. E. Thatcher, 3801 Canal Street, New Orleans, La.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—A recent "swing around the circle" in the New Orleans territory afforded some interesting notations among the exhibitors and leading houses in the adjacent cities. This section is traditionally affected by the marketing season for cotton. Whether a man has cotton or not, the fluctuations affecting that staple controls his moods just like the weather affects an old man's corns. It matters not whether the price goes up or down, he has that unsettled feeling. Fortunately for the picture business, the cotton season is about at an end for this year and exhibitors are beginning to feel that their feet are on firm ground. This has been a good crop year and the effect is reflected in the patronage at the motion picture theaters. It is getting better.

At Laurel, Miss, Manager W. S. Taylor of the Bijou theater, reported good business and he was correspondingly happy. He has a good house and a substantial patronage. The Ford theater at Brookhaven, which has only been open for a few weeks, has set the people of that enterprising town by the ears. They think it is just the nicest little theater that anybody can have and they attest their appreciation of it by the most liberal patronage. Manager Grady Ford is elated over the business outlook.

At Hattiesburg, Miss., Manager Hammock, of the Lomo theater, declared that business did not warrant any complaint. The Lomo is an attractive show house with a seating capacity of 900 and it is filled at every showing of the program. Hammond, La., has a new theater, the All Star with Bemis and Wallace as managers. It is a very pretentious house for a city of the size of Hammond and started out with an excellent business. It seats 650 persons comfortably and its capacity is none too great for its patronage.

Mobile, Ala., is one of the few cities in this section that boasts of a lady manager of a motion picture theater, but Miss M. Luckel, who presides over the destinies of the Empire theater, maintains an attractive house and sees to it that the attendance is kept up to a consistent standard. She is satisfied with nothing short of the best program and keeps a watchful eye on all of the releases that are shown in the Empire. Another Mobile exhibitor who is constantly on the lookout for all that is of the best for his theater is J. H. King, of the Crown. Besides his theater there is something also that interests Manager King, it is home cooking. Sometimes as he welcomes patrons, the savory odors of corn beef and cabbage of only such flavor as he knows come from his home, reach him, forthwith, within himself, a fierce battle between pleasure and duty ensues. If it is close to six o'clock in the evening, the Crown theater has to get along the best it can for an hour or so. Upon a recent visit of a man prominently connected with pictures, calf tongue and beans were served in honor of the occasion, but as a general thing corn beef and cabbage are regarded as dependable.

Another exhibitor who has a reputation along dietary lines is Bernard Anthony of Ponchatouls. In the evening Manager Anthony runs a fine picture show, but during the day he runs a bakery and occasionally he cooks doughnuts. His doughnuts have as good a reputation as his theater and both are in great demand. When Manager Anthony goes to New Orleans to brighten up his program, he spends about half a day studying recent releases and misses the train home, because he was delayed while making promises to send doughnuts to his exchange friends or spent too much time in explaining that the output of the delicious cakes is necessarily restricted on account of the high price of lard.

Clara Kimball Young and Company Here

New Orleans, La.—The event of the week in motion picture circles was the arrival of Clara Kimball Young and a company of players under the direction of Producer Giblyn. Southern scenes were required for one of the productions. The company originally intended to go to Florida. After the start had been made, they decided to change the point of destination and Miss Young, therefore, arrived unannounced. The selection of New Orleans was partly made because of a slight indisposition affecting the star, but she quickly recovered and immediately began work before the camera in some of the historic locations in the city. While here Miss Young and Manager Giblyn were the guests of Herman Fichtenberg, in whose new theater on Canal street, the Globe, Miss Young appeared on the opening program in "The Common Law." This is the star's first visit to New Orleans and she was delighted with the city and pleased with the wealth of quaint and interesting locations for pictures which it presents.

New Theater in Brookhaven Opens.

Brookhaven, Miss.—Ford's theater was opened on November 30 with the presentation of "The Fall of a Nation" and the house was packed at the initial showings. This new theater has a seating capacity of 800. It is fitted with opera chairs and all of the latest appliances to make it a first-class house in every particular. A Hope-Jones-Wurlitzer organ, in the hands of a competent operator, furnishes the music. Manager Grady Jones is very proud of his new theater and it would be a credit to a city of much larger population than Brookhaven.

A. J. Xydias May Open Exchange.

New Orleans, La.—A. J. Xydias, who gained distinction in Houston, Texas, as an exhibitor who kept his show running in the face of police interference, has been here for some time and has completed arrangements for the opening of an independent motion picture exchange. He will handle states right pictures exclusively and buy such films as he desires. There is no concern of this character here at present and the belief exists that an active film broker can acquire a very lucrative business.

Manager Jack Aunslet's Theater Chain.

Boonville, Miss.—Manager Jack Aunslet, of Boonville, Miss., was in New Orleans last week arranging for service for the chain of theaters which have recently come under his control. He is an old showman and knows how to reach and retain the public's approval. He will operate the Lyric theater at Boonville, the Princess at Lewiston and a new house at Pontococ, Miss., and will make feature houses of each one of them.

Elm Theater Bought by Taffan & Perez.

New Orleans, La.—The Elm theater, one of the best paying and most popular suburban theaters in the city, has been sold by W. F. Currie to Messrs. Tappan and Perez, who took over the business on Monday. Former Manager Currie will go to Denver, Colorado, where he will extend his operations. He has made an enviable reputation here by his ability to take indifferent or run-down theaters and quickly put them on a paying basis. He is a hustler, knows the game and is gifted with the personal equation that enables him to make and keep friends. The new owners of the Elm are experienced showmen, courteous and enterprising and the Elm will not suffer at their hands.

New Orleans Suburban Exhibitors' Luncheon

Meet to Take Account of Business Generally—Many New Theatres—A Complaint Against an Exchange Practice.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The exhibitors in suburban theaters held an informal luncheon this week, at which many affairs affecting their business were discussed. There appears to be a physical realignment of suburban theaters under way and many of the exhibitors are not certain as to their future footing. There is a disposition on the part of patrons to neglect the rather inadequate places of amusement in favor of those that afford more comfortable service. Some of the make-shift houses are giving way to new ones that are being built with more attention to the requirements of a modern show house. There are about as many new theaters under way as there are old ones being abandoned, so that the average remains the same.

One of the practices of which complaint was made was that of exchange managers giving out advance programs to third parties. The exhibitors who are affected declare that the practice must stop, because it frequently creates conditions that are annoying and may be injurious.

Second Run Pictures in Western Theaters

Kansas City World Film Manager Says That Many Eastern Exhibitors Prefer Second Run Pictures—More Easily Advertised.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Richard Robertson, manager of the Kansas City branch of the World Film, recently returned from a short business trip to New York. "There is a very noticeable difference between the exhibitors of the East and those of the Middle West," said Mr. Robertson. In the West every exhibitor, even in the smallest theaters, will run only first run pictures if he can possibly get them. In the East, however, exhibitors are anxious to run second, third and even fourth run pictures. The Eastern exhibitor realizes the value of the advertising which a second or third run picture has had. He knows that a first run picture, no matter how good it is, has to be advertised before it can be successfully shown, and advertising a new picture costs a good deal of money, therefore he would rather let someone else have the first run and do the advertising.

"A good example of the Eastern exhibitor's desire to get second run pictures," continued Mr. Robertson, "is the case of the proprietor of one of the best theaters in a large New York town. The salesman for a film company was trying to get him to sign a contract for first run pictures, and the exhibitor refused to take the contract, but promised to sign for second run pictures if the salesman could get some other exhibitor in the town to take the first run productions. The salesman finally landed a first run contract in the town and came back to the first exhibitor, who immediately signed for second run pictures. He realized that every man, woman and child who sees the pictures once is a walking advertisement, and when the picture is run a second time in the town it will need very litle advertising.

"Western exhibitors, on the other hand, want only first run pictures, and it seems to be almost a matter of family pride to them. The result is that they have to do a good deal of advertising to get returns and to fill their houses. Advertising is the life of any business today," said Mr. Robertson, "but what surprises me is the fact that the Western exhibitor does not take advantage of the second, third and fourth run productions as the Eastern exhibitor does and reap the results of the advertising which the pictures have already had."

C. E. Oelrich Plans New Theater.

McPherson, Kan.—C. E. Oelrich, who bought two local shows from Howard C. Collins, is planning a new house. This will be named the Mikado, and will replace entirely the Grace. Mr. Oelrich will continue operating the White Way.

Another Boy in Calvin Edward's Home.

Kansas City, Mo.—J. Dixon Edwards, one of the most promising of the younger recruits to the Pathe exchange force at Kansas City (he is aged four), has a younger brother now. This is James Calvin Edwards, born December 15, whose lungs are surely built to equip him for talking an arm off an exhibitor. The "Calvin" in the name is a concession to the father, Calvin S. Edwards, Jr., manager of the Kansas City Pathe exchange.

Dick Garrety a Bluebird Roadman.

Winfield, Kan.—Dick Garrety, an exhibitor of Winfield, Kan., and well known in the Kansas City exchanges, recently accepted a position as traveler for the Bluebird at Kansas City. His knowledge of the exhibiting end of the game proved of great value to him in his first two weeks out on the road, and he was enabled to send in a good number of bookings. His territory will consist of the southern half of Missouri and Kansas.

Family Row Parties at Abilene.

Abilene, Kan.—Mrs. A. T. Seelye, who has been managing a moving picture show for about a year, has installed one especially effective innovation. This is the family row party, or line party, handled somewhat differently from the usual specialty of this kind. Many families of the town have their particular rows, in a section where the rows have five to eight seats. Whenever the families telephone that they will use the seats at night, the row is roped off and reserved. On other nights the seats in this row are available for anybody. An important result of this row party plan is that all the members of families are being inculcated with the moving picture habit, instead of the one or two members that usually constitute the "fans" of a family.

H. G. Gill Returns to Universal.

Kansas City, Mo.—H. G. Gill, recently the manager of the Kansas City Motion Picture Supply Co., has returned to the Universal exchange at Kansas City, where he was formerly connected with the supply and publicity departments. His new capacity is that of manager of the supply department. The Motion Picture Supply Company stock on hand was sold.

L. J. Doty, who has been managing the supply department for the past three years, was anxious to go out on the road for the company and this gave him the opportunity. He is making a big success with the road work.

The largest staff of experts in all departments makes the MOVING PICTURE WORLD the one paper in the trade that fully fills the requirements of every reader.

Kansas City Film Men Progress

Moving Picture Industry Locally Moves Toward Progress—Leading Members of the Exhibiting and Exchange Ends of the Business Join Advertising Club—Will Have a Forum of Ideas and Needs.

By Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Building, Kansas City, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The moving picture industry in Kansas City has lacked a public forum where its point of view could be expressed to business men.

The industry is going to get this forum, in the Kansas City Advertising Club. Several exchange men and exhibitors have joined the organization and are being welcomed eagerly by the leading men in it.

"We are certainly glad to receive representative men connected with this big industry," said an officer of the club. Many times the subject of moving pictures is mentioned in our meetings and in our committee work. But heretofore there has been no member who could speak for the moving picture people, and we did not have therefore the facilities for reaching definite conclusions on any situation that arose. We have had meetings in which moving pictures were the subject, and have discussed them at the time—but afterwards, in the meetings, and in casual conferences of members, we were unable to find answers to the many questions that inevitably presented themselves following these discussions."

The situation is peculiarly acute with reference to moving picture advertising and exploitation in Kansas City right now. And the men who will represent the industry in the club will have plenty of opportunity to give counsel and to do actual work along the lines that the club is driving.

The first moving picture men to sign applications for membership were Richard Robertson, manager of the World exchange; C. S. Edwards, manager of the Pathe exchange, and W. B. Tuteur, a local exhibitor who has several theaters. Mr. Tuteur is the representative of the exhibiting end of the moving picture business in the Kansas City Rotary club, which indicates his standing.

It is likely, now that the ice has been broken, that several other exchange men and exhibitors will seek admission to the Advertising club, and it is certain that a general meeting of the organization will be held shortly after the first of the year, at which the moving picture business, with special reference to advertising, will be discussed. It is a certainty that it will be one of the best meetings of the club, in point of attendance and interest.

Kansas Commissioner Calls on Film Men

Exhibitors and Exchange Men Asked to Help Prepare New Legislation for the Industry — Electrical Drive — Inspections.

TOPEKA, Kan.—The moving picture interests are to be consulted regarding legislation in Kansas with reference to theater construction and operation.

P. J. McBride, labor commissioner of the state, who has done much good work in his department, told the exhibitors and exchange men at the big meeting in Topeka last summer that he would seek their advice when the matters of new bills came up affecting his department.

Mr. McBride is now "making good." He has asked L. J. Scott, secretary of the Amusement Association of Kansas, to help arrange a conference of exhibitors and exchange men, to go over the subject of new legislation and amendment of existing laws, and to assist in suggesting changes and new matter.

One of the matters of legislation that will be handled, for instance, is that of using electric power in operating machines. The law now forbids such equipment, strange as it may seem. It is said that electricity is used in some places, but nevertheless the law is being violated. The department is said to recognize that electric drive is far safer as well as better in other ways than the old-fashioned methods, and is eager to get the opinion of the profession on the subject, and to draft a law that will meet the varied needs of the exhibitors of the state, while providing for utmost safety.

In Kansas many of the state departments are in harmony with reference to inspections. Mr. McBride's department assists the fire marshal in keeping track of conditions, and his inspectors watch carefully the fire hazards. Consequently, this phase will be discussed when the conference on moving picture theater regulation meets.

Mr. McBride has done particularly progressive work in Kansas with reference to safety, and his exhibit and museum is one of the finest of such a department in the United States. He has prepared a lecture on safety, in which moving pictures are used, and he has devices and pamphlets on the subject, collected from many sources.

United Theaters Company Opens Branch

Co-Operative Concern to Seek One Theater in Each District and Book Films for That House Only—Claim a Saving to Exhibitors.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The United Theaters Company opened a branch office in Kansas City, Mo., 103 Finance building, Monday, December 18, with Ted L. Morse as manager. The company is to be incorporated.

This step marks the beginning in the Kansas City district of a project to reduce the distribution costs of films. The company already has contracts with many leading exhibitors who will secure their bookings through it; it has pictures available of the class that these exhibitors want, and it is said to have ample financial backing. Announcement is not yet ready of the people who are behind the project.

The plan is based on the idea of co-operation of exhibitors, and it has appealed strongly to all the exhibitors who have been tentatively approached. No effort has been made hertofore to get contracts, but Mr. Morse will now undertake that part of the work actively. It is likely that bookings will begin within the next thirty days. The plan is to make contracts with one exhibitor in each city or district.

Says Mr. Morse: "We will pay cash for films and distribute to our members at prices that will be nominal. There are enough good films on the open market to meet the exacting demands of the high class of exhibitors who have already made application and, with our large string, we will be able to make low prices for the high quality. The experience of chain stores and restaurants, the example of the Orpheum and other circuits, are sufficient illustration of the feasibility and virtues of the idea. Since the commodity will be sold before it is bought, and sold to a large number on a plan that reduces the cost of distribution and handling to a minimum, it is obvious that the expense to the company and the exhibitors will be vastly lower than the ordinary expense of securing pictures."

Denver Ball Date Put Off Again

Rocky Mountain Screen Club Long Planned a Big Film Ball—Has Put It Off Again—New Date Will Be When Clara Kimball Young and Her Company Arrives in Colorado—Other Stars Also Will Be Present.

By E. C. Day, Denver Times, Denver, Colo.

THE Rocky Mountain Screen Club ball is off again—that is, it is off so far as the last "definite" date is concerned. The big dance will be held though, not on December 27, as intended, but some time in January or February.

The Screen Club ball has been a prospect for almost every month for a year. Each time that a date has been set something interfered. First of all, a real screen star was needed to lead the grand march and, secondly, the City Auditorium was required to house the big crowd that is sure to attend. When one has been available, the other has not.

Two weeks ago it appeared that both could be had for December 27. Mary Miles Minter, Wallace Reid, Myrtle Stedman and Sessue Hayakawa all promised to be honor guests at the great event. And the city said it would be glad to lend the big building for the occasion.

Then the writer returned from a trip to New York with news that Albert Cappalani, director general of the Selznick studios, together with Clara Kimball Young and her entire company, were coming to Colorado to stage some scenes in "The Easiest Way." Immediately the dance committee began to figure on some plan to entertain the distinguished guests.

For a time it appeared that two Screen Club balls would be held; the first, as planned, on December 27, and the second, when the Selznick troupe came to the city. In the meantime, however, the city discovered that the interior decorating that they are doing in the auditorium will not be completed in time to make the building available for use on the desired date.

So now the Screen Club ball has been postponed. The date will again be definitely set whenever official information is received as to the time that Clara Kimball Young and her company will be in the city. The other screen stars have signified their willingness to come whenever their presence is desired.

The delay will only serve to make the ball the more elaborate. With two months in which to arrange for the event, the committee has set to work on a plan which will render it the greatest dance ever held in the Rocky Mountain district.

Pueblo Has New Commission Will Censor

Censorship Board, to Be Termed Welfare Commission, Brought Into Being by City Council — Members to Serve Free.

PUEBLO, Colo.—The long-threatened Board of Censors is a realty in Pueblo. It was born at a meeting of the City Council this week, when an ordinance providing for the appointment of a commission, which among other things will pass on moving pictures, was made a part of the laws of the city.

The body will not be known as a Censorship Board, however. It is called a Welfare Commission, and in addition to supervising the conduct of theaters and other places of amusement will have charge of city charities and jails.

Appointment of members of the board is expected to be made next week. There will be five on the commission, one representing the city, another representing the women's clubs, a third representing the amusement interests and the remaining two representing the two school districts in the city. The ordinance provides that the members serve without pay for the first year and then, if it is desired to continue the plan, arrangements will be made for providing remuneration.

The establishment of the Welfare Commission is the outgrowth of agitation started at the time the city officials stopped the showing of "Purity."

Manager Scott Reorganizes Staff.

Denver, Colo.—Ward Scott, manager of the Mutual exchange, has announced the reorganization of his staff. E. J. Haslam has been placed in charge of the booking department, Guy Hart in the bookkeeping department, Ross Burtis in the shipping department and J. F. Barber, the oldest machine man west of the Mississippi, in point of service, in charge of the supply department.

New Colorado Theater Company.

Denver, Colo.—A $50,000 moving picture enterprise has just been launched by T. A. Bucy of Sterling, Colo., with the incorporation of a company to operate a string of theaters in eastern Colorado and western Nebraska. Bucy and his associates already control houses in Sterling and Scotts Bluff and on the first of the year will take over the theater of Harry Dubuque at Alliance, Neb. Other additions to the list are planned from time to time.

Des Moines Majestic Reopens for Features

Big Elbert and Getchell Theater Will Show Special Features—Begins on December 24 With Ramona — Other Offerings.

By Dorothy Day, Tribune-Register, Des Moines, Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia.—December the 24th marks the reopening of the Majestic theater, on Eight street between Walnut and Locust. The Majestic was closed at the beginning of the summer months by its owners, Elbert & Getchell, who operate the Princess Stock Company, the Empress vaudeville houses and the Unique theater.

Last week the management of the Casino, one of the largest motion picture houses here, headed by Abe Frankel, secured a lease on the Majestic for a term of years and will show only the larger photoplay attractions at an admission price of 25 and 50 cents. They will open with the big Clune production "Ramona" for the holiday week and will follow with Ince's "Civilization" for at least two weeks. Early in the new year the new management will show "War Brides," having secured the right from the Midwest Photoplay Corporation, distributors of the Selznick attractions in Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas, with headquarters here.

The Majestic is one of the largest and most elaborate photoplay houses in the city and will supply a long demand for a showing of the greater productions in this city.

Exhibitor in Trouble With Ad Men.

Des Moines, Ia.—The Associated Vigilance Committee of the State Advertising Clubs of Iowa are remonstrating with J. Miloslowsky, owner of the Palace theater, one of the largest houses in the city, and his manager, Davis, for the advertising they carried on in connection with the showing of Pathe's "Arms and the Woman."

Fay Bainter, who is making such a signal success in the Stewart & Baker production, "Arms and the Girl," at the Fulton theater in New York, has a wide following of friends here since she headed the Princess Stock Company for the seasons of 1914-1915 and 1915-1916. The Palace management, it is said, took advantage, perhaps with entire good faith, of her popularity and the similarity in the names of the Pathe production and the stage play and exhibited a prominent sign heralding Pathe's picture as the screen version of Miss Bainter's Broadway success and giving the impression to the casual observer through the wording of the sign that Miss Bainter was herself appearing in the picture.

Interstate Film Company Formed.

Des Moines, Ia.—Abe Frankel, one of the owners of the Casino and the Majestic theaters, and W. C. Eddy, a well-known exhibitor and formerly the treasurer of the Iowa Exhibitor's League, are the business managers in a new film company, incorporated in the state of Iowa for $50,000. The new company is called the Interstate Film Company and has opened offices at 702 Mulberry street, next door to the General Film exchange. C. W. Jeffries, formerly the manager of the Des Moines General Film exchange, will be the acting manager of the company, with charge of the office. The company has already secured the right to the Mutt and Jeff comedies in the states of Iowa and Nebraska, together with the rights to Nat Goodwin's "The Marriage Bond." They will handle features in the very near future.

Des Moines, Ia.—R. S. Ballantyne, manager of the local Mutual exchange, gave a showing of "Charity," the Linda A. Griffith-Frank Powell production, to the exhibitors, exchange men, newspaper representatives and interested ministers and charity workers, at the Empress theater, Tuesday the 12th.

Changes Over the State.

Manley, Ia.—Pinta and Sablick have purchased the Rex theater of G. C. Clemmer.

Clear Lake, Ia.—C. E. Carrigan of the Palace theater bought out D. C. Bramson, who runs the Electric, this week.

Williams, Ia.—H. M. Wilson purchased the Electric theater from L. A. Miller.

Ruthven, Ia.—Perry Cedarholm is now the owner of the Electric theater, having purchased same from L. A. Miller.

At the Metro Exchange.

Des Moines, Ia.—At the Metro exchange all they can talk about is the new serial, "The Great Secret," with Bushman and Bayne, but they do get off the subject long enough to tell of the visits of Joe Gerbracht of the Twin Star theater in Ames and W. H. Myers of the Palace in Waterloo. Both exhibitors booked the big Metro production of "Romeo and Juliet."

General Film Reels.

Des Moines, Ia.—Daniel W. Robertson, special representative from the Vitagraph Company of America, came to the General exchange last week, bringing with him the first episode of the new Vitagraph series, "The Dangers of Doris," with Mary Anderson in the lead, for a trade showing.

E. H. Stricklund, formerly the roadman out of the Universal exchange in Omaha, is occupying a similar position at the General exchange here.

C. W. Stombaugh, the manager of the General exchange was in Omaha last week on business.

The people around the exchange report that they cannot supply their exhibitors with paper on "The Girl From Frisco," so heavily is it booked throughout the state.

Mutual Understandings.

Des Moines, Ia.—At the Mutual Harry Hierstiener is so busy he can scarcely take time to tell of what he found out in his trip over the state, securing bookings on the Mutual serials. He reports, however, that the sequel to the "Diamond" is going big and it will be shown in the city the fifth day of the New Year. He has a young man, Mr. Lusk, assisting him in the serial department now.

Bowen, of Bowen & Becker of Chariton, paid a visit to the Mutual exchange last week.

Pathe Particulars.

Des Moines, Ia.—L. A. Sheridan, manager of the Pathe, feels that he can take a well-deserved vacation since he has booked his Pathe production in two of the largest houses in the city. He will spend the holidays in Kansas City.

Herbert Billings, formerly assistant booker at the Universal exchange in this city, is now acting as roadman for Pathe.

"Big Jim" Garrity of the Pathe deserves to be warmly praised over his steady work and rapid rise in the Pathe offices. He started in as posterman and is now on the road.

Manageress Miss Nichols Has a New Name.

Grinnell, Ia.—Miss M. E. Nichols, manageress of the Broadway theater in this city, is now known as Mrs. M. E. Nichols Myers. The cause is her acquisition of a husband by the name of Myers.

James Beatty Plays Santa Claus.

San Jose, Cal.—James Beatty, of the Liberty theater, with the assistance of the Rotary club, recently played host to sixty-five children from the Home of Benevolence. The youngsters were brought to the theater in a special car and were treated to a performance especially adapted to such an occasion, the program consisting of the Fox production, "The Mischief Maker," featuring June Caprice; "The Rink," with Charlie Chaplin; a Pathe Weekly, and a Bray cartoon. At the conclusion of the performance the children were treated to oranges.

Supply House Finds Country Business Good.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Breck Photoplay Supply Company has been doing an especially heavy mail business of late, the advent of winter having resulted in keeping exhibitors closer to their places of business. An especially heavy demand has been noted during the past few weeks for portable machines for both traveling exhibitors and business men.

San Francisco Briefs.

Ralph Tracy has again taken over the Cortland theater on Cortland avenue, recently sold by him.

F. Barbanell has purchased the Winters theater at Mission street and Templeton avenue.

H. Cawthorn, a well-known local operator, has left for Winnemucca, Nev., where he has accepted a position with the new American theater.

The Excelsior theater, on Mission street, near Onondaga avenue, has been purchased by Casto Bros., formerly of Butte, Mont.

Phil Doll, a prominent local exhibitor, has gone to Chicago on a short visit.

California Jottings.

Fresno, Cal.—The Kinema theater, which has a seating capacity of 1,800, is to be enlarged and space provided for 300 more seats.

Oakland, Cal.—The Franklin Amusement Corporation has been granted a permit to issue shares to K. A. Krueger in exchange for an interest in the theater business and to sell shares to Charles H. Beck, Warner S. Haines, M. A. Krueger, John C. Broadie and E. Floyd Smith.

Lincoln, Cal.—The Photo theater, formerly conducted by B. S. Logan, has been purchased by F. Naso, who has changed the name to that of the Lincoln theater. The house has been remodeled, repaired and renovated and is being conducted as a first-class photoplay house, with vaudeville at regular intervals. Mr. Naso has had wide experience in the moving picture business and has booked a long list of fine feature productions and serials.

Ten Thousand Toys in Theater

New Mission Theater Gives Big Christmas Surprise to Children—Ten Thousand Tickets Distributed, Each Entitling Holder to a Seat and a Present From Santa —Lasted Five Afternoons.

By T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—The Kahn & Greenfield circuit, with the co-operation of the organized merchants in the Mission district, played Santa Claus to the children in this district just before Christmas in a manner that did more to attract attention to the New Mission theater than anything it ever did in the line of advertising. Instead of making a contribution in cash for the benefit of a children's Christmas tree, this firm purchased ten thousand toys at a cost of one thousand dollars and announced that these would be given free to children. In order to secure the proper distribution of the toys, tickets to the number of ten thousand were given to the merchants of the district and these in turn gave them to children who applied for them.

A great Christmas tree was erected in the lobby of the theater and inside the doors were two Santa Clauses to distribute the toys. Each ticket was good for the admission of a child and for a present during matinees for five afternoons, and so great was the demand that it was found neccessary to purchase more toys. During these matinees the streets in the vicinity of the New Mission theater were crowded and it was necessary to have the services of six policemen to preserve traffic conditions. Mayor James Rolph, Jr., attended the first matinee and spoke to the children and other prominent men were in attendance at the others. One of the interesting features of these matinees was the fact that, in spite of the great number of free tickets distributed, a gain of about $125 a day was noted in the cash receipts. Many parents accompanied their children to the theater, purchasing admission tickets, and in many cases did not remain to see the show, passing out the side exits after securing the present. The event was a great success from an advertising standpoint and met with the general approval of the business men of the district, as it brought many customers to their stores to secure the tickets, although these were handed out regardless of whether purchases were made or not.

Davis Bros. Launch New Project.

San Francisco, Cal.—Sam and Mo. Davis, two of the oldest and best-known men in the moving picture business in this vicinity, have made their reappearance in the industry, after a short absence. Their last enterprise was a large poster exchange, originated by themselves, which developed to such a magnitude that it was visited by more exhibitors than any other exchange in the city. A good offer induced them to sell and other interests have occupied their attention for the past few months.

The new Davis venture now growing into shape is what might be termed a weekly program-magazine-newspaper. It is an eight-page publication, to be offered exhibitors, the front page to be devoted to the programs of individual exhibitors and having the appearance of having been published expressly for the houses in which it is distributed. The front page will permit exhibitors to advertise as they usually do on circular programs, the other seven pages being devoted to moving picture news to interest film patrons.

It will in no wise be a "trade" paper, containing nothing of interest to the exhibitor from the "trade" standpoint, but for his patrons it will be crowded with spicy news about moving picture people and what they are doing. Abounding in short, snappy paragraphs it will also have special articles on "How to Get in Pictures," "How to Write for Pictures," and the like, and will have a ladies' column, treating subjects of dress, hats, styles and cooking, from the standpoint of moving picture actresses. No special mention will be given to manufacturers or brands, but actors and their doings will be featured.

Big Contract for Pathe Exchange.

San Francisco, Cal.—Manager H. E. Lotz, of the local Pathe exchange, states that this branch is now doing the best businessness in its history, both on serials and features. One of the most interesting contracts that has been landed recently calls for a Gold Rooster production each week for the magnificent new T. & D. theater at Oakland, as well as for the San Jose house of the Turner & Dahnken circuit.

Fox Man Returns From Orient.

San Francisco, Cal.—Carey Wilson, who has had charge of the Australian exchanges of the William Fox Corporation for the past year, arrived here recently and after a short stay with Manager William Citron of the local branch left for New York. He reported that this concern had secured a firm foothold in Australia and that the demand for American-made film was steadily increasing.

Eastern Amusement Men Visit.

San Francisco, Cal.—Marcus Loew and Joseph M. Schenck of New York, owners of a chain of theaters in the East, also interested in the production of moving pictures, were recent visitors here and later left for the southern part of the state. They were accompanied by Mrs. Schenck, who is known professionally as Norma Talmadge.

Creditors in Charge of Theater St. Francis.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Theater St. Francis, which was opened last October by N. L. Josey, is now in the hands of creditors. A meeting of these was held a few days ago in the offices of Attorney Leo Kaufman and a committee was appointed to look out for their interests. Charles A. Rosenthal, Jr., who has been manager of the house since it was opened, will continue in this capacity.

Fox Exchange News.

San Francisco, Cal.—Work is being rushed on the new building being erected for the Fox Film on Golden Gate avenue and, from present indications, this will be ready for occupancy in February.

A trade showing of the new Fox comedies is to be made shortly at the Rialto theater and Manager Citron is expecting a large crowd of exhibitors.

Ned Holmes, publicity manager for the new Kellermann production, arrived here recently and is mapping out a campaign of publicity for this picture, which opens the first of the year at the Savoy theater on McAllister street.

Barney Bernard, formerly of the local office of this concern, but who has been at Los Angeles for the past eight months, is back in town.

Peerless Man Visits South.

San Francisco, Cal.—H. Solmson, with the Peerless, has returned from a two weeks' visit to the Los Angeles branch of this concern and reports that Manager McIntyre is doing a great business there, especially on Christmas comedies. Mr. Solmson also recently made a trip through the San Joaquin valley.

Motiograph Representative Busy.

San Francisco, Cal.—Edward H. Kemp, Commercial building, has done quite a heavy machine business of late, exhibitors having shown a tendency to get ready for the winter season by putting in new equipment.

Blue Law Exhibitor Acquitted

Indianapolis Jury Finds in Favor of Exhibitor A. C. Faring of the North Star Theater—Admitted Keeping House Open on Sabbath—Part of Proceeds to Charity—Jury of Business Men Out Eleven Minutes.

Special to Moving Picture World from Indiana Trade News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Prosecutions of motion picture theater owners under the Sunday "blue law" came to an abrupt ending in the court of T. Ernest Maholm, justice of the peace, last week, when a jury, after eleven minutes' deliberation, acquitted A. C. Zaring, owner of the North Star theater, at Twenty-fifth street and Central avenue. Mr. Zaring, who is secretary of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association, admitted his theater was in operation Sunday and said it was up to the jury to decide whether its operation was a matter of charity or necessity, or both, which are the exceptions made by the blue laws.

After the jury had found Zaring not guilty, Stuart Coulter, deputy prosecutor, said the cases against the sixteen other theater managers would be dismissed.

No evidence was presented, all the facts agreeing. The jury was told a certain per cent. of the profits from Sunday shows are contributed to a charitable fund, from $25,000 to $50,000 having been realized since the fund was created.

Leo M. Rappaport, one of the attorneys who represented Mr. Zaring, pointed out that the blue laws of Indiana were passed sixty-five years ago, which was "before motion pictures were even thought of." He said the law was based on a period that modern civilization is trying to forget and the law as it now stands is obsolete.

"The educational and recreative qualities of motion pictures make them a reasonable necessity if not an actual one," continued the attorney. "They are a permanent educational institution. There is no religious question involved here. Churches themselves have motion picture exhibits, and I would just as soon submit the question involved here to a jury of twelve preachers as to you gentlemen. The fact that from 50,000 to 60,000 people attend these shows every Sunday is ample proof that the public as a whole is in favor of the Sunday operation.

"There probably is no absolute necessity for the Sunday operation of street cars, for the making or distribution of ice cream on Sunday, or for park policemen to be on duty, but we ride to church on the street car, and accept, without question, the other things that are not absolute necessities."

Coulter argued that moving pictures on Sunday are not necessities any more than hunting and other forbidden acts, and said the giving of a per cent. of the profits to a fund does not bring them under the charity exception made by the law.

"Suppose the saloon keepers of the city should agree to give a certain per cent. of their Sunday profits to charity and keep their places open on that ground," argued Coulter, "wouldn't there be a howl go up to heaven. Isn't it just as fair for a saloon keeper to do this to obtain a license to violate the law as a motion picture owner? The saloon men may think it is as much a necessity to keep their places open as motion picture theaters."

Mr. Rappaport replied that a comparison between saloons and motion picture theaters is entirely unjustified.

The jury was composed of high grade business men.

Illinois News Letter

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

New Amusement Center in Barrington, Ill.

BARRINGTON, Ill.—Chester Catlow, an Oregon exhibitor for three years, will have charge of the moving picture programs in the distinctive social center building which his father, Joseph C. Catlow, a retired farmer, has erected for this community at a cost of $25,000. Photoplays will be given Wednesday and Saturday nights. The building is of concrete. The first floor is arranged for a theater and dancing hall with an operating room thoroughly equipped, with mezzanine floor at the rear of the hall. The basement contains space for banquets, and tables, chairs, linens, dishes, silver, cooking utensils, gas range, lunch counter and cafeteria chairs. On the second floor are lodge halls, private kitchens and dressing rooms.

Sabbath Referendum in Byron.

Byron, Ill.—The Sunday moving picture question here probably will be settled by a special election. Both local churches have been making a strenuous fight, and the Woman's club and the Mothers' club have joined in presenting resolutions to the city council to do away with the Sunday shows.

Picture Theaters in Alton's Christmas.

Alton, Ill.—Managers J. J. Reilly, of the Princess theater, and W. M. Sauvage, of the Hippodrome theater, will play an important part in the numerous Christmas celebrations in this city. The plans are under the direction of the Board of Trade, but the local moving picture managers will be the hosts. At 9 o'clock Saturday morning one picture show will be given at each theater. Following the pictures the curtain will be raised to reveal a big Christmas tree on the stage.

Heating Plant for Theater With No Cellar.

Robinson, Ill.—The Crebs Strand theater at Robinson, Ill., was a problem to its owner when he came to consider heating and ventilating it; for it has no basement. There was no place for the usual boiler. The Noble Plumbing and Heating Co., of Princeton, Ind., was consulted and has put in a system with some features of interest. The problem has been solved neatly. There are no radiators and the heated air is blown down into the auditorium from above by a fan. The steam heater is placed in the rear of the theater. An air chamber is placed on a raised table, nine feet high, in the back part of the stage. On this same raised table is an electric fan that draws air from the outside and forces it to pass over stacks kept hot by the steam boiler and then into the air chamber. Pipes lead the air from this chamber passing over the auditorium and in the attic to be diffused through the auditorium by eight drops. There is pressure in the chamber due to the fan and the air is forced to flow fast enough to change the inside air completely six times every hour. Thermostats automatically regulate the temperature. In summer the system can be run without the heating and this cools the theater.

Illinois Theater Notes—Changes.

Canton, Ill.—W. L. Stowell has sold the Dreamland theater to George Hewis of Chicago.

Benton, Ill.—Hamilton & Carroll have purchased the lease on the Mars theater from Ed. Vandegrift.

Rochelle, Ill.—Baxter Brothers have purchased the Majestic and Princess theaters in this city, it is reported. Interested in the new project are Paul Baxter of Joliet, Bert Baxter of Oregon and Delos W. Baxter, who owns the building in which the Majestic theater is located.

Spring Valley, Ill.—L. S. Cusick, proprietor of the Original and Family theaters in West St. Paul Street, has closed those houses and is reported to have left the city. Cusick took over the show house from the Spring Valley Amusement Co. recently and is said to have been unable to successfully finance the project.

Morris, Ill.—The school board probably will install a moving picture machine in the schools.

Kewanee, Ill.—Manager W. J. West of the Willard theater has adopted the potato matinee plan and will try it out for a while, admitting children every Friday afternoon upon the deposit of one perfectly good potato. He has been having a similar event at the West theater in Galesburg, and on one day received 1,765 potatoes, almost nine bushels. In both cities the spuds are given to the poor.

Dixon, Ill.—The Parent-Teachers' Association of the North Dixon high schools has decided to purchase a moving picture machine to use in connection with school work.

Among Michigan Theaters.

Albion, Mich.—George A. Bohm, of the Bohm theater, Albion, has taken over the Censor theater in that city.

Pontiac, Mich.—Harry Goldstein of the Oakland Theater Co., Pontiac, says it will be February 1st before his house is opened.

Michigan Theater Notes.

Zeeland, Mich.—A. Van Kley has filed petitions for a license to conduct a moving picture theater. The first vote taken by the city council stood three to three.

Bridgman, Mich.—Mr. Alguire is erecting a moving picture theater here.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Cranston Brenton of the National Board of Review will speak Jan. 12 before the Drama League of Grand Rapids.

New Incorporations.

Springfield, Ill.—Certificates of incorporation have been issued to the following:

Frieder Film Corporation, Chicago, capital, $10,000; incorporators, Edward Frieder, Irene M. Frieder and Alfred F. Frieder.

Illinois Mutual Film Corporation, Chicago, capital, $10,000; incorporators, Samuel M. Field, D. J. Sullivan, N. M. Donnelly.

A MOST ACCEPTABLE NEW YEAR'S GIFT
TO YOUR THEATRE MANAGERS
A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO THIS PAPER
START WITH THIS ISSUE Send Your Remittance Today.

POET ON CENSORSHIP.

E. L. Masters Says Official Supervision Lowers Tone of Pictures.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

BELOIT, Wis.—Moving picture censorship has actually put in our picture houses a lower form of the film art than would have come without any censorship except the public itself.

This statement is attributed to Edgar Lee Masters, of Chicago, noted for his book of poems, "Spoon River Anthology," in an address before the New Drama society of Beloit. He declared that the whole tendency of censorship is to debase and render less free every art against which it sets judgment.

Wisconsin Theater Notes.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Leo A Landau, formerly manager of the Regent and Royal theaters in Kansas City, Mo., is now manager of the Butterfly theater in this city. He will enlarge the orchestra.

Cudahy, Wis.—The Empire theater is under new management.

Portage, Wis.—William Helman has retired from the management of the Majestic theater and it is now operated by George Koberstein. He had been associated with Helman in the operation of the place.

Iola, Wis.—F. E. Maney has leased the Iola Opera House and has purchased the equipment of E. H. Parks for operation of a moving picture show.

Superior, Wis.—The Princess theater has been sold to J. A. White.

Mondovi, Wis.—Larson & Claflin have sold the Gem theater to H. E. Smith.

Portage, Wis.—Manager Koberstein, of the Majestic, arranged to donate the proceeds of each Monday night's show for several weeks to the Woman's Auxiliary, which is raising a fund to erect a new hospital.

Nebraska Theater Notes.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

PLAINVIEW, NEB.—Fred Jewell has moved the Bijou theater to the Frost block. Mr. Devlin will open a moving picture theater in the building vacated by the Bijou.

Hastings, Neb.—"The Birth of a Nation" is booked for a return engagement for two days early in January.

In the Dakotas.

Grand Forks, N. D.—J. M. Freeman and M. Garber have commenced remodeling the C. S. Reed building on De Mers avenue for use as a moving picture theater, seating 250. It was planned to open the house about Dec. 20.

Fort Pierre, S. D.—C. E. Coyne has sold the lease on the Majestic theater to F. H. Gillett, who is now operating that photoplay house.

Plaza, N. D.—E. Balsukot will erect an opera house here.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compare with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

Philadelphia Filmdom Notes

Happenings of Local Interest—A Valuable Kind of Usher—Some Big Features at the Leading Picture Houses—Some Advertising That Has Attracted Attention—New Shows and Reopenings—Owl Theater a Success.

From F. V. Amiato, 144 N. Salford St., West Philadelphia.

A Valuable Kind of Usher.

Philadelphia, Pa.—John F. Hayes, of the York Street Palace, boasts of having one of the smartest and most efficient girl ushers in the city. Her name is Miss Anna Amberg, and her cheery disposition and demure ways find favor with patrons. Her aim is always to find seats in any section of the house desired by a patron, and to do it as if it were a pleasure and not a task. Mr. Hayes also controls the Gloucester Opera House, Gloucester, N. J., of which Mrs. J. F. Hayes is manager. "Pearl of the Army," Pathe's latest serial, has been booked for the latter house. Courtesy to patrons and prompt payment of film bills are Mr. Hayes mottoes.

Some Big Feature in Local Houses.

Philadelphia, Pa.—First run pictures appearing at local theaters during the week of December 11th include a wide variety of features. "Civilization," is in the second week of its run at the Lyric. Joseph Vion, the traveling manager and Messrs. Marcus and Newman, the local representatives are elated over the drawing power of the picture.

Following the engagement of Annette Kellermann in "A Daughter of the Gods" at the Chestnut Street opera house, Messrs. McCarthy and McSween have arranged to present there D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance." The latter picture opened on Friday evening, December 22, and the house was closed the fore part of the week to permit of special decorations and orchestral rehearsals.

Marie Doro and Hobart Bosworth in a film version of Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist," a Paramount production, was shown at the Stanley the forepart of the week, followed for the last three days by Lou Tellegen in "The Victoria Cross."

At the Arcadia, Douglas Fairbanks in "The Matrimaniac" and Charles Chaplin in "The Rink" continued throughout the week. E. H. Sothern in "An Enemy to the King" played the entire week at the Belmont. Anna Pavlowa in "The Dumb Girl of Portici" has been booked for Saturday at the Dreamland, 36th street and Haverford avenue.

Praise for Pathe Advertising.

Philadelphia, Pa.—M. E. Comerford and Frank Morris, called on H. Osborne, of Pathe, to express their gratification at the direct results which the Pathe full page advertising of "Pearl of the Army" had exerted on business at their houses. Both agreed that advertising in general and Pathe advertising in particular was the greatest thing ever.

Sherwood's Organ Pleases.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The new organ at the Sherwood, 54th and Baltimore Avenues, is a fine instrument, rich in tone and played by a clever performer at every show. The high class patronage of the house warranted the installation of such an instrument.

Blatt's Enterprise Made Owl Success.

Philadelphia, Pa.—How an enterprising and wide awake manager may make a success of a none too promising house is demonstrated by the case of Mr. S. B. Blatt, whose Owl theater at 23d and South streets, has enjoyed a good deal of solid prosperity since its opening about three years ago. At the start it was a five cent house, giving five reels for that price, but as public taste became educated Mr. Blatt realized that features were the best policy. Consequently, on Easter Monday of this year he commenced to show a feature program each day, retaining the five cent admission for matinees and increasing the evening prices to ten cents for adults.

During last summer prices at the Owl were never dropped for a single day and even during the height of the infantile paralysis scare the daily matinees were uninterrupted. The paralysis scare was even taken advantage of to re-decorate the house, which while commodious and well ventilated was not distinguished for elaborate appointments. When the ban was lifted patrons who had not visited the house during the epidemic were pleasantly surprised. The walls are now paneled and oil paintings of leading screen stars centred in each panel; foliage and flowers encircle the stage and an orchestra dispenses music, to accompany the features.

The attendance since the fall re-opening has shown neighborhood appreciation of the efforts for a better and more complete playhouse.

An Advertising Idea That Insures Interest.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Facsimiles of $50 Confederate notes were distributed to patrons of the Olympia Theater by S. Swartzman. The reverse side of the phoney bill contained the program of the house. Two other bits of advertising enterprise were shown by Jay Emanuel of the Ridge Avenue Theater and Mark Wilson, of the Imperial. The former served warrants commanding the presence of patrons and the latter distributed cleverly "faked" telegrams.

Belmont to Reopen Xmas.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Felt Brothers have closed the Belmont Theater temporarily. It is expected that the house will re-open on Christmas Day.

Programs on Backs of Picture Stars.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Programs printed on the backs of beautifully colored portraits of leading screen stars are fast becoming the rage here. The George H. Kline Poster Company, who furnish the novelty, will presently occupy No. 1305 Vine street as an addition to 1307 Vine street for their showrooms.

New Uniforms at the Victoria.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The pretty girl ushers at the Victoria are now wearing a natty maroon uniform dress trimmed with a large white collar and small brass buttons. The effect is striking yet not over conspicuous.

THE MOST PROFITABLE NEW YEAR'S GIFT
TO EVERY FILM MAN AND PICTURE THEATRE MANAGER—A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Send Your Order Today and Begin With First Number.

Seattle Exchange Men's Club

Formative Meeting Held on December 12—Will Meet Every Tuesday in Dining Room of the Woman's Exchange—Object Will Principally Be the Discussion of Live Topics for the Good of the Trade.

By S. J. Anderson, Benvenuto, East Seattle, Wash.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Seattle actually is to have an exchange managers' club, at least. The need of such an organization has long been felt, and spasmodic attempts to establish one have been made several times before, but it has never progressed any further than the attempt. Now, however, it is an assured thing, according to the managers who were at the first meeting called, Tuesday, December 12, in the private dining room of the Woman's Exchange. At this meeting plans were decided on. This is to be every Tuesday at the same time and place as the first meeting. An outline of the subject for discussion was also suggested, with a view to bringing about better co-operation between the different exchanges.

Those present at the meeting were Carl Stearn, K-E-S-E manager; Frank L. Hudson, manager of General Film Co.; Frank S. Fountain, Progressive (Paramount) manager; C. J. Kerr, Metro manager; R. A. Grombacher, Triangle manager; J. S. Woody, manager of Mutual; Mike and Al Rosenberg, of the De Luxe Feature Film Company; Al. Bloom, manager of the Reelplay Feature Film Company.

Strand Raises Admission Price.

Seattle, Wash.—W. H. Smyth, manager of the Strand theater on Second avenue, has raised his admission price permanently to 15 cents. This is the last of the first-class downtown theaters to raise its admission from 10 cents, and the exhibitors find that the people like their shows just as well as when they paid the lower price to get in. In fact, Mr. Smyth says they seem to like them better, for his shows this week, "Miss Jackie of the Navy," featuring Margaritta Fisher, and "The Rink," featuring Charlie Chaplin, have repeatedly brought the audience to its feet with enthusiastic applause. This is very unusual for a Seattle motion picture audience.

Theater Magnate Buys $21,500 Bull.

Seattle, Wash.—The highest-priced pure-bred Holstein ever sold on the Pacific coast was bought the other day by John von Herberg of the Greater Theaters Company and manager of the Liberty theater of this city. The bovine considered so valuable is Fiderne Mutual Fayne Valdessa, a junior yearling with a very aristocratic ancestry, bred and raised in Fiderne, N. J. Mr. von Herberg bought him at the Sixth Pacific International Livestock Show, outbidding three dairymen who came with the intention of buying the yearling. As soon as he was sure of his prize Mr. von Herberg chartered a box stall car and had it attached to one of the fast passenger trains. In this way Fiderne Mutual Fayne Valdessa was brought to his future home in a manner befitting so august a "bovinity." His future home is at Kent, Wash., where Mr. von Herberg has a herd of ninety pure-blooded Holsteins.

Mutual Office Notes.

Seattle, Wash.—Manager J. S. Woody of the Northwest Mutual office has called in his representatives from Portland and Spokane, G. A. Reid and R. P. Madden, for a conference Christmas week. This is for the purpose of making preparations for the business expected on account of Mutual's new stars, Nance O'Neill and Margery Rambeau. Mr. Woody says that the recent increase of business in his territory has been such as to cause him to increase his purchases of film one print a week on each subject.

Metcalfe Starts Manufacturing.

Seattle, Wash.—An announcement has just come to W. L. Stern, sales manager for G. A. Metcalfe, making temporary headquarters at Seattle, that a large manufacturing department has been added to the activities of the San Francisco headquarters. Complete machinery has been installed and a competent staff of experts engaged for the production of all kinds of motion picture apparatus. Already work has started on the new Metcalfe Selfeed arc controller, the Metcalfe speed regulator, and motor drives. A special projection machine is one of the devices that will probably be presented to the Coast exhibitors in the near futuer. A new branch store has also been started by Metcalfe at Phoenix, Ariz.

L. M. Hyslop Marries.

Seattle, Wash.—L. M. Hyslop, booking manager for International in this city, surprised us the other day by asking us to congratulate him. It seems that Mr. Hyslop, who has spent many contented bachelor years in San Francisco, found himself lonely when he came to establish International's office in this city; so he mailed a letter to the girl who used to brighten his "blue" days in San Francisco, and, behold, a day or two later Miss Josie V. Parsons steps onto the Seattle dock from the San Francisco boat. Mr. Hyslop meets her, and together they journey to the court house, the minister's, and—well, next day Mr. Hyslop demands congratulations from the World correspondent.

Washington State Personals.

Seattle, Wash.—A. D. Johnson, who has recently opened the Jackson theater in Kirkland, reports a good run of business with his new Paramount program.

N. C. Hopkins, part owner of the new Lincoln theater of Port Angeles, has sold out his interest, to enter the tailoring business in Seattle.

Seattle Exchange Jottings.

Seattle, Wash.—E. R. Redlich, coast division manager for Fox, with temporary headquarters in this city, has just returned from a trip through Montana, where he has been making bookings for the new Fox comedies that are to be released the first of the year.

B. L. Lipman, traveling representative for the De Luxe, is spending a few days in the city, after a trip through southern Washington and eastern Oregon.

C. E. Waite, traveling representative for International, has just returned from a very successful trip through the Washington territory.

Judge R. A. Gunnison of Alaska was a caller at the Triangle office this week. Judge Gunnison is on his way to New York.

D. F. Le Roy, who has been touring the entire West with C. R. Coulter's road attraction, "The Escape," is spending a few weeks in Seattle. Mr. Le Roy has been as far east as the Mississippi during his last business trip.

Visitors on film row this week were W. E. Tibbets, Alhambra theater, Portland; W. H. Allen, Jr., Vaudette theater, Portland; H. T. Moore, Colonial theater, Tacoma; A. C. Anderson, Apollo theater, Tacoma; Edwin James, Majestic theater, Tacoma; L. D Rose, new manager of the American theater, Bellingham; H. C. Thomas, Dream theater, Hoquiam; M. J. Cline, Hoquiam; L. J. Quagliotti, owner of a chain of theaters in Vancouver and Victoria, B. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Cheneaux of Port Angeles; M. Christie, Rialto theater, Everett; Mrs. E. J. E. Perrine, Rose theater, Roslyn; E. W. Grossbeck, Lnumclaw; J. E. Musgrave, Sequim.

SPOKANE FILMDOM NOTES.

By S. Clark Patchin, East 18 Eleventh Ave., Spokane, Wash.

Stilwell Theater's Big Benefit.

FOR the purpose of aiding the poor of Spokane the C. E. Stilwell theaters gave part of the receipts of December 18 to the Good Fellowship Fund, which in turn is distributed to the poor.

Manager C. E. Stilwell, whose company owns the Rex, Class A, Rex and Unique theaters, gave 40 per cent. of the gross receipts of the day to the cause.

These theaters play to thousands of persons daily and the contribution to the fund was a large one.

Feature Hits in Spokane.

Spokane, Wash.—During the past two weeks Spokane moving picture patrons have witnessed some of the leading productions and the shows were well patronized.

"Civilization" played to two audiences daily for a week in the Clemmer and Miss Marguerite Clark in "Miss George Washington" played to almost capacity houses all of last week.

E. H. Sothern drew large audiences to the Liberty in his appearance in "The Chattel."

"The Fall of a Nation" played to large audiences in the Casino.

Utah May Have Censorship Law

A Picture, Not Named by Our Correspondent, Recently Caused a Lively Censorship Discussion by the City Commission—Mayor Has Power Enough to Handle Any Situation—Censorship in Next State Legislature.

By H. W. Pickering, Desert News, Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—The next session of the state legislature, which convees in this city next month, may see the introduction of a censorship bill. Nothing definite in this regard has been learned, but the introduction of such a bill is regarded as quite probable.

A short time ago, agitation in regard to the showing of a certain photoplay at one of the local houses, resulted in the subject of censorship coming up for discussion by the city commission. The first plan was to rush through an ordinance to forestall an announced rebooking of the film in question for another run. Instead, it was decided that, under existing ordinances, the commissioner of public safety, who is also the mayor, already had the power of censorship through his chief of police. The municipal question thus stands at this point.

A great many persons, however, were impressed with the need for some sort of action and it is possible that this feeling will culminate in an effort to secure a state censorship law. Certain ones objected strenuously to the poster and newspaper advertising of the film upon which criticism was centered, and public protests were made. It is certain, however, that the photoplay was shown in Salt Lake at a time when a combination of circumstances made it unfortunate for a film of a "daring" nature. As stated by one protestant, the public had been through an epidemic of the nude. Several "art" stores had kept their show windows filled with photographs of women "in the altogether"; "esthetic" dancers had crowded the vaudeville bills and captivating poses of damsels dancing about in pillow-slips had been run in some of the newspapers as paid matter. Thus "harassed," it is believed that some of the people were rather ready to accept the photoplay as the well-worn but burdensome "last straw."

Minneapolis News Letter

By John L. Johnston.

604 Film Exchange Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

F. A. McInerney to Manage Lyric.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Frank A. McInerney, former sporting writer of the St. Paul Dispatch and Daily News, the Minneapolis Journal and Chicago Post, and recently publicity man for Elliott & Sherman enterprises, has been appointed manager of the Lyric, the E. & S. photoplay house here. Mr. McInerney succeeds William B. Mick and he has already begun an aggressive campaign for an increased patronage at the theatre. Some sterling productions have been booked and Mr. McInerney is arranging for the premier showing of "The Crisis" at the theatre the latter part of this month.

"Purity" in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn.—One of the youngest exchange managers in the city, J. A. Bachman of the DeLuxe Films gave a private showing of "Purity" at the New Garrick theater, Thursday, December 7, to Mayor and Mrs. W. G. Nye, members of the press, defunct censor board, and Art Institute faculty and board of trustees, clergymen, judges and exhibitors and the picture won high praise from those in attendance. Mayor Nye has not officially passed the film as yet but he has practically assured as much. The Metropolitan, Minneapolis' largest legitimate theatre is among the number bidding for first run of the feature.

Prominent Theater Managers in Twin Cities.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Managers of the most prominent theatres of the Twin Cities are:—Minneapolis, New Palace, Harry G. Billings; New Garrick, Lowell V. Calvert; The Strand, James A. Keough; The Lyric, Frank A. McInerney.

New Aster and New Grand, William Koch; New Garden, J. F. Cubberley; The Crystal, J. Barnet; Lake, East Lake and New Lake, Henry P. Greene; Calhoun, Frank Thayer; Nicollet, David G. Rodgers; Pantages, Harry Cornell; Bijou, William Koenig.

St. Paul—Starland, Morton Nathan; Blue Mouse, W. C. Campbell; Alhambra and Gem, James G. Gilosky, New Princess and New Majestic, Bert Goldman.

The Strand, W. Maitland; New Palace, B. Wagner, Sr.; Hippodrome, George A. Bovyer; Dale, Julius B. Reisman; Verdi, Faust and Victoria, Henry J. Breilein; Seven Corners, Samuel Cone; Hamline, Henry P. Greene.

Charles Coburn Joins Zenith Road Staff.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Charles Coburn, of Duluth, Minn., has been added to the road staff of the Zenith Feature Film Co., Inc. exchange here. Mr. Coburn will cover Northern and Western Minnesota.

Great West Film to Make Second Feature.

St. Paul, Minn.—Wallace D. Coburn, Edward Eckles and Director C. M. Giffen are making preparations for the filming of the Great West Film Co.'s second feature. This feature will be photographed at the Western studios, Malta, Mont., and will be taken from one of Coburn's poems, put into scenario form by the poet. Mr. Coburn will play the leading male role and his female lead is yet to be selected. Work of cutting down "The Sunset Princess" from eleven reels to six is nearing completion at the company's laboratories on University avenue. This feature is scheduled for release early in January.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Tom Kress, formerly with the World Film Corp., Chicago and Kansas City, but for the past year handling state right features in Iowa and Minnesota, has been appointed road representative for the Mutual Film Corp. in the Northwest.

Edwin F. James Gets Big Theater

Portland's Former T. & D. Playhouse Leased to Present Owner of the Majestic—Will Be Devoted to Moving Pictures and Music—Lease Period Is Ten Years—Mr. James Will Still Conduct the Majestic.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Building, Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, OREGON.—Edwin F. James has taken a lease on the showhouse formerly occupied by the T & D and will open the big theater Christmas Eve or thereabouts. The lease period is for ten years. It is understood that the only parties to the transaction were Edwin F. James, lessee, and the Blodgett Company, Ltd., owners of the building, lessor. The monthly rental was not made public but it is not supposed to be much less than that demanded by P. S. Brumby, representing the Blodgett Co., in previous negotiations.

The eventual disposition of the big theater has been the subject of much discussion among both vaudeville and picture theater managers from Seattle to San Francisco. The theater, which seats 2,200, is ranked among the big houses of the city, and the fact that it is again in the photoplay field should liven the local situation considerably.

Will Be Called the Broadway.

When interviewed. Mr. James said the name Broadway theater had been decided on for the house, and that the Broadway Amusement Company would be incorporated to operate it. Straight pictures will be shown, but special attention will be paid to the musical interpretation. Concerts and overtures will be features of the shows. An orchestra will furnish the music. Mr. James announced that the policy of the house would be big features similar to those now enjoying long runs in big houses in other metropolitan cities.

Many Changes Being Made.

At the time of this writing crews of mechanics are making alterations in the building. The old box office off to one side will be used as a private office and an elaborate ticket booth will be built in the center of the lobby.

One of the biggest changes will be the new projection room. This will be located on the lower floor and a straight throw of approximately 110 feet will be obtained. The present lamp room is at the rear of the top gallery.

Painting, carpeting throughout the house and refurnishing the big mezzanine and rest rooms are now going forward.

Management Same as Majestic.

The management of the new Broadway will be the same as that of the Majestic. Edwin F. James will be at the head with W. M. Rogers as superintendent of operations. Both of these men will retain their respective positions at the Majestic. Girl ushers will be employed at the new Broadway.

Favorable Lease Secured.

Mr. James was highly optimistic about the venture. He said the lease was in every way favorable and an inspection of the house by the writer showed that the $30,000 worth of furnishings placed in the theater by John W. Considine two years ago were as good as new. These furnishings include elaborate drapes, furniture, stage sets and electrical equipment with wonderful possibilities.

The theater was built in 1914 and housed Empress and Orpheum vaudeville attractions under the ownership of John W. Considine. Turner and Dahnken conducted the house from May until October 21 of this year. Since that date, negotiations have been conducted to lease it by Portland, Seattle and San Francisco parties. It was rumored at different times that the Rialto people of San Francisco and Alex Pantages had secured it.

New House for Walla Walla.

Walla Walla, Wash.—Announcement is made that a new theater costing $30,000 will be built here in the spring by A. W. Eiler and Thomas R. Eastman. Mr. Eiler now operates the Bijou Grand theater. Plans have already been drawn for the house, showing it to be of Gothic architecture and seating 1,000. It will be built to accommodate vaudeville and road shows as well as moving pictures.

Foresees a Big Month.

Portland, Ore.—E. J. Myrick, of the Columbia, anticipates big holiday business and is preparing for it with seasonable surprises in the way of stunts. He put over some good stuff last year and says he is going one better this season. For the holidays he has Douglas Fairbanks in "The Matrimaniac" and Frank Keenan in "The Sins Ye Do." After the first of the year comes Mary Pickford in "The Pride of the Clan."

Marshfield House Opens.

Marshfield, Ore.—After being closed for about two months, the Orpheum theater reopened December 16. The new owner is E. M. Thurber. He has remodelled the building, put in a new front, a ladies' rest room and increased the size of the foyer. The Orpheum seats about 600.

"Stone" in Hawaii.

Portland, Ore.—C. H. Johnstone, manager of the Reliable Film Service, reports that W. A. Stone, formerly associated with the company here, is now conducting the Reliable Film Service at Honolulu, his address there being 116 King street. The Hawaii enterprise is an offshoot of the Portland company. Before leaving here several months ago Mr. Stone said he contemplated establishing a branch in Shanghai.

Artcraft Notes.

Seattle, Wash.—H. G. Rosebaum, manager for Artcraft's Northwest territory, returned this week from a trip through Oregon, and Guy Navarre, roadman, is just back from a three weeks' trip.

TRIANGLE PLAYS

Important To All Exhibitors

Because of an erroneous impression created by an advertisement appearing in these columns last week, definite and authoritative announcement is herewith made that may be booked as a separate series only by application to Triangle Exchanges throughout the country, and in no other way.

MACK SENNETT—KEYSTONE COMEDIES

The advertisement of last week concerning the new booking policy for Mack Sennett-Keystone Comedies has seemingly caused the belief that these comedies would be released independently of Triangle offices. We wish to state that there is no ground whatever for this impression. As heretofore Mack Sennett-Keystone Comedies may be had only through Triangle Exchanges.

KESSEL & BAUMAN.

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION,
1457 Broadway,
New York.

TRIANGLE PLAYS

RELEASED WEEK OF JANUARY 7TH

WILLIAM S. HART

IN

"TRUTHFUL TULLIVER"

KAY BEE

An appealing, plausible, powerful drama of the old West. William S. Hart's physical energy and force, his intense personality, have full sway in this, one of the strongest plays he has ever had. The whole picture throbs with life and people, with big problems and manly deeds.

Exhibitors Know That Hart is a 100% Box Office Attraction

DOROTHY DALTON

CHARLES RAY and LOUISE GLAUM

IN

"THE WEAKER SEX"

KAY BEE

A thrilling and convincing drama with a vital theme. Such a cast! Every role of importance is filled by an artist.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD SAYS:

"The whole release constitutes a valuable contribution to the art of motion-picture production."

Beginning the week of January 14th, the Triangle Program will consist of six reels released on Sunday and six reels released on Thursday. There will be two five-reel subjects made by Kay Bee or the Fine Arts Company, as before, each accompanied by a one-reel Triangle Komedy.

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending January 6, and January 13

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See See Pages 146, 148, 150, 152.)

General Film Company

Current Releases

MONDAY JANUARY 1, 1917.

SELIG—On Italy's Firing (Three parts—Topical).
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 105 (Topical).
VITAGRAPH—Title not reported.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1917.

ESSANAY—The Girl God Made for Jones (Two parts—"Black Cat Feature") (Comedy-Drama).
KALEM—That Terrible Tenderfoot (Comedy).

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1917.

ESSANAY—A Dollar Down (Comedy).
—Yosemite Valley (Scenic).
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—Title not reported.
KALEM—The False Prophet (No. 21 of "The Girl From Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).

THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1917.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 106 (Topical).
VIM—Title not reported.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1917.

KALEM—The House of Secrets (No. 12 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
VITAGRAPH—Title not reported.
VIM—Title not reported.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1917.

ESSANAY—When the Man Speaks (Fourth of "Is Marriage Secret") (Two parts—Drama).
KALEM—The Mogue Mountain Mystery (No. 113 of "The Hazards of Helen") (Drama).
SELIG—In Payment of the Past (Drama).

General Film Company

Advance Releases

MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1917.

SELIG—Starring In Western Stuff (Drama).
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 107 (Topical).
VITAGRAPH—Title not reported.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1917.

ESSANAY—Among Those Present (Two parts—"Black Cat Feature") (Drama).
KALEM——Rival Romeos (Comedy).

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1917.

KALEM—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 22 (Cartoon Comedy).
—Yosemite Valley No. 2 (Scenic).
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—Title not reported.
KALEM—The Resurrection of Gold Bar (No. 22 of "The Girl from Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).

THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1917.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 108 (Topical).
VIM—Title not reported.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1917.

KALEM—Title not reported.
VITAGRAPH—Title not reported.
VIM—Title not reported.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1917.

ESSANAY—The Sinful Marriage (Fifth of "Is Marriage Secret") (Two parts—Drama).
KALEM—The Fireman's Nemesis (No. 114 of "The Hazards of Helen) (Drama).
SELIG—The Making of Bob Mason's Wife (Drama).

COMPLETE AND ACCURATE LISTS of Regular Program and Feature Pictures Can Always Be Obtained from the Pages of the Moving Picture World. These are Published Two Weeks in Advance of Release Days to Enable Exhibitors to Arrange Their Coming Programs. The Stories of the Pictures in Most Cases are Published on a Like Schedule. Each Synopsis is Headed by a Cast, the Players' Names Being in Parenthesis. Lay Out Your Entertainment From the Information in the Moving Picture World and You Will Not Go Wrong.

STATE RIGHTS BUYERS

ONE ROUND O'BRIEN

The funniest half reel comedy produced
Directed by Mack Sennett

From the Popular Magazine story The Supreme Bumper's Degree by Charles E. Van Loan

Refer all inquiries to BIOGRAPH COMPANY
796 East 176th Street, New York City, N. Y.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS

Past Present and Future

IT HAS always been a source of constant satisfaction to the management and staff of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD to know that not one dollar's worth of business for this publication has ever been secured by MISREPRESENTATION. No member of our staff has ever been expected to violate—nor has he violated—his conscience by attempting to secure business through any misstatement of actual conditions.

This paper has never carried a line of business placed because of claims of an actual weekly circulation of thousands of copies more than the gross number actually printed. It has never been called upon to defend itself, either in the courts or in the office of some irate advertiser, against the charge that thousands of expensive colored inserts had been consigned to the scrap heap because there was no room for them in an edition less by thousands than the advertiser had been led to expect would be printed.

The MOVING PICTURE WORLD has never had a page of advertising secured through deliberate and known MISREPRESENTATION in regard to any other publication.

At no time has the MOVING PICTURE WORLD attempted to secure business—either subscriptions or advertising—by false intimations that we especially represented any particular branch of the motion picture industry or that we were the official mouthpiece of either the organized or unorganized exhibitor.

We have given the biggest and best value in the field of motion picture trade publications, and are doing it today, as every experienced moving picture publicity man knows.

In Business
Misrepresentation
After All
Is Only
Fraud
In the form of A Sugar
Coated Pill

In concentrating its energies upon the business of constantly improving what it has to sell instead of indulging in scurrilous and maliciously untair MISREPRESENTATION against its competitors, the MOVING PICTURE WORLD stands well nigh alone in its field.

Whatever business we may carry in this fast approaching new year or in the years to come, let us assure you, will be carried with that same satisfaction of knowing that it has been secured absolutely without MISREPRESENTATION.

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending January 6 and January 13

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 146, 148, 150, 152.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

(Serial No.)

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1916.

REX—The Prodigal Daughter (Drama)..... 02044
IMP—No release this week.
POWERS—Sammie Johnsin Slumbers Not (Cartoon-Comedy) 02045
BIG U—The Mad Hermit (Reissue—Two parts).... 02046
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—Liberty No. 20, "A Daughter of the U. S. A." (Two parts—Dr.) 02047
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 1—"The Vanished Jewels"—Two parts—Drama) 02048

MONDAY, JANUARY 1, 1917.

RED FEATHER—Polly Put the Kettle On (Five parts—Drama) 02049
NESTOR—Practice What You Preach (Comedy).... 02050

TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—An Old Soldier's Romance (Three parts—Drama) 02051
VICTOR—Bombs and Banknotes (Comedy)..... 02052

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1917.

LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
L-KO—On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill (Two parts—Comedy) 02053
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 53 (Topical).. 02054
LAEMMLE—Alone in the World (Reissue—Drama) 02055

THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1917.

REX—The Red Stain (Two parts—Drama)..... 02056
BIG U—No regular Big U this day.
POWERS—No regular Powers this day.
BIG U—The Uprising (Reissue—Drama)..... 02057

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1917.

IMP—The Moral Right (Two parts—Drama)..... 02058
UNIVERSAL—Screen Magazine No. 4 (Topical).... 02059
VICTOR—How to Be Happy Though Married (Com.) 02060

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1917.

BISON—Blood Money (Two parts—Drama)..... 02061
LAEMMLE—No Laemmle this day.
JOKER—Love in Suspense (Comedy)..... 02062
REX—The Wall of Money (Reissue—Drama)..... 02063

SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 1917.

REX—No release this day.
IMP—The Whelp (Drama)..... 02064
POWERS—The Trials of Willie Winks (Cartoon Comedy) 02065
—The Forbidden City (Educational)..... 02066
BIG U—The Jewel of Death (Two parts—Reissue Drama) 02066
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 2—"Suspected"—Two parts—Drama) 02067

MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1917.

RED FEATHER—Fighting for Love (Five parts—Drama) 02068
NESTOR—One Thousand Miles an Hour (Comedy).. 02069

(Serial No.)

TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—The Mystery of My Lady's Boudoir (Three parts—Drama) 02070
VICTOR—A Gentleman of Nerve (Comedy)..... 02071

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1917.

LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
L-KO—A Limburger Cyclone (Two parts—Comedy) 02072
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 54 (Topical).. 02073
LAEMMLE—The Face Downstairs (Reissue—Drama) 02074

THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1917.

JOKER—When Damon Fell for Pythias (Two parts—Comedy) 02075
BIG U—No regular Big U this day.
POWERS—No regular Powers this day.
BIG U—Shattered Ideals (Reissue—Drama)..... 02076

FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1917.

IMP—Honorably Discharged (Drama)..... 02077
REX—The Whispered Name (Two parts—Drama).. 02078
VICTOR—The Wrong Mary Wright (Comedy-Drama) 02079

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1917.

BISON—The Bad Man (Two parts—Drama)..... 02080
LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
JOKER—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy)..... 02081
IMP—John Bates' Secret (Drama)..... 02082

Mutual Film Corporation

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1916.

VOGUE—Jealous Jolts (Two parts—Comedy)..... 05254-55
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 35 (Subjects on reel: Olive Industry in California; Modish Coiffures; Most Unique Basket (Armadillo); The Value of Venom; How to Open a Glass Stoppered Bottle (Mutual Film Magazine)..... 05256

MONDAY, JANUARY 1, 1917.

MUTUAL—Pangs of Jealousy (Two parts—Drama).. 05257-58
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—A Gilded Youth (Five parts—Drama—American—No. 163).....

TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1917.

GAUMONT—Mutual Tours Around the World No. 9 (Subjects on reel: Rio de Janiero (capital of Brazil); A Ramble Around Luchon, France) (Travel) 05259

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1917.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 105 (Topical)..... 05260
GAUMONT—See America First No. 69 (Pasadena,—Cal.)—Kartoon Komic (Miss Catnip Goes to the Movies) 05261

THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1917.

MUTUAL—(Title not yet reported)..... 05262

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1917.

AMERICAN—(Title not yet reported)..... 05263

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1917.

STAR COMEDY—The Girl Who Can Cook (Comedy) 05264

If It's Saleable Among Motion Picture People

The Quickest and Easiest Way to Find a Buyer Is to

ADVERTISE IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Circulation Plus the Confidence and Esteem of Those Among Whom It Circulates

Makes the Moving Picture World the Best Advertising "Buy" in Its Field

Rates and Detailed Information Cheerfully Sent Upon Request

Spreading $600 Over a Year

Prepare now for the great trade war that is bound to come. Entrench your firm in the minds of the Latin-American people NOW. They are completely cut off from their former sources of supply.

CINE-MUNDIAL

The Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World should carry your sales message each month to these people.
$600 is an investment that will pay satisfactory interest if invested judiciously in this rapidly developing market.

For full information
Address

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.

17 Madison Avenue
NEW YORK CITY

SPANISH DEPT.

ATMOSPHERIC SCREEN

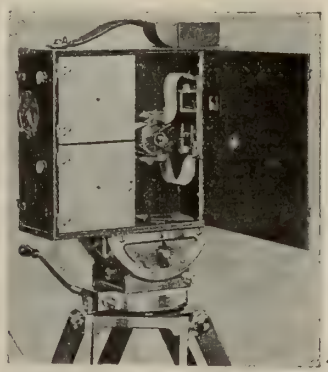
ATMOSPHERIC

becomes more beautiful in tone value with age

The Charm Screen

ATMOSPHERIC SCREEN CO., INC.
220 WEST 42D STREET, NEW YORK

WITH A UNIVERSAL



"You get the picture and get away before the other fellow gets set up."

That's how one camera man of wide experience puts it—the speed with which a Universal can be set up, threaded, focused and operated makes it the camera to be preferred.

Camera complete with Tessar Lens F 3.5 and two metal magazines (200-foot capacity), $300. Finest tilting and Panoramic Head Tripod, $90.

NEW AUTOMATIC DISSOLVE—For producing Fade-In and Fade-Out Pictures.

Write for Catalogue. Excellent Proposition for Motion Picture Supply Dealers.

Sole Wholesale Distributors

Burke & James, Inc. Sole Wholesale Distributors
240-250 E. Ontario St., Chicago
Eastern Branch—225 Fifth Avenue, New York City, N. Y.

A Ticket-Taker in Overalls--Never!

OF COURSE NOT! Nor a lobby painter! Nor soap boxes for seats! Nor a program poorly printed, hard to read and bad to look at! Our

4-Page Program De Luxe

is a class creation for theatres of class. It will supplement the elegance in your theatre appointments and tie up with your service and the general tone of your establishment. It is a beautiful work of art; it comes in twelve rare designs and is printed in three colors. It will not be thrown away but kept as a daily reference by your patrons. You print your full week's program on its inside pages and make it by selling the back page for advertising. A stylish feature for a picture house of style. Exclusive territory. Send for samples.

Pay For Itself

CAHILL-IGOE COMPANY "Direct Advertising Specialists" 117 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

MINUSA

"SCREEN LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS"

The "ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN" Perfected.

MINUSA CINE PRODUCTS COMPANY
SAINT LOUIS | CHICAGO | PITTSBURGH | NEW YORK
SAN FRANCISCO | CALGARY, ALBERTA

SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

Stories of the Films

General Film Company

BIOGRAPH.

TWO MEN OF THE DESERT (Reissue Dec. 25). The cast: The partners (Henry Walthall and Walter Miller); the young authoress (Blanche Sweet).

The young authoress had come to the edge of the desert for her mother's sake. There she met the two young prospectors and a romance began. But the men were about to go across the desert, where they had heard rumors of gold. They decided to play square and before going determined to let the coin decide who should ask the young authoress the all-important question. The flip of the coin decided the older should try his luck first. He learned the girl did not love him. But the other she promised to marry when he should return from the gold lands, and the care of her sick mother, who would then be restored to health, should no longer interfere with her happiness. The young partners soon reached the other side of the desert, where success came to them far beyond their expectations.

The girl, however, had met with sorrow on the passing of her mother. The two young men decided to return, but on their journey across the desert the younger fell over a precipice and broke his leg. The water supply gave out and while the older sought water on the desert he himself fell exhausted with thirst. He was found, however, and restored. In like manner the younger partner fell into the hands of friendly but ignorant Indians, who took him to their camp, where through their crude nursing fever set in. His own health restored, the partner sought him, but found him gone. Then came the temptation not to continue the search. He thought of the woman at home and the advantage he might take. He returned and told her the other was dead.

At first she could not believe him, but on the persistent urging of the man she gave in. Thus came their stolen happiness in the joy of a child that was to come, but the younger partner, restored after several months, decided to return. He appeared outside of the cabin and would have gone away on the other's explanation had not the woman heard his voice and come out. He was able to forgive, but the woman told her husband she could have nothing more to do with him after this deception. There was only one thing for her to do—to wait until after the birth of the baby; then the baby came. Her trunk was packed and about to be taken away when she saw the baby lying in the father's arms. Then her mother heart repented and she stayed.

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

THE DAWN OF WISDOM (Three Parts—Dec. 22).—Leonore Harris, a cabaret dancer, is taken ill and her physician orders a rest. She goes into a quiet mountain village and becomes the object of interest and speculation for the mountaineers. She informs Sheriff Jones she wants to rent a cottage. The sheriff proves as efficient in real estate as in the performance of his duties as an officer. She becomes a neighbor of John Bingham, a young mountaineer, who, however, is married and has a daughter. The city visitor is not long in attracting his attention and he becomes a rival of Sheriff Jones.

Young Mrs. Bingham's brother is not long in perceiving his brother-in-law's duplicity and threatens to bring him to task if he does not desist. Her health regained, Leonore returns to the city and John, taking his savings, accompanies her. Arriving in the city, his "rube" appearance is noticeable and Leonore induces him to purchase a "sporty" wardrobe. He patronizes the cafe where Leonore dances and is king of the place—upon liberal distribution of money. He accompanies Leonore home with a couple of "about-towners" and his bankroll disappears. But it is not until morning brings soberness that he realizes his loss.

His money gone, Leonore spurns his attentions. He is no longer a welcome guest at the cafe. Meanwhile back home Mrs. Bingham is mourning his departure and, with her brother and daughter, decides to search for him in the city. Sheriff Jones furnished the address of Leonore and the shabby trio call upon Leonore at the cafe, only to find John has returned to the mountains. They return and in the sunset a great mistake is realized, from which is born a greater love.

VIM.

HE WINKED AND WON (Dec. 21).—Kate, president of the Suredeath Street Railway Company, has a daughter, Ethel, who is the apple of her eye. Babe, an inventor of a safety device for the controller of a trolley car and possessor of a funny little wink, arrives to demonstrate his invention to Kate.

Through the aid of Florence, his confederate, whom he has managed to install in Kate's office as a stenographer, Snorky, president of a rival traction company, learns a demonstration will be given on a certain date. Snorky plants a bomb underneath the car so that when the lever strikes a certain mark the bomb will explode.

However, Babe has asked Ethel to accompany him on a trial spin a few hours before the demonstration, and their entrance blocks Snorky's escape. Finding himself trapped in the death car, Snorky raves and a desperate struggle takes place between him and Babe.

Babe overpowers Snorky and hurls him off the roof of the fast-flying car just as the bomb explodes. The explosion throws Babe and Ethel high in the air, but with Babe's usual good luck, he and Ethel land safely in Kate's auto.

FAT AND FICKLE (Dec. 28).—Babe is happy over his engagement to Florence, but the minute he thinks of breaking the news to her mother, Kate, his dream of joy is ended. For Kate's ex-husband was a pugilist and his friends always considered him "some pug," yet at home he was Kate's little lambkin, for Kate carried a wallop in each hand that had a bigger kick than a Krupp gun. Babe thought "safety first" should be his motto; yet, instead of being rough with him when she heard the news, Kate only smothered Babe with hugs.

Later, however, Babe meets Ethel, a blonde vampire who drives all thoughts of home and Florence out of Babe's head until the time came to tell Florence that she was no longer a member of the "engagement club." Kate hears the news and her past training with her ex-hubby stands her to good effect until Babe, declaring truce, proclaims Kate the lady of his choice.

Trouble begins between Florence and her mother over the possession of Babe. During the melee Babe escapes and seeks safety at the side of Ethel, only to receive an awful blow when he learns Ethel already owns a husband. Then Babe figured, although her mother may be a little rough, it was cheaper to get married than to work, so Babe beats it back to Florence and Kate, where a happy reunion occurs.

BEFORE THE SHOW (Dec. 29).—The small-town vaudeville manager, before the afternoon performance, discovers his propertyman has quit without notice, so is compelled to hire one of the hangers-on, Slippery Pokes. Pokes is installed and made man of all work. Bills are to be posted, props collected, scenery put in place, trunks delivered to dressing rooms. This all falls to Pokes' lot. Stylish Kate, the scrubwoman, is secretly in love with Jabbs, the manager. Jabbs objects to her attentions and several times has to call her down and remind her of her position.

The Limber Brothers arrive and, after tipping Pokes, are shown to the dressing room. The Ham Family also arrives. The greatest trouble is created when the Fickle Sisters put in an appearance and smile upon Jabbs. Jabbs places them in the star room? Pokes discovers Jabbs making love to the sisters and informs Stylish Kate, who, with a pistol, makes things so lively that had the police not interfered the afternoon performance would have been delayed.

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

A FINANCIAL FRENZY (Dec. 27).—I Due Love is gratified by the news that his salary has been raised and goes home to lunch, but instead of finding the usual smiling wife he finds a note saying she has "gone shopping." Packages commence to come in C. O. D. He goes looking for his wife and finds her loaded with bundles; she drags him into a fashionable cafe and he decides to humor her. Mrs. Love eats the most expensive things and shows hubby more purchases, one of them being a necklace; he is stunned and attempts to bear up by drinking highballs. In the meantime his boss has seen him. His suspicion is aroused by the fact that he is drinking heavily and seems to have bought his wife all sorts of presents. He also learns that Love had not made a deposit at the bank, and has him arrested. After Love has convinced him of his innocence, Mrs. Love explains she has inherited $50,000 from her uncle's estate.

KALEM.

THE FALSE PROPHET (No. 201 of "The Girl from Frisco—Two Parts—Jan. 3).—The cast: Barbara Brent (Marin Sais); John Wallace (True Boardman); Ace Brent (Frank Jonasson); Daniel (Ronald Bradbury). Directed by James W. Horne.

A faker, calling himself Daniel II, with his three "saints," comes to Santa Loma with warnings that the end of the world is near and calling to the populace to give up their worldly possessions and prepare for the day of doom. He quickly gathers an ignorant following about him and Barbara, seeing the manner in which they are being duped, attempts to expose him. But her first efforts result in serious danger, for she is mobbed by Daniel's followers for her "sacrilege." But Barbara works quietly away with the aid of Wallace, and on the day that Daniel had prophesied for the end of the world springs her coup, with the result that following some stirring dramatic scenes the prophet and his "saints" are lodged behind bars.

ESSANAY.

THE GIRL GOD MADE FOR JONES ("Black Cat Feature"—Two Parts—Jan. 2).—The cast: Jones (Bryant Washburn); Faith Garland (Alice McChesney).

Jones was searching everywhere for the girl he wanted for his wife, and all the time she was literally sitting beside him. It happened this way. Jones was in a railroad wreck. Pinned beneath the cars with him was a girl. Death hovered over them. It was dark and Jones could not see the girl's face, but from her voice and her bravery he knew he could love her if he lived. They were rescued and separated, but immediately Jones was released from the hospital he began his search for the girl. In this Jones obtained the aid of a magazine editor friend, who suggested he write the story of the wreck. The editor sent Faith Garland, his secretary, to Jones to take dictation of the story. Lo, and behold, Faith was the girl God had thus made for Jones.

A DOLLAR DOWN (Split Reel—Jan. 3).—A vaudeville actor lands at Banana harbor and soon wins the queen of the settlement away from the boss of the gang of stevedores, because of his smart appearance in his "dollar down" suit. He becomes a subject for violence on the part of the harbor front workers and it is only when he resorts to a grotesque makeup that he frightens his foes and has the field to himself. The reel is shared by 500 feet of beautiful scenic, taken in Yosemite valley.

WHEN THE MAN SPEAKS (No. 4 of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two Parts—Jan. 6).—The cast: James Gordon (Edward Arnold); Irma Alvord (Marguerite Clayton); Reggie (Sydney Ainsworth); Andrew Carson (Thomas Commerford); Horace Alvord (John Cossar).

The failure of a man to resent insults often is mistaken as cowardice. It was the case with James Gordon. He killed a man in a fit of anger and afterward resolved never again to lose his temper. Gordon weds Irma Alvord, a social butterfly who worships courageous men. However, she detects him passing off an insult from his secretary and is disgusted with him. She makes no secret of her disgust and it influences her friends to begin to loath Gordon. Finally, driven to a frenzy by the taunts of his wife and friends, Gordon breaks his resolution. He invades a party in his home and virtually "cleans house," hurling guests right and left. By such cave-man tactics he wins back Irma's love and the respect of those who once had sneered at him.

SELIG.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 98 (Dec. 7).

Galveston, Tex.—The American steamship Ausable arrives from Buenos Aires with a cargo of 180,000 bushels of Argentine wheat.

New Orleans, La.—Movie theaters accept pota-

A BARGAIN
THE BIGGEST VALUE TO MANUFACTURERS, EXHIBITORS, EXCHANGEMEN AND OPERATORS IN THE
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
SEND YOUR SUBSCRIPTIONS TO-DAY DIRECT TO 17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY
DOMESTIC - $3.00 PER YEAR
CANADA - - $3.50 PER YEAR
FOREIGN - - $4.00 PER YEAR

toes as admission fee, and turn all receipts over to the Orphan Asylums.

Galveston, Tex.—Pauline Thurston gives a new American interpretation of the Hula Hula.

New York, N. Y.—"Uncle Sam's" dreadnaughts steam majestically out to sea after their visit for the Army and Navy football game.

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson and members of the Supreme Court and Diplomatic Corps attend requiem mass for Franz Josef, late Emperor of Austria.

Saratoga, Cal.—William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, and his wife visit Senator James D. Phelan.

Chicago, Ill.—

Influenza microbes an' the bugs' grippe an' cold,
Scarlet fever, typhoid an' diseases new an' old,
Measles, whooping cough an' chickenpox so mean,
Is the Bacteria that'll getcha
If your teeth aint clean!

Bedloe's Island, N. Y.—With President Wilson and a distinguished company of guests as spectators, the illumination of the Statue of Liberty begins "America's Electrical Week."

Philadelphia, Pa.—The University of Pennsylvania defeats Cornell University in their annual football game, by a score of 23—0.

Carlisle, Pa.—What "Uncle Sam" is doing for his Indian charges is well illustrated at the annual military inspection and pageant by the students of the Carlisle Indian School.

Chicago, Ill.—A ten-mile rollerskate race, through the crowded streets, furnishes plenty of thrills to both participants and spectators.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 99 (Dec. 11).

New York, N. Y.—President Wilson arrives and officiates at the ceremony of lighting the Statue of Liberty.

Taft, Tex.—With only half a crop planted last year and with twenty-cent cotton in sight, Charles P. Taft shows foresight in turning his great cattle ranch into a cotton plantation.

Corpus Christi, Tex.—Evan with turkey at thirty-eight cents a pound, the soldiers on the border are not forgotten on Thanksgiving.

San Francisco, Cal.—32,000 people in 800 automobiles make up a caravan of discovery when they ride over 28 miles of boulevards on the opening day of the Exposition Marina.

Washington, D. C.—Tom Taggart, leading a delegation of senators, representatives and newspapermen, greet Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall on their return to the Capitol for the opening of Congress.

Wakefield, Mass.—Major John M. Portol, of the Massachusetts National Guard, inspects the new Berthier type of machine gun.

Marysville, Cal.—The world's largest gold dredge is launched and christened by Miss Phoebe Bevan, assisted by W. P. Hammon, the "father" of gold dredging in California.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Eddie Rickenbacher wins the Championship Sweepstakes at Ascot park in his Duesenburg. Time, 150 miles in 133 minutes and 1 second.

Hammond, Ind.—Miachel Innik, clad in this suit of home-made armor, with whiskers attached, and armed with two revolvers, a dagger, 2 hatchets, a knife and 165 pounds of ammunition, shoots the clerk, a juror and Judge Chas. Grenwald in the court-room.

Denver, Colo.—700 cow ponies are purchased by the British and French Commissioners for army horses and await shipment to the front.

Latest fashion in evening gown and wrap, posed by pretty model, is presented in this number of The Selig-Tribune.

THE GOLDEN THOUGHT (Three Parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: Tom Daton (Tom Mix); Bess Jackson (Victoria Forde); Gene Hammond (Barney Furey); Estella Hammond (Lily Clark); Doc Breede (Sid Jordan); Bill Blevins (Pat Chrisman). Written by J. A. Lacy. Directed by Tom Mix.

Tom Daton, deputy marshal, is ordered to Chico County to keep an eye upon a number of desperate characters reported to have been terrorizing that vicinity. Bess Jackson, a beautiful young woman, acts as faro bank dealer in an adjacent county, and when Tom arrives there he is much attracted by her beauty.

Gene Hammond, a wealthy mining man, bids his wife farewell and goes to Chico County to develop a claim. There Doc Breede, leader of a gang of desperadoes, resents the appearance of the deputy marshal on the scene, and plans with his gang to make away with Tom. He plots with confederates that they shoot through a window and kill the deputy marshal making it appear that Hammond did the shooting.

The shots are fired, but just at that instant, Tom unconsciously withdraws from range, and it is one of Doc Breede's pals who is struck by the bullet. Hammond is arrested by the sheriff charged with doing the shooting. His revolver, which had been tampered with, is placed in evidence. Hammond's wife hearing of his incarceration, rushes to his aid.

Tom, the deputy marshal, believing in Hammond's innocence resolves to force a confession from Doc Breede. He does so, and after an exciting battle with the desperadoes, members of the gang are rounded up. As a reward for breaking up the plot, Tom claims Bess Jackson as his bride.

THE RIGHT HAND PATH (Dec. 30).—The cast: Allen Kent (Robyn Adair); Dora Warren (Virginia Kirtley). Written by Hetty Gray Baker. Produced by Burton L. King.

Allen Kent leaves his home to seek fortune, but fortune is found to be elusive. There is a saying that the unnoticed passing of a stranger in a crowd, may, by the least turn to one side or another, become the deciding factor of one's whole life. Allen comes upon the parting of the ways, and he is undecided whether to take the left-hand path or the right. However, he chooses, and his pathway leads him into the life of a pugilist.

After five years, Allen finds himself without money, without friends, and one who has lost his cunning in the squared circle. Again he finds himself seated on a bench facing two pathways, and he wonders what would have happened if he had take the other path that day five years ago.

Allen determines to find out, and in so doing, discovers that the straight and narrow way is the only course which leads to health, prosperity and love.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 100 (Dec. 14).

New York, N. Y.—James W. Gerard, Ambassador to Germany, and his wife, leave for Berlin, after a vacation in the United States.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—John D. Archbold, late multi-millionaire and president of the Standard Oil Company, is buried.

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson leaves the Capitol after delivering his message at the opening session of Congress.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Miss Clara C. Haywood, society leader, turns to the billiard table for recreation.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—A $1,000,000 fire visits this city and threatens destruction.

New York, N. Y.—Nifty novelties in cats and rabbits are shown at the feline annual show.

Chicago, Ill.—A few of the star attractions in the $2,000,000 Stock Show now being held.

New York, N. Y.—The ship returns from the Gold coast with a crew of Fantee natives and a new dance, known as the "Slue-foot Slough."

Here are the latest combinations in feminine footwear. These silver attractive evening slippers with gray silk stockings are the very latest.

New Orleans, La.—The Shriner's convention here brings into competition the best Masonic drill teams in the South.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 101 (Dec. 18).

Sacramento, Cal.—Governor Johnson drives the first stake for California's new $10,000,000 canal.

Oakland, Cal.—The Falketind, largest wooden ship ever built on the Pacific coast, is nearing completion.

Washington, D. C.—Congressman Adamson of Georgia, the gentleman who put the "dam" in the Adamson law.

Newark, N. J.—Riders prepare for grueling contest in the coming international six-day bicycle race.

New York, N. Y.—"Open Window" and "Walk to Work" week comes to a successful conclusion, with the long hike participated in by 700 persons.

Manchester, England.—Despite German's peace proposals, England continues to pour thousands of British troopers into the trenches.

Latest Fashions.—Pretty models pose for latest creations in furs and in evening gowns.

Lebanon, Pa.—A visit to the steel mill proves that European soldiers are shooting sewing machines, iron pots and old castings at their enemies.

Norfolk, Va.—The Southern Commercial Congress opens with a parade of the National Guard, sailors and cadets.

ON ITALY'S FIRING LINE (Three Parts—Jan. 1).—Scenes depicted are those of the army of Italy, and in the advance through the Alps toward the Austrian frontier.

The scenes of warfare shown are: Artillery duels; bursting shrapnel and shells; soldiers charging through barbed wire entanglements in actual conflict; life in the advance trenches; scouts scaling seemingly almost impassable mountain heights, and other details.

IN PAYMENT OF THE PAST (Jan. 6).—The cast: Edward Sampson (E. J. Brady); Robert, his son (Robyn Adair); Gracia (Virginia Kirtley); Mrs. Sampson (Eugenie Forde). Written by Marc E. Jones. Produced by Burton L. King.

Jupiter is quoted as stating that if there be any in the past who owe aught to those about them, it is the will of the gods that they be reborn, that payment may be made.

In the days of the ancient Romans there lived an emperor whose favorite loved a slave girl, who had been seized by the emperor's orders. This favorite was willing to sacrifice his life that the beautiful girl, whose likeness he had molded into an artistic statue, might be spared.

Edward Sampson, a financier, is proud of his son Robert, who is studying art in Paris. With his wife, the financier embarks on a boat en route to France to pay the young sculptor a visit. Robert finds his work deteriorating because he can discover no model to give him inspiration.

On the boat is Gracia, a stewardess, who, when she and the financier meet, have a sudden unaccountable feeling of having met ages before. However, Sampson saves the girl's life and Mrs. Sampson decides to make of Gracia a companion. They arrive in France, and when Gracia and Robert meet, again comes the mysterious feeling that they, too, have loved in the long ago. The girl furnishes the inspiration for the young sculptor's work of art, and they are later happily married.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

POWERS.

THE TRIALS OF WILLIE WINKS (Cartoon Comedy—Jan. 7).—Willie Winks is a friend of our old acquaintance, Sammie Johnsin. He has had an unfortunate experience with a goat, and he goes to get his dog to chase the animal. The goat, however, chases the dog instead. Willie finds pressing business elsewhere, and warns his friend Sammie to look out for trouble. They are not quick enough in getting away, however, and the picture ends in an orgy of bumps. On the same reel is an educational picture.

IMP.

THE MORAL RIGHT (Two parts—Jan. 5).—the cast: Gerrardi Garaboldi (Douglas Garrard); Francelia Garaboldi (Francelia Billington); Paul Arnold (A. W. Wertz). Scenario by Fred Payton. Produced by Douglas Gerrard.

Gerrardi, an Italian, has come to America and saved enough to send for his sweetheart, Francelia. He finds enjoyment in preparing for her coming. He confides his secret to one of his customers, an attorney, John Wainwright. On the passage over Francelia, traveling steerage, is insulted by a drunken passenger, and Paul Arnold, an artist, comes to her rescue. Her beauty appeals to him and he engages a first-class cabin for her. She tells him about her lover who is waiting to welcome her. But Arnold has other plans

He knows that the steerage passengers exit by a different passage than do the cabin passengers. She leaves the ship with him. When she does not see Gerrardi, Arnold suggests that she go with him to his mother until they can locate her lover. She reluctantly consents.

At Arnold's studio she learns there is no mother, but knowing no one and being unable to speak English, she accepts conditions as she finds them. One day while driving with Arnold and waiting to make a crossing she sees Gerardi. At first overjoyed, she then realizes the life she is living and hides her face in shame.

Gerrardi has seen her, and he goes in search of her. His quest is in vain. When he returns he finds Francelia at his home. Weepingly she tells her story, and, Gerrardi leaves to find Arnold. The two struggle in the studio and Gerrardi kills Arnold. At the trial Wainwright is his attorney. He calls Francelia as a witness. She tells her story and gains freedom for her lover, who later becomes her husband.

THE WHELP (Jan. 7).—The cast: Bruce Reid (Millard K. Wilson); Toto (Edith Roberts); Andy McCall (Malcolm Blevins); Emoe (Raymond Whittaker); Baby (Elizabeth Janes). Scenario by Harvey Gates. Directed by M. K. Wilson.

Theatre Owners

A Profitable New Year's Gift For Your Manager is a SUBSCRIPTION TO THIS PAPER

Start Now—With the First Issue.

Toto lives with her uncle, Emoe, who compels her to dress as a boy and earn her board by picking pockets. Toto's ambition is to be like other girls. She dresses up much to the enjoyment of herself and her small sister.

One day while Toto is dressed as a girl, Andy, a detective, tries to flirt with her—but gets his face slapped, and is reprimanded by Sergeant Bruce Reid.

The whole force is on the lookout for a band of pickpockets. Andy sees Toto counting money. Bruce has seen Toto steal, but has lost track of her in the crowd. Andy follows her home, where she gives the money to Emoe. He leaves and is taken in custody by Bruce, who notices his stealthy actions.

Andy enters Toto's room and tries to force his attentions on her. The little sister goes for help and, meeting the Sergeant, takes the latter home. The girl is struggling in Andy's arms. Andy is discharged and the sergeant takes Toto and her little sister to his home to be cared for by his mother.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

LIBERTY, A DAUGHTER OF THE U. S. A. (Episode No. 20—Two Parts—Dec. 31).—The cast: Liberty (Marie Walcamp); Pedro (Eddie Polo); Lopez (G. Raymond Nye); Bob Rutledge (Jack Holt); Major Winston (Neal Hart); Senorita Travario (Hazel Buckham).

Liberty, Bob Rutledge, Pedro and Senorita Travario leave Mexico to join Major Winston in Washington and are followed by three Mexican spies, one of whom catches Liberty on the rear of the train. But Pedro rushes out and saves the girl, throwing the spy off the rapidly moving train.

Lopez, the bandit chief, is dying from wounds inflicted by Bob and Jose Leon, and his followers besiege the hacienda to prevent his body from falling into American hands. An American detachment has been ordered to gain possession of the corpse.

Lopez commands his men to set the hacienda afire. This they do, losing many of their own number, for the Americans arrive just as the chief is being carried away. Forced into their own trap, they are caught in the explosion of the powder set to blow up the peon houses. Lopez's body is later found among the ruins.

Major Winston, sole survivor of his detachment, is in Washington. Bob is disgusted to learn that the Secretary of War will not accept Winston's statements without corroboration. The secretary causually remarks, "Well, now that Lopez is dead, I guess that ends it." Bob springs to his feet, horrified, shouting, "Why, man, there's a thousand such as Lopez still alive. Get them all and you've done something. You officials sit here and let politics command your feelings while true Americans are being murdered." He shakes his finger under the nose of the Secretary. Replying that all Americans were warned to leave Mexico, and that the War Department has stood slander, insult and everything else that hurts a man, the secretary draws a vivid word picture of what peace means, and then what war would mean, asking Bob which he would choose.

Meanwhile, the Mexican spies are following orders from Chihuahua to get Pedro as a traitor. While he and Senorita Travario are in a hotel, chatting, she sees the two Mexicans. She becomes frightened. Suddenly a spy leans over the railing of the balcony and fires, but the girl jumps in front of Pedro. She is instantly killed. After firing several more shots which wound Pedro, the insurrectors attempt to escape in a taxi, when Bob fires at them. The shot causes the machine to catch fire and explode.

Pedro, dying, asks Liberty to see that he and Senorita Travario are buried in Mexico, and murmurs that he has found his love too late. Liberty and Bob are escorted by Winston to meet the President of the United States, who congratulates them and tells them that $50,000 was offered by the government for Lopez, and that it will be paid to a daughter of the U. S. A., Miss Liberty Horton. Here Bob interrupts and says that she is no longer Miss Horton, but Mrs. Robert Rutledge. All the guests cheer and the orchestra strikes up the national air.

THE PURPLE MASK (Episode No. 1—"The Vanished Jewels"—Two Parts—Dec. 31).—The cast: Patricia Montez, called "Pat" (Grace Cunard); Phil Kelly (Francis Ford); Eleanor Van Nuys (Jean Hathaway); Pete Bartlett, Kelly's assistant (Pete Gerald); Bull Sanderson, another assistant (Jerry Ash); Silk Donahue, kid glove Apache (John Duffy); Stephen Dupont, an art dealer (John Featherstone); Jacques, the Van Nuys butler (Mario Blannchi). Written by Grace Cunard. Produced by Francis Ford.

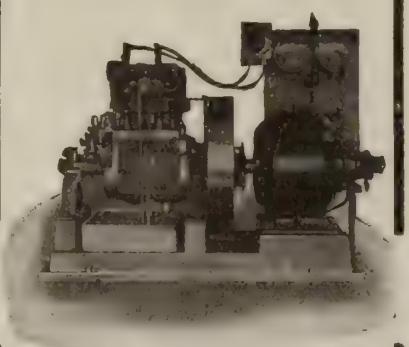
Patricia Montez, niece of the wealthy Eleanor Van Nuys, is the most popular girl in the American colony of Paris. Her one idea is to bring comfort to the suffering poor. Her aunt, Mrs. Eleanor Van Nuys, is likewise charitably inclined. The Children's Asylum, a refuge for orphans, is the principal hobby in Mrs. Van Nuys' scheme of charity.

To her friends, Patricia is affectionately known as "Pat." The result of Pat's popularity has been to give the spirited girl an excellent opinion of herself, and when Phil Kelly snubs her she resents it and resolves to go to any length in retaliation. Kelly is a famous detective, known all over Europe as "The Sphinx." Pat's first venture, in retaliation for Kelly's rudeness, is to steal her aunt's jewels. She then notifies Kelly. Pat hides the jewels in her dressing table drawer. They are stolen by Jacques, the butler, who takes them to the rendezvous of his fellow Apaches, the Cafe Chat Noir.

Pat has noticed Jacques' suspicious conduct and follows him to the cafe. She is followed by Phil Kelly and two of his assistants. Pat is disguised as an Apache's sweetheart, and bribes her cabman to assume the role of her lover.

Get acquainted with "FULCO"
The Department Store
MOVING PICTURE TRADE
MACHINES EQUIPMENT SUPPLIES
Our catalog covers the line from A-Z
E. E. FULTON COMPANY
152 W. Lake St. CHICAGO, ILL.

What's the Use?



4 Kilowatt Direct-Connected Outfit

What's the use, Mr. Traveling Showman, in carting around several tons of antique engine and electrical apparatus for making electric current, when you can buy a

Brush Electric Lighting Set

Just sit down and write for our Catalogue. It tells the whole story, and what it tells is SO.

The Chas. A. Strelinger Co.

Box MP-2

Detroit, Michigan, U. S. A.

They enter the cafe and participate in the festivities. Pat sees Jacques displaying to his pals the Van Nuys' heirlooms. By deftly whirling her dancing partner to the table where Jacquese sits, she manages to stumble and strike the butler's arm.

The jewels fall from Jacques' hands. Pat picks them up and as she is leaving the place Phil Kelly confronts her. In her surprise, Pat drops the gems upon the steps. She dodges past the detective and makes her way home. Kelly observes the jewels lying on the ground, and pocketing them, departs.

THE PURPLE MASK (Episode No. 2—"Suspected"—Two Parts—Jan. 7).—When "Pat" drops the jewels in her hurry to escape from Detective Kelly, she dashes into the house of a poor woman, who lives near the street entrance to the Apache cafe, the Chat Noir. She begs the woman to hide her, and lies on a bench, covered over with a blanket, while Kelly searches for her in vain. When the detective has left Pat promises to repay the woman for her kindness.

Kelly plans a surprise for the Apaches. He enters suddenly and holds them up at the point of a gun, while the police guard the other exit through the sewer. Kelly shoots out the lights and there is a fight in the cafe in the half darkness. Most of the Apaches make a run for the door, but some of them hide behind the bar. Many of the gang try to escape through the sewer, and there is a terrific fight with the police, in which several on both sides are drowned in the sewer. The next day Kelly calls at the Van Nuys home to return the jewels. He tells Pat that he has seen a girl at the Chat Noir who looked much like her.

Pat is as good as her word and sends many gifts of food and clothing to the woman who befriended her. A shock awaits her on her return. Her aunt has received bad news from her lawyer. Poor investments have caused her fortune to dwindle, and she is almost penniless. Pat comforts her aunt, and says that she has a way to regain the money. She sends for the butler, and intimates to him that she knows all about his real avocation. She intimates that she wishes to join his band. He tells his accomplice, Silk Donahue, to be at the Cafe Chic at 9:30 that night.

Pat and her aunt are also on hand at 9:30 and Kelly is there with his men. At a nearby table is a pearl dealer, with a fine string of pearls. Pat sees them and says to her aunt that they would pay their debts. Suddenly the lights go out. When they are turned on again the pearl dealer is lying face down on the table and the pearls are gone. Kelly will not allow anyone to leave the room. He finds a handkerchief of Pat's near the man's chair and orders all to be searched. He is convinced that the thief is found, and is ready to snap handcuffs on Pat's wrists.

RED FEATHER.

POLLY PUT THE KETTLE ON (Five Parts—Jan. 1).—The cast: Mr. Vance (Thomas Jefferson); Polly Vance (Ruth Clifford); Miss Johanna Webb (Miss Maddox); Chester Creigg (Douglas Gerrard); Myra Vance (Marvel Spencer); Nellie Vance (Lena Baskette); Susie Vance (Zoe Rae). Scenario by Elizabeth Hendrix. Produced by Douglas Gerrard.

Polly Vance is at a loss as to where to get the next day's food. The children scream, "Polly, put the kettle on," but she finds only a few tea leaves. The kids are disappointed when they find no jam. Polly, though only eighteen, has been mothering these children a long time. Polly enters her father's workroom, where he is pouring over the plans for the invention which he is confident will bring them riches. He becomes irritated when Polly reminds him of their poverty, and she leaves the room. Polly obtains a position with Johanna Webb, a spinster. Chester Creigg, Miss Webb's nephew, has completed his preparations for leaving home. He is returning to college, this being his finishing year. Chester is impressed with Polly's good looks and there seems to be a mutual attraction.

After some weeks Polly is overjoyed to learn that Chester is coming home. Chester has been awarded a prize at college for writing the best play. In the meantime Vance, Polly's father, has completed his invention. He takes the model to a well-known manufacturer, only to be told that the invention is already on the market.

Chester has a tilt with his aunt because he will not submit to her arrangement for him to enter a bank, as he has chosen play-writing for his profession, and she disinherits him. Polly comes in with some wool and the old lady finds it is not the right color. Chester listens as the spinster scolds Polly. Polly is told to leave, and they go off together. Chester cannot convince Polly that it is the proper thing for her to allow him to help her until she gets another job. As he walks aimlessly on he is attracted by an excited crowd. He finds a man has fallen and been injured. He takes him home and has the doctor called. Polly comes home and finds Chester at her father's bedside. She is overcome with emotion at his goodness. Later

Chester prevails on Polly to allow him to send her to the hospital for training as a nurse. While she is there Chester takes care of the family, though he is hard up, not having sold any of his plays.

On a visit to Polly's house he finds a fire started accidentally by one of the children. He is overcome by an explosion of the father's chemicals and is taken to the hospital, after risking his life in rescuing the children. One of the neighbors comes to the hospital and tells Polly she will care for the children if Polly will nurse Chester.

Chester is made blind by the fire. Polly feels it is incumbent upon her to help him, so she secretly goes to the old aunt and tells her of her nephew's plight. She says that Chester has sworn not to touch a cent of hers. They hit upon the plan to tell Chester his aunt has suddenly died, leaving all her wealth to him. In this way he is brought to her old home with Polly as his nurse. Polly in the meantime has sent his finished play to a play-broker.

A friend of Chester's, Pendleton, a famous oculist, comes rushing in his old boyish fashion and brings the newspaper speaking of the great new play, "Polly Put the Kettle On," and of the mystery surrounding the identity of the author. Of course, it is Chester's play, and he bemoans the fate that makes it impossible for him to see his first play. Pendleton suggests an operation. Polly takes care of the patient. Her sweet face is the first thing that greets Chester's restored vision. He is too overcome for words. But he finds the speech when he sees his aunt Johanna. Her spirit has been refined in the fires of adversity, and there is a happy reunion.

REX.

THE GILDED LIFE (Dec. 29).—Written and produced by the Smalleys. Two sisters take different paths, one to a humble, honest home, the other to a gilded life of luxury. One night the husband, a night watchman, discovers burglars at work upon his employer's safe. He reaches the scene at the moment of the explosion and is felled by the heavy door. His body is taken home to his faithful wife, Alice.

Alice's sister, Helen, reads of the disaster, and offers assistance, which is refused. Alice secures employment, and the mission workers send some one each day to care for her children.

Helen determines to leave her sinful life. She goes to her sister's home and finds Alice absent. The mission worker comes and takes her for Alice. This deception she carries on for some time. Phil, upon learning of Helen's life in the mission, is deeply moved. He offers her any concession if she will only come back. Helen confides in an old minister, who requests that she return with him.

Phil comes to Alice's home. Alice, upon learning of Phil's relation to Helen, insists that he leave her house. Just then the minister arrives with Helen, who quotes from the Bible: "That joy likewise shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance." Alice is awakened to a fuller understanding and the minister marries Helen and Phil.

THE RED STAIN (Two Parts—Jan 4).—The cast: Dorothy Forrest (Molly Malone); Elbert Santley (Jack Nelson); Cecile Forrest (Annette Defoe); Hubert Forrest (Fred Montague); Butler (Burton Law). Scenario by Harvey Gates. Produced by George Cochrane.

Cecile Forrest is a hard-hearted, worldly girl, but Elbert Santley, who is in love with her, cannot see this part of her nature. He is in the contracting business, as is also Hubert Forrest, Cecile's father. Santley asks Cecile to marry him, but she only laughs. He tells her that he has hopes of obtaining a contract for a big job. Forrest overhears this.

Dorothy, Cecile's sister, is secretly in love with Santley, who scarcely notices her. Forrest tells Cecile that if she will pretend great interest in Santley's plans and give him an opportunity of seeing them, he will give her a diamond bracelet. Cecile accordingly phones Santley that she would like to see the plans. He is overjoyed, brings them to her.

While they are looking at them Cecile pretends to faint, and Santley carries her out into the garden. Dorothy meantime has hidden in an alcove adjoining the library and is astonished to see her father come in, gather up the papers and take them to his room. Sensing that her lover is being duped, she enters her father's room and demands the papers. He vainly tries to make her leave. When she sees that her father intends looking at the papers she picks them all up and rushes to the window, which she breaks with her bare hands, calling to Santley.

Santley has become suspicious, and he rushes into the house, followed by Cecile. The papers are scattered over the floor. When Santley reaches down to pick them up he notices that some of them are covered with blood. He then sees that Dorothy's hands are bleeding profusely. The father is all contrition, thinking that he has been the means of causing her to be injured, but Dorothy recovers, and Santley procures the contract, and now realizes that he loves Dorothy, who has risked so much for him.

VICTOR.

BOMBS AND BANKNOTES (Jan. 2).—The cast: Janitor (Wallace Beery); President of Bank (Dana Ong); His Daughter (Gertrude Astor); John J. Villian (Jack Tornick). Written by Harry Wulze. Directed by Wallace Beery).

The Janitor arrives, turns his things over to the Jap valet, puts on overalls and jumper and gets to work.

The President and daughter arrive, the President bawls the Janitor out for not keeping things dusted. The Janitor falls for the girl, but she won't have him until he gets fruit and flowers (from a customer's hat). John J. Villian arrives, demands his money or the banker's daughter. The banker gives him the money, and Villian leaves, but vows to return. The girl and Janitor become quite friendly. That night the girl returns to the bank for a forgotten powder puff. Villian and his confederates also return to rob the bank.

The girl hurries to the vault room to hide. The Janitor hides in the vault and the girl tries to open it, but part of her dress becomes caught in the door. Crooks attack the vault. The girl gets away, calls the police and returns to the bank. The President has in the meantime been caught by the crooks, and he and the girl are both held as prisoners. The Janitor gets out of the vault, finds a keg of powder with a burning fuse, lights a cigarette from the fuse and sits thinking. Villian tries to get away and the powder explodes. The Janitor and Villian are blown through the roof and fall upon the rest of the crooks. The Janitor captures them. The cops arrive and remove their prisoners. Then the Janitor awakens to find himself being beaten by the President and is thrown out of his private office.

HOW TO BE HAPPY, THOUGH MARRIED (Jan. 5).—The cast: Ethel Kenyon (Agnes Vernon); Steve (M. K. Wilson); Ernest (Jay Belasco). Written by Harvey Gates. Produced by F. A. Kelsey.

Since her marriage, Ethel has become very careless about her personal appearance, while Steve, her husband, is fond of dress.

One day Steve telephones that he is bringing Ernest, a former sweetheart of Ethel's, home for dinner. He suggests that she powder her nose, and this piques Ethel. When the two men arrive, Ethel, in a made-over gown, meets them. Ernest is profuse in his compliments and arouses the jealousy of Steve.

The next day, without phoning Ethel, he brings Ernest home again and finds her a forlorn-looking sight. Ernest soon finds an excuse to leave. Ethel is very angry. She goes to the phone, orders three or four gowns and tickets for the opera, then makes Steve take her to supper afterwards, and they ride in a taxi. She looks stunning in her new gown and Steve realizes that "clothes make the woman."

LAEMMLE.

THE FACE ON THE SCREEN (Dec. 30).—Florence, trying to escape fortune hunters, is residing at the seashore, when her maid dies. Florence has pretended to be the maid of this woman and she continues the deception. Her death is cabled to her attorney in New York, who advises her cousin and his wife, who have an adopted son, Harry.

Later Harry meets the girl in her disguise as maid, and both are impressed. In a spirit of mischief Florence applies to his parents for a position and secures it. But when Harry shows his preference for the maid instead of for a rich society girl, she loses her position. They decide to elope.

Harry's funds run low. They secure a chance to act for the movies. The attorney visits the cousins, and is shown a photograph of the maid. He recognizes Flo. After a long search, he at last sees her face on the screen. He visits the studio. Her adventure is over, and she marries the man who loved her for herself alone.

BISON.

BLOOD MONEY (Two Parts—Jan. 6).—The cast: Belle Blaire (Louise Lovely); Cheyenne Harry (Harry Carey); Sam Blaire (Jack Richardson); Dan Beckham (William Gettinger); Bud Cameron (Vester Peggy). Written by Harry Carey. Directed by F. A. Kelsey.

The sheriff, Dan Beckham, and his deputy, Bud Cameron, are posting signs offering a reward for the capture of Cheyenne Harry, accused of holding up a Wells Fargo shipment. Shortly after they have tacked the sign to a tree Cheyenne Harry removes it. He then goes to the camp, enters the saloon, seats himself in the corner and leaves after listening to the sheriff boast of what he will do when he captures Cheyenne Harry. He then mounts his horse; rides into the saloon and compels the men to stack their guns and give up their money.

Encamped near a stream are Belle Blaire and her husband. Sam, who is lazy, forces her to do the work. Pursued by the sheriff, Cheyenne's horse stumbles, and he falls into the stream, while the animal goes on to the Blaire camp, and is found by the sheriff.

Some time later Cheyenne, wounded, comes to the Blaire camp. Sam takes him prisoner and sends Belle to the sheriff, so that they will get the reward. Belle does not wish to do this, but her husband compels her to go. Belle returns with the sheriff and Harry is taken to jail. Sam gets the reward, goes to the saloon and proceeds to gamble and treat every one. A fight ensues and he is killed.

In the meantime, Belle unlocks the jail, allowing Harry to escape. Returning, she discovers her dead husband, and kneeling beside his dead body, finds the money soaked with his blood.

BIG U.

THE FLASH OF DEATH (Dec. 28).—Jack, a drunkard, insults Mary, a school teacher, and is beaten by the superintendent, who falls in love with her. They are married and Jack, in revenge, shoots him in front of his own house. Mary hears the shot and finds her husband wounded. She drags him in and bolts the door, but Jack forces his way into the house, and Mary sends a pet dog to the village with a note. Just as Jack is about to grab Mary, he is struck by lightning and dies as help arrives. Harry recovers.

THE MAD HERMIT (Two parts—Dec. 31).—A battle between settlers and Indians results in a hand-to-hand fight between a scout and a brave. Gray, the scout, loses his memory and wanders away into the mountains, attended by the sister of the Indian he fought, who falls in love with him. Gray's wife, Grace, thinking her husband dead, accepts a proposal from Lieutenant Lloyd.

Miners complain of a madman who throws rocks at them and seems impervious to their shots. The soldiers and miners try to capture him, but fail. On Grace's wedding day she sees the "Mad Hermit," and recognizes him as her husband. She tells him that she will kill him if he interferes with her happiness. She returns home. Gray follows and is confronted by Lloyd. A fight ensues. The squaw, furious with jealousy, sees their shadows on the window shade and shoots. Lloyd, wounded, staggers to Grace, but is pushed aside by Gray, who tenderly lifts the woman and starts away with her.

L-KO.

ON THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PILL (Two Parts—Jan. 3).—The cast: The Janitor (Phil Dunham); the Chinese Beauty (Lucille Hutton); the Mandarin (Vin Moore).

Phil has lost his job as a janitor, and is in

A MOST ACCEPTABLE NEW YEAR'S GIFT
TO YOUR THEATRE MANAGERS
A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO THIS PAPER
START WITH THIS ISSUE
Send Your Remittance Today.

search of another. He wanders into an opium joint, and is given a pipe. He wanders off in imagination to the realms of the Celestial Empire. Here he finds himself in the home of a Mandarin. The Chinks, who guard the great personage, begin to make it hot for Phil, but the most beautiful of all the maidens begs the Mandarin to spare his life. He does so, and makes Phil guardian of the fish pond.

The home of the Mandarin is a magic place, and all sorts of visions keep appearing and disappearing before Phil. The beautiful maiden comes to him as he is engaged in fishing in the pond, and begs him to rescue her from the power of the Mandarin, who holds her captive against her will. He is delighted to help her, and gets an idea. They retire behind opposite sides of the ornamental shrubbery, and throw their clothes out to each other. Then they emerge, Phil as a Chinese maiden and Lucile as a janitor.

The Chinks take charge of the veiled maiden, and take her back to the Mandarin. Lucille is left to assume the duties of the keeper of the fish pond. She has her own ideas as to the way to fish. Phil allows his veil to slip, and the Mandarin discovers the substitution. There is a fight, in which every one becomes involved. At last Phil rolls from the bunk with a terrible thud and realizes that he has had a "pipe dream."

JOKER.

LOVE IN SUSPENSE (Jan. 6).—The cast: Gale (Gale Henry); Her Father (Milburn Morante); Heinie ("Heinie" Conklin); Bill (William Franey); Porter (John Cook). Written by Karl Coolidge. Directed by William Beadine.

The village constable is also proprietor of the only hotel. Heinie is in love with Gale, the constable's daughter, and she returns his love, but the constable does not like Heinie. Bill, a traveling salesman for a fake jewelry house, arrives and dazzles Gale. Heinie proposes to Gale and is accepted. Heinie and Bill fight. Bill licks Heinie and Gale shifts her affections to the victor.

Her father receives word that there is a white slaver around, whose method of carrying country girls to the city is to lock them in a trunk. Seeing Bill asleep on the porch, Heinie slips up behind him and cuts his belt. Bill is busy holding up his pants and cannot fight back.

Gale, in cleaning Bill's room, finds a lot of jewelry. She hears Bill coming and hides in the trunk. Heinie decides to commit suicide and, placing the gun to his head, fires. But the shot hits the horses attached to Bill's wagon and they run away. The trunk, with Gale in it, falls off the wagon, and rolls off down a cliff. It is smashed and Gale gets out. The constable misses his daughter. Hops into a flivver and starts for the depot. Bill misses his trunk and starts back to the hotel for it. Gale tries to pull herself up the cliff. Heinie determines to end his life by hanging and throws a rope over a tree. The end of it goes down the cliff to Gale. Poor Heinie is pulled off the ground, and is saved just in time by Gale. Bill and the father meet and the latter demands his daughter. They come to Heinie and Gale, just as she is accepting him.

UNIVERSAL.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE (No. 4—Jan. 5).—A new mail handling device, by which mail bags can be collected and delivered automatically eight at a time, on the fastest trains. Even eggs can travel in safety when in proper containers.

The modern method dealing with accidents to horses is illustrated next. The special auto ambulance which draws the animal in by electric motor is seen. Then the electric crane which lifts the horse into the operating room. The method of operating, so as to cause the least pain to the animal and the greatest convenience to the surgeon is shown.

The method of making biscuits "just like mother used to make" is illustrated, and the recipe and full directions shown.

The Nature Study is a series of views of the Venus fly-trap, attracting its victim, a fly, by the sweet odor of its deadly leaves, and then closing on the insect, and crushing it.

Animated Sculpture, by Willie Hopkins, entitled "Birds of a Feather," closes the reel. The clay forms of pigeons change to a Dutch man and woman. The landscape, all of clay, changes to suit the scene.

NESTOR.

PRACTICE WHAT YOU PREACH (Jan. 1).—The cast: Paul Clemons (Eddie Lyons); Lucille Clemons (Edith Roberts); Ned Hastings (Harry Nolan). Scenario by Ben Meredyth. Produced by L. W. Chaudet.

Paul Clemons is a matinee idol and cultivates his admirers. One morning his wife, Lucille, unintentionally opens a letter from Mrs. Phil Hargraves to her husband, in which she speaks sentimentally of the previous evening. Lucille has a serious talk with Ned Hastings, an old sweetheart of hers.

Need meets Paul at the club, tells him he is in love with a married woman and that they are sailing for Honolulu at four. Paul thinks it a good joke. He knows Ned is an old sweetheart of his wife's, but gives no thought to the matter.

At three o'clock Paul arrives home, with peace offerings, but finds the house empty. He reads a note from Lucille in which she agrees with him that married persons have the right to live their own lives, and says she is sailing for Honolulu at four.

Paul rushes wildly to the dock. Net introduces him to Mary, who has recently become his wife, and Paul, grabbing Lucille, dashes from the deck of the steamer as the call "All ashore" is heard.

GOLD SEAL.

AN OLD SOLDIER'S ROMANCE (Three Parts—Jan. 2).—The cast: Ezra (William V. Mong); Laura (Nellie Allen); Charles (Charles Borlen); Joe (Harry Holden); Jim Lou Short); Father O'Connell (Mr. Witting); Tim Owens (Wadsworth Harris). Written and produced by William V. Mong.

Ezra, a veteran, is living at the Soldiers' Home, where he is beloved by all, with the possible exception of the cook, who makes life miserable for every one around him. Ezra's penchant is children.

One day he is sent to deliver a message, but in passing through the park he discovers a baby and stops to play with it. He forgets all about the note until he is nearly home. The next day he is called "on the carpet" and expects to be reprimanded for the undelivered note. Instead he is informed that has inherited a large sum of money from a relative.

He takes Joe, one of the soldiers to whom he is specially attached to share his new home, but he is lonesome and unhappy with all the ceremony of the retinue of servants. One day he visits an orphan asylum and brings home seven or eight babies, secreting them in different parts of his room. They are later discovered by the butler. All of the servants leave, and Joe and Ezra attempt to care for the babies themselves.

Joe goes out to buy supplies and encounters a woman. She faints, and, reviving her, he takes her back to the house with her baby. She is received by Ezra, who gives her complete charge of all the babies. She decides to tell Ezra her story. When her baby was born her husband, Charles, was a bank teller and they were happy. Laura developed an illness which required expert care, so Charles raised the amount of a check. When this was discovered he fled. She says he is now hiding in a cave.

Ezra determines to take Laura to the husband. Just as they are exchanging greetings Jim, a detective, who has been following Laura, arrests Charles. In the fly leaf of the Bible which Charles is reading is found an inscription which identifies him as Ezra's son. Through the efforts of the bishop, who has interested Ezra in the orphans, Charles is allowed to go free. Ezra makes up the deficiency.

Mutual Film Corporation

SIGNAL FILM CORP.

THE LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS (Chapter 10—Two Parts—Dec. 25).—Holmes has given his note for $27,000 for the building of his lumber railroad past the station called Shady Creek. The note is payable the 16th of the month, by which time the extension must be finished. He cannot meet the note by that date, and it is his plan not to complete the extension of his road, because to do so would give his timber rivals access to the mills and ruin the market for himself. So Holmes conspires with his crooked foreman, "Big Bill" Behrens, to engineer a strike of the workmen building the extension.

Behrens pays a mining prospector to come into the construction camp with bogus news of a gold strike some miles distant, and he stampedes the men. They become crazed with the "news" and desert their work to get to the place the prospector mentions. It is a crucial situation for the small timber holders, but Helen, with the help of Little Bear, her half-breed Indian friend, saves the day for them.

It happens that a football game is on in Capital City, where the executive offices of Holmes' lumber trust are and where Helen is visiting. In this game Little Bear is playing. He makes a hero of himself and wins the adulation of the spectators. Helen signals him into the grandstand as the game finishes and tells him of the situation in the construction camp. She appeals to him to get one hundred workmen to take the places of those who have quit the construction force to follow the false news of the gold strike.

Little Bear responds to Helen's appeal by recruiting from the crowd in the grandstand one hundred men—his statement to them of the situation stirs their sporting blood. They board a special train for the place where the construction force has been working. An employment agent, in the pay of Holmes, witnesses all this and phones the lumber king, who gets his foreman, Behrens, on the wire and causes him to hire a bunch of dissolute cowboys to hold up the train and prevent the football crowd from taking up the work laid down by the men who deserted to go to the alleged gold field.

The special train is ready and the rescruits are aboard, but there is no engineer. In this emergency Helen springs into the engine cab and throws wide the throttle. The train moves out. Just then one of Holmes' cowboys races alongside the cab, lassoes Helen, and jerks her out of the engine onto his saddle. She fights with him, braces herself against the horse and makes a flying leap back into the cab, where she resumes control of the throttle. The closing of the chapter on the screen shows construction work under way by the football recruits.

VOGUE.

JEALOUS JOLTS (Two Parts—Dec. 31).—The village queen loves Ben, a hay baler. Paddy, a cowboy, loves the girl and is favored by her parents. Ben hides in the doghouse and it is lassoed by Paddy and given a thrilling ride, nearly ending disastrously. He escapes, however, and is pressed into a bale of hay by the cowboy. Gypsy's father steals the hay and Gypsy is starting to feed the horse when she sticks the pitchfork into Ben. The next day Ben is buried alive by Paddy. The girl is tied to the chair by her father, but escapes, and doing so, sets fire to the house. She is pursued by her father and Paddy. Ben, who has escaped and donned a diver's suit, which he has filled with air, causing him to ascend to the cloud, is shot and falls at the girl's feet. The constable comes upon them and later they are married, while Ben is chased by his former wife, a washwoman.

THE LAND OF NOWHERE (Two Parts—Jan. 7).—Rube has a Bowery belle for a sweetheart. He meets another girl and falls in love with her. As a result of the double love affair Rube gets mixed up in a series of complications. After cleaning up the dance hall Rube is hit with a bottle and knocked out. His spirit is seen to leave his body and ascend to a fanciful spot. There are a royal queen, dancing girls, woodnymphs, corpyhees, etc. Rube is welcomed and he proceedes to enjoy himself. After some time Rube awakens and finds himself on an operating table. He wrecks the hospital and is finally subdued by a policeman's club.

GAUMONT.

REEL LIFE (No. 30—Dec. 10).—A complete rearrangement of "Reel Life" subjects brought an almost entirely different set of subjects to the screen December 10 in "Reel Life" No. 32. First in interest perhaps is "Where Benedictine Is Made." The pictures show the abbey at Fecamp, France, where the monks have been making this distinctive cordial since 1510. The various processes are pictured, as well as an array of 600 bottles containing imitations that have been confiscated from time to time. The process of manufacture is a secret.

"Radium, the Most Costly Element," is another interesting subject on this reel. The price of radium has not followed the cost of high living, having decreased 50 per cent. in recent years. It is now only worth $37,000 an ounce. The American method of manufacture from carnotite is shown.

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD (No. 17—Dec. 19).—The splendid work being done on the western front by the French colonial troops from Morocco has drawn so much attention to that North African land that the Gaumont Company sent a cameraman to catch for the screen its most picturesque features, "Life in Morocco" is first shown. The pictures are mainly of life in the interior, showing the arrival of a caravan, the unloading of the camels, a camp of nomads, a covered street, a village fountain, a snake charmer, a juggler, and dancing the tango. There are pretty pictures of Meknes, a town in the interior of Morocco. The palace of the sultan is particularly attractive. There are views of the gate of Bab-el-Mansour built in the XVIII century, and also of a typical street.

The castle of Chantilly consists of the "Small Castle," built in the fifteenth century, and the "Large Castle," built in the thirteenth century. This was destroyed during the revolution, but was reconstructed by the Duc d'Aumale in the middle of the last centry. The castle has been donated to the Institute of France and is now a museum. The various apartments are shown: The hall of hunting trophies, the hall of the guards, the study, the grand salon, the picture gallery and the library.

"By the Blue Mediterranean" pictures the Gulf of St. Tropez, one of the most beautiful that wash the shores of Provence. A tour of the gulf is taken, showing the wonderful pines at Foux, the quaint towns of Ste. Maxime and St. Tropez, and the ancient citadel defending the latter place.

SEE AMERICA FIRST (No. 67—Dec. 20).—By reason of the geographical propinquity the homes of former President Thomas Jefferson and President Woodrow Wilson are shown in this issue, which is called "Picturesque Virginia." It shows historical landmarks of Charlotte, Staunton and Afton, together with some beautiful mountain secenery.

At Charlotte is Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson. There are a number of views which give an excellent idea of the place just as it looked in the days when it was the home of the author of the immortal Declaration of Independence. The monument to him is shown, commemorating his purchase of Louisiana.

In the picture of Augusta County, in which Staunton is located, there are beautiful panoramic peaks in Virginia, and the valley. In Staunton itself the cameraman paid particular attention to the birthplace of Woodrow Wilson. There are also some views of educational institutions and panoramas of the mountains and the valley.

On the same reel is a Gaumont Kartoon Komic by Harry Palmer, entitled "Curfew Shall Not Ring."

THE VAMPIRES (Episode Seven—"The Master of Thunder"—Three Parts—Jan. 4).—The cast: Philip Guard, cub reporter (Edmond Mathe); Normandin (Marcel Levesque); Satanas (Henri Leubas); Irma Vep (Juliet Musidora); Mrs. Guard (Florence Simoni); Venenos (Chas. Moriss).

After Phil Guard and Normandin capture two Vampires, Irma Vep and Moreno, the latter is guillotined and the woman is condemned to life imprisonment. The authorities as well as Philip, good reporter that he was, were lulled into security, thinking the Vampires were now powerless. They did not even know about Satanas, who was now leader of the band. Before her incarceration for life, Irma Vep is sent by the authorities to Algeria to testify regarding a crime committed there.

Before leaving the detention home to board the vessel, she receives comforting information from a priest. The man is really Satanas in disguise. Satanas tells her that once on shipboard she must feign illness and be sent to the infirmary near the stern of the vessel. With his wonderful electric gun Satanas will destrop the ship, the projectile striking near the bow. Thus Irma will have a chance to regain her liberty. Even if she dies, that will be better than a life spent in prison.

The ship is destroyed and Irma Vep is saved. She does not find Satanas, being afraid to disclose her identity in Algeria. She works her way back to Paris, whither Satanas has also returned. The head of the Vampires plans to destroy Philip Guard. The reporter is bound and gagged in his room and left to wait for the explosion of a bomb which will destroy him and those dear to him. Fortunately Normandin arrived, hears the clock-work tick of the infernal machine, and throws it into the garden just in time to save Philip.

Satanas is living as a wealthy man in a new apartment, but the faithful Normandin penetrates his disguise and finds one of the shells for the electric gun. Normandin is accompanied by his son, who enters the apartment upon a pretext. When he thinks he is alone he admits his father. Normandin hides in a chest, a fact known to Satanas, who has been watching through a mask on the wall, which is really a peep-hole from another room.

The boy and Satanas struggle, after the former sees the chest locked and fears that his father is to be smothered. The fight is going in favor of the Vampire, despite his young adversary's revolver, when the door is broken and Philip and the police enter. Satanas is overcome and Normandin is released. He is suffering from a slight wound. His own son has shot him, grazing his big nose!

The Vampires hold a meeting to discuss the capture of their chief. Irma Vep appears for the first time after her return and is loudly welcomed by the band. Venenos, the "man of poisons," takes from his pocket directions Satanas left with him in case he was captured. The request is for a certain letter to be smuggled to him in prison. This is done. Satanas chews the letter into a pulp and drops dead. The paper had been steeped in a deadly poison.

REEL LIFE NO. 36 (Jan. 7).—The recent change in the subject matter of various releases of "Reel Life" brings to the screen in Number 36 several entertaining series of pictures which have previously been announced. First on the reel is "Turpentine from Waste Timber." This shows the method now employed in the South whereby stumps are removed from the ground and shattered by explosives, and the splintered woods forced to give up their turpentine by distillation.

The second section of the reel, "An Argosy from the Arctic," pictures the trophies and spoils brought back from the frozen North by a whaler. There are views of whalebone, an ivory tusk taken from an extinct mammoth that perished ages ago when the far North had a tropical climate, and the method employed by an Eskimo in harpooning a walrus. The ship also brought back a native.

"English Walnuts in the United States" takes the spectator to a large California grove. How the pickers work, how the walnuts are dried and culled, the methods of the packers in testing and grading and sacking are among the interesting processes pictured on the screen.

A fourth section of the reel is a chapter in the Gaumont series entitled "Design Your Own Gown." These pictures are for women who plan their own costumes, and have proved deservedly popular.

TOURS AROUND THE WORLD, NO. 10 (Jan. 9).—This reel takes spectators through the foothills of the Pyrenees, to Budapest, Hungary, and to see the life of the natives in Egypt. The Pyrenees are extremely picturesque. There are deep gorges not more than eight or ten feet wide, dashing cataracts, and rugged valleys. Especially pleasing is the picture of the Hourat gorges, through which rushes the Ossau river. Then at Laruns the Ossau comes out of its troubled mountain bed to become a peaceful river.

Budapest, situated on both banks of the Danube river, is the largest city of the Kingdom of Hungary. In addition to a general view of the city there is a picture of the celebrated Elizabeth Suspension bridge, a good view of the river boats, and pictures of the houses of Parliament.

Life in Egypt pictures the Procession of the Sacred Carpet, taken every year to Mecca and returned to its Mosque at Cairo with stately ceremonies, the Khedive taking part. Other pictures show native soldiers, women transporting water from the Nile, an Arabian cafe, an Egyption market place, and the primitive methods of agriculture and irrigation still practiced.

SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 70 (Jan. 10).—First comes a general view of the historic town of Lexington, Va., then a picture of the North river, a tributary of the James. The whole nation knows of the Washington and Lee University, that celebrated institution of learning established here as Augusta Academy in 1743. When Robert E. Lee was its president it was known as Washington College, and at his death the name of the South's greatest hero was added. There is a picture of the university, as well as of the Lee Memorial Chapel, the Westminster Abbey of the Confederacy, where the great leader of the lost cause lies buried.

There are also pictures of the home of "Stonewall" Jackson, of the monument to this military genius, of the Washington statue given by the state to the Virginia Military Institute, and of this school, known as the West Point of the South. The ruins of Liberty Hall, the school of the patriotic Scotch-Irish destroyed by fire in 1803, stands as a memorial of the love of learning of the citizens of a century and more ago.

Near Lexington is the famous Natural Bridge. It is shown in this release. This span of earth ranks as one of the wonders of the world. It is 215 feet high, 100 feet in width, and has a span of 90 feet. Other beauties of nature, including Lost River, the stream that runs under a mountain, are also shown.

On the same reel Harry Palmer has an animated whimsicality called "The Gourmand." This Gaumont Kartoon Komic describes in humorous fashion the antics of a man who believes in high living.

MUTUAL.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 103 (Dec. 20).

London, England.—King George reviews troops. New battalion departs for the front.

New York City.—City's adult blind receive semi-annual allowance. Commissioner of Charities Kingsbury will change method of distribution, the blind hereafter receiving check by mail.

Salonica, Greece.—Colonel Christidonlon, hero of Cavalla, lands his troops here.

Paris, France.—New styles projected in colors. Paquin's dresses and mantles shown in the Truffault Rosegardens.

Barnegat, N. J.—Army transport Sumner on reef. All on board saved.

London, England.—The Lord Mayor's Show—1916. Subtitle: New Lord Mayor, Sir William Dunn.

Washington, D. C.—Bryan lunches at White House.

Paris, France.—A new tractor cultivator; it loosens the dirt more thoroughly than the old-style plow.

New York City.—Seven hundred hike from City College to Yonkers. Health Department commemorates "Walk-to-Work" week.

Washington, D. C.—Defense Council meets. With Civilian Commission they outline definite plan of procedure.

New York City.—Hotel Baltimore ice gardens open. Correct skating costumes are worn by girls from the Hippodrome Ice Ballet. Miss Daisy De Witt of the Midnight Frolic wearing a Palm Beach costume.

Sacramento, Cal.—Work starts on $10,000,000 canal. Governor Johnson drives first survey stake for channel which will connect State capital with Suisun bay.

Ascot Park, Cal.—Drivers dare death on speedway. Rickenbacher wins championship sweepstakes race.

Havre, France.—The British steamer Strathalbyn strikes a mine and goes down in eight minutes.

A wreck on the Irish coast.

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY.

GRIMESY THE BELL HOP (Dec. 30).—Grimesy is a bell hop in a small country hotel. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" troupe came and Grimesy fell in love wiht the inegenue, Little Eva, and did everything to make her stay in the hotel. The first night's performance was unsuccessful and the manager decided to jump the hotel bill. He demanded that Little Eva give him all of her money. Grimesy heard of the scheme and hid in one of the trunks. When the trunk arrived at the station Grimesy jumped out and forced the manager to give Eva her money back, and just before boarding the train Eve kissed Grimesy.

Miscellaneous Subjects

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

THE RIGHT TO BE HAPPY (Five Parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: Ebenezer Scrooge (Rupert Julian); Bob Cratchit (John Cook); Mrs. Cratchit (Claire McDowell); Tiny Tim (Francis Lee); Jacob Marley (Harry Carter); Fred, Scrooge's nephew (Emory Johnson); Caroline (Roberta Wilson); Scroge's sweetheart (Francelia Billington). Scenario written by E. J. Clawson. Directed by Rupert Julian.

Scrooge was a "grouch," the greatest the world of literature has ever known. His former partner, Jacob Marley, had been dead more than seven years when the eventful Christmas Eve. closed in on London. So imbued had Scrooge become with greed for money that his world, his sun, moon and stars were represented in bank notes and the securities he dealt in. He had not given Marley a thought since the day he buried him—and Scrooge celebrated that day by driving the best of business bargains. On this Christmas Eve Bob Cratchit, his faithful clerk, had been sent home with a gruff word instead of a "Merry Christmas" and had been told because he was to have the day off he must come to work extra early on the following morning.

Scrooge's nephew had made his accustomed call to ask the old "grouch" to dine with him; and Scrooge had been his usual surly self in refusing. Kind-hearted collectors for charity had called, and Scrooge had turned them away with a snarl. There was no Christmas spirit, so far as Scrooge was concerned—and in his accustomed mood of "grouchings" he ate his lonely meal and went to his lodgings, embittered,

Theatre Owners

A Profitable New Year's Gift
For Your Manager is a
SUBSCRIPTION TO THIS PAPER
Start Now—With the First Issue.

morose and decidedly "anti-Christmas" in spirits.

In lodgings so cold that anybody but Scrooge would freeze, the old "grouch" prepared to spend the night. He was so miserly that he would not burn coal or use candles to dispel the gloom. Outside the cold was growing more intense; the merry voices of young and old picking up Christmas cheer and passing glad tidings in friendly salutations, grated on Scrooge's ears and made him hate more bitterly the world and everybody in it.

Suddenly Scrooge is aroused by the clanking of chains and footfalls on the stairs, and before he realized what was transpiring the ghost of Jacob Marley was standing at Scrooge's elbow. The subsequent events transpired through the visits of three ghostly messengers—Christmas Past, Christmas Present and Christmas Future.

These apparitions led Scrooge through his childhood, youth and manhood; recalled in vivid reality the varying phases of his career, and Christmas Future shows him what he may expect, under conditions that involve his change of heart and attitude toward mankind.

When Scrooge awakens we see his change of heart, exemplified in wondrous ways; behold him as the kindly man, bubbling over with the Christmas spirit; see him transfigured, a lovable and kindly old man, solely bent upon making up in charitable and humane deeds for the wasted years of his ill-spent life.

BLACK ORCHIDS (Five Parts—Jan. 1).—The cast: Marie De Severac (Cleo Madison); Emile De Severac (Richard La Reno); George Renoir (Francis McDonald); Zoraida (Cleo Madison); Marquis de Chantal (Wedgewood Nowell); Sebastian De Maupin (Howard Crampton); Ivan De Maupin (Francis McDonald); Proprietor of L'Hibour Blanc (William J. Dyer).

Marie, the daughter of Emile De Severac, a novelist, is home from the convent. She is betrothed to George Renoir, an artist friend of her father, who is devotedly in love with her. Marie has suddenly developed flirtatious symptoms and to warn and guard her against the trouble she is likely to create for herself and others, unless she ceases her folly, De Severac tells her the plot of his unpublished story, "Black Orchids."

Zoraida is a sorceress whose only aim in life seems to be the entanglement of men in her meshes. Sebastian De Maupin is envious of his son Ivan, who is temporarily in Zoraida's favor, and to get rid of the youthful lover the father uses his influence to have his boy sent to the front line of battle in the war then raging.

Sebastian De Maupin, thinking himself now in sole possession of Zoraida's affections, introduces her to Marquis De Chantal, a rich and handsome nobleman, upon whom Zoraida turns her attentions. Enraged because Zoraida seems to have abandoned him, De Maupin arranged a dinner at which he plans to poison De Chantal and be thus rid of his rival. Zoraida changes the cups and De Maupin drinks the poisoned brew, dying instantly.

Ivan now comes home from war, wounded in body, but still fired in his heart with love for Zoraida. The wretch quickly turns her affections again toward Ivan, creating jealousy in De Chantal's heart, and a duel results. Ivan inflicts what is believed to be a fatal wound upon De Maupin and goes with Zoraida to an estate De Chantal has bequeated to her in a will he made when the count was basking in the woman's favor.

De Chantal is indeed fatally wounded, but lives long enough to avenge himself upon the fickle Zoraida and her youthful lover. In the castle De Chantal he has willed to Zoraida is an air-tight vault and there the count causes the woman and her lover to be entrapped, where they must die of suffocation, while De Chantal at last expires of his wound, upon the doorsill of the living tomb of Zoraida and Ivan.

When Emile De Severac has finished the narrative, his daughter, Marie, is penitent and remorseful, because she has given her sweetheart pain, and the once fickle and flirtatious girl lives now with her eyes open to the danger of her folly.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

VANITY (Popular Plays & Players—Five Parts—Jan. 1).—The cast: Phyllis Lord (Emily Whelen); James Burke (Tom O'Keefe); Robert Armstrong (Edward Martindell); Dick Armstrong (Paul Gordon); lieutenant of police (W. W. Black); Tom Mason (J. W. Hartman); Bessie Allen (Esther Evans); Crandell (Norman Kaiser); butler (Tom Cameron); Mrs. Scott (Dixie Marshall); Martel (Emile Agoust). Scenario written by Wallace C. Clifton. Directed by John B. O'Brien.

Robert Armstrong, falsely accused of a murder committed thirty years ago in a western gambling hall, faces the alternative of imprisonment or paying blackmail. A letter from Tom Mason, formerly a miner, prepares him for a visit, at which time he must make his choice. Armstrong confides in his son, Dick, assuring him that the murder was committed by Mason, who used trickery to make it seem that he (Armstrong) was the culprit. Dick broods over the injustice to his father, and Armstrong cannot conceal his nervousness.

The visitor comes and makes his demands. Armstrong grapples with him as the lights are turned off. Suddenly there is a shot, and when the lights are turned on again Mason is lying dead on the floor. Fearing the servants will enter, Dick drags the body through a window to the grounds outside, takes Mason's pistol out of his pocket, fires a shot into the body and places the weapon in the dead man's hand. Dick returns to the house and a policeman hurries to the scene.

Dick thinks he has covered up his tracks, but Burke, chief of detectives finds the other bullet in the body and has no difficulty in connecting the murder with the Armstrong family. He does not succeed in getting a confession from either father or son, and decides to resort to strategy.

Phyllis Lord is a model in Martel's establishment for women's apparel. The discrepancy between the gowns she wears to display to customers and her own modest raiment eats into the girl's consciousness. Then, too, she is befriending Bessie Allen, a young wife who has been deserted by her husband, and finds herself unable to help Bessie as she would like. A wealthy woman who is buying gowns boasts of having won five hundred dollars at Crandell's, a fashionable gambling resort, on a five-dollar wager. Phyllis obtains a card of admission to Crandell's, without permission borrows one of Martel's gowns, and visits the gambling house. She loses the money she has brought and fifty dollars more which Crandell loans her.

Burke, who has been watching the girl, has Phyllis dismissed from Martel's, making it appear that she has stolen money, and she is placed in such a position that she is obliged to accept Burke's offer to help him with a case. She consents to get a confession from Dick Armstrong. She is installed in a handsome apartment and given beautiful clothes. Bessie Allen, who is ill, is taken to a hospital.

Burke puts a dictaphone into Phyllis's apartment. The pre-arranged courtship progresses favorably. Dick finds the trick Phyllis has played and denounces her. Phyllis is heartbroken, and anxious to atone for what she has done. She goes to Dick's father, and Armstrong, greatly agitated, w rites a confession saying that he alone shot Mason. At police headquarters Dick is put through the third degree, and finally he gasps, "I did it."

Phyllis, in the next room, hears him, and rushes in with Armstrong's confession. Burke's lieutenant makes out a warrant for his arrest. Phyllis goes home, exhausted, when a messenger brings a letter from Bessie, written just before her death. The letter encloses her marriage certificate, and photograph of the husband who deserted her. Phyllis rushes to the minister who performed the ceremony, and takes him to Burke's office. It is Burke who is Bessie's husband, and as he has illegally married another woman, Phyllis threatens him with arrest on a charge of bigamy. She offers to exchange her documents for Armstrong's confession, and Burke accepts. Then Phyllis falls sobbing into a chair, holding out her hands in supplication to Dick.

THE GREAT SECRET (Serial Producing Co.—Jan. 1).—The cast: William Montgomery Strong (Francis X. Bushman); Beverly Clarke (Beverly Bayne); The Great Master (Fred R. Stanton); Dr. Zulph (Edward Connelly); "Bull" Whalen (Thomas Blake); Jane Warren (Helen Dunbar); Mrs. Matilda Clarke (Sue Balfour); Sara Loring (Belle Bruce); Eunice Morton (Dorothy Haydel); Thomas Clarke (W. J. Butler); The Spider (Charles Ripley); The Rat (Art Ortego); The Shadow (Tammany Young); Wee See (Charles Fang); Hadji Mahal, East Indian servant (Baron Wenther). Written and directed by Wm. Christy Cabanne.

Summary of Chapter 1 (Prologue).—The Secret Seven is a band of wealthy conspirators dominated by a super-criminal called The Great Master. Thomas Clarke, a member of The Secret Seven, desperately ill, decides to leave his millions to his niece, Beverly Clarke, and sends for her. She is kidnapped by hirelings of Dr. Zulph, one of The Secret Seven, who plots with Jane Warren, Clarke's housekeeper, to kill him. William Montgomery Strong, wealthy clubman, comes upon the kidnappers, disarms one and holds the others at bay.

THE CASKET OF TAINTED TREASURE (Chapter 2).—While Strong stands between the gangsters and Beverly, she runs toward a roadway, pursued by one of them. He overtakes her as she falls exhausted on a railroad track, directly in front of an approaching train, and rescues her just a second before the train passes. He then revives Beverly, who shows him the message from her uncle and he takes her to Clarke's house, where the old millionaire

A Paying Business or Good Entertainment
A valuable new book describing in simple detail, methods and machines for taking and projecting moving pictures. Full descriptions of mechanisms and operations. How to take, develop, print, clean, repair parts of all films; operate projector; put out film fires; manage exhibitions, etc. etc.
How to Make and Operate Moving Pictures
Cloth, $1.00; by mail, $1.12.
Funk & Wagnalls Company, Dept. 898, New York

AMERICAN STANDARD MOTION PICTURE MACHINE
DURABLE
110 W. 40TH STREET, NEW YORK

Dependable Terminals
at a reasonable price. At your exchange—or write the manufacturers.
Bell & Howell Co.
1801 Larchmont Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Developing and Printing
Fireproof Laboratory
SUPERIOR FILMS COMPANY
ROBERT A. BRACKETT, Manager
Entire 10th Floor
643 Olive Street, Los Angeles

Expert Cameraman Furnished
CINEMA CAMERA CLUB
1006 Times Bldg. Phone: 6558 Bryant

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE
MACHINES
SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS
All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.
"The Exhibitors Mail Order House"
HOMMEL'S
947 PENN AVE. PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe
The Kinematograph Weekly
The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—
The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd.
9-11 Tottenham Street, London, W., Eng.

discloses a secret passageway in which is a vault containing a casket filled with the millionaire's tainted treasure.

Clarke tells Strong and Beverly he has a weak heart and is near death and asks the clubman to take care of his niece. The butler announces that Zulph is at the door. Strong and Beverly depart by the secret passageway and go to the girl's home, where she introduces her rescuer to her mother. Strong is beginning to tire of his role as hero. He offers the casket to Beverly, but she insists that he keep it until she can put it in a safe deposit vault, and he consents, going to his apartment where he telephones to Eunice Morton, his fiancee, and arranges to bring her and her mother to his room that evening to look over plans for a home he is to build.

Meantime Dr. Zulph, finding that Jane Warren has taken one drop of the deadly potion, instead of administering the fatal two to Clarke, revives her and threatens to torture Clarke unless he signs the will. The old man collapses with fright and Zulph pronounces him dead. The physician then searches for the casket, realizes Beverly has it, and sends the kidnappers to her home.

She flees from them and is pursued to Strong's apartment, where they lock her in a closet and bide just as Strong, Mrs. Morton and Eunice enter. Beverly cries for help and Strong opens the closet door. Seeing a beautiful girl bidden in the apartment, Mrs. Morton tells Strong explanations would be impossible as well as painful and departs with her daughter.

Strong, in a rage at Beverly, accuses her of having staged the whole kidnapping scene to compromise him and intimates that it is a blackmailing plot. He orders her out of the place. After her departure the gangsters, in search of the casket, attack Strong. One of them blackjacks him and he falls into their arms.

FOX FILM CORP.

THE ISLAND OF DESIRE (Five parts—Jan. 1).—The tale is that of a curious expedition to a pearl lagoon off the South Sea Islands in search of untold treasures. The members of the party are a newspaper reporter, a degenerate Australian, who is literally seeped in gin, and a cunning Chinese, who supplies the money to fit out the vessel.

When they arrive at the island, they find only a girl, Lelia, who was shipwrecked with her father long before. Lelia is so glad to see white men again that she eagerly shows them a bag of beautiful pearls brough up from the ocean bed by her father, who disappeared shortly afterward.

The pearls are so tempting to the Australian and the Chinese that they form a combination against Lelia and the reporter, Bruce Chalmers, when the latter refuses to aid them in robbing the girl. The struggle which follows for the possession of the pearls and the lagoon is very realistic.

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE.

INTERNATIONAL SPLIT REEL (Dec. 25).—"Krazy Kat Takes Little Katrina Out for an Airing." Animated cartoon comedy by George W. Herriman.

"The Home of the Oyster." A pictorial study of the oyster industry, showing the capturing and preparing of this shellfish for the market.

PATRIA (Episode 1, "The Last of the Fighting Channings"—Three Parts—Jan. 1).—The cast: Patria (Mrs. Vernon Castle); Donald Parr (Milton Sills); Baron Huroki (Warner Oland); Rodney Wrenn (Allan Murnane).

Patria Channing, an orphan, heiress to an immense fortune and the largest munition works in America, is about to celebrate her coming of age. The story opens at Newport, where she is visiting her friend and chaperone, Mrs. Wrenn, whose, son, Rodney, has proposed marriage, which Patria considers seriously until she meets Captain Parr, formerly of the U. S. Army, but now doing secret service work for the government, and they fall in love with each other.

Captain Parr is in Newport to take note of the activities of Baron Huroki, chief of the Japanese Secret Service, and Senor Juan de Lima, of Mexico, who are together plotting against the peace of the United States. They are trying to put through a contract with Channing's for an immense supply of munitions which are to be shipped secretly to Mexico, but are blocked by the Channing policy of not furnishing the sinews of war to those who conspire against the country's peace. Parr intercepts Huroki's message to his agent in New York directing them to probe the private life of Peter Ripley, the principal trustee of the Channing estate, and causes a warning to be sent to Ripley.

The scenes change to the library of the old-fashioned Channing mansion in New York where Peter Ripley lives. It is the eve of Patria's birthday and he writes to inform her of a sacred trust that now devolves upon her, the bequest of her forefathers. The warning from Parr is received, but before Ripley can act Japanese spies gain access to the Channing mansion. He puts the letter to Patria in his pocket and crosses the room to the fireplace over which there is carved "Pro Patria Nobis." He pushes in the letters of the word "Patria," and the back of the fireplaces slides to one side, revealing a secret stairway. Ripley goes down the stairway to the door of the vault, which he is about to open when he is surprised by one of the Japanese spies, who has followed him. He shoots the spy, but not until he is seriously wounded himself, crawls up the stairs from the vault and closes the secret opening. He phones to Patria at Newport and while telling her what has happened, a second Japanese spy interrupts him and the pistol shots exchanged between them alarms Patria at the other end of the wire.

Patria has been enjoying herself at the birthday party given for her by Mrs. Wrenn. She confides in Captain Parr, who volunteers to get her to the midnight train in his motor launch, the ferryboat having made its last trip. Their plan is overhead by Huroki, who urges De Lima to prevent it by carrying Patria off and keeping her all night, thereby forcing her into marriage with him, and thus gain control of the Channing munition plant in the interests of both Mexico and Japan. De Lima consents, and together with the aid of Kato, Huroki's subordinate, they get to Parr's motor launch ahead of him and connect the ignition wires with the gasoline tank.

De Lima takes possession of another motor launch and awaits developments while Huroki hurries to catch the train. When Parr with Patria attempts to start his launch, there is an explosion and both are in danger when De Lima comes to the rescue. He takes Patria into his boat but pushes off before Parr can get aboard. Patria draws a revolver and threatens the Mexican. He is so astounded that he falls overboard, and Patria leaving him steers the launch back to the rescue of Captain Parr.

In De Lima's launch they race for the train which they catch in the nick of time. But Huroki and his faithful Kato concoct new villiany. They attempt to wreck the train and almost succeed, but Captain Parr saves Patria from death and they reach New York unharmed.

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.

HIS MODEL WIFE (Jan. 1).—The cast: Mr. Newlywed (Harry Ham); Mrs. Newlywed (Billie Rhodes); The Artist (Neal Burns); Henry Snoop (Eddie Barry); The Model (Lillian Marshall).

Henri de Brush wins a prize with his painting from the nude. Mr. and Mrs. Newlywed, happy though married, are at the exhibition with Mr. Snoop, their legal adviser and friend—perhaps. Mrs. Newlywed is so struck with the painting that she arranges to meet the artist, though Snoop tries to prevent the introduction. De Brush asks her to call at the studio. This makes hubby take notice and he tells Henri that his wife does not visit studios. Newlywed's interference and lack of trust makes his wife angry and, at home, she vows to go if she pleases.

Next day hubby is at the office and wifey does go to the studio, finding Henri beginning another masterpiece of undrapedness. The model is out for a few moments. Henri tells Mrs Newlywed to come back in an hour, as he will have the picture then outlined. But Snoop sees Mrs. Newlywed leave and he goes up. De Brush says the model has gone out for a moment. This is enough for Snoop, who rushes to the office and tells Newlywed his wife is posing in the nude.

Grabbing a gun, they rush to the studio. The model has returned, and through the keyhole Snoop sees her form but not her face. The model takes refuge in the dressing room as Newlywed breaks down the door and begins a

THE Automatic TICKET-SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF
AUTOMATICKET MACHINES
and all kinds of Theatre Tickets
USED UNIVERSALLY
1735 BROADWAY N. Y. CITY

TANKS and RACKS
that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Cal.

STAR CARBONS
Jones & Cammack
Sole Distributors for the U. S.
Corner Bridge and Whitehall Sts., New York

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF Poster and Lobby
Display Frames
304-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone: Bryant 6621-22

Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.
AFFILIATIONS
Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England
MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

Are You Tired
of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The Orpheum Collection
contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:
No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.
Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.
CLARENCE E. SINN
1103 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

HIGHEST GRADE
Developing and Printing
FILM TITLES
We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1628, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone: Randolph 6691

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

furious chase after Henri that takes them over rooftops and back to the studio, as the model comes in and reveals Snoop's hastiness and the trouble he has caused. Mrs. Newlywed comes and makes it hot for Snoop for suspecting her. Hubby forgives wifey, and vice versa, and they go home, leaving De Brush to make a wreck of Snoop.

WORLD PICTURES.

A WOMAN ALONE (Five Parts—Jan. 1).—The cast: Nellie Waldron (Alice Brady); Tom Blaine (Edward T. Langford); Rufus Waldron (Edward M. Kimball); Samantha (Justine Cutting); Stephen Carter, Jr. (Arthur Ashley); Stephen Carter, Sr. (J. Clarence Harvey); Michael Flynn (Walter D. Greene). Written by Francis Marion. Directed by Harry Davenport.

Nellie Waldron, a light-hearted young girl, living on a prosperous farm with a kindly uncle and aunt, becomes engaged to Tom Blaine, a telegraph operator. Blaine is transferred to a little wayside station, far removed from all other habitation, and before going persuades Nellie to marry him.

At first, love for her husband absorbs Nellie's whole thought, but gradually the intense loneliness at the deserted post begins to pall on her and she longs for companionship and her old home.

She meets Stephen Carter, Jr., a wealthy idler, traveling about with his father. During his enforced stop at the little station, Carter amuses himself by flirting with Nellie and finds her an eager listener to his stories of life in the "big city." However, when he tries to persuade her to go with him she refuses.

After his departure, Nellie is more lonely and dissatisfied than ever. Tom, who is perfectly contented, cannot understand her attitude, and resents her longing for other companionship. He upbraids her for complaining and hot words are spoken. Tom arrogantly tells her if she does not like the life, she may return home and remain there.

Heartbroken, Nellie goes back to her uncle's house. Stephen again meets her and tries to induce her to go to the city with him. While he is pleading with her, John, who has somewhat repented his hasty action, enters—his suspicions, previously aroused by a note Stephen had written to Nellie, are confirmed when he sees the two together. Denouncing Nellie, he tells her he is through with her and she may go with Stephen.

Cast out by her aunt, Nellie leaves for the city to strive to forget her unhappiness. She struggles, but without success. One day she is knocked over by an auto driven by Flynn, who she had known at the Wayside station. Through Flynn, Stephen is informed of her whereabouts and, unknown to her, he secures a position for her and gradually gets her into his debt.

Unhappy among her uncongenial associates, Nellie realizes that life surrounded by gayety and people can be equally as lonely as life at a deserted wayside station. Longing for John, she writes, begging forgiveness, and hinting at a great secret.

Stephen, feeling that he has waited long enough, reveals the truth of her position to Nellie and demands payment for his favors. While she struggles against his advances, the door is opened and John rushes in. Stephen is thrown out, and husband and wife realize that love is the only thing in the world.

DIXIE FILM CORP.

JUST A SONG AT TWILIGHT (Five Parts—December).—The cast: Lucy Winter and Lucy Lee, her mother (Evelyn Greeley); Carlyle Turner (Pedro de Cordoba); George Turner, his son (Richard Barthelmess); Stephen Winter, Lucy's father (Charles Wellesley); Mrs. Lee, Lucy's mother (Nellie Grant); John Mallory, a fake oil land promoter (Frank Lyons). Directed by Carlton S. King.

Lucy Winter, raised in the lap of luxury, has reluctantly accepted the suitor of her father's choice. George Turner, whose aunt has recently died, leaving him a necklace of peculiar antique beauty, has decided to search for his father, whom he has always believed dead. Passing a beautiful old southern mansion, which somehow seems strangely familiar, he sees a sign, "Gardener Wanted," applies for the position and is accepted by the girl Lucy, with whom he falls in love, to the chagrin of her banker father, who orders him to leave, after recognizing the necklace which the boy has given Lucy in lieu of an engagement ring.

During a troubled sleep Father Time leads Winter's conscience to review his past. This extends over eighteen years, during which we see Winter installed as gardener at the Turner mansion. He becomes the pal of his master, Carlyle. They both love the same girl, Lucy Lee, who elopes with Winter. Their married life is one continued struggle. Previously Turner has given the antique necklace to Lucy as a wedding gift. This she later places in Carlyle's hands as security for one of the loans he made to her in their struggle against poverty. She has led her husband to believe the money came from her mother, but he knew the truth, and accepted Carlyle's friendship, planning his ruin at the same time.

Through the loss of Lucy's love, Turner passes many restless nights, eventually resorting to morphine, which finally masters him. Winter rises to the position of bank cashier, forecloses a mortgage on the Turner mansion, ousts Carlyle as bank president, and becomes president himself. Turner has been wrongly convicted of murder and sent to prison for life. Lucy, realizing the despisable character of Winter—and really in love with Carlyle—dies of a broken heart.

We see Father Time leading Winter's conscience back into his body, and he wakes, calling "Lucy! Lucy!" George Turner arrives at the house and reads a number of letters, including one from his father, accusing Stephen Winter of being the cause of his troubles. He determines on revenge and hastens to the Winter mansion. Pity takes the place of anger at sight of Winter, and the old man tells George how it happened, giving his promise that he will secure his father's pardon. Soon George is able to bring his father from prison to the Winter Mansion. Winter tries to make amends to Carlyle, and the two leave the room arm in arm and the children give each other the previous promise, "I will."

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

MY OFFICIAL WIFE (Five Parts—December).—The cast: Helene Marie (Clara Kimball Young); Sacha Weletsky (Earle Williams); Arthur Lenox (Harry T. Morey); his wife (Rose E. Tapley); Marguerite Lenox (Mary Anderson); Basile Weletsky (Arthur Cozine); Constantine Weletsky (Charles Wellesley); Olga his wife (Louise Beaudet); Baron Friederich (L. Roger Lyton); Eugenie (Eulalie Jensen). Directed by James Young.

The marriage of Marguerite Lenox to a wealthy Russian, and her subsequent widowhood, occasions a trip to Russia by her father, Arthur Bainbridge Lenox. He is a handsome man in the early forties. The noble Weletsky family, into whom his daughter has married, have never seen either Lenox or his wife; but desire Lenox's co-operation in the settlement of his daughter's estates. The summons comes while they are in Paris. A passport for two, man and wife, is secured. But Mrs. Lenox is of delicate health and decides to let her husband take the journey alone.

The Nihilist, "Helen Marie," is also preparing a trip to Russia. Of unknown identity, her activities are yet notorious, and the police of Russia are warned. Knowledge of the passport is brought to her by a young Nihilist girl employed in Mrs. Lenox's services. Helene Marie has a just cause against the Russian aristocracy. When hardly more than a child, she saw her family butchered in cold blood.

She carries through a ruse whereby Lenox permits her to cross the Russian frontier as his wife. Her charm begins to work upon his susceptible nature. The pair are continually brought into contact with personages and officials dangerous to Helene Marie. Finally, at the hotel in St. Petersburg she reveals her identity to Lenox and dares him to betray her secret. She charms the rich aristocratic Weletskys and Sacha Weletsky falls in love with her.

The strain on Lenox induces him to resort to a drug for sleep. He forestalls his daughter's contemplated journey to Petersburg (from the Russian provinces) and attempts to take "his official wife" back to western Europe. Her work in Russia has been completed. She would gladly go—but the Weletskys beg her to remain and attend a ball. She learns the Czar is to be in attendance. It is her one chance to become the Joan of Arc of the Nihilists.

She refuses to go back with Lenox. Lenox therefore purposely misses the train. He re-

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.
1465 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"
DAYS OF '49
A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels
Grafton Publishing Film Company
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING.

Minusa Gold Fibre Screens; Sanozone, the perfect deodorant; Power, Simplex and Baird Machines; Motor Generator Sets and General Supplies.
LEWIS M. SWAAB
1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

For Perfect Laboratory Results
INSTALL
CORCORAN TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET NEW YORK CITY

A Seeburg Pipe Organ
will solve your music problems.
J. P. SEEBURG PIANO CO.
Republic Building, Chicago

STUDIO
For sale on easy terms or for rent
at reasonable price
SPLENDIDLY LOCATED, with full equipment of lights, modern dressing rooms, paint dock, carpenter shop, prop rooms, etc., all steam heated.
During the year past Wm. Fox produced the following features at this studio: "A Fool's Revenge," "The Siren," "Slander," "Tortured Heart," "The Straight Way," "Jealousy," "The Vixen."
For full particulars address
KALEM COMPANY
235 W. 23rd Street, New York City

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS
PRICES
Five Thousand $1.25
Ten Thousand 2.50
Fifteen Thousand 3.75
Twenty-five Thousand 5.50
Fifty Thousand 7.50
One Hundred Thousand 10.00
Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, $.000 $1.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets $.000 to $5,000 fifteen cents per thousand, $0,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.
NATIONAL TICKET CO.
Shamokin, Pa.

turns to the hotel—finds his "official wife" being wooed by Sacha. But he accompanies her to the ball. During the evening his hand touches the pistol in the folds of her gown. He realizes her object is the Czar's assassination. He averts this tragedy by a sleeping potion which he gives to Helen Marie in a glass of punch. She collapses and he carries her home.

Meanwhile the secret service has sent a telegram to the real Mrs. Lenox in Paris which brings her to Russia. Lenox's secret is, however, protected by the police, because of his saving the life of the Czar. Helene Marie induces Sacha to elope with her in his yacht, which is fired upon from the forts and Helene reveals her identity. The young man renounces rank for love of her, but his yacht is sunk by the imperial guns.

INDISCRETION (Five Parts—Jan. 15).—The cast: Penelope Holloway (Lillian Walker); Jimmy Travers (Walter McGrail); Marcellus Holloway (Richard Wangemann); Mrs. Travers (Mrs. West); Margery Travers (Katharine Lewis); Reginald Rivers (Thomas R. Mills); Mrs. Rivers (Josephine Earle); Doctor McIntosh (Thomas Brooke); Harrigan (Robert Gaillard). Directed by Wilfred North.

Marcellus Holloway, a rich widower, buries himself among his books and allows his only daughter, Penelope, to bring herself up. At the age of eighteen she was courageous and self-reliant, also self-willed and independent, with a disregard for the restraints of convention. She causes gossip by fishing on Sunday and galloping wildly about on her colt.

An old friend, Mrs. Travers, and her son, Jimmy, visit them. Jimmy and Penelope become friendly. Mrs. Travers induces the father to allow Penelope to enter a fashionable boarding school with her daughter, Marjorie. At the school Penelope's behavior is not as dignified as it should be.

Her father dies and Penelope refuses to see her friends or return to school. Jimmy finally persuades her to come and make his mother a visit. She goes and at a party in her honor meets Mr. and Mrs. Rivers and enjoys Rivers' company, causing his wife much anger. At the golf club she continues flirting and Jimmy remonstrates with her without success. Mrs. Rivers puts detectives on her husband's trail and they follow Rivers and Penelope to a roadhouse. On the way Jimmy joins them. They arrive just as Rivers is beginning to show his real self to Penelope and she faints. The detectives take Rivers away, while Jimmy goes to Penelope. Mrs. Rivers starts a divorce suit, naming Penelope as a corespondent. Penelope goes to Mrs. Rivers and pleads with her. Mrs. Rivers sees she is innocent and returns with her to the Travers' home, where Jimmy takes her into his arms.

SELZNICK PICTURES.

THE FOOLISH VIRGIN (Five Parts—December).—The cast includes Clara Kimball Young, Catherine Proctor, Sheridan Tansey, William Welsh, Conway Tearle, Marie Lines, Agnes Mapes, Edward Elkas and little Jacqueline Morhaye. Directed by Albert Capellani.

Mary Adams, a young school teacher, when not engaged in her work, dreams of the days when the world was peopled by knights and beautiful ladies in distress. She is so imbued with the spirit of romance that when a strange young man rescues her from a street ruffian she idolizes her hero, picturing him as a regular Sir Galahad. Mary's rescuer is Jim Anthony, a mechanician with inventive talents. His invention is stolen and, embittered by the experience, Jim becomes a burglar. Mary, knowing nothing of this, falls in love with and marries him.

Anthony is a product of the slums and in his wanderings has lost track of his mother. Learning that she is living in the mountains of Carolina, Jim persuades Mary to go with him to visit her. He takes with him a bag of jewelry, the plunder gained in his recent robberies.

The young couple find Anthony's mother living alone in a hut. The old woman has become a wretched creature. She fails to recognize her son, who asks for a night's shelter for himself and wife. While unpacking, Mary discovers the jewelry and confronts Jim, who confesses his crime.

Horrified by the discovery, Mary orders Jim from the room and locks herself in. She goes to sleep on a couch in the main room. The old woman finds the jewels and her cupidity leads her to attempt to murder the man she does not know as her son.

Mary finds Jim unconscious from his wound and hurries to the village for medical aid. She keeps away from him and on his recovery he returns to the city and makes restitution of the stolen property. A reconciliation is brought about several years later.

PANTHEA (Five Parts—December.—The cast includes Norma Talmadge, Roger Lytton, George Fawcett, Earle Fox, Murdock McQuarrie, Count E. Von Stroheim, Norbert Wicki, Herbert Barry, Jack Meredith, Henry Thorpe, William Abbington, Winifred Harris, Ieleen Peisey, Stafford Windsor, William Lloyd, Dick Rosson, Frank Currier and J. S. Furey. Directed by Allan Dwan.

Panthea, a Russian musician suspected of revolutionary activities, escapes the surveillance of the secret police and goes to England. She meets, loves and marries a young English composer, whose ambition is to have one of his operas produced. The couple move to Paris, where Panthea meets a Russian nobleman who knew her in her mother country and who has a powerful influence in musical circles. Panthea's husband becomes desperately ill through the failure to secure a hearing for his opera and the physicians express their belief that unless the boy's ambition is speedily realized there can be no cure.

Panthea urges the Russian baron to produce the opera. Driven to desperation to save her husband she accepts the baron's full-blooded proposal and sacrifices herself. The opera is produced with triumphant success. Her husband discovers the sacrifice that Panthea made for his sake and at first turns from her in loathing. Panthea, in despair, kills the baron, who has failed to live up to his end of the agreement. The story ends with Panthea and her husband reunited and bound for exile to Siberia.

THE ARGYLE CASE (Five Parts—December).—The cast includes Elaine Hammerstein, Charles Hines, Frank McGlynn, Arthur Albertson, Gazelle Marche, Frank Evans, John Fleming, Mary Alden and Robert Vivian. Directed by Ralph W. Ince.

The story is that of the mysterious murder of John Argyle, a multi-millionaire, in the library of his home. Circumstances point toward Argyle's adopted daughter Mary, who is the beneficiary under his will, Argyle having quarreled with his son Bruce. Just as the case begins to look black for Mary, Asche Kayton, a great private detective, is called in by Bruce and takes hold of the investigation. His methods are scientific and swift and the trail leads to a den of counterfeiters, where, by use of the dictograph and other modern devices, the real murderer is run to his lair. Kayton falls in love with Mary, who is finally vindicated. Kayton's reward is the girl.

PARAMOUNT.

SNOW WHITE (Famous Players—Five Parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: Snow White (Marguerite Clark); Prince Florimond (Creighton Hale); Queen Brangomar (Dorothy G. Cumming); Berthold, huntsman (Lionel Braham); Witch Hex (Alice Washburn).

Snow White is a motherless princess, who arouses the jealousy and hatred of Mary Jane, her mother's former lady-in-waiting, who is the ugliest woman in the kingdom, but aspires to the throne. She gives her heart to the witch, Hex, in return for which she becomes beautiful and wins the love of the king. While hunting the king falls from his horse and is killed, leaving Mary Jane, who has been rechristened Brangomar, upon the throne.

Brangomar forces Snow White to work in the kitchen and takes her lovely clothes away from her. When Snow White accidentally meets a young hunter she becomes interested in him and he is fascinated, though neither has any idea who the other is. So they are dumbfounded when he comes to Snow White's castle and presents a letter to the queen, asking for the hand of Snow White—for he is the Prince Florimond, who has been sent to ask for the hand of the little princess, whom he has never seen.

Brangomar, who believed that the prince was

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

FAC-SIMILE PAINTING
in a beautiful gilt 3-inch width frame—size over all 25x22 inches. Pictures are painted in oils and water colors of every popular player, all made from poses to appropriately fit this style of frame. Complete with brass name plate .....$5.00 each

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES
Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player .....75c. each

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $2.50 to $35 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players. Made by a process that has the appearance of a real photograph. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 40c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.
220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK
12th Floor, Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples, free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

Quality means EVANS means Perfection
We do PARTICULAR Work for PARTICULAR People
Developing and Printing ONLY
EVANS FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY
Telephone—4881 Audubon
416-418-420-422 West 216th Street, New York City

coming to sue for her hand, is furious. She decides to kill the little girl and forces old Berthold, a hunter, and Snow White's devoted slave, to promise to kill the child. He is to bring her the heart of Snow White as proof of his act. Berthold takes Snow White into the woods and tells her what he has been forced to promise and she tells him to kill a pig and take its heart back to the queen. While he is doing this, a bird leads Snow White to the cabin of the seven little dwarfs, where she wins their undying gratitude.

When the queen discovers that Snow White has escaped her, she tries to kill her with a magic comb and then inveigles her into biting a poisoned apple. Snow White falls prostrate and is discovered by the dwarfs, who carry her body in state to the palace, where the queen rejoices until the furious Prince Florimund threatens to kill her. In the excitement the dwarfs drop the casket, in which there lies the body of Snow White, and she awakens. The apple had stuck in her throat and she had not swallowed it. The witch turns Brangomar into a peacock and all ends happily.

HE MEANT WELL (Klever Comedy—Jan. 1).—Victor Moore calls on his sweetheart and asks her to marry him. She refuses and Vic is downcast. She tells Vic that she will marry him on condition that he does one good deed, to prove that he is kind, considerate and helpful. Vic leaves his sweetheart and passes a gang of boys who are playing. One says, "Look at the dude; let's soak the lid," and they begin throwing potatoes at Vic. Turning around to scold them, he backs into a baby carriage just as a potato hits the lid and knocks it off onto the head of the baby in the carriage. Vic, picking the hat off the child's head, tries to apologize. The baby's mother is very angry and lets Vic know it. He starts to chase the boys and catches up with the leader, who runs into a Boy Scout. As Vic starts to spank the boy, the Boy Scout interferes and calls Vic's attention to the sign on the fence reading "Do one good deed every day." He offers Vic a Boy Scout badge; 25 cents is the price. Vic buys it and, imbued with the Boy Scout motto, gives the boy who threw the potato a dime. He salutes the Boy Scout and starts down the street.

Old Silas Green goes to the shed for eggs, only to find a cat "setting" on them. He throws it out just as Vic comes along. Vic figures that here is a chance to do a good deed, so he picks up the cat and carries it to Silas Green's house. He rings the doorbell and Green, who has a bad foot in bandages, answers the bell. Vic, giving him the cat, asks him to take it in. Green is furious. Vic is nervous, drops the cat on the old man's foot and Green starts after him with a scythe. Vic gets away and comes upon a blind man, who is waiting on the corner for someone to take him across the street. Vic leads him across the street. Flossie Fluff, a friend of Vic's, passes and Vic turns to tip his hat and give her a smile. The coal man, who has just put in a ton of coal, has left the coal hole open and Vic walks the blind man right into it. Vic looks for his charge, discovers the coal hole and hearing shouts below reaches down and pulls him out. The blind man—who is not blind at all—is wild with rage and, taking off his colored glasses, makes a swing at Vic, who ducks and, grabbing the blind man, pushes him upside down into the coal hole. Vic picks up the sign the blind man has left behind, realizing that the laugh was on him. He continues onward to his good deed and looks to his badge for encouragement. Presently the shouts of "Help! Help!" attract his attention. Looking toward the corner he sees a woman holding a child, crying for help. They are taking a moving picture, but Vic, not knowing this, rushes into the crowd to rescue the poor, defenseless woman. He reaches her, knocks the movie man over who is attacking her just as the movie director and the cameraman rush up and kick him out of the picture.

Despondent and wornout, Vic wanders back to his sweetheart's house. As he takes off his hat under her window, she is looking out, and the cake knife which she has in her hand drops and goes through his hat, which he is holding in his hand. She throws Vic a rose and asks him to bring up the knife.

He starts upstairs with the knife and hears a noise next door which arouses his curiosity. He stops to listen. It is the headquarters of a secret society known as "The Avengers." Vic, leaning against the door, happens to knock it with the knife. One of the members inside opens the door suddenly and Vic falls into the arms of the Avengers. They think he is a spy and, rather than harm, decided to make him a member of the society.

In the meantime, Vic's sweetheart is waiting impatiently. After putting Vic through the degrees he is declared a full-fledged member. A certain member of the society is a traitor and it is decreed that he must die, so the chief deals cards and whoever draws the black ace must do the deed. Vic draws the black ace and is scared stiff.

The chief gives him a stiletto and a photo of the traitor and he is told to start out to do the deed. He is also informed that he will be watched night and day. After giving him the sign of the society, he is sent on his way. Vic attempts to stop to see his sweetheart, but the trailer makes him continue with the mission. The trailer goes on ahead and just as Vic starts to go down the street his sweetheart, who has been listening to what has been going on, touches Vic on the shoulder and tells him that she knows all and that she will watch over him and tell him when he is in danger. Vic stops to buy some chestnuts from a vendor, who, trying to show his pleasure in waiting on him, makes the society sign. Vic, thinking he is a member, flies for his life, leaving the money and chestnuts.

He approaches a barber shop just as his trailer comes up and he is told to go into the shop to look for his victim. He gets into the chair and is lathered up when the barber, after wiping his hands, rolls same to dry them. Vic thinks he is also a member of the society and makes one leap from the chair, knocking over a barber who is shaving another man, and grabbing his hat, which he had put on the water tank, knocks it over on the head of a man who is being manicured. He rush out—lathered face and all—down the street, where he meets his sweetheart, who is also following him.

She accidentally rolls her hands and, thinking she is a member of the same society, leaves her. In the meantime the police have been tipped off about the Avengers society and they make a spectacular raid. The members escape, thinking Vic has betrayed them. They start out to find him. Vic, still running, comes across an ammunition factory; the door is open, so he goes in. He sees a box of bombs.

By this time the trailer has met the chief and they follow Vic to the ammunition factory. Vic lock the door; he climbs a ladder just as the Avengers members reach the door. He throws a bomb which he has lighted and it explodes, knocking them all senseless just as the police arrive. This brings about the arrest of the entire Avengers society.

Vic's sweetheart, seeing what has happened, goes to Vic and telling him that she is not a member of the society agrees to marry him.

BRAVING BLAZES (Black Diamond—Jan. 8).—This story tells about "The Swede" and The Tad. "The Swede" sweeps the streets and The Tad drives a dump cart. While talking one day the fire department runs past and they envy the fireman. They stop the political boss and ask him to get them jobs with the fire department. He tells them to stick to their jobs. During the noon-hour they sit in the rear of the dump cart and finish the contents of their lunch pails. As they sit back to enjoy a smoke, their imaginations show them as fire chiefs surrounded by husky firemen. A political friend dashes up and informs them he has started an independent fire league and wants them to take charge of it. They are delighted, and he takes them to the new fire house.

They are introduced to the firemen and at once take charge. They put the firemen to work and keep every thing humming. The chief orders a fire drill after which all grab the pole and slide up to their dormitory. There the firemen undress by order. The helmets all come off at one count and are thrown across on their respective pegs on another. The shoes follow and are thrown into a corner where they arrange themselves in a row. The firemen jump backward into bed and are automatically covered up. The chief and his assistant retire to their own bedrooms where they undress, and hang their clothes on a rack.

In the night the fire-gong awakes the firemen, who turn to a row of push buttons. They push No. 1, and the bed clothes fly off; No. 2 and the shoes fly out of the corner on to their feet. No. 3 tips the beds and lands the firemen on the floor. On pushing No. 4 their helmets fly off the pegs and land on their heads. No. 5 lines them all up at attention. The chiefs start for the door. As they pass the clothes rack they appear on the other side fully clothed. They dash into the dormitory and all slide down the pole.

The horses are quickly harnessed and all start for the fire, the chief in a dinky roadster, the others on the fire engine, while the hose cart, pulled by a dried up little fireman, speeds up and passes the engine, runs up behind the chief's auto and jumps over it. At the fire they have many difficulties and finally seeing a girl at the fourth story window with the flames shooting out around her, they lasso her and pull her to the ground.

She "bawls them out" and the boys decide that their methods of rescuing are wrong. Another girl appears at an upper window. The chief orders his men to play the hose just under the window. He jumps into the stream and slides up to the window, gets the girl and prepares to slide down again when the hose breaks. With his arms around the girl, and struggling against the flames he awakes to find himself seated in the dump cart with his arms around the street sweeper. He relates his dream and finishes by saying "I don't want to be a fireman," and they start for their afternoon's work.

DID IT EVER HAPPEN TO YOU? (Klever Komedy—Jan. 15).—Moore returns from a gay party, having imbibed too freely. Statuary seems to bow to him. Forgetting his wife is away, he takes off his shoes and they seem to walk upstairs without him. He begins to think something must be wrong and starts up to his room. He enters and it appears to be revolving at a rapid rate. He goes to bed without removing his clothes, just as the butler with a telegram knocks on the door. The telegram informs him that his wife will be home immediately and adds that she hopes he has kept on the water wagon.

Vic is at a loss what to do and starts to clean up the room of all traces that might show he was out late. Mrs. Vic arrives and is surprised at not seeing Vic. She asks where he is. The butler informs her that he is upstairs. Mrs. Vic proceeds immediately to Vic's room and Vic, hearing her approaching, managed to get his hat and coat on and is coughing hard as Mrs. Vic enters. He tells her he is suffering from a severe cold and she makes him take some medicine. She goes to his pockets to get his muffler to put around his neck, when she finds champagne corks. Vic tells her it is a new game,

SAVE THE INTEREST ON $100.00

EVERY YEAR—AND BEGIN NOW

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.

It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00

SIX MONTHS $1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....

.....

.....

Cut out and mail Theatre.....

that if you get five you win. She is satisfied and he starts to his office, taking the medicine with him.

Vic is a lawyer, and while trying to ease his headache with ice, a message comes from Mlle. Elise of the Follies, that as her engagement closed, she is sailing for London and intends giving a celebration and would like to have Vic serve as toastmaster. Another friend of Vic's, having received a similar request, points out the wonders of the occasion and Vic consents to go, telling his friend he will inform his wife that "he will be detained at the office." That night, on account of Vic "being detained at the office," Mrs. Vic goes alone to the Windermere reception.

The butler, discovering that no one is to be home, plans to rob the house. After Mrs. Vic leaves he proceeds to put everything into a bag. After the reception, Mrs. Vic hails an old hansom and tells the cabby to drive to the nearest drug store.

Vic, after leaving Mlle. Elise's party, accompanied by two other fellows, is coming down the street very much under the weather. As they pass a drug store they come upon the old hansom and bet Vic he won't dare drive it. Vic takes the bet. In the meantime the butler and his accomplice are chased by an officer. The butler escapes, but the accomplice runs up and leaves the bag of silverware in the hansom with Mrs. Vic. He makes his escape as the officer stops the cab. He is surprised at finding a well-dressed woman in the cab, but believes that she is also an accomplice. He discovers the silverware and arrests Mrs. Vic and Vic, but neither knows the other has been arrested.

The butler returns home, determined to tell about the burglary and his heroic efforts to stop it. In the morning Vic is hauled before the judge, who is indeed surprised to see him. Vic explains matters and the judge, who is a personal friend, warns him in a mock serious manner never to do it again or he will tell Mrs. Vic. Mrs. Vic has insisted upon having her husband defend her. An officer is dispatched home for Vic. He recognizes the butler as an old-time convict, wanted for escape from Sing Sing, and arrests him.

As Vic turns to leave, he nearly faints when he discovers his wife, who throws her arms about his neck and tells him that she is so glad he has come. Vic bluffs his way through and tells her she might have known he would come. Mrs. Vic starts to explain what happened. Vic tells her that he will speak to the judge. The bag of silverware is brought out and Vic is dumfounded to find that it is their own property. The butler is brought in. Mrs. Vic is freed, but Vic warns her if she wishes to get along with him she will have to keep out of jail. Mrs. Vic laughs and sobs on Vic's neck and Vic winks knowingly at the judge.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

PATHE NEWS NO. 101 (Dec. 16).

Chicago, Ill.—A huge municipal Christmas tree arrives to adorn Grant Park and bring good cheer to the inhabitants of Windy City. Subtitle: A detachment of National Guard escorts the tree to the park.

Sussex, N. J.—Bethlehem Steel employees dynamite the side of a large mountain to obtain additional material.

London, England.—Princess Henry of Battenberg presents the Union Jack and Silver Shield to the First Newfoundland Regiment of Canadian troops.

Paris, France.—Although the prosecution of the war is the all-absorbing interest of the nation, the love for sport still survives and 1,000 soldier athletes compete in a cross-country race. Subtitles: This is a real cross-country race and the runners have to ford creeks and hurdle fences. The world-famous Keyser wins the event and the athletes are introduced to General Dubail.

Piraeus, Greece.—The allied fleet arrives off the port of Athens to enforce its demand that the Greek king yield stores of guns and munitions, which threaten the safety of allied forces. Subtitles: Vice-Admiral DuFournet, in personal charge of the operations, and his staff. The sailors disembark to take possession of their posts ashore. The French flag is raised on German merchantships seized in the harbor.

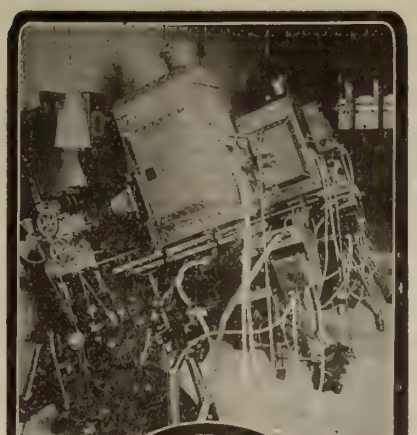
Uncle Sam's Christmas (Magazine Section). An animated cartoon by Leighton Budd. Sub-title: Midnight.

Barnegat, N. J.—The army transport Sumner runs aground on the sands of the Jersey coast during a fierce storm that sweeps the Atlantic.

New York City.—A veritable blizzard suddenly strikes the great metropolis and it is soon buried under a deep blanket of snow. Subtitles: Traffic is greatly impeded in lower Broadway. Madison Square is converted into a fairyland.

Lebanon, Pa.—The value of iron and steel has greatly increased, owing to the extraordinary demands of the war, and all bits of the scrap metal are being carefully collected for further use. Subtitles: Electric magnet cranes are used to move the iron and have proved a great labor-saving device. Giant shears rip through the toughest plates, etc., some six inches thick.

Norfolk, Va.—American soldiers and sailors participate in the opening of the eighth annual convention of the Southern Commercial Congress. Subtitles: Some of Uncle Sam's finest. The Atlantic Squadron is mobilized in the harbor in the celebration of the event.



Cheaper Light

The carbons of an alternating-current arc burn at about the same rate, while in a direct-current arc one burns much slower. The direct-current arc therefore requires less carbons than the alternating-current—one-fourth to one-third less. The direct-current arc also uses less current than the alternating-current to produce the same amount of light.

A direct-current arc, therefore, costs less for power and for carbons, while giving the same amount of light. If your service is only alternating current, a will convert it into direct current to enable you to operate your machine more cheaply. Write for folder 4205-A for details.

Westinghouse-Cooper Hewitt Rectifier Outfit

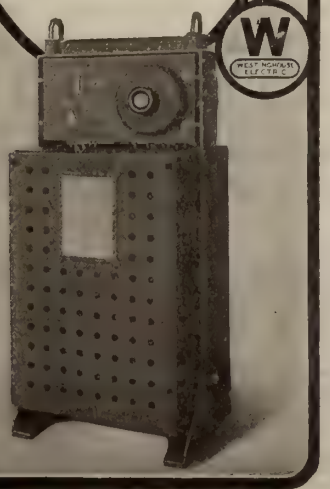
Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.

East Pittsburgh, Pa.



PATHE NEWS, NO. 102. (Dec. 20).

New York City.—America does not forget the unfortunate in its happy Yuletide celebration and the U. S. S. Caesar is converted into a Red Cross ship to carry food to suffering Armenia. Subtitles: Ex-Ambassador to Turkey, Henry M. Morgenthau wishes Godspeed to the Christmas boat.

San Diego, Cal.—Several companies of Uncle Sam's regulars engage in war manoeuvers with marines of the Pacific Fleet at the Exposition Grounds. Subtitle: After blowing up a land mine in the "enemy's" territory, the marines attack the defending forces.

Chicago, Ill.—Brr! It's zero weather, but the hardy harriers of the Central Association do not permit such a trifling matter to interfere with their cross-country championship run. Subtitle: Joe Ray covers the icy six-mile course in 28½ minutes.

Buenos Aires, Argentine.—Immense crowds gather in the Public Plaza to witness the inaugural procession of the newly-elected President of the Republic, Hipolito Irigoyen. Subtitle: A military guard of honor precedes the President.

On the Russian Front.—Thousands of Austrian prisoners are captured by the Russians in their vigorous offensive in Transylvania to relieve the Teutonic pressure of Roumania. Subtitles: A Cossack scouting party. Peasants of the little villages in the field of operation flee from their homes during the fight.

Madrid, Spain.—Accompanied by her Majesty the Queen and the Royal children, King Alphonso returns to his capital after a long absence.

In Verdun Forests (Magazine Section).—An animated cartoon by H. M. Shields.

Winchendon, Mass.—School children of Toytown plan to surprise "Baby" Sayre, grandchild of President Wilson, with a fiery steed as their Christmas gift. Subtitle: Little Miss Cross, who will present the gift to "Baby" Sayre.

New York City.—A heavy snowfall is the delight of the city's little folk and the youngsters are quick to take advantage of it. Sub-titles: Large plows and motor busses are soon set to work clearing the streets. Most of the snow is removed through the sewers. Owing to the lack of snow workers because of good times, the Zoo elephant helps to clear the park's highways.

Mare Island, Cal.—Another addition to America's ever-increasing navy is made as the U. S. Destroyer Shaw is launched at the Mare Island yards. Subtitles: Miss Virginia Milliard christens the boat and the trim little fighter gracefully glides down the ways. The destroyer almost ready for action.

Hamburg, Wis. (Except Philadelphia, Washington, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Cleveland).—Fox skins are in great demand this season for milady's furs and the precious animals are carefully guarded in their pens by high fences. Subtitle: These foxes are valued at two thousand dollars each.

Fort Sheridan, Ill. (Milwaukee only).—The Third Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, encounters a great change in climate on their return from the Sunny South. Subtitle: The troops make use of the inter-urban trolley cars.

Titusville, Pa. (Pittsburgh only).—Prominent citizens accompany the body of John Newel to his last resting place.

LUKE'S SHATTERED SLEEP (Rolin—Dec. 31).—Audiences may think Luke with his St. Vitus movement never sleeps, but they are dead wrong. Like Bill Shakespeare Luke "blesses the man who first invented sleep." After a screamingly comical search for slumber he finally hits the hay and sleeps without moving to Brooklyn.

SILK INDUSTRY (Two Parts—Dec. 31).—Two reels of one of the world's greatest industries. We follow each step from the cocoons in Japan to the beautiful finished product of the silk looms. This picture was taken under the technical supervision of the highest authorities.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 12, Frills and Thrills (Pathe—Dec 31).—This is a peep behind closed doors. We see an endless array of the fair sexes' more intimate garments, both in boudoir and specialty shop. This reel should interest both men and women. It will give the men opportunity to know what to buy their wives.

MAKING RAISINS (On same reel as foregoing).—An interesting split reel showing the different steps in one of Sunny California's most picturesque industries.

HER NEW YORK (Gold Rooster—Five Parts—Jan. 7).—The cast: Phoebe (Gladys Hulette); Farmer Brown (Riley Chamberlain); His Wife (Carey Hastings); Philip (William Parke, Jr.); Stuyvesant Owen (Robert Vaughan); Laura (Ethyle Cooke).

Phoebe Lester, a little country girl, whispers to her pet hen, "You've laid an egg for a man from New York. Ain't you proud?" and while taking breakfast to Philip, the new boarder, who came from that distant place, she gazes at him as if he has come from an unknown land. Returning to the city with a newfound love and regained health, Philip struggles to sell his poems to bring his "egg" girl to her New York. In the meantime, Phoebe's brown hen proves to be a golden one, and her egg money buys a ticket to Philip and her Wonderland.

On the train, Laura, a flashily-dressed woman, meets Phoebe and, tempting her with a nice new dress, takes her to her house. There, Owen, a former employer of Philip, is fascinated by her simplicity. Such grandeur and strange "fizzy" drinks overwhelm her, but Providence intervenes, when the little brown hen hops into the street with Phoebe scrambling after. A big-hearted policeman finds her and takes her to Philip, and acts as "bridesmaid" at their wedding.

Their little home, built on much love and little food, is brightened by the adoption of Johnny, an abandoned baby, that Philip finds on the dumbwaiter. Johnny brings good luck and Philip secures a good job through Owen and in nicer quarters their cup of happiness seems to be full, when Owen, to further his ends, contrives to get Philip to gamble with borrowed money. Phoebe, convinced by trickery, that Philip is unfaithful, is heart-broken and believes that love and her New York are unreal after all. But, the yielding, grief-stricken country girl awakens Owen's better self, and with his help the unhappy household is reunited.

THE SHIELDING SHADOW (No. 15, "The Final Chapter"—Two Parts—Astra—Jan. 7).—Sebastian, seeking refuge from his pursuers and his guilty conscience, retreats to his country lodge, but there his memory still relentlessly paints his many villainies. Again he tries to flee from the tortures of his conscience, but he suddenly finds between him and the door the man he thought safe in a watery grave—Jerry Carson. The hallucination of a nerve-racked brain is his first thought, but it proves to be the flesh and blood Jerry, who forces him to write the confession that clears his blackened name. Sebastian flees in horror, only to come upon his last henchman turning traitor and squealing to the police. Rather than surrender, he plunges from a high cliff to his death below.

Jerry, in possession of the confession, hurries to Leontine, reveals himself to her and shows her the proof of his innocence and Sebastian's guilt. He also discloses the identity of the man of mystery—Ravengar. We finally reach the last page and close the final chapter of the Wonder Serial, leaving Leontine and Jerry weaving happy dreams of the future.

PEARL OF THE ARMY (No. 6, "Major Brent's Perfidy"—Two Parts—Astra—Jan. 7).—Escaping their watery prison, Adams fails to steal the plans from Pearl, who holds him prisoner. A. U. S. aviator, sent by Col. Dare, observes the Grenadians overcoming them and hurls bombs in their midst. In the melee, Pearl dashes for freedom and, arriving where the aviator, mortally wounded, lands, jumps into his seat. Ready for flight, Pearl threatened by Adams, surrenders the plans to him to save herself. Brent, with his troopers, comes upon Adams in a hut and, although compelled to turn over the plans, Adams secures his own freedom by having "something on" Brent.

Brent returns the plans to Col. Dare, who commissions him to take them to Washington. Informed of this by a spy, the Silent Menace plots to get them. Toko agrees to penetrate the American lines and get the plans in return for Bertha's liberty, now a Bolero captive. On his way to Washington Brent, with Pearl, is suddenly confronted by the Menace, who is hidden on the train.

In the struggle, Brent is wounded and Pearl, clutching the plans, is thrown from the train. Suddenly, another mysterious Menace appears. The two Menaces fight and fall from the speeding train into the river below. Pearl, uninjured, narrowly escapes from Bolero's band and while reading the plans on the river bank they are snatched from her by one of the Menaces.

Triangle Film Corp.

THREE OF MANY (Five Parts—Kay Bee—Dec. 24.)—The cast: Nina Antinni (Clara Williams); Emil Vorstman (Charles Gunn); Paul Cardoza (George Fisher).

In one of those cosmopolitan boarding houses that exist only in New York lived, among others, two staunch friends of different nationalities—Paul Cardoza, an Italian, and Emil Vorstman, an Austrian. Both were struggling upward to success, and both had forgotten old animosities in their allegiance to a country that offered them freely great opportunities. Nina Antinni, the prettiest girl in the establishment, was the object of their devotion, and Nina, although an Italian by birth, hesitated to make a choice between the blond-haired Austrian and her dark-complexioned fellow-countryman. And so the romance resolved itself into a trinity of friendship.

The war broke out and all was changed. One by one the cosmopolitans were called back to their respective countries. Emil Vorstman answered the call first, and then Italy, throwing her challenge to Austria, claimed Paul Cardoza. Before sailing Emil had placed his fate in the hands of Nina, but blood being, after all, stronger than water, Paul was the victor. Even this did not destroy the friendship of the three.

Nina, who was a trained nurse, joined the Italian Red Cross, but the fortunes of war kept the three comrades apart. The little Italian town where the Red Cross hospital was situated was in a northern village of Italy, and one day to Nina, watching over her sick and wounded, the word came through Paul Cardoza that the village must be evacuated and the wounded men moved. This was the first meeting between the affianced lovers.

Paul and his troops left the town, but in the confusion of the retreat Nina was left behind. And then the Austrians pounded into the village. As Nina watched and strived to aid the persecuted peasants, she recognized in the Austrian captain in command Emil Vorstman. Vorstman, inured to the brutalities of the campaign, sees his first love at his mercy, and for a brief moment is about to throw honor to the winds in his secure triumph. His better nature and the memory of the old loyal friendship prevail, and when the returning and now triumphant Italian army returns he is able to look his old comrade Paul in the face. Paul, not to be outdone in generosity, aids Emil to escape, even at the risk of his own life.

THE HEIRESS AT "COFFEE DAN'S" (Five Parts—Fine Arts—Dec. 24.)—The cast: "Waffles" (Bessie Love); Carl Miller (Frank Bennett); Shorty Olson (Max Davidson); Mrs. Clara Johnstone (Lucille Younge); Bert Gallagher (Alfred Paget); Slim Magee (Alva Blake).

"Waffles," the waitress at "Coffee Dan's" hash-house, is selected by Bert Gallagher and Clara Johnstone, a pair of crooks, to be represented as a missing heiress whose story they have read about in the papers. "Waffles" herself believes the story, as she was orphaned early and remembers little of her childhood, and by adroit coaching is able to convince the estate's none too bright lawyers of the validity of her claim.

With this unlimited money, poor little "Waffles" nevertheless has only three desires: to buy the little restaurant for her old benefactor, Shorty Olson; to publish the music written by her lover, Carl Miller, a young, eccentric, absent-minded musical genius, and to adopt the baby that a Mrs. O'Shaunghnessy is too poor to care for.

But "Waffles" establishes Shorty Olson as chef in her mansion, and Miller is a frequent caller until Mrs. Johnstone in secret convinces him that it is his duty to give up the girl who is destined for high society. Without explaining to "Waffles," he discontinues his visits.

Mrs. Johnstone is thus able to induce "Waffles" to promise to marry the crook, Gallagher, but just before the ceremony old Shorty Olson overhears a dispute between Gallagher and a gangster over loot, and thus discovers Gallagher's real character. Shorty Olson is caught eavesdropping, and the crooks shut him into the garage.

Carl Miller has been mooning at the house of his lost love, and sees Shorty Olson put into the garage. He goes over and knocks out the gangster on guard and the liberated Shorty goes for the police and Carl goes for the marriage service, which has just begun. "Waffles" sees his face at the window and faints. She is revived and the service is begun again when Carl forces his way in and battles the bridegroom.

The police arrive just in time, and the crooks go to jail. The lawyer comes with the real heiress, and "Waffles" goes back to the hash-house. For the crooks' arrest the three are given a reward of $1,500, so Shorty Olson buys "Coffee Dan's." Carl publishes his music, and "Waffles" adopts Mrs. O'Shaunghnessy's baby.

MANAGERS of motion picture theatres which are notable for their success invariably pay a great deal of attention to the selection of the pictures which they show. It is also noticeably true that these same successful managers are quite particular in regard to the projection screen which they use—and in most successful motion picture theatres* RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREENS are standard equipment. This is a matter which you can well afford to give some thought to. RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREENS *make the best pictures better. Complete information concerning them can be obtained by addressing

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, Inc.

No. 220 W. 42d ST., NEW YORK CITY Leon Schlesinger, Gen. Mgr.

They are exclusively distributed in Canada by J. T. Malone Films, Inc., Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, and Allfeatures, Ltd., 56 King St., W., Toronto

Classified Advertisements

NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all order for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

ART DIRECTOR and technical expert at liberty. Nine years' experience, highest references. L., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MANAGER, young man, married, nine years managerial experience. Familiar with every angle of the business, nothing too large. Moderate salary. Excellent reference. G. E. Williams, Batavia, N. Y.

YOUNG MAN of ability wishes position as director or assistant. Writes own stories and acts. Address Ability, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

LIVE WIRE manager, expert booker, advertiser, operator. Ten years' experience. References. Put your business in competent hands. Success, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

HELP WANTED.

EXPERT ORGANIST wanted for Kimball make organ, two manuels, sixteen stops. Not later than New Years. Olympic Theater, Monessen, Pa.

THEATERS WANTED.

CASH FOR YOUR MOVIE—I am a practical successful moving picture broker. Seventeen years of continuous success. Selling upwards of one million dollars' worth annually, sales, exchanges and leases. Lewis, the Moving Picture Broker, Est. 1896. Office, 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

WANTED—To rent, picture theater, or one to run on a commission basis. Have experience and can give good reference. Address Theater, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

WONDERFUL LEASE, ten years, flat scale, new 614 seat theater, fine equipment. Paramount, Metro, Selznick, Artcraft franchises. Admission, 10 and 15. No competition. Drawing population 5,000. Prolonged illness of manager's wife in distant state cause of this offer. $7,000 cash. Manager, Fine Arts Theater, Westport, Conn.

FOR SALE—Motion picture theater, live mining town 15,000 in Indiana. Positively a money maker, must be sold at once, owner leaving state. If you want something worth while act quick. E. L. C., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

THE GOLD SCREEN—Seamless, 9x12, $27.00; 11x14, $38.50. Stretcher frame, $8.00 extra. You can't get better, why pay more? Sold on trial, guaranteed. Cox Scenic Co., Estherville, Iowa.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

HAVE two brand new 1916 model Motiographs never unpacked. Bargain to quick purchaser. Address M. Martin, 417 Orchard Ave., Bellevue, Pa.

WHY DOES Richardson recommend "Amberlux" lens filters? Write and find out particulars. Price, with slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, Wyandotte Bldg., Columbus, Ohio.

GUARANTEED REBUILT MACHINES—1908 Motiograph, $60. 1913 Motiograph, $90. Power's No. 6A, $150. Edison type B, $75. 1911 Motiograph, $75. Simplex Motor Drive, $250. Edison Exhibition, $65. Power's No. 5, $65. Going quick. Rush your order. Amusement Supply Company, 300-2 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

$150.00—1913 Power's 6A motor drive A. C., inductor, spools, etc. Excellent running condition, looks new. Gone out of business. Jennings, Brewster, N. Y.

FOR SALE—Two Power's 6A machines, complete, with motor drive and Hallberg Economizer. Lock Box 504, Archbald, Pa.

OPERA CHAIRS—3,000 slightly used, 60c up. 900 upholstered, $1.00. Asbestos booth, two 6A Power's machines, bargain. Atlas Seating Co., 10 East 43rd St., N. Y. City.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, tessars, effects devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y. City.

DAVIDSTERN COMPANY, the Motion Picture Camera Clearing House, offer motion picture cameras for every purpose. New and used. Special proposition on new "Universal" latest model, list $300.000. The "Davsco Kino," smallest 200 foot camera made, aluminum magazines, Zeiss Tessar lens F:3.5, weight 10½ lbs., price, complete, $110.00——Bargains in used high grade tested motion picture cameras. Read this list carefully then act at once. 1st: 150 foot capacity Vista motion picture camera, no lens, $22.50——2nd: Kinograph, 200 foot capacity, direct focusing device, regular and trick crank, 50 M.M. Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens our price, complete, $67.50——3rd: Eberhard Schneider motion picture camera, 200 foot capacity, magazines side by side, Prism focusing device, equipped with genuine Carl Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens and carrying case, our price, $100.00——4th: 400 foot capacity Ernemann model B professional, regular and trick crank, forward and reverse drive, finest mechanism, equipped with 2" Ernemann F:3.5, 3" Helomar F:3.2 and 4" Dallmeyer Telephoto F:4.5 and two extra magazines with fine panoram and tilting top tripod, price for complete outfit, $325.00——5th: 400 foot Pathe outside magazine motion picture camera, late model, nickel steel film channel, forward and reverse drive, regular and trick crank, film punch, outside diaphragm, adjusted and hand dissolve, equipped with a genuine Carl Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens, 50 M.M. focus extra magazine and studio tripod, our price, complete, $450.00. Write for specifications. Panoramic and tilting top tripods for $20.00 to $65.00. Will ship any outfit C. O. D., with privilege of examination on receipt of 25 per cent. deposit. Deposit refunded if not satisfactory. Try our special telegraphic order service. Delivery on time or we pay all charges. Write or wire today. Davidstern Company, The National Camera Exchange, 1046 R Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

"FIRE AND SWORD," "The Lightning Conductor," "Spirit of the Conqueror." Full particulars. Peerless Film Co., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

WANTED, to buy or lease for the territory of Alaska, about February first, high grade features, five reels up. Communicate by mail. F. S. Gordon, Hotel Bristol, West 49th St., N. Y. City.

WANTED for export, used films in good condition. State price, etc., to A. B. C. Film Co., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID for film scrap, discarded reels of films and perforations. Ship to and write The Nickelsburg Brothers Company, Meadow St., Newark, N. J. Checks mailed on receipt of goods.

AMERICAN BUYER, formerly in business in London, England, about to return, will purchase for exchanges serials, features, comedies—all makes with paper. Cash against invoice and goods. References. Reliable, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

AUTHENTIC WAR films, also features, comedies for sale, with posters, good condition, reasonable. F. Moore, 92 Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

FOR SALE—Used 3, 4 and 5 reel features in good condition. The big A Film Corp., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

FEATURES, from two to five reels, in good condition, also fine leader. Write for list and prices. Liberty Film Co., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

For Your Little Wants in the Moving Picture Industry

the Little Ads in the Classified Department

Will Get You Exceptional Results

Send Your Copy, Accompanied by Remittance—The Rate is 5c. per Word, 20 Words or Less $1.00

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Advertising for Exhibitors . . 67
Agitation in Connecticut 56
Allison, George R. 95
Appeal to Jersey Exhibitors, An . 54
At Leading Picture Theaters 92

"Black Orchids" (Bluebird) 98
Blue Law Exhibitor Acquitted 120
Brandt Discusses Chain Theaters 52
"Bride of Hate, The" (Triangle) 99
British Notes 81

Calendar of Daily Program Releases . . 126, 128
Canadian Exchanges in Jam 115
Canadian Exhibitors' League Proposed 54
Capital City Film Matters 112
Carbon Makers Confer With N. A. M. P. I. 52
Chaplin Scandinavian Rights 91
Chicago News Letter 83
Chronological Record for 1916 58
Cincinnati Exchanges Form New Bureau . . 114
City Fathers Take Up Sunday Fight 56
Comments on the Films 101

Denver Ball Date Put Off Again 118
Des Moines Majestic Reopens for Features . 118

"Enlighten Thy Daughter" (Ivan) 99
Exhibitor Gets Order Against Exchange . . . 115
Exhibiting in Closed Sunday Cities 82

Facts and Comments 49
Federal Censorship Sentiment Not Growing . 57
F. I. L. M. Clubs Growing 56
Friend, Nathan H 94

"Garden of Allah" Sold, The 90
Giles, George A 63
Grant Just Won't Feel the Cold 56

"Her New York" (Pathe) 96
"House Built Upon Sand, A" (Fine Arts) . 100

"Indiscretion" (Vitagraph) 98
Intermountain Managers Organize 54

James, Edwin F., Gets Big Theater 123

Klem Signs Another Big Author 62
Kansas City Film Men Progress 117
Kansas Commissioner Calls on Film Men . . 117

"Lash of Destiny, The" (Art Dramas) 96
"Last Chapter, The" (Pathe) 96
Lehrman, Henry 95
Le Guere, George, McClure Pictures 91
Levy, Col. Fred 62
"List of Current Film Release Dates. 146, 148, 150, 152

McClure Pictures Selling Force 63
Maine College Town, Censorship Flurry in . . 111
"Mayor Brent's Perfidy" (Pathe) 96
Manufacturers' Advance Notes 104
Millions Lost to Exhibitors 50
"Mission of State, A" (Kalem) 100
Mix, Tom, Joins Fox Film 61
Meek, Edgar J., Death of 83
Moore, John Edward (Jack), Death of 90
Moore's (Victor) Comedies 66
Motion Picture Educator 79
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The 53
Motion Picture Photography 76
Music for the Picture 77
Mutual's New Series 64

New Edison Production 93
New General Film Policy 61
New Kalem Studio 92
New Orleans, Roundabout Near 116
New Orleans, Suburban Exhibitors' Luncheon 116
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity 85
Normand, Mabel, in "Mickey" 66
North Carolina Convention 53

Organizations in Buffalo Are Active 114

Paramount Buys Minneapolis Exchange 81
Paramount Picture, 1916-1917 90
Pathe Serial Plans 65
"Phantom Buccaneer, The" (Essanay) 97
Philadelphia Filmdom Notes 121
Photoplaywright, The 70
"Polly Put the Kettle On" (Red Feather) 100
Popular Picture Personalities 78
Predicts Big Year for Mutual 65
President Attends Picture Show 61
Projection Department 71
Pueblo Has New Commission—Will Censor . . 118

Reviews of Current Productions 98

Salter, Thelma, in "The Crab" 95
Seattle Exchange Men's Club 122
Second Run Pictures in Western Theaters . . . 116
Selig Predicts A Good Year 93
Send Out Slides on Sunday Closing 55
"Snow White" (Famous Players) 97
Spedon Sam, Joins World Staff 51
State League Gets Into Sunday Campaign . . 55
Stories of the Films 130
Sunday Show Decision 55
Supercensors Make a Visitation 113

To Organize the West Coast 52
Trigger, Sam, Heads Manhattan Exhibitors . 53

Unfair 51
United Theaters Company Opens Branch 117
Utah May Have Censorship Law 122

"Vanity" (Metro) 100
"Victim, The" (Fox) 99

"Woman Alone, A" (World) 98
World Film to the Trade 94

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
Jones & Cammack 137
Speer Carbon Co 149

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.
American Auto-Arc Co 147
Amusement Supply Co 145
Bell & Howell 136
Calehuff Supply Co 145
Cushman Motor Works 153
Fulton, E. E 132
Hertner Elec. & Mfg. Co 154
Hommel, Ludwig, Co 136
Porter, B. F 153
Strelinger, Chas. A 132
Swaab, Lewis M 138
Typhoon Fan Co 147
Universal Motor Co 151
Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co 141

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.
DuPont Fabrikoid Co 145
Foco Chair Co 153
Steel Furniture Co 153

FILM EXCHANGES.
Bradenburgh, G. W 145

LENS MANUFACTURERS.
Crown Optical Co 151
Gundlach Manhattan Optical Co 153

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.
Argosy Films, Inc 9
Artcraft Pictures Corp 16-17
Biograph Co 126
Bluebird Photoplays, Inc . . . . . Colored Insert
Christie Film Co 32
Clune Film Producing Co 151
Educational Film Corp. of America 34
Essanay Film Mfg. Co 3, 43-44
Fox Film Corp 19-21
Gaumont Co 37
Grafton Film Publishing Co 138
International Film Service 30-31
Kalem Co 46-48
K-E-S-E. Service 40-42
Keen Cartoon Corp 18
Kessel & Bauman 22-23
Kleine, George 39
Klever Pictures, Inc 15
McClure Pictures 2
Merro Pictures Corp . . . . . Colored Insert
Moss, B. S 10
Mutual Film Corp . . . . . Colored Insert, 36
National Drama Corp 138
Paramount Pictures Corp 11-14
Pathe Exchange, The, Inc . . . . . Colored Insert
Selig Polyscope Co 45
Selznick, Lewis J., Enterprises 24-26
Signal Film Corp 35
Thanhouser Film Corp 27
The Film Exchange 33
Triangle Film Corp 124-25
Unicorn Film Service 38
Universal Film Mfg. Co 4-8
World Film Corp 28-29

MISCELLANEOUS.
Artfilm Studios, Inc 152
Automatic T. S. & C. R. Co 137
Bioscope, The 153
Cahill-Igoe Co 129
Cine Mundial 129
Cinema Camera Club 136
Classified Advertisement 143
Corcoran, A. J 138
Eastman Kodak Co 151
Erbograph Co 139
Evans Film Mfg. Co 139
Funk & Wagnalls Co 136
General Chemical Co 147
Guard, Inda Palmer 110
Gunby Bros 151
Il Tirso Cinematografo 151
Kalem Co 138
Kinematograph Weekly, The 136
Kraus Mfg. Co 139
Marion, Louise M 153
Moore, Wm. N 137
M. P. Directory Co 145
M. P. Electricity 149
M. P. W. Circulation Coupon 140
National Ticket Co 138
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co 137
Richardson, F. H 145
Richardson's M. P. Handbook 149
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co 110
Standard Mot. Pict. Co 137
Superior Films, Inc 136
Wayne Motion Picture Co 145
Willis & Inglis 137

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Burke & James, Inc 129

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
American Photoplayer Co 155
Seeburg, J. P., Piano Co 138
Sinn, Clarence E 137

POSTERS AND FRAMES.
Menger & Ring 137

PROJECTION MACHINE COMPANIES.
American Standard M. P. Mch. Co 136
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co 153
Power, Nicholas, Co 156
Precision Mch. Co 149

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.
Atmospheric Screen Co 129
Genter, J. H., Co., Inc 147
Gold King Screen Co 151
Minusa Cine Products Co 129
Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc 142
Universal Picture Screen Corp 151

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.
Decorators' Supply Co 145

High Grade Printing and Developing

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Prompt Delivery.
Negatives Developed—1c. Ft. Titles—5c. Ft. Positive Printing—4c. Ft.
Give Us a Trial

Wayne Motion Picture Company
229 Farwell Building, DETROIT, MICH.

G. W. BRADENBURGH

802 Vine Street : : : PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Sealed Orders	7 reels	War	$150
Protea III.	5 reels (new)	Sensational	175
An American Gentleman	5 reels (as new)	Drama	75

Write for 1917 catalogue—over six thousand subjects listed.

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
80 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone 3227 Chelsea
425 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's, low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1301 Race Street, Philadelphia

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU KNOW ALL HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU KNOW ALL HIM)
Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

If You Need a New Machine

and can't afford to pay cash, write us today and we will help you out.

Our easy payment plan enables you to purchase any make machine at a small investment. DON'T DELAY—GET BUSY—WRITE TODAY for full particulars.

Amusement Supply Company

Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres

3rd Floor, Mallers Bldg.,
Cor. Madison Street & Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Ornamental Theatres

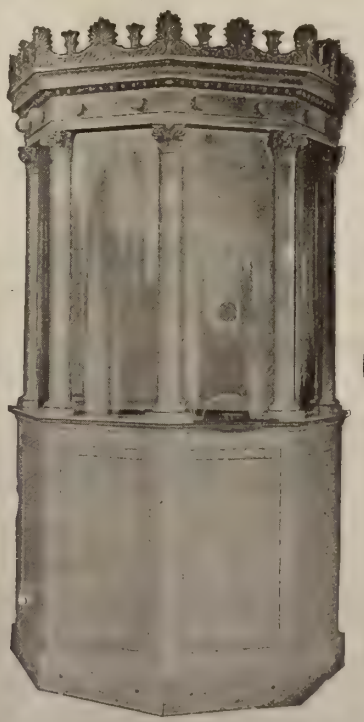
PLASTER RELIEF DECORATIONS

Theatres Designed Everywhere

Send for our 1916 catalog. It contains forty beautiful full-page illustrations—some in colors—of theatres we have designed and decorated. It shows several styles of ticket booths, lighting fixtures and ornaments; it will give you many valuable ideas for decorating your new theatre or improving the looks of your present one.

Send us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.
Archer Avenue and Leo Street, CHICAGO, ILL.



List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM COMPANY PROGRAM

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 126, 128.)

General Film Company

RELEASE DAYS.

Monday—Selig, Vitagraph.

Tuesday—Essanay, Kalem

Wednesday—Essanay, Kalem, Vim Feature Comedy.

Thursday—Selig, Vim.

Friday—Kalem, Knickerbocker, Vim, Vitagraph.

Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Selig, Vitagraph.

BIOGRAPH.

Dec. 5—A Bit of Human Driftwood (Two parts—Drama—Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 11—Her Sacrifice (Drama) (Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 13—The Honor of the Law (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph reissue).
Dec. 18—The Conscience of Hassan Bey (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 19—His Wife's Story (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Two Men of the Desert (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 27—The Rehearsal (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).

ESSANAY.

Dec. 2—The Final Fraud (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 5—The Egg (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 6—A Waiting Game (Comedy).
Dec. 9—A Failure at Fifty (Three parts—Comedy-Drama).
Dec. 12—In a Looking Glass (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 13—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 20 (Cartoon—Comedy).
—Long Beach, Cal. (Scenic).
Dec. 16—Is Marriage Sacred? No 1, "The Burning Band" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—The Little Brown Mole (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 20—Taking the Count (Comedy).
Dec. 23—Dancing with Folly (2d of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 26—A Tale from the Decameron (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 27—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 21 (Cartoon Comedy).
Dec. 30—Wife in Sunshine (Third of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 2—The Girl God Made for Jones (Two parts—"Black Cat Feature"—Comedy-Drama).
Jan. 3—A Dollar Down (Comedy).
Yosemite Valley (Scenic).
Jan. 6—When the Man Speaks (Fourth of "Is Marriage Sacred"—Two parts—Dr.).

KALEM.

Dec. 9—The Lineman's Peril (No. 109 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series—Drama).
Dec. 12—The Icemen and the Artist (Comedy).
Dec. 13—The Stain of Chuckawalla (No. 19 of the "Girl from Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 15—The Menace (No. 9 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
Dec. 16—The Midnight Express (No. 110 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (Drama).
Dec. 19—The Fatal Violin (Comedy).
Dec. 20—On the Brink of War (No. 20 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Tiger's Claw (No. 10 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Vanishing Box Car (No. 111 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).
Dec. 26—The Quest of the Golden Goat (Com.).
Dec. 29—A Mission of State (No. 11 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Dec. 30—A Race With Death (No. 112 of "The Hazards of Helen" —Drama).
Jan. 2—That Terrible Tenderfoot (Comedy).
Jan. 3—The False Prophet (No. 21 of "The Girl from 'Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 5—The House of Secrets (No. 12 of Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Jan. 6—The Mogue Mountain Mystery (No. 113 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).

SELIG.

Dec. 4—The Selig-Tribune, No. 97, 1916 (Topical).
Dec. 7—The Selig-Tribune, No. 98, 1916 Topical).
Dec. 9—The Purchase Price (Drama).
Dec. 11—Twisted Trails (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Selig-Tribune, No. 99 (Topical).
Dec. 14—Selig-Tribune, No. 100 (Topical).
Dec. 16—The Road to Fame (Drama).
Dec. 18—Selig-Tribune No. 101 (Topical).
Dec. 18—The Five Franc Piece (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 21—Selig-Tribune No. 102 (Topical).
Dec. 23—The Man He Might Have Been (Dr.).
Dec. 25—The Golden Thought (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Selig-Tribune No. 103 (Topical).
Dec. 28—Selig-Tribune No. 104 (Topical).
Dec. 30—The Right Hand Path (Drama).
Jan. 1—Selig-Tribune, No. 105 (Topical).
Jan. 1—On Italy's Firing Line (Three parts—Topical).
Jan. 4—Selig-Tribune, No. 106 (Topical).
Jan. 6—In Payment of the Past (Drama).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

Nov. 6—Marked No Funds (Comedy).
Nov. 15—His Wedding Promise (Comedy).
Nov. 22—The Good Stenographer (Comedy).
Nov. 29—Hubby's Chicken (Comedy).
Dec. 6—Hubby's Chicken (Comedy).
Dec. 13—Charity Begins at Home (Comedy).
Dec. 20—They Practice Economy (Comedy).
Dec. 27—Her Financial Frenzy (Comedy).

VIM.

Nov. 24—Money Maid Men (Comedy).
Nov. 30—The Prize Winners (Comedy).
Dec. 1—Ambitious Ethel (Comedy).
Dec. 7—The Guilty One (Comedy).
Dec. 8—A Rare Boarder (Comedy).
Dec. 14—No release this day.
Dec. 15—What's the Use (Comedy).
Dec. 21—He Winked and Won (Comedy).
Dec. 22—Reckless Romeos (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Fat and Fickle (Comedy).
Dec. 29—The Property Man (Comedy).

VITAGRAPH.

Dec. 11—Accident Is the Best Policy (Com.).
Dec. 15—Bears and Bullets (Comedy)
Dec. 16—Pep's Legacy (Three parts—Drama)
Dec. 18—A Lesson for Somebody (Comedy).
Dec. 22—A Bit of Bent Wire (No. 1 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy).
Dec. 25—A Journey to Nowhere (Comedy).
—Some of Our Biggest Star Performers (Comedy).
Dec. 29—The Luck Charm (No. 2 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Drama).

General Film Company Features

BLACK CAT FEATURE.

Dec. 12—In a Looking Glass (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—The Little Brown Mole (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—A Tale from the Decameron (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 2—The Girl God Made for Jones (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 9—Among Those Present (Two parts—Drama).

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES.

Dec. 2—Our Other Lives (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—Pep's Legacy (Three parts—Drama).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

Nov. 24—Twin Souls (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—Butts Casey—Crook (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 8—Master of Her Soul (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Dawn of Wisdom (Three parts—Drama).

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word
Will Produce Remarkable Results —One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

HYDROQUINONE

GENERAL CHEMICAL COMPANY

NEW YORK PHILADELPHIA CHICAGO

DU PONT FABRIKOID

CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FOR THEATRE CHAIRS

The cushioned seat is not only more comfortable but demonstrates to patrons the fact that their comfort is catered to as well as their entertainment.

Seats upholstered in CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FABRIKOID give the theatre a distinctive look.

These desirable features are permanent ones because CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FABRIKOID is durable, sanitary and especially adapted to theatre upholstering.

Many theatres have had FABRIKOID upholstery for long periods and no defects are noticeable.

Upholster your theatre in this superior, guaranteed, sanitary, enduring and distinctive leather substitute.

Ask for Samples and get acquainted with CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FABRIKOID.

DU PONT FABRIKOID COMPANY
Wilmington, Del. Toronto, Ont.

FACTORIES:
Newburgh, N. Y. Fairfield, Conn. Toronto, Ont.

No Rotation

Your operator will appreciate the mechanical perfection of the new projection lens, which does not rotate in focusing, and thus avoids any possibility of a displacement of the image on the screen.

Marlux

In every detail of design and workmanship the Marlux embodies the very latest improvements in the projection field. The result is a lens which gives a maximum of steady, brilliant illumination, and which requires a minimum of attention from the operator.

See your Dealer or write direct to

CROWN OPTICAL COMPANY
Rochester, N. Y.

It's the screen without name or character that some dealers sell because it pays them better

MIRRoroid Installations to Date 9678 The World Over, the World's Best Theatres

Recommended and endorsed by the President of the NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA (Mr. Lee A. Ochs) and the 9678 MIRRoroid INSTALLATIONS.

FREE--Get Our Large Demonstration Samples--FREE

Test — Compare with any screen on earth — Use the brains God gave you — and the evidence of your own eyes.
Price, 33 1/3 Cents a Square Foot, $3.00 a Square Yard, the world over.
Mirroroid has been tried, and proven THE SCREEN SUPREME.
Why pay more for an unknown product?

If your dealer cannot supply you with MIRRoroid, and tries to tell you any other screen is better, realize he is making a greater sales profit. None are as good — naturally, none can be better.
If you buy, you should insist upon that same Five-Year Guarantee that we give with every MIRRoroid screen installed.
Think it over. Write

The J. H. GENTER COMPANY, Inc. Newburgh, N. Y.

THE WORLD'S OLDEST AND LARGEST PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURER

COOL & VENTILATE BY TYPHOONS

1544 BWAY. TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK CITY

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 126, 128.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Dec. 20—Number 51 (Topical).
Dec. 27—Number 52 (Topical).
Jan. 3—Number 53 (Topical).
Jan. 10—Number 54 (Topical).

BIG U.

Dec. 21—Moonshine Blood (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 26—No regular Big U this day.
Dec. 28—The Flash of Death (Reissue—Dr.).
Dec. 31—The Mad Hermit (Reissue—Dr.).
Jan. 4—No regular Big U this day.
Jan. 4—The Uprising (Special Release—Dr.).
Jan. 7—The Jewel of Death (Two parts—Reissue—Drama).
Jan. 11—No regular Big U this day.
Jan. 11—Shattered Ideals (Reissue—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Call for Help (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).

BISON.

Dec. 9—The Good Woman (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—The Taint of Fear (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 23—Fighting Joe (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—Giant Powder (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—Blood Money (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—The Bad Man of Cheyenne (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Dec. 5—Ashes (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 12—The Two Roads (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 26—Birds of a Feather (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 2—An Old Soldier's Romance (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 9—The Mystery of My Lady's Boudoir (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Dec. 22—In the Dead O'Night (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—No regular Imp this day.
Dec. 24—The Woman Who Learned.
Dec. 29—Toto of the Byways (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—No regular Imp this day.
Jan. 5—The Moral Right (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—The Whelp (Drama).
Jan. 12—Honorably Discharged (Drama).
Jan. 13—John Bates' Secret (Reissue—Drama).
Jan. 14—Midnight (Drama).

JOKER.

Dec. 23—Jags and Jealousy (Comedy).
Jan. 6—Love in Suspense (Comedy).
Jan. 11—When Damon Fell for Pythias (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 13—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Dec. 20—No regular Laemmle this day.
Dec. 20—Homeless (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 23—No regular Laemmle this day.
Dec. 27—Stronger than Steel (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 30—No regular Laemmle this day.
Dec. 30—The Face on the Screen (Reissue—Drama).
Jan. 3—No regular Laemmle this day.
Jan. 3—Alone in the World (Special release—Drama).
Jan. 6—No regular Laemmle this day.
Jan. 10—No regular Laemmle this day.
Jan. 10—The Face Downstairs (Reissue—Dr.).
Jan. 13—No release this day.

L-KO.

Dec. 6—The High Diver's Curse Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 13— Murdered by Mistake (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 20—Shooting His 'Art Out (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 27—The Perils of a Plumber (Comedy).
Dec. 29—Phil's Busy Day (Comedy).
Jan. 3—On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 10—A Limburger Cyclone (Two parts—Comedy).

NESTOR.

Nov. 27—The White Turkey (Comedy).
Dec. 4—Pass the Prunes (Comedy).
Dec. 8—Oh You Honeymoon (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Two Small Town Romeos (Comedy).
Dec. 15—I'm Your Husband (Comedy).
Dec. 18—It Sounded Like a Kiss (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Pretty Baby (Comedy).
Jan. 1—Practice What You Preach (Comedy).
Jan. 8—One Thousand Miles an Hour (Com.).

POWERS.

Dec. 26—Such Is Life in Alaska (Hy Mayer Travelogue).
Dec. 28—No regular Powers this day.
Dec. 31—Sammie Johnsin Slumbers Not (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 4—No regular Powers this day.
Jan. 7—The Trials of Willie Winks (Cartoon Comedy).
—The Forbidden City Edu.).
Jan. 11—No release this day.
Jan. 14—Mr. Fuller Pep, He Celebrates His Wedding Anniversary (Cartoon—Comedy).
—Wonders of the Orient as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Edu.).

RED FEATHER.

Dec. 4—Kinkaid, Gambler (Five parts—Dr.)
Dec. 11—The Morals of Hilda (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Mixed Blood (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—A Child of Mystery (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 1—Polly Put the Kettle On (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—Fighting for Love (Five parts—Dr.).

REX.

Dec. 17—No release this day.
Dec. 17—Love or an Empire (Two parts—Dr.) (Special).
Dec. 21—The Ivy and the Oak (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Rock of Riches (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 24—Mr. Vampire (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 29—No regular Rex this day.
Dec. 29—The Gilded Life (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Prodigal Daughter (Drama).
Jan. 4—The Red Stain (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—The Wall of Money (Reissue—Dr.)
Jan. 7—No regular Rex this day.
Jan. 12—The Whispered Name (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—No release this day.

VICTOR.

Dec. 12—No release this day.
Dec. 12—Billy the Bandit (Comedy (Special).
Dec. 14—It Didn't Work Out Right (Comedy).
Dec. 19—No regular Victor this day.
Dec. 19—So This Is Paris (Special release—Comedy).
Dec. 22—It's Great to Be Married (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Good Morning, Judge (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 2—Bombs and Banknotes (Comedy).
Jan. 5—How to Be Happy Though Married (Comedy).
Jan. 9—A Gentleman of Nerve (Comedy).
Jan. 12—The Wrong Mary Wright (Com.-Dr.).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Nov. 24—Number 1.
Dec. 8—Number 2.
Dec. 22—Number 3.
Jan. 5—Number 4.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Dec. 18—Liberty No. 18, "The Wolf's Nemesis" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—Little Partner (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Liberty No. 19, "An Avenging Angel" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Liberty No. 20, "A Daughter of the U. S. A." (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 1 "The Vanished Jewels"—Two parts
Jan. 7—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 2, "Suspected"—Two parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).

Bluebird Photoplay, Inc.

Dec. 4—The Sign of the Poppy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Price of Silence (Five parts—Dr.)
Dec. 18—The Right of Mary Blake (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Right to Be Happy (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—Black Orchids (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Piper's Price (Five parts—Dr.).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Nov. 9—The Fight on the Dam (Drama).
Nov. 23—The Star Rucks (Two parts—Drama) (Reissue).
Nov. 23—Calamity Ann Guardian (Comedy) (Reissue).
Nov. 30—Calamity Anne's Vanity (Drama).
Dec. 2—The Capture of Rattlesnake Ike (Dr.) (Reissue).

CUB.

Nov. 8—Nearly a Hero (Comedy).
Nov. 10—His Blushing Bride (Comedy).
Nov. 17—Her Sun-Kissed Hero (Comedy).

ECLAIR.

Nov. 11—The Unpardonable Sin (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—The Bad Samaritan (Two parts—Drama).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Dec. 28—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 1, "The Jade Necklace"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 3—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 2—Two parts—Drama).

NORTH AMERICAN.

Nov. 27—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 1—"Fate and Death"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 2—"Under Oath"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 3—"Sealed Lips"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 4—"The Climax"—Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Dec. 20—See America First (Travel).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon Comedy).
Dec. 21—The Vampires (Episode No. 5, "The Eyes that Hold"—Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 21—Mutual Tours Around the World (Morocco, Chantilly, by the Mediterranean (Travel).
Dec. 24—Reel Life, Number 34 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Dec. 26—Mutual Tours Around the World (The Theve River, France; Florence, in the Swiss Alps) (Travel).
Dec. 27—See America First (Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon Comedy).
Dec. 28—The Vampires (Episode No. 6, "Satanas"—Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Reel Life No. 35 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Jan. 2—Tours Around the World, No. 9 (Subjects on Reel: Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Luchon, France) (Travel).
Jan. 3—See America First, No. 60, Pasadena, Cal. (Scenic).
Jan. 4—The Vampires (Episode No. 7, "The Master of Thunder"—Three parts Drama).

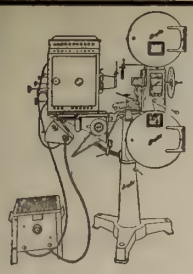
MUTUAL.

Dec. 7—Gertie's Latest Love Affair (Com.).
Dec. 8—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 1 "From Citizen to Soldier."
Dec. 8—Rehabilitated (Drama).
Dec. 9—Admirer's Three (Comedy).
Dec. 11—The Turn of the Wheel (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 14—Title not yet reported.
Dec. 15—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 2, "Our Boys at the Border" (Topical).
Dec. 15—Mexician Intrigue (Drama).
Dec. 16—One Dollar Please (Comedy).
Dec. 18—Buddy's Christmas (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 20—Mutual Weekly No. 103 (Travel).
Dec. 21—The Elopement (Comedy).
Dec. 22—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 3, "A Jack Tar in the Making" (Topical).
Dec. 22—Mated by Choice (Drama).
Dec. 23—Every Lassie Has a Lover (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Indiscretion (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 28—Peter's Perfect Photoplay (Comedy).
Dec. 29—The Ranch Exile (Drama).
Dec. 30—Grimsey the Bellhop (Star Comedy).
Jan. 1—Pangs of Jealousy (Two parts—Dr).
Jan. 6—The Girl Who Can Cook (Star—Com.).

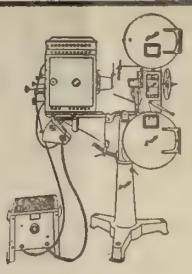
MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Dec. 6—Number 101 (Topical).
Dec. 13—Number 102 (Topical).
Dec. 20—Number 103 (Topical).
Dec. 27—Number 104 (Topical).
Jan. 3—Number 105 (Topical).
Jan. 10—Number 106 (Topical)

(Mutual Releases continued on page 150.)



Investigation Will Prove That:

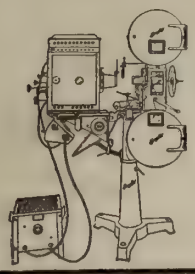


The Majority of
- Modern High Class Theatres
- Film Manufacturers
- Studios and Laboratories
- Feature Productions Presented

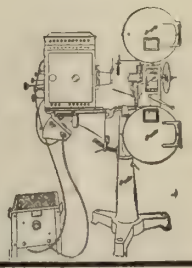
Use Simplex Projectors

A Few Reasons Why

Because Simplex
- Gives Everlasting Perfect Projection
- Is Rock Steady and Flickerless
- Is Heavily Constructed, Insuring Long Service, yet
- Runs Like a Watch
- Has a Low Cost of Up-Keep
- Is the Original Fireproof Machine
- Has Unparalleled Simplicity and Efficiency



The foregoing PROVEN FACTS distinguish Simplex from other makes



Send for Catalog "A"

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.

317 East 34th: St··· New York

"HOLD-ARK"

HARD CORED
METAL COATED
LOWER CARBONS

RECENTLY DEVELOPED BY THE ENGINEERING STAFF
OF THE

SPEER CARBON PLANT

AND PROCLAIMED BY EXPERTS TO BE THE BEST

NEGATIVE CARBONS

ON THE MARKET TO-DAY

Sold by Leading Motion Picture Supply Houses

SPEER CARBON CO.

Dept. "W"

ST. MARYS, PA.

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE

HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York city
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 126, 128.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 148.)

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

The Pawnshop (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 13—Behind the Screen (Two parts—Comedy).
December—The Rink (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES DE LUXE.

Nov. 9—East Is East (Turner—Five parts—Drama) (No. 151).
Nov. 16—Immediate Lee (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 153).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Dec. 11—Miss Jackie of the Navy (Five parts—Drama) (160).
Dec. 18—The Twinkler (Five parts—Drama) (No. 161).
Dec. 25—The Innocence of Lizette (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 162).
Jan. 1—A Gilded Youth (Five parts—Drama—American) (No. 163).

NOVELTY.

Nov. 25—An Artful Dodge (Comedy).

SIGNAL FILM CORP.

Dec. 18—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 9—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 10—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 11—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 12 (Two parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Nov. 26—Up the Flue (Comedy).
Dec. 3—The Wicked City (Two parts—Com.).
Dec. 10—Shot in the Fracas (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 17—Treed (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 24—Fickle All Around (Two parts—Com.).
Dec. 31—Jealous Jolts (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 7—The Land of Nowhere (Two parts—Drama).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Nov. 6—Extravagance (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Black Black Butterfly (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—Vanity (Five parts—Drama).

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP.

Jan. 8—A Wife by Proxy (Five parts—Dr.).

ROLFE.

Nov. 27—Sunbeam (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Stolen Triumph (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).

SERIAL PRODUCING CO.

Jan. 1—The Great Secret (Drama).

YORKE.

Nov. 20—Big Tremaine (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Pidgin Island (Five parts—Dr.).

METRO COMEDIES.

Jan. 1—The Matinee Idol (Rolma—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Cave Man's Buff (Drew—Comedy).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Nov. 27—Their Counterfeit Vacation (Com.).
Dec. 11—His Ivory Dome (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Their Week End (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Braving Blazes (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Dec. 4—A Coney Island Princess (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Traveling Salesman (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 26—Snow White (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—The Slave Market (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 8—Great Expectations (Five parts—Dr.).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Dec. 4—The Best Man (Comedy).
Dec. 18—In Society and Out (Comedy).
Jan. 1—He Meant Well (Comedy).

LASKY.

Nov. 16—The Years of the Locust (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Oliver Twist (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 14—Victoria Cross (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 4—The Evil Eye (Five parts—Drama).

MOROSCO AND PALLAS.

Dec. 7—The Road to Love (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 21—The Right Direction (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 28—The Redeeming Love (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT.

Nov. 30—Martyrdom of Phillip Strong (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS.

Nov. 16—Colonel Heeza Liar Hobo (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 23—Bobby Bumps Queers the Choir (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 30—What Happened to Willie (Cartoon-Comedy).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Dec. 11—The Upper Nile (Scenic).
Dec. 18—Going to Halifax (Scenic).
Dec. 25—Land of Evangeline (Scenic).
Jan. 1—From the Bay of Fundy to the St. Lawrence, including a Pilgramage to Ste Anne Beaupre (Scenic).
Jan. 8—Quaint Quebec (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.

Nov. 26—43d Relase (Edu.).
Dec. 3—44th Release (Edu).
Dec. 10—45th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 17—46th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 24—47th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 31—48th Release (Edu.).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Dec. 24—Pearl of the Army, No. 4, "War Clouds" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Shielding Shadow, No. 14, "Absolute Black" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Pearl of the Army, No. 5, "Somewhere in Grenada" (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—The Shielding Shadow (Episode No. 15, "The Final Chapter"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Pearl of the Army, No. 6, "Major Brent's Perfidy," (Two parts—Dr.).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Dec. 10—The Challenge (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—King Lear (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—The Romantic Journey (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Joy and the Dragon (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—Her New York (Five parts—Drama).

PATHE.

Dec. 24—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 11, "A Day of Sport" (Fashions) and —Young Fur Bearing Animals (Edu).
Dec. 31—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 12, "Frills and Thrills" (Fashion) and —Making Raisins (Cal.) (Edu.).
Dec. 31—Silk Industry (Two parts—Industrial).
Jan. 7—The Last Volunteer (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 13 (Part of a Debutante's Life—Fashion). —Lion Cubs (Colored—Edu.).

PATHE NEWS.

Dec. 30—Number 105 (Topical).
Jan. 3—Number 1 (Topical)
Jan. 6—Number 2 (Topical).
Jan. 10—Number 3 (Topical).
Jan. 13—Number 4 (Topical).

ROLIN.

Nov. 19—Luke Patient Provider (Comedy).
Nov. 26—Luke's Newsie Knockout (Comedy).
Dec. 3—Luke's Movie Muddle (Comedy).
Dec. 10—Luke—Rank Impersonator (Comedy).
Dec. 17—Luke's Fireworks Fizzle (Comedy).
Dec. 24—Luke Locates the Loot (Comedy).
Dec. 31—Luke's Shattered Sleep (Comedy).
Jan. 7—Luke's Lost Liberty (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Dec. 9—The Wharf Rat (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Matrimaniac (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 24—The Heiress at Coffee Dan's (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The House Built Upon Sand (Five parts—Drama).

KAY-BEE.

Dec. 16—The Sin Ye Do (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Three of Many (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—The Female of the Species (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Truthful Tulliver (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—The Weaker Sex (Five parts—Dr.).

KEYSTONE.

Oct. 1—Haystacks and Steeples (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 1—The Lady Drummer (Two parts—Com.).
Oct. 6—A Tugboat Romeo (Two parts—Com.).
Oct. 8—Bombs (Two parts—Comedy).

Unicorn Film Service.

BUFFALO.

Dec. 11—The Slave of Passion (Drama).
Dec. 15—Fires of Fate (Two parts—Drama).

GAIETY.

Dec. 1—Watches and Women (Comedy).
Dec. 14—Kisses and Fists (Comedy).

HIPPO.

Nov. 29—Cupid's Torpedoes (Comedy).
Dec. 13—The High Cost of Living (Comedy).

JOCKEY.

Nov. 30—Curse You, Jack Dalton (Comedy).
Dec. 17—A Devil in His Own Home (Com.).

JUDY.

Dec. 3—Rocking the Baby to Sleep (Comedy).
Dec. 12—You Never Can Tell (Comedy).
Dec. 15—Mary Lost Her Lamb (Comedy).

PURITAN.

Nov. 14—The Inner Soul (Three parts—Drama).

RANCHO.

Dec. 1—The Brand of Cain (Drama).
Dec. 14—Desert Gold (Drama).

SUNSET.

Dec. 1—Love's Sacrifice (Drama).
Dec. 17—The Mystery of the Mesa (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 13—The Trail of Fate (Two parts—Dr.).

SUPREME.

Dec. 3—The Telltale Heart (Drama).
Dec. 11—Love's Wilderness (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—The Challenge of Chivalry (Two parts—Drama).

LILY.

Nov. 17—The Climax (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Path of Life (Two parts—Drama).

HIAWATHA.

Dec. 2—The Heart of Ramona (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 12—The Woman He Wed (Two parts—Drama).

UTAH.

Dec. 3—Love's Mirage (Drama).
Dec. 14—A Belle of the Sage Brush (Drama).

MONMOUTH FILM CORP.

Dec. 18—Jimmie Dale, alias, "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 3—"The Counterfeit Five"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Jimmie Dale, Alias "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 4—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 1—Jimmie Dale, alias "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 5—"The Fight for Honor"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—Jimmie Dale, alias "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 6, "Below the Dead Line"—Two parts—Drama).

BILLY WEST COMEDIES.

Dec. 1—His Married Life (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 8—Boarders and Bombs (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 15—His Waiting Career (Two parts—Dr.).

THE LATEST IN PROJECTION SCREENS

The Pannill Patent. Iese-Reflex-Lily White.

The New Process Pannill Reflecting Screens are the most perfect reflecting screens that can be produced.

They bring Joy to the Patrons, Gold to the Managers and Contentment to Machine Operators.

The Iese—"Gold"—Reflex—"Silver"—Lily White—"Lead." Three in one—same cost, same perfection in their class. Highest testimonials of merit. Hand made—self-tightening. Guaranteed.

Investigate this Screen. The Best Screen on the market, regardless of cost.

Leading Supply Houses distributors. Write for Data, Circulars and Samples.

UNIVERSAL PICTURE SCREEN CORP. 14 N. 7th STREET RICHMOND, VA.

CLUNE FILM PRODUCING COMPANY

Los Angeles, California

Producers of "RAMONA" (10 reels) and "THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (10 reels)

Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies have been sold, magnificently reproduced. Available for state rights.

Bound Volumes

of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD are the

Accepted Reference Books

of the Moving Picture Trade

Your Office Equipment Is Not Complete Without Them

ADDRESS CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.
17 Madison Ave., New York City

Dependable Light

UNIVERSAL ELECTRIC GENERATOR SET

4 K.W., 60 or 110 Volt. Smooth Direct Current, Flickerless Lights. Used for General Lighting Purposes, Moving Picture Machines, Battery Charging, etc.

Write for Bulletin No. 20 to UNIVERSAL MOTOR CO. Oshkosh, Wis.

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Delevoped. 1c ft.

Positive Printing . . . 4c ft.

TITLES in any language complete 5c per foot

Cards Free Tinting Free

satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity orders

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy.

Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Office: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy.

"PERFECTION IN PROJECTION"

GOLD KING SCREEN

GOLD KING SCREENS ARE BEST

TEN DAYS FREE TRIAL

GOLD KING SCREEN CO., ALTUS, OKLA.

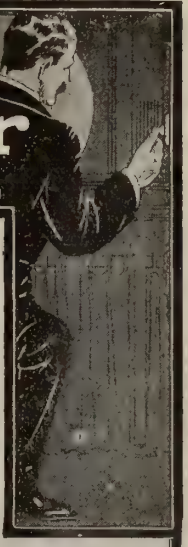
THE speed and quality of the sensitive emulsion, the strength and toughness of the base, the consistent excellence covering a long period of years, the marked dependability—these are the qualities that have made it desirable, for your interests and our own, to place the identifying stencil mark

"EASTMAN"

on the margin of our film.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Don't be a Bell-Ringer



Mr. Manager

You will be, though—you just can't help it—so long as you make your operator responsible for a continuous, perfectly focused light. Take the strain off of yourself and help him to be a better operator by turning that particular job over to

AUTO-ARC

Never goes wrong. Never freezes the carbons, or burns apart. It actually saves you at least 25% of your current. That will soon make it pay for itself. Frees your operator for his other work.

Will send Auto-Arc on 30 days' trial guaranteed to satisfy you or your money back, $60.00 f. o. b. Owensboro, Ky. Write for circular giving full particulars.

American Auto-Arc Co., Inc.
407 S. Dearborn St. CHICAGO, ILL.

NOTICE—Owing to advance in price of materials, the price of the Auto-Arc will be changed on January 1, 1917, from $60.00 to $67.50. Price after February 1, $75.00.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 126, 128.)

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.

Dec. 21—The Lash of Destiny (Van Dyke Film Co.—Drama).
Dec. 28—Whoso Taketh a Wife (U. S. Amusement Co.—Drama).
Jan. 4—The Rainbow (Sherrill Feature Corp.—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Nov. 6—Less Than the Dust (Mary Pickford—Seven parts—Drama).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Dec. 4—The Sea Nymphs (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Miss Billy Buttons (Comedy).
Dec. 18—Hist! At Six O'Clock (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Cupid's Uppercut (Comedy).
Jan. 1—His Model Wife (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Out for the Coin (Comedy).

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION.

Nov. 20—The Crimson Stain Mystery No. 14 (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 15 (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 16 (Two parts—Drama).

DIXIE FILM CORP.

December—Just a Song at Twilight(Five parts—Drama).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Dec. 4—The Vixen (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Battle of Life (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Love Thief (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Victim (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—The Island of Desire (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Price of Silence (Special Release—Drama).
Jan. 8—A Modern Cinderella (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The Bitter Truth (Five parts—Dr.).

FOXFILM COMEDY.

Jan. 1—Social Pirates (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Chased into Love (Two parts—Com.).
Jan. 5—Noah's Ark (Comedy).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Jan. 1—The Soul Master (Five parts—Dra.).
Jan. 1—Speed and Spunk (Comedy).
Jan. 1—Captain Jinks' Love Insurance (Comedy).
Jan. 8—The Man of Mystery (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—Bullies and Bullets (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Captain Jinks' Partner (Comedy).

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE, INC.

Dec. 19—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 101 (Topical).
Dec. 22—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 102 (Topical).
Dec. 25—International Split Reel (Cartoon and Split Reel).
Dec. 26—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 103 (Topical).
Dec. 29—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 104 (Topical).
Jan. 1—International Split Reel (Scenic and Cartoon).
Jan. 1—Patria (Episode 1, "The Last of Fighting Channings"—Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 2—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 1 (Topical).
Jan. 5—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 2 (Topical).
Jan. 8—Patria (Episode No. 2, "Treasure"—Two parts—Drama).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

November—The Girl Who Did Not Care (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Five parts—Drama).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Dec. 4—The Breaker (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—A Message to Garcia (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—The Phantom Buccaneer (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Truant Soul (Five parts—Drama—Essanay).
Jan. 1—The Last Sentence (Edison—Five parts—Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

November—War Brides (Herbert Brenon—Dr.).
December—The Foolish Virgin (Five parts—Drama).
December—Panthea (Five parts—Drama).
December—The Argyle Case (Five parts—Dr.).

SUNBEAM MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Oct.—Somewhere in Georgia (Drama).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.

December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Dec. 4—All Man (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Broken Chains (Five Parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Rise of Susan (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—The World Against Him (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—A Woman Alone (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—On Dangerous Ground (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM, INC.

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where D'ye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—
December—The Passion Flower (Drama).

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORPORATION.

December—Snow White (Four parts—Fairy Tale).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

December—The Witching Hour (Seven parts—Drama).

HARPER FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

KING BAGGOT.

Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).
November—Boots and Saddles (Drama).

PHAX PICTURES CO.

December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORP.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

HENRY W. SAVAGE

December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

UNITY SALES CORPORATION.

Nov. 20—The Yellow Menace, No. 12, "The Aeroplane Accident" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Yellow Menace, No. 13, "The Sky and the Submarine" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Yellow Menace, No. 14, "The Interrupted Nuptials" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Yellow Menace, No. 15, "The Ray of Death" (Two parts—Drama).

TWEEDLEDUM RELEASES (UNITY).

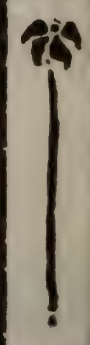
Nov. 6—A Lucky Tramp (Comedy).
Nov. 13—Lend Me Your Wife (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 20—A Bath Tub Elopement (Comedy).
Nov. 27—A Short-sighted Crime (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 4—Somewhere in Mexico (Comedy).
Dec. 11—The Burlesque Show (Two parts—Comedy).

WARNER BROS.

December—Robinson Crusoe.

ARTFILM STUDIOS
INCORPORATED
CAPITAL: $100,000.00
1212-1230 ONTARIO ST.
CLEVELAND OHIO

PRODUCERS & DISTRIBUTORS OF THE BEST ADVERTISING FILMS IN FILMDOM
FOR NATIONAL & LOCAL ADVERTISERS
THE MOST EFFECTIVE, ECONOMICAL & ADVANCED FORM OF PUBLICITY
INVESTIGATE OUR PROPOSITION
"VISUALIZED PUBLICITY TELEGRAMS"



Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL and CAST IRON

HIGH Quality

LOW Price

Opera Chairs

immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.

Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

"All eyes on a line"

FOCO

ADJUSTABLE OPERA CHAIR

Can be changed from adult's chair to child's chair by pressing catch and raising. Write for booklet

Family Opera Chair St. Louis, Mo.

Make Your Own Electricity With Cushman

The Government Order after inspection, before shipment.

Electric Plants

Extremely light weight and compact; 4 H. P., 2 K. W. Outfit complete, weighs around 500 lbs.

Complete with all equipment—easy and ready to set up and run.

Throttle Governor, connected to Schebler Carburetor, assures clear, bright and steady pictures.

United States Bought 66 Cushman Outfits

The illustration shows 66 Cushman Electric Power Plants ready for shipment, that were purchased by the U. S. Government for use at Army Posts and in the field.

CUSHMAN MOTOR WORKS 938 NORTH 21st STREET LINCOLN, NEB.

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention the MOVING PICTURE WORLD

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation

American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush of "Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

Stereopticon

Peace Pictures

and

European War Pictures

(Neutral)

New Stereopticon Lectures and Poems presented by L. M. Marion.

Terms Moderate Accompanied by violinist, pianist, operator, lantern, etc. (when desired) for theatres, lyceums and clubs near New York City. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION

445 W. 23rd St., New York

Phone, 10396 Chelsea

I do not lecture on or sell motion pictures.

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE

D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor

B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.

It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00

SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

.....

.....

.....

Please Fill in the Name of Your Theatre.....

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

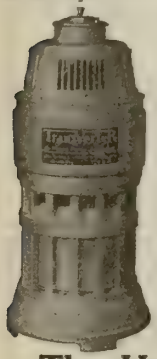
PERFECT ARC CONTROL

F. H. Richardson, well known authority on motion picture equipment says of the

TransVerteR

TRADE MARK

"While in Cleveland I witnessed a remarkable demonstration of the ability of this machine to maintain constant current at variable arc voltage. We set the arc working at 50 volts, 50 amperes . . . there was no appreciable change at all in the amperes until the voltage had mounted to 80, whereupon I turned the arc to, amazing as the statement may seem, approximately 1¼" in length without the slightest change taking place in the amperage delivery, and the arc did not break.



"Although there were two perfect arcs and the illumination was not appreciably affected on the first machine, still the ammeter read 50 amperes, so that we had two arcs, each drawing 50 amperes, with a generator only furnishing a total of 50, and with an arc voltage at either machine of 50. . . .

"I can recommend the Transverter to the careful consideration of the moving picture theatre manager and operator."

Can you do this with your present equipment? If not, you should not be satisfied. Send for descriptive literature and latest price bulletin.

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.

1908 West 114th Street, Cleveland, Ohio

The best theatres in the country are equipped with

Gundlach
Projection Lenses

This is in recognition of their superior illuminating power and perfect correction for a sharp, brilliant picture.

IT'S ALL IN THE LENS

Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Co.

808 So. Clinton Ave., Rochester, N. Y.

MOTIOGRAPH

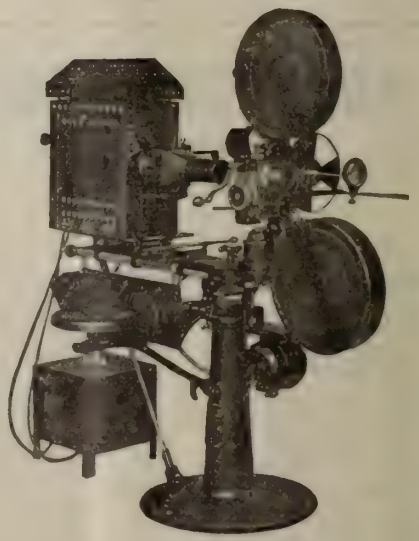
WATCH THIS SPACE IN NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE FOR SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT, ALSO CHANGE IN MOTIOGRAPH PRICES

Customers who intend using the

Motiograph

for their holiday projection must send their order at once.

THE MOTIOGRAPH REPRESENTS THE ESSENCE OF SIMPLICITY, STRENGTH AND DURABILITY.



The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.

574 West Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.

Western Office, 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

Fotoplayer
for Better Music

WE ALSO ANNOUNCE OUR NEW

VOX MYSTICA

Contralto

and

Baritone Voices

Our expert voicers have developed these wonderful new tones—the almost life-like notes so soft, dreamy and rich, that will stir the depths of your very soul and make your picture throb with the breath of life.

Our well known FOTOPLAYER may now be had by you with VOX MYSTICA in addition to its many other distinct qualities and advantages.

Don't forget that we are the foremost builders of musical instruments for motion picture theatres and design and build pipe organs equipped with the latest features; our experts are at your disposal and will be glad to serve you.

Fotoplayer

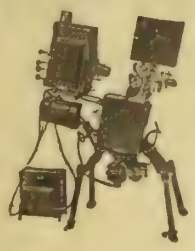
Tear off and mail.

American Photo Player Co., 62 West 45th St., New York.

Please send me full information about Vox Mystica in the Fotoplayer.

(Name) .....

(Address) .....



NPCo

"Sixteen Years of Knowing How"

To our many friends in the Motion Picture Industry
we extend the Season's Greetings

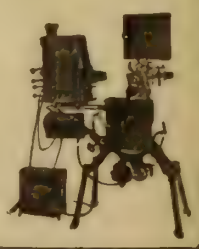
Nicholas Power Company

Ninety Gold Street New York, N. Y.



Vol. 31, No. 2 January 13, 1917 Price 15 Cents

H. E. HOFFMAN

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM INDEX

EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Scene from "Sloth" (McClure Pictures).

Post Office Box 226
Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue
Telephone Madison Square 3510

SEVEN DEADLY SINS

A series of seven five-reel pictures-sold to the public through merit and

McCLURE PUBLICITY

Mc Clure Series Dept.,
Triangle Distributing Corporation,
1459 Broadway. New York City.

McCLURE PICTURES

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY
MR. EXHIBITOR:
This is only a sample of the expressions of Max Linder, the world's greatest comedian, as you will see him on the screen.
See the rest for yourself. He has more expression and more funny action than any man I ever saw. He will convulse any audience with laughter.
Geo K. Spoor
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle St., Chicago

UNIVERSAL PICTURES PRESENT

THE TWO GREATEST SERIAL STARS ON EARTH

Grace Cunard & Francis Ford

"The Purple Mask"

Exhibitors who Book now will get the Cream

UNIVERSAL

Film Manufacturing Co.

Carl Laemmle, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern In the Universe"

1600 Broadway New York

HERE'S A SMASHING BIG STATE RIGHTS PRODUCTION THAT WILL COVER THE WORLD

"The People against John Doe" played to capacity houses at the Broadway Theatre in New York City, testimony to its power as an attraction extraordinary. It is without question the most powerful dramatic story ever shown on any screen. Written and directed by LOIS WEBER, producer of such successes as "Where Are My Children?" and other big winners. State Rights now selling. Special advertising matter for State Rights buyers on this production. Ad matter that will help you get the business. Write today for territory, terms, prices, etc., to the STATE RIGHTS DEPARTMENT of the

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO.

Carl Laemmle, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 Broadway, New York

RED FEATHER PHOTOPLAYS
PRESENT
"The DOUBLE ROOM MYSTERY"
HAYWARD MACK AND ED·HEARNE
DIRECTED BY HOBART HENLEY
BOOK THROUGH ANY UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE
EARL LINK

THEY'RE ALL GOING AFTER CHRISTIE COMEDIES

Exhibitors everywhere are realizing the box office value of the clean, clever, laughable Comedies that AL. E. CHRISTIE is producing and releasing on the OPEN MARKET. Here is a list of the foremost independent exchanges from whom you can book Christie Comedies. Get in touch with the nearest one at once and start profiting on these money-makers.

1 San Francisco
Peerless Film Exchange,
100 Golden Gate Ave.
California, Arizona, Nevada.

2 Los Angeles
Peerless Film Exchange,
224 L. A. Investment Bldg.
California, Arizona, Nevada.

3 Minneapolis
Zenith Feature Film Co.,
Produce Exchange Bldg.
Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

4 Boston
Phoenix Feature Film Exch.,
131 Columbus Ave.
New England States.

5 Denver
Consolidated Feature Film Exch.
1746 Curtis St.
Colo., Wyo., New Mex., Utah and Mont.

6 Dallas
Alliance Film Co.,
1905½ Commerce St.
Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma.

7 Toronto
Famous Players Film Serv., Ltd.,
12 Queen St., East.
Canada.

8 Detroit
Superior Features,
71 Griswold St.
Michigan.

9 Cleveland
Tri-State Film Exchange,
Sincere Bldg.
Ohio and Kentucky.

10 Cincinnati
Tri-State Film Exchange,
Strand Theatre Bldg.
Ohio, Kentucky.

11 Sioux City
Globe Film Corp., Successors to Western Film Co.
310 Nebraska St.
Iowa.

12 Omaha
Christie Comedy Exchange,
National Bldg.
Kansas, Nebraska.

13 Melbourne, Australia
Co-operative Film Exchange,
Australia.

14 Chicago
Celebrated Players Film Co.,
207 S. Wabash Ave.
Illinois, Indiana.

15 Milwaukee
Walter Baier,
3rd Floor Manhattan Bldg.
Wisconsin.

16 Philadelphia
Metro Film Exchange,
1331 Vine St.
Eastern Pa., Maryland, Virginia, Dist. Col.

17 Brooklyn, N. Y.
K & M. Film Exchange,
587 Fulton St.
New York, Northern New Jersey.

18 Pittsburgh
Liberty Film Renting Co.,
938 Penn Ave.
Western Pensylvania, West Virginia.

19 Seattle
Reel-Play Feature Co.
Washington, Idaho, Oregon.

20 Birmingham
Queen Features Film Co.,
24-25-26 Potter Bldg.
Southern Territory.

21 Wellington, New Zealand
Co-operative Film Co.,
New Zealand.

PRODUCER OF

CHRISTIE COMEDIES

COMING RELEASES

"Her Crooked Career"

"Black Hands and Soap Suds"

Christie Film Co.

SUNSET BOULEVARD AT GOWER ST.
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

PAULINE FREDERICK
FANNIE WARD
ANITA KING
LOUISE HUFF
MYRTLE STEDMAN
GEORGE BEBAN
PLAYS OF THE MONTH
Pauline Frederick in
"The Slave Market"
(January 1)
Blanche Sweet in
"The Evil Eye"
(January 4)
Louise Huff and Jack Pickford in
"Great Expectations"
(January 8)
House Peters and Myrtle Stedman in
"The Happiness of Three Women"
(January 11)
Fannie Ward in
"Betty to the Rescue"
(January 15)
Irene Fenwick and Owen Moore in
"A Girl Like That"
(January 18)
Marie Doro in
"Lost and Won"
(January 22)
Wallace Reid and Anita King in
"The Golden Fetter"
(January 25)
George Beban in
"His Sweetheart"
(January 29)
Paramount

STARS IN JANUARY.

See How Paramount Starts The New Year:

Study the nine releases for January—weigh the stars—think of the dollar and cents strength of the combination.

Start the New Year right by booking the foremost program of consistent quality.

Produced by

Famous Player-Lasky Morosco-Pallas

Artcraft

Prestige and Profit

Mary Pickford
in
The Pride of the Clan

A typical Pickford Picture, with smiles and curls, with a thrill and a trickling tear.

You must show Pickford Pictures, regardless of your Program or service connections.

Over 100 Artcraft theatres will show this newest Pickford picture on January 8th.
Have you a Pickford Contract?

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION

Artcraft

Prestige and Profit

George M. Cohan
in Broadway Jones

His face is better known than the Man in the Moon's—his wit has spread further than the English language—his genius will make him a greater hit in Pictures than he was on the stage.

Book him because he's George M. Cohan—that's reason enough!

The Cohan picture will be Artcraft's February release.

Contract now.

729 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

ALL PERMANENT successes in motion picture production have been founded on the greatness, the vitality and power of the plays offered to the public. After centuries, no one has improved upon Shakespeare's "The Play's the Thing."

GOLDWYN PICTURES will link the greatest plays with stars of only the first magnitude from the ranks of the theatre and the screen.

THIS ORGANIZATION will rank the play, its production and its star as of first concern. To guarantee picture perfection this company has allied with it the playwrights responsible for the greatest box office stage successes of the present theatrical decade. These authors are:

IRVIN S. COBB
ROI COOPER MEGRUE
EDGAR SELWYN
PORTER EMERSON BROWNE
MARGARET MAYO
AVERY HOPWOOD

and as many more, soon to be announced. Their plays will receive the most elaborate production that can be devised by the masters of stage, screen and scenic investiture.

BEFORE ONE PICTURE is released the exhibitors of America will have the opportunity to see not less than SIX finished Goldwyn Pictures, complete in every detail.

ONE OF THE NOVEL developments in this organization will be its reliance upon and confidence in the judgments of the nation's exhibitors—instead of treating their views with the contempt and disregard that have so undermined the solidarity of the picture industry.

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

Telephone Vanderbilt 11.

16 East 42nd Street, New York City

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, Pres. ARTHUR HOPKINS, Vice-Pres. EDGAR SELWYN, Vice-Pres. CROSBY GAIGE, Treas.

WILLIAM FOX

Picture Achievements, 1916

During the year 1916 William Fox produced and presented to the public "A Daughter of the Gods"—the picture beautiful—with Annette Kellermann, the greatest "box office" moving picture ever made.

He also produced "The Honor System"—the greatest human story ever told, staged by R. A. Walsh, which will be the sensation of the coming season.

He also produced 52 big features during 1916, headed by 100 celebrated box office names.

Picture Promises, 1917

For the year 1917 William Fox will present to the exhibitors and public 70 productions varying in length from 4500 to 6000 feet.

These productions will be on a scale of unsurpassed magnificence and will maintain the Fox standard.

William Fox will also produce 52 comedy features of 2 reels each, release one every week, with production details that will startle the world.

Watch for the announcement of another gigantic production.

The William Fox organization includes such notable Stars as these:

Theda Bara	William Farnum	Annette Kellermann	Virginia Pearson
Gladys Brockwell	June Caprice	George Walsh	Mary Martin
Dustin Farnum	Jane Lee	Jewel Carmen	Herbert Heyes
Katherine Lee	Gladys Coburn	Harry Hilliard	Anna Luther
Stuart Holmes	Walter Law	Vivian Rich	Charles Arling
Valeska Suratt	Carmen Phillips	Hank Mann	Irving Cummings
	Winifred Kingston		and 500 others

Branch Offices of the Fox Film Corporation:

United States

Atlanta, Ga., 619 Rhodes Bldg.
Boston, Mass., 10-12 Piedmont St.
Chicago, Ill., Mallers Bldg.
Cleveland, O., 750 Prospect Ave.
Cincinnati, O., 412 Vine St.
Dallas, Tex., 1907 Commerce St.
Detroit, Mich., 407 Smith Bldg.
Denver, Colo., 17th and Champa Sts.
Kansas City, Mo., 928 Main St.
Los Angeles, Cal., 734 S. Olive St.
Minneapolis, Minn., 627 First Ave. N.
Salt Lake City, Utah, McIntyre Bldg.
New Orleans, La., 826 Common St.
Omaha, Neb., 315 S. 16th St.
Philadelphia, Pa., 1333 Vine St.
Pittsburgh, Pa., 121 Fourth Ave.
San Francisco, Cal., 107 Golden Gate Ave.
Seattle, Wash., 1214 Third Ave.
St. Louis, Mo., 3632 Olive St.
Syracuse, N. Y., 445 S. Warren St.
Washington, D. C., 305 Ninth St., N. W.
New York, N. Y., 130 West 46th St.
Newark, N. J., Strand Theatre Bldg.
New Haven, Conn., Poli's Theatre Bldg.

Canada

Montreal, Quebec, 322 S. Catherine St., W.
Toronto, Ontario, 12 Queen St., East
St. John, N. B., 19 Market Square
Vancouver, B. C., 508-9-10 Orpheum Theatre Bldg.
Winnipeg, 115 Phoenix Block
Calgary, Dominion Exclusives, Ltd.

United Kingdom

London, 74-76 Old Compton St.
Liverpool, 15 Manchester St.
Manchester, 28 Deansgate Arcade, Deansgate
Newcastle-on-Tyne, 20 Westgate Road
Leeds, 29 Albion Place
Birmingham, 1-3 Temple St., New St.
Cardiff, 9 and 9a Wharton St.
Glasgow, 73 Dunlop St.
Dublin, Dame House, 24-26 Dame St.

Australasia

Sydney, Symonds Bldg., 194 Pitt St., General P. O.
Melbourne, Victoria, Elizabeth House
Wellington, 65 Willis St.

South America

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, 110 Avenida Rio Branco
Sao Paulo, Brazil, 73 Rua des Gumoes
Buenos Aires, 951 Corrientes
Rosario, Argentina
Montevideo, Uruguay

AGENCIES: Paris Barcelona Rome Moscow

STUDIOS: New York Los Angeles Kingston, Jamaica

NOW PLAYING "A DAUGHTER OF THE GODS" WITH ANNETTE KELLERMANN
LYRIC THEATRE, Broadway and 42d Street, New York—4TH MONTH TO CAPACITY BUSINESS.

COMING R. A. Walsh's Master Drama, the greatest human story ever told. "THE HONOR SYSTEM"

Laugh During 1917—52 Foxfilm 2-Reel Comedies Next Year—One a Week After Jan. 15

Fox Films Are for the Family

FOX FILM CORPORATION

WILLIAM FOX, President. WINFIELD SHEEHAN, General Manager.
General Offices, 130 West Forty-Sixth Street, New York City.

TRIANGLE

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF JANUARY 14TH

Frank Keenan
Margery Wilson
in "The Bride of Hate"

KAY BEE

A distinctive drama of the old South. A mystery play with its suspense predominant to the very end. Boldly presented, powerfully told, original and convincing. Frank Keenan's most impressive characterization.

Dorothy Gish
in "The Little Yank"

FINE ARTS

She's a real live girl and she took a thrilling part in the struggle between the North and South. She was a border girl, torn between loyalty to the Union and love for a Southern officer. It's the different story of the Civil War, exciting and appealing.

Triangle Komedies
TWO
"Love Under Cover"
and
"The Pipe of Discontent"
They are clean, dashing, frothy; full of action, plot and hilarity.
A VALUABLE ADDITION TO THE TRIANGLE PROGRAM

DOROTHY GISH IN "THE LITTLE YANK"

TRIANGLE PROGRAM

Dorothy Gish is a name for exhibitors to conjure with. "THE LITTLE YANK" is the story of a loveable girl, whose grit and determination carry her through a myriad perilous situations in the cause of her country and that country's enemy, her lover.

FA

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Mr. EXHIBITOR:

YOU ! ! !
CAN NOW HAVE
MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONES
THE UTMOST IN COMEDY
INDEPENDENT OF ANY PROGRAMME

WHY ? ? ?
TO SATISFY THE DEMANDS
THE BOX OFFICE MADE ON YOU
AND YOU MADE ON US FOR
THE ONLY STANDARD QUALITY COMEDIES
EVER PRODUCED

NOW READY FOR RELEASE
ONE EVERY WEEK

"THE NICK OF TIME BABY"
"HER CIRCUS KNIGHT"
"MAGGIE'S FIRST FALSE STEP"
"STARS AND 'BARS'"
"DODGING HIS DOOM"
"VILLA OF THE MOVIES"

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION, Distributors
KESSEL & BAUMAN, Executives

LONG ACRE BUILDING NEW YORK CITY

MISS MABEL NORMAND

IN

"MICKEY"

Mickey is a quaint little mountain girl who runs the gamut of life. Laughter and tears take their turn in the unfolding of the story.

* * *

A vivid and appealing comedy-drama with real living characters, told without squash pies, battles or the seduction of the innocent heroine.

* * *

No padding. When the story is over, the curtain goes down.

* * *

Method and date of release will be announced later.

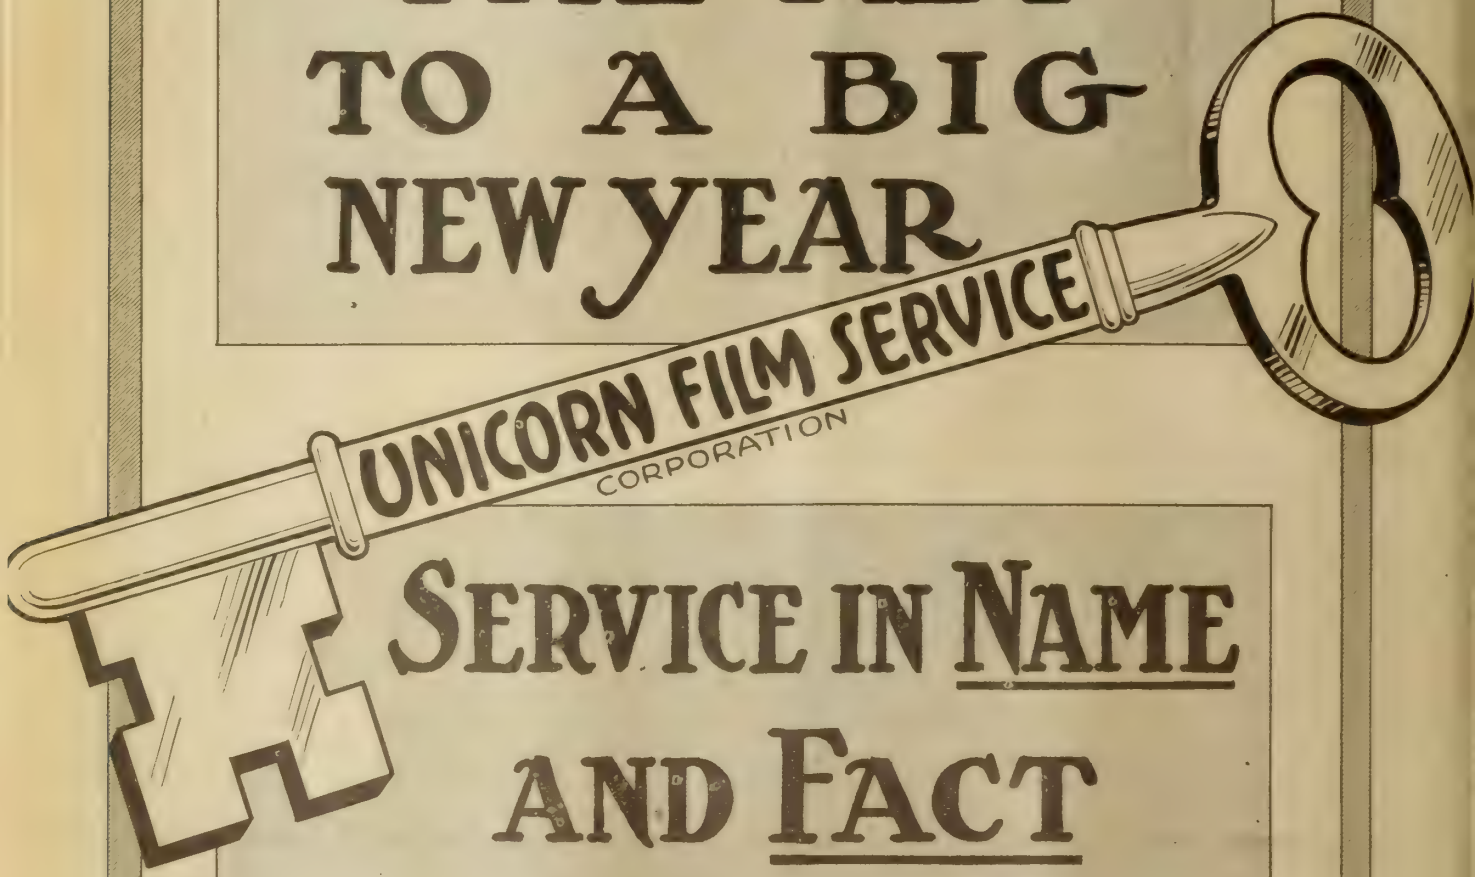
* * *

COMING SOON.

KESSEL & BAUMAN, Executives

LONG ACRE BUILDING . NEW YORK CITY

THE KEY TO A BIG NEW YEAR



SERVICE IN NAME AND FACT

NOW BOOKING

1-2-3 REEL DRAMAS
WESTERNS WITH WALLOP
COMEDIES OF CLASS

THE "BILLY WEST" RIOTS
"HIS MARRIED LIFE"
"BOARDERS AND BOMBS"
"HIS WAITING CAREER"

EXECUTIVE OFFICES
126-130 WEST FORTY-SIXTH ST.
NEW YORK CITY

TWENTY-EIGHT EXCHANGES
EVERY PRINCIPAL CITY
OF THE U.S.

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS 68 EXCHANGES

JANUARY 13, 1917

MARGARITA FISCHER WILL BE SEEN IN "THE BUTTERFLY GIRL"

MARGARITA FISCHER'S third Fischer-Mutual Photoplay is ready. It's title is "The Butterfly Girl." It is released the week of January 8. It is in five acts. It was directed by Henry Otto. Miss Fischer is afforded unusual opportunities in the odd role of a girl of the sideshows. For it is as a girl of the "honkatonks" that she is cast. The cries of the sideshow "spieler" can almost be heard, so saturated is the production with the spirit of the carnival, the Midway and the amusement park.

Thrilling Scenes Aplenty.

Aside from the glamor and glitter of the sideshow, scenes of real thrill and daring mark the production. Ere it ends the spectator will witness some views of magnificent beauty atop a Hawaiian volcano. All the attention to detail which have made previous releases of the Pollard Picture Plays Company unique, is again assured. Miss Fischer is supported in this production by a remarkable cast. In even minor roles are cast players who are ordinarily stars themselves.

Third of the Fischer Series.

"The Butterfly Girl" is the third of the Margarita Fischer Series of Mutual Photoplays. "The Pearl of Paradise" and "Miss Jackie of the Navy," already released, are playing to capacity business at theatres all over the country. Bookings on these productions can be made at any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges in America. The coming Fischer-Mutual Photoplays are "The Devil's Assistant," "A Knight at Tarquizzi" and "Birds of Passage." The nearest Mutual Exchange can arrange bookings on the entire Fischer Series.

Unusual Lighting Effects In "Lumberlands" Serial

Notable as "A Lass of the Lumberlands" has been in other respects, it is setting new standards in lighting effects. Some of the night scenes recently shown have been little short of marvelous. Audiences everywhere have commented on the beauty of effects obtained by the filming of brightly-lighted trains rushing through the night at top speed—the weird light of bon-fires reflected on the faces of men assembled in the big forests of the lumbering regions—and other startling effects arranged by the director of the latest Helen Holmes production released by the Signal Film Corporation through the 68 Mutual Exchanges. Bookings on this startling chapterplay can be made now at any Mutual Exchange.

Mutual Star Productions For January

Week Beginning January 1st.
Title. Lead.
The Gilded Youth.....Richard Bennett

Week Beginning January 8th.
The Butterfly Girl.....Margarita Fischer

Week Beginning January 15th.
Beloved Rogues.....Kolb & Dill

Week Beginning January 22d.
The Gentle Intruder.....Mary Miles Minter

NANCE O'NEIL WILL

In Her New Series of Mutual Photoplays

HAVE STAR SUPPORT

A supporting cast of unusual merit has been assembled by the Frank Powell Producing Corporation for the series of Nance O'Neil-Mutual Photoplays now under way. As leading man for Miss O'Neil in "Mrs. Balfame," the first of the O'Neil-Mutual Photoplays, Robert Elliott has been engaged. Mr. Elliott on the speaking stage has appeared in such famous productions as "The Country Girl," "Seven Keys to Baldpate," "Within the Law," and "The Lie." In musical comedy he has been cast in prominent roles in "The Arcadians," "The Quaker Girl" and "The Pink Lady." In pictures, too, he has won laurels of no mean sort. The supporting cast is still further augmented by the signing of Alfred Hickman and Agnes Eyre in other leading roles. "Mrs. Balfame," the first Nance O'Neil-Mutual Photoplay, is now in course of production. Its release date will soon be announced. Bookings on the O'Neil-Mutual Photoplays can now be made at any Mutual Film Exchange.

William Russell's Next

William Russell is already hard at work on the next Russell-Mutual photoplay—the first which has been undertaken since the renewal of his contract with the American Film Company, Inc. It is entitled, "A Son of Battle," and is from the pen of Nell Shipman, already famous for her stories and plays. Francelia Billington, recently secured as leading woman for Mr. Russell, will play the leading feminine role.

GAIL KANE SIGNED BY AMERICAN FILM FOR MUTUAL PLAYS

STILL another famous star has been secured for the Mutual photoplays. The American Film Company, Inc., announces the acquisition of Miss Gail Kane. Today this popular favorite is ranked as one of America's foremost artists, having risen to fame by sheer merit alone. On the speaking stage she scored many triumphs. Since adopting the screen as a medium of expression for her art she has endeared herself to thousands of motion picture goers. Now in Gail Kane-Mutual Photoplays she is to be provided with vehicles worthy of her talent and undoubtedly will rise to still greater heights.

Will Star in New Series.

Miss Kane will be presented in a series of Gail Kane-Mutual Photoplays. These multiple reel feature productions will be staged at the studios of the American Film Company, Inc. The utmost care and attention will be paid to each detail of production. Stories, staging and costuming will all be in keeping. The best of direction and photography will be assured. In every way the Mutual and the American will co-operate to the end that the Gail Kane-Mutual Photoplays may be fitting examples of the Mutual Film Corporation's new policy for 1917—"Big Stars Only."

Big Stories Provided.

A number of vehicles for Miss Kane's debut as an American-Mutual star are already under consideration. Among them are included manuscripts from some of the best known authors in the world. Only those plays best suited to Miss Kane's peculiar talents will be selected. The public may rest assured it is Mutual's intention to present only the leading stars in productions of the highest quality. Exhibitors will find it advantageous to confer with their nearest Mutual Exchange regarding the Gail Kane series of Mutual photoplays.

First "Reporters" Release Welcomed by Eager Public

"The Jade Necklace," first installment of the new Mutual serial, "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters," has been shown. It has gone over "Big." Exhibitors everywhere are reporting it brought them capacity business at every performance. It was hailed by the photoplay fans as something really new—really different—a novelty. It features Earl Metcalfe, Helen Greene and Zena Keefe. It is booking now at 68 Mutual Film Exchanges.

MUTUAL

MUTUAL

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC.

Announces

Another New Mutual Star

The Popular Favorite

GAIL KANE

THIS announces the acquisition of another new American-Mutual Star—Miss Gail Kane. Among the foremost artistes of the screen and stage, Miss Kane occupies a most prominent position. Her charming personality and her extraordinary dramatic talent have won for her an exceptional reputation in the photoplay world.

Miss Kane will be presented in a series of super-productions to be made at the studios of the American Film Co., Inc., and to be distributed through the 68 Exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation throughout America. A number of remarkable plays have been secured in which Miss Kane will be starred.

This announcement is made in furtherance of the Mutual Film Corporation's new policy for 1917—"Big Stars Only." It is merely another indication of the Mutual plan to present only the leading stars in productions of the highest quality. Announcements of releases of the Gail Kane-Mutual Photoplays will be made shortly. Exhibitors are requested to confer with their Mutual Exchanges for detailed information.

Distributors
MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION
John R Freuler, Pres.

Producers
AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC.
Samuel S Hutchinson, Pres.

"BIG STARS ONLY"

MUTUAL

POLLARD PICTURE PLAYS CO., Presents

MARGARITA FISCHER
in
"The BUTTERFLY GIRL"

A whimsical tale of the sideshows. A story which ends in a surprising fashion atop a Hawaiian volcano. Five Acts. Directed by Henry Otto. Third of the Margarita Fischer-Mutual Photoplays. Released the week of January Eighth.

Now Playing:-
"THE PEARL OF PARADISE"
"MISS JACKIE OF THE NAVY"
Coming:-
"THE DEVIL'S ASSISTANT"
"A KNIGHT AT TARQUIZZI"
"BIRDS OF PASSAGE"

Booking Now At Mutual Exchanges.

MUTUAL

Signal Film Corporation Presents
The Fearless Film Star
HELEN HOLMES in
A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS
A Spectacular Motion Picture Chapterplay of the North Woods

"We have been holding the people out every night we play 'A Lass of the Lumberlands' and now each night the receipts are bigger," writes J. Cairno, manager of the Amo Theatre of Detroit, Michigan. On the very first night that he opened with the big new Helen Holmes chapterplay a crowd jammed his lobby and extended out into the street before the doors were opened. For capacity business at YOUR theatre, book this spectacular story of the lumber camps—"A Lass of the Lumberlands." Fifteen chapters—a new chapter each week. See your nearest Mutual Exchange.

Now Booking At 68 Mutual Exchanges!

MUTUAL

Newspaper Life From The "Inside" -In This Thrilling, 15 Chapter Serial!

Society life and adventures in the slums—blackmailers in dress suits and "yeggs" in ragged raiment—crafty Celestials from the Oriental quarter and suave international spies from abroad—all these and others are woven into the fabric of this amazingly unique serial of newspaper life—told from the "inside".

THE PERILS OF OUR GIRL REPORTERS

FIFTEEN STARTLING MOTION PICTURE STORIES — EACH COMPLETE

Motion picture fans are finding this big new Mutual serial surprisingly fascinating. They are following it with the utmost interest. Theatres playing it are taxed to their capacity every week. It is the "something different" in pictures that has been so long awaited. Produced by the Niagara Film Studios. Featuring Earl Metcalfe, Helen Greene and Zena Keefe. Directed by George Terwilliger.

NOW Booking At 68 Mutual Exchanges

Produced by NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS

MUTUAL
VOGUE COMEDIES

VOGUE FILMS, Inc., Presents—

"The Land of Nowhere"

TWO REELS RELEASED JANUARY 7th

FEATURING RUBE MILLER

Supported by Lillian Hamilton

This is a real futurist production.

Much of its action occurs in the Hereafter.

A Paradise such as few can conceive is the setting for many of the incidents. It all happens after Rube is injured in a quarrel. He find himself before St. Peter. He is conducted within the Pearly Gates. There he finds dancing girls, woodnymphs, sprites and coryphees to entertain him. Just as he is beginning to appreciate his surroundings he awakes. In reality he has been dreaming. He finds himself on an operating table in a hospital. "The Land of Nowhere" is a most unusual comedy offering. It is available for booking at all Mutual Exchanges.

Slapstick with a Reason

VOGUE COMEDIES

VOGUE FILMS, Incorporated

General Offices: 6225 Broadway Chicago, Illinois

MUTUAL
Gaumont
GAUMONT CO., Presents
The VAMPIRES
Every second exciting! Every minute thrilling! Every episode sensational! This fascinating series of nine French detective stories—each complete in three parts—is producing tremendous business wherever it is being shown.
The VAMPIRES are a ruthless band of arch criminals who terrorize Paris. A daring young newspaper reporter takes it upon himself to rid the city of its affliction. Criminal cunning is matched against reckless bravery. Law and righteousness fight for supremacy.
Pack your house to capacity with this nine-chapter serial. Produced by the Gaumont Co. Book "The Vampires" NOW thru any Mutual exchange.
Now Booking At
68 MUTUAL
EXCHANGES

MUTUAL PICTURES

Announcing a New Series of

Cub Comedies

featuring the popular comedian

George Ovey

Each subject in this series represents the expenditure of more money and more efficient effort than is usually put into pictures of much greater length. One reel features—not fillers—is the result.

First release, January 4

Jerry's Double Header

Coming, January 11

Jerry's Winning Way

A new release every Thursday. Book through the 68 Mutual exchanges.

The Best One Reel Comedies on the Market

DAVID HORSLEY PRODUCTIONS

SELZNICK PICTURES

HERBERT BRENON
Presents
The Distinguished American Player
FLORENCE REED
In
"THE ETERNAL SIN"

A LUXURIOUS SPECTACULAR
DRAMA ADAPTED FROM ONE OF THE WORKS OF THE IMMORTAL
VICTOR HUGO

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG
In
"THE FOOLISH VIRGIN"
By Thomas Dixon

"Clara Kimball Young, A Triumph in New Play"
N.Y. Telegraph.

Directed by
ALBERT CAPELLANI

Next Production
THE PRICE SHE PAID
FROM THE BRILLIANT SOCIETY
NOVEL BY DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS
Directed by
CHARLES GIBLYN

BRANCHES · SOLE DISTRIBUTORS · LEWIS J. SELZNICK EXCHANGES EVERYWHERE

SELZNICK PICTURES

READY FOR RELEASE

NORMA TALMADGE

Presented By

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK

In

"PANTHEA"

THE WORLD FAMOUS DRAMA

By Monckton Hoffe

Directed By

ALLAN DWAN

HARRY RAPF

Presents

ROBERT WARWICK

In

(By Arrangement with Klaw & Erlanger)

"THE ARGYLE CASE"

By Harvey J. O'Higgins, Harriet Ford and William J. Burns.

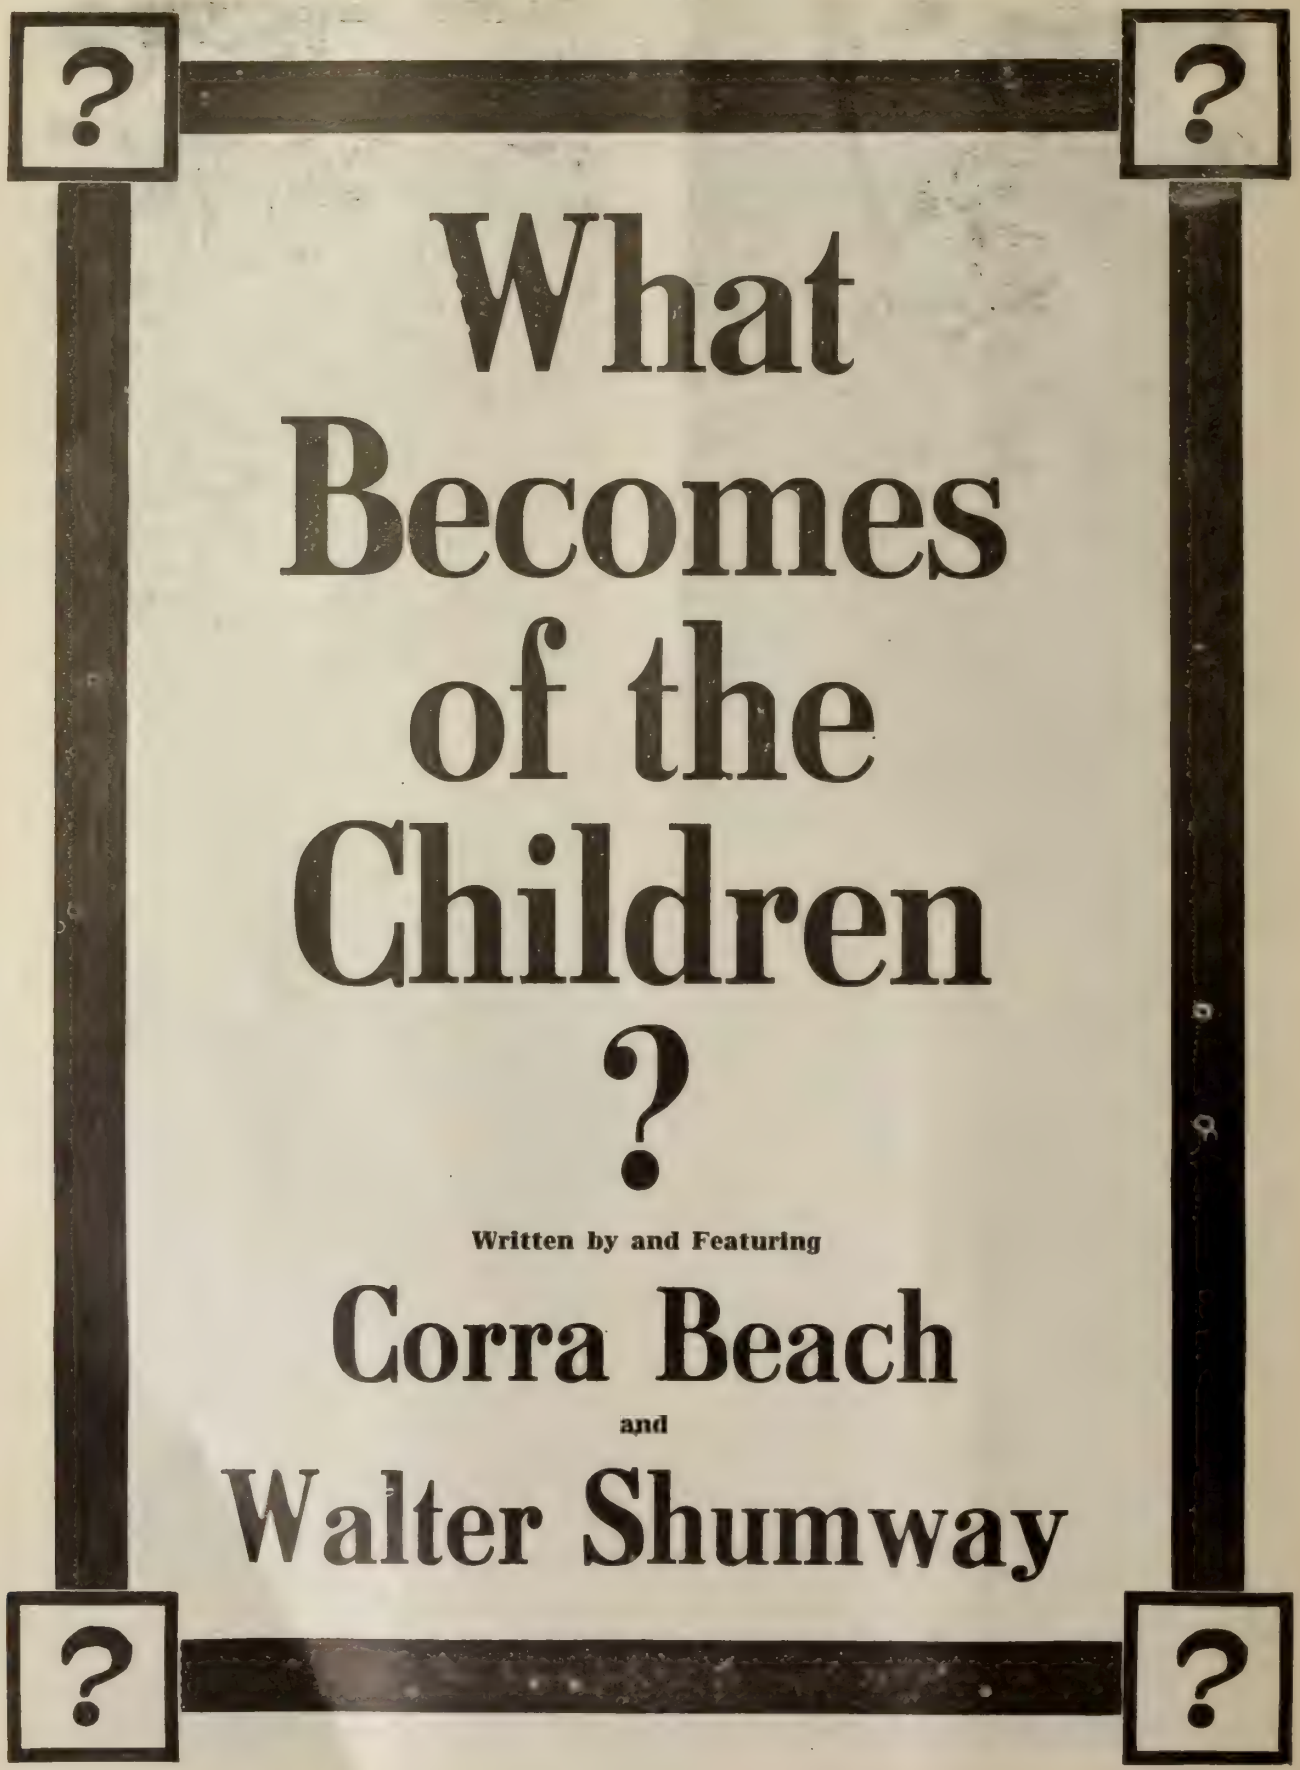
Directed By

RALPH W. INCE

· SOLE DISTRIBUTORS ·

LEWIS J. SELZNICK EXCHANGES

BRANCHES EVERYWHERE



?
?
What Becomes of the Children ?
Written by and Featuring
Corra Beach
and Walter Shumway
?
?

Pathé

Another editorial in another prominent paper on

Pearl of the Army

We've been telling you that Pathé Serials are a real and definite part of national life - that everyone sees them and everyone talks of them.

The Terre Haute Tribune AND GAZETTE.

An independent newspaper. Daily and Sunday. The Terre Haute Gazette, established 1869. The Terre Haute Tribune, established 1884.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THIS.

"Pearl of the Army," the Tribune's great serial which will start Monday, is a story with a purpose. It deals with a topic which should be foremost in the interest of every citizen.

Events continue to demonstrate that, in spite of great progress made in building up the nation's military strength and preparedness, the United States is still woefully unready for anything like a real war emergency. More and more, we believe, public sentiment will be found veering toward the necessity of some system of universal military training.

The annual report of Major General Scott, chief of staff of the army, emphasizes what every well-informed American already realizes, that the United States is still in a condition of unpreparedness.

The mobilization of the guard proved the inadequacy of the system. Even under the favorable circumstances attending the calling of the state troops into the national service, recruiting was found extremely difficult, slow and expensive. Mere skeleton regiments answered the call.

Editorial Dec. 15 - '16

Look through the papers, Mr. Exhibitor. Can you afford to overlook pictures so good that they are used as a basis for editorials, so good that the big papers are filled with mention of them?

Produced by Astra
under the direction of
Edward José

Pathé

They sat on the radiators!

"Stairways, radiators and orchestra pit all were occupied by the crowds wanting to see

The Shielding Shadow

They went out into a pouring rain happy that they came. They said it's great! I believe them."

A. C. Kadlower,
Palace Theatre,
Kenmore, Ohio.

Production by
Astra
Directed by Louis J. Gasnier and Donald Mackenzie

Pathé

A. H. Woods presents the stage hit of its season—
the phenomenally successful

Kick In

written by Willard Mack, adapted for a five part Gold Rooster Play and directed by George Fitzmaurice.

Featuring a superb cast in which

William Courtenay

is supported by

Mollie King

Suzanne Willa, Robert Clugston,
Richard Tabor and John Boyle

Produced by Astra
Released Jan. 14

A great play and a great picture.

William Courtenay

What one of the best houses in Rochester, N.Y. has to say about the best news film in the world –

Pathé News

BELL PHONE M-2301 HOME STONE-1280

ROCHESTER THEATRE COMPANY

VICTORIA THEATRE

ROCHESTER, N. Y.
October
TWENTY - EIGHTH
Nineteen Sixteen.....

Pathe Film Exchange, Inc.
47 West Swan St.,
Buffalo, N. Y.

Gentlemen:-

The writer wishes to state that no picture programme is complete without the PATHE WEEKLY. The above weekly is the best up-to-the-minute World News put across in a "LIVE-WIRE" Theatre. PATHE is first in current events; first in photography; first in class and fashions; liberal in politics, religion and morality.

Yours very truly,
ROCHESTER THEATRE CO.

John J. Farren.
.....
Gen'l Mgr. of VICTORIA THEATRE and FARREN'S MURRAY ST. Theatre.

JJF-ak

The successful houses everywhere show the Pathé News. Ask the Exhibitor who runs it what he thinks of it. He'll tell you his public knows it's the best.

To Exhibitors

Beginning January 1st, 1917

ALL INTERNATIONAL PICTURES will be consolidated with the

PATHE PROGRAM

and

HEARST PUBLICITY

will be added to

PATHE PUBLICITY

PATRIA

Written by Louis Joseph Vance

PATRIA
the Serial Supreme with
Mrs. Vernon Castle will be RELEASED
JANUARY 14
through PATHE
EXCHANGES

NOW BOOKING

INTERNATIONAL

The Serial Supreme

With Mrs Vernon Castle

The Best Known Woman in America

Produced by Wharton Inc.

INTERNATIONAL

Announcement

THE NEW

HEARST-PATHE NEWS

the world's greatest news reel

Beginning January 10, TWICE A WEEK

PATRIA

the International's serial supreme with

Mrs. VERNON CASTLE

the best known woman in America

RELEASED JANUARY 14

The Famous Hearst Cartoons every week

Ask your nearest Pathe Exchange about them

The STRAND THEATRE

NEW YORK

AFTER WEEKS OF SEARCHING DISCOVERED AND

BOOKED

SENSATION OF THE SEASON

"GERMANY

AND ITS

ARMIES OF TODAY"

AUTHORIZED BY

The Imperial German Government

From December 31st to January 13th

The Germanic Official War Films, Inc.
1003 GODFREY BUILDING
729 SEVENTH AVE., NEW YORK

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

Our Record for 1916:
Every Promise Kept.

Our Promise for 1917:
Dependable Pictures, up to World Standard.

Our Start:

Jan. 1—Alice Brady in "A Woman Alone."

Jan. 8—Gail Kane and Carlyle Blackwell in "On Dangerous Ground."

Jan. 15—Robert Warwick in "The Man Who Forgot." Cast including Gerda Holmes and Doris Kenyon.

Jan. 22—Ethel Clayton in "The Bondage of Fear." Cast including Rockliffe Fellowes, Arthur Ashley and John Bowers.

Jan. 29—Marie Dressler in "Tillie Wakes Up." Cast including Johnny Hines.

Feb. 5—Alice Brady in "A Hungry Heart."

Compare these program releases with the so-called "Specials."

Consider them from the viewpoint of the Box Office and NET PROFITS TO YOU.

Then you'll say: "I WANT BRADY-MADES."

WILLIAM A. BRADY
in association with WORLD PICTURES
presents
GAIL KANE
CARLYLE BLACKWELL in "On Dangerous Ground"
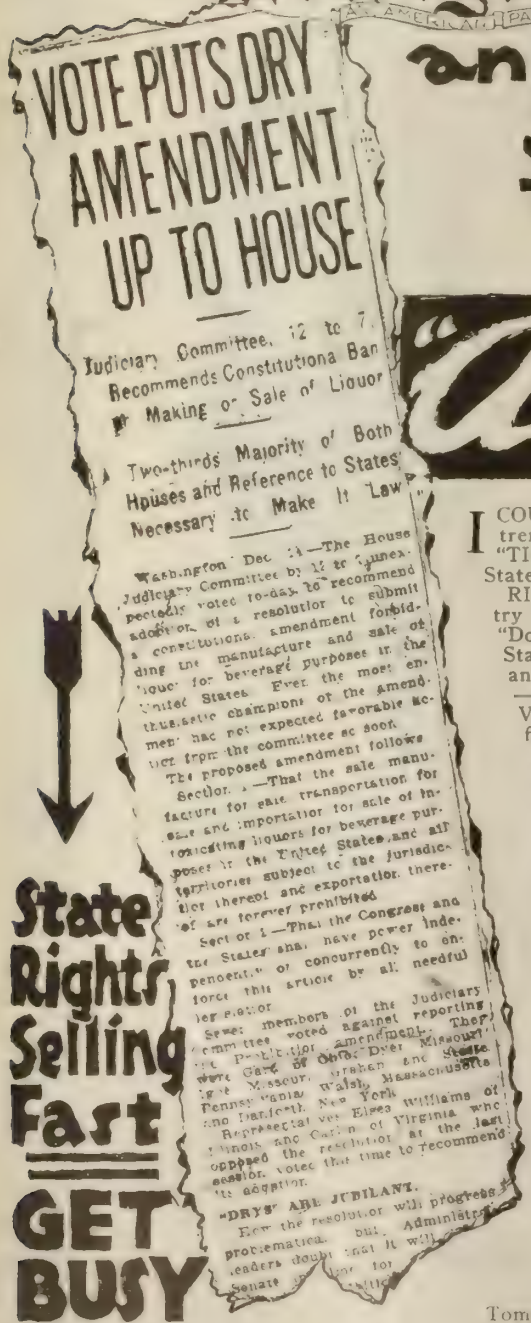
From Barton E. Stevenson's famous novel "Little Comrade"—
Directed by ROBERT THORNBY

Read the Clipping from

New York American

CHARACTER QUALITY ENTERPRISE ACCURACY
AN AMERICAN PAPER FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

and you'll appreciate the great timeliness of "Absinthe"



VOTE PUTS DRY AMENDMENT UP TO HOUSE

Judiciary Committee, 12 to 7, Recommends Constitutiona Ban on Making or Sale of Liquor

Two-thirds Majority of Both Houses and Reference to States Necessary to Make It Law

Washington, Dec. 14.—The House Judiciary Committee by 12 to 7 [illegible] decided to-day to recommend adoption of a resolution to submit a constitutional amendment forbidding the manufacture and sale of liquor for beverage purposes in the United States. Even the most enthusiastic champions of the amendment had not expected favorable action from the committee so soon.

The proposed amendment follows:

Section 1.—That the sale manufacture for sale, transportation for sale and importation for sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes in the United States and all territories subject to the jurisdiction thereof and exportation therefrom are forever prohibited.

Section 2.—That the Congress and the States shall have power independently or concurrently to enforce this article by all needful legislation.

Seven members of the Judiciary Committee voted against reporting the Prohibition amendment. They were Gard of Ohio, Dyer of Missouri, Igoe of Missouri, Graham and Steele of Pennsylvania, Walsh of Massachusetts and Danforth of New York.

Representatives Elmer Williams of Illinois and Carlin of Virginia, who opposed the resolution at the last session, voted this time to recommend its adoption.

"DRYS" ARE JUBILANT.

Now the resolution will progress to problematical. But Administration leaders doubt that it will [illegible] Senate [illegible]

State Rights Selling Fast

GET BUSY

WRITE or WIRE TODAY

I COULD talk to you for a solid month and not even begin to equal the tremendous argument contained in the clipping reproduced in this ad. "TIMELINESS"—that the immense advantage of "ABSINTHE" over any State Rights production on the market.

RIGHT NOW, when the entire country is screaming "Death to whiskey"—"Down with liquor"—when the United States Government is fighting tooth and nail to abolish the liquor traffic—comes "ABSINTHE" picturing the VERY THING the entire Nation is fighting for.

READ THE CLIPPING, and remember the ENTIRE NATION is watching every move of the Legislature.

Every newspaper is carrying stories on this Abolition of the liquor traffic movement. That means capacity houses with "ABSINTHE."

I don't care what State Rights proposition you are figuring on—"ABSINTHE" has them all lashed to the mast for TIMELINESS—DRAWING POWER—CAPACITY HOUSES.

I still have some magnificent—

STATES RIGHTS

—territory on hand. Possibilities are tremendous, and the first to come will be the first to be served. Write or wire me today—Don't put it off, if you are in dead earnest in grabbing the biggest STATES RIGHT proposition on the market. Produced by Herbert Brenon with a supporting cast including LEAH BAIRD and French, German and English artists. Also scenes from the present war—Scenes of the City of Paris. Wire me today. Tomorrow may be too late. Big, smashing ad matter for State Rights Buyers and Exhibitors

Write or Wire Me Today

Louis Baggot

P.S. I will appear in person in some of the larger Theatres. Write me and I will explain this to you fully.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS PRESENT

ELLA HALL in

"HER SOUL'S INSPIRATION"

How a Show Girl Achieved Her Heart's Desire

Directed by Jack Conway

"BLUEBIRD" PHOTO PLAYS INC

FROM every section of this country come reports of the immense strides of BLUEBIRD Photoplays. Thousands who doubted the vast superiority of BLUEBIRD plays over any Feature productions on the market are now flocking to the BLUEBIRD standard. Exhibitors everywhere are learning what it means to tie up to a winner.

Those who were skeptical are now our strongest supporters, while those who started with us are now enjoying the fruits of extraordinary business, growing popularity and a prestige that brings a clientele promising bigger and better things for all concerned in the moving picture business.

Nothing succeeds like success, and those Exhibitors who are still in doubt can see the handwriting on the wall in the extraordinary success already achieved by BLUEBIRD Photoplays in every section of the country.

This message concerns you Mr. Exhibitor. Look about you and SEE the rewards of all BLUEBIRD Exhibitors. YOU can secure and enjoy success similarly gratifying.

SPECIAL ATTENTION

—is directed to the coming BLUEBIRD release—"GOD'S CRUCIBLE" unquestionably one of the most beautiful pictures ever shown on any screen. Staged, directed and photographed at the Grand Canyon of Arizona with the Canyon for a background. Unusual as it is beautiful, all powerful all compelling. If you are about to book BLUEBIRDS this will form a magnificent basis. If you are showing BLUEBIRDS this picture will double your popularity, prestige and profits.

Book through your local BLUEBIRD Exchange or

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, (Inc.)

Executive Offices

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Released on the
METRO
PROGRAM
January 15th

B.A. ROLFE
presents
ETHEL BARRYMORE
in Charles A. Logue's
The WHITE RAVEN
Adapted and produced for Rolfe Photoplays Inc. by George D. Baker

They'r

For FIFTEEN

FRANCIS X.

BUSHMAN

Love, Mystery
Power, Romance,
Thrills and tense
Excitement

The Great

Presented by QUALITY Pictures Corporation
Produced by SERIAL Producing Company

Booked by Leading Theatres

e Off!

Consecutive Weeks

BEVERLY

and BAYNE

W. Christy Cabanne's master serial with the greatest box office magnets in the history of motion pictures—Now Showing

Secret

Story by Fred de Gresac

RELEASING THROUGH METRO EXCHANGES

throughout the world

METRO DREW COMEDIES

are more than profitable to the exhibitor

They give character, class and prestige to his theatre

Book them
solid for the year 1917

Selig Red Seal Plays

The Carpet From Bagdad — The Millionaire Baby
House of a Thousand Candles — The Circular Staircase

Are Plays of Quality

A Black Sheep — The Country That God Forgot
Thou Shalt Not Covet — Into the Primitive

Released Through K-E-S-E

Unto Those Who Sin — The Cycle of Fate
At Piney Ridge — Valiants of Virginia
The Prince Chap

Have You Booked "The Rosary"?

A Winner During Lent

SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.
CHICAGO - - - ILLINOIS

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

HENRY B. WALTHALL

AMERICA'S GREATEST ACTOR

with MARY CHARLESON

will appear in his next great feature

"LITTLE SHOES"

On January
15

Screen time
1 hour
15 minutes

Do your patrons love "little shoes" children?

Mr. Walthall, the greatest of emotional actors has played the melody of child-love on the heart strings in this tense photodrama. It is a great drama of the heart. Only such as Mr. Walthall can play it.

It is clean, sweet, beautiful—just the thing for the entire family. Book it early.

By ELEANOR M. INGRAM

Directed by ARTHUR BERTHELET

TRADEMARK Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 ARGYLE STREET, CHICAGO

TRADEMARK Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

THE CHICAGO EVENING POST,

—"All
D—"The De ple."

"The Truant Soul" Is Henry Walthall's Best

"THE TRUANT SOUL."

Produced by Essanay, released thru K. E. S. E. service; privately shown. The cast:

Dr. John Lancaster.....Henry B. Walthall
Joan Wentworth.....Mary Charleson
Myers.....Patrick Calhoun
Mrs. Dana.....Anna Mae Walthall
Mrs. Fraser.....Mary Parkyn
Dr. Jenkins.....U. K. Haupt

By Oma Moody Lawrence.

When Henry Walthall said that his role of Dr. John Lancaster in "The Truant Soul" was his best effort we who remembered "The Avenging Conscience" and "The Birth of a Nation" smiled dubiously and thought it was one of those little remarks that the press agent sometimes demands from even the most truthful star. But Mr. Walthall was too modest. For straight dramatic value we cannot expect better on the stage or the screen. That sounds like a strong statemen, but when an audience large enough to fill the Studebaker Theater sits tense and still for two hour and the voice of a little child in the balcony tells all of us to "look at the little mouse," we know that we have seen a masterpiece. Photoplays there have been with more beauty of pageantry, with more cleverness of dialog expressed in the subtitles, but for emotional acting there has not been anything seen lately that can compare with "The Truant Soul."

All the parts call for strong ...trion... ability. The play ...st p... ram... ut the only ...

is t... nurs... situ... ave... int... wi... is... s... v... s... a... Cl... th... let... me... sai... was... fus... wit... som... pers... her... We... com... blu... pleas... to be...

This is a sensation ★ Book it early

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

RICHARD C. TRAVERS
and
GERTRUDE GLOVER
are presented in

"The Phantom Buccaneer"

By VICTOR BRIDGES

Directed by J. Charles Haydon

SCREEN TIME 1 HOUR, 20 MINUTES

A London adventurer overthrows a South American republic, slaying the president. The daughter swears vengeance. She forms a conspiracy and drives the adventurer from the country. She follows him and attempts to kill a double he has hired to impersonate him. She falls in love with the double. The two are accused when the real adventurer is slain. They are saved from the gallows by a dying man's confession.

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle St., Chicago

General Film Service

BLACK CAT

FEATURES

ARE NOW

Filling All Theatres

Do you realize the cumulative value of this repeated advertising to your patrons. Every time you announce a Black Cat feature you will pack them in. 100 thrilling and fascinating photoplays each entirely separate. Here's your opportunity!

"The Little Brown Mole"
featuring
Lillian Drew and Sydney Ainsworth
Screen time 31 minutes
Released December 19

"The Girl God Made for Jones"
featuring
Bryant Washburn
Screen time 33 minutes
Released January 2

"A Tale from the Decameron"
featuring
Nell Craig and Ernest Maupain
Screen time 30 minutes
Released December 26

"Among Those Present"
featuring
Richard C. Travers and
Gertrude Glover
Screen time 30 minutes
Released January 9

"Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 22"
By Wallace A. Carlson with Yosemite Valley Scenic No. 2
Screen time 15 minutes Released January 10

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. 1907

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle Street, Chicago

General Film Service

The KALEM KALENDAR

HAM is back. ETHEL is back. BUD and HENRY MURDOCH are right on the job, and have been all along. The combined efforts of these comedy artists can be seen to splendid advantage in the latest HAM COMEDY to be released

Tuesday, January 9th

The Title—

"RIVAL ROMEOS"

The Funmakers—

HAM and BUD, ETHEL TEARE and HENRY MURDOCH

The Story—

Ham and Bud without each other's knowledge pay over fat fees to a marriage broker for young, domesticated wives. Both get stung when the Girl proves that she is already married.

Wednesday, January 10th

"THE RESURRECTION OF GOLD BAR"

—another splendidly directed episode of "The Girl from Frisco."

The Stars—

MARIN SAIS and TRUE BOARDMAN

with a strong supporting cast, including Frank Jonasson, Ronald Bradbury and Edward Clisbee.

The Story—

The Girl from Frisco, accompanied by her father and her fiance, discovers gold in the abandoned mining town where she was born. Her fight to hold the newly staked out claim until the papers can be filed provides plenty of red-blooded excitement and snappy action. Written by Robert Welles Ritchie.

Friday, January 12th

"THE TRAIL OF GRAFT"

"Up to the present time there has not been a dull moment passed or a commnoplace incident in the versatile career of 'Grant, Police Reporter.' "—Motion Picture News.

The Stars—

OLLIE KIRKBY AND GEORGE LARKIN

The Story—

Grant's adventures nailing the corroborative evidence necessary to expose a grafter form the basis of this thrilling chapter. Imprisoned in a smoke-filled room with the grafter's stenographer, whose notes constitute the evidence, he climbs out on a rope with the girl on his back and swings across and down to safety.

Saturday, January 13th

"THE FIREMAN'S NEMESIS"

Maintaining the fast and furious pace set by "The Hazards of Helen" for the past two years, this second "Hazard" of the New Year makes good Kalem's boast that it is the Supreme Producer of Series Pictures.

The Star—

HELEN GIBSON

The Story—

Joe, the Wop, is promoted from engine wiper to the job of fireman. His success calls down upon him the hatred of an agent of a secret Vendetta. How Helen, the operator at Lone Point, goes to Joe's rescue provides the thrills.

KALEM COMPANY

235 West 23rd Street, New York City

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
THE FILM INDEX
EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.
Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY
17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.
(Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr.....President
J. F. Chalmers.....Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers.....Secretary and Treasurer
John Wylie.....General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands .....$3.00 per year
Canada. . . ..3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid).....4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.

(Index to this issue will be found on page 284.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, January 13, 1917

Facts and Comments

COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC SAFETY BARBER of Birmingham, Ala., is the latest exponent of intolerable local censorship regulation. From the local newspaper comments the theater men in that city have the press and a large percentage of public opinion on their side, together with many of the city officials. This should spell success for the picture interests, and we hope it will.

* * *

FREQUENTLY we have inquiries about moving pictures for negroes in this country, meaning those in which colored players only appear and in which the characters are people of that race. Few films of this type are now being produced; but seeing that there is a negro population of nearly 9,000,000 in the Southern states alone it would seem that there might be a profitable market for such films, especially in the "black belt" region. Such an output would appeal to picture theaters run by negro exhibitors for negro patrons, but it is doubtful if there are sufficient of these theaters to insure a profit for the producer.

* * *

WE BELIEVE the exhibitors of the country are intelligent enough to know how to run their own business best. All this paper has hoped to do and has endeavored to do is to give all the helpful information and suggestions we can to make their work easier and more profitable. After all, success depends on the personal effort of each exhibitor and not on the individual pretense or pose of any one as an exhibitor's Moses in leadership. The thought and effort of around fifty people are necessary to make the MOVING PICTURE WORLD every week.

* * *

THE "special representative direct from New York City" has invaded the West, according to one of our correspondents. The high-sounding claim that he directly represents the head of the company when possibly that official has never heard of him may for a time fool the exhibitor who before the visitation has been honored only with calls from the everyday roadman, but water will find its level. The tricks of other trades are being extended to that of selling motion pictures; for a while they may be successful in making sales, but "bunk," like murder, will out. An imposing title for a time may awe, but in time it will pall.

* * *

SHOULD motion picture publicity methods continue to improve at the present rate, it will not be long before the best traditions of the theaters are swept away and new records established by the picture press men. Already the national campaign exceeds the wildest dreams of the old theatrical agents because the appropriation available is so much greater.

* * *

CELEBRATING the anniversary of his marriage, President Wilson attended the performance at a local motion picture theater. Time was when official Washington would have been shocked at the idea of the Chief Executive attending an exhibition of motion pictures, but times have changed and the photoplay has been accepted as a part of the life of all classes. The one thing that for so long kept them in disfavor with the society faddists has been the absurdly small admission fee charged, but the two-dollar picture has removed this curse, and now even the leaders in government and social circles are not ashamed to confess their liking for the silent drama.

* * *

IT SEEMS absurd to build a quarter million dollar theater and then project pictures at a speed that would disgrace a five-cent store show, but it is done right along. Apparently few exhibitors can look at a crowd in the lobby and run the film at normal speed. It might pay to charge a little more and guarantee perfect projection at all times.

* * *

IT IS absurd to argue that there is no harm in a clean film with a sex title. No exhibitor would expect to do business with an unclean lobby, even though his auditorium be immaculate. The play's the thing, indeed, but soap and water, vacuum cleaners, courtesy and ventilation help a lot just the same.

That Deadly Silent Vote

By Louis Reeves Harrison

THE Exhibitor stands in front of his theater, watching the crowd pass in. He greets a few that he personally knows and recognizes many more as his steady patrons. He has tried his best to give his audiences a consistently good performance, and he hopes that a large number of those who pay their money in at the box office appreciate his efforts. They constitute the backbone of his success and may be called his Solid Support. With them he has an established good will, a sacred thing in all lines of business, one to be most carefully cherished.

But there are others. Some are passers by who have an hour or two on their hands. Some want to see this or that particular performer of exceptional merit or attractive personality. Some are simply home people who decide that evening after dinner that they will go to the picture show and are guided by convenience of locality far more than by judgment. Some go to get relief from daily drudgery, some to have their dull emotions stirred, nearly all in an expectant mood, in full realization that they are not risking much in the matter of outlay.

If any one distinguishing trait could be applied to the average moving picture audience, it is generosity. A man hates to complain of an evening's pastime which has only cost him the price of a cigar. He is very much in the position of one who buys a story magazine in hopes of finding something which will thoroughly divert his mind for a while. He may be disappointed, but he does not make much fuss over it. He has risked very little and is not going to distress himself over such an unimportant trifle. He may throw the periodical aside as not worth while and decides very sensibly to forget it.

The Exhibitor now goes forward and studies his audience of some 800 people. He is wise enough to know that there are quite a number there who would settle down in their seats at a cheap vaudeville performance ready to laugh at the comedian's stale jokes or applaud almost anything that happens on the stage. He knows that they will applaud the flag when shown on the screen. They are naturally noisy—they cannot talk in the picture show, so they laugh and clap their hands. He knows that they will boisterously approve when relief comes to melodramatic suspense.

There are others who applaud a fine sentiment and still others who express their admiration of an artistic scene. Some clap their hands with discrimination and others from nervous habit. Fifty can make a large noise. A hundred can make the hall ring. Two hundred can produce a storm and three hundred an ovation. But there are hundreds in one evening, thousands in the course of a week, who pass in and out with no indication of either approval or disapproval. Theirs the Silent Vote.

Why bother about the Silent Vote? If the Exhibitor is making money, is that not proof enough that he knows what he is doing? If he is not making as much money as he expected, it is the fault of this or that condition he has reasoned out for himself. Before reaching any settled conclusions, however, it cannot do any harm to most carefully consider the Solid Support and the Silent Vote. The first element gives substantial evidence of satisfaction with the performance. Quality of presentation must be maintained, or improved, to hold this valuable part of the attendance. It can be counted on until their is a lack of variety or a lapse of long duration from the established high standard of pictureplays shown.

You can't count on that Deadly Silent Vote. People of intelligence who go to the picture show and sit through the presentation without revealing what they think of it are often the most critical and influential members of a community. They will go to a theatrical performance and leave at the end in massed silent disapproval. When the attendance falls off soon after the manager sets up a howl that the dancing craze, or automobiles, or moving pictures are to blame. The truth is that he has only considered the great majority, the unreasoning mass, who are followers rather than leaders.

He has never figured out that the minority, the silent and discriminating class, constitute a real power in this country, one that is constantly growing, a class of people not to be fooled or trifled with. They are the ones who oftenest decide where to go when family members, or a party of congenial friends, start out for an evening's entertainment. The intelligent minority will always powerfully influence the careless and unthinking majority, quite as much in the matter of selecting a place of amusement as in politics and in business.

Not only is there such a class of people in attendance at the picture shows, men and women who fully grasp the fact that a beautiful new art of expression has come to displace many of the older ones, who are ready to give many of their evenings to undoubted high quality of presentation, but there are millions of the same kind who have been disappointed by the inferior examples they have seen, who regard the present stage of development as one of almost hopeless mediocrity. Why not enlist and hold the interest of those who are generously hopeful and bring in the uncounted millions of those who stay away?

It may be thought that no one is opposing high quality of production, but such is far from being the case. The worst enemies to improvement in this new art, producers and exhibitors are those with reversed faces, their eyes always looking in the direction from which they came. On that account they scarcely ever read the papers, and they cannot see ahead without twisting their necks. They can look back at safe paths well traveled, but they do not seem to realize that they are on a new route, either that, or they become frightened by their insecurity, and try to walk backward until they are lost among the down-and-outs.

No general progress can be made under such conditions. Entering, as we are, a comparatively new country, these revertive men make poor guides. They can only reason that what has been will always be, notwithstanding the fact that it is an entirely new art which is helping to make their fortunes. It has been beyond the drag to oppose scientific improvement—that is outside of his sphere of influence, but he has set his strength dead against original effort in artistry, against the progressive spirit of those who are trying to win that silent vote, against new ideas best suited to this newest of mediums.

Every now and then a producer, or an exhibitor, is made to financially realize that our progressive people prefer new lamps to old, but that light does not seem to show the true way to advance. Into our hands has been placed the greatest means of expressing thought and feeling the world has ever known—what are we doing with it? Shall we give it unlimited expansion in order to reach all classes of people, or shall we remain stagnant until we exhaust the patience of our warmest friends?

We have a medium which is an improvement on speech, more direct, more convincing, than the printed word. It is up to us to use it as intelligently, as broadly, as language is employed.

A Few Suggestions for the New Year

By Sam Spedo

SOME wise fellow said that human existence is divided into three sections; one third in preparing to do things, one third in trying to do them and the other third in thinking how differently we would do them if we had them to do over again.

"Old Man Experience" is a great teacher, from him we imbibe great wisdom. He inspired the immortal Longfellow to remark "Let the dead past, bury its dead, act in the living present," etc.

Now that we are on the threshold of a new year, let us profit by the experiences of the past and act in the present, for the good of all and the accomplishment of things for the betterment of the industry as a whole.

No man is sufficient in himself, he must have the cooperation of his associates to succeed in any undertaking. No one branch of the motion picture industry is greater than the whole.

If most of us gave as much attention to the good of the industry, of which we are only a unit, as we do to self glorification we would impress and inspire others with that loyalty and sincerity which we so often preach and so seldom practice.

Everyone expatiates in print and in public about the baneful necessity of publicity, to exploit the value of motion picture stars, which only fosters their conceit, encouraging them to be over exacting and unreasonable. We can all see the mote in our brother's eye but how about the beam in our own?

It would seem that publicity and the desire to pose on the nine foot line is contagious throughout the country, whether through force of association or otherwise, it is hard to tell, we endure, pity and then embrace it.

It is a weakness of human nature, to be seen and heard of men at banquets, meetings, in print and everywhere else.

More work and less talk would be more constructive and less destructive. It may be necessary at times to blow our own horn but we should not blow it in front of the procession at all times and on all occasions. The drum major gives style and front, but he doesn't make any of the music. There are others. "By their works ye shall know them."

At a recent meeting of exhibitors, after several speakers had been heard on the discussion of a motion, one of the exhibitors arose and said: "This meeting reminds me of a bull fight I saw in Mexico. The toreadors were jabbing at the bull at the risk of their lives, the audience kept shouting 'Viva el toro'! I asked a man next to me what they were saying. He said 'Three cheers for the bull.' That's what I say, 'Three cheers for the bull,' but let us do something. Question!"

If we could only separate publicity from news, we would have more interesting reading in our journals. We would know more about what has been done, is being done and what should be done, instead of wading through a lot of "personal" references to this, that and the other one who has nothing to do with the case, with a splash of publicity, entirely immaterial and irrelevant.

A whole lot of good has been done the past year for the advancement of the industry. A whole lot is being done and a great deal more that should be done; let us get together and do them. "Everybody makes mistakes, if they didn't they wouldn't put rubber on lead-pencils." Thank goodness we can correct them and there can be no excuse for continuing in the error of our ways. Let us do something to remove the obstacles that record our progress and do not leave it to the few to do the work of the whole.

It is uncontrovertible law that the indifferent many profit by the efforts of the willing few who always do more than their share. It has ever been so and ever will be thus. But there is one thing to be counted on in the day of reckoning, the indifferent many will be responsible for the failures of those who are working for the good of all.

Do not forget that you have unjust legislation and impositions to contend with and overcome. Every branch of the industry should unite to battle against them. Let this be the slogan: "All for one and one for all, United we stand divided we fall."

Among other things do not fail to remember that The Moving Picture World is with you. If we can lend our column to the betterment of your cause they are at your disposal. If you need our representation in delegation or assembly, we will be there to add our voice, in support or protest when called upon to do so.

Hampton Continues General Film Head

New President of Distributing Company to Control One-Half of Common or Voting Stock.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made that Benjamin B. Hampton will be elected to the presidency of the General Film Company at the annual meeting of the directors in the middle of January. It will be recalled that Mr. Hampton was called to the chair of the chief executive of the pioneer distributing company a couple of months ago, when George Kleine, owing to pressure of private affairs, insisted upon his associates accepting his resignation as president. Mr. Hampton said then that he had taken over the office only until the time of the annual meeting, and that future action of those most intimately connected with the affairs of the General naturally would depend upon the developments of the ensuing two months. He said he had accepted the office ad interim without salary, but that all his energies would be devoted to furthering the best interests of the company.

That Mr. Hampton has fully met the expectations of the directors of the General Film Company is demonstrated by the announcement that he is to be elected to the office of president for the full term. It is understood that in the past two months Mr. Hampton has outlined a plan of reorganization under which all the controversies revolving around the preferred stock of the company and in fact all matters tending to interfere with the smooth progress of the General will be cleared up; that in furtherance of this plan all the manufacturers contributing to the program have agreed to sell to Mr. Hampton one-half of their common or voting stock holdings and that the new president will bring to the treasury of the General ample funds to transform the company into a militant concern prepared to compete on an even footing with the strongest financial concerns in the film business.

It is declared Mr. Hampton did not care to assume the office of president for the full term unless he had the unanimous backing of the directorate. A majority basis would not be sufficient. It is said his aims in this direction have been fulfilled, that all concerned have given their full approval to his plans, and he will be a one hundred per cent. president.

Mr. Hampton intends the General Film shall not only release one, two and three reel subjects, but that there shall be no limit to the activities of the company. Films up to ten reels will be produced and marketed—that is, as was explained in the letter of Mr. Hampton published last week, when the action in the subjects fully warrant it.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION TO HOLD DINNER.

The dinner and entertainment to be given by the general division of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry will be held on Friday, January 26, as was suggested by the executive committee of the division. This was decided on at a meeting of the entertainment committee held Friday morning. The members of the general division and their guests will be invited.

Pathe and International Join Forces

Beginning January 14 All Productions of Two Companies Will Be Released Through Exchanges of the Former

BY an agreement completed Thursday, December 28, 1916, between Pathe Exchange, Inc., and the International Film Service, Inc., all of the pictures of the International, including serials, features, cartoons and the Hearst International News Pictorial, will be released through the Pathe Exchange, Inc. The new arrangement is effective January 1 and is one of the most important and far-reaching developments of the year. The agreement was concluded by Edward A. MacManus, general manager of the International, and J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of Pathe.

One of the most important features in connection with the new arrangement will be the consolidation of the two news reels—the Pathe News and the Hearst International News Pictorial. In future the combined news reel will be known as the Hearst-Pathe News. It will be issued twice weekly, beginning January 10. These will be the only news reels issued more than once a week. With the unsurpassed equipment of these two great organizations for gathering pictures in the entire world Hearst-Pathe News will be able to supply a most complete service.

The consolidation will also have an important bearing upon "Patria," the International's photoplay serial, in which is featured Mrs. Vernon Castle. It was the original intention of the International to issue this great patriotic serial on January 1. With the deal pending with Pathe, William Randolph Hearst recommended the postponement of the release date until the consummation of the consolidation. Accordingly, it has been decided that the serial, all episodes of which are practically completed, will be released on January 14 through the Pathe exchanges.

The Pathe exchanges will also start to release on January 10 the International's unsurpassed cartoon series. This includes the original "Katzenjammer Kids," "Jerry on the Job," "Bringing Up Father," "Krazy Kat" and the cartoons, in addition to those of Walt Hoban, George Herriman, and George MacManus, of Fred Opper, Tad, Jimmy Swinnerton, Tom Powers and others. Their works have become classics through their daily publication not only in the great string of Hearst newspapers but in more than 300 other newspapers, which either have been working in alliance with Pathe or Hearst interests for years throughout the United States with a combined circulation of over 28,000,000.

Great satisfaction was expressed by the principals in the consolidation over its successful consummation. Immediately upon its completion, J. A. Berst sent a telegram to William Randolph Hearst, who is spending the holidays in California, in which he said:

"I foresee an era of unusual prosperity in this move, which will work for the best interests of all concerned and by eliminating a certain amount of the waste of competition through cooperation advance by that much the interests of all exhibitors."

E. A. MacManus, general manager of the International, has been devoting most of his attention during the past month to the completion of the transaction. He has visited either in person or by representative all of the fifteen branches of the International throughout the country, arranging for the transfer of the offices as well as for the contracts of "Patria," "Beatrice Fairfax," and "The Mysteries of Myra," and of "Jaffery," "The Ocean Waif," "The Flower of Faith" and "The Jockey of Death," recent International features.

"The arrangement just entered into," said Mr. MacManus, "will mark an epoch in the motion picture business. Pathe pictures, plus Hearst publicity and promotion, will form the strongest combination ever effected in motion pictures, and will make their product the most sought for in the industry.

"All of the serials released on Pathe's program, together with those of the International, will be fully exploited in the Hearst publications. In addition, there will be enormous advertising campaigns in newspapers that have been exploiting Pathe and International pictures for the past three years. The enormous quantity of publicity that has been given to 'Patria' and Mrs. Vernon Castle, the star, is a good example of the manner in which we propose to exploit all Pathe pictures in the future. We propose to make the name Pathe the best known in the motion picture industry. Under the new alliance the publicity resources of both organizations will be greatly strengthened, assuring to all Pathe exhibitors the prestige of showing national advertised pictures, a demand for which has been established through advertising prior to the release.

"The novelized versions of Pathe's serials as well as 'Patria' will be published in Hearst publications, in New York, Boston, Atlanta, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles, as well as in practically every other large city in the country."

"The advantage of this alliance between the Hearst and Pathe interests are manifold," said Mr. Berst. "Pathe pictures plus Hearst publicity will be an unbeatable combination. The advertising derived from the Hearst interests will of course be of direct benefit to exhibitors everywhere and that is the reason this alliance was formed. This advertising will be prepared with a view of carrying out to the fullest possible extent Pathe's policy of cooperation.

"The new Hearst-Pathe News will be the greatest news pictorial ever assembled. Already the Pathe News is an American institution. Added to Pathe's world-wide camera and distributing organization will be Hearst's unrivaled news gathering facilities, supplemented by the greatest publicity organization in America. The best of the Hearst and Pathe correspondents and camera men in all parts of the world will be retained. The New Hearst-Pathe News will have the benefit of the combined efforts of executives of the two organizations.

"It has long been conceded that Pathe and International were supreme in the serial field. No better illustration of this can be found than in the two most recent serials of the two separate organizations—'Patria' and 'Pearl of the Army.' The new super-serials to be issued in future by the combined organizations will be made from stories selected in co-operation with the editors of the great Hearst newspapers and magazines. All of the world famous authors who contribute to Cosmopolitan, Hearst's Magazine, Good Housekeeping and other Hearst publications will contribute to Pathe's new and greater program, and these authors, together with the famous Pathe scenario staff will give us a literary organization of unmatchable and unprecedented strength.

"The cartoon service of Pathe will be greatly strengthened by the addition of the Hearst cartoonists. Alternating weekly, the work of these famous Hearst artists will appear in addition to Pathe cartoons made by the world famous Bray process.

"For months, Pathe has been building the finest exchange organization in the industry. Now this organization will be further strengthened by the addition of the best men of the International exchange. The best office in each city will be retained and other exchanges closed.

"Beginning January 1 International customers receive service from the Pathe office in the city from which they formerly received International Service. Later service will be furnished from the nearest Pathe office.

"Every city, town and hamlet in the United States will have been reached before the 'Patria' campaign closes. We know that 'Patria' is a great serial, and we are backing this knowledge with the greatest advertising campaign ever known. The film and a remarkable assortment of advertising material are now in all of Pathe's thirty branches and everything is in readiness for the release on January 14."

C. R. Seelye, business manager of Pathe, sent the news to his managers as a New Year's message. He pointed out that the strength of Pathe's program and the addition of the International releases and the Hearst publicity means that all Pathe managers and salesmen will earn more under the profit-sharing arrangement now in effect.

ZIERLER GIVEN CHRISTMAS SURPRISE.

Santa Claus paid an unexpected visit to the Universal Film Exchange, 23rd street, New York, on Saturday afternoon, December 23rd, in the guise of a score or so of the employes and friends of the well-known and much-admired manager, Sam Zierler. Santa presented himself on this occasion in the form of Mr. Zierler's associates, who entered his office fully prepared to tender him the honors of the season. The spirit of giving was materialized in the presentation of a handsome diamond stick-pin. Mr. Zierler delivered a short speech of acceptance, after which he proposed to be the host of a party at a nearby restaurant. Suffice to say, the "blow-out" was enjoyed by all present, and the holiday spirit was at its height.

Films May Now Be Shipped by Mail

After January 1 Post Office Will Accept Packages Under Practically the Same Rules as Express Companies Enforce

UNDER an order which went into effect on January 1, motion picture films have been admitted to the mails. The change of postal regulations, as embodied in the order issued at Washington by Second Assistant Postmaster General Praeger, permits the shipment of films by mail at regular parcel post rates. The order contains specific regulations as to how the films shall be packed. These regulations are practicallv the same as those that apply to the packing of films for shipment by express. The issuance of the order came about largely through the efforts of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry.

The advantage to the industry resulting from the order will be far-reaching. The immediate and direct result will be that many communities heretofore deprived of motion pictures because of inadequate express facilities will be enabled to obtain films. Film companies will save large sums of money in that they will not be compelled to make extra prints because of handicapped distribution.

Of the advantages that are sure to accrue because of the fact that the mails have been opened to films, and of the work of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry in behalf of better distribution, F. H. Elliott, executive secretary of the association, said:

"We have been in conference with the traffic managers of the various express companies and believe that with this new competition eventually lower rates will be granted by the express carriers for film shipments.

"By shipping films through the mails entirely new territory will be opened up, where heretofore there has been no service whatsoever, and which may now be reached by the real parcel delivery post. This will make possible the rental of old films which have gone the rounds of the larger cities and on which the margin of profit is now very small on account of the high express charges for short distances from the exchanges. One of the most important phases in permitting the films to go through the mails is that film shipments will always have the right of way in the event of railroad strikes, either locally or nation-wide.

"This recognition of the film industry by the Post Office Department should have a material effect upon the insurance underwriters, and it is not unlikely that lower rates will be granted in the near future. The distributors and exchanges will have available, beginning January 1, two transportation facilities, namely, express companies and federal postal service.

"A chart of the rates under the new ruling of the Postmaster General will be immediately undertaken by the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and distributed to all the association members throughout the United States and Canada."

The paragraph relating to the packing of films for shipment by mail, as contained in the order of the Post Office Department, states that films must be packed in tightly-closed metal cases inclosed in a strong, spark-proof wooden box, or in spark-proof cases made of sheet iron. The rule stipulates that the inner containers must be lined throughout with fibre board at least one-eighth inch thick. The covers of these cases must fit tightly and must lap over the body at least five-eighths of an inch on the sides, forming a tight joint. All packages of film must also have attached a yellow label—a notice to postal employees as to the contents of the package.

Margaret Illington a Lasky Star

Celebrated Actress to Make Motion Picture Debut on Paramount Program in "The Inner Shrine."

THE most important stellar acquisition to the screen which has been made since Jesse L. Lasky induced Geraldine Farrar to become a photoplayer was made known last week when it was announced that Mr. Lasky has signed a long-term contract with Margaret Illington by the terms of which the distinguished stage celebrity abandons the stage to become a permanent Lasky star on the Paramount Program.

Margaret Illington.

Margaret Illington is one of those very few stage stars who have resisted the steady pressure of the motion picture and its many inducements. By her superb display of histrionic genius in some of the greatest of recent stage successes, Miss Illington has risen to a position among the foremost stage stars of the day. Among her greatest successes have been "A Japanese Nightingale," in which she scored a tremendous hit; Henriette in the all-star cast of "The Two Orphans," Mrs. Leffingwell in "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots"; "The Lion and the Mouse," in which she made her first London appearance at the Duke of York's; "Kindling," Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet," and "The Lie."

An adaptation of Basil King's celebrated novel, "The Inner Shrine," has been chosen by Mr. Lasky as the vehicle of Miss Illington's photoplay debut. It is one of the most widely read novels of the day and has proven a tremendous success in dramatic form, having been dramatized by Channing Pollock, and is considered to be admirably suited to motion picture purposes. Following "The Inner Shrine," Miss Illington will start in a production which is being written especially for her by Charles Kenyon, author of "Kindling," in which she made one of her greatest stage successes.

Miss Illington departs for the Lasky studio in Hollywood in the middle of January and arrangements have already been completed whereby she will occupy the same bungalow which housed Geraldine Farrar during her stay in California.

Every resource at his command will be bent, says Mr. Lasky, toward providing Miss Illington with the means of eclipsing on the screen the record of artistic achievement which she has made upon the stage.

MARY NASH WITH WORLD FILM.

Mary Nash is the very latest addition to the rapidly increasing group of feminine stars engaged by the World Film Corporation in line with the recent announcement of Director General William A. Brady. The future releases of this company now include plays the central figures in which are in the hands of Alice Brady, Ethel Clayton, Kitty Gordon, Gail Kane, Marie Dressler and Miss Nash.

The actress last mentioned will be the star of several World-Brady pictures under her present contract. This document contains a renewal clause of which the corporation fully expects to take advantage.

Miss Nash is at present playing the featured role in "The Man Who Came Back," the current all-season attraction at the Playhouse, New York. In this drama she has a personation which covers an exceptionally wide range of emotions and characteristics set in surroundings embracing a cabaret in San Francisco, an opium joint in Yokohama and a pineapple plantation in Hawaii.

"THE COSSACK WHIP" IN DEMAND.

Manager W. E. Raynor, of the New York K-E-S-E Exchange, states that the Kleine-Edison superfeature, "The Cossack Whip," is one of the greatest "come-back" subjects his office has ever handled. Fully 40 per cent. of the theaters which have played "The Cossack Whip" have already arranged for return engagements, and requests for open dates are coming in daily from exhibitors who have played to capacity business with their first showing of this unusually powerful story of bloody Russia. Viola Dana is featured in the production.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE ORGANIZER.

In answer to recent inquiries in regard to the Exhibitors' League Organizations and for the information of exhibitors in any of the States, readers will kindly note that Fred J. Herrington is National Organizer for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. All correspondence on the subject may be addressed to him at 402 Knox avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

North Carolina Exhibitors' Convention

A Businesslike Session Well Attended—Moving Picture World's Projection Talks Indorsed.

THE attendance was very gratifying, and the convention truly remarkable from two viewpoints, namely: the full attendance at the sessions and the good, hard-headed horse sense shown, both in official action and in the addresses and talks by the various members. President Wells has the happy faculty of keeping every one interested and of so directing the work of the convention that a maximum of accomplishment is had with a minimum of work.

First Session.

The convention was called to order at 8.30 o'clock p. m., Tuesday, December 19, by President P. W. Wells. All officers were present. Mayor T. L. Kirkpatrick delivered a really magnificent address of welcome, filled to overflowing with that Southern hospitality which makes the stranger feel that he is not merely welcome, but that he is among warm-hearted, generous friends. Three dominant notes rang out in the Mayor's address. "There is no North and no South, but Old Glory waves over a united people who love its every star and stripe. We of Charlotte firmly believe it is the very best city in all this broad land. Keep your screens so clean that a censor would starve to death from lack of anything to do, and always remember that the moving picture is a mighty power which may be used either for good or for bad."

These three points the Mayor dwelt upon. His address was thoroughly enjoyed. The response by President Wells was brief and to the point, laying stress upon the truth of what the Mayor had said.

F. H. Richardson, editor Projection Department Moving Picture World, then addressed the body on the responsibility of the theater manager to the producer and to the public, particularly impressing the fact that improper projection sets up needless eye strain and that poor presentation upon the screen rendered of no effect the efforts of the actor and the producer. The audience listened with close attention, and afterward said many kind things about this part of the performance.

After the session the convention adjourned to the Broadway Theater and enjoyed a showing of "The Common Law," a Selznick production.

Wednesday Morning Session.

The convention convened at 10.30 a. m. Wednesday and quickly resolved itself into a series of short talks by members on subjects pertinent to the welfare of North Carolina exhibitors. There was a noticeable and very gratifying lack of the argumentative spirit. The membership seemed, as a whole, to have a very definite idea of exactly the things needing attention, and the only question was how best to get action.

Incidentally let it be noted that Frank J. Rembusch (you all know him) recently said: "The North Carolina Exhibitors' League is the best body of its kind in existence, because it gets right down to business." It must be agreed that all too many leagues waste fully two-thirds of their meeting time in burdening the atmosphere with a copious flow of useless words, all of which makes for inefficiency.

Secretary Varner, Lexington, N. C., called attention to the absolute necessity for co-operation. "Get together," said he, "in your own town, in the state, and nationally." He remarked upon the friendliness of President Wilson toward the moving picture industry, and what had been accomplished for its benefit in Washington.

Delegates and Guests at the North Carolina

R. D. Craver, Charlotte, and others set forth the fact that North Carolina insurance rates, as applied to moving picture theatres, is not only excessive and burdensome, amounting in some cases to $5 per hundred, but that it is also poorly distributed. Mr. Richardson, of the Moving Picture World, was asked for his views as to fire risk, and explained that with properly constructed operating rooms, equipped with properly installed fire shutters and a vent flue of ample size, there is absolutely no risk to any property outside the operating room from film fire.

An exhibitor who is himself an insurance agent agreed that rates were too high. Several members, among them Secretary Varner, spoke of the over-taxation motion picture theaters of North Carolina are subject to and a committee consisting of R. D. Craver, Charlotte; J. M. Davis, Salisbury; and J. E. Simpson, Gastonia, was appointed by President Wells to decide upon what action the convention ought to take with regard to state taxation of theatres, and insurance rates as applied thereto.

Wednesday Afternoon Session.

Telegrams were received from various absent ones regretting inability to attend, and wishing the convention godspeed in its work.

The question of return shipment charges on film was first discussed. Exchange men voiced the view that the prepayment of return express charges is only fair, basing their view on the fact that productions are costing largely increased sums, due to increased salaries to "stars," and increased elaboration of production, also that "paper" costs two or three times what it did cost; also that there is much waste of express charges due to separate shipments of reels and "paper," which should be shipped together, the separate shipments costing practically twice as much.

There was also much discussion as to the deposit system. The exchange men made it plain that the advance deposit was demanded because while the great bulk of exhibitors were responsible men, who paid their bills promptly, there were others who literally made a business of getting service for nothing by failure or refusal to pay their bills. E. F. Dardie, Universal manager, made a most excellent argument, from the exchangeman's point of view, on the subject. O. R. Brown, Raleigh, and H. B. Varner, Lexington, N. C., were appointed to act with similar committees from District of Columbia and Maryland, and confer with the New York producers looking to a settlement of the question.

The matter of charges for "paper" also caused much intelligent discussion, though no definite action resulted.

Wednesday Evening Session.

Only one piece of official business was transacted at this session. E. F. Dardie, presented the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted.

Following this action President Wells, in well chosen words, presented Dr. Cranston Brenton, Chairman National Board of Review, who for more than an hour held the convention's close attention as he discussed censorship and explained the work of the board. The doctor is opposed to a salaried censor board, but believes in a review of films by an impartial, unpaid, unbiased board of review. At one point he said: "Would you rather place the fate of a photoplay in the hands of a board composed of two hundred unpaid men and women, or in the hands of a board composed of four or five paid politicians, who would be obliged to find fault or lose their jobs?"

He emphasized the share the exhibitor has in the responbility for the social welfare of the community and said:

"The evil picture does not pay and I will leave it to the exhibitor himself to bear me out in that statement.

"The National Board of Review has taken definite action regarding the pictures known as the white slave films.

"We wanted to find out what the exhibitors thought of that kind of a picture and so we selected 60 of the most prominent in the whole United States and sent them questions relative to their stands on the matter. Almost unanimously those 60 men answered us and said that they did not believe in running them.

The Motion Picture Exhibitors League of North Carolina

P. W. WELLS . . . . President, Bijou Theatre, Wilmington, N. C.
L. B. DAVIS . . . 1st Vice President, Crystal Theatre, Wilmington, N. C.
H. W. JORDAN . . 2nd Vice President, Gem Theatre, Laurinburg, N. C.
H. B. VARNER . . . Secretary, Lyric Theatre, Lexington, N. C.
OTTO HAAS . . . . Treasurer, Ottohaas Theatre, Charlotte, N. C.
A. F. SAMS . . . . Attorney, Winston-Salem, N. C.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
THE LYRIC THEATRE
LEXINGTON, N. C.

December Twenty Firs
1 9 1 6

WHEREAS the semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Branch of the Exhibitors League of America has listened with much interest to an address on projection by F. H. Richardson, editor and writer on that subject, and is thoroughly convinced that the same is full of value, practical advice and suggestion to both exhibitors and operators and, therefore, of large value to the moving picture industry.

RESOLVED: that this convention does most heartily recommend that exhibitors arrange with Mr. Richardson for the delivery of his lecture before them and their operators wherever it is possible or practical so to do.

Unanimously adopted by the convention December 21,1916.

R. W. Wells President.

Attest H. B. Varner Secretary.

Exhibitors' Convention, Charlotte, N. C.. December 19, 1916.

"You must take into consideration the fact that public opinion is to determine what your success is to be.

"I am positively opposed to censorship. The police regulate those things the world over and whenever there is a play, book or address given to the public which is not strictly up to the standards of morality and public decency they close it." Dr. Brenton's address was instructive, and was well received by the convention.

Last Session.

Thursday morning's session was the last business session of the convention and the time was entirely consumed in discussion of various matters of interest to North Carolina exhibitors.

Thursday afternoon the convention was tendered an automobile ride by the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce, one feature of which consisted in practically every car stopping to examine its rear tires. During the afternoon several noted screen stars arrived, among them Miss Rose Tapley and Maurice Costello, and at a most thoroughly enjoyable Dutch supper Miss Tapley, Mr. Costello and Editor Richardson were made honorary members of the North Carolina Exhibitors' League.

The convention closed in a blaze of glory by a grand ball at which Charlotteans were permitted to feast their eyes on the "stars," and trip the merry mazes of the dance until the wee sma' hours.

Side Lights on the Convention.

That smile of Chairman of Entertainment Committee Craver is an excellent and much needed substitute for the Sun of Sunny Southland.

Percy Wells, 'tis rumored, uses the motion picture business as a watch charm.

Friend Anderson is worried. Who tempted the golden rooster—and did he fall?

The exchange men arose to inquire: "Who will check the bad, naughty check?

Query: Who cracked the North Carolina prohibition law? Also who placed a certain Milwaukee city under cracked ice in Richardson's wash basin?

Massachusetts Exhibitors Elect Officers

Hold Annual Dinner at Quincy House, Boston—President Horstmann Retained.

OVER 100 members and friends of the Massachusetts Branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America gathered together at the Quincy House, Boston, for their annual dinner and meeting, Thursday, December 21. The affair was one of much joy, together with the serious business of election of officers for the ensuing year.

President Ernest Horstmann complimented the moving picture ball committee for their handsome showing of a profit of $1,538.66 and congratulations were extended to Samuel Grant, the chairman of the ball committee. Treasurer Wasserman's report was read and accepted by all present with great favor, it showing the club on a sound financial basis, all outstanding debts having been paid and a surplus of some few hundred dollars in the treasury.

Among the other official business of the meeting two new members were accepted, namely, Dennis J. Shea, of Boston, and J. F. Connors, of Lynn.

President Horstmann spoke at some length on the proposed elimination of advance deposits on all pictures to exhibitors that has recently been suggested by film manufacturers, which, however, did not meet with favor by the Massachusetts League—it desiring to do business on the same old basis.

The following officers were elected: First vice-president, M. J. Lydon, of Boston; second vice-president, A. Summerby, of Boston; treasurer, W. B. Sproule, of Boston; secretary, Alden Washburn; national vice-president, Frank J. Howard, Boston.

The following delegates to the Chicago Convention have been nominated to represent Massachusetts: R. W. Drown, J. Koen, H. I. Wasserman, J. Lawrie, W. D. Sproule, M. Lydon. The alternates to the Chicago Convention are: N. Demara, A. F. Washburn, P. F. Lydon, H. A. Gilman, A. Summerby.

The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: J. Lawrie, H. E. Gilman, M. Lydon, R. W. Drown, G. F. Washburn, Al Summerby, Ernest Horstmann, E. Daniels, F. J. Howard.

A motion was in order for the Board of Directors to elect a president. They retired and brought in the name of Ernest J. Horstmann, who was re-elected as President of the Massachusetts Branch of the Exhibitors' League of America for the ensuing year.

Warning to Michigan Exhibitors

Great Need for Co-operation on Part of Large Houses to Combat Harmful Legislation.

AS a result of the recent state convention of the Michigan League at Detroit on Dec. 12, we can well look forward to a much larger meeting next June at which time new officers will be elected. One thing seems to be very necessary for the success of the Michigan League and that is the co-operation of the larger exhibitors. They should not overlook the fact that drastic legislation, drastic ordinances and requirements and unfair public sentiment hurts them just as much as it does the small exhibitors.

It is absolutely wrong for the larger exhibitors to maintain an attitude of "I Should Worry" and leave all the worry, work and expense to the crowd of smaller exhibitors. As someone said at the convention, the object of all trade organizations is to "protect the weak as against the strong." It has been proven and demonstrated on many occasions where the larger firms in many lines of trade were absolutely helpless without the smaller ones.

The Michigan exhibitors, large and small, are going to have to seriously consider some very drastic bills during the coming session of the state legislature. What kind of opposition will these bills receive? Who is going to oppose them? Better results can certainly be obtained by co-operative effort rather than individual effort.

It has been suggested that twice a year is not often enough for the state association to meet, and several exhibitors have suggested that meetings be held four times a year on account of so many different problems coming up in the course of every three months. Certainly if meetings were held oftener it would give the exhibitors a chance to become better acquainted.

MARYLAND EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE.

On Thursday, December 21, a meeting was held by 25 exhibitors of Baltimore at the New Theater, 210 West Lexington street, which had been called by those officially in charge of the temporary Exhibitors' League which is now being formed in the State of Maryland. The officers who were elected at the one previous meeting, held a few weeks ago, are still to remain in charge. They are: Louis Schlichter, temporary chairman; Thos. D. Goldberg, secretary, and F. A. Hoernig, treasurer.

One of the first things taken up by those present was the advisability of giving out for publication those affairs which were discussed by the members, and it was decided that all discussions should be held secret. It is understood, however, that a by-laws committee was appointed, of which J. Louis Rome, of the Broadway Theater, is the chairman. This committee is now busy framing up the code. Another action which was taken was the appointing of each member who was present as a committee of one to see other exhibitors and interest them in the forming of the league and it is understood that if one fails to interest an exhibitor another will be sent. The next meeting has been set for Sunday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, January 7.

EXHIBITORS' BALL AT MINNEAPOLIS.

The grand ball of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest will be held at the National Guard Armory, Minneapolis, Feb. 12, 1917, if present plans carry. Chairman J. A. Keough of the dance committee made this announcement at the last weekly meeting of the corporation, and added that efforts are being made to get several film stars here for the occasion. Chairman D. G. Rodgers of the convention committee informed the meeting that the West Hotel, Minneapolis, had been selected for the annual convention next May.

Chairman L. V. Calvert of the legislative committee reported progress in battling the thirty-day advance deposit system and President J. G. Gilosky appointed a committee to visit the exchange managers of Minneapolis and tell them the Northwest body did not demand that exchanges refuse to book films to churches and other unlicensed exhibitors, but that it did demand that such bodies book their films through a nearby theater instead of from an exchange direct. Secretary Koenig reported the addition of several new members to the list and urged that the exhibitors get into the fold before January, when the state legislature of Minnesota meets, and will take up proposed Sunday closing, taxation and state license laws.

Trigger Protests Against Deposits

Writes Letter to Exchanges in Which He Has Good Word for Hoy—Appoints Committees.

Samuel T. Trigger, president of the Manhattan local of the Exhibitors' League, has sent a letter to those New York exchanges which require a deposit from exhibitors. It is as follows:

The sentiments of the exhibitors against the deposit system now in vogue between them and the exchanges is so universal that I feel it is up to me, as president of the New York City Exhibitors' League, to register my protest with theirs for its withdrawal. As you are aware, it involves quite a hardship on the majority of exhibitors. Now, with the Hoy system, which the exchanges have adopted, it does seem like adding insult to injury. I know you do not want to antagonize the exhibitor; nor do I, as their representative, wish to antagonize the exchanges, but I am simply trying to arbitrate and adjust matters amicably and with a fairness to all concerned.

Isn't it reasonable to assume that the Hoy system covers the question and there is no need of deposits. This system makes it impossible for the exhibitor to get more than one week's credit; if he does not fulfill his obligations he cannot procure service in Greater New York. I am heartily in favor of this protection which the Hoy system gives, and sincerely believe it covers the exchange fully against loss. If so, why continue the deposit system?

As stated, the exhibitors are perfectly willing to arbitrate in any way that we can agree upon. We have not, as yet, been accorded a hearing on this subject, and in behalf of the exhibitors, I respectfully request an interview so we may arrange for an appointment when we can get together and discuss the question from our different viewpoints.

SAMUEL H. TRIGGER.

Mr. Trigger has appointed the following executive board to assist the officers of the local during the coming year:

Board of Directors:

Sidney Ascher, Wonderland, chairman; B. K. Bimburg, Schuyler; Charles Haring, Palace; J. L. Steiner, Fourteenth Street; J. Brandon, Bunny; A. B. Samuelson, Art; S. Landau, Heights; L. Rosenthal, Classic; J. Fisher, Decatur; Louis Blumenthal, Palace; L. Cohen, 36 Cathedral Parkway; D. Picker, Burland; Sidney Cohn, Empire; Grant Anson, Comet; Eder Valensi, Variety; F. A. Gorman, Yorkville Casino; Louis Gordon, Venice; Mike Tischler, Rivington; Mike Glynn, Alhambra; B. Weinberg, Hudson; A. J. Stockhammer, Parkway; Nathan E. Bloch, Orpheum; W. R. Schwirm, Adelphi; M. Zeno, West End.

Arbitration committee, Charles Steiner, chairman, Fourteenth Street; Sam Speedon, Moving Picture World; William Wright, Kalem; L. W. Attwater, Precision Machine Company; W. C. Smith, Nicholas Power Co.; A. S. Abeles, Pathe Exchange; Nathan E. Bloch, Orpheum.

Grievance committee, Sidney Cohn, Empire; F. A. Gorman, Yorkville Casino; J. Miller, Pastime.

Good and Welfare committee, S. L. Rothapfel, Rialto, chairman; Al. Hartstan, Regun; Frank Peters, Ocelo.

Law and judicial committee, Grant Anson, chairman, Comet; Adolph Weis, Avenue A; Ben Lyons, Ron, Brooklyn.

Ways and means committee, Charles Haring, chairman, Palace; William Bigall, Irving, Brooklyn; Herman Myer, Electra.

Transportation committee, O. J. Wolf, chairman; E. Fortgang, Bryant; William York, Amphion.

House committee, I. Hartstall, chairman, Bunny, Brooklyn; M. Feltenstein, Bushwick Palace; B. Weinberg, Hudson.

Publicity committee, M. Oestreicher, chairman, Franklin; Harris Stravit, Grand Central.

Auditing committee, Charles Steiner, chairman; E. Leventhal, Manhattan.

Van der Veer Going to South America

Well Known Camera and Film Man Will Take Topicals, Scenics and Folk Customs in West Indies and Venezuela for Gaumont.

WILLARD VAN DER VEER will be a passenger on the Quebec Steamship Company's South American boat, Guiana, during the first week in January. Trinidad will be his first stopping place and he expects to remain there for some weeks. Later, after making a series of trips through the islands of the West Indies, he will go to Cuidad-Bolivar, the one-time capital of Venezuela. This small and quite primitive city lies 500 miles up the Orinoco. It will take two days for the river boat to make this trip, if everything goes well. If it doesn't, the time may extend to five or six days. From Cuidad Mr. Van der Veer expects to go inland for at least a hundred miles further, perhaps for two hundred, to get jungle scenes and views of the Indian tribes. Unfortunately there are Indians there who are far from being friendly to white men, and Mr. Van der Veer, who has been there before and had a brush or two with these ugly-minded gentlemen, will take care not to offend them again.

He will take a full assortment of lenses, a portable laboratory outfit—it being necessary to develop film quickly after exposure in the hot, damp climate—and about 15,000 feet of film. More unexposed film will be shipped to him as he calls for it. Film doesn't keep well in Venezuela. The Gaumont Company will take the pictures he secures and they will, of course, be shown on the Mutual program.

The Sunnyside Methodist Church, Los Angeles, presented a special moving picture Christmas program in the church for the entertainment of its members, December 21. "Cinderella," with Mary Pickford in the titular role, was contributed by the Famous Players Film Service. The decorations were donated by the E. E. Fulton Company.

Jane Cowl to Come to the Screen

Goldwyn Pictures Secures Famous Dramatic Artist, Who Will Begin Work Before Camera in Spring.

JANE COWL, one of the greatest stars of the spoken drama and known to millions as the heroine of "Within the Law" and "Common Clay," tremendously profitable plays of recent years, is to star in Goldwyn Pictures. After holding out against pictures for several years and holding pointed negative opinions about the cinema, Miss Cowl has been converted to a belief in the screen art and will appear for this newest of great film producing organizations in a series of pictures.

Immediately following the run of her newest stage play, "Lilac Time," soon to be produced by Selwyn & Company, Miss Cowl in the late spring will begin work in the Goldwyn eastern studios on two pictures of immense dramatic scope, to be written around her distinctive personality by two of America's most important dramatists. Each year thereafter, between her theatrical engagements, Miss Cowl will appear in other Goldwyn productions.

"I have never had a prejudice against motion pictures," says Miss Cowl in making her film debut, "but against the stupid type of pictures that many of the producers seemed to feel it was necessary to make. I have always felt that the film producers underrated the intelligence of their public. I have worked tremendously hard to gain a definite position in the American theater, and because of the seriousness with which I view my professional work I have vowed that I would not enter motion pictures—regardless of the monetary inducements—until such a time as I felt that my picture future would be placed in the hands of discerning and brainy managers with an entirely new type of motion picture ideals.

"The formation of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation was the development necessary to interest me in appearing on the screen. My greatest dramatic success as a star was made under the management of Selwyn & Company in 'Within the Law.' I have the greatest admiration for the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation. In joining their organization I feel that I am taking no chances, as I know their tastes, purposes and high standards. Also, I do not have to become acquainted with strangers."

Asked about salary and other inducements, Miss Cowl said: "Why talk of that? I am going into these pictures because I believe everything will be done to make them big and beautiful and fine. I want to try and discover if I can bring to the screen something that no one else has brought. At least I shall have the joy of trying."

Edison Announces Titles

Several Good Stories to Be Secured for Early Release on Conquest Program.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT of the names of some of the stories that have been dramatized and that are ready for release on the Edison Conquest Pictures program has been made by Thomas A. Edison, Inc. One of the early releases on the Conquest Pictures program will be a two-reel dramatization of "Gallagher," the famous story that brought the late Richard Harding Davis to the attention of the literary world. This is one of the few great newspaper stories ever written and it lends itself admirably to screen production. Two Ralph Henry Barbour stories also will be among the early Conquest Pictures to be released, according to present plans. They are "For the Honor of the School," and "The Half-Back." Barbour is recognized as being one of the foremost writers of exciting tales of adventurous young manhood.

Some other stories that will be released on the Conquest Pictures program are "Barnaby Lee," by John Bennett; "Shut Out in the Ninth," and "Chris and the Wonderful Lamp." The latter, by Albert Stearns, is a very clever and entertaining comedy and is an exceptionally good story for a general program.

Stories by Ellis Parker Butler and Rex Beach also have been made available for production for the Conquest Pictures program and the literary works of many other authors of established renown are under consideration at the present time.

STAHL TO DIRECT CORRA BEACH.

Walter R. Stahl has been obtained to produce "What Becomes of the Children," which features Corra Beach and Walter Shumway.

The company is in Jacksonville, Fla., where the first scenes will be made. The play will be put on with careful regard for details. Lighting effects and backgrounds, both exterior and interior, will be obtained regardless of cost.

New License Schedule in Spokane

City Commissioners and Theater Managers Agree on a Material Reduction in the Cost of Showing Pictures in That Town

MOVING picture theater managers and owners of Spokane, Wash., have completed a successful campaign for lower licenses for their houses after a couple of sessions with the City Commissioners. The reductions have been agreed on and will be incorporated into a city ordinance in a few days so as to be effective January 1.

The managers met with the commissioners and presented their requests. A session was arranged several days later at which the matter was thoroughly explained and discussed, as Mayor Charles A. Fleming had agreed that the city could stand the cut. The picture shows had been paying the same licenses as other theaters ranging from $100 to $200, according to the seating capacity and admission price.

At the final conference the City Commissioners and managers of the moving picture theaters agreed to a new schedule of motion picture license fees, in which reductions ranging from 12½ to 50 per cent. are given. The commissioners added an additional fee of $5 to $10 a week for houses that occasionally raise their prices, in an effort to equalize the difference between the larger and smaller houses when changes of the regular price of admission are made.

The picture men injected a new angle into the discussion by asking the city commissioners to pass some protective measure that would confine the exhibition of motion pictures to picture houses. They claimed that the vaudeville houses and theaters playing road shows provide unfair competition for the moving picture men by exhibiting pictures, whereas the picture houses do not invade the fields of vaudeville and one night stands.

Remedial legislation in the way of additional license fees for the houses playing both vaudeville and pictures or road shows and pictures were suggested by Ralph Ruffner, manager of the Liberty theater; Dr. H. S. Clemmer, proprietor of the Clemmer theater; C. E. Stillwell, head of the Stillwell theaters, and James McConahey, manager of the Best theater.

The city commissioners at first declined to accept any suggestions along the line of a protective ordinance for the picture shows. After the possibility of a double license for the vaudeville houses and general theaters showing pictures were suggested it was received with more favor by the city commissioners, who deferred action until later.

Discussion ensued over the question of the addition to be made to the license fees for picture houses raising their price of admission for large feature films. Mayor Fleming's tentative ordinance proposed $5 a day additional, saying that he wanted to discourage increase of price as much as possible. Commissioner Fassett thought a sufficient penalty should be added to make the picture men hesitate about raising prices.

Manager Ruffner protested against the added penalty, as proposed, claiming that it was prohibitive, and said he would prefer to pay his present license of $200 a year, with the right to change his admission fee in order to land a special film.

Commissioner Fasset proposed a compromise by which moving picture houses raising their admission would be required to pay $5 a week additional. On the suggestion of Mayor Fleming this was amended to make it read $5 per week or part of a week for all increases of admission fee up to 50 cents, and $10 a week extra for increases of admission ranging from 50 cents to $1, box seat prices not to count.

Under the revised license figures, which are based on seating capacity and prices of admission, all save one of the five-cent picture houses will pay but $50 a year, as against $100 on the old basis. The one exception is the Empress, with a seating capacity of 980, which will be required to pay $100.

In the 10-cent class a special grade seating under 250 was made for the Gem theater in Union park, by which its license fee will be reduced from $100 to $50. The Class A theater will receive a reduction from $100 to $75, and the Casino will pay $100. The Liberty and Clemmer theaters, in the 15-cent class, and seating 800 to 1,100, will receive a reduction from $200 to $175 per annum.

The new picture house license schedule follows:

Seating capacity.	License fee per annum.
FIVE-CENT HOUSES.
Not over 500	$50
500 to 800	75
800 to 1,100	100
TEN-CENT HOUSES.
Under 250	50
Not over 500	75
500 to 800	100
800 to 1,100	150
FIFTEEN-CENT HOUSES.
Not over 500	100
500 to 800	125
800 to 1,100	175
Over 1,100	200

For increasing prices of admission, $5 per week or fraction for the first 50 cents, and $10 per week or fraction for each increase over 50 cents and not exceeding $1. Total fees counting extras are not to exceed highest license paid each class, as noted above.

PROPERTY ACQUIRED FOR TRIUMPH THEATER.

A deal was recently consummated between the Barney Estate Company, as owners, represented by Gould & Wilkie, as attorneys, and the 1620 Broadway Company, as lessees, represented by O'Brien, Boardman, Harper & Fox, attorneys for the lessees, for the property, 1614-1620 Broadway, adjoining the northeast corner of 49th street and Broadway. This site is to be improved with a new theater to be known as the Triumph, devoted to the motion picture art and to be the finest example of theater architecture and construction in the country.

Russell B. Smith, C.E., supervising engineer, who erected the Rialto theater, will construct the new theater, under the personal direction of Robert E. Hall, who directed the construction of the Rialto theater.

Notices have been served upon the tenants of the premises to vacate and construction of the new theater will be started on or about April 1 and rushed to early completion with the expectation of opening the new house in the late fall.

WILLIAM M. SEABURY IN NEW LAW FIRM.

Samuel Seabury, until last fall a judge of the Court of Appeals and later Democratic candidate for Governor of New York; William M. Seabury, general counsel for the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry; Albert Massey, a well-known New York lawyer, and John C. Lowe, Jr., also a well-known New York lawyer as well as an Internal Revenue collector, have formed a law partnership under the name of Seabury, Massey & Lowe, with offices in the Equitable building, 120 Broaway, New York City.

TRACY LEWIS WRITES A BOOK.

Tracy Lewis, editor of the Motion Picture department of the New York Morning Telegraph, has published "Along the Rio Grande," a series of detached observations made during his service as correspondent on the Mexican border. Mr. Lewis has written neither a guide book not yet a book of travel. He just tells what most interested him in what he saw and tells it interestingly and humorously, though in the opening chapters this humor is at times a trifle forced. Once he swings into his subject he forgets to try to be funny and is more naturally entertaining. Indeed, this naturalness is the chief charm of the book. It is chatty, intimate, the observations of a Broadwayite on the border. It is not deep enough to be called a book of travel, but it is the better for that fact. He makes you see the country as no traveler could. His observations are sketchy and in many ways incomplete, but they give you a personal instead of a geographical viewpoint that puts the country in a new light. Even after the other million of words written about the border lately, this book remains individual and interesting.

HANK HAVENS HOOKED UP WITH ULTRA.

Harry (Hank) Havens has been appointed publicity and advertising manager for the Ultra Film Corporation, affiliated with the Unity Sales Corporation. Mr. Havens has had real experience in the film business, having for several years been connected with the motion picture departments of New York City newspapers.

Picture Materials at War Prices

B. A. Rolfe Gives Some Startling Figures on "The High Cost of Motion Pictures."

PRODUCERS and studio managers everywhere are greatly perturbed about the unprecedented increase in the cost of materials and operation in the motion picture industry. In some instances materials have increased in cost in the past two years, 5,000 per cent. There seems to be no outlook for a reduction in cost of materials. B. A. Rolfe, one of the producers for the Metro Pictures Corporation, gives some figures on increases that are without equal in the history of the motion picture industry.

"In every department and every branch of the business, the cost of production has advanced," said Mr. Rolfe. "Unquestionably this advance is a result of the great demand made upon the manufacturers because of the European war. Paints, chemicals and all gear and apparatus that is needed about the studio have steadily gone upward, and it seems that the present scale of prices has not yet reached its limit.

"From heads of departments in my studios, I have gathered some astonishing figures, which apply not only to the Rolfe studios, but to every studio in the motion picture industry. Items that seem trivial in themselves mean, because of the amounts we use, an outlay of thousands and thousands of dollars more than was necessary two years ago.

"The high cost of living for the actors has compelled us to increase their salaries. Rentals of properties that are necessary in the making of a picture are higher. Food that we have to buy for our extra people, has advanced. Necessary compliance with recent building laws and labor laws have added materially to the cost of production. Chemicals that we have to have are now costing prices that are almost prohibitive.

"Think of having to pay $5.00 a pound for materials that cost 10c. a pound two years ago. That is true of oxalic acid. Developer that we paid 90c. a pound for in 1914 is now about $7.50 a pound and we have paid $9.00 a pound for it. Here is a table of figures that I have gathered. You can see what fancy climbing the prices have done."

Mr. Rolfe then showed the following table:

Material.	Price in 1914.	Present Price.
Hydroquinone developer	$.90 per lb.	$7.50 to $9.00
Metol	4.50 per lb.	75.00 to 100.00
Hyposulphite of Soda	.02¼ per lb.	.05
Bromide of Potassium	.65 per lb.	9.50
Magnesium flash light powder	2.40 per lb.	12.00
Chrome Alum	.30 per lb.	.60
Oxalic Acid	.10 per lb.	5.00

Ferro-Cyanide of Potassium has increased 300 per cent.
Aniline dyes, used for tinting, have increased about 500 per cent.
Photographic printing paper has increased from 15 per cent. to 20 per cent.
Cameras have increased about 15 per cent.
Dry plates, on account of scarcity of Belgian glass, have gone up 25 per cent.

"Those are just a few of the items that we have the data handy on," said Mr. Rolfe. "We use all the above in great bulk and you can readily see that the high cost of production is not a myth. Now look at the figures that come from the properties department."

Material.	Cost in 1915.	Cost at Present.
Glue	$.20 per lb.	$.50
Vermillion	.65 per lb.	4.10
Golden Ochre	.05 per lb.	.10
Green	.12 per lb.	.22
Ultra-Marine Blue	.10 per lb.	.25
Black	.08 per lb.	.20
Whiting	.01 per lb.	.02
Rose Pink	.12 per lb.	.60
Putty	.01½ per lb.	.03¾
Shellac	1.25 per gal.	2.25

"We use great quantities of paints and other materials that are shown on this list," continued Mr. Rolfe. "But I have just given you these figures so that it can be seen what we, in the producing of photo plays, are up against. All of my friends in the same line of business are burdened with the same increases and these figures that I have quoted are figures on great quantities.

"It must stop somewhere and in all probability will—this price boosting—but we can see no promise of it now. I doubt, seriously, if any other industry has been harder hit than ours. We must have things and quickly when we need them. Consequently we can do nothing but pay, and we surely are paying."

FOSTER IN BIG U PICTURES.

J. Morris Foster, a young actor well known on the professional stage and in Thanhouser and Famous Player pictures, has been added to the acting forces at Universal City. He was on the stage from 1901 until 1914, having played not only in stock in different parts of the country, but with such well known players as Henrietta Crossman, George M. Cohan and Olive Wyndham.

Maud Fealy With Lasky

To Co-Star With Theodore Roberts in New Feature Production.

MAUDE FEALY, leading woman for William Gillette, E. S. Willard, William Collier, Holbrook Blinn, Robert Hillard, and Sir Henry Irving, star for John Cort in "The Illusion of Beatrice," "Stronger Sex," and "The Right Princess," has joined the Jesse N. Lasky Picture Company. She will appear as co-star with Theodore Roberts in a feature picture to be released on the Paramount Program.

Maude Fealy.

Miss Fealy has not played with Mr. Roberts since the days of Elitche's Gardens, Denver, Colorado, when Miss Fealy became a star at the age of thirteen, appearing in Denver for a limited engagement each summer for seven consecutive years, often coming all the way from London for her annual summer appearance at the Gardens.

Among the plays Miss Fealy and Mr. Roberts appeared in together were "Royal Family," "In the Palace of the King," "Audrey," "Mice and Men," "Prince and the Pauper," "Dorothy Vernon," "When Knighthood Was in Flower." It was in the last named play Mr. Roberts played a trick upon Miss Fealy which is well recalled and heartily enjoyed by both. In the last act of the play Miss Fealy, as Mary Tudor, had a pet bit of business of carelessly brushing the huge black ostrich plumes of her large picture hat in the face of Mr. Robert, who played King Henry the Eighth, much to the King's discomfiture and embarrassment, which provoked a hearty laugh from the audience. Miss Fealy was very careful to touch the King's nose only slightly, so as not to injure her lovely plumes by coming into too close contact with the greasy make-up on the King's nose.

One evening Miss Fealy after performing a bit of business was surprised that the ordinary good laugh of the audience was increased to a roar and she was horrified to look up and find a gorgeous black plume being held firmly by Mr. Roberts between his upper lip and nose, which gave the appearance to Roberts' face of wearing a huge black mustache, and impressed Miss Fealy that Mr. Roberts had wilfully bitten off one of her choice, cherished plumes. At the close of the act, hurt more than indignant, Miss Fealy sent her maid to Mr. Roberts with a plea for him to please return the plume. Roberts explained that it was not Miss Fealy's feather but one of his landlady's, which he had borrowed for the occasion, and which had tickled him for the entire act, the end protruding up his collar so he could clutch it with his teeth and draw it forth at the psychological moment. His trick had indeed fooled Miss Fealy.

THANHOUSER COMPLIMENTS TRADE JOURNALS.

That the motion picture industry is deeply indebted to the trade journals covering its province is the opinion of Edwin Thanhouser, president of the Thanhouser Film Corporation.

"I am positive that without the intelligent guidance obtained from our trade papers, the industry would be years behind its present development," Mr. Thanhouser said.

"We have a business in selling films that is much more sensitive than any manufacturing of everyday commodities. If we didn't have efficient publication keeping us advised of public sentiment, giving us expert disinterested advice, acting as a bridge between exhibitor and manufacturer, we would have a chaotic condition that woud have made the cinematograph industry a gamble that few would want to invest in. My compliments to the trade journals!"

SEAMAN AND BAKER GO TO COAST.

Lawrence Seaman, producer of the "Big V. Comedies," and Graham Baker, who writes them, will very shortly leave for Hollywood, California, to portray a number of the same brand at the coast studios of the Vitagraph.

Kerrigan Has Own Company

Is Picking His Supporting Players and Will Commence Work March 1.

BACKED by eastern capital, in one of the biggest deals of the year transacted in motion picture circles, J. Warren Kerrigan has placed his signature to a long-term contract which not alone designates him the star, but also provides him with the power of control of the entire company which will likewise bear his name.

Absolute secrecy governed the deal whereby Mr. Kerrigan carried out a desire he has anticipated for the past two years. Even prior to that time he had been approached on a similar proposition but due to other affiliations he could not entertain the move, however, living in anticipation. During the past month the new proposition was placed before him for final consideration and when representatives of the eastern capital made a hurried trip to Los Angeles, the star closed the deal. The new turn of affairs in Mr. Kerrigan's career are large in numerous respects as developments will show when placed before the public eye.

Work on the construction of a studio for the new Kerrigan company will be started immediately, the location being Hollywood, California. Everything will be in readiness for the filming of the first story by March 1.

The supporting company for the star is now being considered and negotiations are under way to secure one of the most successful directors in the film world. Powerful dramas are being carefully selected for Mr. Kerrigan, each subject to be taken from the best books obtainable for picture purposes.

During the required time to build a plant to house the new Kerrigan organization, the star will undertake a new move in screen work in answer to the thousands of letters he has received during his career, and when carried out will prove to be an innovation most unique, yet a mere response to the applause from all over the country showered upon him by his devoted and loyal supporters. This plan is also silently moulding itself into form and will be brought to the surface at the proper time in the same manner as Mr. Kerrigan's triumph in the film world.

CHRISTMAS WITH METRO STARS.

While hundreds of thousands of screen patrons, in theatres throughout the world, are watching their favorite screen stars in various plays at Christmas time, they naturally wonder how these interesting folk actually spend their Christmas in real life. Here is how the Metro folk will receive Santa Claus.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, famous Metro comedy stars, are in Columbia, Mo., on a visit to Mrs. Drew's mother.

Viola Dana spent Christmas at her home with her mother, Mrs. Flugrath, and her sister, Leonie.

Maxwell Karger, general manager of the Rolfe and Columbia studios, hiked away to the Maine woods.

Mabel Taliaferro spent her Christmas at her home in New York with her mother, her Christmas tree and her pets.

Francis X. Bushman spent Christmas in New York.

Beverly Bayne was unable to get away from New York for the holidays.

Lionel Barrymore spent his Christmas at his home in New York.

Ethel Barrymore (Mrs. Russell Colt) spent Christmas with her children, for whom she had a beautiful Christmas tree.

May Allison, in Hollywood, spent Christmas entertaining her friends in her beautiful bungalow.

Emmy Wehlen spent her holidays in New York City.

Madame Petrova spent her Christmas holidays at her beautiful Long Island home.

Emily Stevens, the famous Metro star, is en tour with her famous play, "The Unchastened Woman."

B. A. Rolfe and Mrs. Rolfe spent the Christmas holidays in New York City, as did Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Rowland of the Metro Pictures Corporation.

MACKIN NOW WITH FOX.

John E. Mackin, for four years an actor and director with Kalem, is now with the William Fox forces. Mr. Mackin has been cast for an important part in the Valeska Suratt picture in work at the Fort Lee studios. The new Fox player was born in Pittsburgh, and is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. He was on the stage for seven years, before he entered the cinemas.

Word from the Far East

A Bit of What's Doing in India Told in a Letter From Two Australian Singers.

FOR the following information concerning the moving picture in India, Malaya and Burma we are indebted to the Misses Dorris and Eileen Woods, delightful young Australian singers, who, after spending some time in New York and London, have been for the past three years, more or less, traveling in these parts, holding the unique position of being the first to introduce cabaret work into the Far East. Since the war began these young singers have been much in demand as entertainers in the hospitals where the sick and wounded soldiers from Mesopotamia are sent.

Excerpts from a letter received from them a few days ago by a member of the staff of the Moving Picture World will tell in brief the story of what is going on in that part of the world. They are as follows:

"We are recuperating in a little village five hours' by train from Bombay. Nine miles away there is a huge war hospital where all the sick and wounded soldiers from Mesopotamia are sent. There are 2,000 there now. Indeed, we are very much in the war in these parts. Bombay is full of sick and wounded. Mesopotamia is a hell upon earth; France is heaven to what our poor boys go through in that awful living graveyard. We were three months in Bombay and sung again and again in all the hospitals. The soldiers adore the American songs, and we have lots of our best choruses printed to give to them. They join in so wonderfully and revel in the singing."

"By-the-bye, pictures we see out east are very poor. We saw the Annette Kellermann film ("Neptune's Daughter") in Malaya, Burmah and India. It is a huge success everywhere. We met the Universal manager in Singapore. Occasionally we see a good Universal. In Singapore they are very good. But in India, except in Calcutta, one gets tired of going to the movie houses and seeing horrid Italian films, and English, which are never good. Oh! to be back in America to see the good, proper movies."

Robert Harron to be Starred

ROBERT HARRON is the latest addition to the Triangle-Fine Arts galaxy of stars. He will be headlined in a play early in the new year entitled "The Bad Boy." Mildred Harris, who has been selected to act as Douglas Fairbanks' leading lady during his winter sojourn in New York, will appear with Harron in his first starring venture before she goes to the New York studio of the Triangle during January.

Robert Harron.

"The Bad Boy" is said to contain many human interest situations in which Harron should appear to excellent advantage. His rise to stellar honors has been the least sensational of any of the recent film favorites. It has been the result of continual work and faithful service. Harron is perhaps the only actor in motion pictures today with more than three years' experience who has been under the same direction during the entire period.

Leaving school at about fourteen years of age, he was glad to get a job as messenger boy at one of the New York studios. Attracting the attention of one of the directors, he was given a chance to appear before the camera, and promptly made good. When the general re-organization of film interests took place some time ago, which resulted in the formation of the Triangle Film Corporation, Harron found himself a member of the Fine Arts Stock Company, but under the same direction that he had made his entry into filmdom. The first Triangle feature in which he won commendation was "The Missing Links," and his most recent hit was registered as the woman-hating young clerk in "The Wharf Rat."

Linder Finishing First Comedy

Celebrated Screen Artist Has Been Working Hard on His Initial Essanay Production.

MAX LINDER'S first "made in America" comedy is rapidly nearing completion. With conditions normal, the noted European comedian's initial mirth-making under Essanay's banner should be ready for announcement to exhibitors before very long. The series of twelve productions for which Monsieur Linder has contracted with President George K. Spoor of Essanay will be released through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service.

Scene from Max Linder's First Essanay Comedy.

Max has found the pathway to the fortune which Essanay is paying him to be not altogether lined with primroses in the production of his first "barrel of fun." The comedy has to do with Max's trip across the Atlantic aboard the steamship Espagne, when the liner was rammed in midocean. The little comedian succeeds in calming the frightened passengers by appearing on deck in flaming red silk pajamas.

Unfortunately for Max it is wintertime in Chicago, and anybody who has braved the Windy City's wintry blasts knows that it is no place to be cavorting around in the thin protection which pajamas offer. The day Linder chose for the filming of the pajama scene the thermometer registered two below zero, and the wind on Lake Michigan was moving at about thirty miles an hour. But on the big steamer chartered for the purpose, Max and his company, the latter also clad in night attire, cavorted about the deck for fully fifteen minutes. Toes were frozen and pneumonia threatened, but nevertheless good scenes were obtained. And what is a frozen toe or pneumonia to a good comedy scene in the motion picture industry?

Immediately Linder has finished his first production he will launch into the second. His contract stipulates that he shall turn out one film every month for the next twelve months. The comedian estimates that a month's time will be required in the actual filming of each of his comedies, so elaborate are the productions to be.

Max is directing his productions—with the aid of a couple of interpreters. However, he is rapidly learning to speak English.

KENNETH CASEY RETURNS TO SCREEN.

After an absence of almost three years, Kenneth Casey, known the world over as "The Vitagraph Boy," having appeared in vaudeville under this billing, returns to the screen as Louis Broulette, in Madame Petrova's latest Metro production now being made at the Popular Plays and Players' studio, under the direction of Burton L. King.

Casey left the Vitagraph forces in 1913, having been with them for almost five years. Because of his youth he was not permitted to appear in vaudeville here, so he went to England, whence, after a successful tour, he returned in November, 1914. His first appearance on the speaking stage was at Hammerstein's Victoria theater in February 1915.

Something for nothing. Profits from fifty-two issues of a paper for one dollar. Who pays postage, paper, printing and salaries? Does the advertiser pay or is it the exhibitor in the last analysis? THINK IT OVER.

At the Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of December 31 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"The Girl Philippa" at the Rialto.

ANITA STEWART in "The Girl Philippa" was the dramatic feature of the Rialto program New Year's Week. The picture is from the novel of the same name by Robert W. Chambers and concerns the adventures of a Balkan princess who is kidnapped when a child and reaches maturity in the rural neighborhood of Ausone, France, just at the outbreak of the present war. An American artist finds her working as cashier in a cafe which is a hotbed of spies. He and the girl get drawn into the intrigues of the emissaries from both sides and their resultant adventures furnish excitement and romance in fullest measure.

An educational feature and the usual "Literary Digest of the Screen" were also picture features. Vicente Ballester and Mme. H'Espinoy were the soloists.

"The Slave Market" at the Strand.

Pauline Frederick was the star of "The Slave Market," by Frederick Arnold Kummer, which was the feature attraction at the Strand Theater for New Year's week. In this romantic story Miss Frederick is a Spanish beauty who falls into the hands of pirates and is finally offered for sale on the slave block. The scenes of the play are laid on the Spanish Main and in the West Indies. The Famous Players Film Company, who produced the play, photographed the various scenes in Cuba, where conditions are ideal for obtaining scenes that breathe the Spanish atmosphere. Albert Hart, Ruby Hoffman and Willington Playter are also in the cast. Other pictures of interest were "Oddities in Film Form," Ditmar's Living Book of Nature, a new comedy and the Strand Topical Review.

The musical program included solos by Nadine Legot, Enrico Arenzen and Grace Hoffman.

"Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" at the Broadway.

The Universal eight-reel screen version of Jules Verne's famous story, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," has made a pronounced hit at the Broadway Theater and is on for a run. The many novel and beautiful undersea scenes are among the picture's leading merits.

Bill at the Eighty-first Street Theater.

At the Eighty-first Street Theater four new pictures were shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Dorothy Dalton in "The Female of the Species" and the newest Keystone comedy were the screen features.

On Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday Lillian Gish in "The House Built Upon Sand" and a Mack Sennett comedy completed the program.

MISS MICHELENA LEAVES CALIFORNIA CORPORATION.

Beatriz Michelena, who, after making an international reputation as an opera star, was induced to forsake opera temporarily for motion pictures, has placed her resignation with the California Motion Picture Corporation, to take effect immediately upon the completion of "Faust," of which production she is to be the featured star. George F. Biddleton, producing manager of the California organization, who has directed Miss Michelena in her various pictures, also has resigned.

Miss Michelena and Mr. Biddleton handed in their resignations on November 6, to take effect as soon as "Faust," on which they are now working, is completed. According to a close friend of Miss Michelena, the former opera star is undecided whether to continue in pictures or return immediately to the singing stage. She is negotiating with two wellknown picture companies, in one of which the proposition is for her to head an organization of her own. She is also negotiating with a comic opera producer. These negotiations, it is said, are proceeding on a minimum salary basis of $2,500 a week.

RALPH W. INCE ENGAGED BY GOLDWYN.

Ralph W. Ince, producer and director of some of the greatest screen successes, is announced as the first of the directors to be engaged by the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation. He will begin work for the new company on its first production within a fortnight.

Mr. Ince comes to Goldwyn Pictures from the Selznick organization, where he has just finished making the Warwick picture, "The Argyle Case." Prior to the Selznick connection Mr. Ince was for many years the most important directorial factor in the Vitagraph company.

American Forces Reorganized

President Hutchinson Making Changes in Producing and Administration Forces.

WITH five producing companies, each headed by a star of national reputation, and with a special organization with which it is planned to creat super-features of five reels or more, the American Film Company soon will enter into an advanced state of organization.

These enlargements of American activities are the direct result of the recent visit of S. S. Hutchinson, president of the company, to the studio at Santa Barbara, Cal. Foreseeing the need of even better productions in line with the Mutual policy of superior films, Mr. Hutchinson effected a radical reorganization which will keep American photoplays to the foreground.

To this end the head of the company now is in New York, completing negotiations for players and directors of highest caliber. Announcement of the individuals who are to contribute to the standard set is expected by the first of the new year.

In the front rank of featured players, of course, will continue to be the charming Mary Miles Minter, whose delicate and attractive work in the series already produced has endeared her to thousands. Miss Minter, under the directorship of James Kirkwood, is to be the central figure in pictures whose stories will be of unusual type. It is realized that her chief appeal is in her distinct personality and to emphasize this, themes and scripts which depart from screen convention have and will be chosen.

William Russell, whose series of pictures have won popularity in their depiction of Russell's strength of character delineations, is another American star whose photoplays will be leading features. Extensive plans have been laid for increasing Russell's personal following among picture patrons. Francelia Billington, new to American productions, has already begun her work as Russell's leading woman, and has created a favorable impression at the studio as Virginia Leighton in "A Son of Battle," a costume play of the Reconstruction period.

Directing Russell and Miss Billington will be Edward Sloman, whose handling of the sequel to "The Diamond from the Sky" won praise. Sloman can be depended upon to bring brisk, snappy action to his pictures as well as logical and artistic development of the screen story.

Reorganizations of the administrative and producing forces at the American Film Company's studio at Santa Barbara, Cal., have also gone into effect.

In charge of the plant generally is J. R. Crone, succeeding the former studio manager, P. G. Lynch. Mr. Crone has been associated with Mr. Hutchinson and the Mutual enterprises for several years, and brings to the studio valuable experience in every angle of the industry.

In adjusting the studio's force, in anticipation of the enlarged activities of the company soon to begin, Mr. Crone made several changes in the personnel of his assistants. Among these, John Coakley has been made head of the technical department, while C. P. Morrison is the new general superintendent of the plant and superintendent of construction.

In the office staff Mrs. A. K. Whalen is auditor and in charge of the clerical department, while L. Ransome heads the purchasing department.

Clifford Howard, who continues as scenario editor, has rearranged his department in such a way that the fullest value will be obtained through his efforts. Emphasis was placed by President Hutchinson on the necessity of strengthening the stories used as foundations of productions.

"Mr. Hutchinson," said Mr. Howard, "impressed on me the absolute necessity of making good beginnings by having proper scripts. The American consequently is in the market for the best stories available. We want the best stories we can get for our stars.

"All scripts from which productions will be made will receive the personal attention of Mr. Hutchinson, and will be passed on finally by him. It is the intention not to produce a single picture having a weak story behind it, so far as it is humanly possible to maintain this rule."

Exaggerated ideas of profits in the exhibiting of moving pictures has tempted many to invest with poor results. A bait is now being offered the M. P. Exhibitors' League membership of a share in prospective fabulous profits from a new publication venture. League members, do you really think you will benefit, and if so who will pay? THINK IT OVER.

Mae Murray Marries Jay O'Brien

Lasky Studio Furnishes Setting for Screen Romance Never to Be Released on Paramount Program.

MAE MURRAY, celebrated motion picture star, co-starred with J. Jay O'Brien, well-known Broadway figure, in a wedding scene which was staged at the Lasky studio last week, but which will never be released on the Paramount Program. The bride carried a real bouquet of orchids and orange blossoms and there was no "props" to hustle the flowers back to the store room to await the next happy ending. If the wardrobe mistress assisted Miss Murray in arranging her frock for the occasion it was only because of the star's popularity, and not in recognition of her weekly honorarium from the Lasky treasurer.

Mae Murray.

There was no greasepaint on the face of the minister, nor did his immaculate clerical garb display the rim of white powder which motion picture ministers cannot seem to refrain from smearing on their black coat collars and lapels. Nay, more—the ring was of solid gold and the players in this scene talked with a deadly earnestness that showed unmistakedly that it was a real wedding. For Miss Murray is now Mrs. O'Brien, and if matters can be so arranged at the Lasky studio, the honeymoon will be spent in New York, where "the O'Briens" have a host of friends.

The career of Mae Murray before the camera has been one of the most remarkable chapters of the romantic history of the motion picture. Chiefly famous as a musical comedy star before she was introduced to the motion picture public by Mr. Lasky, in March, 1916, Miss Murray has won her place on the screen as a wonderfully clever and gifted actress within a comparatively short time.

Her first production was "To Have and to Hold," which was followed by "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," and then by "The Dream Girl." Following the last-named photoplay, all of which were produced at the Lasky studio, Miss Murray went East to the Famous Players studio in New York and starred in "The Big Sister." She then returned to Lasky management, making a hit in "The Plow Girl," in which she did some very remarkable emotional work.

The star's new matrimonial responsibilities will not interfere with her motion picture career, as she will continue to appear in Lasky pictures on the Paramount Program, her next release being on January 11th in "The Mormon Maid."

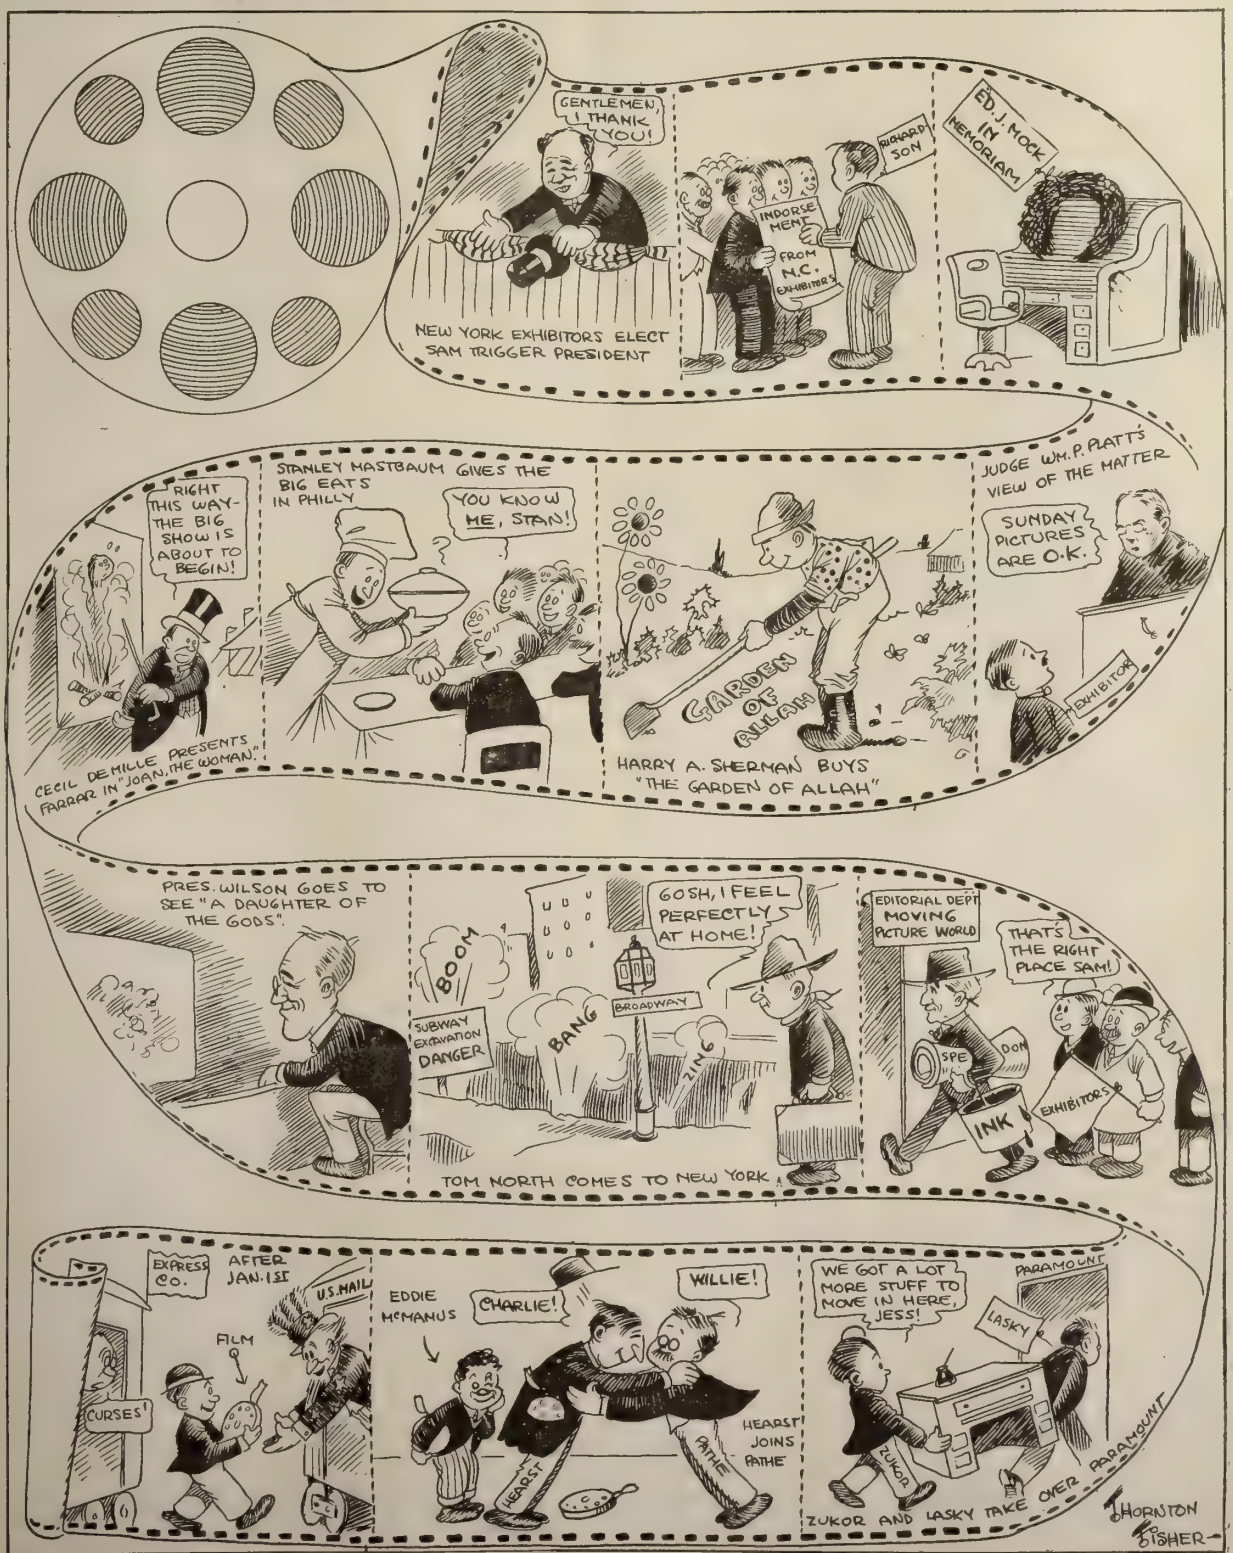
FLORENCE LAWRENCE ENTERTAINS.

A delightful week-end Christmas party was given by Florence Lawrence to a number of intimate friends at her home at Westwood, N. J. The Lawrence home, elaborately decorated and emanating Christmas cheer, was thrown open to the guests on Saturday afternoon, December 23rd, from which time until midnight of the following Tuesday the spirit of joy prevailed. Early Monday morning, just after the striking of the midnight hour, the presents from a brilliantly lighted Christmas tree were distributed by Santa Claus impersonated by Mr. Howard Tinsley of Jacksonville, Fla. It is safe to say that there was not one present but will remember this occasion as one of the happiest events of their lives. Miss Lawrence contemplates an early return to the screen.

STREETER TOURING WITH EDUCATIONAL FILM.

One of the pleasantest phases of moving picture exhibition is being followed by Herbert S. Streeter, who is touring with an educational and historic reel which he is lecturing. He has been home in Cassadaga, Fla., for Christmas with his family. He has a pretty cottage at that place. His next trip will take him to New Smyrna, Ormond, St. Augustine, Palatka and Jacksonville. Later he will be at Key West and from there will go to Havana, a very pleasant winter trip, indeed.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD NEWS REEL For DECEMBER



George Kleine Talks on the Trade Outlook

By James S. McQuade

Demand for Short Length Pictures Growing—Stereoscopic Photography in 1917—Natural Colors Will Come Later

CONSIDERABLE time has elapsed since I had the pleasure of interviewing George Kleine, and so took advantage last week of an opportunity that presented itself to secure a statement of his activities for the year just closed, as well as a brief review of the trade in 1916 and the outlook for 1917. Mr. Kleine also dwelt on the effect which the European war has had on his plans in Italy, which are still dependent on the continuance of that conflict.

"Sixty days before the outbreak of the war, in August, 1914, two associates and myself had finished a moving picture plant near Turin, Italy, and work was well along upon a big feature which had been planned in nine or ten reels with settings that were intended to excel those of my previous releases, such as 'Quo Vadis?' and 'Last Days of Pompeii.'

Former Plans in Italy Outlined.

"The company which we had formed, called the Photodrama Producing Co. of Italy—which is not to be confused with the Photodrama Co. of Illinois, and which we formed some time previously to exploit important features throughout the world made by other manufacturers—had acquired an old estate, many acres in extent, bountifully supplied with groves, a conservatory, a mediaeval mansion and a lake with rustic bridges. We had erected a building 330 by 100 feet for the mechanical departments, including a dressmaking establishment for the making of costumes and modern gowns, carpentry and paint shops, artists' offices, etc., and also a glass studio equipped with a steam heating plant for the winter and a ventilating plant for the summer, conveniences not previously known in Italian film plants, although very necessary in northern Italy.

"It was my plan to combine the advantages of Italian manufacture, such as the photographic values of the Italian sun, the facilities for obtaining great masses of supernumeraries, relative economy in the making of costumes for the thousands of people that we would use in a great feature, and at the same time employ American stars supported by an American company, the whole to be organized under the best American directors assisted by several Italian directors who excelled in handling great numbers of people, as in our film 'Julius Caesar.'

"Our plans being well known in Europe, we had already received many applications for agencies in Continental countries as well as in the Orient, and large sums of money had been placed on deposit to guarantee contracts made by such agents.

"The outbreak of the war prompted me to cease these activities, as I did not think it practical to carry out these ambitious ideas even before Italy entered the war. There was immediate interference with the normal flow of business in Italy as well as in other Continental countries; buyers became very conservative; exchanges and exhibitors practiced immediate economies, practically all of the countries in Europe having declared a moratoria, which made it difficult to collect accounts, as well as interfering with the normal flow of currency. These difficulties were intensified when Italy joined the Allies. I, therefore, decided to postpone all activities in Europe until after the war.

Activities in America During 1916.

"My business in this country at the beginning of 1916 continued both in manufacturing and in distribution. We continued the production of five-reel features and one-reel comedies, and, on January 2, began the making of the Billie Burke Serial, 'Gloria's Romance.' The work upon this serial continued steadily until August 1, the pre-release of the first episode having been made in May. I know the volume of business attained by some of the most successful serials, and none of these has equaled that of 'Gloria's Romance.' The serial is now running at its best, and has maintained the extraordinary drawing power of this star as first evinced in 'Peggy.' It and my other features are being released through my twenty-three branch offices.

"At the beginning of 1916 there were released through these branches Edison features as well as my own. During the summer arrangements were made with the Essanay Film Manufacturing Company and the Selig Polyscope Company to add their features to these, and the products of the four organizations are now being released through my system of branches.

"In January of 1916 my friends on the Board of the General Film Company were kind enough to elect me to its presidency at a time when I was absent in Chicago, and as Mr. Berst, my predecessor, found it impossible to continue, owing to other engagements, I accepted the office with the understanding that I would resign as soon as certain changes in methods of distribution and organization, which were then under discussion, became crystallized. You can readily understand that as I enter personally into the management of all branches of my business, the assumption of the presidency of the General Film Company, the manufacture of feature films, of comedies and of the most important serial that had yet been attempted, to say nothing of the operation of more than twenty distributing offices, were a severe tax upon me. As the year passed I gave up for the time being the manufacture of films, and in November resigned the presidency of the General Film Company so that I might give more of my time to the management of my distributing offices.

Review of the Film Business for 1916.

"A review of the year 1916 does not disclose any fundamental changes either in the manufacture or the distribution of films. At the beginning of the year the five-reel feature was the staple, as it is now. The program consisting of short subjects was subordinate to the feature, and this condition continues with the prospect of one, two and three reelers becoming a more important factor in the business, particularly if manufacturers make them of feature quality as to stars, settings and story.

"Radical changes in the arrangements between manufacturers and the General Film Company give promise of great improvement, both in the quality of the product of the films distributed by that company and its methods of distribution under the able guidance of Mr. Hampton, its new president. All of the contributing manufacturers have pledged themselves to co-operate with him in giving its thousands of customers the best program that can be offered.

"It has become a truism that the interests of the exhibitor, the exchange and the manufacturer are identical. Concerted action is necessary to present upon the screen photoplays of such character that the public will find the moving picture theater the forum of universal appeal. If progress has been made in any one direction more than in another, it lies in the increasing popularity of the picture theater with those whose attitude had previously been one of cynicism or criticism.

A Foreword for the Year 1917.

"Upon the threshold of 1917 we find the various branches of the industry clearly set. The manufacturer works within more clearly defined limits than a year ago. He has a more certain idea of values as to stars, casts and plays, and the business of manufacturing approaches the normal that exists in other lines of endeavor. Their experience as well as that of exchanges now enables them to estimate the ratio of justified expense with probable income.

"I do not find that any material improvement has been made in 1916 in commercial motion picture photography, but laboratory experiments have reached a stage that promises the achievement of stereoscopic photography in 1917, and this, if attained, will be the most radical step forward of years.

"Although innumerable inventors have experimented with natural color photography during the year, and some of them appear to have made progress, there is no evidence of the radical improvement that is necessary before the natural color film becomes an accomplished fact. In spite of the many claims that are being made, I do not believe that the coming year will mark its advent, except in a limited way as applied to scenic subjects. Inventors have not yet reproduced the photodrama in natural colors upon the moving picture screen in such a way as to satisfy the eye. None of the laboratory demonstrations that I have seen have reproduced flesh tints accurately, nor have they been devoid of the fringing of colors."

Moving Picture Exhibitors, you cannot get something for nothing whether you are members of the League or your State organization or not. Somebody eventually has to pay and that somebody is usually the exhibitor. THINK IT OVER.

Juanita Hansen—The Star in "Glory"

JUANITA HANSEN is the charming star selected to play the principal role in Unity's early January release, "Glory" and as the producer of this appealing photoplay, Miss Maud Lillian Berri is to be congratulated for having secured so popular a star as Miss Hansen. "Glory" gives Miss Hansen a full chance to display her girlish winsomeness to the delight of those who see her and in none of her pictures has this golden-haired girl appeared to greater advantage.

Juanita Hansen.

As "Glory", the name given her by the townspeople, Miss Hansen becomes the pet and the particular care of the village, whose inhabitants watch over her as no ordinary parents would do. She belongs to all of them. Her joys she shares with them, but her disappointments she bears alone — which almost brings a tragedy. But as you see this light-haired girl before you on the screen you think of romance, adventure, joy, and gladness and little dream of trouble, which lurks in the background.

Nor would you associate Kolb and Dill, who share honors in "Glory" with Miss Hansen, with anything that bordered on sadness but just the same the discovery of oil and the fight for it comes pretty near wrecking all of them. And it makes you feel mighty good when everything comes out right for Miss Hansen.

New Company for Rhea Mitchell

THE latest film favorite to achieve the honor of having a producing company organized for the exclusive purpose of presenting her as the star in a series of big productions is Rhea Mitchell, whose recent work under the direction of Thomas H. Ince attracted such wide attention.

Harry I. Garson, who represents one of the biggest exchange and exhibiting interests in Michigan, has promoted the company that is to present Miss Mitchell and while in New York last week made arrangements for the use of one of the big studios in Fort Lee.

Rhea Mitchell.

The first picture in which Miss Mitchell is to appear under his auspices will be adapted from a powerful and widely known novel, the name of which is being withheld for the present. Mr. Garson will return to New York this week to engage a director and the cast for the production, which will get under way immediately.

Miss Mitchell hails from Portland, Oregon, and is of the slender, blonde type of beauty desirable on the screen. She had considerable stage experience prior to her advent to the screen, beginning her career in Western stock companies from which she graduated to the leading part in a dramatic sketch that played the Orpheum Circuit. From vaudeville she returned to stock, playing everything from musical comedies to dramatic leads at the Alcazar Theater in San Francisco. Her most important screen appearances were with the New York Motion Picture Co., under Mr. Ince's direction, where she was featured in a number of big pictures as well as playing leading roles opposite such stars as William Hart, Henry Woodruff, De Wolfe Hopper, Orvin Johnson, Robert Edeson and Richard Bennett.

Charles Gunn, New Leading Man for Triangle

CHARLES GUNN, the New Triangle-Kay Bee leading man, who made such an excellent impression as the young Austrian captain in C. Gardner Sullivan's latest play, "Three of Many," is considered by competent critics one of the most promising of the recent acquisitions of the screen.

To begin with, Gunn is his own hardest task-master, and believes that no pains are too great to take in "putting over" the right effect. With a creditable background of achievement in the spoken drama, he has definitely allied himself with motion picture acting, and thinks that talent and hard work will produce just as desirable results in the one field as in the other.

Charles Gunn.

When Thomas H. Ince began looking around for a new leading man to share honors with Clara Williams, he suddenly remembered Gunn. After a trial before the camera, Ince had no hesitation in engaging him at one of the highest salaries ever given a new screen actor.

When he can find time away from the Kay Bee studios, Gunn gives vent to his inborn love of mechanics and takes a spin in his high-powered motorboat, or journeys down to the aviation field at Venice, and treats himself to a practice flight in one of Glen Martin's aeroplanes. Martin declares that Gunn is a natural born aviator and could easily be a champion cloud-climber if he did not cherish the ambition to become a screen star.

FRED SHIPMAN BACK FROM AUSTRALIA.

Fred Shipman is due to arrive in New York on the first of the year. He sailed from Sydney, Australia, four weeks ago, and came through without a mishap. Neptune's Daughter and other feature films which he had purchased for Australasia, netted a handsome return. A number of musical celebrities touring under his direction report splendid business. M. Shipman will investigate some of the largest feature pictures for the Australian and New Zealand markets. He represents the strongest purchasing power in the antipodes.

LOUISE HUFF DEPARTS FOR LASKY STUDIO.

Louise Huff, dainty and popular Famous Players star, who has added to her laurels recently by her charming work as the co-star of Jack Pickford in the screen adaptation of Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen," departed for Hollywood, Cal., on the day after Christmas, where she will remain at the Lasky studio for several months.

The transfer of Miss Huff to the Lasky studios is in accordance with the announced plan to send Paramount stars to any studio of the producing companies that artistic purpose or producing exigencies may require, and follows shortly the arrival of Thomas Meighan, Lasky player, at the Famous Players studio.

The immediate object of Miss Huff's departure is the fact that she is soon to co-star with Jack Pickford in an adaptation of Gene Stratton Porter's celebrated novel and play "Freckels," the western atmosphere of which demands a typical California setting. Jack Pickford will follow Miss Huff West in a very short time.

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

Chicago Reform Bodies Hot on the Trail of "Intolerance"

AND now the reformers are after "Intolerance." The Griffith production has caught hold of the heart of Chicago with a grip that keeps long lines in waiting at the box office of the Colonial ever since the opening night; so the reformers and others who think themselves well within the kingdom of heaven have become so jealous of its power that they have poured a flood of complaints into the office of the board of the commissioners of Cook County and of the license committee of the Chicago city council.

The county commissioners are inclined to censor "Intolerance" because of the criticism which it directs toward reformers, on the theory that the world has been made to suffer by small groups of reformers who sought to impose their ideas on the great masses of the people. Accordingly, on Friday, December 22, Commissioner Ragan introduced a resolution before the county board which condemned "Intolerance" on the grounds that it is an unjust criticism of the county social service department, and asking the board to view the picture to ascertain if the charges are true, and, if so, to move for the censoring of the objectionable parts. This resolution was passed by the board unanimously.

Prior to taking up the complaints of reform bodies against the Griffith film, which has been set for Thursday, December 28, twelve members of the license committee of the city council attended a matinee presentation of "Intolerance" on Saturday, December 23. Just what course they shall decide upon will be told in my next letter.

Alderman Toman, chairman of the license committee, holds the opinion that "Intolerance" is a legitimate slam at hypocritical reformers, and has expressed himself as being in favor of permitting the spectacle to run unmolested. He has decided, however, that all complaints will be heard at the Thursday session, which will be devoted exclusively to the trial of the big film.

It is said that a revocation of the license of the Colonial will be demanded at the session by representatives of reform organizations and charitable bodies, whose methods are said to be condemned in the Griffith production.

It is pretty certain that "Intolerance" will not suffer from the lack of support in the city council should attempts be made to suppress it.

In the meantime Mr. Griffith, nowise dismayed, gets back at the reformers in this fashion: "To my mind the so-called professional 'reformer' is a sad pilgram through desert land, which lies between real life as decreed by divine nature and the Great Beyond. Because he cannot laugh he would muffle laughter; because none pleads for her hand, she would abolish dancing and courtship, and uproot all the blossoms of the spring of life."

Illinois Lithographing Company Formed.

Tom Quill, formerly associated with the Goes Litho Company of Chicago, and well known in the moving picture trade, has announced the formation of a new company to be known as the Illinois Lithographing Company. This company has been incorporated for $100,000 under the laws of the state of Illinois, chiefly for the purpose of manufacturing lithograph posters for moving pictures. The newly organized company has absorbed all the poster business formerly done by the Goes Company.

The offices and factory of the Illinois company are situated at 351-59 East Ohio street and occupy 16,000 square feet of floor space, taking up the entire third floor of the building. The company is already equipped with seven rotary presses, and a complete force of artists and pressmen have been engaged.

Among the officers of the new concern are Arthur R. Tice, president, who for twenty-five years was assistant general manager of the Goes company; John H. Herman, the well-known sporting promoter, treasurer, and Tom Quill, vice-president. In addition to these officers practically all of the force of the different departments of the Goes company have associated themselves with the new organization.

According to Mr. Quill, the factory is busy at the present time turning out several new ideas in posters, which will be seen in connection with future releases on the Mutual program.

E. E. Fulton Company's Recent Display.

An artistic exhibit held recently at the Hotel Sherman by the E. E. Fulton Company attracted considerable attention. Self-contained electric fountains were featured exclusively, and a great variety of designs, from the miniature fountain intended for table use to the larger and more elaborate forms suited to theater lobbies and stages, were shown.

The Fulton Company, although recognized as one of the largest moving picture supply houses in the country, does not confine itself to that trade solely. The goods carried by the company cover a wide field, outside as well as within the picture field.

Chicago Film Brevities.

William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company, and Gilson Willets, well-known author and photoplaywright, attended a private showing of "The Crisis" at the Lyric theater, Minneapolis, Friday evening, December 22. Governor Burnquist and other notables of the state and city, as well as prominent exhibitors of the Twin Cities and throughout the northwest, were present on the invitation of H. A. Sherman, president of Sherman & Elliott, Inc. The Tribune and the Journal of Minneapolis gave "The Crisis" glowing tributes, devoting much space to careful reviews. A special musical score, composed and arranged by Michel Mowschine, of Chicago, and George Koehler, of the Sherman & Elliott staff, received its share of the praise.

"The Crisis" started its run at the Lyric on Sunday, December 24.

* * *

George Cox, well-known in the film world, is in Chicago for the holidays. The last time I saw Mr. Cox he was setting out on a trip to Japan, the particulars of which I expect him to give me in the near future.

The cases of Joseph P. Armstrong, president of the Moving Picture Operators' Union, Local 110, I. A. T. S. E.; Arthur E. Allison, business agent; Edward W. Collier, secretary and treasurer; Hal L. Johnstone, financial secretary; Frank R. Connelly, trustee; Arthur Hollins, Herman Goldberg, Fred E. Havill and Harold R. Swimming, members of the executive committee, arrested and booked on the charge of keeping explosives in the safe at the headquarters of the union in the Baltimore Building, Tuesday, December 12, have been postponed for a hearing in the Municipal Court until January 23.

* * *

W. E. Kurtz, treasurer of the American Bioscope Company, informed this office that J. E. Willis has been appointed general manager of the American Bioscope Company. Mr. Willis was recently western representative for the Unicorn Film Service Corporation and joined the forces of the American Bioscope Company about two weeks ago. He left for Cleveland last week to confer with the Newspaper Enterprise Association regarding the "Ever True" animated cartoons by A. Condo, for which the American Bioscope Company of Chicago has the exclusive rights.

* * *

William Hopp and Carl Harthill, formerly of the Standard Film Exchange, and lately associate owners of the Union Film Company, have embarked in the business of making and marketing high-class portrait paintings of moving picture stars for the adornment and decoration of moving picture theaters. These portraits will be in oil and water colors, and will be done under the direction of Frederick Gibson Crowell, one of the best-known portrait painters in the west, assisted by a competent staff of selected artists. Mr. Crowell's art is well known in Chicago, as he has painted portraits of the members of quite a number of the leading families. The many friends of Messrs. Hopp and Harthill in the moving picture business will be pleased to learn that they have opened a studio and offices, under the firm name of Hopp-Harthill & Co., at 719 Monroe building, Chicago.

* * *

Norma Talmadge, now Mrs. Joseph Schenck, returned with her husband from their honeymoon trip to the Pacific Coast one day last week, and after a brief stopover departed for New York. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Loew, who will remain in Chicago for the holidays as guests of Aaron J. Jones. A special midnight party has been arranged in their honor for New Year's Eve.

* * *

The first five episodes of "The Great Secret," Metro's serial in fifteen chapters, with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne as the stars, were given a trade showing in the private projection rooms of the E. E. Fulton Company, this city, Tuesday morning, December 26. Those present expressed themselves as being much pleased with the production thus far.

* * *

The Rosewood theater, 1823 Montrose avenue, this city, owned by Pauline Regitz, was purchased by Messrs. Lindner and Zilligen last week, and added to their chain of picture theaters. The consideration has been reported as $25,000.

* * *

The Lake View High School, Chicago, is proud to announce the completion of a moving picture theater which has 1,000 seats on the main floor and 800 on the balcony. This theater can be cut off from the recitation rooms, so that the exhibition will not interfere with class work.

* * *

The Howard, at Howard street and North Ashland avenue, claimed to be one of the largest moving picture theaters in Chicago, is now in course of construction, and will be ready for opening about June 1. The theater will be located in a block of ten offices and thirty flats, and the structure together with the land will represent an investment of about $500,000. It is farthest north at the present time of any moving picture theater in the city, and the site occupies land that up to two years ago was unbroken prairie. The entire building will be of red pressed brick and cream terra cotta trimming, and the theater will have a seating capacity of about 2,000. It has already been leased to Warren C. Seavor and Louis Zohler for a term of ten years, at an annual rental of $12,800.

* * *

Louise Huff, one of the stars of the Famous Players Company, stopped over for a few hours in this city Wednesday, December 27, on her way to Los Angeles. During her brief stopover Miss Huff was entertained by Frank Rutledge, manager of the Chicago office of Famous Players. It is expected that she will join the players at the Lasky studio.

A cablegram from London to the Chicago Herald, bearing the date of December 25, announces that T. P. O'Connor, the famous Irish member of Parliament, has been appointed chairman of the board of film censors, an organization recently created by the moving picture trade in Great Britain. Mr. O'Connor announces that he hopes to improve the character of moving pictures, and invites co-operation from leaders of the best thought in the nation.

* * *

Many men prominent in the moving picture industry in America will learn with regret that Thomas James West, widely known as director of West's Picture Playhouses, chairman of the General Film Agency, chairman of the X. L. Film Company, and connected with many other branches of the industry in Great Britain, passed away recently at the age of 61 years. I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. West in Chicago, when on the old Film Index, and he strongly impressed me by his fine personality and gentle ways. He formed many friendships among men prominent in the trade in Chicago, who will especially mourn his loss. Mr. West had great faith in the future of moving pictures, and in 1914 expressed himself as follows:

"I am convinced that the trade, or science, or whatever you choose to call it, of kinematography has now enlisted in the matter of production some of the cleverest brains in the world, and I am convinced that it will march on day by day to greater improvements and more pronounced success."

Helene Chadwick

THE annals of the stage are filled with instances of where girls have jumped from the chorus to stardom in a week, or where they have leaped from extra parts to leads in a very short time, but it remained for Miss Helene Chadwick to eclipse any of these records.

Miss Chadwick is in motion pictures. She is a Pathe star. She was featured with Montague Love and Chas. Gotthold in "The Challenge," a five-reel production made from Al H. Woods' Broadway success of the same name, by the Astra Company for the Pathe Gold Rooster program. Previous to playing in "The Challenge," Miss Chadwick had never appeared before the motion picture camera. She is what is known in filmland as a "find." In other words, she is a pretty girl who screens well, has the soul spark so necessary for success in motion pictures, and can act.

Helene Chadwick.

"Like most other American girls, I was interested in moving pictures, always enjoyed seeing them and wanted to act in them," said Miss Chadwick, when talking of her successful appearance in "The Chellenge." "The opportunity never offered itself to me. Some way or other, while I had friends in the motion picture business and acquaintances who told me they thought I would screen well, and many of the artists for whom I had posed for their paintings told me they thought I should be in movies, still the opportunity never came to me until I went to see Mr. Gasnier, president of the Astra Film Corporation.

"It happened to be the psychological time. Mr. Gasnier was in need of an actress to play the leading role in 'The Challenge.' He was considering other girls who had made reputations in pictures for the role. He liked my type and it was this that led him to give me the opportunity for a test"

Miss Chadwick was born in Chadwick, N. Y., a town called after some of her people who came to America a long time ago. She is a descendant of Lord Chadwick of England. She was educated in New York City and while in school began posing for artists and photographers. She is one of the most photographed girls in America, her pictures having appeared in practically every high class publication in this country.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. VON HARLEMAN

Big Doings at the Keystone

Fourteen Companies Work Overtime in Pictures Now Released on Open Market.

FOURTEEN companies are now busily engaged making comedies at Mack Sennett's Keystone studios. Mr. Sennett is on the job early and late, supervising the work. Director Walter Wright has completed "Her Circus Knight," a comedy dealing with the sawdust ring and life under the "big tops." Ora Carew, "Baldy" Belmont, Blanche Payson and Joseph Callahan are the leading players. Wright finished in the cutting room on Wednesday and began rehearsing a new comedy on Thursday. This latter production will be built around an automobile racing story. Wright will retain the same cast that has appeared in all of his recent releases.

Scene from "Her Circus Knight."

Director Fred Fishback has finished "Safety First Ambrose" and is now rehearsing a new comedy with Mack Swain, Polly Moran, Dora Rodgers and others. Fishback's last two productions were western stories with thrills. Settings for the new comedy are laid in the east and the story deals with a henpecked husband and a vampire. Mack Swain will play the husband, while Polly Moran will be his wrangling spouse and Dora Rodgers the vampire.

"Maggie's First False Step," with Charles Murray and Louise Fazenda, has had its final showing in the studio projecting room and Director Frank Griffin is already working on a new production with these two Keystone players.

Probably the most elaborate and what promises to be one of the funniest Keystone comedies of a year is now being directed by Harry Williams and is entitled "Dodging His Doom." Chester Conklin is the leading comedian and is supported by H. Guy Woodward, Dale Fuller, Wayland Trask and other Keystone players. Ford Sterling, Hugh Fay and Alice Davenport head a company under the direction of Victor Heerman. Heerman's new story is a crook play.

During the past week Director Clarence Badger made the final scenes and a few retakes for "The Nick of Time Baby" in which Gloria Swanson and Bobbie Vernon are the leading players. "Teddy," the big brindle Dane, that has appeared in several Keystone productions, shared honors with the screen favorites in this comedy.

As previously stated in this paper the releasing of Keystone comedies will be placed on an entirely new basis. Beginning January 1, Keystone comedies will be released unrestricted through Triangle. "My pictures," says Mr. Sennett, "will stand entirely upon their merits. The reason for this change of policy," says the producer, "is the gratifying growth of our film plays. The demand for these comedies has now become so great that from a business standpoint it is no longer practical to market them as we have been doing heretofore." Soon after the first of the year will be presented "Mickey," the first play from the new Mabel Normand Feature Film Company. The system by which these feature plays are to be released will be announced later. Miss Normand now has her own studio, and will hereafter appear in feature plays alone. It is the intention to have the Mabel Normand Feature Film Company produce about four pictures yearly, sparing no expense in releasing them to the best possible advantage.

These, and other activities mark the closing of the biggest year in the history of the Keystone Company's operations. Mr. Sennett proposes to add several companies to his roster early in the forthcoming year, and it is also planned to add more stage space to the already enormous producing plant. With these additions it is hoped that the big comedy institution will be enabled to fill back orders and keep up with the ever increasing demand for Keystone comedies.

A Visit to Universal City

Remarkable Efficiency System Installed by H. O. Davis—World Man is Posed With the Lions.

THIS week we made another trip to Universal City. The Cerberus of the entrance gate wouldn't let us in at first and we felt rather peeved remembering that Mr. Laemmle once upon a time had given us the freedom of the city. However, we got by and presently we were basking in the friendly welcome smile of M. G. Jonas, that good fellow and extremely capable director of publicity of Universal City. It was almost lunch time when we arrived, so after a short stroll around the stages friend Jonas invited us to a most welcome and palatable repast at the Universal restaurant. There we had a little chat with H. O. Davis, general manager of Universal City, and were introduced to Charles E. Van Loan, the writer. Mr. Van Loan, we were informed, is spending considerable time at Universal City preparing a new series of moving picture articles and getting data from Mr. Davis on efficiency in motion picture producing.

New Wardrobe Building at Universal City.

Mr. Davis has introduced a most remarkable system of efficiency in all departments at Universal City. His latest efforts along these lines is the erection of a new wardrobe building adjoining the dressing rooms of the actors and actresses, in order that the costumes may be obtained quickly and without the necessity of going to the former building, which was located several hundred yards away.

Eighteen thousand dollars' worth of costumes covering every period of history have been transferred to the new building. Special rooms have been provided for the different styles and periods of costumes. If a director now desires costumes to fit a photoplay written about situations in the fourteenth century, these are all to be found in one room, thus effecting a great saving of time in obtaining the clothing upon requisition from the production department.

A large space has been set apart for the factory, where wearing apparel of all descriptions constantly is being made by a large force of employes. The costume room at Universal City is one of the sights of interest to visitors who express amazement over the amount of money invested in this department alone.

After lunch we took another stroll around the stages and met some of our old friends. Director Henry McRae was found rehearsing the script of a five-reel "Whispering Smith" story with a cast including charming little Mary MacLaren, Alfred Vosburgh, Eddie Polo, R. W. Everett and Charles Mailes. At one of the stages we found Director Rex Ingram filming a scene of "Scathing Humanity," his latest underworld feature. We are told that some real gunmen had been imported from the slums of New York to give convincing atmosphere to this story and that we better not start any arguments with these desperate characters. We promised to be good and, as a result, friend Jonas brought us to the lion's cage to pose for a picture, to pose outside the animal cage in safe distance from snapping teeth and reaching claws. We never before saw such ferocious beasts. We thought moving picture lions perfectly tame and gentle. Not so the lions at Universal City. They were absolutely determined to claw a piece out of our back, and never again will we make any fun of Madame Schumann-Heink being posed in the lions' cage. Our hat off to the lady. She deserves a medal for bravery.

After a thoroughly enjoyable day at Universal City we boarded our good old ship and sailed back through Cahuenga Pass to the city.

Kerrigan on Theater Tour

Will Appear at Principal Theaters of the Largest Cities of the Country.

PRIOR to the starting of his own feature film company, J. Warren Kerrigan is shortly to leave Los Angeles on a three months' trip to the principal cities of the country. The tour is in response to the demands of thousands of the photoplay fans that they be allowed to see Mr. Kerrigan in person. During his absence from Los Angeles, the construction of an elaborate studio for Kerrigan's exclusive use will be rushed to completion so that he may start the production of his first picture immediately upon his return. The junket is scheduled to extend as far East as New York and Boston. Carlyle Robinson, publicity agent of the west coast, will be in charge of the tour for the Kerrigan company.

C. GARDNER SULIVAN RETURNS TO CULVER CITY.

C. Gardner Sulivan, chief of the scenario staff of the Ince forces, has returned to Culver City from the East, and is now at his desk again writing Triangle-Kay Bee plays for forthcoming production. Mr. Sulivan visited St. Paul, Chicago, New York and Boston. A unique reception was given the popular scenario man when he arrived at the Culver City Studios. As he entered the gates he was showered with a veritable rain of confetti, made from copies of the more than two hundred picture plays which Sulivan has written for Mr. Ince. The trip, Mr. Sulivan declared, has provided him with a number of new inspirations for stories, the construction of which he intends shortly to commence.

Los Angeles Film Brevities.

Hobart Bosworth, the Lasky star, spoke recently before the County Institute of Los Angeles teachers on the producers' attitude towards educational pictures and the value of moving pictures as an educational instrument. The address, which was made at the request of Mark Keppel, County Superintendent of Schools, and H. S. Upjohn, Director of Visual Education, was most interesting and was enthusiastically received by all the teachers present.

* * *

Under the auspices of the Woman's City Club of Los Angeles, an interesting demonstration of "How movies are made" was given on Monday of this week, at the club headquarters in the Exchange Building, by little Mary Sunshine, the diminutive Balboa star, and Henry King, her director. Little Mary charmed the many guests by her remarkable talent of acting. The program was mainly to boost the growing demand for better films for children. Among the honored guests were Mrs. E. H. Noe, Henry King, H. M. and E. D. Horkheimer, Dr. and Mrs. Leon Osborne, George Rizard, Bert Enswinger, D. F. Whitcomb, Mrs. Whitcomb, Norman Manning, Miss Mollie McConnell and Daniel Gilfether.

* * *

The many admirers of Tom Mix will be interested in the announcement from him that his work with the Fox Company will be along entirely different lines. Mr. Mix stated that he will be featured in two-reel western slap-stick comedies, and will be supported by a specially selected cast. Victoria Forde will be his leading woman, and Victor Potel, better known as "Slippery Slim," has been specially engaged as character comedian. Bob Eddy, a former Keystone comedian, will assist Mr. Mix in the direction of all of his productions. A large tract of ground on Winna Brown's ranch at Silver Lake has been leased by the Fox company for Mr. Mix's use. A permanent Western mining town has been erected there, complete from saloon to undertaker. It will furnish the locale for the stories which the noted cowboy will make.

* * *

Sessue Hayakawa and a company of Lasky players, under the direction of Marshall Neilan, has departed for Honolulu, to take exterior scenes for a forthcoming Lasky production, in which the popular Japanese actor is to be starred.

Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa.

Another Lasky company, under direction of Rollin Sturgeon, leaves for Washington, D. C., this week, to film some scenes requiring an eastern locale. Theodore Roberts, Maude Fealy and a number of other players were included in the party. Arrangements have been made to photograph the lobby and dining rooms of the Willard Hotel, which figures prominently in the story.

* * *

Camille Astor, who has recently been supporting Helen Ware in the Selig production of "The Garden of Allah," is returning to comedy, and will be featured in the La Salle Film Company's productions.

* * *

Fred Mace, of Keystone fame, left Thursday this week for a six weeks' trip to New York, relative to the business of forming his own comedy company. Good luck, Fred! Give our regards to Broadway.

* * *

Ford Sterling, we are informed, is the first Keystone director to become a member of the Motion Picture Directors' Association, having joined Tuesday night of this week.

* * *

It's rumored this week that Blanche Sweet, that brilliant star of silent drama, is contemplating leaving the Lasky company and taking a long vacation before considering a new film engagement.

* * *

Bill "Kalem" Wright, vice-president and general manager of the Kalem Co., arrived in Los Angeles this week. Mr. Wright expects to be in our city for a week or ten days to arrange for the enlargement of the Kalem studios in Hollywood and Glendale. Phil Lang, chief scenario editor of the Kalem Co., is also here from New York and has been busy for the last week preparing scripts at the Glendale studios.

* * *

Captain Wilbert Melville, the former Coast representative for the Lubin Company and director-general of the Los Angeles and San Diego plants of that organization, has announced that he will enter in the film manufacturing business again, and this time for himself. Captain Melville contemplates reopening the old Lubin studio at Coronado and may also locate a company in Los Angeles. Captain Melville has a temporary office in the Stay Bldg.

* * *

Ken' O'Hara called us up on the 'phone today and kindly requested our presence at a Christmas jollification Sunday, December 24, at Culver City. Thanks, Ken', old boy; we shall be there if a certain speed cop out your way don't get the old boat. He did last time, and the judge said "Five dollars or five days."

* * *

Mae Murray, the Lasky star, has started on a new production under the direction of Robert Leonard. She is now up in the mountains filming some exterior scenes.

* * *

Alvin Wyckoff, director of photography, and Howard Ewing, chief electrician at the Lasky studio, have departed for New York City, to assist Cecil B. De Mille in the first presentation of the Geraldine Farrar production founded on the story of Joan of Arc. Members of the Lasky company went to great lengths to warn them of the pitfalls of the great city.

* * *

The cast of the new George Walsh picture, on which Director Otis Turner began work last week, includes Anna Luther, Velma Whitman, Cecil Holland, Sydney Deane, Charles Girard and Frank Alexander. Miss Luther will play opposite Mr. Walsh.

* * *

Volma Whitman rejoins the Fox organization after an absence of several months. The last picture in which she worked for the company was staged in the East, and Miss Whitman was living in New York at that time. Outside the stars of the company, she is the only actress now with them, who has worked at both East and West Coast studios.

* * *

Dustin Farnum returned this week from a hunting trip among the mountains, and is now spending most of his time discussing his 'script with his director, William D. Taylor. The company will begin work on Monday, the story being the dramatization of a popular novel of the great northwest.

* * *

Hank Mann, who has made four Foxfilm comedies under the direction of Charles Parrott, will next week begin work on a fifth, directing his own company. Mr. Parrott will announce a new star within the near future. This makes six comedy companies now actively at work at the Fox Hollywood studio.

* * *

The plant of the National Drama Corporation, occupied by the Wm. Fox studios until the recent fire, is fast being rebuilt and should be ready for occupancy within a few weeks. One wing of the building is already complete, and several departments have moved into it.

The new Western home of the Fox company will be a building of quadrangular shape, with several large stages in the interior court. Offices and dressing rooms will occupy the surrounding corridors.

* * *

Chester B. Clapp was installed last week as the comedy scenario editor with the Fox company. From-Keystone-to-Universal-to-Fox is the record made by Mr. Clapp within the past month.

* * *

William Russell and his company are working overtime at the American studios in Santa Barbara in order that the company and its director, Edward Sloman, may come to Los Angeles for the holidays.

* * *

On "Christie Night," Wednesday of this week, Christie players turned out en masse in honor of Herbert Lewis' third managerial anniversary of the Hollywood theater. This particular picture, "Hist! At Six O'clock" was the first of the Christie satirical series on vampire subjects. The spontaneous ripples of laughter from the audience was a tribute to the company.

* * *

The Helen Holmes company of the Signal Film Corporation is looking forward to a Christmas present in the form of the completion of the dreaded thirteenth episode of their serial, "A Lass of the Lumberlands."

Thus far, although there have been a number of dangerous stunts performed, there have been no more injuries received than in the previous episodes, which seems to brand the old thirteen hoodoo as the bunk. Miss Holmes was called upon to ride an aerial gravity tram from a mine shaft to the railroad track, where she drops on board a passing freight; William Behrens was called upon to follow her and later to be shot from the top of the freight into a river over which the train was passing. They accomplished this without accident and it now looks as though the installment would be finished without the occurrence of any of the dreaded catastrophes expected.

* * *

J. P. McGowan, director-general of the Signal Film Corporation, has issued instructions for the removal of the offices of the company from their present quarters to a larger building on Pasadena avenue. The building into which they are to be moved was originally a residence. The place is being thoroughly renovated, partitions are being torn out and others built to accommodate the office force. The building in which the offices are now located will be left standing for a private office for Mr. McGowan, for the time being. Later it is to be turned into dressing rooms, the laboratory is to be moved closer to the new offices and the space thus gained used for additional stage space. The new offices will be ready for occupancy within ten days.

* * *

Dorothy Dalton is concluding her performance, this week, as star of the Triangle-Ince play being directed by Reginald Barker, and in her spare moments is getting ready to appear in a new Triangle-Kay Bee. This is said to be a sensational story that will reveal Miss Dalton in a new role. It was written by John Lynch and prepared for the screen by J. G. Hawks. Charles Miller will be the director.

Dorothy Dalton, After Enacting a Love Scene in Mid-Stream

* * *

Arthur Maude, the English actor, was engaged this week by Thomas H. Ince to appear as leading man in a new Triangle production under the direction of Raymond B. West. Mr. Maude served nearly a year under the Ince banner, at the time when Inceville was the producing headquarters of the noted director-general. Among the screen-plays in which he appeared were "The Devil," "The Cup of Life" and "The Reward."

* * *

House Peters and Myrtle Stedman have finished their picture and the popular Morosco stars have been granted a vacation until after the holidays.

* * *

Vola Vale has been selected as leading woman to appear with George Beban in his forthcoming production now being made at the Morosco studio under the direction of Donald Crisp. In the cast are Colin Chase and Paul Weigel. Mr. Beban is one of the authors of the scenario.

* * *

Howard Estabrook will direct the next Morosco production in which Vivian Martin is to appear, and which is expected to start shortly.

* * *

The Lasky production of Joan of Arc, in which Geraldine Farrar plays the stellar role, will be given its Los Angeles premiere Saturday, January 13, at the Majestic theater. William Furst, composer of the music and conductor of the orchestra in New York City, will come to Los Angeles to direct the augmented orchestra here.

* * *

The new Triangle-Kay Bee play, starring William Desmond, will be started this week at Culver City. It is a rollicking romance of the Balkan States, written by J. G. Hawkes, in which Desmond takes the part of a dashing young Irish newspaper reporter who is dispatched to the front as the correspondent of a London paper. The play is being directed by Walter Edwards, and the cast includes Fanny Midgley, Joseph J. Dowling, Thomas S. Guise and Will H. Bray.

* * *

William S. Hart began work this week on the production of a new Triangle-Kay Bee play written by Martin Brown and prepared for the screen by Lambert Hillyer. The story offers the popular western star several remarkably strong situations that measure up, it is said, to those in "The Aryan," "Hell's Hinges" and "Devil's Double." Margery Wilson has been cast to appear opposite Hart in this subject, and the other important parts are being played by Jack Livingston, who has just finished a performance opposite Dorothy Dalton, and J. P. Lockney, the character actor.

* * *

Charles H. Christie, business manager of the Christie Company, announces that the contracts made for the releasing of the two-reel pictures on January 1 are subject to change, owing to unavoidable delays. Those which were to be released on January 1 will not be offered to the public until the latter part of January. These two-reel comedies will be a series of ten or twelve pictures, to be released two to the month, through the same exchanges now handling the one-reel Christie comedies.

* * *

That Harry Rattenberry's pastime is raising chickens (please refrain from ambiguities), we learned this week from the capable publicity purveyor of the Christie studios. All the spare lumber on the lot finds its way these days to Harry's Hollywood house to make coops for the poultry. Even so, the broilers have a way of turning up missing and Harry couldn't trace them. A darkey family lives in the back and a conversation heard through the high board fence gave Harry the necessary clue. This was the scrap of dialogue ,

"Does dat white gemman in front keep chickens, Brother Johnsing?"

"Well, suh, he don't 'zackly keep 'em, but he sho' try hard nuff."

* * *

Billie Rhodes, the petite Christie comedienne, is going East for Christmas and will stop over in many of the larger cities to appear in person at theaters showing Christie comedies. Her leave of absence from the studios is necessarily limited, but she and Mr. Christie are working on an itinerary which will give this pleasure to as many Christie fans as possible.

* * *

The new Isidor Bernstein studio, at Boyle Heights, is now almost finished, and it looks as if the picturesque eight-acre tract on which the plant is located will be one of the beauty spots of Los Angeles. The old Perry residence, picturesque in itself, with its columns and towers, is being remodeled as a residence for Mr. Bernstein. The natural features of the tract are wonderfully beautiful, the house being situated on an eminence from which the land drops gradually into dells and glades.

Lawns and gardens of great beauty are being prepared in the shade of the many varieties of trees which grow on the place. A Japanese garden will be a feature and there will be an ornamental fountain, large greenhouses and picturesque rustic summer houses.

Three stages are now in process of construction, and an office building will be erected near the entrance on Boyle avenue. A glass stage will be built later. Other buildings to be erected are property rooms and a developing plant, with the very latest equipment.

Cleo Madison's company and two others will begin work January first.

"FILLUM" MONEY.

The motion picture exhibitors want a new coin—a fifteen-cent piece which will facilitate them in the handling of receipts at their box offices and in saving the time of their patrons.

President John R. Freuler, of the Mutual Film Corporation, in whose office the campaign was first discussed, suggests that a new design, expressive of the motion picture industry itself, be offered.

Here it is—the first design to be suggested. The lady is Helen Holmes, the famous star of "A Lass of the Lumberlands," Mutual production.

What do you think of it?

Marguerite Snow Opposite George M. Cohan

Well Known Screen Favorite Engaged by Artcraft as Leading Lady for George M. in His First Screen Subject, "Broadway Jones."

MARGUERITE SNOW, the well known screen favorite, has been engaged by the Artcraft Pictures Corporation to appear opposite George M. Cohan in his initial motion picture subject, "Broadway Jones." Miss Snow will portray on the screen the part of Josie Richards, the pretty stenographer at the Jones Gum factory, who shows the wild "Broadway Jones" the right path. Originally presented at the Cohan Theater, New York City, by Myrtle Tannehill, the role of Josie offers a particularly likable character and one especially adapted to Miss Snow's capabilities. This part is second in importance only to the stellar role of "Broadway Jones" and to those who are familiar with it as well as the work of Miss Snow as displayed on the screen in the past, it will immediately prove evident that she is just the artist to visualize Josie on the screen to the best advantage.

Marguerite Snow.

In motion pictures Miss Snow gained great public favor throughout the country as a result of her famous characterization of the Countess Zudora in "The Million Dollar Mystery," one of the most popular series ever produced. Among the other well known portrayals on the screen are those displayed in "Rosemary," "The Upstart," "Corner in Cotton," "The Second in Command," "The Silent Mystery," "The Turmoil," and many other big motion picture successes.

The balance of the cast for "Broadway Jones" is now being assembled and work has already been begun at the studio in New York on some of the big sets to be used in the first Cohan film. The actual production will start immediately after the holidays.

C. A. MEADE APPOINTED PATHE MANAGER AT DETROIT.

In accordance with the policy of building up the finest exchange organization in the industry, Pathe announces that in addition to the many excellent salesmen and managers who have been recruited since the beginning of the new administration of J. A. Berst as vice-president and general manager, the organization has been further strengthened by the addition of C. A. Meade, who assumed charge of the Detroit Pathe office on Christmas day.

NEW UNITY EXCHANGE IN CLEVELAND.

Unity has added another link to its chain of exchanges, through the formation of the Unity Photoplays Company, with offices in the Columbia building, Cleveland, Ohio. This exchange will handle all Unity features in the states of Ohio and Kentucky. Harry Goldberg has been selected to manage the new exchange by the Unity officials, and under his experienced leadership the business should develop well in this territory. Mr. Goldberg was formerly manager of the Atlanta branch for the World Film Co. and is an exchange man of many years standing.

GAUMONT LONDON REPRESENTATIVES OF WORLD FILM.

The World Film Corporation under its recently adopted policy of extending the service has just concluded arrangements with the Gaumont Company of London for the distribution of Brady-made picture plays throughout Great Britain. The deal is considered of such importance at the European end of the line that twenty advertising pages of the Cinema magazines are required for the initial announcement. The direct London headquarters for World-Brady pictures will be found in the premises on Water street, formerly occupied by the Edison Company.

Advancing the Industry

What Artcraft Distribution Means to the Film Industry—Trend to "Fewer and Better Pictures."

By Al. Lichtman.

(General Manager of the Artcraft Pictures Corporation.)

"FEWER and better pictures" has often been preached but never has an organization pointed toward this trend more effectively than Artcraft. Our very foundation indicates bigger and better pictures with longer runs, which, of course, will mean fewer releases. This is undoubtedly the trend of the motion picture future and that Artcraft will play a most important part in the evolution of the photoplay which will have its effect during the next twelve months, is readily apparent.

The advent of any new force in the motion picture industry is often looked upon with fear by exhibitors, particularly when it calls for a longer run of the attraction, a higher charge of admission and an increase in the cost of rentals. At the same time, many exhibitors realize that it was due to the entrance of just such forces into the business several years ago that resulted in the great improvement evidenced during the past few years. Exhibitors who at that time feared to raise their admission price from five to ten cents are today selling their twenty-five cent seats faster than their ten-cent seats.

Thus when Artcraft entered the field several months ago and offered new ideas and policies to the exhibitor, many managers did not realize that this was merely another step toward their own advancement as well as that of the industry in general. Artcraft is primarily intended for the improvement of conditions affecting the exhibitor, not the manager of the opera house, the town hall or the theatre which usually shows a "legitimate" attraction, but the fifty-two-weeks-a-year exhibitor whose theater is a regular motion picture house, whether it is a palatial institution or a small town odeon. In the past this exhibitor has shown pictures of ordinary merit year in and year out and when a big production came to this town it was given to the opera house or the regular dramatic theater, while he was forced to offer as opposition his mediocre pictures. This is the situation in which Artcraft protects the exhibitor. In other words, to use the vernacular of the day, Artcraft gives the exhibitor a chance at the big stuff which in the past was given to the owner of the regular "legit" theater.

The many palatial motion picture houses throughout the country are operating under as large an expense as the finest playhouses. These theaters must have extraordinary productions, and it is the aim of Artcraft to supply them with the biggest subjects in points of stars, art and general merit. In place of running the mediocre film three days and a week, Artcraft supplies these houses with productions that will not only stand an increase in admission price, but a longer run. In other words, Artcraft not only places the unusual attraction within the reach of the regular exhibitor whose palatial theater is the logical place to show the production, but gives him the opportunity of placing his house on a still higher plane by increasing the run of the subject and justifiably asking more for admission.

As to the smaller exhibitor, Artcraft offers to him the very thing for which every live-wire showman is ever on the lookout, namely a "special attraction" or stimulus for his business. Just as every good retail merchant will occasionally hold a special sale to attract new customers and retain old ones, so does the showman offer a special inducement in the way of an extraordinary entertainment. To the small exhibitor who is showing the usual film Artcraft is as important as it is to the owner of the immense motion picture palace. Where heretofore it has been impossible for him to secure the big production until long after its initial appearance, Artcraft now makes it possible for him to show the so-called "big stuff" occasionally, thus not only increasing the prestige of his house, but actually injecting new blood into the box office veins of his business.

To the producer Artcraft offers a distribution such as has never been evidenced before. It not only saves him the laborous and expensive proceedings in connection with the simultaneous presentation of a big production throughout the country, but places at his disposal the very best theaters in the land. At the same time Artcraft's scope is not limited to the activities and ideas of a set of producers. Any author, artist or producer will find in Artcraft an outlet for ideas or productions that are in keeping with the standard it has already established.

HELEN STRICKLAND IN "A MESSAGE TO GARCIA."

Helen Strickland is cast as a Spanish adventuress in the Kleine-Edison film version of Elbert Hubbard's "A Message to Garcia."

Allen Holubar

FEW persons connected with the motion picture industry can point to the record attained by Allen Holubar, author director and actor, whose work in Universal productions has attracted widespread attention. To achieve fame as an author of photoplays, a director of them or as an actor in them is praiseworthy enough but to achieve fame in all three branches is almost unprecedented.

Allen Holubar.

Allen Holubar, however, is an exceptional man with a capacity for unlimited hard work, so the mere fact that he frequently writes, directs and plays leading roles in his own pictures seems merely part of his daily life to him and he stands ready at all times to take on new duties.

Mr. Holubar was for years a popular leading man with stock companies on the Pacific Coast, playing with such well known organizations as the Alcazar Stock company, San Francisco; T. Daniel Frawley's company of Seattle and Portland, the Auditorium Stock company of Spokane, and in companies at San Diego, San Jose and Oakland. He played with Blanche Bates in "The Girl of the Golden West," and toured with several noted stage productions. He played a season in vaudeville in support of Bertha Kalich, leaving the stage to enter pictures with the Universal.

Before taking up directing Mr. Holubar played leading roles in many Universal successes. Some of his most recent productions are: "The Girl Over There," "Leona's Daughter," "Midnight," "The Double Topped Trunk," "The Old Toy Maker," "His Father's Son," "The Shadow," "The Taint of Fear" and "Stronger Than Steel."

WILLIAM FOX SIGNS RALPH AND VERA LEWIS.

In continuation of his policy of increasing still more his great list of photoplay luminaries for 1917, William Fox has just signed two stars who are one. They are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lewis. Mrs. Lewis is known professionally as Vera Lewis.

Ralph Lewis, who has been hated in every country in the world where motion pictures are projected, undoubtedly achieved his biggest success in the silent drama when he gave his remarkable impersonation of Stoneman, the ruler of the South, in "The Birth of a Nation."

Vera Lewis, who will be seen in the same production with her husband, also enjoys a long record of stage and screen successes. She comes, too, from Griffith's Triangle company. She acted recently in "Intolerance," where she had the part of Miss Jenkins, the selfish philanthropist.

BERT ADLER WITH EDUCATIONAL.

Our old friend Bert Adler, who was, for several years, connected with the publicity department of the Thanhouser Company, and later with the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, has been added to the publicity staff of the Educational Films Corporation of America. In securing Mr. Adler the Educational Films Corporation of America are fortunate in gaining the services of one who has had wide experience in the moving picture business. Our best wishes to Mr. Adler in his association with one of the strongest corners of the educational side of the business.

MIGNON ANDERSON JOINS UNIVERSAL.

After having played leading parts in Thanhouser films, Mignon Anderson, one of the daintiest actresses of filmdom, has joined the acting forces of Lois Weber at Universal City and is playing opposite BenWilson in a five-reel current production.

Advertising for Exhibitors

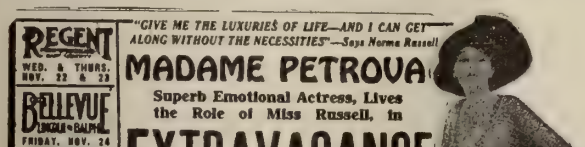
Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Courtesy.

ASSUREDLY let the atmosphere of your house be courteous, but by all means let the courtesy be genuine. The other evening we visited a theater. It fairly oozed courtesy. It was almost offensively courteous, and yet it is run by a man who has almost an international reputation as a house conductor. His management is ostentatious, pretentious, but it is not genuine. In every move of every salaried employee there was the same air of "look how well we do this!" There was nothing spontaneous, nothing unstudied. It was all cut and dried, a purely mechanical manifestation of certain managerial dicta. The people were courteous by rule and regulation. It was all on the surface. Courtesy does not consist of a head usher costumed like a comic opera tenor and supported by a staff of boys who do certain things because they are told to. In the old days we knew three vaudeville circuits intimately. We went regularly each week because we were paid to go. In one the boys were over trained. They annoyed, they were so eager to be polite. In the second, patterned after the first, the boys were polite when someone was watching. A signal went along the line when the house superintendent came in sight. At other times the service was lax. The boys were merely drilled. In a third house the boys were picked. They were not drilled. They were required to have an inherent sense of courtesy; a desire to make good for the house, because this was their job. You could go into any three houses and tell which was which. You could tell the atmosphere. Two were pretense and one was real. The latter was so real that we knew one man who used to frequent the smoking room of the house as a place to read his newspaper. He seldom saw the show, but he contented the smoking room appealed to him more than did his club. The boys all came to know him. He was told which were the acts worth seeing and now and then one of the ushers would dash down to warn him that something worth while was going on. He didn't tip the ushers. It was pure friendliness. This may seem a bit overdrawn, but it is the truth. Don't train your house staff to be polite. Pick those who are born that way. Then let them work their own way and not in set fashion. The people will stay by you longer because you will not have to fire so many, and it will mean a lot more to your house.

Joint Advertising.

The Rowland and Clark theaters, Pittsburgh, use the daily papers for their features and make one general advertisement cover all the houses as shown in this reproduction. They also use an advertisement



REGENT
WED. & THURS. NOV. 22 & 23
BELLEVUE
FRIDAY, NOV. 24
ARSENAL THEATRE
SATURDAY, NOV. 25
STRAND
MONDAY, NOV. 27
"GIVE ME THE LUXURIES OF LIFE—AND I CAN GET ALONG WITHOUT THE NECESSITIES"—Says Norma Russell
MADAME PETROVA
Superb Emotional Actress, Lives the Role of Miss Russell, in EXTRAVAGANCE
Metro Wonder Play of Social Life of Today
The Film Forecast, Weekly Magazine Devoted to Motion Pictures, Mailed Free to Any Address.
Address 300 Westinghouse Building —Desk A.
DIRECTION ROWLAND & CLARK THEATERS

for the various houses, giving the daily attraction for each house, but this joint advertisement is unusual.

A Two-year-old.

Paramount Pointers, the Philadelphia exchange organ, has passed it's second birthday and we hope it lives long enough to use three twos in a row to tell its age, for it is a smart little sheet and helpful to its readers. Here is an idea they take from the Mastbaum house. It is good enough to try—only why make it necessary to ask the ushers? Put it where it can be seen going in, coming out, and before you get there.

> The management of the Stanley theater has evidently solved one of the exhibitors' problems once and for all. Patrons are continually asking ushers and other employees the time a certain picture will be shown. As arranged at the Stanley, any employee in the building can now tell a patron the exact time the feature and single reels are shown at any time, by a simple method. Each employee is supplied, with every change of show, a slip of paper on which is typed the title of each picture and the time it goes on, and also the time of the overture. The ushers carry them around their flashlights. We tried it on some of the employees the other night, and found that it was an ideal scheme. Such little helps as these are appreciated by the patrons.

Evidently celebrating his birthday, the Pointer's editor tells a whopping big fish story. Must have been out with Jay Emanuel. The stuff he buys gets you that way.

Another Self Sealer.

Here is what seems to be a new idea in self-sealing matter. It comes from the De Luxe Film (Lasky) Corporation of San Francisco, and the original is a sheet 14¼ by 4¼ inches. The folds have been marked in and the cut shows the inside. The top is folded over and then the left-hand page, which is not quite as long as the middle, is folded over and the right-hand page, which is only half size, is folded and slipped over the left-hand page. The right is printed up "Look inside. It contains bright tidings for the exhibitor," and the left-hand side carries a fist pointing to the legend. The reverse of the middle page is the usual mailing card imprint. What is known as scoring rule is used to get the top fold exact. If this fold is well defined the card will travel cross country without opening.

Classy.

Walter Brooks had Romeo and Juliet lately at the Auditorium, Coatesville, Pa., and to emphasize the event he got out a special folder, eight pages, uncut leaves, only the outside and middle pages printed. It was a heavy hand-made paper that looked like the produce of an engraver rather than a printer, and the tone of the announcement was in keeping with the style. It lifted that attraction out of the general run and put it in a class all its own. For the regular work Mr. Brooks uses the eight-page wire-stitched program that he used following his neat folder. It is a page to a day and each title is followed by the correct showing time. It is about as good as they come. Some special stunt like this Romeo and Juliet idea will have a tremendous moral effect upon your audience if you work it right. It brings them to the theater in the properly receptive frame of mind.

Party Rates.

A traveling man sends in a small town newspaper with an advertisement, but he forgot to send the top part, that tells the name of the town, but it seems to be somewhere in Illinois. The type repetition will not give much of a hint of the display, but read what the manager calls "live and let live" prices for a six-reel show:

SINGLE ADMISSION, 10c.
CHILDREN, 5c.
Low Rates Weekly.

The Whole Family (3 or more)	50c.
Family of Two (or Couple)	35c.
One Person	25c.

Show Starts at 7 P. M.

Special Rates to those who do not feel able to pay above prices. Do not let price keep anyone from enjoying these Good Pictures.

The bill is changed three times weekly, so that these prices are for three sets of admissions. No man need feel he cannot afford a best girl when he can take her to the theater three times a week for only thirty-five cents. Add this to the Trail (B. C.) monthly commutation ticket and the man in Washington who opens his house for a month only when he has sold enough season tickets to ensure his breaking even.

Good Printing.

The Alameda theater, Alameda, Cal., sends in a couple of recent programs. They are 6 by 9, four-pagers, white stock and blue ink, and the front and back page cuts are "made ready" to get really good results. The inside page cuts are not so well printed, but are not badly done. But we think it would pay them to drop the back page cut and take that space for house talk. It would mean more. They get an odd heading for the front page very simply, using Comstock type and boxing each letter with one-point rule. It looks as well as a drawn design, but this works only when the printer locks up so that his rules meet. This printer does; you do not catch him napping on any one of the four pages, but, loosely done with bad mitres, nothing is so slovenly as poor panel work. The Alameda uses day and date, and prepares its copy nicely. But on the coast "The Birth of a Nation" has dropped to a quarter admission, it would seem, since they advertise this price.

Battle Cry, Also.

Lately we printed an advertisement of "The Fall of a Nation," taken from a handbill of its tour of the Canal Zone, and now Earl Toothman of the Post Exchange, Corozal, C. Z., sends in a newspaper clipping of the tour of "The Battle Cry of Peace." Evidently this is not under the Y. M. C. A. management, as was the other, for the film will play Panama three nights. The advertising has been lazily done, for it is merely clipped from the company press sheet and starts off "At (name of theater) on (date) will be shown, etc." This is tagged with a panel showing the playing dates, but entirely apart from the other box. The general text should have been changed to apply to the new condition, and the playing dates made a part of the same announcement.

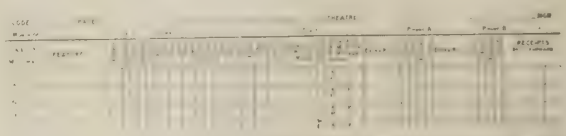
Been Saving It Up.

Herschel Stuart, of the Old Mill, will be remembered by readers of a couple of years ago. He was in several times and then stopped coming, but now he writes and sends a long letter about what he has been doing. It is worth reading, even if you have no chain of theaters and find just one a handful. Now the Old Mill, Dallas, Texas., is the center of a chain of houses through Texas, including Queen theaters in Dallas, Houston and Galveston, the Zoe, Houston, and the Hippodrome, Waco, with a couple more. Mr. Stuart writes:

> It has been almost two years since you heard from me. Possibly you have entirely forgotten me. Some of my first ads. were submitted to you for approval, and you handed me a compliment which was an inspiration and by hard plugging and careful study of your book, "Picture Theater Advertising," and your weekly budget in the World, I have managed to hold my job in a business that has grown, and grown and grown, thanks to the General Manager, who has not a peer in America.
>
> We operate nine theaters now, two of which are not mentioned in this letterhead, and our advertising is naturally enormous. I enclose some copy for your approval. I am a great believer in outdoor advertising, billboards, and high-class grade of sniping on fences, using one-sheet and two-sheet, special home-block printed posters. In Dallas alone we have over one hundred locations which are the choicest in the town, and which are even more attractive than the large billboards, possibly because they are closer to the prospective patron who is on the sidewalk, or conveyance. These posters are kept sufficiently varied in color to be attractive and not be offensive. We have some private 28-sheet day and night boards for special hand-painted posters on big productions. These last are personally selected, and they are beautiful. You being my ideal advertiser, I often wish you could come to Dallas and see how we do it (I am speaking of Dallas, but all things mentioned here apply to Dallas, Houston, Galveston and Waco), though Dallas gets a little the best of it because we operate the two leading theaters here, while the other towns have one important theater and others smaller.
>
> Aside from what has been mentioned in the way of outdoor advertising, we have changeable letter electric signs in the down-town districts at prominent corners which are a source of revenue in themselves. Considering special stunts, which space forbids particulars of, outdoor displays, and lavish use of newspaper space, we have accomplished much and have high hopes for the future.
>
> We adhere strictly to the truth in advertising and never knock a competitor. Only on rare occasions de we call attention to the film in superlatives. We try to lure the public by inviting them and calling attention to something interesting either about the film or the players rather than using useless adjectives.
>
> I have surely gone into detail more than I intended at the beginning, but in closing I want to ask your opinion of our system (see copy marked "System"). It was a long time before I got out of the woods on how to keep track of bookings for the nine theaters, and in addition sub-renting lobby displays and films to numerous other theaters, and it was still a longer time before I accomplished getting these things to the theaters and getting them returned and routed harmoniously and to collect the money for the trouble and use of materials after it was all over; but at last, thanks to many of your suggestions, I have it under control and by having a system for everything, office appliances, in addition to the matter I am sending you, I have been able to make one department do the work of four or five departments. The following things are conducted in the one department:
>
> Booking Department, Advertising Department, and Publicity Promotion for nine of our own theaters.
>
> Sub-renting films and advertising helps to thirty-six outside theaters.
>
> Conducting an art department for newspaper drawings and lobby cards. We use very few stock posters.
>
> Render personal assistance to the General Manager.
>
> All of the above is taken care of with the following small number of people:
>
> A good stenographer. A good shipping clerk. One artist. Bess L. Whitehead, my assistant, and myself.

Routine press stuff is about the meanest job of the lot, as any exchange will tell you. It is bad enough when you deal only with managers in your own circuit. When you deal with outsiders, too, it is a job that takes the hair off your head and puts splashes of grey into what's left. It is not possible to give Mr. Stuart's system in full, but we are going to hit the high spots for the benefit of chain houses and exchanges.

Being up to date, most of the stuff is loose leaf and card catalogue, the latter being 5x8-inch cards of various colors. Most of the stuff is printed both sides, from the first to the sixteenth, and from the seventeenth to the end of the month. One card is used for the houses to keep track of bookings. It is shown as Form A. This has space for details of a general nature such as the name of the house, its code, manager and phone number.



FORM A. Monthly booking card which shows what material has been sent for each attraction.

In the regular spaces are first, the day of the month and day of the week, this last being rubber stamped in. Then comes a space for the title, and check spaces for the brand (represented by a symbol); the circuit, proposed, booked, confirmed; the house from which the film is to be sent and that to which it is to be passed on, if advertising cuts, programs, press work have been sent; if a lobby display is to be sent, from what house and passed on to what house; the same for lobby photographs; the page in the trade press on which a criticism may be found; details of the advertising to be done, and details of extra reels. All of this is contained on a single line as shown. Each house has a code letter and number for abbreviation, and any person concerned can tell at a glance just how the lobby material and films have been routed.

Form B shows what films are available for first to fifth runs. Different colors are used for different brands, so that a Triangle may be picked from a Paramount at a glance instead of looking at all the cards in any particular brand. This helps in quick routing where a change is needed. The data given is the release date, title, stars and the runs.

FORM B. Index card for keeping track of open dates for film.

To move the material a special yellow slip is used. The essential portion is reproduced in type as Form C. Check marks indicate whether the matter goes forward immediately after the show or the following day, and whether it is sent paid or collect.

Kindly ship the Film entitled.....
Kindly mail the enlarged Photographs on the Flm entitled.....
.....

Remarks (On night train after use) (On day following use)

..... To the.....Theater
..... City .....State.....
..... (Prepaid) (Collect)

FORM C. Shipping slip sent theaters to keep film and display moving.

A general form of shipping instructions is used for regular program, the above being the special slip. This is a larger sheet. Duplicate invoices are returned to Dallas, which office keeps track of all the material. Once the system is started, it involves less booking than would appear to be the case. The General Film Company system is used for the home office photograph record. At that the exact form is less important than the systematic upkeep of some style of account.

Shipping slips for the home office are made out for film and advertising. The former gives the subject, the sorts of paper to be sent, the photographs or mats, cuts, slides and other press material. The latter omits the check column for the film. Both orders are on the same sheet with the shipping label, properly filled in, and when made up, the address label is affixed the package and the slip is filed for reference.

We spoke lately of the information slip used by the Mastbaum houses in Philadelphia. The Hulsey houses have a printed slip with these details; subject, make, number of reels, where made, directed by, author and stars. Three spaces are allowed, for feature comedy and added film, and then the starting time of the program, the order in which the subjects are to be run and the number of shows for the day. Each employee out front receives one of the slips for his information and a footnote requires him to be prepared to pass along the informa- to the public.

Each house reports every night the takings for the day and the gross attendance, together with the usual details of weather, opposition and the like. Mr. Stuart has certainly done the efficiency man to a finish, but the answer is that a comparatively small staff can get away with an immense amount of work.

In his press work Mr. Stuart seems to favor special frame work, which is practical where several houses in different towns can use the same advertising; indeed, once you get the system under way it is really easier to run a chain of houses than just one, because you can command better facilities and pro rate the cost to comparatively little.

Now that Mr. Stuart has found his way in again, we hope that he keeps on coming.

Fine!

The Majestic, Columbus, Ohio, offers another new one. If a patron walks away from the box office forgetful of his or her change, the doorkeeper sends the absent minded beggar back, and the dazed patron wonders how it is done. It is very simple. Instead of shouting himself hoarse after the departing patron, the box office man presses a button that sounds a buzzer at the ticket box. The doorkeeper notes who is coming away from the window and sends that person back. He gets a reputation as a seventh son of a seventh son, and the house gets a lot more free advertising than the buzzer and its installation cost. When we go out to look over the Stillman, we think we'll take in Columbus, too. It is one of the "real-run" houses if it lives up to its program—and we think it does.

Easy.

Lately the Third Street theater, Easton, Pa., made a splurge about a series of vampire pictures, the first one of which would be a nice lady in "full black tights." The next issue of the program reads:

> Perhaps you were disappointed with the first story of "The Vampire." If you were we can't blame you much, as the picture was "cut to pieces" evidently by the censors. We can't understand why the censors should cut out the best part of the story, but—this is just one instance why we should not have them. You can help to do away with them if you will only see your congressman and tell him you object to it or write to the governor of Pennsylvania.

That's all right, but why should a Pennsylvania exhibitor expect to book a lady in tights, filled or otherwise, and expect to get past that censor bunch. The only safe plays in Pennsylvania are Pollyanna and Uncle Tom's Cabin and in the latter Legree must not be too rough with Tom. The Third Street theater, by the way, has a new catchline for its resume of the program. It reads: "We have with us this week—" It can be used, with a change for the underline, and is better than the more hackneyed lines.

With Ears.

We like what the newspaper men call "ears," where a house name does not have to stretch along the entire top of the program—and even where it should. As a sample we clip this from the Parkway,

THE Parkway
NORTH AVENUE AT CHARLES
Matinee 800 Seats 10c. Evening 15c.—25c.
Loge Box Seats Can be Reserved, 50c., Evening prices at Matinees on Holidays
More Than a Theatre—A Baltimore Institution

Baltimore. The Parkway uses a program six by nine, printed in green with red rule work. Since they are using two colors, it would pay then to experiment with red frames for the cuts. It would more than double the value of the job. About a twelve point for large cuts and six for the smaller ones, solid brass rule would be about right.

He Said It.

D. Filizola, of the Theatrette, Fort Scott, Kans., sends in a full page advertisement and says:

> Years ago had you been told that a manager in a town of 11,000 would run a page advertisement in the paper, you would have said he was crazy. I believe that every once in a while one ought to put over a splash like this, as it gets people talking and stimulates interest in the business. I hope to see it commented upon in the Picture Man's Bible.

Some years ago the manager who used full page advertising would not have been called crazy: he would have been adjudged insane and a guardian would have been appointed, and yet the page advertising is not to be charged against a single week, but pro rated against the several weeks that interest is upheld. The advertisement is ostensibly for the Common Law, but, though it is dated December 2, it advertises the Christmas special as well as the intervening attractions. That could not have been done, either, in the old days, when release dates were seldom three weeks ahead of the calendar. The only suggestion we would offer on the advertisement is that the various sections should have been boxed with heavier rule, to make it easier to read. Two point is not heavy enough in a page or half page advertisement, where the reading matter is in sections—as it should be. Six point should be employed. Twelve different films are advertised in this one advertisement—five of them dated—and the cost per subject is not prohibitive and the return is out of proportion to cost.

Opened a Pawnshop.

The Rex theater, Salt Lake City, Utah, turned its lobby into a pawnshop when they played the Chaplin film of that title, and Robert Saunders, the manager, says that the cost was about $15. It costs more than that to open the average pawnshop. The picture gives an idea of the lobby, the painting being done on a false front. Mr. Saunders, in the interest of record, is the man in the black overcoat. The more sporty light one is worn by the branch manager of Mutual, J. L. Frazier. In most places the front will cost in excess of the price named, but it makes a good lobby. Anything that will change the lobby is worth the price it costs in the extra business it will bring.

Vale the Herald.

It remained for the Boston Paramount exchange to write the real obituary of the herald. Others have tried it, but Boston puts it in words that can be understood when it says:

> After checking up the entire list of exchanges releasing Paramount Pictures, it was decided to discontinue the issuing of HERALDS on all future Paramount Production, after the Lasky production of "The Years of the Locust." Out of the thousands printed on each production, few were sold, and the loss has been big, and the accumulation of stock terrific. Heralds used to be very popular with all exhibitors, but since the coming of the "house organ," which nearly all managers use, and from which they get better results, and at a cost that in most instances is the same as the cost of Heralds, it naturally has driven the old time Herald out of business. With the rapid changing of pictures that nearly all houses make, the Herald was confusing to the public, but with the "house organ" telling a full and complete description of the coming week's show and all under one roof as you might say, and with dates and days, that the patrons can quickly grasp, it is a much more efficient form of advertising than the Herald. With the free accessories that the Paramount offices furnish, including all kinds and sizes of cuts, the exhibitor has placed in his hands material to incorporate in his "house organ" that is far superior to the Herald.

Heralds never were much good. Most of them were hard to read, few were interesting and fewer still were convincing. Bluebird puts out some good work, but they are not really heralds but booklets, which is something else. The Herald, as it really is, has no place in the game.

Expanded.

The Bulletin, organ of the Canadian Universal exchange, has been increased both as to length, breadth and thickness. There are more pages, larger pages and more room in which to work.

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World)

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throwaways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. All practical because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave., New York

Schiller Building Chicago, Ill.

Haas Building Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticized, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

A list of companies will be sent if the request is made to the paper direct and not to this department, and a return stamped envelope is inclosed.

Cutting Back.

LATELY we have been working on a five-reel reconstruction that the author said was in perfect technical form. About half of the story was so confused that it would have bothered the late Sam Lloyd himself to have followed it. Somewhere the author had read that if you ran too long in a scene you could cut to something else and return. Also he gathered that at times a cut-back was better than a time leader in getting over a break in the action. Both statements are right, but they must be understood and the cut back intelligently used.

In one place the author wanted to get over some rather tiresome premises and also dodge "The next day. The letter arrives." To do this he cut back the writing of the letter with the premise facts and then had the letter received by the person appearing in the latter sequence. He used the letter writing to break the long scene, and then brought the letter in at the end of that scene. His intentions were good, but the two lines of thought did not blend, and so the result was confusing in the extreme.

The scheme was all right, but he used the wrong material with which to cut back. He interrupted what was practically one continuous action with another continuous action, each of which should have been clearly concluded before dealing with another. He should have written the letter and have mailed it. Then he should have come to the other scene and have used some less important material for cut-backs. Then a leader should have been flashed for time and the letter be shown arriving. The trouble was that he sought to save time and footage by swinging the two actions in conjunction.

Cut-backs used merely to break scenes should punctuate the scene rather than interrupt it. The cut-backs should be comparatively valueless to the plot. Cut-backs used to heighten suspense, through delay, may be of equal importance provided that they have a direct bearing upon the same objective.

Suppose, for example, that you have a run of action in which Tom is captured by the Indians, tortured at the stake and rescued in the nick of time by his cowboy friends. The capture forms a definite run of action. It cannot be interrupted by the cowboys riding to the rescue. If break scenes are needed, they should be mere flashes of comparatively unimportant matters that have no direct bearing upon the real story. Perhaps the Indians capture Tom and start for camp. To avoid a succession of travel scenes, you can alternate these with a couple of flashes of the cowboys at the ranch and the girl Tom loves looking at his photograph. These remind us of other factors of the story and so give contrast, but they do not interrupt the important matter of the capture. But then Tom is sentenced to the torture. The boys miss him and ride after him. Now the torture and the rescue ride are of equal importance, but because one is so intimately related to the other, the alternations are not interruptions, but the continuation of the same story. Now to use ranch scenes would be to detract from the suspense. It would no longer be good cutting back.

Don't merely cut back. Cut back intelligently.

Lemons—Two Kinds.

Suppose that you went to the store to buy a dozen lemons and had a paw over a mass of a thousand lemons in vasying stages of decay to get a dozen of the sound fruit. You would think it a pretty mean job, wouldn't you? Then have some mercy on the buying editor who must glance at a hundred mostly bad scripts to get one good and usable idea. He has his troubles, too. Be kind to him.

Sizing Them Up.

Among the odd requests recently was one for information as to the way to spot editorial preferences. "You say that each editor has his fads," writes the questioner, "but how am I to tell them? What, for example, are the likings of ——— ——— and ——— ———? Personally I have found no two alike and, for that matter, the same man is never the same way twice."

This opens a nice question and it paves the way for a lot of work. In the first place you cannot be told the editorial preferences. You must sense them. Take some back numbers and pick out say fifty stories of one company. You'll be apt to find about ten that clearly do not belong. They were made for other reasons than choice, perhaps concession to some star, to oblige a friend of the boss', to please a director or because nothing else was handy. Twenty more may offer a wide divergence in style, though they may present the fad from some angle. Perhaps the other twenty will give an idea of what the editor really wants. You cannot put your finger upon any one particular point and say that this is it, but you get an idea of his mental processes and after that you give him first chance at stories that seem to carry this quality, though if you are wise you will not deliberately try to write to suit any particular editor. If you study your Stories of the Films with proper care you'll have a general idea of each company's needs and be able to market so intelligently that the editor will take the trouble to give you the finer points, though some editors do not know what they want themselves.

Be Exact.

Lately, we think it was in "The Thoroughbred," there was a bit of business in which the star kicked or struck a little negro and then tossed the "picks" some money and picked up one of the children and petted it. The general aim of the director appears to have been to show that this was merely a momentary irritation and not a chronic ill temper. Two southerners write to object to this business on the grounds that a southern man, such as Mr. Keenan was playing, would not fondle a negro child. In another script a northern girl was made to kiss and hug a negro cook. Probably this action was true to life in New England, but on the same grounds it would offend southern photoplay lovers, and it was unnecessary.

In one case a supposed southerner was caused to do something that no southerner would ever do. In the other the action would be distasteful to the south. In both cases the value of the film was hurt through thoughtlessness. Study characteristics before you write and write true to character. Do more. Do not write in business that will offend, unnecessarily, patrons in any part of the country. The latter is almost as important as the former if the author is to gain the reputation of writing acceptable stuff.

A still greater offense is given in the Keenan story when he permits a man to come to his home and then denounces him. This is so widely at variance with the southern ideas of hospitality that it gave even greater offense than the business with the child, and for better reason. The former was unpleasant. The latter was a libel. It pays to be careful.

Loose Leaf Practise.

A correspondent wants to know the best way to work out a five-reel continuity. The best way is apt to be the one that suits you best, but a good way is this. Get some cheap pads about 5 by 8 inches. With a cheap drive punch make a 3/16 inch hole in the uper left hand corner, without tearing the sheets from the pad. Write a scene on each sheet and place them on an ordinary bill spindle or hook. If you want, yon can number them consecutively as you write them or with an automatic numbering stamp, if you have one. When you have the story done you can go over the sheets, throw out or add scenes, revise or transpose at will. Then make a final numbering and copy off. This is as handy a way as any, and inexpensive.

Caution.

If you get a story so good that it rather surprises you by its excellence, try as hard as you may to remember where you heard it. Sometimes it will help you to get from under a charge of plagiarism.

Go to It.

Success is not going to come to you. You must go after it.

Reputation.

Do not try to base your claims to fame in sex stuff. Presently it is going to be held against you. Heart interest lasts.

Love Stories.

All the world loves a lover, but the world also likes variety, even in love stories.

Revised.

Try and if you do not sell, try again, but wait until the market opens up a little.

Contrasts.

One real author complains he has sold nothing in three months and another, not so well known, writes that he sold a thousand dollars worth to one company in a single month. One hustled.

The THIRD Edition of

Technique of the Photoplay

IS NOW READY

This is virtually a new book under the old title. More than double the text and with an arrangement especially adapting it for the student. The most complete book ever written on the subject of scenario or photoplay construction.

By Mail, Postpaid Three Dollars

Address all orders direct to nearest office.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Hass Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers' Notice.

IT IS an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual cost) will receive carbon copy of the department reply by mail without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department one dollar.

Both the first and second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

Roll of Honor on Question No. 161.

Replies to Question 161 were principally conspicuous by their absence. In fact only one man, John W. Creamer, Chillicothe, Mo., had nerve enough to tackle the proposition.

Reply to Question No. 161.

By John W. Creamer, Chillicothe, Mo.

The Question:

Could two 35 ampere rectifiers be used in multiple to supply 70 amperes at the arc?

The Answer:

Yes, two 30 ampere rectifiers (so far as I know the rectifiers are not made in 35 ampere size) could be connected to deliver 60 amperes at the arc. As to how they would work when thus connected I am not certain, though I believe the thing would be all right, notwithstanding the fact that some electricians here do not agree with me. The secondary voltage of the two hooked in multiple would be the same as would the voltage of one used alone, but the amperage would be doubled.

[I stand corrected as to the rectifier being made in 35 ampere size. However the change to 30 does not alter the proposition in the least. Brother Creamer is not exactly right, though he is pretty close to it. Yes, two rectifiers, 30 amperes or any other size, could be connected in multiple, but in order to steady the load, or equalize it between the two rectifiers, it would be necessary to provide a separate equalizer reactance in the circuit of each tube. Without this there would be the liability of one tube carrying more load than the other.

The equalizing reactance, I have no doubt, can be secured from the rectifier manufacturer at a nominal cost.—Ed.]

Cleveland, Ohio.

At the request of the Engineering Department of the National Lamp Works, Cleveland, Ohio, the editor recently journeyed to that city, and there saw some extremely interesting things, met some gentlemen whose acquaintance is treasured more than a merely passing pleasure, and gave the "once over" to something which will appear later in the department, and which will, I think, create quite some considerable excitement in the Land of the Movie when it does.

We were met by our old friend, Howard Codding, whose name is familiar to most old-timers in the business as one of the pioneer operators in the city of Cleveland. Mr. R. P. Burrows, of the Engineering Department of the National Lamp Works, also extended the glad hand of welcome, together with the use of one perfectly good gasoline buggy, in which we, accompanied by Brother Codding, journeyed out some nine miles to Nela Park, in the midst of which are located the home offices and one of the Testing Stations of the National Lamp Works.

At Nela Park it was my privilege to meet Mr. S. E. Doane, Chief Engineer of the National Lamp Works, with whom we had a long and most interesting conversation concerning some of the problems of the lens system of the projector, and concerning certain phases of the electric arc and other methods of supplying projection light. It goes without saying that Mr. Doane is a very able gentleman; otherwise he could not occupy the position he so ably fills. Mr. Doane and Mr. Burrows acted as guides while we viewed the plant. The trip was indeed interesting. The various methods of measuring light by a photometer were explained, as well as the methods of testing incandescent lamps. The absolute accuracy of the results is little short of astounding. Incidentally, Messrs. Doane and Burrows have agreed to make certain measurements and tests of the projector optical system for the Projection Department, which same will, I am sure, be of a great deal more than passing interest. They will be published later, though it will take considerable time to make the tests and necessary calculations.

One thing in particular I saw was a model showing, graphically, the result of light tests on different portions of a picture screen illuminated by a 40 ampere D. C. arc. To say the result was surprising does not express it. I would not have believed there could possibly be such an amazing difference in the point light intensity of a screen, which appears, to the eye, to be fairly evenly illuminated. As I before said, the chart was modeled, and its surface looked like a hilly country, the high points representing the high points of illumination, and the low points the points of low illumination. There was not a level spot anywhere on the entire model.

The photograph shows two edges of the surface of the model. The various figures indicate the foot candles of illumination at that particular spot. The figures are spaced two feet apart, the model representing the illumination of a screen 12 x 16 feet in size, measurements of which were taken at points two feet apart.

The figures in the photograph are too small to be readily made out; also there is a decimal point between each group of figures, though it is in some instances too faint to be seen. I therefore append a chart giving the figures in more readable size.

In considering the photograph, remember that base line A B, B C represents zero candle power, or no illumination at all, therefore from base line B C to point 6.1 represents 6.1 foot candles, whereas from base line B C to point 3.0 represents only 3.0 foot candles. You will observe that at the four corners of the chart there is an illumination respectively of 2.7, 5.4, 2.8 and 2.5 foot candles. The lowest foot candle value of illumination is in the lower left hand corner, and the highest in the upper right hand corner. The upper left hand and the lower right hand corners are approximately even in illumination. As illustrative of the unevenness of illumination supplied by the electric arc you will observe that between 3.8 and 3.6, a space of four feet, the illumination rises to 4.7 foot candles, and that taking a line straight up through the screen the illumination increases up to 6.6 and thence falls off to 4.2, with a little hill of light at 6.8, a trifle to the left.

A study of this chart is interesting, it representing the screen illumination from an average 40 ampere D. C. projection arc.

The National Lamp Works is a subsidiary company of the General Electric Company. The Cleveland Home Offices are located on a strip of ground one hundred acres in extent, lying two hundred feet above and overlooking the city. It is beautifully laid out, with brick driveways and walks which run in graceful curves through the grounds. The buildings are of red brick, and the testing plant is, as I have said, marvelously complete. I was in one room where they were using 200 K. W. of current in the testing of lamps, and you may take it from me, beloved brethren, there was some light in that room.

It is forbidden me at this time to speak of the particular thing responsible for the visit to Cleveland, but, as I said, later on you will get the whole "dope" and will, I think, be surprised, even as was I.

In the evening it had been arranged that Marvin Winton, president, Harland Hollander, business agent, and Frank J. Masek, secretary and treasurer of Moving Picture Machine Operators' Union No. 160, together with Brothers Codding and Vellam, take dinner with the editor, but while the union officials showed up at the hotel, two of them only had time for a short chat, because they had unexpectedly become tied up with a show. The rest of us, including Brothers Burrows and J. T. Caldwell of the National Lamp Works enjoyed the big eats, and spent an extremely pleasant hour, after which we motored out to one of the theatres and examined the chronometer balance and cylinder escapement of a certain proposition of which I am not yet at liberty to speak, though I can say it will be a "big speak" when I do. Brother Codding was with us all day and, like the editor, was amazed at the completeness of the National Lamp Works testing station.

I was glad to meet the officials of Local Union 160, because there has in the past been some antagonism on the part of that particular local against the department and its editor. This, however, is, I am glad to say, disappearing. The men are beginning to find out after all Richardson don't wear horns, and having discovered that fact, are of course willing to be friends again, all of which is pleasant; also it will be mutually advantageous.

Wrong Data.

I would recommend that operators be more careful to follow closely the directions given them from time to time, particularly with regard to methods to be used when asking questions about the optical system. Otto Anders, Milwaukee, Wis., says:

> What kind of condensers would you recommend for the following: Distance of projection, 95 feet; size of picture, 13 feet; center of condenser combination to aperture, 21 inches; center of crater to back condenser, 5 inches; aperture plate to center of lens, 6 inches; 6¼-inch Gundlach projection lens. Have had much condenser breakage. Do you think a Preddy holder would eliminate this to a certain extent? Where can I obtain them, Milwaukee operators do not favor them. Would like your opinion on this. Using Power's Six A machine and lamphouse; Wagner rotary converter; ⅝-inch Speer carbons, using 28 amperes. Have used about eight condensers in the last six months, always get different sizes recommended, but no one of these combinations seems to satisfy. Kindly let me hear from you as soon as possible. I have purchased a Handbook, which is very good indeed; also subscribe to the Moving Picture World.

Brother Anders (or is it Auders?) I have, through the Projection Department, many times told you to GIVE THE BACK FOCUS. In order to answer your questions intelligently I must have the following measurements: First, Number of amperes you are using; second, A.C. or D.C.; third, diameter of objective lens—NOT the diameter of the barrel, but the DIAMETER OF THE SMALLEST OPENING THROUGH THE LENS; fourth, the exact distance from the aperture plate to the back lens of the objective when the picture is in exact focus on the screen. Give me these measurements and I will tell you what you need, but if you will look in the November 4th issue and apply the tables therein found, you can figure it out for yourself. With 30 amperes and an improved condenser holder you can bring the crater up to within 3¾ inches of the center of the condenser combination, or, in other words, the apex of the lens next the arc, which would be about 2¾ inches from the lens itself, whereas you have 5 inches, or more than 4 inches from the crater to the lens, and right there you lose a lot of light. Assuming that you have an objective diameter of 1¾ inches, working at 3½ inches back focus, you would want 18 inches between the aperture and the apex of the front condenser, or if the diameter was 1¾ inches and the back focus 4 inches, you would want 22 inches. In the first instance, using plano-convex condensing lenses, you would want one 5½ and one 7½ inch condenser, and, in the second instance two 6½-inch lenses. Note: A question has just been raised by Martin of Los Angeles, as to tables and chart in November 4 issue. Martin claims that the combinations Griffith gives will not always give proper size spot. As to this, we await reports from operators who have tested the tables, meanwhile accepting them as correct.

As to Milwaukee operators not favoring improved condenser holders, why that is all right if the manager is willing to stand for the loss of a large percentage of the light. You can get along without them if you want to locate your arc back much further than it ought to be. But if you are going to use up-to-date methods, you must use up-to-date implements, and one of them is found in the Preddy or the Elbert condenser holder. I believe either of these mounts may be had from G. A. Metcalfe, 117 Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco, Cal. The improved condenser holder will do two things. First it will eliminate a large portion, if not all of your condenser breakage; second, it will allow you to bring the arc up close to the lens, and thus make use of a greater percentage of the light.

Question of Policy.

A correspondent of one of the other departments of the paper placed the following paragraph in a letter: "I have been giving Richardson's stuff to an electrical nut with a few letters after his name. He wants to know where Richardson gets his ideas from, and whether an operator has to know all the isms to make a clear picture. Says Richardson is talking over the head of his audience, which I thought myself was correct, though I am no expert."

The foregoing was passed along to me with a note reading as follows:

> "The enclosed so strongly echoes my own ideas that I am sending it along for the once-over. Comparatively few operators can follow the stuff now contained in the department, little of which has any bearing on practical projection work. True, it is stuff it is well to know if a man can grasp it, but the average operator cannot grasp it, and is apt to become discouraged. Practical discussion of actual projection troubles and operating conditions will interest hundreds, where but one will be interested in the light ray stuff and kindred material."

This was very evidently intended in the kindest possible spirit, and inasmuch as it involves several things which are fundamental, not only to this department, but the profession of operating, I take pleasure in setting forth the policy of the department, and giving my reasons for the course I have taken.

First: With regard to the electrical "nut" and his queries, why he simply shows that he does not know or understand practical projection. If he did he would not talk that way. It is not necessary that an operator know all the isms, but it is very eminently necessary that he have a thorough knowledge of electrical action; that he thoroughly understand the electrical action of generators, motor, mercury arc rectifiers, transformers and other electrical instruments placed in his charge, because, particularly with motors and dynamos, their electrical efficiency can be very greatly reduced by improper care or lack of knowledge on the part of the operator to give them intelligent care.

As to the comments of the correspondent, and the words of our esteemed colleague, the other editor, why that is something else again, and is a matter for very serious consideration and discussion. I feel grateful to these two gentlemen for having called this matter to my attention. I had of late been running the department pretty deeply into what might be termed "high-brow," especially with regard to optics. Now it is quite true that at the present time only a relatively very small percentage of operators can and will understand the discussion and drawings of lens action which are going forward in the department at present, but they can understand the ultimate result, which is finally placed before them in the shape of tables and charts; also they can apply the knowledge we have gained through these discussions. And I want to tell you right now that I regard the knowledge of the optical system of the projector, which is being gained by and through these discussions, as being the one absolutely most important thing it would be possible for this department to do at this time. We have already made huge strides forward in the understanding of the projector optical system, and the knowledge has been made available which will save theater managers many thousands of dollars every day if that knowledge be rightly applied, and there is no earthly reason why any average operator cannot rightly apply this knowledge if he studies the tables just a little bit.

However, while we are taking up these matters it is well to not forget there are constantly new men coming into the business, who have got to serve their apprenticeship, study, and learn even the most fundamental things, which, while they now look very simple to we old-timers, still are just as puzzling to them today as they were to us years ago, before we learned the why and wherefore.

I have deliberately and "with malice aforethought" directed the department into a somewhat higher or advanced line of discussion. Perhaps, however, I have gone too far in that direction. In fact, I believe I have. I don't want any man to feel that he is not at liberty to write to this department and ask even the most simple question. The only thing I object to, or ever have objected to, is when men in cities like say, Chicago, Minneapolis, or Detroit, send in a string of questions which very evidently emanate, not from an operator, or even an apprentice, but from a tyro who is seeking to cram himself with knowledge in order to pass an examination. That particular thing I won't stand for. I will, however, always be glad to answer any question which seems to come from either a genuine apprentice or operator, no matter how simple it may be. That is one of the functions of this department, and I intend it shall always remain one of its functions. The small town man, the young operator and the apprentice may always be expected to ask elemental questions, and they are entitled to a respectful reply thereto; also they will receive it so long as I am the editor of this department. It is true, I have sometimes roasted men who have sent in a string of simple questions, but wherever that has happened it has been due to belief on my part that the proposition was not a legitimate one. They either did not emanate from a proper source, or the questions were not asked with a proper object in view.

MOTIOGRAPH PROJECTOR.

Over in the city of Chicago, the Enterprize Optical Company is on the job six days a week producing Motiograph projection machines, which they, the manufacturers, admit are the best projectors which ever happened.

Fig. 1.

And this department itself is prepared to say that the present Motiograph machine is an excellent projector, containing many features of more than ordinary merit. The general features of the Motiograph are already familiar to both theater managers and operators. Its arc lamp is of rugged construction, and has all the necessary adjustments to provide perfect control of the light; also it has them in excellent form. The lamphouse is of good size, and well ventilated. It is constructed of heavy Russia iron, with air spaces between the inner and outer walls of its sides. The pedestal supporting the mechanism and lamphouse is of iron; is adjustable and of rigid construction. The magazines are of heavy sheet steel; the switches are mounted on a special switchboard, suspended from a stand just underneath the lamphouse on the operating side, where they are convenient to the operator.

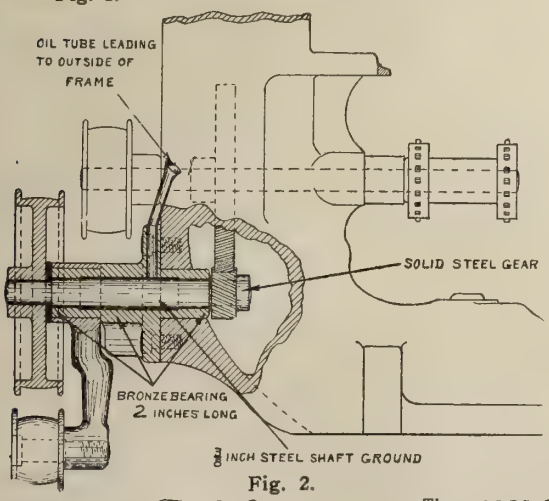

Fig. 2.

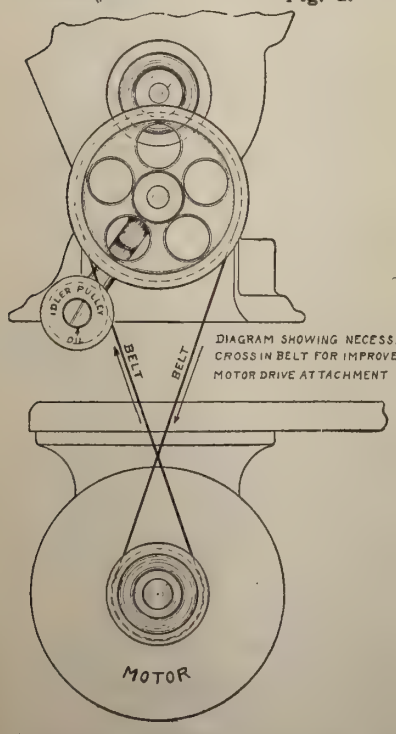

Fig. 3.

The gears and shafts in the machines are cut from cold rolled and tool steel. All the bearings are interchangeable and are made of high-grade bronze. Idler rollers, sprockets, star, cam, etc., are of high-grade steel, which is ground to form after being hardened. So much for the general construction.

During the past year improvements have been made which we will describe as follows:

Referring to Plate 1, it will be seen that the gear cover is now hinged to the mechanism frame instead of being put on with screws, as formerly. This forms a construction which will be found much more convenient in that it facilitates instant inspection of the working parts of the machine as well as simplifying the operation of oiling.

The motor drive attachment is illustrated in Plates 2, 3 and 4. Heretofore this was mounted on the gear cover, but it is now built right into and made practically a part of the main frame casting. This construction makes it possible to use a considerably shorter motor belt, and since the belt pulley is now on a level with the mechanism sub-base it does away with the tendency to vibration set up by a high-mounted pulley and the snapping of the long, loose belt.

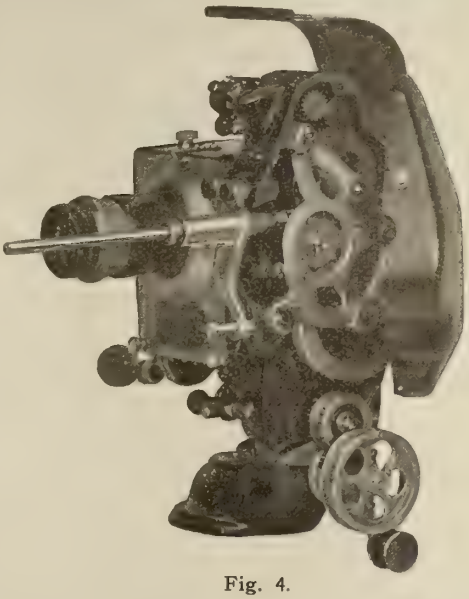

Fig. 4.

The large belt pulley shaft on the new attachment is two inches long and three-eighths inch in diameter and the steel pinion meshes directly into the lower sprocket shaft gear. Due to the different direction of rotation, the motor belt on the latest model Motiograph, in which the motor is mounted, as shown, should be crossed, as per Plate 3.

A loop setter is now included in the Motiograph equipment and is supplied by the manufacturer at an extra charge. It can be fitted to both the upper and lower sprockets, thus avoiding any possibility of losing either one of the loops.

In Plate 5, we see the new form of coupling which has entirely eliminated the objectionable noise set up by the old style one after it became somewhat worn. This is a very ingenious little piece of mechanism and it works perfectly. It has already been described in the department, but is included in this article for the sake of completeness. Illustration of it will also be found at A, B, C, Plate 5, Figure 266, Page 539 of the third edition of the Handbook.

Fig. 5.

Plate 6 shows the improved condenser mount, which is now made of one solid iron casting. This casting supplies a heat reservoir which equalizes the heating and cooling of the lenses. Each lens is held in its carrier by a light spring tension, which gives readily under the pressure of expansion of the glass. There is therefore no possibility of cramping the lens, and thus producing breakage. The rear condenser is adjustable and may be moved backward or forward in order to obtain correct separation of the two factors of the lens. The condenser cover is hinged, and on this cover is mounted an indicating knob by means of which either condenser lens may be ejected from the mount for replacement without the necessity for touching the lens with the hands.

We have examined this holder, and it looks very good. The Enterprise Optical Company claims big things for it.

And, by the way, again referring to the sliding connection, shown in Plate 5, although these have been in actual use for more than a year, the manufacturer informs me that not a single one has been returned as defective or worn. Considering the large number in use, this certainly is convincing proof of the excellence of the design of this particular portion of the mechanism. The use of this disc brings about another ideal condition in that the act of framing the picture up and down has absolutely no effect upon the relative position of the shutter to the intermittent sprocket, therefore once correctly set the Motiograph shutter "stays put."

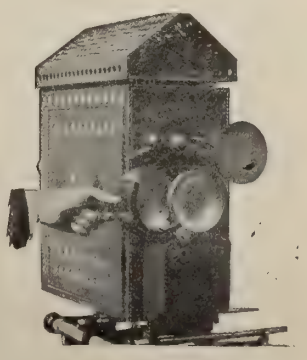

Fig. 6.

The Motiograph machine has two flywheels, which makes for steadiness of motion. One of these wheels is on the right and the other on the left side of the machine.

As I have before remarked, the elimination of the inside shutter, with its complicated and rather delicate, hard-to-get-at mechanism and the old-style coupling, marks a big step forward in the right direction. The other improvements we have named are also good. The upper loop setter is an innovation.

Due to increasing cost of raw material and labor, the company has raised its prices to $265 for hand-driven, or $305 for motor-driven machines, not including the loop setter.

This department commends the new Motiograph machine to the consideration of theater managers and operators contemplating the purchasing of projection machinery.

In Memoriam.

As the old year has departed, giving place to the lusty youngster who proposes and promises to us wonderful things, it is fitting that we spend a moment in retrospection, and lay upon the memory of the Old Timer a wreath of flowers, thinking the while kindly thoughts as our minds travel back in reminiscence of deeds which should not be forgotten.

The Old Timer! He was daddy of us who now close the switch and let George, the motor, twist the crank. The Old Timer knew not of motors. It was the crank for his. He was the lad who "got by" when the getting by was not good. He was the one who made good when there was mighty little to make good with. He it was who met the demand to "make brick without straw" by—making them. Maybe they were not very classy "brick," but they "got by" just the same, and filled many a manager's pocket with yellow gold. Yes, the old time operator must not be forgotten, or his deeds of prowess allowed to sink into the shades of oblivion. He had no books to guide him. He had no projection department upon which to fall back in time of trouble, because its editor was himself an Old Timer, with no more knowledge than had his brother Old Timers. But, lacking knowledge, we just "took a chance," and more often than not got away with it.

It was the Old Timer who, when he found his rheostat missing, or smashed into fragments by a kind hearted express company, with a show to be put on in Pumpkinville school house at eight P. M., borrowed a bunch of wire from the local light company, run a wire from his switch to connect with the top wire of an adjacent barb wire fence, a foot or so from a post, and another from the bottom wire of the aforesaid fence, two panels away, to the lamp, pried the staples out from the intervening posts, slipped bits of broken crockery between the wires and posts to prevent fire, connected the fence wires (usually four of them) with short bits of copper wire, rheostat fashion, and struck his arc. If he got too much current he cut in another panel of fence, if not enough he used less fence. But he calmly run the show to schedule, replaced the staples, returned the borrowed wire and went on his way rejoicing, having some few villagers wondering what happened to them when they touched the wires of Widow Jones' fence last night. Or if there was not convenient fence, he raided the local hardware store, secured anything he could get in the way of iron wire, and in half an hour was ready to run with an improvised resistance which delivered the goods. Failing in both these he grabbed somebody's family rain barrel, raided the railway for two fishplates, bought a bucket of salt, hired a couple of boys to carry water and put the show on.

It is even of record where an Old Timer who encountered a five hundred volt supply, with only one poor, lonesome, God-forsaken one hundred and ten volt, twenty-five ampere rheostat available, called the turn by driving two pieces of gas pipe into the mud in the shallow part of an adjacent pond, and after one or two experiments as to proper space between put on the show. But, says Mr. Up To Date, he would have to carry a barrel of fuses, for he'd be blowing them all the time. Nay nay, Pauline, Mr. Old Timer blew no fuses, because when he pulled those stunts the fuses reposed calmly in the bottom of his grip, undisturbed and unafraid. Nor was friend Old Timer worried in the least by their absence. We were not squeamish in those days. We didn't know much, and in our blissful ignorance took chances which would give the Board of Underwriters hydrophobia if we pulled them today. But we seldom spilled the beans, and usually got small credit, or none at all. Still it did sometimes happen that an extra enthusiastic picture shooter would commit a faux and get called down so hard it would make his teeth rattle. I remember one incident of this kind which happened in a village in northern Missouri in the early days. A "show" arrived in town, but when the operator came to hitch up he found the rheostat to be out of commission. He did not know how to locate and repair the trouble, but had been told that two iron rods in a barrel of salt water would supply resistance. He got busy, filled a perfectly good barrel with water, dumped in a water pail full of salt, but his informant had neglected to remark that the iron rods must be separated from each other. He neglected this little detail when he put the rods in, and when the switch was closed things happened real soon. Also they happened plenty. The village was supplied by a station located six miles away, and he was hitched to the lines right close to the transformer which supplied the town; also he had run his wires out to the street lines and forgot or neglected to insert a fuse-block. The result as to the transformer fuses is not difficult to guess. There was no show, and th town made out that night with such light as the stars supplied, plus that of such tallow candles and kerosene lamps as could be resurrected. That particular Old Timer was quite unpopular in that particular village, 'tis said.

The equipment used by Old Timer was crude, and the films were something pretty awful, but the public knew no other and was satisfied. The show Old Timer put on would be a laughing stock now, but it was a stem-winding wonder then, and he was a sort of genii in the eyes of the public. Movin' pictures were marvelous simply because they were movin' pictures, just as the telephone was a wonder in its early days.

Old Timer was of necessity a man of resource and ingenuity. He made good in his day and generation. Whence did he depart, you ask? Well, most of him left the business when competition reduced his wage from thirty to fifty per to fifteen and twenty, and even less, but a few of him stuck through thick and thin, and Billy Reed, the sage of them all, still shoots pictures at a screen down in Atlantic City. I would be glad to hear from other really Old Timers, who can give facts and dates in substantiation, referring to their employers in corroboration, as to their records. By this I mean only those who went into the business of operating in the really early days, say between 1896 and 1900. Those are the ones who, I believe, are justified in arrogating to themselves the title "Old Timers." Many of them have been gathered unto their Father. Others are in other lines of business, but surely some besides Brother Read still either twist the crank, or direct George the motor, in doing so. Let us hear from you.

An Atmospheric Screen.

During the past two years there has been introduced to the moving picture industry a screen surface, known as the "Atmospheric" screen. Although exactly why it has received that title deponent sayeth not, because the only connection it has with the air is the fact that that element comes into contact with its surface. Be that as it may, however, the screen has been carefully examined as to the performance of its projection surface, and it seems to be good. The nature of the surface is, of course, a secret which you could not drag out of the company with two yokes of oxen, a tugboat and a locomotive. They say that the surface is not metal, to which my reply is: maybe not, but you will have to furnish an alibi in proof of that statement.

The base is a strong, heavy canvas, painted on the back with some sort of lead-colored solution, the purpose of which is to keep the frame upon which the screen is mounted from penetrating through the screen, as it is claimed happens to some screens.

The surface can be furnished in two forms, one being a smooth canvas surface, coated with the screen emulsion, and the other a rough surface very similar to burlap. The first named would, in my judgement, be ideal for a long, comparatively narrow house. It would be that type of surface the brilliancy of which increases, within reason of course, with distance. It would, however, present considerable fade-away if used in a wide, short house. The other, rough-finished, surface ought to give a very excellent effect in the short wide house, though it would not present the peculiarity of increased brilliancy with distance in so great a degree. The Atmospheric Screen Company do not make the impossible claim that there will be no deterioration of the surface with time. Their claim is as follows, and it has the merit of being within the bounds of reason: "Our surface will not become clouded or spotted. That will never happen with an Atmospheric Screen. The only change the surface will present with passing years is that change which comes to all things, namely, a gradual dimming of its lustre which contact with the elements effects upon all things with passing years." I like the claims of the Atmospheric Screen people because they keep within the realms of probabilities and ordinary common sense.

The Atmospheric Screen is absolutely seamless, and the company says it will not put out a screen with a seam in it. They are in a position to furnish screens of any required size, without a seam, the screen of the U. S. theater being 16½ x 22 feet.

The company furnishes a frame for the mounting of their screens, the same being included in the price of the screen. They also furnish instructions for installation, and where distances make it practical they send their men to make the installation. The company colors the emulsion with which they coat their screens very slightly, the idea being to present a slightly different surface in different theaters. As to the value of this last named scheme, I will not undertake to say, except that the coloring is so faint that it would not injure the reflecting value of the surface. However, whether or not the plan has merit it certainly will do no particular harm.

Taking everything into consideration, the projection department is ready to give the Atmospheric Screen Company its approval and commendation.

The surface is good. The backing is strong and sturdy, and its performance, so far as I have observed, excellent.

Amberlux Lens.

John McClinton, Burlington, Iowa, asks:

> What is your opinion of the Amberlux lens made by William Deshler Warner, Columbus, Ohio?

Why, Brother McClinton, my opinion is that it is a mighty good proposition. I have long since given these lenses the endorsement of the department. It is not really a lens at all, but a ray filter which softens the tone of the light just sufficiently to kill its harshness without cutting its brilliancy appreciably. These lenses only cost $3.50 each, and they are worth every cent of it.

When You're in Trouble
RICHARDSON'S
MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOK
FOR MANAGERS AND OPERATORS
Is the Doctor That Can Unfailingly Prescribe for Your Ailments.
There isn't an operator's booth in the universe in which this carefully compiled book will not save ten times its purchase price each month.
BUY IT TODAY! $4.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID
Your bookseller can supply you or the nearest Moving Picture World office will promptly fill your orders.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Schiller Bldg. Chicago, Ill. 17 Madison Ave., New York City. Hans Bldg. Los Angeles, Cal.

Motion Picture Photography*

Conducted by CARL LOUIS GREGORY, F. R. P. S.

Inquiries.

QUESTIONS in cinematography addressed to this department will receive carbon copy of the department's reply by mail when four cents in stamps are inclosed. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in this department, $1.

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Lense Definition.

(Continuation of Mr. Hugon's Reply to Mr. Abadie.)

AS TO sharpness, you rightly point out that this is not a question of "perfection," but of a tolerated degree of imperfection. A lens is considered "perfect" when its chemical and optical foci coincide, within the tolerated limits of error. But within such limits, and among perfect lenses, there is yet a wide margin of choice, and I choose the Goerz or Zeiss for work within one plane or a narrow range of planes, but the Voigtlander for work at full aperture, or requiring greater depth..

Mr. Hugon has, I believe, chosen the wrong word to use when he uses the word "oblique," as he evidently intended that it should mean marginal rays instead of oblique rays.

Mr. Abadie has written, supplementing his former letter:

I notice that you have published my former letter commenting upon Mr. Hugon's article, and as you have not answered the principal points brought up by me, I hope that Mr. Hugon's reply will be forthcoming on his return from England.

With regard to your comments to my letter, I wish to state that by perfectly sharp production I meant, of course, an image of such quality as would, when projected, be termed by competent critics, with good eyesight, "perfectly sharp." There is doubtless a limit to which mechanical accuracy can obtain, but there is no fear as yet of any cine lens being capable of higher resolution than is the emulsion of cinematographic negative film stock.

In speaking of the "resolving power" of emulsions, you raise a very interesting question, but one which is a little beyond the average cameraman, excepting in isolated cases, such for instance as a photographer who has chanced to read the "Abridged Scientific Publications of the Eastman Research Laboratory," or some like paper. My cameraman, who made the numerous and very delicate tests of lenses referred to in my last communication, and who is one of the very few really scientific and capable cinematographers in the game today, has examined the resolving power of the cinematographic film stock (negative and positive) of every known make. This he has done by scientific methods, using a lens, tube and glass wedge, at the end of which he places a ruled screen having many lines per inch (as practiced by Mees in London in 1909), and also by unscientific methods such as could be practiced by any cameraman. These tests show, as does, also, microscopic examination of the developed image, that, although rather coarse, the emulsion of motion picture negative stock is capable of truthfully representing the best performances of present-day cine lenses, the worst enemy to perfect definition being light scatter and irradiation in rapid emulsion.

Concerning your remarks on the size of the circles of least confusion, I beg to suggest that the sizes which you quote are those reckoned on in still photography, but the 1/250th of an inch will by no means hold good in cinematography—the circles must be much smaller to stand the magnification of the motion picture image. This will be apparent to you after a little thought and study, and the study at close range of projected images will also convince you that the size of the AgBr grain is still small enough to cope with the best image it is possible (with available cameras) to focus upon the emulsion.

Thank you for hearing me the last time. Your comments were fair, but let me hear what Mr. Hugon says regarding the points I raised concerning his article.

The points raised by Mr. Abadie are well taken and I must admit that for practical purposes the present-day negative emulsions are fine enough for ordinary use. Still I think Mr. Abadie will find that there are some of the best grades of cinematograph lenses which will show two separate lines at a minute distance apart on fine-grained emulsions, such as a slow chloride plate, which would be merged into one in the comparatively coarse emulsion used in cinematograph negative. I may not have made myself clear in regard to 1/250th of an inch being used as the basis of calculation for the size of circles of confusion. This is the standard generally used as being the limit of the size of circles of confusion permissible in calculating depth of focus. Of course, in the sharpest plane the circles would be infinitely smaller; in fact, a mathematical point if the lens were perfect.

*Copyright, 1916, by the Chalmers Publishing Co.

Valuable Trade Literature.

To those cinematographers who are anxious to keep up to date the literature published by the big lens and camera manufacturing concerns affords a wealth of information for the mere price of a postage stamp and a little stationery.

The Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, Rochester, New York, are sending out a booklet entitled "Useful Tables for the Photographer," containing a chapter on Diaphragm Numbers and Uniform System Numbers, Reducing and Enlarging Tables; Table of Depth of Focus, Height of Image for Various Studio Distances; Table of View-Angles; Shutter Speeds for Moving Objects; a series of Lens Notes and a chapter on the Care of Lenses; the whole embracing much valuable information.

"What Lens Shall I Buy?" is the title of another most instructive and helpful booklet just issued by the same company, and we would urge our readers to avail themselves of the opportunity to secure a copy. It contains much valuable information concerning different types of lenses and their uses.

Conditions caused by the European war have compelled the C. P. Goerz American Optical Company, 317 East Thirty-fourth street, New York City, to cancel and withdraw all former prices. The company reports that while the war has somewhat interfered with the delivery of their cameras, yet, as regards lenses they have been more fortunate. Prior to the war they had imported a large quantity of genuine Jena glass which their completely equipped optical factory in New York City has been turning into Goerz lenses without interruption. At present the company is in a position to supply nearly all its lenses with but few exceptions. A new catalogue containing a list of such goods and accessories as they are able to furnish in reasonable quantities is now ready. While neither bulky nor elaborate, it is very attractive and appears to list the very best of the Goerz line of cameras, while the lenses are apparently all in evidence, at least all the popular series. The new prices show a slight advance on those in force previous to October 1, 1916.

The Cooper Hewitt Electric Company, Eighth and Grand streets, Hoboken, New Jersey, publish several pamphlets in regard to the use of their lamps for motion picture studio lighting.

The Simplex Photo Products Company, of Richmond Hill, L. I., New York, have just issued a new and attractive catalogue of motion picture apparatus which describes the cameras, printers, developing outfits and lamps which they manufacture. They have just placed on the market a professional camera with outside magazines. To meet varying demands they supply these magazines in various capacities of from 50 to 500 feet.

Correspondence Club.

Quite a large number of names have been sent in for admission to the Correspondence Club. Hawaii and Italy are added to the geographical limits in this list. If you would like to talk over your trials and triumphs in any particular branch of cinematography with someone else inoculated with the same bug as you have, send in your name and address, along with a diagnosis of your particular mania.

S. K. Yamato, Box 806, Honolulu, Hawaii. Camera construction.

Ing. Arpad Kirner, Senis, Cagliari, Italy. Scenic and educational pictures.

H. C. Larrabee, Washington, Iowa. News pictures and industrial.

Frank E. Artz, 1712 W. Monroe St., Chicago, Ill. Camera construction.

Griffith I. Ellis, 3202 Perry Ave., Bronx, N. Y. Amateur.

Louis Ewen, 4 East 115th St., New York. Amateur.

W. W. Kelly, Box 106, Tonopah, Nevada. Home laboratory.

E. Powell, 235 28th St., Woodcliff, N. J. Educational and industrial films.

M. J. Cromshaw, Gen. Del., Cleveland, O. Cartoon pictures.

Maynard F. McDonald, Box 75, Victoria, B. C. Machine development.

Joseph N. Rinehart, Box 215, West Fort Lee, N. J. Chemistry of cinematography.

Arthur Hollis, Hollis Centre, Me. Amateur.

James J. Couch, Box 163, Troy, Ala.

Chas. J. Roos, 28 Lowery Ave., Galt, Ontario, Canada. Direct positives.

Joseph Spediacci, Box 60, Amsterdam, N. Y. Amateur.

Chas. J. Dommer, Jr., 2520 Madison St., Brooklyn, N. Y. Cartoon pictures.

Music for the Picture

Conducted by CLARENCE E. SINN and NORMAN STUCKEY.

Announcement.

ANY questions concerning music for the film, suitable instrumentation for motion picture theaters, questions relating to the pipe organ; in fact, any questions, criticisms or suggestions dealing with musical interpretation for moving pictures will be answered by Mr. Stuckey through this department. Inquiries should be addressed to Musical Editor, Moving Picture World, 17 Madison avenue, New York City.

Improvising (Part II).

ARTICLE I.

By Clarence E. Sinn.

PART I. of a series of letters on improvising for the pictures appeared in this department in issues of the Moving Picture World from November 13, 1915, to May 6, 1916, inclusive. It is not expedient to go over the ground again which is covered by those nine articles, some of the elementals found in the study of harmony, though occasionally one or more points will be reintroduced in another form for purposes of illustration. We must take it for granted that the interested reader knows the elements of a simple chord in its first form—that is, a triad—consisting of a tonic, a third and a fifth. This is illustrated in Articles VII. and VIII. (issues of March 25 and April 15). It is also surmised that the reader—if he be interested—has also an idea of the difference between major and minor keys, and wherein this difference lies. The matter of major and minor thirds (as well as major and minor keys) is also touched upon in the same two Articles (VII. and VIII.). These, however, are among the rudiments of the science of harmony and are taught fully in the textbooks of that study.

Elaborating upon a theme or subject is a different matter, and one which I believe can best be studied through a repetition of examples and illustrations—not necessarily the same, but upon similar lines.

Before going further I wish to refer the reader to Article VI. (issue of February 19, 1916) regarding the use of the words "theme" and "subject." Reasons are there given why it is thought advisable to give these words a meaning and distinction of their own (in these articles) regardless of usual definitions. Hence (for my own purposes) I shall define the words as follows:

Theme.—A melody or strain of music, or a complete musical idea capable of describing (or through improvising being made to describe) a certain scene or character. In other words, being musically appropriate to the scene or character.

Subject.—A group of notes, a measure, or a few measures—that is, an incomplete musical idea—from which a melody may be made. (This last is improvisation in its true sense, and includes composition to a large degree.)

The Theme (as above defined) will be the more interesting as well as of more practical value to the accompanist of moving pictures. It presents a complete musical idea ready made, which seems appropriate to his character, or scene, or to the story; and this idea may be made through elaboration (one form of improvising) to describe different emotions, thus giving his accompanist light and shade. Elaborate and intricate melodies do not lend themselves so readily to this work as the simple forms. They are themselves elaborations of simple themes, and much further elaboration (such as addition, subtraction or inversion) might destroy their identity, and to this extent, their value as a descriptive theme. Sometimes a few measures may be taken from such a composition, and used as a subject, upon which to build another melody. This will be taken up at another time, however. At present we will concern ourselves with the Theme in simple forms.

Uusually the picture accompanist prefers to play a number which is more or less in keeping with the spirit of the picture, and as the character of the scenes change, introduce other musical numbers suitable to the varying moods of the story. This is perfectly correct, of course. It is the procedure followed by the better picture accompanists who play from notes. It is about the only satisfactory method which could be used by an orchestra. But a "one-man" accompanist (be he using the organ, piano or one of the "combination instruments") will find opportunities for effective use of the Theme which is denied the orchestra except when the music is specially written for the picture. Very few organists, or pianists, nowadays confine themselves to the printed page entirely, but have a number of melodies memorized which they introduce as their fancy or judgment dictates. It has been repeatedly stated that "it is not always what you play" that counts; the manner of playing has a great deal to do with it.

We all know the value of choosing some easily recognized melody as a "theme" to run throughout a picture, introducing it whenever it can be made most effective. Usually it is attached to one of the prominent characters and is used in that character's best (or most dramatic) scenes. This "Theme" can be made still more effective at times by changing the nature of the melody to fit the varying moods of the scene. As an illustration, let us look at an old song called "Long Ago." Example 1 gives this Theme in its original form. The nature of the music is suggestive of a tender, melancholy mood.

It is simple in structure, and therefore contains possibilities for elaboration. It is not best to twist a Theme out of all resemblance to its former self (although this is sometimes permissible when a flight of fancy leads you in that direction), but your best dramatic effects are generally obtained by presenting the same melody to your hearers in a different though still recognizable form. Example No. 2 suggests how this Theme may be given an air of gaiety by doubling up the tempo To make variety, I have introduced three "auxiliary notes" (marked with a "v") in this example.

Example 1.

Example 2.

With the exception of this slight elaboration—if it can be called such—the melody in example No. 2 is identical with that of the original Theme. (Ex. 1.) The tempo is much accelerated, and that is about all. Though the character of the music is changed, the Theme is still easily recognizable, and might be very appropriate in the lighter scenes of the character to which the Theme is applied. (Meaning the Theme as shown in Example 1.)

Now let us look at Eample 3. Here we have the same thing changed to a minor key. The melody sounds somewhat different, though it may still be recognized as our original Theme.

Example 3.

Its character is sad—plaintive—almost dirge-like, in fact. With very little modification we have produced two widely variant characteristics from a given theme. By elaborating and more or less modifying this theme we can make it portray any emotion or action depicted upon the screen. These elaborations and modifications may be made through alteration of the figure, inversion, extension of intervals, etc., all of which were shown in former articles and will be illustrated from time to time.

Good Music as a Business Asset.

Norman Stuckey.

MANAGERS in small cities can improve business by giving more thought and attention to the musical part of their programs.

The time when a picture program alone was sufficient to satisfy an audience has passed, and today moving picture audiences are more exacting and are demanding more for their money, not only in quantity, but in quality.

As a rule the music is the last detail considered by many managers. They exert every effort in procuring the best pictures, the best projection, an attractive theater, everything in fact before the music, and this is thought of last. This is a grave mistake and managers should realize that an appropriate musical program well rendered by competent musicians is quite important and proves a real business asset.

How many managers feature their music or musicians? In many theaters throughout the country the shows are started without an overture. There are no singers to vary the program. It has been proved that a moving picture show is an incomplete entertainment without excellent music, instrumental and vocal.

A manager in a small town receently advertised "The best music and the best pictures." He could back this statement to the letter as he had first-class musicians and the best pictures procurable. He was willing to pay the price for music and he was more than repaid by increased patronage. Whether your music is an organ, an orchestra or a piano, it is every exhibitor's duty and interest to see that the highest standard is maintained. Many managers fail to give the music the attention it deserves because they know nothing of music. Many regard music as some regard a foreign language. It is the manager's duty to learn something of music, the important details if nothing more. He should know when his musician or musicians are playing appropriate music for the film, but he must base his knowledge on intelligent understanding of facts and conditions rather than jump at conclusions.

Aside from being willing to learn about this important phase of his business, the manager can overcome much difficulty by engaging competent musicians who thoroughly know the art of selecting and playing appropriate music for the screen. There are many reliable musicians who are conscientious in regard to their work and it is a wise manager who trusts the musical end of his business with a musician whose efforts prove satisfactory to an audience.

If the manager is unfortunate in engaging a careless, or unskilled musician, he should take drastic steps at once to remedy his trouble. Managers can quickly learn if their music is pleasing or displeasing to their patrons—by the consensus of opinion of his audience. What the majority agree upon is usually right, but managers should never believe the opinions of a few, as they may be prejudiced—one way or the other. There are many methods that can be used in getting better results from your musician or musicians the same as there are different methods for getting results from advertising.

It is only because managers consider the music last why there are not more ideas and suggestions made known relating to this important detail of the business. The Editor of this department will be glad to receive suggestions, programs and other matter regarding the musical phase of the motion picture theater.

While there are many musicians who are progressive and who always strive to improve their playing, many are confronted with many little obstacles that prevent them from becoming as efficient as they would like to be. It is the aim of this department to offer suggestions that will prove of help to the theater musician.

A visit to the large motion picture theaters in New York will convince any exhibitors the importance of music in connection with the film, and though his theater may not be a large one, it is possible to get better results from his music—results that mean increased patronage.

Better Results in Piano Playing.

To get the best results from piano playing for moving pictures it is highly essential that the pianist uses a piano that is in tune.

The real musician is particular in this respect and when the piano shows signs of being out of tune he immediately has it tuned and all necessary repairs made. One of the reasons for unsatisfactory musical interpretation, aside from the pianist being unskilled, is an instrument with a poor quality of tone.

The manager who makes his music a feature should satisfy himself that his piano is a first class instrument and he should engage a tuner to call at least once a month to tune and regulate it.

Many managers make arrangements with tuners to call regularly, getting a flat rate for a certain number of tunings a year. Musicians and managers should pay particular attention to this important detail, for aside from a piano being poorly played there is nothing worse to a discriminating audience than a piano badly out of tune.

Music Every Musician Should Know.

SONG OF THE VOLGA BOATMEN.

This number is distinctly Russian in treatment, the melody founded upon an old Russian tune. It is of minor character and suggests the flowing of the river Volga and then the start of the voyage of the boatman who sings his song as his little vessel disappears down the river.

SERENADE—Pierne.

In this Serenade, Pierne has given the work a true song-like character. The rhythm of the accompaniment (left hand), which is carried through the piece, is exactly that of the Polonaise, and will be found in Chopin's "Military Polonaise," but here it is used in a softer and daintier fashion, and lacks the fire and passion of the stately Polish dance. The phrases are clean-cut enough in style, but are extended and altered here and there in a way that causes the most pleasing variety of effect.

RACKOCZY MARCH—Liszt.

This number was originally a true Gypsy piece written by Michael Barna, leader of the Gypsies and court violinist to Prince Franz Rakoczy II, who lived from 1676 to 1735. The piece has become of national significance and has been for many years a sort of Hungarian Marseillaise. Berlioz has set this march in his "Damnation of Faust" and Liszt's version is much the same, being built mostly of the true "Rakoczy Song," but having some of Ruzsitska's battle music also.

The march is played loud nearly all through, marked and with as much fire as possible. The real march begins after the first six bars of introduction, and consists of a 16-bar period (8 bars repeated), 10 measures of episode, and 14 of somewhat altered period. The trio has a 10-bar period. Care must be used in shading this number.

New Publications.

ONE HUNDRED ENGLISH FOLKSONGS—The songs are all recently collected by the editor, Cecil J. Sharp, from the lips of folk-singers themselves, and demonstrate the unsuspected wealth of melodies—strongly racial, picturesque and expressive—which has been handed down among the people of England. The editor's masterly accompaniments preserve to perfection the character of the songs, and are at the same time a delight to the musician requiring this character of music for interpreting moving pictures. $1.50. Published by C. H. Ditson, New York.

SIXTY FOLKSONGS OF FRANCE—Edited by Julien Tiersot. These songs prove that France need yield to no nation in respect to the abundance, variety and vitality of her folksongs. The editor, who is librarian at the Paris Conservatory, has made a most catholic and judicious selection. An illuminating essay and individual notes to each song preface the volume. $1.50. Published by C. H. Ditson, New York.

ONE HUNDRED FOLKSONGS OF ALL NATIONS—Edited by Granville Bantock. The editor of this volume has drawn on the treasures of folksongs of every nation in Europe, various races in Asia, Africa and America, making it by far the most valuable collection in the English language. The thoughtful introduction and the brief scholarly notes add to the interest of the volume. The accompaniments are interesting and musicianly. This volume should be included in the library of every musician who endeavors to interpret pictures correctly. $1.50. Published by C. H. Ditson, New York.

Dream Pictures by Wilmot Lemont.

Oliver Ditson Company publish an album of Dream Pictures by Wilmot Lemont which should be included in every musician's library who is striving to play appropriate music for motion pictures. The pieces are arranged for piano, Grade III-IV, in difficulty, but can be easily adapted for the organ. The volume contains nine different pieces:

1. Lotus Bloom, 4-4 Andantino in A Flat.
2. The Dancers, 4-4 Moderato in A.
3. At Eventide, 4-4 Andante in B Flat.
4. Reverie D'Amour, 2-4 Moderato in G Flat.
5. Serenade Mexicaine, 3-8 in A.
6. The Nautch Girl, 3-4 Moderato in E Flat Minor.
7. To My Valentine, 2-4 Moderato. 2-4 in E Flat. Con Moto.
8. The Caress, 4-4 Andante in D Flat.
9. Valse Intermezzo, 3-4 in A Flat. Tempo Rubato.

Each piece is arranged and carefully fingered. The volume is printed on heavy paper, concert size. For the pianist or organist who specializes in music that please the public's fancy, this collection of Dream Pictures is indispensible.

Special Musical Score for New Pickford Play.

Particular care has been devoted to the musical setting of the new Mary Pickford production, "The Pride of the Clan," released by Artcraft. For this work the Artcraft Corporation engaged the services of William C. Stickles of the firm of George W. Benyon, Inc., pioneers in the preparation of musical scores for motion pictures.

One of the features of the musical accompaniment for "The Pride of the Clan" will be displayed in the fact that the entire score can be presented as a piano solo. The piano sheets in such musical scores of the past have never, in themselves, presented a comprehensive accompaniment for the picture. "The Pride of the Clan" piano score will offer a distinct departure from the usual motion picture in that it forms a perfect accompaniment in itself and can be handled entirely from the complete orchestral score.

In addition to this, the new Pickford music is being arranged so that any orchestra ranging in size from two to forty pieces will be able to present the complete accompaniment. Each scene in the photoplay, even to the flash, is cued in the score sheets, thus making perfect synchronization an easy matter, even for the most ordinary musician. This also prevents trouble in the event of the loss of several feet of film from the picture through wear, etc.

Most of the score prepared by Mr. Stickles presents original themes interpolated from old Scottish songs. In accordance with the Benyon method, the role of Margot, portrayed by Mary Pickford, is given a particularly catchy theme which is played whenever she appears in the photoplay.

The score prepared by Mr. Stickles is published by G. Schirmer, Inc., New York City.

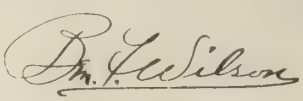
Some pretty influential exhibitors in various parts of the country seem to believe a lot they hear about profits in the publishing business, judging from the enthusiasm they are displaying in their new job of subscription agents. Possibly that old story about the manufacturer sticking to his own end and the exhibitor to his is out of date. If there are any profits they will be well cared for, no doubt. THINK IT OVER.

Popular Picture Personalities

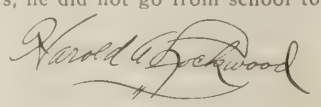
WHO'S WHO IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

COMPILED BY THE STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT

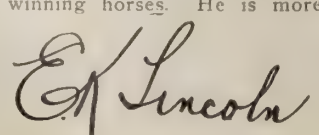
WILSON, Benjamin Franklin. Born in Corning, Iowa. American parentage. He lacks only a quarter of an inch of being a six-footer and weighs 175 pounds. Fair complexion, dark hair and hazel eyes. His stage debut occurred in September, 1898, and for twelve years he played in stock companies in New York, Brooklyn and Newark and for three years he was with Wagenhals & Kemper in Paid in Full and Seven Days. His picture debut was made in 1911 in Edison's For Her Brother's Crime, and some of his best Edison parts were "Dominick" in Even as You and I, "Montague Shirley" in the serial, The Voice on the Wire, the name part in the series, The Chronicles of Cleek and "Larry Ashmore" in The Mainspring. A couple of years ago he changed his studio connection to Universal and is now one of the inhabitants of Universal City, Calif. He is fond of outdoor sports.



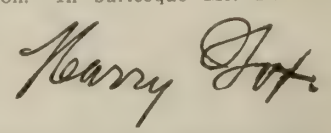
LOCKWOOD, Harold. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y. Is 5 feet, 11¾ inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. Brown hair, blue eyes. He has had a varied stage experience in vaudeville, stock and musical comedy for seven years before he took to the studios, starting his screen career in New York in 1910 with the Nestor company. He has also been connected with the New York Motion Picture Corp., Selig and the Famous Players and is now leading man with the Yorke-Metro company in Los Angeles. Some of his best work has been done in Tess of the Storm Country, Hearts Adrift, Wildflower, The Buzzard's Shadow, The Come Back, The River of Romance, Mister 44, and most recently Pidgin Island. Unlike most players, he did not go from school to the stage, but engaged in a business college course and started out to be a merchant prince, but he was born to be an actor.



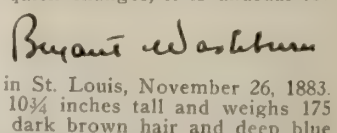
LINCOLN, Edward K. Six feet tall and weighs 176 pounds. Black hair, brown eyes and dark complexion. Made his stage debut in 1907, playing in stock and production and entered the studios in 1912. Has appeared in Lubin, World, Vitagraph and Lincoln Players productions and is at present with the Monmouth Film Corp. Notable picture productions were A Million Bid, The Call, The Littlest Rebel, The Wood Violet, His Second Wife, and the current Jimmie Dale. Show dogs and horses are Mr. Lincoln's hobbies when it is not automobiles. He owns five cars, including a real racer. He owns the Greenacre Kennels and is a well known figure at the bench shows and also has a string of prize winning horses. He is more mildly interested in motorboats. He is the owner of the Lincoln Studios at Grantwood, N. J., and a summer studio at Blandford, Mass.



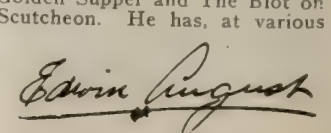
FOX, Harry. Born in Pomona, Calif. Irish-German parentage. Five feet, 8 inches tall. Weighs 150 pounds. Fair complexion, chestnut hair and gray eye. Began his stage career in April, 1912, and made a name for himself in burlesque that took him over to the vaudeville stage. After six years of vaudeville work he went to the management of the Shuberts at the Winter Garden and was featured with Gaby Deslys for a year on Broadway. He made his debut in pictures in July, 1916, appearing as Jimmy Barton, in the International Film Company's Beatrice Fairfax series. His fads are rather unusual, for instead of the usual "athletic sports" he gives his play time to auto racing and aviation. In burlesque Mr. Fox is best remembered as the stage partner of Dave Marion, and in vaudeville he has done both monologue and team work.



WASHBURN, Bryant. Born in Chicago. English-Danish parentage. Is 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. He made his stage debut in June, 1908, and played with George Fawcett. He also played the lead in The Way. He joined the Essanay Company May 15, 1911, and has remained with that company ever since. His first production was God's Home By the Sea. Other well remembered plays are The Strength of the Weak, The Elder Brother, The Blindness of Virtue, Prince of Graustark, The Breaker and The Final Fraud. Mr. Washburn confesses that his avocation is "pushing the baby buggy," a singular admission for a picture hero to make, but to help along he is willing to be put down for "and all the other usual film fads," though pushing a baby buggy does not usually class as a film fad. In these days of quick changes, it is unusual for a player to remain so long with a single company.



AUGUST, Edwin. Born in St. Louis, November 26, 1883. Irish parentage. Is 5 feet, 10¾ inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. Light complexion, dark brown hair and deep blue eyes shading to green. Made his stage debut in 1889, supporting Otis Skinner, Mrs. Leslie Carter, with 'Way Down East, Climax stock company and road combinations. He made his debut in the name part in Little Lord Fauntleroy at the age of seven. Later he ran away from college to join a cheap touring organization at $6 a week, working from this small beginning to Broadway productions and leading roles. Made his debut in pictures in 1909, and made his reputation with the Biograph in such productions as The Golden Supper and The Blot on the 'Scutcheon. He has, at various times been with most of the leading companies and had his own producing company. He has written above 300 scripts.



Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MACDONALD

Curtis Films With International

Pictured Yosemite Scenes and Other Educational Films of Value to Be Had at International Exchanges.

DURING the past few months the International Film Service, Inc., has been releasing a series of educational films which were photographed by Edward S. Curtis. The majority of these films have peculiar values of an individual sort. The pictures taken in the Yosemite National Park, for instance, comprise four reels, and impart an unusually well defined impression of the beauties and wonders of Yosemite. In addition to views of the various well known geysers of Yosemite, its beautiful Mirror Lake, its Bridal Veil Falls, Yosemite falls, Nevada falls, etc., its big tree sections, and all the other unusual sights for which Yosemite is famous, the photographer has not forgotten the large herds of buffalo that run wild over the hills in a certain section of the park. Pelican Island with close views of the young pelicans is also interesting. A bear and her cubs as they run wild in the open form another attractive section of these films. Another charming view shows a flock of sea gulls at sunset flying across the horizon of a lake, and still another is the Canyon of the Yellowstone in moonlight.

Scenes in Yosemite Park (Curtis).

These films can be had at any of the International Exchanges which are scattered throughout the country located in the various large cities. Films illustrative of the history of the American Indian arranged and photographed by Edward S. Curtis are also in the hands of the International Film Service, Inc.

THE LIVING BOOK OF NATURE.

This film is entirely of a new order. Whatever animal or insect is photographed, the work has been done at such a time when each one was doing something, which, while entirely natural, seems of the nature of "antics." These have been classified and a sort of "natural entertainment" is the result.

The audience is composed of Toads, a group of toad-stools is seen, which are presently occupied by a number of toads, each taking a seat as they enter and eyeing the proceedings in a most approved style.

The actors are animals simply following their natural habits. The Chameleon gives an exhibition of his strange powers of being able to use each of his two eyes in a different direction at the same time. An enlarged Giant Beetle seems to beckon and box with his claws. The Armadillo does a stone-lifting act by removing a goodly size piece of rock which stands in his way. Small members of the monkey family do swinging and trapeze-like acts upon the trees.

The performance is closed by a lot of Japanese mice, which race with most remarkable speed in perfect circles.

The Toads jump down from their stools and the performance is over.

Interesting Educationals

Presenting Seven Scenics, Two Industrial and One Zoological Subject.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"Lion Cubs."

THIS is a Pathe half-reel that will be found especially well suited to the children's program. It is nicely colored, and shows some interesting experiences in the lives of two lion cubs fortunate enough to be associated with a nice little girl. They apparently made admirable pets, and displayed rather poorly the lion's ability to defend itself, in instances where they were harassed by an unfriendly monkey and a peevish drake. The children will be delighted with this subject.

"Picturesque Virginia."

"See America First, No. 67" presents some excellent views of the various points of interest in Virginia, including delightful perspectives of the rolling hills, with the Blue Ridge Mountains in the background. Blowing Cave, which emits cold air in summer, and reverses the situation in the winter; Windy Cove church, Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, North River Valley and the Natural Chimneys, are also among the interesting sights which this subject presents. A Christmas cartoon especially acceptable to children closes this reel.

"Food Products of the Soudan."

"Reel Life No. 34" presents this as its first interesting subject. The people of the Soudan in garbs consisting of little more than Nature gave them, are seen at their food preparing occupations. We see them gathering rarite nuts, which they then pound to a paste, knead into small cakes and cover with a vegetable grease before eating. The planting of ground nuts, harvesting millet, and women husking the heads of millet with their feet are peculiar sights.

"Pork and Beans."

We find this subject also in "Reel Life No. 34." We are shown the harvesting of great fields of beans, the product of which is put through a separator, after the beans on the vines have been cured in piles. A well detailed illustration of a pork and bean factory in operation forms an interesting and instructive portion of this excellent subject.

"The Grand Canyon of Arizona."

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company have on hand for early release some well filmed views of the Grand Canyon of Arizona. These views are subtitled with figures and explanations. Many of the scenes were taken along the Bright Angel Trail, which descends a couple of miles at least into the canyon. Views of the Colorado River, some of which have been taken from the plateau half way down the canyon, and some from the river's rocky edge are also shown. Barring the absence of the wonderful color scheme, which the spot in reality presents, this filming of one of the world's greatest wonders is most comprehensive.

"In the Swiss Alps."

The eighth number of "Mutual Tours Around the World" contains a series of views taken in the Swiss Alps above the St. Gothard tunnel. The scenes which are shown, besides giving an excellent view of the St. Gothard road as it winds through the mountains, give an idea of the pastoral spirit which prevails. Pictures of the Alpine cattle and dogs are among the interesting scenes which are shown. The gorges of Schollenen on the Reuss river form unusually attractive scenes.

"Florence, Italy."

Clearly photographed and well chosen views of the city of Florence, Italy, also appear in No. 8 of "Mutual Tours Around the World." The beautiful palaces situated in Florence are shown in this film, including the Pitti Palace, one of the largest and most magnificent in Italy. We are also shown the Piazza Michelangelo, named for the great painter, and the Piazza Della Signolia, among other interesting sights.

"Theve River, France."

A delightful scenic subject appearing in No. 8 of "Mutual Tours Around the World." The scenes along the wooded banks of this beautiful river, present an exquisite and indescribably charming effect. The Theve is a tributary of the Oise, and is one of the most beautiful rivers in that part of Europe.

"West Virginia's Rivers and Mountains."

"See America First, No. 68," gives us a series of excellent scenes throughout West Virginia. The first of these that will be easily remembered is Hawk's Nest with Gauley's montains in the background. New River canyon and an attractive view of MacDougal bridge, the beautiful Kanawa river with its beautiful falls, a view of Montgomery, a town of West Virginia, the home of a cave dweller, and an old fashioned ferry, are also shown. A good idea of that part of the country can be gained through this picture.

AMERICANS IN THE WAR.

The work of the American Ambulance Corps, or "The American Boys at the Front," presents a most detailed description of the nature and value of the ambulance service in France. Having their base two miles in the rear, they are kept in constant employ, running to within 500 yards of the front.

Wounded soldiers are carried out of action upon stretchers; these are at the nearest convenient spots, suspended upon frames mounted upon two wheels, which carry them to the nearest ambulance station, where they receive emergency treatment, and are then placed three in each ambulance and rushed to the rear. The films depicting these scenes are most thorough, and taken at a close range with a most careful and minute detail, making them manifold in their instructive value.

People who have subscribed to the formation of the Ambulance Corps can see how well their money has been expended; people who have not subscribed, can see the nature of the good work to be supported.

Traveling with the ambulances also gives an opportunity to notice the ruined villages through which they pass, showing the devastation in the beautiful French rural districts. Occasional bits of heroism are to be seen, as when a soldier carries a wounded comrade on his back to the nearest stretcher amid flying schrapnel. Intensity of action, alertness, promptitude and speed, relief and escape from danger; all these tempered with sympathetic care, surgical and medical attention are lessons relative to the dangers and sufferings of warfare that this marvelous film portrays.

FINE NATIONAL PICTURES.

A most interesting series of "National Pictures" is the latest film connected with events in Europe. The flag of every country is first shown, then a picture of each ruler, while the appropriate national anthem is being played. It may be stated at this point that the success of such a series as this depends upon the proper musical accompaniment, or the vital interest is lost. The series becomes a patriotic one and measures the opinions of the audiences as expressed by their applause. In New York, while a complimentary applause greeted the rulers of smaller countries, that accorded the larger countries was more marked. The Austrian and German Emperors were respectfully greeted; King George of England was applauded, while President Poincare of France was most boisterously received, evidently showing the great esteem in which that nation is held. It is worthy of note that King Constantine of Greece received no applause, but, on the contrary, a little resentment was evident in the audience.

The nations represented are: Russia, Servia, Bulgaria, Roumania, Montenegro, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Austria, Germany, England and France.

This is an instructive film for the schools, giving a real personal interest in otherwise obscure history, and bringing to the front the nationalism of each nation.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

"The Story of the Apple" is the title of an interesting educational film recently exhibited by the Great Northern Railway at the Ninth National Apple Show at Spokane, Wash. The various stages through which the apple passes, from the blossom to the matured fruit, including the spraying, picking, packing, hauling and shipping of the fruit are illustrated.

* * *

Educational subjects ready for release by the International Film Service, for the beginning of the year are "The Home of the Oyster," "Machine Guns in the Making," and "Through the West Indies."

* * *

A communication from the office of the State Board of Health, North Carolina, and which may hold a suggestion for manufacturers of health films, states that they are in need in that locality of copies of good health films dealing with such subjects as typhoid fever, dangers encompassed in the common house fly, the care and feeding of babies, tuberculosis, and personal hygiene, in a practical and entertaining manner. They have apparently tired of tuberculosis films, which confine their illustrations principally to slum districts, milk pictures which serve rather as advertisements than in an exemplary way, baby clinics and dental clinics, which rarely are sufficiently beneficial in an individual way.

* * *

The Morning Sun, Springfield, Ohio, comments favorably on one of the M. B. Thompson programs, which was shown recently at the Majestic Theater in Springfield with a view to pleasing the children. This particular program which was exhibited to a packed house of children and their adult friends, included "Cinderella," "Animal Movements Analyzed" and "When Little Lindy Sang." Arrangements are being made by Mary Bertha Thompson, according to a communication of recent date received by us, to exhibit selected programs of films in a chain of theaters in the middle west, east, and south.

* * *

Early in December, shortly after her return from her campaign tour through the middle states in connection with the better film movement, Miss Mary Gray Peck addressed a Syracuse audience of upward of four hundred persons, under the auspices of the Commonweal Club. In her address she drew from experiences and information gained during her recent tour, for illustrations in her discussion of her subject, "The Movies." In describing the activities of an exhibitor of South Bend, Ind., she stated that his theater, a well-ventilated one, seated nearly three thousand persons, that he provided the best music, and that he chose two-thirds of the time pictures that were suited to the youthful mind, the result being highly gratifying. She also stated that at the present time about four hundred cities and towns of the United States are organizing or conducting special children's performances.

* * *

The initial Ditmars release through the Educational Films Corporation of America will be "The Orang-Outang." The date set for this subject is Feb. 5. This and subsequent Ditmars releases will be obtainable in all parts of the United States and Canada through exchanges which have contracted for the product of the Educational Films Corporation of America.

ON THE AMERICAN ALPS.

Two Swiss mountain climbers ascend America's greatest mountain, Mt. Hood, Oregon. This film is by the Educational Film Corporation of America, and is entitled, "Hans and Henri and the Neophyte." This trio ascend the mountain by the south side, and many fine scenic views are obtained, together with the art of mountain climbing. The Neophyte descends alone down the north side of the Mount, thereby choosing the easier and safer way of descent, also at times the most rapid.

WINIFRED KINGSTON TO PLAY OPPOSITE DUSTIN FARNUM.

Winifred Kingston, who has appeared in support of Dustin Farnum in photoplays during the last three years, will continue in her "playing-opposite" capacity with Mr. Farnum, for Miss Kingston also has been added to the William Fox forces in the California studios. The first picture in which Miss Kingston and Mr. Farnum acted together was "The Squaw Man." That was late in 1913. Since then, the two have been working before the same camera almost completely.

A Night at the Teatro Delicias

World Correspondent Gives Interesting Description of Manner in Which the Porto Rican Enjoys His Picture Show

A NINE-PIECE orchestra, consisting of three flutes, two cornets, two bass horns, and two drums, occupies every night its raised platform in front of the Teatro Delicias, Ponce, Porto Rico, and attracts trade into a small, frame building, set back from the street, which is the movie de moda of the second largest city of the island. To give due credit to them it must be said that they certainly attract prospective customers and everybody else for that matter. Their loud, metallic music can be heard within a radius of many blocks, and they frequently compete with and put to shame the municipal band which plays on the plaza Sundays and Thursdays. The plaza, with the church in the middle and an intricate winding of concrete walks about it, is in the center of town, and the Delicias has its entrance on a quiet street on the north side. Most of the population comes to the plaza at night to promenade these walks—which were designed by a young engineer who had no instructions and thousands of barrels of concrete at his disposal,—and those who are inclined and have 25c (the "nickel show" is unknown) find it very convenient to end the evening at the nearby Cine.

At the first note of the band all the bootblacks, street urchins, and loafers of both sexes and all ages who find their board and room in the streets, pack the sidewalk in front of the ticket office and entrance. There is a rumor that once a barefooted orphan while standing there was given a ticket by a tourist, and from that day no person enters, especially Americans, who is not met with "Gi' me five cents, mister." Or maybe he will be asked for only a chavo, one cent. Some of these sidewalk fans maintain that it is more profitable to accost five individuals and ask for the modest sum of one cent than to take a chance of finding a tourist or someone else who is equally careless with his money. The writer can recall nothing more pathetic than a barefooted, unwashed, illiterate bootblack with four cents who hears the orchestra begin its overture and gives up all hope of begging, borrowing, or stealing the missing sum in time to see the curtain go up. Strange to say the police and management do not seem to object very strenuously to this practice. Perhaps the management profits to the extent of a few more sales.

It should have been said that inside this theater there is a gallery. It is arranged in such a manner that its occupants can see if their necks have the proper number of curves in them,—they generally stand up as in the seventh inning of a ball game—, and no ventilation is possible. Ventilation in the tropics at night and especially in a show is one of the necessities of life. A portion of a bench in this "hen-roost" as its occupants call it, can be had for the sum of five cents. The difference, however, between this and the lower floor is much greater than the difference between five cents and twenty-five cents. A man who is careful about his social standing would much rather be arrested in the alley for betting on a cock fight than be seen in the gallery of a Cine.

At about a quarter to nine the audience begins to arrive. It is said that half the pleasure of the evening consists of picking your way through the mob outside the door while they favor you with envious glances which make you clearly realize your own superiority. The moving picture in Porto Rico is not the place to drop in for an hour's entertainment when there is nothing else to do; a night spent there is an event, and in naming his house a "theater" the manager expected it to occupy the same place that the theater proper did before the popularity of the movie. The ticket is bought and turned over to a duly authorized official. He is an official and not a mere ticket taker.

In front of the theater is a paved court with chairs and tables for refreshments where the audience sit before the show and during intermission to talk and drink. Refreshments include beer, native rum, coca cola, and homemade drinks of unknown composition and meaningless names. New arrivals are sometimes surprised to see liquors served in such an open and public manner, but it is the custom of the country and no one has ever yet attached any bad results to it. Perfectly respectable families have been seen drinking in public without suffering a loss of reputation.

Those who stop in the court or patio are warned by a bell that the curtain is about to go up. As people with tropical temperaments object to being ordered about by a mere bell, they seldom find their seats until fifteen or twenty minutes after the show is scheduled to begin. And the management knowing that it must humor its patrons never puts out the lights until all are seated comfortably. The house is honorable in its intentions when it announces that all performances will begin at nine sharp, and it has been known to do so, but it could hardly be referred to as a habit or an established policy. No one objects, however. In the movies, as well as in business and other activities, the time element is of little importance. A generous margin is always allowed. If a thing is to be done right on the dot, American time as opposed to Porto Rican time must be specified.

The Teatro Delicias, under the direction of the Ponce Film Co., does not compare favorably with the modern and costly buildings of other cities. Its location and the fact that it is frequented by the more fashionable enable them to make a profit. There are about 500 seats on the main floor and 200 in the "hen-roost", but there is no limit to the number of spectators the latter can be made to hold. One feature is a side balcony with no seats where the young blood of the town can go to smoke a cigarette and get a good view of the audience. They can also be seen to advantage by everyone. It is considered a fine art to stand on this balcony and smoke a cigarette with grace, nonchalance, and ennui.

A few ads and an overture and the regular business of the evening begins. The orchestra in the meantime has been tempered slightly by the addition of a piano and the loss of a large tin horn. Its repertoire consists of five pieces, one sad, one Charlie Chaplin, one Irving Berlin, the Merry Widow, and one unclassified for emergencies. The music fills the hall to overflowing, but after a few nights the ears become numbed and unresponsive, and a person is enabled to devote most of his time to the film. The gallery is unreserved in its comments on the music, the lower floor, and itself. A person who has seen movies before and can afford to take his eye off the film a minute, will be rewarded with many bright bits of comedy and humor from above.

The picture is apt to be heavy and long and obscure. The older products of Italy and France thought nothing of running up to 35 and 40 parts all intended for one night's consumption. The favorite themes were love, sudden death, embezzlement of a stranger's wife; and the scenario is a series of remarkable scenes which have no apparent relation to one another. Little effort was made in these foreign films to tell a story. If the spectator was startled by a rapid succession of valleys, mountains, trap doors, and palatial homes, nothing more was thought necessary. It is also very evident now and then that the European producers were not handicapped by a censorship committee. There is nothing absolutely offensive, but when a situation can be improved by a few "snappy" details, they are included. They are always received in the proper spirit. It certainly must be satisfying to the owners to see the entire house settle back and become absolutely lost for three hours in an exhibition that has neither literary nor mechanical merits. When they are enabled to get hold of good American films while they are new, there is no limit to the possible attendance.

This does not mean by any means that all are of this kind. Since December 1915 the Ponce Film Co. has been securing for two or three nights a week the short one and two part films of the American houses. Needless to say it takes a great many of these to make the twenty-five cent patron feel that he has had his money's worth. Last winter Charlie Chaplin made his debut and the result was the same as in all other towns, a complete knock-out from the first. After a few one or two reelers had been shown, "Tillie's Blighted Romance" was advertised. The shrieks of the gallery alone testified to the complete success of this cultured and refined creation. It is easy to imagine what a relief this is after suffering two reels with Madame Fulana de Tal, the famous Hungarian artista, while she tries to decide whether to poison her husband with arsenic.

The serial has its true home in Porto Rico as it is closely related to the long European picture. In Ponce "Who Pays?" scored the biggest success. Each part being complete by itself and all part of one main theme gave it a literary excellence that others lacked. "Who Pays?" was given twice last winter in the Delicias and was attended both times by practically the same crowd. The translations that accompanied this picture were much better than the average. There is nothing that conduces more to an enjoyment of a film than a complete understanding of what is happening or about to happen. The manager of the Ponce Film Co. says he is of the opinion that people go to picture shows as a relaxation and not to indulge in mental gymnastics. For this reason he turned down several long serials, "Runaway June" among them, as a person would have to attend every show to understand it and be of a literary turn of mind to appreciate it.

At ten-thirty or thereabouts, to come back to the topic, intermission is announced. The men file out to take a refresco or bring back a box of candy to the women of their party. The candy counter in connection with the theater sells more candy in one night than any confectionery store sells in a week. This is one place where it is no breach of etiquette to eat in public. In the same block are cafes and soda fountains which a few attend and are always late in returning. A person who will select a middle seat in a long row after everyone else is settled down is considered the same kind of a citizen in Porto Rico as he would be in the States. From this it can be seen that the Porto Ricans are not very different from the Americans, and the congressmen who are considering the Jones Bill will do well to pass it and grant them citizenship.

The last man is generally killed by 11:30 and the happy lovers reunited. The orchestra plays an extra loud blast to wake up the inattentive, and the night's diversion is over. As you go out you find the sidewalk retainers still on their job. They sit there for several reasons. The music when it is locked up tightly in the theater is really enjoyable from the street, and even a beggar in Porto Rico has a taste for music. The second reason is of a more practical nature. There is an authentic case on record of a man who came out of the show twenty minutes before it was over. The ticket taker, not being able to conceive of a person's leaving before all was over, forced a passout check into the man's hand, supposing, of course, that he would return when he had attended to the important business that had interrupted his pleasure. The man, rather than argue with the official, took the check, which he carried to the street and threw away. A bootblack saw him, snatched up the ticket, and saw the remainder of the show. He passed the word on, and since that night a vigil is kept by the barefooted movie fans in the hope that another man will receive a summons to important business before the show is over. There must be a future for people who will take a chance on such a slim possibility.

Ponce has many other picture houses, but none occupy the same position that the Delicias does. The Habana is a large modern, concrete building which shows the same pictures that the Delicias does, but somehow it does not draw the people. It is more inclined to be popular priced, sometimes dropping as low as 15 cents, which may account for the difference, as no Porto Rican of discretion would pay 15 cents to see a show when he could see the same later for 25 cents. There is a difference in the music, the Delicias having the only piano in town. Other shows are off the plaza, run old pictures which are released cheap, and are in no way competitors of the first two named.

Business as a rule is good. Advertising is carried on in the papers, by handbills, and by boys with drums and large signs. The only competition that has serious results is from the regular theater. A Spanish stock company which ran for a month last spring nearly caused the Cines to shut up. There are only a certain number of people in town who affect the movies and when they took up drama by way of variety, the movies had no following. An opera company also may do some damage, but they come seldom and have short runs, and so do not seriously affect the Cine box receipts.

METRO GIVES CHRISTMAS BONUS.

Salary day before Christmas was one of rejoicing around the offices of the Metro Pictures Corporation. In line with other big business organizations that are distributing millions of dollars in bonuses, wage increases and extra dividends, Metro, having experienced the most prosperous year of its existence, did not forget those who have had their part in helping build the organization up to its present state of excellence

So, on the pre-Christmas pay day, Santa Claus had a proxy in the shape of Cashier C. K. Stern. All of the employes received Christmas bonuses which, in many cases, amounted to 100 per cent. Bonuses and presents also were distributed around the studios allied with Metro and all hands working under the Metro emblem, from clerks and stenographers to "supers" and stars, had cause to remember the Christmas of 1916.

Advertising by Motion Pictures

Ernest A. Dench Contributes a Handbook Useful to Advertisers on the Screen and Otherwise.

By Epes Winthrop Sargent.

ALMOST as prolific a contributor to the film papers as the late Robert Grau, Ernest A. Dench, casting about for new fields, has hit upon the idea of writing a book on the means of advertising by the use of the motion picture, its theaters and players. It must be confessed that in many respects the work falls short of being an authority, but in default of anything else this should be a decidedly helpful volume to those who intend to use advertising films or who seek to utilize the popularity of the pictures in other ways

Three things detract from the authority of the work; a loose construction, an egotistical introduction and the constant intrusion of the fact that Mr. Dench is not only willing, but even eager to assist the reader in his advertising campaign. The emphasis laid upon this is apt to impress the possible advertiser with the belief that Mr. Dench is glowingly optimistic because he hopes directly to profit by his advocacy of the advertising film. The introduction is worded to suggest that the book is the product of a specialty hack writer, further detracting from the note of authority, and in its laying out, the work is loosely planned and written. Despite all this Mr. Dench has produced a book that, in many ways, will be invaluable to the prospective advertiser.

His best chapter is the first, in which he briefly tells what a film for advertising purposes should be and warns against overloading the subject with titles. He writes:

> It is what the spectator sees, not reads, that leaves the lasting impression, which is the paramount point to be reached in advertising by motion pictures. * * * and the short time a sentence remains upon the screen does not allow lengthy sub-titles to sink in.

In this combination paragraph is comprehended the essence of advertising by film. In most instances the advertiser must supplement his film with argument or catalogue and he cannot make a catalogue of the screen.

It is in handling the film that the greatest weakness becomes apparent to the informed reader. There is a growing tendency on the part of the better class exhibitors, to refuse the advertising film even as a straight money proposition. Mr. Dench repeatedly conveys the suggestion that it is comparatively simple to induce exhibitors generally to take on the showing of the advertising reels. Even more glaring an error is found in his statement that it might pay to send out a traveling show to cover towns where there are no picture theaters. It would be difficult to find any town of size that has not at least one theater, and towns lacking such houses are not worth the expense of showing. Again Mr. Dench allows six months' use of a film before it begins to show signs of wear and tear. This all depends upon the operators. Some films are in bad shape three weeks after use, and a definite statement that the films will last six months is incorrect. It would be better to state the facts distinctly and plainly.

Considerable space is given to advertising by means of slides and some good suggestions are offered in this connection, but much more might have been said by a practical writer.

One argument that does not sound right is that the news weeklies should carry advertising or at least give an indirect advertisement. For example, Mr. Dench suggests that at the launching of a battleship the leader might give the name of the makers of the champagne with which the ship is christened. He does not seem to know that one news weekly suffered severely through the use of less obvious advertising than this. Advertising by means of the screen has its place, and this device will become increasingly popular and vastly more useful as time passes, but the theater is not the place in which to show the frankly advertising film, and most managers realize that fact, many of them as the result of disastrous experience.

In more general lines Mr. Dench advocates the use of photoplayers' endorsements of proprietary wares and offers to get players who will lend their names to such schemes. He also points out the value of players' pictures as an advertising medium and gives a special chapter to the time-honored Farmer's Matinee, first brought to general notice in Mr. Richardson's department of this paper some years ago.

Many of the chapters are utterly without value and others seem to have been put in filling, as, for example, Edward Earle's unimportant views on the advertising film, but there is enough good in the book to warrant a recommendation and to give rise to the hope that there shall presently come a new edition in which the deadwood shall be replaced by an amplification of the worth-while chapters.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

"Joan the Woman"

Cecil De Mille's Great Spectacle Is Received with Enthusiasm at Its Opening in New York.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

IF ANYTHING in the way of evidence were needed to convince the photoplay-going public that Cecil B. De Mille belongs in the front rank of the great producers of the day his direction of "Joan the Woman" should supply it in full measure. We may have our own personal opinion as to the violation of the probabilities in portraying Joan of Arc as having time or inclination for an affair of the heart, even of the mildest sort; that the man in the case should be a native of the country which to her mind and in fact was responsible for the deep degradation, the spoliation, of her own land. We may feel that Geraldine Farrar in her interpretation of the greatest female that has crossed all the centuries of time, and that female an eighteen-year-old child of the humblest origin, portrays a woman of regal, dominating presence rather than a simple child of God and of France, to whom religion and patriotism were one and the same. We may even feel that had the story adhered to history it would have been of greater strength. But there can be no mistaking the enthusiasm with which the great heart of the public responds to the wonderful appeal of the subject as a whole—great in its battles, in its pageantry, in its costuming, in the quality of its acting, in its photographic novelties, in its titling and in its cumulative, progressive interest. This was fully demonstrated at the initial showing of the New York run, which began on December 25 at the Forty-fourth Street theater.

Scene from "Joan the Woman" (Cardinal).

The script is from the pen of Jeanie Macpherson. Wilfred Buckland is the art director. Alvin Wyckoff is responsible for the photography, and to his process are credited the remarkable effects we see on the screen—in one instance Uncle Laxart sitting in the glow of the fire and Joan at the open door silhouetted in the rays of the moonlight.

Miss Farrar in her interpretation of Joan gives of the best of her great talent in portrayal. Not always is she the soldier, in mood and in spirit. One of the best scenes in the play is where after the coronation in the Rheims cathedral she leaves the king and goes to the entrance of the great pile to greet Uncle Laxart, the brother of her mother. After the stirring times in which she has been a factor of the first importance the tenderness of the greeting received by the old man is striking in its pathos, its homeliness. Another instance is when in the flush of her first victory she is surrounded by a group of Orleans women and takes an infant in her arms. And there are others when she comes in contact with Eric Trent, the Englishman whose lines so frequently cross those of the Maid.

Raymond Hatton gives a good interpretation of Charles VII., the weakling prince of France. We see none of the momentary. returns to ordinary manhood with which he has been credited. He plays a straight craven. Hobart Bosworth fills the role of General La Hire, the famous swashbuckling follower of Joan. Theodore Roberts is Cauchon, the bishop whose name stands for all that is base. Wallace Reid is Eric Trent, the commander of English troops in the earlier period; Mr. Reid also figures as an English soldier in the prologue and the epilogue. Tully Marshall is L'Oiseleur, a fanatical monk who assists in the downfall of Joan and later repudiates her persecutors. Charles Clary is La Tremouille, the false adviser of Charles VII. There are many others in a cast remarkable for its ability.

"Joan the Woman" is above all a director's picture. Mr. De Mille has splendidly staged his subject. He has constructed villages and high walls and towers, moats and bridges. And let us not forget the cathedral interior. He shows us the shock of battle, the crash of contending forces, in big fields and close up. There is a thrill in these scenes that makes adequate description difficult. His pageantry is superb. Hundreds of steel-clad men, a-horse and a-foot, armed cap-a-pie, stir us with their soldierly evolutions. One of the pictures that linger in the memory is the return of the mailed host at night through the long Orleans street. Another is the execution scene, with the black smoke and red flame swirling about the figure in the center.

There are novelties in the titling. Many of the leaders are of raised letters, simulating brass on a dark background. Others are of the atmospheric sort. These are but examples of the fine attention to detail that marks the whole production. There can be no question that "Joan the Woman" will live long in a field that has witnessed many triumphs and of which this surely is one.

Scene from "Joan the Woman" (Cardinal).

The production, which was made at the Lasky studios at Hollywood, is being exploited by the Cardinal Film Corporation, of which John C. Flinn is general representative.

"On Dangerous Ground"

Five-Reel Peerless Photoplay with the Great War in Europe for a Background—Released by the World Film Corporation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE featured players in "On Dangerous Ground," a five-reel Peerless photoplay released by the World Film Corporation, are Gail Kane and Carlyle Blackwell. In a number of situations which require treatment of a delicate nature they both succeed in keeping well within the line that separates the innocently daring from the suggestive. The extreme of unconventionality is reached in the scene where an American doctor and a beautiful young French girl claim to be man and wife and pass the night in the same bedroom, the girl stowed snugly away between the blankets while the young man rests, as best he can, on an uncomfortable chair. This situation is brought about by the request of the French girl, a spy, that the American help her to escape from Germany. After a series of exciting adventures, the doctor's "official" wife is made his legal partner for life.

The atmosphere of war which envelops the story is utilized cleverly, and the characters and scenes drawn from the nations now engaged in the Great Struggle are, with a few trifling exceptions, sufficiently authentic to sustain the desired illusion.

Scene from "On Dangerous Ground" (World).

Burton E. Stevenson, who wrote the story, has availed himself of the wide license permitted the author of romantic fiction and cut the knot of coincidence when it interfered with the development of the plot.

Reference should again be made to Gail Kane's acting of the French girl. She smacked more of the land of George M. Cohan and the Stars and Stripes than the home of the Tri-color, but makes all the situations possible by force of her personality and her knowledge of the art of acting. William Baily, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Frank Leigh, John Burkell and Florence Ashbrook are useful members of the cast. Robert Thornby directed the picture.

"Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea"

Novelty Strongest Feature of Eight-Reel Photoplay Founded on the Writings of Jules Verne—Universal Film Manufacturing Co.'s Submarine Drama Furnishes Splendid Entertainment.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE most interesting statement in connection with the Universal Film Manufacturing Co.'s eight-reel production of Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" is that it furnishes novel and engrossing entertainment. Many of the scenes which take place on dry land and on the surface of the water are interesting and out of the beaten track, but it is when the action is transferred to the bottom of the ocean that the picture makes its strongest impression. Here the opportunity for new and startling effects, the almost incredible views of the strange life in the depths of the sea, made possible by the photographic device invented by the Williamson brothers, brings a novel phase to motion picture making.

The remarkable story written over fifty years ago which, in view of present day knowledge, seems nothing short of prophetic, contains no female characters and supplies but a third of the material used in the photoplay. To piece out this shortage of plot the maker of the scenario has gone to another tale by Verne, "The Mysterious Island," and taken freely of its characters and incidents. To this blend of the two Verne stories has been added considerable original matter whose mission is to furnish the love motive necessary to all properly constructed screen romance.

The result of this amalgamation of material is not a perfect product. Events are made to fit into each other before the play is finished and the heroine's path to happiness is clearly shown, but the plot is distinctly not the thing in "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." The marvel of the submarine and the self-contained diving suits in which Captain Nemo and his companions walk along the floor of the ocean and view the coral beds and come in close contact with sharks, schools of lesser fish and other denizens of the deep are its chief merits.

The picture is full of mystery to the uninitiated, the fight with the octopus being a case in point.

The illusion here is perfect. The views of the coral beds are things of beauty and won hearty applause from the audience which witnessed the first showing of the picture at the Broadway theater, New York. Many of the scenes on the tropical island have a claim to esthetic charm also. The original material in the last reel depicting an uprising in India is impressive, and the general effect of the production is excellent; although nautical sharps will find it difficult to repress a smile at first sight of the "Abraham Lincoln," the brave craft which the United States Government sends forth to scour the Seven Seas in search of the mysterious monster born of Jules Verne's imagination, and now a terrifying reality to the peaceful commerce of many nations. Stuart Paton, who directed the production, has been confronted by many difficult problems, and, in the main, has solved them with much skill.

Allan Holubar is the Captain Nemo. He works faithfully at his task, but does not measure up to the imposing figure of the East Indian Prince drawn by the French novelist. Jane Gail as the heroine of the story plays a "Child of Nature," found on the mysterious island, who turns out to be Prince Daaker's daughter. She is graceful, makes a fascinating appearance in her garment of skins, and leads the entire cast in excellence of acting. Dan Hanlon, Edna Pendleton, Curtis Penton and William Welch are the other members of the cast who materially assist in gaining the picture's good repute. Eugene Gaudio and staff do a like service for the photography of the screen drama.

"Whoso Findeth a Wife"

U. S. Amusement Corporation Produce Five-Reel Screendrama from Novel of Same Title—Released December 28 by Art Dramas.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"WHOSO Findeth a Wife," a five-reel photoplay produced by the U. S. Amusement Corporation from the novel by J. Wesley Putnam, is very well acted. In a cast which includes Jean Sothern, Leo Delaney, William O'Neill, Kirk Brown, Eldine Stuart, Ina Brooks, George Henry Trader and J. H. Fury, may be found names that stand for honorable achievement in connection with the screen; and Frank Hall Crane has directed the picture carefully and made the most of his material.

The writer of this review has never read Mr. Putnam's book, but it is fair to suppose the play follows the original story with fidelity and endeavors to transfer its salient points to the screen. The theme of "Whoso Findeth a Wife" is a familiar one, the history of the young girl who marries to save her family from poverty and learns finally to love the man whose name she bears has been told many times, Ohnet's "The Iron Master" being the most prominent example. This, in itself, is not a fault, but either the novelist or the scenario writer has failed to make the story convincing. The incidents used to develop the plot have given long and faithful service in the cause of the drama and, as a consequence, possesses but little of the element of surprise. Even that "supposedly" surefire bit of business, where a man puts a loaded pistol to his head and expresses his readiness to blow out his brains and thus secure the happiness of the woman he loves, is employed at the climax. All this, however, would not prevent the drama from being a faithful reflex of life, if the character of the millionaire who marries the heroine bore the stamp of truth.

Scene from "Whoso Findeth a Wife" (Art Drama).

Psychology, evidently, is not one of Mr. Putnam's strong points. He asks the spectator to believe in a man with the mental and physical ability to lift himself from the foot of the financial ladder to a position of affluence who seeks to secure his wife's happiness by blowing out his own brains and leaving her free to marry a young lawyer, who, the husband knows, is absolutely unworthy of her. Ralph Dunham's conduct all through the play is dictated by sentiment rather than common sense. He gives the parents of Elizabeth Ferris one million dollars in exchange for their daughter, although she has told him that she can be his wife in name only—and that, in plain language. Finding that Elizabeth has fallen in love with the third side of the "triangle," he offers to give his wife a divorce, and his rival half a million for living expenses when he and the divorcee are wed. But, crowning folly of all, is his attempt to take the cold lead route and leave his young wife at liberty to become the bride of a moral coward. Such things are not done by the self-made men of this country,—the Captains of Industry, who hold so much of power and so much of the happiness of others in their hands.

Fortunately, the millionaire's wife comes to her senses in time and is able to draw the right comparison between the two men.

"The Vampires"

Closing Episodes of the Gaumont Serial Lose no Trick in Leading to a Thrilling Climax.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"The Master of Thunder."

AFTER the manner of past episodes, "The Master of Thunder" develops startling situations and introduces ingenious methods of evading the law. It pursues its victims with the usual amount of merciless venom and is altogether absorbing in its intense melodramatic style.

In this episode, the seventh, by the way, Irma Vep after the execution of Moreno, is sent away to prison. On her way to the prison the ship on which she is being conveyed is blown to atoms by an electric gun, the device of Satanas. Irma Vep, aware of what is to happen, makes preparations that aid her in escaping the fate of the other passengers. Normandin again takes a hand, and with his little son is instrumental in bringing about the arrest of Satanas. A letter smuggled into the prison to Satanas enables him to cause his own death by chewing the poisoned paper.

Scene from "The Poison Man" (Gaumont).

"The Poison Man."

The eighth episode deals with an attempt to poison Philip Guard, his fiancee and their friends at the betrothal dinner. The trick is discovered when the superintendent of the apartment house, who is given a bottle of wine by one of the fake caterers, dies from the effects of poison. In this way the trick is discovered. In the closing incidents of this episode Irma Vep has a thrilling escapade in which she pulls Normandin from his hiding place in a wardrobe trunk on the side of an automobile, and by the use of an anesthetic throws him into a state of unconsciousness, after which he is arrested and taken to jail also through her maneuvering.

"The Terrible Wedding."

The ninth and last episode of the serial maintains the interest to the very last. In it the wedding of Irma Vep and Venenos takes place amid hilarious surroundings. In the midst of the gaiety, however, Philip Guard and Normandin appear on the scene with a body of policemen. The shooting of the vampires when they attempt to escape and the giving way of a balcony outside a window, hurling its occupants on the ground to their death, affords a spectacular sight.

"The Piper's Price"

Well Acted Bluebird Five-Reel Photoplay Featuring Dorothy Phillips and William Stowell.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE story of the five-reel Bluebird photoplay, "The Piper's Price," deals with situations that are not foreign to human experience; fortunately, for the good of humanity, the situations in this case are of rare occurrence. The eternal triangle in this play consists of a man and two women—one, his former wife. Ralph Hadley, a man of wealth who has separated from his first wife on account of incompatibility of temper, allows himself to be drawn back to her after he has married again. He even goes to the extent of having illicit relations with the divorced woman and is about to commit suicide when she casts him off for another man. The information from his family physician that he has just been made a father brings him to his senses and a happy future is supposed to follow for the family, although the wife has known of her husband's infatuation for the former Mrs. Hadley.

Scene from "The Piper's Price" (Bluebird).

Such conduct on the part of the two offenders against common decency should put them outside the pale of sympathy, and the second wife exhibits such a lamentable weakness of character during the affair that pity for her should be mingled with contempt. It cannot be denied, however, that there exists a grade of mind which will follow the fortunes of these three humans with the deepest interest and herald the ending as a triumph for justice and truth. An important factor in bringing about this result is the excellence of the acting by the entire cast. Dorothy Phillips, Maud George, William Stowell, Lon Chaney and Claire Du Brey give a faithful interpretation of the author's meaning, and Joseph De Grasse has directed the production in the same spirit. The scenario, by Ida May Park, is a skillful piece of work.

Pair of Pathe Releases

Gold Rooster Screen Version of "Kick In," Willard Mack's Gripping Stage Play, and "For the Stars and Stripes," Seventh Episode of "Pearl of the Army," the Latest Pathe Serial.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"Kick In."

THE five-reel screen version of Willard Mack's crook play, "Kick In," produced by Pathe, furnishes a striking example of the fact that practice is sometimes a better guide than theory. Experts at scenario writing have been known to set it down as a rule that stage plays do not make good material for screen dramas. Perhaps the correct answer to this statement is the query, "Doesn't it depend solely upon the play. At any rate, Kirk Brown on the screen becomes one of the most absorbing and appealing characters ever run through a projecting machine. The interest never lags for an instant. An addition is made to the complement of the operatic and comedy staff of the Wing Foo Theatre and the seasonal influence which surrounded Chick Hower and Chas. Irwin. With the introduction of the scenes showing the two characters grown to manhood the picture play, except for the elimination of the drama's comic relief, follows the spoken version with absolute fidelity as to salient points.

Scene from "Kick In" (Pathe).

Kirk Brown is the boss of a mine whom circumstances made a crook but who loves the right woman at the right moment, and her faith in him awakens a determination to go straight. In attempting to shield one of his partners from the police and his past comes to light, to the horror of his fiancée. The plot never puts the slightest strain upon the spectator's credulity, with the lesson graphically set forth that a thief and his wife and home cannot be kept long from trouble and loss of happiness that everyone must up and take notice to the fullest extent of every episode. The play is melodramatic but melodrama of a good kind will first the attention and command the respect of fearless and right-thinking folks.

In interpreting the drama to the screen the director George Fitzmaurice had the assistance of a superior cast. William Conklin plays Kirk with the same skill that distinguished the performance of Lou Harrison, who created the part. Mattie Kirk could not be improved upon as a selection for Molly Carr, and Helen Chapman, Leonard Labon, Warren Wills and John Lowe are equally well fitted to the characters assigned them.

"For the Stars and Stripes"

When Mr. Nestor wrote "The Enemies" and introduced the still [illegible] he [illegible] And the [illegible] pursued her [illegible] little thought that he was [illegible] conception of a stirring, sound story which, played for its every breathless with suspense at the end of each [illegible] would be received in a worthy picture drama. The Nestor story of the entire admitted actions but broad [illegible] the moving picture artist makes such haste to get [illegible] of [illegible] quality. The seventh episode of "Lucille the Vamp" leaves the [illegible] facing a firing squad of [illegible] but ending in short. Advice [illegible] comments to [illegible] the girl. As to [illegible] the cast and takes careful aim the contender [illegible] next chapter. Followers of the serial will be forced to wait for the next matinee before learning how it comes out.

Interesting [illegible] subject of conduct and Peace and [illegible] one [illegible] to get them [illegible] Before [illegible] entertaining the two girls by a select little party. They [illegible] go away by Jake after they have [illegible] plans for [illegible] wrecked with [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] During the settings of the [illegible] [illegible] a [illegible] exhibition of the kind of [illegible] with [illegible] which [illegible] countrymen are celebrated.

"Redeeming Love"

Kathlyn Williams Has the Lead in a Striking Production of the Morosco Company.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

GERTRUDE ATHERTON, in [illegible] of the story of [illegible] "Redeeming Love," the Morosco re[illegible] [illegible] gives as [illegible] with a destined [illegible] quality. The [illegible] are a [illegible] asset. If in reading [illegible] you [illegible] the words [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Thomas Meighan is John Barton, the adventurer into whose hands falls the chest of gold buried by the pirates and who with the contents buys the freedom of Ramona. Albert Hart is Firebrand, the big pirate who attempts through fear of his lash to win the submission if not the love of Ramona. Firebrand is as fierce as any one would wish him to be, as convincing a pirate as ever scuttled a ship. Wellington Playter is his chief of staff. Ruby Hoffman is the discarded favorite of Firebrand.

"The Slave Market" will make a strong subject for any house. It is a well-made melodrama.

Two Kalems

"The False Prophet," Episode of "The Girl From Frisco" Series, and "The House of Secrets," a Number of the "Grant, Police Reporter" Series.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

IN THE latest two-reel episode of Kalem's "The Girl From Frisco" series, titled "The False Prophet," Barbara Brent (Marin Sais) is instrumental in exposing a band of men who are mulcting ignorant and gullible people of various sums of money. In bringing about their capture Miss Sais performs a hazardous stunt—she leaps from a speeding automobile to a train on which two of the band are endeavoring to escape. The film is equally as exciting and as interesting as preceding episodes.

Scene from "The False Prophet" (Kalem).

The false prophets, who claim to be disciples of a second Daniel, predict the end of the world and work upon the imaginations of the more ignorant of the inhabitants of a Western town. The city authorities are bribed to permit the prophets to hold their meetings. The girl, her father, and Congressman Wallace are powerless to act until Wallace learns that the "prophet" is wanted on an old warrant.

In the cast are seen, beside Miss Sais, True Boardman, Frank Jonasson, Ronald Bradbury and Edward Clisbee. Directed by James W. Horne. Released January 3.

"The House of Secrets."

George Larkin performs an unusually daring stunt in "The House of Secrets," latest one-reel episode of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series, by Robert Welles Ritchie. Mr. Larkin, in escaping from a band which has a secret submarine base, climbs a pole on which wireless aerials are stretched, loosens the wires, swings on the wires across a wide arc, and clutches the branches of a nearby tree with his legs. He climbs into the tree and to the ground. This thrill cannot fail to be felt by the onlooker.

The story of the film interests, too, and is quite timely. It tells of the reporter who discovers a secret submarine base while on his vacation. Through his efforts the foreigners are captured by soldiers. Action is fast throughout the reel. With Mr. Larkin in the cast are Ollie Kirkby, Director Robert Ellis, Harry Gordon and William McKey.

"The Island of Desire"

George Walsh the Star of a Five-Reel Story of Adventure in the South Seas, Produced by the Fox Film Corporation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE latest Fox picture, "The Island of Desire," is an adventure story written by J. Allen Dunn and directed by Otis Turner. The opening shows a yacht race that is not only interesting, but full of beauty. After that follow scenes on shipboard, a fight with cannibals, a struggle between the hero and the villains for possession of a bag of pearls, the sinking of a South Sea island from the effects of a volcanic eruption, the different incidents being held together by a love interest which shows that the hero of the tale has too much red blood in his veins to die of a broken heart when his first sweetheart throws him down.

The picture almost comes under the head of spectacular drama, so diversified and numerous are the scenes. The plot is of secondary importance. Its main object is to furnish George Walsh with as many opportunities as possible to "mix it up" with a choice collection of desperate characters, to swim, shoot, make love and go through the entire box of tricks that is expected of the hero of such a story. The young man fulfills his contract in a very able manner. Anna Luther is an attractive heroine, and Margaret Gibson, Herschel Mayall, William Burress, William Clifford, Sam Searles, Hector Sarno, Marie McKeen and Willard Louis are of distinct value to the cast.

"Fighting for Love"

Five-Reel Red Feather Tells Preposterous and Amusing Yarn of a Cowboy Who Won a Real Queen.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

RAYMOND WELLS, who wrote and directed this five-reel feature, must be given credit for a daring and novel conception, and one which in presentation infuses new life into an old situation. He tells of a cowboy-mining man who goes to Europe and falls in love with the queen of a small principality. He has nothing to go on but his nerve, a well-filled pocketbook and a broad grin, but in spite of his uncouth ways he "cops" the queen. To successfully carry out this coup, he brings over a band of cowboys to fight for the lady on her own soil.

The battle scenes, pictured in the closing reel, are staged on a big scale and must be regarded as the strongest feature of the production. The idea itself is a little slow in impressing the observer, as it seems at first to be merely another "Yankee in King Arthur's Court." But presently the plot unfolds, and when the cowboy actually climbs the high wall and makes advances to the queen the interest increases. The good work of Jack Mulhall and Ruth Stonehouse in the leading roles does much to carry these situations through.

The general atmosphere of the production is marred by a jumble of costumes of different nationalities and architecture of varying types. This would have affected a serious type of story to a considerable extent and does not help even an amusing yarn of this sort.

"The Last Sentence"

Five-Reel Screendrama Made by the Edison Company from Maxwell Gray's Novel Contains Impossible Situations and Too Complicated a Plot.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

DRAMATIC situations aplenty and to spare are to be found in "The Last Sentence," a five-reel photoplay made by the Edison Company from a novel by Maxwell Gray. Three generations are included in the story, the big moment being reached when a judge is about to pass the death sentence upon a young girl for the crime of infanticide and discovers that the prisoner is his own daughter. In spite of this fact, he pronounces the death penalty, after the girl has been convicted on circumstantial evidence that is anything but overwhelming.

Scene from "The Last Sentence" (Edison).

The situation which brings about the happy ending is quite beyond belief. The girl is secretly married to a wealthy young reprobate and has given him her promise not to divulge the fact. He goes to the Maine woods in an effort to get rid of the drink habit and takes his baby with him—the infant his wife is accused of killing. Such an example of wifely sacrifice has never been equaled: rather than break her word she goes through the trial and her subsequent imprisonment without speaking, and is saved at the last moment by the return of her husband.

Edward H. Griffith, who adapted the novel to the screen, has retained too much of the original material and left too much of it unexplained. Handicapped by such a scenario, the efforts of the cast are almost negative. Marc MacDermott and Miriam Nesbitt act the leading roles, and Grace Williams, Herbert Prior, Florence Stover, Gladys Gane, Elaine Ivans, Raymond McKee and Mrs. Wallace Erskine are the other players. The acting and the direction are both of distinct merit.

Triangle Program

"The Iced Bullet" Is a Five-Reel Kay Bee Realistic Comedy, and "The Little Yank" a Five-Reel Fine Arts Story of the Rebellion.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

A STORY within a story is "The Iced Bullet," with the comedy element offered as a background for a tale of mystery, The preliminary comedy deals with the adventures of that nondescript the "author-actor" at the Ince studios, and it has the Moliere charm of undeniable veracity, a bitter truth if scenario writers are treated with such infinite scorn when they call at the studios. Actors, directors and stage-hands roll up to the massive gates in opulent motor cars, gentlemen engaged in visualizing the story, but the fellow who creates it, the author, has the gate slammed in his face. Presumably this is not to be taken as a warning to authors to keep in their places, for Desmond, the author-actor, finally gains admission by climbing the fence. There is a way in.

Scene from "The Iced Bullet" (Triangle).

Interesting exteriors of the entire plant are shown during his adventures with a glimpse of a play in process of manufacture. He finds his way to the manager's office during the latter's absence and sits down to dream of a future screen success. Then comes the mystery story presented with Ince skill and good taste. Desmond appears as the hero of his own story and does well. It is by his skill as a detective that the mystery of an attempted murder is solved, a correct structure in a class of story depending entirely upon structure, but the false scents fail to be misleading. Wonder is a short-lived emotion—it can rarely live through five reels. The story of mystery is, however, well handled and ingenious enough to serve its purpose. The reversion to comedy at the end is good, and the entire release satisfying.

Scene from "The Little Yank" (Triangle).

"The Little Yank" is not intended to be comical, but it is unconsciously so at times. Dorothy Gish is the "Little Yank" who lives with other ladies in hoopskirts near the scene of our civil war. They decide to send some supplies to the Union Army, and a wagon load of creature comforts is escorted by Dorothy in a carriage. At a fork in the road, the wagon goes to the right and lands comfortably in the Union ranks. The carriage goes to the left and encounters a detachment of Confederates. They politely indicate the right course. It is thus made obvious that going from one army to the other is not a matter of great difficulty, not particularly logical, but accepted as possible. Dorothy finds that her brother is a wounded prisoner in the hands of the enemy. She politely requests the Union General to stop a terrific engagement then in progress—she wishes to visit her brother, and why should she bother to go back to that convenient fork in the road.

Two great battle lines are in the midst of a life and death struggle, when the Union General sends a flag of truce asking the enemy to stop firing while a lady crosses over to see her brother. Both armies rest, while Miss Dotty crosses the battlefield with her man servant, and she is spared the annoyance of driving a few miles to the fork in the road. She gets back to the Union lines without any particular trouble. Moral—Place aux dames. Officers and troops have really nothing at stake when the author is directing the battle from both sides at the same time. When an author intervenes to command the sun to stand still, the story fails in adherence to the inevitable—it lacks all the charm and illusion of abiding veracity.

"The Man of Mystery"

Five-Reel Screen Version of A. C. Gunter's Novel Produced by the Vitagraph, with E. H. Sothern as David Angelo.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

A FIVE-REEL screen version of the novel by A. C. Gunter, "The Man of Mystery," produced by the Vitagraph, gives E. H. Sothern an excellent opportunity to appear in a part which admits of the class of acting to which his past training best suits him. Written in a vein of fervid romance, the story is prolific of the flourishes, full stops and sweeping gestures that go with situations so far removed from matter-of-fact existence. As a subject for screen drama the novel has two faults: lack of suspense and too deliberate movement. From the moment that David Angelo makes known his purpose to gain his wife's love while disguised as Count Vesuvius, the issue is never in doubt; and the motives used in constructing the story, though always interesting, fail to give the cue for the requisite action which insures life and vigor to drama, whether shown on the stage or the screen.

The production, under the direction of Fred Thomson, has excellent local color and exhibits a number of picturesque exteriors and correctly staged interior settings. The atmosphere throughout the entire drama is impressive, and the acting of the cast is equally commendable. Mr. Sothern as David Angelo does a clever bit of character acting in the early part of the drama, impersonating a middle-aged cripple, deformed by disease who is restored in marvelous fashion during an eruption of Vesuvius. He makes a distinguished figure as the Count in the latter portion of "The Man of Mystery" and endows the part with the grace and fine breeding necessary to win almost any woman. Charlotte Ives makes the wife a worthy object for the devotion of such a man as David Angelo, and Vilda Varesi, Mr. Roberto, Brinsley Shaw and Mr. Seigel play their respective roles with convincing skill.

One of the best points in the play occurs at the finish. David and his wife are deep in the enjoyment of their new happiness when the lady remarks: "I have a letter from mother and she wants you to use your influence to get her out of prison," and David, out of the wisdom derived from his past experience with his mother-in-law, makes answer, "Let well enough alone." "A Daniel come to judgment!"

"Pidgin Island"

Harold Lockwood and May Allison Featured in Metro's Five-Reel Visualization of Harold MacGrath's Novel.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

THE screen version of Harold MacGrath's novel, "Pidgin Island," picturized in five reels by the Yorke Film Corporation for release on the Metro program, is destined to please many more thousands of persons than were pleased with the book. With Harold Lockwood and May Allison in the leading roles, and with beautiful and true-to-the-story exteriors, Mr. MacGrath's absorbing story has been given a fitting visualization. The five reels embrace many surf scenes, and these have been photographed with a fine eye for the artistic. The action is not allowed to suffer, however, through their amplitude. There are also some good Chinatown scenes, photographed at night.

Mr. MacGrath's story is one of smugglers, customs inspectors and romance, and the cast for the picture has been selected with care enough to have suited the author himself. The underworld types are convincing. Mr. Lockwood and Miss Allison are seen at their best in the more romantic scenes. Despite a tendency to resort frequently to titles, the story is unfolded smoothly enough on the screen to hold the spectator's undivided attention. On the whole "Pidgin Island" is an acceptable offering.

The "heavy" is played by Doc Pomeroy. Cannon. Lester Cuneo is seen as the "heavy's" son. Others in the cast are Fred Wilson, Lillian Hayward, Lilzah Zerr and Yukio Avyoma. The scenario was written by Richard V. Spencer and Fred J. Balshofer, who directed the production. Tony Gaudio was the photographer.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company.

THE WINKED AND WON (Vim), Dec. 21.—Kate Price and Babe Hardy are the leading figures in this fun film. There are several good laughs in the reel. Babe is seen as the inventor who has a peculiar wink. A rival tries to plant a bomb in a car which is to test Babe's invention, but is himself the victim. Fast action marks this comedy.

DANCING WITH FOLLY (Essanay) Dec. 23.—No. 2 of the "Is Marriage Sacred" series. The two reels are quite a strong offering. The story tells of a neglected wife who seeks company outside of her home. This leads to her being placed in a compromising position with a man who demands a price. The wife's predicament brings forcefully home to the husband that he has been neglecting her for his work. The cast includes Marguerite Clayton, Sydney Ainsworth, Lilliam Drew, Edward and Thomas Commerford.

THE MAN HE MIGHT HAVE BEEN (Selig) Dec. 23.—This reel is not quite up to present-day standards. Its story is rather "wishy-washy," telling of a hobo who, reading a poem, sees a vision of his boyhood and his wasted life and of what might have been. In the end he goes back to his wife, who welcomes him. The cast is composed of Robyn Adair, Buddy Harris, and E. J. Brady.

HER FINANCIAL FRENZY (Vim) Dec. 27.—A quite entertaining number of the Vim Feature Comedies, with Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby getting over a number of laughs. The financial frenzy comes about when Hubby gets a raise and Friend Wife goes on a shopping tour. The money-spending proclivities of both lead to funny complications, but everything is all right because Mrs. Love has inherited considerable money. A good farce comedy.

CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL NO. 21 (Essanay) Dec. 27.—Comedy cartoons of the Mexican situation, the harvest of Rhubarb pies, the manufacture of "flivvers," and other burlesques of topical subjects share this reel with scenic. The cartoon section is quite humorous. The scenic was photographed on and about Lake Tahoe, California, and some beautiful "shots" have been obtained.

A MISSION OF STATE (Kalem) Dec. 29.—George Larkin performs two daring stunts in this episode of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series. He leaps from the roof of a porch into a tree, and laters jumps from a bridge into an automobile that is passing under it. The story of this reel tells how the reporter recovers valuable papers that have been stolen from a Government representative. Some good melodramatic scenes are embraced in the reel. Reviewed on page 100 of last week's issue.

THE FIREMEN'S NEMESIS (Kalem) Jan. 13.—A number of the "Hazards of Helen" series. Helen Gibson furnishes a thrill when she leaps from a fast-moving motorcycle to a rope suspended from a locomotive cab, climbs the rope and into the engine cab. In this manner she averts a collision between the limited and the engine which has been set running wild by a man who bound and gagged the fireman. There are also seen in this reel Richard Johnston, George Routh and G. A. Williams.

General Film Company Specials.

THE DAWN OF WISDOM (Knickerbocker Star Feature) Dec. 22.—The rather hackneyed story of a countryman who falls in love with a city cabaret singer has been used in the making of this three-reel drama. Nevertheless the film embraces considerable human interest. The man comes to a realization that his wife and children are his real loves after he is "trimmed" by the singer's confederates. In the cast are seen Frank Mayo, Gloria Payton and Myrtle Reeves.

THE GOLDEN THOUGHT (Selig) Dec. 25.—Tom Mix and his riding are the feature of this two-reel Western. He is seen as a deputy marshal who journeys to round up a band of bad men. An attempt is made to kill him. An innocent man is accused of the attempt on his life. But eyerything turns out all right and Tom claims as his bride the girl faro dealer (Victoria Forde). Others in the cast are Barney Furey, Lily Clark, Sid Jordan and Pat Chrisman.

A TALE FROM THE DECAMERON (Essanay) Dec. 26.—A good two-reel drama—one of the "Black Cat Features." A well-sustained element of suspense helps maintain interest. The story tells of a girl who is led into a compromising position with a wealthy man. The man is accidentally killed while alone with the girl, but circumstances point to murder. The girl's fiance, who is the wealthy man's secretary, is accused. The girl's explanation clears matters. In the cast are Nell Craig, Ernest Maupain, John Cossar and Victor Benoit.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

THE PIPER'S PRICE (Bluebird) Jan. 8.—A well acted photoplay in which Dorothy Phillips and William Stowell play the leading parts, the dramatic triangle is stretched to the limit by making the other woman in the case the divorced wife of the male side of the moral issue. A review is printed on another page of this issue.

Cardinal Film Corporation

JOAN THE WOMAN, December.—Two and a half hours' entertainment are provided by this great production, made at the Lasky studios under the direction of Cecil De Mille and starring Geraldine Farrar. It is reviewed on another page of this issue.

Greater Vitagraph

INDISCRETION, Jan. 15.—Lillian Walker is featured in this five-part subject, which in the last third develops real strength. It was reviewed last week, on page 98.

International Film Service

HEARST-INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, NO. 103, 1916, (International) Dec. 26.—Poor children made glad by Examiner caravan, San Francisco; Guardsmen of four states in artillery contest, Llano Grande, Tex.; Collier sinks in Cape Cod Canal, Bourne, Mass.; High-speed armored motor car for Army use, Phila.; Scallop fishermen at work, Nantucket, Id., Mass.; Coasting on Prospect Park hills, Brooklyn, N. Y.; With the French Army on the Somme front; With the Austrian Army; Footlights and Fashions.

Metro Pictures Corporation

VANITY (Popular Plays and Players), Jan. 1.—Emmy Wehlen is featured in this five-reel detective drama. The film is quite absorbing, and is marked by good acting. The story tells of a model who is forced to become a "stool pigeon" who betrays and later vindicates the love of the man she has come to spy on. Reviewed in last week's issue.

HER PERFECT HUSBAND (Metro-Drew) Dec. 25.—An amusing domestic comedy featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew. This time Hubby is so perfect and pays so much attention to Friend Wife that she becomes weary of his attention and perfection. But she has a dream of him as an unfaithful husband which makes her appreciate him and his perfection. A film that will keep one chuckling.

PIDGIN ISLAND (Yorke), Dec. 25.—Harold Lockwood and May Allison are seen in a five-reel visualization of the novel of the same name by Harold MacGrath. The picture tells a story of smugglers, customs inspectors, and romance. There are many beautiful exteriors. The story interests. The film is an acceptable offering. Reviewed in another column of this issue.

THE MATINEE IDOL (Metro-Herz), Jan. 1.—Ralph Herz is featured in this one-reel comedy. The reel is an ordinarily good comedy number, with a certain amount of humor. Mr. Herz is a matinee idol but loves his cups. He is kidnapped by a bunch of sorority girls when helplessly intoxicated, but manages to get out of the embroglio with a whole skin.

Mutual Film Corporation

PETER THE COMIC POET (Novelty) Dec. 16.—A moderately entertaining comedy in which Peter desirious of winning a prize offered for the best moving picture scenario experiences distressing difficulties in securing a quiet place to write. He finally falls asleep and dreams of wonderful successes that are his.

REEL LIFE NO. 35 (Gaumont) Dec. 31.—This issue of the Mutual Screen magazine contains articles on "The Value of Venom," with scenes at the Sao Paulo Institute in Brazil, where poisonous snakes are kept, classified, and the venom extracted from them for experimental purposes, "The Most Unique Basket" showing how baskets are made from the shell backs of the armadillo, "The Olive Industry" in California, and "Modish Coiffures." An excellent issue which is reviewed in detail in the educational department of the issue of Jan. 20.

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD (Gaumont), Jan. 2.—This number gives the observer a comprehensive view of the South American city of Rio Janeiro and its surroundings. Luchon, a French town near the Spanish border, is next visited. The electric railway journey is particularly well pictured.

THE VAMPIRES, NO. 8 (Gaumont), Jan. 11.—"The Poison Man" is the title of this number of the thrilling serial. In it an attempt is made to do away with Philip Gaurd, his fiance, and guests at a dinner party held at the young woman's apartment. The poisoned food and wines are detected when the janitor who has been presented with a bottle of champagne dies from the effects. An excellent number.

Paramount Pictures Corp.

SNOW WHITE (Famous Players), Dec. 25.—Marguerite Clark here has a screen play which perhaps will rank as the most charming of the many in which she has been featured. As was pointed out in our review, on Page 97 in the last issue, it is a remarkable picture.

REDEEMING LOVE (Morosco), Dec. 28.—A strong play, notable for the fine attention to detail on the part of all who have had to do with its making. Kathylyn Williams is supported by Thomas Holding and Wyndham Standing. The subject is reviewed at length on another page.

THE SLAVE MARKET (Famous Players), Jan. 1.—Pauline Frederick has the lead in this thrilling story of the Spanish Main, with its pirates and gentle women. It is reviewed on another page.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

THE SHADOW OF SHAME (Pathe), Jan. 14.—A reissue of a one-reel Western drama in which Francis Carlyle and Crane Wilbur have the leads, the picture has a strong finish, and illustrates the change in Crane Wilbur's method of acting in the last three years.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 14 (Pathe), Jan. 14.—"Something New" is the title of this installment of the Florence Rose fashions notes, and the number makes good its name. The different articles of woman's wear are the extreme of novelty and should delight the female mind.

KICK IN (Astra), Jan. 14.—The screen version of the Willard Mack stage play should prove one of the most successful melodramas in moving pictures. It makes the transfer from the spoken stage to the silent drama with excellent result, and retains all the tense interest that it had in its original form. William Courtenay and the rest of the cast are equal to every demand. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Triangle Film Corporation

A HOUSE BUILT ON SAND (Fine Arts), Dec. 31.—An attempt at romantic comedy which does not succeed, in spite of some clever work by Lillian Gish.

THE LITTLE YANK (Fine Arts), Jan. 14.—A very weak vehicle for Dorothy Gish in the times of American Civil War.

THE BRIDE OF HATE (Kay Bee), Jan. 14.—A powerful presentment of the race question in a romantic situation, with Frank Keenan at his best in the leading role.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

ONE THOUSAND MILES AN HOUR (Nestor), Jan. 8.—A rapid-fire comedy, by Bess Meredyth, with Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran, Harry Nolan and Edith Roberts in the cast. Jed has invented a new liquid for running his "flivver" and enters the Vanderbilt cup race after the villain has done his best to stop him. He wins the cup and the girl in an amusing way. The burlesque touches in this are good and real flashes from the Vanderbilt event help to keep the suspense.

A GENTLEMAN OF NERVE (Victor), Jan. 9.—A comedy number, by Florence Wallace, featuring Carter De Haven and Madge Kirby. The plot is a mere trifle, but Carter De Haven manages to infuse a lot of good humor into it, bringing it well above the average offering. He gets his teeth knocked out in an automobile accident and later has various altercations with the girl's father.

HONORABLY DISCHARGED (Imp), Jan. 12.—The sympathetic story of an old army horse, by L. Bliss. L. C. Shumway plays the part of a trooper in the U. S. Army, who procures an honorable discharge and takes a sad farewell of his horse, which has been condemned for further service. Later the horse is sold and he saves it from abuse. This will arouse sympathy everywhere for the wornout army horse, and besides makes an appealing picture.

THE WRONG MARY WRIGHT (Victor), Jan. 12.—A bright little comedy number, featuring Edith Roberts, Millard K. Wilson and others. A young business man sets out to make the acquaintance of his partner's daughter on a vacation trip. He gets hold of the wrong girl and falls in love with her. The situation is amusing and well handled. Another fellow gets the real Mary. This is pleasing.

MIDNIGHT (Imp), Jan. 14.—An unusual subject, based on a little story by Frank H. Spearman, featuring Allen J. Holubar as a bishop. This characterization is a very good piece of work. A little girl calls upon him to attend a dying man, who turns out to be a murderer. The child, his daughter, was supposed to have died a year previously. The child is apparently presumed to be a spirit walking on earth. This is thoughtfully and reverently handled and makes a good subject.

Universal Film Mfg. Co. Specials

FIGHTING FOR LOVE (Red Feather), Jan. 8.—A five-reel feature, written and produced by Raymond Wells, featuring Ruth Stonehouse, Jack Mulhall and Noble Johnson. Jack Mulhall plays the part of a prospector-cowboy, who strikes gold and goes to Europe. He visits a small province and falls in love with the queen. When war befalls the country he brings over a band of his cowboy friends and wins the big battle. This last feature is staged on a big scale. The whole conception is humorous and daring and wins out, in spite of some drawbacks in general atmosphere. The idea is not to be taken at all seriously, but proves novel and entertaining.

MYSTERY OF MY LADY'S BOUDOIR, THE (Gold Seal), Jan. 9.—A three-reel subject, by Harry Ditmar, featuring Violet Mersereau, Johnnie Walker and others. A young girl, whose fortunes have suddenly fallen, hires out as a maid. Her love for fine clothes prompts her to attire herself in a beautiful gown during the absence of her mistress. A young man visitor suddenly appears and the girl passes herself off as the rich Miss Wells. Other entertaining complications follow. A good idea, well worked out and played by a competent cast. This is well above the average.

A LIMBURGER CYCLONE (L-KO), Jan. 10.—An unusually good comic offering, sure to bring much laughter. It features Phil Dunham and Lucille Hutton. The restaurant scenes at the opening, picturing the jumping limburger cheese, the game of checkers played with wine glasses, and other features are good examples of this style of humor at its best. The wind storm at the close is one of the best things of the kind ever staged; in fact it may be a pioneer achievement of the sort. An excellent comic, free from offense.

WHEN DAMON FELL FOR PYTHIAS (Joker), Jan. 11.—A two-reel subject, featuring Wm. Franey, Gale Henry, Chas. Conklin and others. The performers appear in Roman costumes and do a number of laughable stunts in knockabout style. The emperor issues a counterblast against liquor and the "wets" try to kill him. Damon saves Pythias from the headsman's axe and the lives of both are spared. This is a sure laugh-producer of the type.

THE BAD MAN OF CHEYENNE (Bison), Jan. 13.—A pleasing two-reel Western subject, by Harry Carey, featuring the author, Priscilla Dean and Elizabeth Janes. The runaway is realistically staged and gives a real thrill. The work of the collie dog is another appealing feature. The story centers about another escapade of the outlaw, Cheyenne Harry. An excellent out-door subject.

TWENTY THOUSAND LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA (Universal), December—The film version of Jules Verne's famous novel is in eight reels and contains an unusual amount of novel and deeply interesting matter. The undersea scenes are often of great beauty. A review of the picture is published on another page of this issue.

World Pictures.

ON DANGEROUS GROUND (Peerless), Jan. 8.—The present war is used as a background for this five-reel photoplay in which Carlyle Blackwell and Gail Kane are the stars. It is romance of the conventional type but has an interesting story and is very well acted. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Pathe's "Kick In" Fine Play

Created Stage Sensation and Is Equally Strong on Screen.

IN ANNOUNCING the release of "Kick In" for January 14 Pathe brings to the attention of the exhibitor the name of a play which was a real sensation in New York City in the season of 1914 and 1915, which had a long run in Chicago and other large cities.

In London in 1915 critics and public welcomed it with open arms. It is rarely that Englishmen warm up to an American play, played by American actors, as they did to this. It enjoyed a phenomenally successful run, and despite the handicap of being filled with American slang, which the Englishman found it difficult to grasp, the play set its mark upon theatergoers to such an extent that this same slang became part of the Englishman's everyday language.

George Fitzmaurice of the Astra Company was entrusted with the production of this play in motion picture form. How well he has accomplished his task is shown by the fact that Pathe considers this one of their greatest pictures and this in light of the fact that Mr. Fitzmaurice produced "New York," "Via Wireless," "At Bay," "The Test," etc., is no small praise. In casting the production Mr. Fitzmaurice followed out his usual policy of selecting the best cast possible. William Courtenay plays the part of "Chick Hewes;" Mollie King plays "Molly." Other well known players in the cast are Richard Clugston, Suzanne Willa, John Boyle and Richard Tabor.

The action of the play is breathless and sensational. While it is of the type known as a "crook play," it has much human interest, arouses much sympathy for the reformed crook who tries to "go straight" and really preaches a lesson of forbearance and pity. An appreciative review is published in this issue.

Triangle Will Book Keystones

Sennett's Ad Brings Out an Explanation from K. & B.

BECAUSE of a mistaken impression created by an advertisement in the trade papers of last week concerning Keystone comedies, Charles Kessel, speaking for Kessel & Baumann, said: "Since the advertisement of last week concerning the new open booking policy for Keystone comedies has seemingly caused the belief that Keystone comedies would be released independently of the Triangle offices, I wish to state that there is no ground whatever for this impression. As heretofore, Keystone comedies may be had only through the Triangle exchanges and by arrangement with the Triangle Film Corporation or its associated organizations.

"The new releasing plan is created in deference to the demand for Keystone comedies on the part of exhibitors who may have contractual arrangements with other programmes. Under the new plan, as stated in the advertisement referred to, these comedies may be had quite independently of any programme arrangement that may exist or that may have existed. If an exhibitor wishes to arrange for Keystones it will be his privilege to do so, but the arrangements must be made through the Triangle exchanges, for our product will only reach the exhibitor through those channels. We believe that the new arrangement is a distinct step in advance and one that will work for the advantage of the exhibitor throughout the country. All inquiries for bookings for the Keystone comedies should be addressed to the Triangle branch offices."

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

"JERRY'S DOUBLE HEADER" (Cub).

The new series of Cub Comedies which David Horsley is to release through the Mutual Film Corporation under a new contract just signed is now ready for exhibitors. The first subject, "Jerry's Double Header," is scheduled for release January 4.

In this as in other pictures in the series George Ovey appears as Jerry, a character which he originated over a year ago and in which he has appeared in nearly seventy Cub Comedies released through the Mutual.

While Ovey retains his old character of Jerry, the new series is original in many ways. Milton H. Fahrney, who has written the scenarios and also directed the company, has brought out numerous new ideas both in theme and staging which are sure to make the pictures more interesting.

Scene from "Jerry's Double Header" (Cub).

In "Jerry's Double Header," Jerry finds himself hoplessly in love with a pretty girl but with her family set against him. When the family takes a spin through the country in their automobile, Jerry conveniently conceals himself in a trunk which is strapped to the back of the machine. The party comes in contact with a band of bandits, and this of course leads to complications, out of which Jerry, as the hero of the hour, rescues the excited family as well as the cherished object of his attentions and courageous undertakings—the girl.

In this picture George Ovey has the support of Claire Alexander, George George, M. J. McCarty, Helen Gilmore and the entire Cub comedy force.

WAGNER ELECTRIC MANUFACTURING CO'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

Various important changes in sales office personnel and locations, and in departmental heads are announced by the Wagner Electric Mfg. Company of St. Louis, incident to its extensive expansion. They include the following:

The Chicago office will remove to 918 South Michigan avenue, where it will combine with the service station.

The Boston office will remove to 88 Brookline avenue, where it will combine with the service station.

The San Francisco office will remove to 159 New Montgomery street, where it will combine with the service station.

P. B. Postelthwaite, formerly manager of the Cincinnati office, is now in charge of the service department with headquarters at the home office. J. W. Bryant, formerly in charge of the Buffalo and Syracuse offices, is now Cincinnati manager.

C. P. MacGonigal, of the Philadelphia office, will be in charge of the Syracuse and Buffalo offices.

The Los Angeles office will be augmented by the services of H. W. Doubrava for many years with the New York office.

The St. Louis service station is now under the direction of C. M. McCord who was with the home office.

The sales force of the home office has been augmented by Messrs. E. V. Potter, E. Holstrum and O. J. Miller.

"THE PRICE OF SILENCE" (Fox).

A stirring plea for the little slaves of the factory, is the theme of "The Price of Silence," William Fox's newest photo-drama with William Farnum playing the leading role, and directed by Frank Lloyd. Supporting Mr. Farnum in this wonderful production, aptly called "The Uncle Tom's Cabin" of today, are Vivian Rich, Charles Clary, Frank Clark, Brooklyn Kellar, Ray Hanford and Gordon Griffith.

"The Price of Silence" is a wonderful story of love and renunciation, woven into a theme of great public interest—"child slavery." What "Uncle Tom's Cabin" did for the negro slaves, William Fox's "The Price of Silence," will do for the underfed, ill-nourished, hard-working little factory slaves. The picture is released for January 8, 1917. The story revolves around Senator Deering (William Farnum), who has devoted his life to alleviate the misery caused by child labor.

BOOSTERS OUT FOR "THE GREAT SECRET."

Louis B. Mayer and Harry J. Cohen have just left the home offices of the Metro Pictures Corporation, No. 1476 Broadway, and have started on a Western tour to handle the tremendous demands from exhibitors for the new Metro-Quality serial, "The Great Secret," in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are co-stars.

Mr. Mayer, who is the sole distributor in New England for Metro pictures, and is known as "the king of the New England exchange men," will make his headquarters at the Metro offices in Chicago. He will attend to the serial business in the Middle Western States.

Both Mr. Cohen and Mr. Mayer took with them the first five chapters of the fifteen-chapter screen story. Mr. Mayer will give special showings for exhibitors in Chicago, Detroit and other cities. It probably will take several weeks for him to wind up the Middle Western business. Mr. Cohen will make his headquarters at No. 55 Jones street, San Francisco.

"STARRING IN WESTERN STUFF" (Selig).

"Starring in Western Stuff" is a realistic Selig feature play, released on General Film Company's regular service on Monday, January 8. In the course of this play, many intimate scenes concerning the production of motion pictures are presented. These "behind the scenes" pictures are invariably entertaining to movie fans. Tom Mix presents a number of thrilling performances, including some fast riding.

"Starring in Western Stuff" concerns a motion picture company which goes west to produce a film play. The drama being produced is mistaken by Tom Sage, a cowpuncher, as the real thing. He rescues the leading lady. This action leads to a number of unusual climaxes, the final climax being the manner in which the cowpuncher wins the heart and hand of the movie star. Beautiful western scenery is shown during the course of the play.

Scene from "Starring in Western Stuff" (Selig).

Selznick Pictures for January

Three Subjects Have Been Completed and are About to be Released.

THE first month of the new year will see the completion of three new Selznick-Pictures each of which should prove a gold mine to the exhibitor.

To begin with there is the first of the Norma Talmadge Film Corporation productions, an adaptation of the drama "Panthea" by Monckton Hoffe, which was originally played on the stage in this country by Mme. Olga Petrova. This picture was produced under the direction of Allan Dwan. "Panthea" will be given its pre-release showings in New York next week and be released immediately after for the entire country.

Scene from "Panthea" (Selznick).

Following "Panthea" will come the first of the new Robert Warwick features presenting this immensely popular star in a film version of one of the most famous detective dramas ever staged, "The Argyle Case". This play was the joint work of the two dramatists, Harvey J. O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, who, for the sake of fidelity to details called in as a third collaborator the famous detective, William J. Burns, to supervise the use of modern scientific instruments of detection such as the dictograph and the finger-print process.

"The Argyle Case" was finished this week under the direction of Ralph W. Ince who has made use of every opportunity for mysterious effects and startling lighting and scenic devices that such a story offers. Woven into the thread of the story is a delightful love interest in which Mr. Warwick is fortunate in having so charming and accomplished an actress as Miss Elaine Hammerstein for a leading woman.

The third Selznick-Picture that is expected to be released by the end of the month is Herbert Brenon's second production under the Selznick banner, "The Eternal Sin", a luxurious spectacle starring the accomplished American actress Florence Reed.

In February and March the exhibitors will be able to play two new Clara Kimball Young pictures, each of which should have a tremendous box-office value. The first of these will be "The Price She Paid", an adaptation of David Graham Phillips' novel of the same name produced under the direction of Charles Giblyn.

Following "The Price She Paid" Miss Young will appear in "The Easiest Way", Eugene Walter's famous Belasco drama. Albert Capellani will produce "The Easiest Way".

Miss Norma Talmadge, who has been spending a month's vacation in Los Angeles on a wedding tour with her husband, Joseph M. Schenck, general manager of the Marcus Loew offices, will return to New York this week to begin work on her second Selznick-Picture. The choice of subject has narrowed down to two widely known stories and will be definitely decided before Mr. and Mrs. Schenck reach the East. Harry Rapf, president of the Robert Warwick Film Corporation, is also contemplating a number of the best known novels of recent years by way of choosing a subject for his star's second production.

LIVING PICTURES IN BESSIE LOVE VEHICLE.

An artists' studio set, in which gay devotees of the Bohemian life revel at a champagne party and pretty girls pose as living models to furnish entertainment for their friends, is a colorful feature of the new Triangle-Fine Arts production, "Nina, the Flower Girl," in which Bessie Love is starred.

The set has been declared by all who have seen it one of the most picturesque ever constructed at the Triangle-Fine Arts studio. A six-piece orchestra furnished music for the players during the filming of the scenes, and numerous bottles of genuine champagne were used by the performers. Director Lloyd Ingraham insisted upon the genuine sparkling juice, deeming that no satisfactory substitute could be served before the camera.

The scene portrays the atmosphere in which Nina, the blind flower girl, and Jimmie, a crippled newsboy, played by Elmer Clifton, found the good angel who brought them the best things of life.

Fifi, the moving spirit of the Bohemian crowd, befriends the waifs and shows them the road to the land where fairies dwell and miracles happen. The part of Fifi is played by Adele Clifton.

The story was written by Mary H. O'Connor, chief of the Triangle-Fine Arts scenario department. Miss O'Connor said the plot was suggested to her by an instance she witnessed in the tenement district of New York City while she was a reporter on one of the metropolitan newspapers. She had friends in a colony of artists who adopted a blind girl and succeeded in having her sight restored after financing an operation by a world famous specialist.

"THE LIBERTINE" READY FOR NEW ENGLAND STATES.

F. E. Backer, president of the Mammoth Film Corporation, of 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City, has acquired the rights to the most highly artistic photoplay of recent production, "The Libertine," and is ready to release same throughout the New England cities, beginning with such central points as Boston and Providence, where it will be shown for a run.

L. Lawrence Baren, formerly with several film corporations, has been especially engaged to tour the New England cities in the interests of the Mammoth Film Corporation and to book theaters for this photodrama.

Foster Moore, formerly with George Kleine, has been engaged by Mr. Backer to handle this film throughout the State of New York and Northern New Jersey. "The Libertine" will be exhibited at the Goodwin theater, Newark, N. J., commencing Sunday, December 31, for a period of a week, and at the Family theater, Buffalo, N. Y., commencing January 7, for a period of two weeks.

SANGER SOON TO MAKE ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Eugene B. Sanger, the president of the Sanger Picture Plays Corporation, said recently that the definite announcements of his plans for the season will be issued in a very short time now. Mr. Sanger tells us that already he has enrolled under his banner six of our best known stars, their names to be withheld for the present. He also spoke of several scenarios, completed, not the mere synopses, and too, of contracts with writers whose names and stories are internationally familiar.

Associated with Mr. Sanger in the executive offices of the Sanger Picture Plays Corporation, a spacious suite at 1544 Aeolian Hall, are Brown Rolston, the vice-president, and Frederic Leake, the secretary and treasurer. The Sanger studio at 134th street and Park avenue is the most completely equipped in the city.

AMONG THOSE PRESENT (Essanay).

This is a Black Cat feature, screen time thirty minutes. The plot hinges on a mysterious series of jewel robberies and introduces a novel type of society burglar. The drama opens with rapid action, which is sustained to the last. Women photoplay patrons will be immensely interested in the semi-style show offered in several ball room scenes where a bevy of beautiful girls appear in the season's latest created gowns. Richard C. Travers is the star, with Gertrude Glover playing in the leading feminine role. The photoplay is excellent. "Among Those Present" will be released January 9.

Scene from "Among Those Present" (Essanay).

A Big Metro Feature

"Egypt the Gypsy," Based on Edward Sheldon's Play, "Egypt," Will Feature Miss Barrymore.

METRO Pictures Corporation begins its New Year with an important announcement of an expansion of its policies. Richard A. Rowland, president of the organization, called a conference of its officials a few days ago, at which time it was decided that in addition to the features already announced for regular release on the Metro program, a number of special releases would be made throughout the year.

Ethel Barrymore and John W. Noble Discussing a Forthcoming Metro-Rolfe Production.

The first of these already has been decided upon, and the work of actual production began the day after Christmas. This will be a seven-reel feature production starring Ethel Barrymore, who recently announced her intention to appear hereafter only in Metro wonderplays, and the special release chosen as Miss Barrymore's next vehicle will be a picturization of "Egypt," a drama by the celebrated playwright, Edward Sheldon, which was produced on the speaking stage by Margaret Anglin.

John W. Noble will direct the first great special release of the Edward Sheldon play, the screen version of which will be called "Egypt the Gypsy." Miss Barrymore, Mr. Noble and the entire company producing "Egypt the Gypsy" will go South to take the exterior scenes of the play. David Thompson, of the Rolfe studios, will leave next week for Florida, to select locations for the production, the company to wait only for Mr. Thompson's report before starting South. June Mathis is adapting the Sheldon play for the screen.

Mr. Noble is at present engaged in choosing the remainder of his cast for "Egypt the Gypsy," having already, in consultation with Maxwell Karger, general manager of the Rolfe and Columbia studios, settled upon Robert Whittier, William B. Davidson and Frank Montgomery as Miss Barrymore's leading support in the special release.

"THE PROMISE," WITH LOCKWOOD AND ALLISON.

"The Promise," the new Metro-Yorke production starring Harold Lockwood and May Allison, deals with a theme of great interest, making an appeal to every man and woman who visits a motion picture theater. It preaches the fact that a man can rise again, no matter to what depths he has fallen, and points out the means by which he can be rescued for the good of himself and the world at large. In "The Promise," "Broadway Bill" Carmody is devoting his worthless life to the gaities of "The Great White Way." He drinks too much, he is a physical and moral weakling, but he loves a girl, and he makes her a promise. That promise is fulfilled.

"The Promise" is a picturization of the novel of the same name by James B. Hendryx, adapted for the screen by Richard V. Spencer, by arrangement with Harper & Bros. Fred J. Balshofer, president of the Yorke Film Corporation, has engaged Oscar Apfel to direct future Lockwood and Allison productions.

CUB COMEDIES AGAIN WITH MUTUAL.

Cub Comedies will again be distributed through the Mutual Film Corporation. This information comes from David Horsley, producer of this brand, who is now in the East on matters of business concerning his productions, to John Jasper, manager of his Los Angeles Studios.

Thursday is to be the release date for the Cubs. The first subject will be released January 4. It is entitled, "Jerry's Double Header," and features George Ovey, who has made a name for himself in Mr. Horsley's brand of comedies.

Essanay's January Releases

Strong List of Interesting Subjects Opens the First of the New Year.

ESSANAY'S January program of short subjects include five of the strongest stories published in the Black Cat magazine, five split-reel comedies with scenic and four more of the popular "Is Marriage Sacred?" series.

The January 2, or first Tuesday release, is "The Girl God Made For Jones." This will mark Bryant Washburn's first appearance in a short production for some time. "A Dollar Down" on the following day is a 500-foot Billy Mason comedy with Alaska and the Yukon scenic. On Saturday, January 6, "When the Man Speaks" is the offering for the "Is Marriage Sacred?" series. Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold, Lillian Drew, Sydney Ainsworth and Thomas Commerford form the special stock company for these productions.

All Black Cat features on Tuesday and the "Is Marriage Sacred?" releases on Saturday are designed for a screen time varying from 28 to 30 minutes.

"Among Those Present" is the Black Cat for January 9 with Richard C. Travers and Gertrude Glover. Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 22 follows on January 10. On January 13 "The Wide Wrong Way" forms another of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" series.

"The Little Missionary," starting the next week, on January 16, is another subject for little Mary V. McAlister, the seven-year-old child star. "One on Him" is the January 17 offering, a split-reel Billy Mason comedy with Yosemite Valley scenic. "The Sinful Marriage" is the Saturday, January 20, offering of "Is Marriage Sacred?"

"Three Ways Out" starts off the week on Tuesday, January 23. This is a 27-minute Black Cat feature. Wallace A. Carlson's Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 23, with more beautiful Alaska and the Yukon scenic, follows on January 24. "The Magic Mirror" is the "Is Marriage Sacred?" offering for January 27.

NEW SIGNAL DEVICE FOR REFILLING SEATS.

The Schram-Wiederhold Silent Usher Company, of 1-2 Campau Building, Detroit, Mich., is advertising the Silent Usher, a flashlamp especially designed for theater use. By means of an indicator an usher placed at the bottom of the aisle may signal to his chief at the opposite end the number of empty seats available, whether it be one or four. The end of the cylinder is covered, but may be converted into an ordinary flashlamp by removing the cap. By means of the device the manufacturers say it is possible to avoid all noise and confusion in filling vacant seats while the play is on.

"THE DEVIL'S PAY DAY" (BLUEBIRD).

The Bluebird for January 29 was made from Fred Mynton's scenario of George Hivley's story, "The Toll of Vengeance." William Worthington directed. The work deals with the divorce problem and employs an interesting and well sustained plot.

Franklyn Farnum will be the star of the piece, with Leah Baird his leading woman. This will be Miss Baird's first appearance among Bluebirds. Charles Perley, Gertrude Aster, Countess Du Cello and Seymour Hastings will be the other principals.

Scene from "The Devil's Pay Day" (Bluebird).

There will be a sensational murder scene with an attendant trial. But the principal purpose of the piece will be to tell a gripping story, rather than to depend upon sensations of unusual episodes for the appeal. Bluebird has lately turned to good stories well told, rather than building upon exciting insidents, and "The Devil's Pay Day" promises to sustain the series with this usual interest.

Mutual Features "Butterfly Girl"

Heads the List of Releases on Program for Week of January 8.

"THE BUTTERFLY GIRL," the third of the Margarita Fischer series of Mutual Star Productions produced at the California studios of the Pollard Picture Plays Company, will be released by the Mutual Film Corporation the week of January 8, 1917. In this production, which was directed by Henry Otto, Miss Fischer appears as a ragged little urchin, who is set adrift on the amusement streets of a fair. Here she wins the hearts of all she comes in contact with, from the ballyhoers and side show freaks to the interested promenaders, as she will undoubtedly win the hearts of her audience.

Miss Fischer is a most appealing "Butterfly Girl" in this role, which is an entirely new one for her. As the little girl, wandering up and down the amusement streets, with a fondness for bright lights and the ever busy thoroughfares, with her luminous eyes searching every face for a sign of recognition or a greeting, she lends to the role a charm which could not be equalled.

"The Butterfly Girl" has some very good scenes taken on the "Isthmus" of the Panama-California International Exposition at San Diego, Cal. The Exposition furnished just the proper environment for the story of the production.

Some of the features which lend interesting color to the new Fischer production are John Steppling, cast as "Heinie, the Weinie Man," Jack Mower as the Hawaiian entertainer, who sings the popular Hawaiian love song, "Aloha-Oe," to Miss Fischer, Baby Mario Kiernan, one of the sweetest and most capable of the child stars, as the baby sister of the Butterfly Girl, Della Pringle as one of the star attractions of the fair, and numerous other screen notables, who appear as entertainers, side show freaks, ballyhooers and promenaders.

The climax of "The Butterfly Girl" is enacted at the Hawaiian Village at the San Diego Exposition. In this scene Miss Fischer, with Baby Marie in her arms, climbs to the summit of the volcano, which is a replica of the world-famous "Kileaua," and jumps in.

"When Hands Are Idle," a two-reel drama with a strong cast, will be released on Monday, January 8. "Tours Around the World," from Gaumont, picturing beautiful and interesting scenes in the Pyrenees Mountains, along the Egyptian rivers and in Budapest, capital of Hungary, will be released on January 9.

"Mutual Weekly" No. 105, issued by the Gaumont Company and screening the world's latest and most important happenings, is scheduled for release on Wednesday, January 9, together with "See America First," which takes you through the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, and is on the same reel with "Kartoon Komics" by Harry Palmer.

On Thursday, January 10, George Ovey will appear in the second of the Cub Comedies to be released on the new contract, recently signed with David Horsley. This is one of the regular Ovey comedies, in which George turns many new stunts.

"Our Boys at the Border," the second of the "Uncle Sam's Preparedness" series, is scheduled for release Friday, January 11. This reel pictures the activities of the soldiers on the Mexican border during the past year. It contains many scenes of interest and gives you a very good idea of the every day routine the soldiers had to go through.

On Saturday, January 12, George Derr will appear in a one-reel Star Comedy entitled "The Honeymooners." As may be gleaned from the title, this production gives Derr a great chance to play up good comedy.

A two-reel Vogue comedy, featuring Rube Miller and the mirth provoking Vogue company, will be shown in a two-reel comedy, together with the magazine reel "Reel Life," on Sunday, January 13.

WILLIAM J. GILMORE AGAIN IN NEW YORK.

No doubt all the Exhibitors will be pleased to learn that William J. Gilmore, formerly branch manager of the General Film Company's 23d Street branch, and recently of the Mutt & Jeff Animated Cartoon Exchange of Philadelphia, is again located in New York City, opening offices as 709-10 Godfrey Bldg., 729 Seventh Ave., New York City, and has affiliated himself with the Brook Feature Film Corp. & Laboratories, a new company recently organized by his brother, Harry A. Gilmore and Wm. A. Kane, for the purpose of manufacturing animated cartoons, trailors and sketches, trick titles, developing and printing of all motion pictures. The laboratories of the Brook are considered the most modern in the city.

ADVANCE SHOWING OF NEW PICKFORD FILM AT STRAND.

Through the courtesy of the Strand theater management, New York, the Artcraft Pictures Corporation will give a trade showing of the new Mary Pickford production, "The Pride of the Clan," at that theater next Tuesday morning, January 2, at 10 o'clock.

The special music score for "The Pride of the Clan," prepared by William Stickles of George W. Beynon, Inc., will also be rendered for the first time at this showing by the Standard orchestra. It is expected that Mary Pickford, Maurice Tourneur, the producer, and various members of the cast will be present.

Activities of L-Ko

Has a Large Line of Releases for the New Year—Coast Studio Busy.

LAUGH and the world laughs with you" is the tried and true slogan of the L-Ko Komedy Kompany in starting the New Year right. They are releasing on January 3 "On the Trail of a Lonesome Pill," with Phil Dunham in the lead, supported by Lucille Hutton and Vim Moore. This is a picture which combines the far famed L-Ko comedy work, with artistic touches, something entirely different and bound to be appreciated by any audience.

This release is followed by another two-reeler with Phil Dunham leading, ably assisted by Lucille Hutton, Myrtle Sterling and Charles Inslee. From the title, "A Limburger Cyclone," one can easily guess the kind of a laugh provoker this comedy is. There is action from start to finish, sensational thrills, mingling with funny situations.

Other releases on the January programme are "Heartsick at Sea," with Dan Russell playing the lead with Katherine Griffith and William Irving in the cast, a very novel picture depicting scenes aboard a ship and showing "Popular Dan" off to great advantage.

"Shot In the Excitement," another popular "Dan Russell picture" with an excellent cast consisting of Dan Russell in the lead, ably supported by Marjorie Ray, Vim Moore, William Irving and E. Leserani, is a scream. The scenes are laid on the Mexican border, and one can well imagine the opportunities available for funny stunts, and Craig Hutchinson, the able director, sure knows how to get the best there is out of the rich material at his disposal.

In "Faking the Fakirs," Phil Dunham leading, supported by Lucille Hutton, Myrtle Sterling and Vim Moore, a number of novelty comedy situations are introduced, and as one of the newspapermen who saw an advance showing of this picture said, "There are two laughs to every foot."

The L-Ko studios at the Coast are brimful of activity. J. G. Blystone, who is personally directing Miss Alice Howell (by the way, look for some sensational announcements regarding this lady), is also supervising all other comedy companies working under the directions of Craig Hutchinson, J. Howe, R. Smith and Sammy Burns.

In addition to the thousands of feet of "funny stuff" being filmed on the Lot every week, the Ford-Cunard Company is busy putting the finishing touches on the final episodes of "The Purple Mask," a serial picture in which these two famous stars fairly excel themselves. Abe Stern and Louis Jacobs are working day and night handling the executive and business affairs of the coast studios in great shape, while Julius Stern, the president of the kompany, is making his headquarters in New York, thereby firmly establishing a close co-operation beneficial to the interests of the kompany.

BROOKS FEATURE FILM ENLARGES.

The Brook Feature Film Corporation was organized one year ago by Harry A. Gilmore, of the All Star Film Rental Company and William A. Kane, son of the late contractor, M. J. Kane. Its aim at that time was to operate the largest independent feature film exchange in New York. They employed Jacob Cohen, a well known man in the industry, to represent them. Under the direction of these three the corporation grew to be a large independent exchange, and after attaining this distinction, they looked further into the industry and saw great possibilities in a laboratory in the heart of the city for quick work, so they moved to the Godfrey Building, 729 Seventh avenue, in order to have the proper space.

There has been installed an art department for making animated cartoons, trailers and trick titles. In this department are two cameramen and two cartoonists.

Beginning January 1 a new department will be opened which will be known as the Brook Library. This is something entirely new to the film industry and will be devoted to exhibitors alone. Its purpose is to furnish trailers to advertise their next day's feature.

William J. Gilmore, formerly manager of the General Film Company's Twenty-third street branch, has been secured to represent the Brook Library as manager.

"LITTLE SHOES" RELEASED JAN. 15.

"Little Shoes," Henry B. Walthall's next Essanay feature, will be released January 15. Mr. Walthall follows himself on the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay program, his superfeature, "The Truant Soul," being the last big production of Essanay.

This photoplay presents Mr. Walthall in an entirely new type—one he has never before developed so delightfully on the screen. "Little Shoes" is a drama of the heart, and the noted actor has thrown all of his wonderful emotional talent into a direct appeal of love.

Mary Charleson, who made such a spectacular success as Mr. Walthall's leading woman in his current superfeature, "The Truant Soul," portrays the leading feminine role in this visualization.

The story was written by Eleanor M. Ingram, the world famed novelist. The adaptation to the screen has lost none of its heart-touching pathos.

"Quality," Says Universal

It Is the Keynote for the Program of the Week of January 18.

QUALITY marks the releases of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company for the week of January 8, 1917. From the five act feature to the single reels every release has been selected primarily with the idea of giving the exhibitor a subject in which quality is the dominating factor. The dramas and comedies are diverse in theme and are rare examples in high class film production.

The leading release is the five act Red Feather feature production, "Fighting For Love," which makes its appearance on Monday, January 8. This is a charming romance with Ruth Stonehouse and Jack Mulhall in the leading roles. The story is by Raymond Wells, who directed the production. The scenario is by Fred Myton. In the cast are such well known screen players as Jean Hersholt, Noble Johnson, J. F. Briscoe and Ruby Marshall.

Under the Nestor brand, the one act comedy "One Thousand Miles An Hour," featuring Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edith Roberts, will appear on the same day. This is a novel film comedy written by Bess Meredyth and produced by L. W. Chaudet.

During the week the third episode of "The Purple Mask," entitled "The Capture," leads those popular serial stars Grace Cunard and Francis Ford through a number of thrilling escapades that will prove exciting to the most hardened picture fan.

On Tuesday, January 9, the Gold Seal three act drama, "The Mystery of My Lady's Boudoir," featuring Violet Mersereau, will be released. This is one of the strongest features ever offered on the Universal program and affords the dainty little star rare opportunities to display her remarkable talents for emotional acting. The story is by Harry Ditmar and the production was made under the direction of Francis Grandon. Carter De Haven will be seen in the one act comedy "A Gentleman of Nerve," on the same date.

The chief offering on Wednesday, January 10, is the two part L-KO comedy, "A Limburger Cyclone," with Phil Dunham creating most of the laughs. This latest L-KO is a scream from the first title to the end and will cure the worst case of blues on record. "The Face Downstairs," a one act drama under the Laemmle brand, featuring Lois Weber and Val Paul and the regular issue of the Universal Animated Weekly with the newest pictorial events will also appear on Wednesday.

An exceptional film comedy, "When Damon Fell For Pythias," with Gale Henry and William Franey as chief funmakers, is announced for Thursday, January 11. This picture has convulsed audiences at the Rialto theater, where it was pronounced one of the funniest films ever shown at that house. The Big U Western drama, "Shattered Ideals," is scheduled for release on the same day.

Three powerful photodramas are offered Friday, January 12. The Imp one act drama "Honorably Discharged," with L. C. Shumway, written by L. Bliss, scenarioized by G. B. Anderson and produced by F. A. Kelsey, is an unusual photoplay full of tense scenes. Under the Rex brand will appear "The Whispered Name," in two acts featuring Lois Wilson and Lee Hill. The Victor release is "The Wrong Mary Wright," with M. K. Wilson and Edith Roberts.

The feature release for Saturday, January 13, is the two act Bison drama "The Bad Man of Cheyenne," with Harry Carey and Priscilla Dean in the principal roles. The Joker comedy, "Mines and Matrimony," with Gale Henry and William Franey and the Imp drama, "John Bates' Secret," appear on the same day. Pauline Bush and Murdock MacQuarrie are the featured players.

"Midnight," an Imp drama which is replete with real dramatic situations and in which Allen Holubar and Zoe Rae, the child actress, have the leading roles will be released Sunday, January 14. The Big U two act mining drama, "The Call For Help," with Marie Walcamp and the Powers split reel, Mr. Fuller Pep and Wonders of the Orient as seen by Dr. Dorsey round out the program.

AMERICAN'S "THE GILDED YOUTH" FINISHED.

Richard Bennett, noted screen and stage actor, has completed his engagement with the American Film Company at Santa Barbara with the production of "The Gilden Youth," latest of the series of Bennett features offered through Mutual exchanges. "The Gilded Youth" has been finished and soon will be released. The photoplay is a five-reel feature combining comedy and drama, and Bennett's versatility is shown by his skillful handling of each. The story hinges upon the marvelous transformation effected by a sable overcoat on a young man of shiftless habits and business instability.

"INTOLERANCE" ON LAST WEEK IN NEW YORK.

The number of organizations presenting D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance" was increased last week by openings in Philadelphia, at the Chestnut Street Opera House; in Pittsburgh at the Pitt Theater, and in Montreal at His Majesty's Theater. The first night houses in all three cities were distinguished by the number of local notables and society people present. Next week will be the final one of the big spectacle's long and successful run at the Liberty Theater, New York.

BRIEF STORIES OF TRIANGLE JANUARY 21 RELEASES.

Bessie Love and William Desmond are the stars of the Triangle feature releases for January 21. Bessie Love appears in an appealing human interest story of life in the big city, entitled "Nina, the Flower Girl," produced by the Fine Arts Company. William Desmond has a distinct novelty in the Kay Bee mystery play, "The Iced Bullet," from the pen of C. Gardner Sullivan and directed by Reginald Barker.

As "Nina, the Flower Girl," is written by Mary H. O'Connor and directed by Lloyd Ingraham, Bessie Love has a part in which she appears to unusual advantage. An appealing little love story is worked out between Nina and Jimmie, a crippled newsboy, who creates an atmosphere of ideal unreality for Nina by his stories, in which he appears to her imagination as a Prince Charming. When kind friends take an interest in Nina and prepare her for an operation which will restore her eyesight, Jimmie, who cannot bear the thought that his own deformity will be disclosed to her, tries to commit suicide. He is rescued, however, and in the end he himself is cured of his physical infirmity, so that both of the waifs are able to look forward to a lifetime of love and happiness.

Scene from "Nina the Flower Girl" (Triangle).

"The Iced Bullet," in which William Desmond is starred, is a serio-comic unweaving of a unique dramatic fabric, in which an actor's ambitions mingle with a murder mystery. The play narrates the adventures of one T. Chittingham Gall-Worth, a young man who describes himself as an "actor-author-artist," in the mazes of "movieland." Gall-Worth forces his way into the Kay Bee studios at Culver City, bent on selling "the screen masterpiece of the century" and enacting the leading role thereof. How he fares in his strenuous quest for fame proves to be both surprising and thrilling in the extreme. Desmond's acting is in thorough keeping with the lively and whimsical character of the play.

"A MODERN CINDERELLA" (Fox).

Bewitching little June Caprice is more charming than ever in the "neglected sister" role which she plays in "A Modern Cinderelle," a new and refreshing photoplay which William Fox announces for release on January 8, 1917. The radiant Fox star whose smile is known in every home acts her latest part with a delightful naturalness, and is ably supported by Frank Morgan.

"A Modern Cinderella," incidentally, is Mr. Morgan's first Fox film. The former Vitagraph luminary does splendidly, too, in his premiere photoplay under the William Fox banner. The rest of the cast is made up of Betty Prendergast, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Grace Stevens and Tom Brooke.

John G. Adolfi, who completes his first year with Fox Film Corporation's productions, directed the picture. It was for this screen play that the Caprice company was sent to Florida on new scenic locations.

"CIVILIZATION" IN THE SOUTH.

The remaining piece of territory which has not been invaded by the Thomas H. Ince spectacle, "Civilization," is the South. The film is making its way all over the rest of the world, but it has been reserved for the Southern States of the U. S. A. to be the last to grasp the opportunity. They are the last to succumb to the lure of the masterpiece.

E. R. Champion, who is in charge of the spectacle for the South, has gone to Florida, in which State the picture will have its first showing. St. Augustine, Miami, Jacksonville, Ormond and Daytona are among some of the cities that will show the picture forthwith.

Mr. Champion is well known in the commercial world, and will probably make a great record for himself with "Civilization" in the Southern States.

Thanhouser in Retrospection

Head of Thanhouser Film Corporation Also Talks About 1917 Product.

IN LOOKING back over the reception given Thanhouser-Pathe Gold Rooster plays during 1916, Edwin Thanhouser, president of the Thanhouser Film Corporation, announces that his policy of five-reel features with top-notch stars in expertly developed stories adequately directed and staged, has been fully justified by results.

"I am glad to say that the Thanhouser-Pathe policy has been more than upheld," said Mr. Thanhouser. "The public has given its vote for the best kind of pictures, and apart from any financial return to the Thanhouser Film Corporation, this is a matter of great personal satisfaction to me. Everyone wishes to give the best that's in them in any company—star, director, writer and producer. Often ideals are forsaken when it seems profitable to turn out helter-skelter, ragged work. Here we are keyed up to produce pictures as nearly perfect as possible, no matter the expense.

"We have established the Thanhouser standard before an approving public with our Gold Rooster plays starring in the past year Florence La Badie, Frederick Warde, Gladys Hulette, Valkyrien and Jeanne Eagels. We turned out such productions as 'The Fugitive,' 'The Fear of Poverty,' 'Saint, Devil and Woman,' 'The Pillory' and 'Divorce and the Daughter,' starring Florence La Badie. With Miss Hulette we had 'The Shine Girl' and 'Prudence, the Pirate.' Valkyrien (Baroness Dewitz) was in 'Hidden Valley,' Miss Eagels 'The World and the Woman,' and we closed up the year with our big production of 'King Lear,' with one of the greatest of all King Lears, Mr. Frederick Warde.

"Miss Hulette's releases for the first six months of 1917 will include '"Her"" New York,' which Pathe releases January 7. 'Peggy o' the Pots and Pans,' now in preparation, and some other stories not yet named. Valkyrien appears in 'The Image Maker,' issued by Pathe January 21, a drama of reincarnation involving parallel romances, one in modern times and the other dating back 3,000 years.

"Vincent Serrano in 'A Modern Monte Cristo' is our rousing first February release.

"Miss La Badie in 'The Girl Who Wanted to Live' comes next, followed by our masterpiece classic, 'The Vicar of Wakefield,' with Mr. Frederick Warde as the vicar. This picture should prove to be one of the most talked of artistic productions in the history of the motion picture industry or my judgment is all wrong.

"Thanhouser will offer Doris Grey and Wayne Arey in 'Her Beloved Enemy,' a well rounded production, in March, and another celebrated star, Charlotte Walker, in 'Mary Lawson's Secret' in April."

"BELOVED ROGUES" (Mutual.)

C. William Kolb and Max Dill have completed the last of their series of Mutual Star Productions at the studios of the American Film Corporation at Santa Barbara. The title of this piece of screen drama is "Beloved Rogues," an adaptation from a story by Aaron Hoffman made by Al Santell, the American scenario writer, who also directed the pair in this production. It will be released January 15.

"Beloved Rogues" is full of the typical sort of Kolb and Dill humor, coupled with an ample supply of vicarious romance—since the two old schemers are inveterate match makers. Advance reports from the studio predict even greater success for this last Kolb and Dill production than for "A Million For Mary," "The Three Pals," "Peck O'Pickles," "Bluff" and "Lonesome Town."

Several members of the same strong cast who have been seen in the earlier productions are seen again in "Beloved Rogues." May Cloy will appear as the ingenue and Tom Chatterton as the hero. In other roles Harry von Meter and Clarence Burton will be seen.

Over one hundred extras take part in this pretentious production, not the least interesting of whom were George Periolat, Franklin Ritchie and Ashton Dearholt, who took part in the last "mob" scenes of the picture just for fun.

"THE MAN WHO FORGOT," LATEST WORLD FILM.

"The Man Who Forgot," the newest of World pictures Brady-made, carries an unusual story with a psychological background and a large number of novel and striking complications. The play, directed by Emile Chautard, had its origin in a novel by James Hay, Jr., occupying a position well up among the "best sellers" of its time.

The man who holds the centre of interest in this story is called John Smith because he cannot recall any other name or anything of his past beyond the moment when he stumbled into a mission house in Cincinnati a distressing wreck from drink and opium.

Those who have the mission in charge are struck by the strange creature's desire to cast off the spell that has darkened his life and they help him in his desperately waged struggle to make himself over. In these efforts to conquer the appetite for drink the man grows to regard it as a monster responsible for most human ills, and devotes all his reawakening faculties to the cause of Prohibition.

Kalems for Week of Jan. 8

Offerings for Second Week of New Year Include Good Serial Numbers and a Ham.

WITH its full cast of funmakers actively participating, the second Ham Comedy of 1917 is off to a running start. It is titled "Rival Romeos" and of course Ham and Bud are the rivals. Ethel Teare, petite comedienne, is the girl, and Henry Murdoch is the slick matrimonial agent. Comedy business of an unusual sort marks the return of Ham and Ethel Teare to these popular releases. Released January 9 on the General Film program.

Readers of the Saturday Evening Post will recall Charles Van Loan's articles about the lost mining towns of the West. In "The Resurrection of Gold Bar," the latest episode of "The Girl From 'Frisco," one of these deserted mining towns furnishes the locale for most of the action of the two reels. Marin Sais, True Boardman, Ronald Bradbury, Frank Jonasson and Edward Clisbee comprise the cast, which is exceptionally well chosen for the purposes of this story by Robert Welles Ritchie. Released January 10th.

"The Trail of Graft," the episode of "Grant, Police Reporter," which is released January 12th, is enlivened with some original thrills by George Larkin, the supreme artist of daring stunts. In this episode he shares the suspense with Ollie Kirkby who exhibits considerable nerve for one whose parts rarely call for anything more dangerous than horseback riding. "The Trail of Graft" is away above the ordinary in that it has all the elements of a powerful drama plus Larkin's thrills.

On the general program for the second Saturday of the New Year is another one of "The Hazards of Helen," with Helen Gibson heading the cast. Helen's particular stunt for this week is the overtaking of a runaway engine and a chance leap for a rope that is dangling out of the engineer's window. It happens close up to the camera, too, and it is plainly evident that Helen is thrown violently against the side of the cab before she can gain a foothold and clamber up inside. The title of this "Hazard" is "The Fireman's Nemesis."

This comprises the five reels that the Kalem Company will release through the General Film Company the second week in January. An unusually high grade assortment of lithographs for these releases is available.

KLEINE-EDISON "THE MASTER PASSION."

Fascinating Mabel Trunnelle, the dark-eyed favorite featured in so many successful Edison photodramas, is co-starred with Robert Conness in the latest Kleine-Edison marvel play, "The Master Passion," coming through the K-E-S-E January 8. "The Master Passion," according to advance reports, tells a gripping story of a beautiful woman's rise and fall. Goaded by ambition, the heroine, played by Miss Trunnelle, leaves her husband and little child to seek fame as an opera singer. Later, with the world at her feet, she learns that her daughter, since grown to fair young womanhood, is to become the bride of a dissolute nobleman with whom she herself has had an intrigue.

Then comes a succession of highly dramatic scenes, in which the diva, having been reconciled with her husband through the mediation of their child, is forced to bare the secrets of her life in order to prevent the marriage with the nobleman from taking place. Infuriated, the husband departs, taking their daughter with him. But through sacrifice the woman's debt has been paid in full; a second reconciliation takes place, and love leads her once more to the family hearthstone, there to find everlasting peace of soul.

The role of Julia Long offers Miss Trunnelle one of the most congenial parts she has ever had to play. As the banker husband, Robert Conness, is also splendidly cast. The supporting company is made up of a number of favorite players, among whom are Bigelow Cooper, Helen Strickland, Olive Wright, William Wadsworth and Raymond McKee. Richard Tucker, featured in several sucessful multiple-reel productions, carries the leading heavy part.

VIGNOLA PICTURE COMPLETED BY KAUFMAN.

The Famous Players adaptation of Charles Dickens' novel, "Great Expectations," in which Louise Huff and Jack Pickford are co-starred, presents an unusual circumstance in motion picture history in that the few last scenes were completed by Director Joseph Kaufman after Robert G. Vignola, the director in charge of the production, was taken suddenly ill. Learning that Vignola was retarding his own recovery because of the fact that he was worrying over the unfinished portion of his picture, Kaufman went to his confrere's home and offered to complete the picture for him as he had just finished his own production, "The Traveling Salesman," in which Frank McIntyre starred. The offer was accepted.

PARAMOUNT MAKING SERIES ON PHYSICS.

A series of interesting experiments in physics are being made for screen production by the editors of the Paramount Pictographs, the "magazine-on-the-screen." The series of experiments are being made by Prof. R. P. Nichols of Cornell University. In this series the fact has been brought out that the atmosphere is capable of the most extraordinary phenomena when the normal conditions are upset.

Tourneur Staging New Pickford Subject

Work on the Production of "A Poor Little Rich Girl" Commenced at Fort Lee Studios.

FOR the past few weeks the Mary Pickford studio in Fort Lee has been in charge of the carpenters and merchanics in connection with the construction of big sets for the new Mary Pickford subject, "A Poor Little Rich Girl," the famous Eleanor Gates novel, which also enjoyed a big run as a play. Immediately upon completing the final preparation of the script early Christmas week the actual staging of the new subject was commenced under the direction of Maurice Tourneur, who recently produced the second Pickford-Artcraft picture, "The Pride of the Clan," to be released January 8.

As Gwendolyn, the title character in "A Poor Little Rich Girl," Mary Pickford appears in a role that is particularly adapted to her talents. That Miss Pickford will score another triumph in this subject is readily apparent to all those who are familiar with the story.

NEW UNICORN MANAGERS.

Following the recent tour of President Ike Schlank of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, throughout the country in the interests of the concern, it was announced that new managers had been appointed in the Unicorn branches at Cincinnati and Buffalo.

F. L. Smith assumes the duties of conducting the Cincinnati branch, and comes to his new post with a comprehensive experience based upon his services as manager for the General Film Corporation and the Mutual Film Corporation at Cincinnati. Mr. Smith enjoys great popularity with the exhibitors in his territory.

Frank H. Vine, the new conductor of the destinies of the Buffalo exchange, is also a film man of long experience and marked ability. He was formerly connected with the World Film Corporation at the Boston Office of that concern, and was also manager of the General Film Service Corporation at its "Hub" exchange. Mr. Schlank feels that he has been very fortunate in securing the services of Messrs. Smith and Vine, on account of their broad experience and past successful records in the territory in which they will operate.

ESSANAY ACTORS PLAY ON SPECIAL TRAIN.

Essanay announces for its February 5 release through Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service, "Skinner's Dress Suit," the intensely human and highly amusing story by Harry Irving Dodge which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post.

Bryant Washburn is playing the leading role in this production. The play will be designed for a screen time of approximately one hour and fifteen minutes. Harry Beaumont is directing the drama.

A special train over the Chicago Northwestern road will be chartered from Chicago to Milwaukee and return in order to get the many interesting railroad coach interiors in the story. A large part of the story hinges on Skinner's progress from the stuffy smoking car to companionship with the plutocrats in the Pullman, so a complete train is required.

This same thoroughness will characterize the rest of the production. Many of the scenes occur in a hotel lobby. President George K. Spoor's actual words to his technical staff were: "Build the best hotel set ever put into pictures." The same spirit will mark the play throughout.

WILLIAM FOX'S 1917 PROGRAM.

For the next year Mr. Fox will present to the exhibitors and the public 70 productions varying in length from 4,500 to 6,000 feet. These cinema features de luxe will be on a scale of unsurpassed magnificence and will maintain the Fox standard. He will also produce 52 comedy features of two reels each, released one every week.

Beginning with "The Price of Silence," on January 8, William Fox inaugurates his policy of giving the public film masterpieces starring Theda Bara and William Farnum—each appearing in eight or ten. Miss Bara's premiere production for the super de luxe cinema achievements is "The Darling of Paris," a remarkable photoplay suggested by Victor Hugo's deathless story, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

During January "A Daughter of the Gods," now playing in its fourth month in New York City to capacity business at the Lyric theater, will have its New York showings at the Academy of Music.

DIXIE COMPANY ENTERS FIELD.

Another producing concern to enter the state rights field is the Dixie Film Company of Chicago, which has two productions to its credit and contemplates at least twelve a year.

The two completed productions, "Tempest and Sunshine," and "Just a Song at Twilight," have been sold in the Southern States to Tandy & Lynch. The territory secured by this concern includes Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma.

The British and Australian rights to "Tempest and Sunshine and "Just a Song at Twilight" have already been optioned. John W. Heney, of Heney & Hawkins, is the central distributing headquarters for the Dixie products.

WEEK OF JAN. 14 FOR THE GAUMONT COMPANY.

"The Terrible Wedding," what one reviewer calls "a whirlwind of hair-raising feats," is the final episode of the Gaumont-Mutual photo-novel, "The Vampires." It reaches the screen January 18, the big feature of the Gaumont programme of the week of January 14. This chapter marks the end of the organized band known as the arch criminals of Paris. Their capture, which brings about the death of many of them, is most exciting.

The first single-reel release of the week is "Reel Life" No. 37. This issue of the Mutual Magazine in Film has pictures of the Kid Glove Industry, Producing Pickles, Care of the Teeth, and Irrigating Fish Wheels, showing how fish are kept in the irrigation ditches of the far west.

"Tours Around the World" No. 11 reaches the screen January 16. It has pictures "From Gibraltar to Algeciras," "In Tunisia," and of the "Bois de Boulogne," Paris's largest park. The pictures of Gibraltar are particularly timely since this is the gate to the Mediterranean held by the British. At Algeciras was held the European council that grew out of the Agadir incident.

"See America First," No. 71, released January 17, takes the spectator for a trip up Mt. Lowe, the popular peak that lies twenty miles from Los Angeles, Cal. On the same reel is a Gaumont Kartoon Komic, animated for the screen by Harry Palmer. It is called 'Mr. Common Peepul Investigates."

The fourth Gaumont single-reel of the week is the Mutual Weekly. As this is not made up until the day it is issued no advance of its contents is to be had.

"FANTOMAS" STILL BEING BOOKED.

Notwithstanding that the Gaumont company is now releasing a stirring series, "The Vampires," its former photo-novel, "Fantomas," is still being booked in a highly satisfactory manner. The secret of its success lies in the rush of exciting incidents, which crowd each other for a place upon the screen. It is familiar in style to "The Vampires," and the commendatory reviews of the critics have been as highly favorable. The one difference between the two Gaumont series is that in "Fantomas" one criminal defies society, whereas in "The Vampires" it is the entire band of the arch criminals of Paris in league against the law. Many exhibitors are booking "Fantomas" and following it immediately with "The Vampires." "Fantomas" ran in novel form in a great syndicate of Sunday newspapers during the summer. In this form it is already familiar to millions who are still to welcome the greatest criminal in the world on the screen.

"THE PRINCESS IN PATCHES" (Selig.)

"The Princess of Patches" is the title of a Selig Red Seal Play soon to be released by the Selig Company through the K-E-S-E. The play was written by Mark Swan and was adapted for screen purposes by Gilson Willets. Director Al Green has produced a wonderful film play according to those who have viewed the production.

"The Princess of Patches" presents an all star cast of players including Vivian Reed, Charles Le Moyne, Frank Weed, R. H. Kelly and others. A special company was sent to Mississippi to film true-to-life plantation scenes called for in the story. It is a strong melodrama which carries both love interest and comedy. A houseboat blown to atoms by dynamite is just one of many sensational episodes.

George M. Cohan getting some fine points from Jesse L. Lasky of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in connection with the production of his initial photoplay, "Broadway Jones," to be released by Artcraft Pictures. Through the courtesy of Mr. Lasky it was possible for Cecil B. DeMille to accept Mr. Cohan's offer to supervise the direction of "Broadway Jones" and this photo was taken immediately after Mr. Lasky had given his consent in the matter.

Notes of the Trade

REPORTS from Canada, Europe and Australia to the George Kleine general offices indicate that the Kleine comedy series "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer," featuring Harry Watson, Jr., of Ziegfield Follies fame, is duplicating abroad the splendid success achieved in the United States. Mr. Kleine's Canadian offices at Toronto and Montreal and the distributors who are exploiting the comedies in Australia have recently called for additional prints in order to handle the increased derand for these excruciating quaint and funny reels.

• • •

In order to create pictures in which the settings, costumes and "atmosphere" are perfect, Thomas A. Edison, Inc., has established a permanent department of historical research at its Bronx studios. The members of the department will give their entire attention to the task of insuring the absolute accuracy in all details of pictures that portray life in other lands and various eras of history.

• • •

William H. Turner gives to the screen a wonderful piece of character work in 'The Black Door," one of the fifteen stories making up "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters," which were written by Edith Seesions Tupper, filmed by the Niagara Studios, and are being released through the Mutual Film Corporation.

• • •

Douglas Gerrard is filming at Universal City a three-act drama, "The Coming of Jessica," written by Maud Grange. Gerrard and Ruth Clifford play the leading roles with a large cast of Universal stock actors and actresses in their support.

• • •

Dustin Farnum, one of the latest additions to the William Fox luminaries, began work last week on his first Fox production, under the direction of William Desmond Taylor, who came with Mr. Farnum from the Morosco Company.

Winifred Kingston, who has played opposite Mr. Farnum for the last three years, continues in her "playing-opposite" capacity. The rest of the cast is being selected now.

Homer Scott will photograph the Dustin Farnum subjects.

• • •

Robert Warwick has nearly completed the first of his own producing company's pictures under the Selznick banner, an adaptation of the stirring detective drama, "The Argyle Case." The production is being filmed under the direction of Ralph W. Ince. In the cast supporting the star will be seen Elaine Hammerstein, Charles Hines, Frank McGlyn, H. Cooper Cliffe, Arthur Albertson, Frank Evans, John Fleming, Gazelle Marche, Mary Alden and Robert Vivian.

• • •

"The Man Who Forgot," in which Robert Warwick stars for the World Film Corporation, is extremely timely at the moment when the United States Senate is in disingenuous dalliance with National Prohibition. The hero of the new screen play is an inspired orator on teetotalism.

"The Man Who Forgot," with Gerda Holmes and Doris Kenyon heading the cast, is the current World-Brady release. This is the drama for which the entire Prohibition forces gathered in Washington recently, lent their services for a parade and meeting on the Capitol steps to be reproduced upon the screen.

• • •

An unusual picture is presented in No. 104 of the Selig-Tribune when the French flying corps is seen in action. Many of the more famous aviators are shown. One hero is said to have destroyed twenty-six of the enemy air craft.

• • •

John W. Noble, who staged "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," will stage a satirical sketch for the N. A. M. P. I. dinner January 26.

• • •

Marie Dressler, World-Brady star in "Tillie Wakes Up," raised money for Christmas dinners for twenty-five families and Christmas boxes for 100 children, all of whom have voted her the very best feminine Santa Claus in this part of the country.

• • •

Among the stories by Ralph Henry Barbour that have been dramatized and produced by Thomas A. Edison, Inc., and that will be released on the Conquest Pictures programs are "For the Honor of the School" and "The Half-Back."

• • •

William N. Selig has returned from Minneapolis, Minn., where he was a guest of honor at the premier of "The Crisis" in that city. In Detroit "The Crisis" was retained for its third triumphant week, playing every afternoon and evening to standing room only.

• • •

Evelyn Greeley is now with World Film. So generally satisfactory was her work in "Tempest and Sunshine" and "Just a Song at Twilight" that she was selected by William A. Brady to play opposite Carlyle Blackwell in "Glass Houses."

"The Butler's Blunder," a comedy in one act, is being filmed at Universal City under the direction of Allen Curtis featuring Ralph McComas with Eileen Sedgwick and Milton Sims in his support. The story was written by W. W. Schoene of the Universal City.

• • •

Mary Pickford has been invited by the Women's Press Club, of Pittsburgh, Pa., to participate in the "Review of National Celebrities" to take place in that city on January 11. Women prominent in every art and activity will take part. They will be introduced in a prologue, written for the occasion, which will be recited by Lillian Russell. Harry Davis has given the use of his Alvin theater for the review, the benefits of which will be devoted to members of the newspaper profession who have met with reverses or misfortunes in the past year.

• • •

Andy Clark, boy comedian, will be seen in some of the pictures to be released by Edison under the Conquest Pictures brand.

• • •

According to William Fox's present plans, Gladys Coburn's second photoplay will be released for the week of January 22, 1917. Fritz Leiber, the Shaksperian actor, plays opposite Miss Coburn in this film.

• • •

The World Film play formerly called "A Movie Romance," in which Robert Warwick is the star, with Doris Kenyon in the leading feminine role, has been changed to "A Girl's Folly."

• • •

Edwin Carewe has left Metro and is now with A. H. Jacobs directing Jane Grey.

• • •

Louis Chaudet, director of the Universal Nestor Company, has under production a one-act comedy, "A Bundle of Trouble," written by Karl R. Coolidge. Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran play the featured leads with Edith Roberts and Fred Gamble in their support.

• • •

A dramatization of "Gallagher," the newspaper story that first brought the late Richard Harding Davis to the attention of the literary world, has just been completed at the Bronx studios of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., and it will be released at an early date under the brand of Conquest Pictures.

• • •

Director Colin Campbell has received the scenario for another large feature and will start at once. William N. Selig has selected a story dealing with one of the biggest and most vital subjects of the day. The title and cast for the very latest Selig feature play have not as yet been announced.

• • •

Among the writers of stories that are being dramatized for release under the Edison Conquest Pictures brand are Robert Louis Stevenson, Richard Harding Davis, Ralph Henry Barbour, John Bennett, Kirk Munroe, Rex Beach and Ellis Parker Butler.

• • •

John G. Adolfi, who has directed all of June Caprice's subjects for William Fox, will soon celebrate his first anniversary with Fox Film Corporation.

During the year he has completed seven Fox photoplays. His productions are "Merely Mary Ann," "A Modern Thelma," "Caprice of the Mountains," "Little Miss Happiness," "The Ragged Princess" and "The Mischief Maker."

Mr. Adolfi's last screen drama is "A Modern Cinderella," June Caprice's fifth film, which will be shown on January 8, 1917.

• • •

Clara Kimball Young, the Selznick-Pictures star, has just returned to New York from a trip to New Orleans, where, accompanied by Director Giblyn and her company producing a picturized version of David Graham Phillips's novel, "The Price She Paid." She remained several weeks for the purpose of making exterior scenes for this production.

• • •

With Ella Hall as his featured player, Director Jack Conway is filming at Universal City a five-act drama, "Polly-Ooley," written by Edgar Jepson and prepared for the screen by E. J. Clawson, Gertrude Astor, George Webb, Bob Worthington and James McCandless support the star.

• • •

Pedro De Cordoba, who made his latest screen appearance in "Just a Song at Twilight," has been engaged for the big spectacle soon to be seen at the Manhattan Opera House.

• • •

Director George Cochrane of Universal City has under production a two-act photoplay entitled "Ambition." Violet MacMillan plays the leading role supported by George Berrell, Jack Nelson and J. Morris Foster. Grace Helen Bailey wrote the story.

• • •

The Ivan picture "Enlighten Thy Daughter" will, in all likelihood, be the next feature to play Broadway. It will open about January 15th.

• • •

Kitty Gordon's new World-Brady play, "The Haunting Shadow," probably will not be released until early next summer, although it will be completed within the coming month.

• • •

The Universal Joker Company, under the direction of W. W. Beaudine, is filming a one-act comedy, "The M. T. Ranch."

featuring Gale Henry and William Franey with Lillian Peacock, M. Moranti and Billy Human in their support. The story was written by Jack Cunningham of the Universal staff.

* * *

Thomas B. Carnahan will appear in "Chris and the Wonderful Lamp," a picturization of Albert Stearn's noted story that has been made for the Edison Conquest Pictures program.

* * *

Franklyn Ritchie has the strong role of "Count de Beaucaire" in "The Gentle Intruder," the newest Mary Miles Minter feature which Director James Kirkwood has begun.

* * *

Director Charles Swickard is filming at Universal City a five-act drama, "Beyond the Pale," written by J. Grubb Alexander. The featured role is played by Claire McDowell with L. C. Shumway opposite and Hector Sarno as the heavy.

* * *

William A. Pinkerton, the famous detective, recently was a guest at the Selig Jungle-Zoo, Los Angeles. The camera finally got him and he will be presented in a forthcoming number of the Selig-Tribune, the twice-a-week news reel.

* * *

Ben Wilson is directing and playing the principal role in a two-act comedy drama, "Raided Four A. M.," at Universal City. He is supported by Priscilla Dean, Harry Carter, Maude George, Earle Page, Hayward Mack and Virginia Lee. Maie Havey of the Universal staff wrote the story.

* * *

There will be a get-together dinner of the members of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry about January 26. Arrangements for 250 covers are being made. Harry Reichenbach is chairman of the committee.

* * *

Ruth Ann Baldwin has under production at Universal City a two-act drama, "When Jimmie Straightened Out," featuring Irene Hunt and Clyde Benson. The scenario was written by Maie Havey of the Universal staff.

Picture Theaters Projected

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—Stymour Brothers, 538 Wayne street, have the contract to erect a two-story moving picture theater, 36 by 36 feet, for Samuel Dace, to cost $3,000.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—T. F. Cutter has purchased the O'Keefe theater at 5262 Moulta avenue.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—F. L. Wagner, 1413 H street, N. W., has the contract to erect an auditorium at 18th street and Columbia road, for the Knickerbocker Theater Company, 3520 16th street. The structure will be four stories in height; reinforced concrete; stone-trimmed brick front; marquise over main entrance; seating capacity 1,800 people; cost $80,000.

LIVE OAK, FLA.—H. W. Taylor will erect an opera house, brick, 50 by 100 feet. L. T. Morgan will prepare the plans.

ORLANDO, FLA.—F. A. Peppercorn has the contract to erect a theater building; brick; stucco trim; 65 by 118 feet; several stores on first floor for Dr. P. Phillips; cost about $50,000.

ATLANTA, GA.—George McClure plans to erect a moving picture theater at 15 Houston street.

CARTHAGE, ILL.—J. E. Jones plans to make alterations and build an addition 40 by 112 feet, to his moving picture theater, to cost $10,000.

MILFORD, IND.—The Milford theater has been taken over by J. W. Estep.

PORTLAND, IND.—D. A. Hoover, who has recently purchased the Royal theater, will make a number of improvements to the house.

RICHLAND, IA.—H. D. Vastine has disposed of his interest in the Princess Theater.

WAPELLS, IA.—The Keck Theater is now being operated by Roy L. Cooper.

GREAT BEND, KANS.—The Elite Theater, owned by W. S. Nelson & Son, has been remodeled and redecorated.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—The Welma Theater has been purchased by Charles Kuntz.

PLAQUEMINE, LA.—A. C. Levy plans to erect a modern moving picture theater, with seating capacity of 1000.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Sparkin & Childs, 502 Law building, are preparing plans for alterations to a one-story theater building, to cost $20,000.

LEBANON, NEB.—The Electric Theater Company has remodeled and equipped a commercial building for the exhibit of moving pictures.

OMAHA, NEB.—Charles R. Sherman will erect a new moving picture theater at the corner of Farnam street and thirty-fifth avenue, with seating capacity of 600.

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—Arthur F. Golden, 579 Broadway, has plans by Leon Cubberly, 192 Broadway, for a one-story moving picture theater and store building, 20 by 152 feet, to cost $5,000.

PENNSGROVE, N. J.—The contract to erect the new theater here has been awarded to the Peterson Construction Company, at $30,000.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Robert Jardin, 451 Lake avenue, has plans by John Tyler, 715 German Insurance building, for a one-story moving picture theater and store building, 71 by 117 feet, to cost $20,000.

WILMINGTON, N. C.—Howard-Wells Amusement Company will remodel and erect an addition to the Victoria Theater. The Royal Theater will also be remodeled.

BEACH, N. D.—The Beach opera house is being conducted by Charles Haigh.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Consolidated Amusement Co., which recently took over the Norwood Theater at 4630 Montgomery road, has made a number of improvements to the house. The seating capacity has also been increased.

KIOWA, OKLA.—The Peoples' Theater is now being conducted by Fred Hewitt and Cecil Rowley.

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.—C. M. Munson, manager of The Auditorium, 501-7 West California avenue, this city, announces that extensive improvements are being made in his theater. The Auditorium has a seating capacity of over 3,000, and is owned by O. W. Connally & Company. Motion pictures and big road attractions form the bill.

BELLE VERNON, PA.—The Bijou Theater has been remodeled and reopened.

ELLWOOD CITY, PA.—A new fireproof moving picture is under construction here for T. V. Barnes.

MT. UNION, PA.—Shapiro Amusement Company has opened a new moving picture theater, with seating capacity of 1,000.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Quality Amusement Company, care E. C. Brown, 427 South Broad street, has plans by Ladman & Murphy, Witherspoon building, for a one-story theater building, 78 by 92 feet.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Worden Electric Sign Company has the contract to construct a sign anchor on the west side of Broad street, north of Snyder avenue, for the Broadway Amusement Company, to cost $1,000.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Lachman & Murphy are preparing plans for a three-story brick, steel and concrete theater building, 70 by 100 feet, at Broad and Lombard streets, for the Quality Amusement Company, of New York.

WAUPACA, WIS.—E. B. Knapp, who recently purchased the Colonial Theater, is now conducting the house under the name of the New Grand.

JUST OFF THE PRESS
LOUIS REEVES HARRISON'S
SCREENCRAFT
or the Making of a Photoplay
A University Education on the Subject.
$2.00 Postage Paid. Order from nearest office
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York
Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Atmospheric Screen
ATMOSPHERIC
The screen of a thousand charms.
Figures that look like painted portraits.
Exterior scenes appear like nature.
Becomes more beautiful in tone the longer it is used.
Its qualities of subtlety and mellowness of tone charm and relieve eye strain.
THE CHARM SCREEN
ATMOSPHERIC SCREEN CO., Inc.
220 WEST 42nd STREET, NEW YORK CITY

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Caribou, Me., Has Fine Theater

New Powers, Opened on December 14, by Exhibitor P. J. Powers, Is a Fine Picture House—Seating Capacity Is 800—Made of Brick, Steel and Concrete —Some Interesting Details of Construction and Decoration.

From John P. Flanagan, 147 Park View Ave., Bangor, Me.

CARIBOU, ME.—This town has just observed the most noteworthy event in moving picture circles of the year 1916 in the northern part of Maine—the opening of P. J. Powers' splendid new theater on Thursday, December 14. Exhibitor Powers, who is one of the most progressive and enterprising men in the business, had as his invited guests two Bangor exchangemen, Chas. M. Stern of the Universal Co., and R. Borrottex of the Mutual Co., and there were also present brother exhibitors, Thomas Willett of Van Buren, and Arthur Libby of Fort Fairfield.

P. J. Powers.

The new house, which is built of brick and concrete, is strikingly attractive. The name Powers' theater, made of a different kind of brick than the rest of the structure, stands out prominently; the same name also appears in the glass over either door on the Sweden street entrance.

Four large doors open into the lobby, which is of ample proportions. On the right is the ticket office, and opposite a waiting room in which is installed a public telephone for the convenience of patrons.

The large auditorium, with its steel ceiling and walls, its inclined floors, fine appearing and comfortable seats arranged in a semi-circle, with a perfect view of the stage from any quarter, the vision not being obscured by posts, and lighted by the Brascolite indirect lighting system, presents a really pleasing and inviting appearance.

Overhead is a large gallery, finely finished, this too, affords a most excellent vantage point. The seating capacity is 800. It is fitted out in a thoroughly modern and up to date method, with scenery, curtains, slides, footlights, stage lights, etc. There are two approaches to the stage, one at either side of the hall. The main drop curtain presents a magnificent view of Camden harbor. There are, besides a large front door, four exits, two by way of the stage and two on the right side of the building. A modern and efficient ventilating system has been installed.

Boston News Letter

By J. J. Phillips, Boston Herald and Traveler.

James Donovan With Metro.

BOSTON, Mass.—James Donovan, connected with the Boston Universal exchange for the past four years, is now working on the road for the Boston Metro office.

Artcraft Pictures Get R. E. Barron.

Boston, Mass.—R. E. Barron, formerly of the William Fox exchanges, both in Atlanta, Ga., and New Orleans, La., offices, has been recently acquired by the Artcraft Pictures Corp. in the capacity of assistant manager to Mr. Bernfield of the Boston exchange. Mr. Barron will cover the northern territory, which includes both New Hampshire and Vermont.

Koen Bros. Buy the Columbia.

Salem, Mass.—Koen Brothers, who have amusement and motion picture interests in Salem, Mass., have bought the Columbia theater, which will be run as a high-class motion picture theater, and located in a central part of Haverhill, Mass.

"Daughter of the Gods."

Boston, Mass.—Preparations are being made to show the Fox, Annette Kellermann spectacle, "The Daughter of the Gods," for a limited engagement, starting the week of January 8, at one of Boston's largest theaters.

Universal Starts New Department.

Boston, Mass.—The Boston Universal exchange, under the management of J. M. Mullin, has organized a sales service and publicity department for the New England territory to perform promotion work. The work will come under the personal supervision of Manager Mullin and is designed to get in closer touch with the exhibitor in every way.

Stanly Hand Gives Dinner New Year's Night.

Boston, Mass.—Stanly W. Hand, known to the trade as "Billy Sunday" Hand, the hustling manager of the World Film Boston office, will announce the results of the World salesmen's contest for the greatest amount of business done by them for the year, both on the regular World Program and the Clara Kimball Young specials. Mr. Hand will give a dinner to his sales force on New Year's night at the Quincy House, Boston. Among the invited guests will be several Boston newspaper men.

Pathe Managers to Get Broader Experience.

Boston, Mass.—Ed. Farrell, manager of the Boston Pathe exchange, announces a new efficiency move that will go into effect at Pathe exchange throughout the United States beginning January 1, 1917. In brief, eastern Pathe managers will be sent to the Western and Southern territory and will spend a certain amount of time in these foreign territories for the study of business methods and conditions in order to give them an insight to the way in which business is done, and gain new ideas for application to their own particular exchanges. Likewise managers from the South and West will be sent East for the same purpose.

Boston Photo Play Sells Out.

Boston, Mass.—It is rumored that The Boston Photo Play Company has sold out its interest to the New England Exhibitors' exchange, which is controlled by Dave Lourie, I. and S. Pinanski and their associates. This would indicate that the Selznick, Clara Kimball Young pictures will be shown at the Modern theater. First run Fox Features will then be run at the Boston theater.

Universal Gives a Party to Orphans.

Boston, Mass.—A child is naturally helpless—when orphaned, much more helpless, and when destitute, the predicament is pitiable. The day after Christmas the entire roster of the Catholic Home of Destitute Children, numbering over one hundred, will be the guests of the Universal at a specially run juvenile show for them. The Universal, from their large assortment, will arrange a special program particularly adapted for the children on this occasion. This will be a splendid christening for their new fireproof building on Stanhope street, Boston, which contains the best appointed projection room and free public resting room in the city.

Good Business at the Park.

Boston, Mass.—Manager Thos. D. Soriero of the Park theater still continues to "pack them in" with the World and Metro features; business has been surprisingly good at this house despite the Holiday shopping competition that is being felt by all in the amusement game.

THE MOST PROFITABLE NEW YEAR'S GIFT
TO EVERY FILM MAN AND PICTURE THEATRE MANAGER—A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Send Your Order Today and Begin With First Number.

Maritime News Letter

By Frederick F. Sully, 68 Lansdowne Ave., St. John, N. B.

Courtesy Visit to New Halifax Theater.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—Fred G. Spencer, owner of the Spencer chain of theaters, Walter C. McKay, manager of the St. John opera house, and Fred H. Trifts, proprietor and manager of the Gem, made a special trip to Halifax to be present at the opening of R. J. McAdam's new $100,000 motion picture theater. The St. John showmen were especially pleased with their trip, the hospitality showed them by the Halifax exhibitor, and they whispered of jolly get-together of motion picture men after the more serious things had been talked over.

Big Crowd to See "Somme" Picture.

Glace Bay, N. S.—One of the largest crowds that ever gathered at the entrance of a small motion picture theater in the Maritime Provinces swept away the two upright posts supporting the arcade at the main entrance and broke two large plate glass windows, here recently in front of the Russell theater, when Matt Nolan, manager, opened the engagement of the special war picture, "The Battle of the Somme".

Exhibitor Couzner of a Mechanical Turn.

Sydney Mines, N. S.—W. H. Couzner, proprietor and manager of the Couzner theater, is an inventive genius, and the best part of it is that he turns his inventions and ideas to practical use about his own theater. Since a youth he has devoted his spare moments to mechanical experiments, and since taking a place among front rank exhibitors in the provinces, he has shown the same propensities. One of his most recent contrivances is an attachment of a rat trap to the switchboard in the operating booth, which operated from a button in the box office controls the lighting system in the interior of the theater. By pressing the button, the rat trap is sprung, dislodging the switch handle. He has another contrivance attached to his motion picture machine that greatly facilitates its operation. It has been said that "The Automat" would not be an inappropriate name for his house.

Truro Exhibitor's Winter Auto.

Truro, N. B.—Not far behind Mr. Couzner of Sydney Mines, N. S., in his mechanical accomplishments is Art Fielding, manager of the Princess theater. During the more balmy days of the warmer seasons Art has a motorcycle on which he touches the high places. The Weather Man was badly fooled when he thought he was going to deprive Art of his favorite outdoor sport, for the hustling Princess manager has rigged the cycle engine onto a sled, and he is now able to cover a lot of ground in an amazingly short time with his new vehicle.

Good Business Since Xmas.

St. John, N. B.—The holiday season was preceded by a rather long period of only fair business by the St. John exhibitors. Christmas day, however, brought a big change in the outlook, and the theaters with special holiday bills played to capacity houses. The cold weather has not interfered with business so much as originally supposed. The opera house is offering a musical tabloid in addition to its regular picture program, and the combined bill is taking well.

Business Notes.

Fredericton, N. B.—Ernest Leahman, assistant manager of the Gayety theater, was a recent business visitor in St. John, looking over some of the early winter releases and sizing up some of the best features that are scheduled for this territory in the near future.

Baltimore's New Traffic Rules

City's Police Marshal Prepares New Regulations Governing the Movement of Vehicles Bringing Guests to Theaters—Specific Rules for Each of the Big Houses—Watchmen Have Been Instructed.

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Ter., Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, Md.—A set of regulations relative to the movement of vehicles conveying persons to and from theaters has just been given by Marshall of Police Carter, of Baltimore, to H. M. Luzius, secretary of the Automobile Club of Maryland, who states that the watchmen employed by this organization at the theaters, have received their instructions and they will cooperate with the police department to their fullest extent.

Those regulations pertaining to the theaters using moving pictures as their entire or part of their programs are as follows:

Parkway Theater—Vehicles shall approach from the west on the south side of North avenue. After allowing persons to enter or alight, they shall continue east on North avenue to Charles street. Vehicles in waiting may park at the angle of 45 degrees on the south side of North avenue, 50 feet west of the theater; they may also stand on the east side of Maryland avenue, 100 feet below North avenue.

New Theater—Vehicles shall approach from the east on the north side of Lexington street. After allowing persons to enter or alight at the theater, they shall continue west to Howard street. Vehicles in waiting may stand on the south side of Lexington street, from Liberty to Howard streets. This regulation to apply after 7 p. m. From sunrise to 7 p. m. traffic ordinance to apply.

Blue Mouse Theater—Vehicles shall approach from the east on the north side of Lexington street. After allowing persons to enter or alight at the theater, they shall continue west to Liberty street. Vehicles in waiting may stand on the south side of Lexington street, between Liberty and Charles streets, and also on the west side of Liberty street, north of Lexington street, if necessary. This regulation to apply after 7 p. m. From sunrise to 7 p. m. traffic ordinance to apply.

Garden Theater—Vehicles shall approach from the east on the north side of Lexington street. After allowing persons to enter or alight at the theater, they shall continue west to Park avenue. Vehicles in waiting may stand on the south side of Lexington street, from Liberty to Howard streets. This regulation to apply after 7 p. m. From sunrise to 7 p. m. traffic ordinance to apply.

Hippodrome Theater—Vehicles shall approach from the north on the west side of Eutaw street. After allowing persons to enter or alight at the theater they shall continue south to Baltimore street. They shall not be permitted to double back on Eutaw street. Vehicles in waiting may park at an angle of 45 degrees on the east and west sides of Eutaw street from Lexington to Garrett streets.

Maryland Theater—Vehicles shall approach from the east on the north side of Franklin street. After allowing persons to enter or alight at the theater, they shall continue west on Franklin street to Eutaw. They shall not be permitted to double back on Franklin street. Vehicles in waiting may park at an angle of 45 degrees on Eutaw street from New to Mulberry streets. No vehicles shall stand during theater hours on Howard street between Franklin and Centre streets nor on Franklin street between Howard and Eutaw streets.

Crown Theater in New Hands.

Baltimord Md.—According to latest bulletins, Nat Keene, owner and manager of the Dixie theater, 312 West Baltimore street, and J. J. Hartlove, now booking Banner Features, who are both experienced film men, have taken over the Crown theater on Columbia avenue, and will open this house with "The Lass of the Lumberlands" and "The Vampires". Mr. Keene seems to have great confidence in the Mutual program for he has been using it in the Dixie theater with success.

Stenographer Acts as Censor.

Baltimore, Md.—Quite a remarkable thing has come to our ears in regard to the august body of Maryland Censors. In fact, we were a little surprised when we heard it, for it is understood from a reliable source that the stenographer employed by the Board has been doing a good deal of the censoring. Just whether the new law invests the right to the Board to appoint whomsoever it sees fit to inspect the films presented for examination in its stead has not been ascertained; but it is a fact that many of the eliminations that have been made seem to be the work of one who is quite unsophisticated, which either means that we are rather broad in our views, or they hold themselves far above many of the everyday spectacles of life that are common occurrences.

C. Eiseman With Mutual.

Baltimore, Md.—C. Eiseman, who is well versed in the exchange end of the business having been formerly associated with the HY-Art, General Film and Essanay companies, is now connected with the Mutual in the Washington, D. C., branch. He spent several days last week in Baltimore assisting O. D. Weems of the Baltimore branch owing to the large increase in the volume of business which is being done by this office.

High Wind S..eeps Crisfield.

Crisfield, Md.—Early on the morning of December 22, a terrific wind storm swept this city and created a great deal of havoc. The slate shingle roofing which covers the Crisfield opera house was entirely torn off. This theater is owned and operated by M. H. Douglas & Co. and has a seating capacity of 500. Ten cents has been the price of admission of nights when special features have been run.

IN NEWARK, NEW JERSEY.

By Jacob Kolter.

John B. McNally Manages Strand.

Newark, N. J.—The new manager of the Strand theater, 118 Market street, which recently changed its policy to six acts of vaudeville and Triangle pictures is Jonn B. McNally. Mr. McNally is one of the pioneers in the local theatrical profession. He started in this field twenty-five years ago as advertising agent of the old Grand Opera House, later known as Columbia, under Mr. Jacobs. He served Mr. Jacobs for eighteen years, after which period Mr. McNally entered the circus game, at which he remained for five years. He returned to Newark three years ago and was appointed resident manager of Keeney's local house. He resigned that position last week to assume like duties at the Strand.

J. B. McNally.

Philadelphia's "Clean Streets"

Over Three Hundred Local Picture Houses Join in Campaign to Promote the Saving of Waste Paper and for Cleaner City Streets.

From F. V. Armato, 144 No. Salford St., West Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—More than three hundred local motion picture houses are showing slides calling attention to a "Clean Streets" campaign and appealing to patrons particularly not to throw their programs into the streets when they leave a picture theater. Mayor Smith, George E. Datesman, director of public works, and Chief William H. Connell, of the Bureau of Highways, have joined in asking the cooperation of exhibitors in the work. A statement issued jointly by the city officials points out that the papers thrown in the streets in front of motion picture houses are numerous enough to save along with other "waste" paper in the campaign now under way.

Paper Saving Campaign.

In part the statement reads: "Three hundred dollars daily would represent quite a tidy contribution to the recreation centres or any of the other good causes for the benefit of which the present Paper Saving Campaign has been inaugurated. If, instead of throwing waste paper on the streets and littering our thoroughfares from sidewalk to sidewalk, all such material was saved or the children allowed to gather it, it would not only centre interest in the Paper Saving Campaign, but would serve the more useful and permanent purpose of eliminating the waste paper nuisance.

"It is only a matter of 'getting the habit,' and, once acquired, we may be assured of the solution of one of the very important factors of the clean streets problem."

Robert Bloomgarden Joins Benedicts.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Robert Bloomgarden, manager of the Imperial theater, recently joined the ranks of the benedicts. His romance was a surprise to his friends. The new Mrs. Bloomgarden, comes of a prominent West Philadelphia family and is now practising domestic science at 5845 DeLancey street. The marriage occurred on December 11th.

Park and Jefferson Theaters Make Good Showing.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Jack Delmar, who is managing both the Park and the Jefferson theaters, is to be congratulated on his excellent showing in the weeks proceeding Christmas. L. Kapner, the owner of both houses, is reported about to retire from other enterprises to devote his attention to the theaters.

The Belmont Reopens.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Belmont theater, 52nd and Market streets, after having been closed for a short time, pending the adjustment of certain legal complications, reopened on Christmas day with Olga Petrova in "The Black Butterfly."

Pipe Organ in English Theater.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Allyn B. Carrick, a recent visitor here, returned from England but a short time ago. His mission there was to open the Super-Cinema theater in London. This house is the first in the United Kingdom to use one of the large pipe organs such as are employed in first rate American theaters.

B. F. Lyon Will Help With Serial.

Philadelphia, Pa.—B. F. Lyon, district manager of the International Film Service, has recently arrived at the local exchange and will assist Earl Sweigert, in putting over "Patria," their next serial Big results have already been achieved and some surprises in the way of publicity work are looked for. "Patria" was shown on December 27th to a number of leaders in Philadelphia society in the ball room of the Bellevue-Stratford hotel.

J. A. Koerpel Goes to Seattle.

Philadelphia, Pa.—J. A. Koerpel, manager of the World Film local exchange, has been transferred to the Western territory and will make his new headquarters at Seattle, Washington. He leaves with a splendid record and the business of the exchange greatly increased. George R. Meeker, of the home office staff, arrived here last week to take up his work as manager.

Royal Palace Theater Being Run by B. Shindler.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Royal Palace theater, at 2716-18 Girard avenue, has been taken over by Benjamin Shindler, the owner who is now successfully operating the house.

Made-in-Reading Film Has Public Showing.

Reading, Pa.—The first photoplay ever written, produced and played by Reading talent was given its premier showing at the benefit for St. Joseph's hospital, the Academy of Music, Dec. 18, 19 and 20, where it served as a headliner for a four act entertainment.

Mrs. Harold Printz wrote the scenario, which has been called "A Little Wild Rose," and played the leading character. Harold Printz supervised and directed the production, and Winfield Steele, operator at the Lyric theater, served as camera man.

Rose Tapley Speaks to Screen Followers.

Reading, Pa.—Rose Tapley, the popular Vitagraph actress, reached Reading, Dec. 18, at noon, from Philadelphia. During the afternoon she was entertained by Mrs. C. L. Carr and Mrs. H. J. Schad. A luncheon was served at the Berkshire and then the party proceeded to the Empire theater. Her appearance created enthusiasm among picture patrons, and her talk was interesting.

Philadelphia Evening Telegraph Favored by Picture Theaters.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The principal local theaters here resort to a considerable amount of newspaper advertising, the bulk of which is carried by The Evening Telegraph. The paper is notably a motion picture medium in spite of the fact that it appeals to thinking and wealthy readers and strives for high quality rather than large circulation.

Paramount's New Prices for Small Towns.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Small town exhibitors in this territory who have heretofore hesitated in booking Paramount pictures on account of the initial cost will in future probably see their way clear to secure them. William E. Smith, of the Paramount Film Corporation, has arranged a new and decidedly liberal schedule of prices, which will conform to the population of every town.

Business Notes.

Philadelphia, Pa.—H. Osborne, Manager of the Pathe exchange, reports nearly $1000 increase in business over last week. A large percentage of this increase he attributes to the enormous bookings on the serial, "Pearl of the Army".

Philadelphia, Pa.—J. Conway, of the Drury theater, at Germantown avenue and 13th street, has spent a considerable amount in painting and redecorating his theater. He has also added an orchestra to complete the musical features.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"Jimmy Dale, Alias the Grey Seal" was given a private showing for the benefit of local exhibitors by A. G. Steen of the Unicorn exchange. The first two reels showed plenty of action, and seemed to please most of those present.

Philadelphia, Pa.—C. Stamper has added the Frankford Theater to the list of those booking through the Stanley Company. Another house to come in recently was the Imperial, at 60th and Walnut Streets.

Philadelphia, Pa.—J. Conway of the Drury Theater has installed an orchestra recently and has spent considerable money in painting and re-decorating his theater.

Philadelphia, Pa. — The Exhibitors' League of Pennsylvania is scoring a big success with the production "New York", which has been received with much enthusiasm at several local theaters. Many new features are now being negotiated for and it is predicted that shortly the league will release one feature each week.

CAPITAL CITY LETTER.

James L. Brown Becomes Office Manager.

Washington, D. C.—James L. Brown, who recently joined the staff of George M. Mann, manager of the Famous Players Exchange in this city, has just been appointed office manager of the exchange, taking over much of the detail which formerly devolved upon Mr. Mann personally.

In Mr. Brown, the exhibitors of this territory will find an excellent ally, always willing to do what he can to help them out, and doing things with a viewpoint of an exhibitor, for he had a considerable experience in that end of the game in Bluefields, W. Va.

He was with the Union Bank and Trust Company when he became interested in motion pictures and bought out the Orpheum, a theater then not doing a very satisfactory business, and he put it on a paying basis in short order. Later, in 1913, after being the owner of this house for a year, he bought a half interest in the Colonial theater and became its manager. At about this time he severed his connection with the bank and devoted his entire time to the theater. He put in many innovations and did a most excellent business.

In September, he sold out his interests in the Colonial that he might be able to assume the management of the New Rex theater, then being opened, and this position he retained until coming to Washington some months later to join Mr. Mann.

His extensive experience as an exhibitor will stand him in good stead in his new position and added to this is a good business education.

Universal Manager Deplores Careless Handling of Paper.

Washington, D. C.—Exchange managers are experiencing a considerable money loss through the improper packing of photographs and posters, although, they complain, some of the exhibitors never make any returns at all. With the present high cost of paper the charges against the exchanges for this loss and damage has become a considerable item of the overhead charges, running into hundreds of dollars a month.

C. R. Milliman, manager of the Universal exchange here, said in conversation with the Washington correspondent of this paper, "We are trying to do everything that we possibly can to accommodate exhibitors, but they do not always reciprocate when it comes to handling advertising matter sent out by us. In order that the exhibitor may get that measure of cooperation which he expects he should try to help the exchange manager as much as possible, and one of these ways is by taking care of the posters and photographs which now run into so much money.

"The carelessness in the handling of the different kinds of advertising matter is responsible for the movement among the exchange managers to charge for everything of that kind and we, at our exchange, are forced to follow suit. The price of paper has gone up trememndously, as you well know, making the giving away of any of it prohibitive. Hereafter we will send out such advertising matter to our customers either on a sale or rental basis."

Theater and Salvation Army Please Kiddies.

Washington, D. C.—The Cosmos theater was the host to 600 poor children of Washington at a Christmas entertainment given under the auspices of the Salvation Army. A two-hour performance was put on especially for the children, many of whom had never witnessed a motion picture exhibition. The little ones were on hand long before nine o'clock, the hour at which the entertainment was to start, and for the ensuing two hours they enjoyed themselves to the utmost. At the conclusion of the performance the Cosmos theater management gave each of the children a horn, while the Salvation Army presented each child with a box of candy, nuts, and an orange.

A similar performance was given at the Howard theater for the colored children of the city.

Crandall Company Distributes Gold.

Washington, D. C.—The Crandall Amusement Company, following a practice started when the company first entered the moving picture field in the District of Columbia, distributed among its seventy-eight employees, something in the neighborhood of $400 in gold. The pieces so distributed ranged from $2.50 to $10.

Change In Federal Theater Tax

The United States Internal Revenue Laws Were Changed by Act of Congress in September, 1916—In Towns with Population of Less Than 5,000 the Tax is Half that for Larger Towns—Tax is Now Due.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The attention of the proprietors and managers of motion picture and other theaters is being invited by the various collectors of customs throughout the United States to the changes in the internal revenue laws, as made by the Act of Congress approved September 8, 1916, which go into effect with the new year.

Proprietors of theaters are required under the law to pay from $25 to $100 per annum, according to their seating capacities, but in cities, towns, and villages, where the population is less than 5,000, the law is more lenient and the exhibitors there must pay only one-half of such taxes.

All of these special taxes will be due and collectible in January, 1917, for six months, and the collector's office is now mailing application blanks to all persons known to be liable for these taxes. Failure to receive blank forms, however, does not relieve any person from liability for the payment of the tax.

The law, as applied to theaters, reads in full, as follows: "Sixth. Proprietors of theaters, museums, and concert halls, where a charge for admission is made, having a seating capacity of not more than two hundred and fifty, shall pay $25; having a seating capacity of more than two hundred and fifty and not exceeding five hundred shall pay $50; having a seating capacity exceeding five hundred and not exceeding eight hundred, shall pay $75; having a seating capacity of more than eight hundred, shall pay $100. Every edifice used for the purpose of dramatic or operatic or other representations, plays, or performances, for admission to which entrance money is received, not including halls or armories rented or used occasionally for concerts or theatrical representations, shall be regarded as a theater: Provided, That in cities, towns, or villages of five thousand inhabitants or less the amount of such payment shall be one-half of that above stated: Provided Further, That whenever any such edifice is under lease at the passage of this Act, the tax shall be paid by the lessee, unless otherwise stipulated between the parties to said lease."

Paramount Invites All Exhibitors to Dine.

Washington, D. C.—The exhibitors in this territory are to be the guests of George M. Mann, manager of the Famous Players exchange, 525 Thirteenth street, northwest, at luncheons, one to be held at the Hotel Rennert, in Baltimore, Md., the other at the Hotel Ebbitt, in this city.

In an open invitation to the exhibitors, Mr. Mann states that the Paramount corporation has been perfecting plans for a closer association between the producers of Paramount pictures, the Paramount exchanges and Paramount exhibitors, with the end in view that the most value to the exhibitor could be gotten out of Paramount pictures already released and with a further idea of doing everything possible to make pictures in the future which will more fully satisfy the exhibitor and increase the value to him of the Paramount program. "The Famous Players Exchange of Washington herewith extends an invitation to its exhibitors in Baltimore and those who are most conveniently situated to Baltimore, to attend a luncheon to be held at the Rennert Hotel, Baltimore, Md., on January 3, 1917, at one o'clock, and to those exhibitors who will find Washington more convenient, to attend a luncheon to be given at the Ebbitt House, Washington, D. C., on January 4, 1917, at one o'clock. The invitation is also extended to any exhibitor who is interested in knowing more about the Paramount idea."

This is a plan entirely new to this territory and it is expected it will be productive of much good. There are many matters that can best be discussed at such a gathering and Mr. Mann has prepared a most interesting program.

Local Metro Exchange Notes.

Washington, D. C.—Samuel E. Bleyer, representing the Serial Producing Company, of New York, is in Washington to assist Manager L. M. Day, of the Metro exchange, in marketing the features now being booked by the latter. Mr. Bleyer has been giving a number of private showings for the benefit of the Washington exhibitors.

George Schwartz, special representative from the home office of Metro, is also doing special work out of the Washington office. Mr. Schwartz, who comes from Dover, Delaware, is interested in a motion picture theater now being built in that place, which will open shortly after the first of the year.

Burned Operator Has Recovered.

Roanoke, Va.—Operator Milton O. Field, who was recently burned in the fire at the Bijou theater, Roanoke, Va., has fully recovered, and will leave this week for Lithbridge, Alberta. The many friends of Mr. Field will be glad to learn of the change and wish him big success.

Rose Tapley Reaches the Capital City

Members of Federation of Women's Clubs in Washington, D. C., Hear Her Lecture on Better Moving Pictures—Cordially Received.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The manufacturers side of the film industry was explained last week to a considerable number of women, members of the Federation of Women's Clubs of the District of Columbia, who had gathered together in the White Parlor of the Hotel Ebbitt, by Rose Tapley, who is making a tour of the United States, speaking in many cities, for the Vitagraph V-L-S-E, Inc.

Mrs. Jacob John Locher, chairman of the motion picture committee of the Federation, presided at the meeting. Needless to say, Miss Tapley was very cordially received, and her lecture was listened to with a great deal of interest. She told them many things concerning the "better picture" movement which they themselves are advocating.

Miss Tapley informed the ladies that they could get exactly the type of pictures they desire by making known their desires through the box office. If a theater manager exhibits pictures of which they do not approve, if they will merely withhold their patronage from that house, the manager will soon come to an understanding of what is wanted and will convey that same idea to the manufacturers of films—in other words, no manager is going to book a class of plays that do not pay him, and the barometer of public opinion is the box office.

The Federation of Women's Clubs, backing the campaign for pictures minus sex problems, has been circulating coupons through the local public schools asking the children, pupils of such schools, to place their selections of films upon them. The results, it is declared, have been better than the Federation expected in that thousands of children have filled out and returned the coupons.

A series of free motion picture matinees are to be held in Washington during the month of January under the auspices of the Federation. These are to be held at some of the houses on Friday afternoons and in the others on Saturday afternoons.

"Joan, the Woman" at National Press Club

Washington's Famous Newspaper Man's Club Entertained by Great Lasky Feature —Author and Producer are Enthusiastically Received.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The showing of the twelve-reel film feature 'Joan, the Woman," before the members of the National Press Club last week, through the courtesy of the producer, Jesse L. Lasky, was greatly appreciated by some two hundred or more newspaper men of Washington. Accompanying Mr. Lasky were Cecil B. deMille, who directed the production, and Miss Jeanie MacPherson, author of the scenario. Each of these were introduced to those present by Theodore Tiller, president of the Press Club. Mr. Lasky was called on to tell how it felt to produce so great a picture. So pleased were the Club members with the magnificent production that Miss MacPherson was given a ten-day guest card to the Club, this card being the first ever issued to a woman. It is, of course, in the nature of a souvenir.

Repeated applause was accorded the work of Geraldine Farrar, the star of the production. It was conceded that this was one of the finest features ever shown in the Club. As a spectacle, it was declared that the film was gripping. The photographic features throughout were brilliantly done. The new Joan of Arc spectacle made a deep impression, and held the attention of all. The splendid dramatic treatment given the picture was commented upon.

Smoky City Filmdom Doings

Healthy Condition of Business Generally Marks Close of the Year—New Quarters of the Louis J. Selznick Productions—Making Theaters Over to Give More Seating Capacity—Business Notes of General Interest.

From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Selznick Exchange Getting Ready.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—The quarters of the Lewis J. Selznick Productions, in the Seltzer Film building, Pittsburgh, are being handsomely equipped with separate offices for Manager C. F. Schwerin, his assistants, and the various departments of the branch. The work is being personally supervised by Mr. Schwerin, who is carrying out his original ideas in the convenient and attractive arrangement of the large exchange. The newly established branch of the A. G. Fontana Productions, Inc., will occupy a portion of the spacious Selznick quarters when completed.

Miss Jessie Sachs, formerly cashier at the World Film exchange, is now at the Selznick exchange in the same capacity. Harry Williams, formerly of the World, is now head shipper at the Selznick exchange.

Hilltop to Have Double the Capacity.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Hilltop theater, Warrington avenue, is about to undergo an extensive remodeling process. Alexander Moore, the owner and manager, announces that the capacity of the house will be doubled, a new indirect lighting system installed and the theatre beautifully redecorated throughout. The improvements will cost about $6,000. Work is to be started at once and, in order to avoid suspending business, two months will be required for its completion. After the improvements are made the Hilltop will be one of the largest and most up-to-date theaters in that section of the city.

G. B. Meyers & Son Building New Theater.

Derry, Pa.—A handsome theater is being erected at Derry, Pa., by G. B. Meyers & Son, prominent exhibitors and owners of the Gem theater in Derry. The new house will have a capacity of 550 and will be modern in every respect. The building is of fire-proof construction, attractive in its design and promises to be one of the finest in its locality. It is hoped to have it ready for opening on or about New Year's Day. When the new house is completed the Gem theater will be discontinued.

Samuel Thompson Reopens the Bijou.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The former Bijou theater, at 7707 Frankstown avenue, Pittsburgh, which was dark for several months, has been taken over and reopened by Samuel Thompson. The house has been renamed the Star. Mr. Thompson, who was formerly an operator at Hazelwood, is experienced in the exhibiting business and his success in the new venture is assured. A number of improvements have been made by Mr. Thompson and the Star presents a cosy and inviting appearance.

Peter Demas Believes in Re-Booking.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Peter J. Demas, manager of the Minerva theater, Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, has indicated that he is a firm believer in the re-booking policy by his frequent repetitions of feature subjects on the Paramount program, of which he is the first-run house in the downtown district. Mr. Demas reports very satisfactory business on his re-booking days, as a demand has been created through the wide and favorable comment which the pictures receive on their first showing.

Business Notes.

Manager Mayer Silverman, of the Liberty Film Renting Company, 938 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, reports that the following leading theaters have booked the Ivan productions during the past few days: the Nixon theater, Tarentum; the Penn theater, Penn avenue and Butler street, Pittsburgh; Wick's theater, Kittanning; the Lowrey theater, Troy Hill, Pittsburgh. Mr. Silverman also states that excellent bookings have been secured on the new Christie comedies, to be released soon. The Tweedledum comedies, also handled by the Liberty exchange, are going great throughout this territory.

For the purpose of raising funds for a motor ambulance to be added to the American red cross in France, the film "Our Boys in the European War" was shown before large audiences in Carnegie Hall and in the Twentieth Century Club last week. Methods of handling wounded in modern warfare and other interesting war scenes made up the film, which was accompanied by explanations by a member of the ambulance corps who saw many months' service on the Western front.

Manager McGurty, of the Pittsburgh office of the International, invaded the West Virginia territory on December 20 with the great new preparedness serial "Patria," featuring Mrs. Vernon Castle. A largely attended trade showing was given at the Princess theater, Wheeling, and on the three succeeding days at Parkersburg, Clarksburg and Fairmont. Bookings on the serial have been heavy throughout the entire district, and Mr. McGurty expects to set a new record before the release date, January 1.

Buffalo News Letter

By Joseph A. McGuire, 5 Lewis Block, Buffalo, N. Y.

Screen Club Ball Prospects.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—A feature of the Buffalo Screen Club ball at the Elmwood music hall on the evening of January 29 is likely to be the staging of a scene from one of the current screen successes, the stars at the ball taking the parts.

C. A. Taylor, general chairman of the ball, recently invited Francis X. Bushman to be present for the evening. Mr. Bushman's reply was as follows:

"Would surely like to be with you all on January 29, but it is a little early for me to be able to say if it will be possible. Serials make the lives of all who participate most unhappy and uncertain. If I am alive and in New York City at that time, I will bend every effort to make the trip. Both Miss Bayne and myself wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

An effort is being made to also have Beverly Bayne at the ball.

Business Slow in Rural New York.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Traveling men say that the moving picture business in several of the smaller towns and villages in Western and Central New York is rather quiet at present. It is said that during the present cold weather the rural population near these places prefer to remain in their homes during the winter evenings than to venture over the bad roads that lead to their nearest villages. Many of the residents of these towns are retired farmers and their families, who on the ground of economy are even sparing with their moving picture money. This economy is in contrast with the prodigal spending of the people of the manufacturing towns of West, who throng the show houses in the cold weather.

Orphans See "Birth of a Nation" at Star.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Dr. P. C. Cornell, manager of the Star theater, Buffalo, and A. H. Varley, manager of "The Birth of a Nation," which recently played the Star, invited several hundred Buffalo orphans to see the show. This was in the nature of a Christmas celebration. The children were taken to the theater in autos or chartered street cars.

Small Fire Damages Theater.

Bath, N. Y.—Fire recently damaged the Park theater in Bath, N. Y. The flames were in the upper part of the building over the auditorium and were not easily reached by the firemen. The damage was estimated at several hundred dollars, covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is not known.

Business Notes of Interest.

Buffalo, N. Y.—J. R. Stevens, who managed the film, "The Unborn," for the Popular exchange, Buffalo, has returned from a trip through Central and Northern New York where he showed the production at several theaters.

Exhibitor Miller of Glens Falls Dies.

Glens Falls, N. Y.—Joseph Miller, who was in the moving picture business in Glens Falls, N. Y., died recently after a long illness. Despite the handicap of being a cripple, Mr. Miller took care of a volume of details and gave his patrons first-class service.

Good Business at Famous Resort.

Saratoga, N. Y.—Ellis Weinstein, manager of the Broadway Palace moving picture theater of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., reports that his 1916 business was the best in his history. On account of the war many who in former years would have visited Europe, spent part of the season at Saratoga. This brought plenty of money to the town and incidentally to Mr. Weinstein's theater.

Good Trade at Syracuse Theaters.

Syracuse, N. Y.—The excellent organ in the Regent theater, Syracuse, is being used to advantage by Al J. Sardino, lessee of this house. The Regent, which is a ten cent theater, charges twenty-five cents for special attractions. Mr. Sardino and his brother, John Sardino, own and operate the Gem theater, Oneida, N. Y.

All the downtown houses in Syracuse are having a fine trade. The Strand, that city, recently had a good run on "War Brides," and the Welting opera house featured Annette Kellermann in "The Daughter of the Gods."

Batavia Exhibitor Elected Mayor.

Batavia, N. Y.—William F. Haitz, owner and manager of the Dellinger theater, Batavia, N. Y., was recently elected mayor of that city. Mr. Haitz is connected with several business enterprises in Batavia.

Try-It Theater Will Add Seats.

Buffalo, N. Y.—J. D. Parmelee, owner of the Try-It moving picture theater, 1065 Grant street, Buffalo, will add 250 seats to his house. Mr. Parmelee charges five cents admission during the week and ten cents on Sundays. When he recently ran a war picture the crowds in front of his theater blocked street car traffic for a time.

Edisonia to Open.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Harry Bidwell will open the Edisonia moving picture theater, Buffalo, at an early date.

E. D. Bacon May Build New Theater.

Silver Creek, N. Y.—E. D. Bacon, who conducts the Central moving picture theater of Silver Creek, N. Y., is considering a plan to buy a site on Main street, that village, and erect there a moving picture theater.

Helpmate for Exchange Manager.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Mrs. G. A. Hickey, whose husband is manager of the Triangle Film, Buffalo, spent Christmas with her parents in Oswego, N. Y. Mrs. Hickey has made a close study of the film business and occasionally aids her husband at the exchange.

Is C. C. McKibben in Hearing?

Buffalo, N. Y.—"Why doesn't C. C. McKibben, manager of the Triangle Film, Pittsburg, send us a holiday greeting? He certainly made many friends when he represented the World Film, Fox and other film companies in Buffalo."

This was the statement made by a close friend of Mr. McKibben's in Buffalo. The speaker also suggested that an item of this kind would be a tip to Mr. McKibben to send his former associates here a line or two occasionally, even if his mind is engrossed with exchange business in the Smoky City.

New House in Medina.

Medina, N. Y.—It is rumored that a new moving picture theater, with a 1200 capacity, may be erected in Medina, N. Y. It is said that the two houses there are not large enough to take care of the show business of the town properly.

Lovejoy Palace to Be Enlarged.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Samuel Rappeport, proprietor of the Lovejoy Palace theater at 1202 Lovejoy street, Buffalo, is planning to add 800 seats to his house. His son, Jacob Rappeport, is operator at the Palace. Nine years ago Mr. Rappeport, Sr., opened the Royal Star theater in a little store at 1908 Niagara street, this city. The capacity was only 187 seats. At one time he conducted four theaters here.

Atlanta News Story

A. M. Beatty, 63 Copenhill Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Savoy Theater Managed by W. L. Schmidt.

ATLANTA, GA.—W. L. Schmidt, of New Castle, Ind., is now in charge of the Savoy theater, Atlanta, having assumed command Monday. Mr. Schmidt is a brother of George L. Schmidt, manager of the Alamo No. 2, and brings to his new position a splendid experience and a likable personality.

The theater is to be thoroughly cleaned and art directors have been given instructions to proceed with decoration of same. The house has a seating capacity of four hundred.

A. C. Bromberg to Head the Local International.

Atlanta, Ga.—A. C. Bromberg has taken charge of the Atlanta branch of the International, succeeding George Allison. Mr. Bromberg started in the moving picture business even before there were any American productions. He was with the Mutual for a number of years and with the Triangle since its organization. He has been in the distribution end at Atlanta for the last six years.

World Film Assumes Control.

Atlanta, Ga.—The World Film Corporation of New York has assumed control of the World's business in Atlanta, which office distributes the World-Brady pictures in the southern states.

Sam Dembo, in the employ of the World for several years and at one time was manager of the Atlanta branch for this corporation before his transfer to Detroit, has again been placed in charge of the Atlanta branch succeeding J. L. Marentette. The S. A. Lynch Enterprises formerly owned this branch.

J. Wilson Smith to Manage Alamo No. 1

Atlanta, Ga.—J. Wilson Smith has taken charge of the Alamo theater No. 1, Atlanta. Mr. Smith comes to Atlanta from Spartanburg, S. C., where for a number of years he has managed various theaters for the S. A. Lynch Enterprises. He has been in the exhibitors' end of the picture business for a number of years, and will no doubt make a big success of the theater.

Unity Film Gets Tweedledum Comedies.

Atlanta, Ga.—R. M. Savini, president of the Unity Film, announces he has secured the rights for the Tweedledum Comedies, made by the Eagle Producing Company, Jacksonville, and featuring Perez.

John L. Day Comes as Special Salesman.

Atlanta, Ga.—John L. Day, Jr., who has been in the employ of the Fox Film in the capacity of manager at the Buenos Ayres, S. A., office, has been transferred to the Atlanta branch of the same corporation in the capacity of special salesman, travelling the East and West coast of Florida, assisting in the booking of the new Fox special releases.

James Wilbanks Goes to Pathe.

Atlanta, Ga.—James Wilbanks, formerly in the employ of the International, has accepted a position as an assistant to George Allison, manager of the Pathe office.

A Christmas Donation.

Atlanta, Ga.—A committee of exchangemen consisting of Joe Marentette, Walter Price, Charley Kessnich and O. P. Hall gathered together nearly a hundred dollars Christmas week for the relief of a former exchangeman, who has for some time been stricken with paralysis. A most worthy cause for which this big hearted committee gave their time and work.

J. L. Marentette Goes to Triangle.

Atlanta, Ga.—J. L. Marentette, one of the most popular moving picture exchange managers in the South and treasurer of the Atlanta Screen Club, has accepted the management of the Atlanta branch of the Triangle.

Mr. Marentette has been in the exchange management ever since pictures were first placed on the market, being at one time in the employ of the General, Universal and the World in the capacity of manager.

Dan Michalove, one of the oldest men in the service of the S. A. Lynch Enterprises, now manager of the Galax theater, Asheville, N. C., was in Atlanta this week; while here he closed a deal for the "Mutt and Jeff" cartoon comedies with the Unity Film Service.

Week Runs of Big Features in Toronto

Many of the Downtown Picture Theaters Are Keeping Big Features on the Screen for Whole Week—Fewer Changes Than Formerly.

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerard St., Toronto, Ont.

TORONTO ONT.—The downtown theaters of Toronto, many of them, have adopted the policy of exhibiting a big feature straight through one week with only a partial change of program on Thursday. The Regent and Strand theaters have led the way, in this respect, and the plan has not affected the patronage apparently. Recent all-week features at the Regent have included "The Common Law", "Less Than the Dust", Metro's "Romeo and Juliet", "The Battle of the Somme", Lasky's "Oliver Twist", and "War as it Really Is". All-week features at the Strand, recently, have been "Idle Wives", "King's Visit to the Front", Metro's "Extravagance" and others. The Rialto theater recently screened "Neptune's Daughter" for a whole week for a second run. The Rialto presented "Less Than the Dust" during Christmas week and a week or two before "The Common Law" was the attraction.

It is also a fact that very few downtown theaters of Toronto are changing bills three times each week. The Regent started out with this schedule but soon dropped to the twice-a-week arrangement and for the past six weeks the big attractions at this new house have been run from Monday to Saturday night.

The three downtown vaudeville theaters also run pictures through the entire week. Loew's Yonge Street theater has been showing Fox features by the week while Triangle releases have been the week's attraction at Shea's Hippodrome.

A comparatively large number of prominent uptown theaters of Toronto are also adhering to the twice-a-week plan. These include the Madison, Variety, Globe, Beaver and others.

Perkins & Co. to Distribute Gold Fibre Screens.

Toronto.—Perkins & Company, 11 Temperance street, Toronto, have become exclusive Canadian distributors for Minusa Gold Fibre screens, Simplex projection machines and Speer carbons. This company also has offices and salesrooms in Montreal and Winnipeg.

James Travis Forms an Independent Company.

Toronto.—James Travis and the Specialty Film Import, Limited, distributors in Canada of Pathe releases, have parted company. Travis was Toronto branch manager of the company and had been in its employ for twenty-two months. Previous to this engagement he was for eighteen months with the Consolidated Film Company, importers of European features.

Travis has now undertaken to organize an independent company with which to deal in big British features and to handle state right propositions for either the whole of Canada or the Province of Ontario. He has already got into touch with several American producing companies with a view to securing the Canadian rights for a number of multiple reel attractions.

On the occasion of the termination of his connection with the Specialty company, his office staff and a number of exhibitors presented him with a club bag containing a large array of toilet articles. Travis is held in high esteem in many quarters of the Ontario field while he is also well-known in Montreal where he managed several theaters.

Manager Phillips' Local Film.

Kitchener, Ont.—Manager "Pop" Phillips of the Grand theater, Kitchener, Ontario, has been putting over a novel advertising and popularity contest stunt which has been productive of very fine results. Phillips made arrangements for the taking of a one-reel photoplay in which the leading role is to be played by the most popular young lady of Kitchener.

Strand's Weekly Not Sold.

Toronto, Ont.—Emphatic denial is made by Manager R. S. Marvin of the Strand theater, Toronto, that he had disposed of his theatre's film house organ, The Strand Star Weekly, as widely reported. This news weekly, which specializes in Canadian happenings, is still being produced and shown each week at the Toronto Strand. Marvin had under consideration the sale of the producing and distributing rights of his reel but the deal was called off.

Advertising Clocks in Ontario.

Galt, Ont.—John C. Green, the live manager of the Temple theater, Galt, Ontario, has secured the Ontario selling rights for the Kineto advertising clock for use in moving picture theaters. Green has roadmen calling on exhibitors throughout Ontario.

Dayton's New Strand Now Open

City's New Picture Theater Considered One of the Finest in Ohio—Seating Capacity Is 2,000—Will Be Under Management of Harry Brown—Some of Its Interesting Features—Policy and Programs.

By Kenneth C. Crain, 610 First Nat. Bank Building, Cincinnati, O.

DAYTON, O.—The new Strand theater, opened on December 23 as the city's newest and finest moving picture house, is considered one of the most up-to-date theaters in Ohio devoted exclusively to pictures, as it seats 2,000 persons and its appointments are the last word in luxury and convenience. A $15,000 Wurlitzer Hope-Jones Unit orchestra is a feature. The house is located in the heart of the city, on Main street, near Fifth. The color scheme followed in the decoration is old ivory and damask rose, with dull metallic medallions and finish. The boxes are finished in the Caen stone effect. Harry Brown is manager. Features exclusively will be run, the management having arranged to use first-run Paramount releases the first half of each week, and on Friday and Saturday, with Fox film on Wednesday and Thursday The opening was attended by large crowds, and the house has the most favorable prospects possible for success. The opening program featured Lou Tellegen in "The Victoria Cross."

Youngstown Operators Elect.

Youngstown, O.—Youngstown moving-picture operators have elected the following officers to serve during the coming year: President, James M. Steadman; vice-president, Albert Wiser; treasurer, Frank Cook; secretary, Henry J. Hamm; business agent, Albert Diana. The operators claim a hundred per cent. membership, with every man in the city operating a machine as a member. Relations with exhibitors are now on a satisfactory and a friendly basis, and the organization looks forward to a highly successful year.

Manager Holah as Society Light.

Cincinnati, O.—The special-invitation showing of the first three installments of International's new serial, "Patria," featuring Mrs. Vernon Castle, was a pronounced success, over six hundred persons filling the ball-room at the Hotel Sinton on the afternoon of December 22 to view the widely-heralded film. The social prestige of Mrs. Castle was of course largely responsible for the interest shown, and it was cleverly utilized by Manager C. E. Holah, in charge of the Cincinnati branch of the International. The social register constituted his mailing list extending invitations to attend the exhibition, and many prominent people accepted. A telegram from Mrs. Castle was read between reels by Mr. Holah. It has not yet been fully determined what house will get the first run of the serial, and this may not be settled for some time, as it is understood the release date of the first installment and subsequent numbers may be postponed, on account of unexpected delays encountered on the Coast in filming the fourth and other installments.

"Whozoo?" Gets Across Big.

Cincinnati, O.—The Cincinnati Motion Picture Exhibitors' League has convincingly demonstrated its ability to turn producer in highly successful fashion. Its one-reel animal comedy, "Whozoo?", based on a clever scenario by J. S. Hastings, otherwise "Luke McLuke," is literally a howling success, due to the participation of the wolves, hyenas and other amateurs out at the Zoo, and there was a real scramble for the first run, the honor falling to Manager I. Libson, of the Family. Of course the fact that the rentals all went to the "Save the Zoo" fund account somewhat for the rush to use the picture and to pay high prices for it, but none the less the exhibitors feel that they can break into big-time producing any time they get ready. The real merit of the film may be gathered from what was said in a wire from W. R. Wilson, of the Ohio Board of Censors, directed to President Fred Emmert, of the Cincinnati League: "Have just seen your 'Whozoo?' picture. Sincerely compliment you on the good camera work, good direction and generally fine educational and amusement qualities. After this picture has served the purpose for which it was made suggest that with some alterations it should be put in regular service, as its entertaining qualities are too good to be laid on the shelf."

To Enlarge the Local Keith Theater.

Cincinnati, O.—Announcement has been made that the B. F. Keith Cincinnati house is to be enlarged and remodeled, in connection with the construction on the site and adjoining ground of one of the finest and largest office buildings in Cincinnati. Additional ground extending from the Strand theater, which is north of the Keith theater, on Walnut street, to the alley north of Fifth street, has been acquired and will give ample room for the new building, as well as for all of the changes projected in connection with the theater proper. The building will have a frontage of 123 feet on Walnut street. Work on the theater will not begin until after the close of the current season next spring.

People's Theater to Be Sold.

Cincinnati, O.—The People's theater property, owned by the Heuck interests, at Thirteenth and Vine streets, is to be sold. The house is one of the oldest in the city, and has had a varied career, running through stock, vaudeville, burlesque and moving pictures.

Nashville Producing Company Releases Film

First Five-Reel Production, Entitled "God's Greatest Creation," Exhibited for Two Days Running at the Vendome, a Local House.

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Building, Nashville, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—The first five-reel production of the Dixie Film Company, entitled "God's Greatest Creation," was released on December 15, and ran for two days at the Vendome theater, which was leased especially for the occasion. Following the completion of this picture, President James Calnay announced the incorporation of an associate company, to be known as the Calnay Cinema Corporation. Mr. Calnay is president of the company; Halsey H. Tower, vice-president, and W. A. Harrison, secretary-treasurer. One five-reel feature will be produced monthly, and distributed from the Nashville office. Work has begun on "Man's Fate Is Woman," under the direction of Mr. Calnay, with Halsey H. Tower in the lead.

Pending the operation of a larger studio the majority of the interior scenes for the forthcoming productions will be produced at Jacksonville, Fla., where the company has opened a studio adapted to winter production. Negotiations are under way with several northern film companies for capable camera and laboratory

James Calnay.

Dayton to Have Another Picture Theater

Dayton Theater Company Formed—Will Build New House on Main Street to Seat 2,500 Persons—Capital $250,000.

DAYTON, O.—The attractiveness of Dayton as a moving-picture exhibition center, due to the high average wage-scale and the prosperity of the city, has led to plans on the part of Indianapolis interests, in combination with prominent Dayton men, for the construction of a handsome theater. The Dayton Theater Co. has been formed to handle the matter, with a capitalization of $250,000, and a 99-year lease has been acquired on Main street, between First and Second. The property is now occupied by the old First Baptist Church, and this property will be razed to make room for the new house, which is to seat 2,500 persons Among those interested in Dayton are Charles W. Dayle, Fred Rike, Harry Schenck and Sidney G. Kusworm, while Mark Gates, director of the Circle theater, Indianapolis. Meyer Efroymson and Isidore Feibleman are other Hoosier capitalists connected with the company. The financial status of the project is indicated by the fact that a preferred stock issue has already been taken over by a leading Cincinnati brokerage house.

A MOST ACCEPTABLE NEW YEAR'S GIFT
TO YOUR THEATRE MANAGERS
A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO THIS PAPER
START WITH THIS ISSUE
Send Your Remittance Today.

men, and the officers of the company state that the forthcoming subjects will compare favorably with the best independent features on the market.

Improvements at Fifth Avenue.

Nashville, Tenn.—Numerous lobby decorations and alterations at the Fifth Avenue theater during the past week give the large up-town house a much improved appearance. New lighting arrangements, fresh paint and wicker furniture contribute largely to the pleasing effect attained. The recently added feature of running a quartette or Hawaiian singing act between picture shows seems to have made a decided hit with the public, and it is proposed to make this a permanent addition to the program service.

Changes in Local General Film.

Memphis, Tenn.—A shake-up in the local office of the General Film Company, following the appointment of a new manager some weeks ago, has resulted in a number of the employees at this branch being released, announcement having been made that in future Memphis will be used merely as a commercial distributing point for General films. It is planned to handle the more important business, including big booking deals, etc., from either the Atlanta or New Orleans office. W. P. Haslett has been in charge of the Memphis branch since November 20.

Knickerbocker's Advance Bulletin.

Nashville, Tenn.—The Knickerbocker has installed an electric lighted bulletin display cage immediately inside the vestibule to exploit programs for the ensuing week. A compartment of sufficient size to accommodate a one-sheet poster has been constructed, set back in about a foot of black velvet. On entering the auditorium, it is the first thing to catch the patron's eye, and is proving a valuable asset to the cause of advance publicity.

Gaumont Camera Man Visits Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn.—Through the co-operation of the Nashville Industrial Bureau, the Gaumont Company sent a representative to Nashville to film the principal points of industrial and historical interest in the city. These scenes will be shown in the "See America First" weekly travel series.

United to Handle "Snow White."

Memphis, Tenn.—The United Film Service has contracted with the Educational Film Corporation to distribute "Snow White" for the states of Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and Kentucky. Bookings to date have been unusually heavy for this class of feature, and Manager Kaufman forecasts a record run of the picture.

"War Brides" Runs Strong.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Selznick's "War Brides" met with marked success during its three-day run at the Alcazar at advanced prices. As with the former production, "The Common Law," much publicity was given the picture locally, which resulted in crowded houses. Admission was 25 cents adults, 10 cents children.

Tennessee Business Notes.

Memphis, Tenn.—More than five hundred people were turned away from the Princess theater on December 9 during the "Yellow Menace" showing.

Nashville, Tenn.—One of Manager Wassman's clever advertising stunts is the employment of a goat team and wagon to carry posters for the Knickerbocker. The weird-looking vehicle can be seen about the streets at any hour during the day with large posters erected on the wagon body, exploiting the current productions at the Knickerbocker.

New Color Process Capitalized

Louis J. Dittmar, a Leading Film Man in Louisville, Is Backing New Arts Picture Co., Just Incorporated in Kentucky—Discovery of L. I. Fox—Film Now Being Made in New York—Home Office Is in Louisville.

Ohio Valley News Service, 1404 Starks Building, Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—It has been generally known in moving picture circles for several months that Louis J. Dittmar, head of the Majestic Amusement Co., of Louisville, one of the principal stockholders of the American Kinemacolor Co., was interested in plans to develop moving pictures in natural colors. A few days ago when articles of incorporation were filed here by the New Arts Picture Co., of Kentucky, with a capital of $125,000, for the purpose of producing moving pictures in colors under a secret process discovered by L. I. Fox, a young chemist, formerly connected with the American Kinemacolor Co., who for five years has been experimenting, and researching in an effort to perfect a process.

The new company has 1,250 shares of stock of the par value of $100, and with authority to incur an indebtedness of $500,000. In addition to Mr. Dittmar the incorporators are James B. Brown, president of a large Louisville national bank; and Edward P. Humphrey, one of the prominent attorneys of the city.

It is stated that whlie the home office of the company will be in Louisville, all production and business matters of importance will be handled in New York. In addition to the manufacture of films the company is licensed to conduct moving picture theaters, and do a general theatrical business.

Louis J. Dittmar recognized that the new process promised a new epoch in picture producing, and therefore contracted for the rights to use the process for a term of five years. For the purpose of associating with himself local capital Mr. Dittmar organized the local company, and exhibited the first completed proof of the new process here before the country was wise.

It is understood that under the new process the pictures are taken on a gelatinous strip, in the same manner as at present black and white picture are produced. They are then subjected to a development bath, in which the real secret lies.

Mr. Dittmar has left the city for the East in connection with his plans for the new company, but is expected to return shortly.

Defer Action on Second Story Shows.

Shelbyville, Ky.—Action has been deferred in connection with the proposed ordinance relative to forcing all moving picture theaters to operate on the ground floor. It has been shown that R. M. Brown, deceased, executed a long time lease for a building at an annual rental of $3,000, with the Louisville owners as a picture house. The Shelbyville council has repeatedly renewed the license, and the house was sub-leased to the present operators in good faith, and their interests should be considered. The lease runs until January, 1924, and the lessees during that time must carry insurance of $25,000 on the property, and keep it in repair. Attorneys for the estate of Mr. Brown, also representing the lessees are making a hard fight to keep the ordinance from being passed. It was stated at a recent meeting of the council that the operators of the theater did not wish to risk life, and had put in every modern improvement suggested to put the building in safe condition.

Enter Adrian C. Humphrey, Jr.

Louisville, Ky.—Adrian C. Humphrey, head of the Strand Amusement Co., operating the Strand theater, is the proud father of Adrian C. Humphrey, Jr., who was born early in December.

Kentucky Theater Notes.

Providence, Ky.—Dr. W. T. Hayes has purchased the Dreamland theater from R. L. Forsythe, and taken charge of the active management.

Frankfort, Ky.—The Capital theater, on December 20, arranged a potato admission under which children were charged three potatoes and grown ups six potatoes, the accumulated wealth in tubers being donated for the relief of the poor.

Winchester, Ky.—Albert Conn has closed a deal with George Brothers for the lease on the Colonial theater, which he opened on December 14.

Harlan, Ky.—The management of the Cumberland theater recently offered a unique "give away" consisting of a young deer, captured in Florida a few months ago.

Jellico, Ky.—J. L. Barker, formerly of Knoxville, Tenn., has taken over the active management of the Palace theater of this city.

Louisville, Ky.—Starting December 18, Macauley's theater opened with a three day run of Lyman H. Howe's famous travel pictures, the new production consisting of a tour of Hawaii.

Central City, Ky.—Thomas W. Murphy will open a new picture theater in the Gish Building.

Maysville, Ky.—Plans to open the Gem theater, in bankruptcy, failed to work out, and it is understood that the property will shortly be offered at public auction.

Louisville, Ky.—The West End Kernels, operators of an airdome in the Western part of the city, recently transferred their property to George W. Wentzel, who is well known in moving picture circles.

Louisville, Ky.—J. Johnson Mussellman, manager of the Star theater, recently took part in an amateur theatrical, the funds from which were donated for Christmas charity.

Irvine, Ky.—Clyde Gains, owner of the Lyric theater, which was recently burned when fire swept the business section of the city, is planning shortly to erect a new theater. The new theater will be fireproof throughout. Architects are working on the plans.

Louisville, Ky.—The Walnut theater management has gone to the merchants of Louisville and contracted with them to furnish tickets to be given away with sales in lieu of trading stamps. The merchants pay for this privilege, which is considered good advertising. Thirty-six concerns at present are giving away tickets for shows at the Walnut.

Of course some of the other theaters are rather hostile to the movement, as it does detract from box office sales at some theaters.

Middlesboro, Ky.—The Edgewood theater has opened for the winter season and is featuring Chaplin releases.

Hartford, Ky.—Dr. Bean has opened his opera house as a moving picture theater, operating two nights a week, and showing Mutual films.

Danville, Ky.—Manager Stout of the Opera House is having a special college picture made with local talent, and will shortly show it at the theater. Danville is a big college town, and the picture should go good.

Morehead, Ky.—The management of the Cozy theater recently arranged a benefit performance in which the price of admission was placed at fifteen cents, but lowered to ten cents where patrons brought food or clothing for the poor.

Maysville, Ky.—The Pastime theater is being improved, and a new stucco front installed.

Higher Admission in Detroit

Three of City's Important Theaters Will Raise Admission Prices.—Majestic Doubles Price of Dress Circle Seats—Washington Will Run the Biggest Features at Increased Rates—The Broadway Also in Line.

By Jacob Smith, 503 Free Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

DETROIT, Mich.—December 24th is an exceedingly important date for three of Detroit's leading theaters. On that day the Majestic theater inaugurated a new schedule of prices, getting 50 cents for about 500 seats in the dress circle that formerly sold at 25 cents. It will mean a difference in the course of a week of several thousand dollars if they are taken as often as heretofore.

On the same day the Washington theater inaugurated a complete change of policy, playing the biggest features for indefinite runs, and establishing a schedule of prices of 25 cents to $1 afternoons, and 25 cents to $1.50 at nights—two performances daily, and all seats reserved. The sale on "A Daughter of the Gods" opened Dec. 18 and the demand thus far has been far greater than expected. This picture will run for four weeks at least. Then comes "The Honor System," "Civilization," and "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

The Broadway-Strand on December 24 also changed its prices, getting 50 cents for the last four rows at night.

The action of these three leading Detroit theaters shows just what the motion picture business is coming to—higher prices and better productions.

More Exchange Changes in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich.—Again do we announce a number of changes in the management of Detroit exchanges. Samuel Dembow, Jr., has resigned as manager of the World Film Exchange and has been transferred to Dallas, Texas, where he has assumed charge of the World exchange. He is succeeded by George Cotton.

W. C. Preller has been appointed manager of the Triangle Film Exchange in Detroit to succeed A. I. Shapiro, who has gone to Buffalo for the Rodgson Film Company. Mr. Preller formerly managed the exchange of the General Film Co., at Minneapolis, as well as Des Moines.

Bert S. Graham has resigned as special representative for the Universal Film Exchange in Detroit, to become manager of the Detroit office of the Tri-State Film Company, 120 Broadway, which will handle the coming Art Drama productions. Mr. Graham was connected for a long while with the Universal and was previously an exhibitor. Art W. Blankmeyer will continue as president and general manager and will make his home in Detroit.

The Greater Vitagraph Exchange in Detroit will move early in January to its new quarters on the top floor of the building at 73 Broadway—directly opposite the Triangle exchange. J. M. Duncan, local manager, promises a modern and complete exchange in every respect.

Saginaw Theater Changes Policy.

Saginaw, Mich.—"An Enemy to the King" (Vitagraph) was the opening attraction at the Franklin theater, Saginaw, which has adopted a new policy of motion pictures. Quite a number of exchange managers were present at the opening, and many telegrams were sent to the manager, Joe Friedman, by exhibitors and producers.

Col. Butterfield to Open Detroit Office.

Detroit, Mich.—Col. W. S. Butterfield, owner of the Butterfield chain of houses in Michigan, is making some big bookings for his theaters. He has already signed up "The Eagle's Wings," "The Crisis," and "Civilization," and expects to collar all of the best features placed on the market. While in Detroit last week he told The World correspondent that he expects to open a Detroit office about the first of the year which would handle the publicity, bookings and other matters regarding his theaters. Detroit, being the exchange center of Michigan, is the logical place to establish such an office.

Manager C. W. Porter Resigns.

Detroit, Mich.—Charles W. Porter, manager of the Regent theater, Detroit, has resigned and no manager in his place has yet been appointed. This theater is owned and controlled by William F. Klatt.

Wolverine Gets Ivan Film Franchise.

Detroit, Mich.—The Wolverine Feature Film Co., 71 Campau building, Detroit, Edward Geller, manager, announces that it has secured the Michigan rights to the productions of the Ivan Film Corporation. Charles E. McCabe is assistant manager of the Wolverine.

Two Saginaw Theaters Quit.

Saginaw, Mich.—The Princess theater in Marshall, Mich., and the Palace Hippodrome, in Saginaw, Mich., were closed during the past week. Poor business and too much competition is given as the reason. The Palace was operated by the Hoffman Brothers. Several exhibitors from other cities are negotiating to take over the Palace.

Film Credit Bureau of Detroit.

Detroit, Mich.—Sidney L. Alexander has started a Film Credit Bureau at 558 Penobscot building, Detroit. About twenty Detroit Exchanges are members of the Bureau. The main object of the bureau is to centralize complaints and adjustments in the film business, resulting in closer co-operation between the exchanges and the exhibitors.

H. I. Garson Gets "The Witching Hour."

Detroit, Mich.—Harry I. Garson has purchased the Michigan rights to "The Witching Hour," and will probably give it a showing soon at the Broadway Strand theater, Detroit.

Fox Film Officials Visit.

Detroit, Mich.—Herman Robbins, assistant general manager of the Fox Film Corporation, and Paul C. Kooney, central manager of that company, were recent visitors in Detroit. The new booking policy on the Bara and Farnum special productions is going over big in Michigan.

C. A. Meade With Pathe.

Detroit, Mich.—C. R. Seelye, general sales manager of Pathe, while in Detroit recently announced that C. A. Meade, former central division manager at Cleveland for the Greater Vitagraph, had been appointed to a similar position for Pathe.

Ira H. Cohen Boosting U. Serials.

Detroit, Mich.—Ira H. Cohen, formerly associated with Metro in Detroit, is with Universal in charge of the serial department. He is giving all of his attention just now to "The Purple Mask," on which he reports more than 30 bookings in Detroit alone.

Col. Selig Visits Detroit.

Detroit, Mich.—Col. Selig, of Chicago, was in Detroit on December 12th and gave a private screening of "The Garden of Allah," for John H. Kunsky, A. J. Gillingham, George Trendle, M. H. Starr and J. O. Brooks.

E. M. Simons Leases Opera House.

Adrian, Mich.—Elwyn M. Simons, of Adrian, Mich., has leased the Croswell opera house for big features exclusively.

Kansas Exhibitor Wants Special Music

John C. Hyatt, Owner of the Gladstone Theater, Says All Producers Ought to Have Special Scores Arranged to Go With Features.

From Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Building, Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—John G. Hiatt, proprietor of the Gladstone, one of the finest suburban houses in Kansas City, is a real estate man and builder. He owned a lot of vacant property in a good residence district. He built some houses there. Then he established a business center, and made the moving picture theater, which was a handsome structure, the "center of the center." He wanted this theater to cement his community, to draw customers of his houses, to make his real estate more valuable.

"The experience I have had with special music for some big productions," says Mr. Hiatt, "convinces me of the value of special scores. Everybody knows that no musicians, however competent, can properly follow the printed directions as to music on a picture, unless they have special music—the first time the picture is shown. After they have seen the picture themselves a few times, they can hit it off well, with their memorized pieces, or the pieces standard suggested, or improvisations. But their failure to make the music coincide exactly with the picture the first night, often means that the patrons fail to get the full appreciation of the entertainment—the incomplete music actually detracts from the effect of the picture.

"We all know, too, that every once in a while we get a picture that ought to be good, but isn't. We have to expect it. If such a picture had good music, the music would carry the entertainment through. I know this. The music would hold up the picture, and the patrons would go away feeling that they had received the worth of their money.

"There is just one way to get this suitable music for each picture, that the musicians can play in harmony with the picture on the first performance. That is for the producers to have the music specially composed for each picture. They could rent the music—perhaps issuing only the piano or organ score—at a small price, and might even require full payment if the sheets were not returned in good condition. The exhibitors would undoubtedly be willing to stand any reasonable obligation, if they knew they would get music that would add 50 per cent to the satisfaction of the people who pay their dimes."

Mr. Hiaatt has taken the matter up with one or two producers, who see the point.

J. P. Bardwell a Lucky Exhibitor.

El Dorado, Kan.—J. P. Bardwell, Royal theater, El Dorado, Kansas, is new in the moving picture game, having bought the Royal recently. Mr. Bardwell is a successful business man of the town, and recognizing the possibilities for a good theater in El Dorado, purchased the Royal. El Dorado is experiencing an oil rush, and the town is filled with a good many transients who have money to spend and the moving picture offers nearly the only amusement in the town. Mr. Bardwell has struck an opportune moment to enter the game, and will no doubt make a success of it as he has done in other business ventures in the town.

How Dick Liggett Advertises Coming Features.

Kansas City, Mo.—Dick Liggett, manager of the Jean Gantier theater, in Kansas City, Kansas, has a new method of exploiting his pictures. For each feature of special interest which he is going to run, he has made about fifteen feet of film, stating the title of the picture, the date, price of admission, etc. This is attached at the head of the reel, giving the audience definite information, and something to arouse their interest. This scheme has worked out very satisfactorily, and is much appreciated by those who attend, proving a very good advertisement.

C. S. Stevenson Visits.

Kansas City, Mo.—Charles S. Stevenson, head of the publicity department of the Laemmle Film Service in Des Moines, was a visitor in Kansas City during Christmas week. Mr. Stevenson was in Kansas City for two weeks previous to that time, but owing to an accident was unable to make the rounds of the exchanges to meet old friends.

Business Notes.

Kansas City, Mo.—C. W. Hardin, manager of the Kansas City Metro exchange, left for Chicago recently to attend a conference of the officials of the Metro Picture Service, relative to the release of the new Bushman Bayne serial January 15. A trade showing of the first three episodes will be given in Kansas City at the New Center theater at Fifteenth and Troost. Invitations have been sent to all the exhibitors in the Kansas City territory, asking them to view the showing.

J. S. Applegate, manager of the International exchange at Kansas City, recently gave a private showing of the serial "Patria" and four feature pictures, before the censor board of Kansas City. All were passed without a cut, and the comment of the censors was very favorable.

E. M. Majors, Kansas and Missouri traveler for the Mutual exchange at Kansas City, says the exhibitors of his territory are having good business, the cold spell rather stimulating the patrons.

The Kansas City Mutual exchange reports that the new serial "Perils of Our Girl Reporter" will be released in Kansas City shortly, and that bookings are coming in fine shape. A private showing of five chapters will be given before the formal release.

N. P. Eberly, auditor for the Mutual Film Corporation, is visiting the Kansas City having come from Detroit.

ILLINOIS FILM NOTES.

Alton, Ill.—The Cherry street church has purchased a moving picture machine and will use pictures.

Centralia, Ill.—The third annual moving picture charity benefit was given by Manager George W. Pittenger of the Pittenger Grand theater for the Centralia Provident association.

Paris, Ill.—Manager Weaver, of the Shoaff Opera house, had the children of the Edgar County Orphan's Home as his guests at a showing of "Alice in Wonderland."

Waukegan, Ill.—The good work of the Elite theater has been kept up. This house gave a free showing on Christmas day to poor children of the city. A citizen of Waukegan had previously given a dance and the receipts were used to buy presents for the children which were distributed at the theater.

Pittsfield, Ill.—The resourceful Burr Swan presented Pathe, "The Life of Our Savious," at the Knights of Pythias Opera house, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 24. No charge was made and the shows were given at times when they would not conflict with church services.

Rockford's Mayor Closes Shows

Sunday Evening Shows Prohibited—People Had Voted to Permit Them—Picture Show Problem Now Tangled Up With Other Political Questions—High-handed Action Brings Peck of Trouble—Local Editorial Comment.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

ROCKFORD, ILL.—All local papers have agreed that the city council "slapped popular government in the face," when it summarily voted to close moving picture theaters on Sunday evening, in view of the fact that on April 15, 1913, voters of the city decided at a referendum election to allow the shows to operate. This snap action has made Sunday closing the most important civic issue in Rockford. It has thrown the moving picture industry into local politics. Already the Sunday closing has been hooked up with the local option or anti-liquor fight and advocates of the dry city, contend that the unfair attitude toward the moving picture business is likely to defeat the aims of those who want the saloons suppressed.

Mayor W. W. Bennett is credited with having stated that he is unalterably opposed to Sunday picture shows at any or all times, and is credited by some papers with using the lash over the heads of the aldermen. Justification is sought in the fact that petitions were circulated asking that Sunday evening shows be abolished. It is pointed out, however, that these petitions representing a biased element, ought not to carry more weight than the legal city-wide vote.

The shows have been operated from two to five o'clock on Sunday afternoons and from seven to ten-thirty on Sunday evenings. The ordinance as amended by a vote of seven to six allows the showing of films only between one o'clock and six o'clock. Some members of the city council were absent at the time and with them in their seats, friends of Sunday night shows believe the ordinance will be restored. An amendment changing the hours to one-thirty to five-thirty and seven to eleven was offered at a subsequent meeting but the matter was laid over for a week.

The Rockford ministers have rushed in with a set of resolutions commending the action of the council. Rev. Charles Parker Connolly, pastor of the Christian Union church, made it known that he did not believe the commendation of the action of the council would advance the cause of the church.

Commenting on the situation the Rockford, Republic, says:—"Mayor Bennett proudly acknowledges that he is unalterably opposed to Sunday moving pictures at any and all hours. So far as this remains a personal conviction, the mayor is within his right. The moment it becomes the subject of legislative council action, under the lash of the mayor's whip, against the expressed popular will taken three years ago, it becomes the most flagrant abuse of executive power seen here within the writer's memory.

"If the mayor's attitude is permitted to stand against the people of Rockford there will be no longer here any government of the people, by the people, and for the people. It will be a government of the mayor, by the mayor and for a special class."

The Rockford Star, declares:—"This is still a republican form of government. Majorities rule. Popular elections are still popular. Super-men and super-bodies have not possessed our government yet.

"If a group of aldermen can close the moving picture shows by arbitrary will against the expressed will of the people, another set of aldermen could justify opening the saloons although a majority had voted to oust them."

The Register Gazette sees no excuse:—"It must be decidedly embarassing to certain aldermen when they come face to face these days with those of their constituents who voted to give Rockford motion picture entertainment on Sundays.

"Betrayal of an obligation, solemnly imposed by the people in the best way they have of imposing it—at the ballot box—is not a thing to be excused lightly. It is not to be excused at all. The aldermen who voted to defy the will of the electorate stand in a curious light.

"The Sunday motion picture question was settled by a referendum vote. The will of the people was plain and emphatic—nearly 9000 went to the polls and an impressive majority favored the shows. For the aldermen now, without warning, to nullify even in part, the wish of the majority by closing the theaters on Sunday evenings is practically to dishonor their oath of office. Nothing will explain away such an action.

"If the moving pictures are objectionable on Sunday nights, they must be equally bad on Sunday afternoons. The bills are the same afternoons as nights. If the advocates of defiance of the will of the majority sincerely believe they are in the right, why then do they seek to compromise with wrong by permitting the afternoon show?

"Opponents of the Sunday opening, it is understood, contend that theater managers have not kept their promise to provide strictly educational films on Sundays. Let the people pass on that point as they did on the original question. Do not overthrow the people by seizing a situation when they were not fully represented."

Schools Come Under Theater Tax.

Decatur, Ill.—Schools and other educational institutions which show moving pictures and charge admission fees are likely to be confronted with a request from Uncle Sam, to pay $150 internal revenue tax.

The high school here has a spacious auditorium. It also possesses moving picture equipment. Educational films were shown with a five cent charge, the idea being to assist in defraying expenses. No person profited. The board of education was visited by an internal revenue collector who announced that the fee of $150 was due.

Had Appendicitis But Stuck to Job.

Rockford, Ill.—Although stricken with appendicitis, Arthur C. Charlesworth, stage manager of the "Birth of a Nation," stuck to his job until the end of the performance and gave the patrons all the effects. A surgeon stood by and as soon as the show was over Charlesworth went to the hospital where an operation for his relief was performed.

New Chicago Company.

Springfield, Ill.—Michigan Theater corporation, Chicago; capital, $80,000; incorporators, Mark D. Goodman, J. M. Arvey, J. Korn, has just received its certificate.

Illinois Theater Changes and Notes.

Mattoon, Ill.—Joseph A. Custer, who recently purchased the Majestic, is overhauling it and changing it into a moving picture house.

Taylorville, Ill.—Dominic Frisina, who operates theaters at Kinkaid, Bulpitt and Tovey, new towns along the Chicago & Illinois Midland Railways, plans to erect a theater at Bulpitt costing $15,000. It will be of brick, 30x100, and will seat 800.

Monmouth, Ill.—Manager Stults of the Princess theater interested school officials in "Civilization" and the schools were closed early so children could attend the matinee.

London, has arrived on the coast and is now at the Los Angeles branch. The production has been booked there for a four weeks' run at the Majestic theater. J. L. Warner, head of this concern, recently made a business trip through the valley and did a good business on "Purity," visiting Los Angeles before returning home.

Alcazar Becomes Picture House for a Time.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Alcazar theater, a downtown stock house, is to be given over to moving pictures for an indefinite period. Sol L. Lesser has booked "War Brides" at this house commencing Jan. 22 and this will be followed by "Civilization." Both of the productions will be shown at 25, 50 and 75 cents. It is very unusual for a stock company to make way for moving pictures and illustrates in a telling manner the favor with which large film productions are looked upon here.

"Patria" Given Private Review.

San Francisco, Cal.—The International Film Service, Inc. gave a very successful review of the first three releases of "Patria" in Photoplayer hall, 109 Golden Gate avenue, on the afternoon of Dec. 21, the hall having been filled to capacity with enthusiastic exhibitors. This production has been booked by the Imperial theater for the first run and will be shown commencing January 7. There is a possibility that Mrs. Vernon Castle will be here on that date, or at least in the near future.

Manager H. L. Knappen, of the local office of the International, states that H. I. Krause, formerly of the sub-branch maintained at Salt Lake City, has been made manager of the Los Angeles branch and that "Patria" has been booked for presentation at the Superba theater. Harry Quinn, formerly with the World Film at Salt Lake, has been made manager of the sub-branch maintained there and has booked "Patria" for the American theater.

Western Poster Company Busy.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Western Poster Company, which recently took over an entire building at 247 Golden Gate avenue, is now well settled in its new home and has added a line of tickets, carbons and other theater supplies to its advertising lines. It has just issued a new date book for exhibitors and offers to send copies on request.

Fred Frisk Makes Trip.

San Francisco, Cal.—Fred Frisk, manager of the United theater exchange, Pacific building, left recently with his family for a tour of the Northwest, but will be home by the middle of January. While away he will visit theater owners and seek to extend his business into Oregon and Washington. Later he plans to establish branch offices at Seattle and Los Angeles. Among the sales made of late through the medium of his office have been the transfers of the Winters theater, Poppy theater and Regent theater, San Francisco and the Empire theater at Stockton, Cal.

Portola Offered Holiday Treat.

San Francisco, Cal.—The management of the Portola theater offered the patrons of this house an interesting musical diversion during the holiday week, having secured the services of the "Orpehus Four," a noted male quartette that won the international grand prize at the San Francisco Exposition.

Film Exchange Board's Year

San Francisco's Board of Trade Sums Up a Year's Activities—Has Been of Great Usefulness—Sees Plenty of Work Cut Out for the Coming Twelve Months—Need of Increased Membership—Present Members.

By T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Calif.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—In summing up the accomplishments of the Film Exchange Board of Trade of San Francisco during the past year Manager Fred S. Peachy calls special attention to the abolishment of the Board of Censorship and the victory over the express companies in the matter of the carrying of films as hand baggage. While these two questions were probably the most important ones handled the board has been busy on others of interest to exchange men and exhibitors and the benefits of organized work have been shown in a striking manner. In securing a modification of the orders issued by transportation companies regarding the carrying of films on boats and trains thousands of dollars has been saved to the exhibitors of the metropolitan district, while a great moral victory was achieved when censorship of moving pictures was abolished through its efforts.

The new year promises to be fully as active as the one just closed and several important questions are coming up for action. Transportation companies are working to secure new rules for the packing of film and are planning to insist that each reel sent by express be placed in a separate tin case, besides being shipped in the regulation fiber and metal shipping cases. Early in January the State Legislature meets and the Film Exchange Board of Trade is preparing to oppose several bills that are to be introduced. Among these are measures for state-wide censorship of moving pictures, Sunday closing and an age limit law. In order to be in a position to oppose the passage of these effectively the board is working to increase its membership and several concerns will be added to the list shortly. The present members are: the All Star Feature Distributors, Inc., the California Film Exchange, Inc., the Golden Gate Film Exchange, the International Film Service, Inc,. the Independent Film Exchange, the Mutual Film Corporation, the Metro Film Corporation, the Progressive Motion Picture Co., the Pathe Exchange, Inc., the Walter G. Preddey Co. and the World Film Corporation. G. A. Metcalfe has signified his intention of joining and the applications of still others are expected shortly.

Judge A. P. Tugwell appeared before this body again recently and asked that its members affiliate with the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry. His remarks were well received, but the general expression of opinion was that this city was so far from headquarters and that conditions were so different here that the advantages of joining were limited. Members expressed themselves as in favor of cooperating, however, should the national movement become so in reality, as well as in name.

Imperial Theater Makes Changes.

San Francisco, Cal.—Extensive changes and improvements have been made of late in the Imperial theater on Market street under the direction of manager J. L. Partington. The balcony has been given special attention and this floor is now one of the finest of its kind to be found on the Pacific coast. The first four rows have been transformed into loges, divided by brass railing and dainty draperies, and in these have been installed 110 reed arm chairs, handsomely upholstered in tapestry. Back of this is what is termed the De Luxe section and the latest type of opera chairs with leather spring seat and plush back rest has been put in. The admission price for the loges is 30 cents, while 20 cents is charged for the De Luxe section and 10 cents for the rest of the balcony. Part of the sidewalls are to be redecorated in lighter tones and the work, when completed will represent an investment of several thousand dollars. The orchestra now occupies the space where the stage formerly was and several rows of seats have been added in front.

H. E. Lotz, Pathe Local Manager.

San Francisco, Cal.—The rapid rise in the film exchange field of H. E. Lotz, local branch manager for the Pathe Exchange, Inc., is an illustration of what can be accomplished when energy and ability are applied in this comparatively new business. Prior to the European war Mr. Lotz was in the show business in Western Canada, where he conducted eight houses, but when this struggle commenced was compelled to give these up with a heavy loss. Just two years ago he started on the road out of Seattle as a representative of the General Film Company and filled this position for eight months, when he left to become branch manager for the Mutual Film Corporation at Montreal, Canada. He was here but about three months when he was tendered the position of Canadian general manager for the General Film, an offer that he accepted. He was later transferred to New York and was made a special traveling representative of this concern, covering the eastern, southern and middle west states. While in the New England territory he was made an attractive offer by the Pathe to come to San Francisco and manage its branch office. His desire to settle down with his family for a time induced him to accept this offer.

H. E. Lotz.

Mr. Lotz had not been in charge of the local branch for more than a week before he had arranged for the removal of the exchange to a central location on Market street, and caused exhibitors to sit up and take notice when he fitted up one of the finest exchange quarters in the city. Many new business ideas have been introduced, and it is stated that this exchange is now doing the best business in its history. The policy of showing pictures on the screen at any time desired by exhibitors is one of the innovations that has been greatly appreciated by customers and one that is now being inaugurated by other concerns.

Theatre Owners

A Profitable New Year's Gift For Your Manager is a SUBSCRIPTION TO THIS PAPER

Start Now—With the First Issue.

A Censor That Film Men Commend

Mrs. Margaret Conway of Denver, Colo., Champions Moving Pictures—Tells Members of Mothers' Congress a Few Truths—Committee Appointed to Confer With Exhibitors in Regard to Special Children's Shows.

By E. C. Day, Denver Correspondent.

DENVER, COLO.—A moving picture censor is generally looked upon as an enemy of the industry. Denver has a moving picture censor who is an exception to the rule.

She is Mrs Margaret Conway. She is an accredited employe of the city and has been variously known as "Lady Cop", amusement inspector and moving picture censor. Originally she was engaged to look after the welfare of young girls who were wont to attend questionable dance halls. With the growth of the moving picture industry and the establishment of neighborhood theaters her duties were extended to cover all branches of amusements.

Mrs. Margaret Conway.

She is a strict censor—but not a narrow minded one. She has established a high moral standard for amusements, but she does not believe that her duties as amusement censor require her to misconstrue and misinterpret in order to find fault.

As a result of Miss Conway's fair minded conduct of her office every moving picture exchange man and exhibitor in Denver has gone out of his way to cooperate with her in maintaining the high standard of Denver's moving picture business. There has never been any friction between the censor and the men of the trade, but no member of the city's screen family realized what a staunch friend the film industry had in Miss Conway until she came out publicly at a Mothers' meeting recently and in strong speech indorsed moving pictures.

The incident occurred at a special gathering of the Mothers' Congress which was held for the purpose of discussing censorship and Special children's programs. A number of the state's leading educators were present as were a representative gathering of film men.

Speeches weere made by Prof. F. A. Boggus of Boulder and Ralph Pitts, Denver high school teacher, in which moving pictures were mercilessly flayed.

Miss Conway refuted their arguments at every turn. "The moving picture is improving every day and the film men are doing everything in their power to make them still better," said Miss Conway in answer to statements that the quality of screen productions is deteriating.

She refuted their arguments that moving pictures tended to destroy the love of good reading by stating that it would be a good thing if "the competition would cause teachers to make more of an effort to urge good reading in the schools."

"Reading can never take the place of the moving picture, nor can the moving picture ever take the place of reading," said Miss Conway. "And so far as reading is concerned there is no censor of books that children read," she added.

Miss Conway declared that the picture theater had proven the greatest competitor of the saloon and if it had done nothing else to commend it should hold the respect of every moral man and woman for having weakened the influence of liquor.

In reply to arguments of the educators to the effect that the moving picture had breeded extravagance among children and that the practice of watching moving pictures was harmful to the eyes Miss Conway said:

"The expenditure of money for amusement is for the mothers of children to look after and not one that should concern the theatrical producers whether they be in the moving picture business or in the legitimate theater.

"And as to the alleged harmful effect on the eyes, moving pictures are no harder on the eyes than is excessive reading."

The outcome of the discussion was the appointment of a committee by the Mothers' Congress to meet a committee of exhibitors for the purpose of arranging for the special showing of children's pictures on Saturday morning.

The following moving picture men attended the meeting: Ward E. Scott, Mutual, Charles R. Gilmour, Pathe, W. S. Rand, Triangle, Albert Eden, Fox, F. H. Cowell, Paris theater and William T. Binford.

Metro Gets Two New Road Men.

Denver, Colo.—Harring Lustig, manager of the Metro exchange, announced two additions to his Denver force this week. Charles Klein, former solicitor in New York City for the General Film, has been employed as road man. Frank Murphy, former booking clerk for the Vitagraph at Dallas, Texas, has been named to fill a similar position here. Manager Lustig and his aides are busily engaged arranging for the distribution of "The Great Secret", the Metro serial in which Francis Bushman and Beverly Bayne are being starred.

Midwest to Handle "Civilization."

The Midwest corporation has been formed in Denver for the purpose of handling "Civilization", Thomas H. Ince's production. The company has the rights for the states of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, New Mexico and Nebraska. The officers of the Midwest company are: J. W. Burke, president; Frank M. Michels, secretary and treasurer, and Max Schubach, manager.

Yuma Exhibitor Believes in Music.

Yuma, Ariz.—Johna Johansen, owner of three theaters in Yuma, Ariz., writes to us that he is making his own electricity using a Fairbanks-Morse equipment and has just put into one of his houses a new Style K, Wurlitzer Duplex roll organ. He says that with good pictures, it is one of the best investments an exhibitor could make.

Wisconsin Notes of Interest

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Exhibitors Put on Their Honor.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—It is announced that the citizens' commission on motion pictures will prohibit after March 31, the exhibition of white slave plays. It is also planned to give more attention to photoplay acts which are given in photoplay houses. This will be worked out by placing the manager of the theater upon his honor to use only respectable acts.

"Pay as You Exit" Plan in LaCrosse.

La Crosse, Wis.—The "Pay as you exit" plan was used by the Casino theater the two days it ran "The Shine Girl." Manager McWilliams was so sure that this attraction would please that he took this means of guaranteeing satisfaction.

Wisconsin Theater Notes.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Merrill theater had a big Christmas tree in the rear of its theater and reduced the price of admission for children so that they could enjoy it during the holidays.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Modern art has been furthered more by the moving pictures and the low-priced automobile than by what many artists have been able to do, according to a talk made by Dudley Crafts Watson before the Advertisers' club.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Thomas Saxe, local photoplay magnate, promised to aid the Home Economics club of this city in any fight it might make against the high cost of living. He offered to run any films or slides which were selected by the women.

Rhinelander, Wis.—Herman Zander, proprietor of the Majestic theater has taken over the lease on the Cozy theater on Davenport street and will use it about four nights a week.

Sheboygan Falls, Wis.—The high school has installed a moving picture machine.

Ripon, Wis.—"The Battle Cry of Peace," was the opening attraction at the Armory theater which is now the home of the photoplay enterprise formerly conducted by Manager Hickey at the Ripon theater.

Tomah, Wis.—The firm of Bierbauer & Peary which operated the Star theater has been dissolved, Bierbauer remaining in control.

North Dakota Theater Changes.

Cathay, N. D.—Banick Bros. have purchased a moving picture equipment and will start a show here.

Cando, N. D.—Adolph Straub, Jr. has purchased the Rex theater from R. T. Heckman.

McVille, N. D.—The firm of Cone & Tyler which operated the Gem theater has been dissolved. Tyler assumes control of the theater.

Hettinger, N. D.—L. O. Ramstead has sold the Star theater to Mr. Glassnap of Bowman.

California Notes.

Monte Rio, Cal.—Plans are being prepared for a new moving picture theater to be erected for Leland S. Murphy.

Tulare, Cal.—S. J. Greenwood, manager of the Theater Tulare, has installed a heating system, a new projection machine and made other improvements, following his recent trip to San Francisco.

Lindsay, Cal.—William Dougherty is erecting a brick theater and it is announced that this has been leased by J. H. Stubblefield and will be conducted under the management of Frank Hyde.

Taft, Cal.—Claude Kinnell has purchased the Optic theater.

King City, Cal.—An eighteen-foot addition is being made to the Novelty theater.

Calistoga, Cal.—H. D. Hubbard has sold his moving picture business at Playhouse and Veterans' Home to Walter J. McLean of Pinole, Cal.

Davis, Cal.—A new moving picture theater is to be opened by Andy Tufts.

Martinez, Cal.—Extensive improvements to the Novelty theater are planned by Manager W. J. Clark.

San Mateo, Cal.—The Peninsula theater is to be remodeled by its owner J. L. Levin.

Chico, Cal.—John Konning has purchased property on Broadway and plans to remodel the building as a moving picture house. Chester Cole is the architect.

San Anselmo, Cal.—The San Anselmo theater has been purchased by R. J. Rourke.

Sacramento, Cal.—The Sequoia theater is being remodeled, a gallery added, and the seating capacity increased from 500 to 900.

"Crisis" Booked for Indefinite Run.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Warner Film Attractions, which controls the rights in California to "The Crisis," has booked this production for an indefinite run at the Columbia theater, commencing January 28. S. L. Warner, formerly of New York and Exhibitors Help Soldiers' Xmas Fund.

Winnipeg, Man.—Local theaters were prominent in arranging for a great Citizen's Christmas Fund for the wives and families of soldiers. Manager Seamans, of the Strand, offered to give an entire day's receipts to the fund; the Pantages offered sufficient acts from its bill to supply the whole entertainment; and the show itself is to be held in the Walker theater, which is being given free for the occasion.

Kelowna Still Has Its Show.

Kelowna, B. C.—Following the burning of the Kelowna opera house, this town was left without a picture show, and Mrs. Raymer, who had conducted the destroyed theater, was not in a position to start another. Substantial assistance was soon extended to her by the citizens, however, and money was raised by popular subscription, to purchase a projection machine and other necessary equipment. Mrs. Raymer is now running the show in a converted store, pending the possible erection of a new theater.

Western Canada Theater Notes.

Ladysmith, B. C.—The opera house, which has been closed for some time on account of the prevalence of diphtheria, has again been opened by Manager James Haworth.

Rossland, B. C.—S. J. Hackney, owner and manager of the Star theater, has just reopened the house, which has been quarantined on account of an epidemic of sickness.

Vancouver, B. C.—W. W. Armstrong of the Fairview theater has sold out to D. M. Alexander.

Vancouver, B. C.—P. Tardiff has sold his Family theater property to A. Scott, a real estate man of this city, who will convert the premises into a store. The seats have been taken out, having been disposed of in Saskatchewan.

Although the Family has been the only five-cent house in its vicinity, and has put on good pictures, it has been losing money for the past year.

In this connection it is interesting to note that eighteen picture houses in British Columbia have closed since June 1.

Vernon, B. C.—With the departure of the soldiers from their camp here, W. A. Wilkinson has closed the Dreamland theater.

JUST OFF THE PRESS
LOUIS REEVES HARRISON'S
SCREENCRAFT
or the Making of a Photoplay.
A University Education on the Subject.
$2.00 Postage Paid. Order from nearest office
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York
Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angles, Cal.

Sabbath Conviction Quashed by Court.

Swift Current, Sask.—In the District Court here Judge Ouseley has just handed down a judgment quashing the conviction by the justice of the peace in the appeal of J. K. Reith, manager of the Princess Royal theater, who was convicted some time ago, and fined, for putting on a Sunday sacred concert with the orchestra of the "Birth of a Nation" company. There was no charge made for the concert, but a voluntary contribution was taken at the door.

The prosecution was taken at the instance of the Lord's Day Alliance, and the fiat of the Attorney-General was given for the prosecution.

The judge held that there was no evidence to show that Manager Reith was carrying on his usual calling, and as the concert was an entirely sacred one and of an uplifting character, he quashed the conviction of the justice of the peace with costs.

"German Atmosphere" and Censors

In Different Parts of the Dominion of Canada Censors Show Differing Minds and Opinions—Goes to Prove the Inherent Disability in Censorship Everywhere—A Recent Case with German Atmosphere.

By E. C. Thomas, 821 Rogers Bldg., Vancouver, B. C.

WINNIPEG, MAN.—The Triangle-Kay Bee feature, "Shell Forty-Three," was recently submitted to the Manitoba and Saskatchewan censors, and rejected on account of the German atmosphere of the entire production, and the apparently pro-German feelings and activities of the leading character, played by H. B. Warner. The fact that the final scenes revealed that he was really in the secret service of England, and at all times working in the interests of that country, was apparently lost sight of, and the censors did not consider it a suitable picture for British audiences.

This viewpoint almost (but not quite) equals the famous judgment of the British Columbia censors in condemning Universal's "Judy Forgot" because the bride and groom went to Heidelberg on their honeymoon, and thus rendered the picture "pro-German."

In the case of "Shell Forty-Three," a private showing was given at the Province theater following the rejection of the film, at which were present the members of the appeal board and military officials of District No. 10, in which Winnipeg is situated. The unanimous opinion of those present was that the picture should be passed, and this was ordered by the appeal board, which made only a few minor deletions.

Previous bookings further west made it impossible to hold the film longer in Winnipeg, but it will be returned at a later date, for a run at the Province.

Council of Women Want One Woman Censor.

Vancouver, B. C.—The Local Council of Women of Vancouver has requested the new provincial government to appoint a woman to the board of censors, and has chosen Mrs. J. O. Perry as the one most suitable for the position. The proposition is not a new one, as the matter was taken up about three years ago by the National Council of Women, which represents the whole of Canada. Last year the National Council authorized the local councils to ask for the appointment of women to the provincial boards, and this was done in British Columbia, but without success. It is stated, however, that on several occasions Mrs. Perry has been called in by the censors to assist them in making decisions on pictures regarding which they were uncertain.

Mrs. Perry has for a long time been concerned with social service work, with special attention to juvenile delinquents, "and," as the report sent out states, "would undoubtedly be able to judge what the influence of certain pictures would be on these susceptible young lives."

"Salamander" Filling Censor's Voids.

Winnipeg Man.—The Metro production, "The Scarlet Woman," which was billed to play at the Imperial theater, was rejected by the censors, and the date was taken by "The Salamander" (B. S. Moss). Filling voids caused by censors seems to be a specialty of "The Salamander;" it was put into the Globe theater in Vancouver when "Ashes of Embers" was recently turned down by the censors there.

"The Financial Loss to the Church."

Vancouver, B. C.—Vigorous protest against recruiting meetings being held in the Vancouver opera house on Sunday evenings was lodged with Mayor McBeath recently by Dr. Fraser, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Dr. Frazer contends that if the city allows the recruiting meetings to open at eight o'clock, during the time the church services are in session, the competition will attract people to the recruiting concert rather than to the churches, and that the financial loss to the church will be very great. In fact, he anticipated that if these meetings are allowed to continue, his church would ultimately have to close its doors.

Mayor McBeath pointed out that some time ago a private citizen applied for permission to hold recruiting concerts in the theater on Sunday evenings, but this had been declined, as had other applications from individual citizens; but when the military authorities had requested the permission, it was granted.

The military authorities, the mayor noted, had taken up the question with the Ministerial Association, and that body had passed a very non-committal resolution in regard to the matter. Following this, the required permission had been granted.

Mutual Exchange Jottings.

Vancouver, B. C.—The World man dropped into the Mutual exchange one day recently, and was informed by Manager C. R. Dippie that a number of new Chaplin contracts had just been signed with small town exhibitors who had formerly felt that their population did not warrant paying the prices necessary to secure this luxury.

With the resignation of C. B. Price as Mutual's Canadian general manager, word has come from the home office that this office has been abolished, and the western offices, in Winnipeg, Calgary, Regina and Vancouver, will henceforth be under th general supervision of J. H. Boothe, manager of the Winnipeg office. Film men generally view Mr. Price's departure to become affiliated with Super-pictures with real regret, as he had made many friends during his comparatively short stay in Canada, and was recognized as an energetic and able executive.

Jules Levine Looking After Local "U."

Vancouver, B. C.—James E. Finch, former manager of the local branch of the Universal, is no longer manager of this office, which is now temporarily in the hands of Jules Levine, former booker here, but more recently special representative for Bluebirds in Western Canada. The permanent manager for this office has not yet been chosen.

Business Items.

Vancouver, B. C.—J. Partridge, special representative of the Greater Vitagraph, was a recent visitor to this city.

Vancouver, B. C.—W. P. Dewees, manager of the Rex theater, and managing director of the National Film Service, Ltd., Triangle distributors, has left for New York on important business connected with the local situation. S. J. Coffland, the new vice-president of the company, informs The World representative that big news may be expected in the near future.

Vancouver, B. C.—"Shell Forty-three" was passed in British Columbia, and Manager W. P. Dewees of the Rex theater considered the picture such an excellent attraction that he booked it for an entire week—something very unusual for the Rex. The feature was heavily advertised in the newspapers, and an excellent business was done throughout the week. The opportunity of having an apparently intimate glimpse behind the German trenches, even though the scenes were made about two miles north of Santa Monica, seemed to have a great attraction for audiences here, and the production brought forth a great deal of interested comment.

THE OPPORTUNITY

IS AFFORDED
EVERY MOTION PICTURE EXHIBITOR AND OPERATOR
TO IMPROVE THE PROJECTION OF THEIR THEATRE
BY THE ADOPTION OF

SPEER HOLD-ARK CARBONS

Constructed with a Hard Core and Metal Coating, the "Hold-Ark" Carbons assure a permanent arc, prevent wandering, assist in producing a clear, bright, flickerless light, and give to the operator the ideal lower carbon he has for years desired.

The Most Modern Achievement of the Motion Picture Industry—the Wonder of the Age

The best combination for light-producing qualities either on D. C. or A. C. Current, is a Speer Cored Carbon for the positive carbon and a Speer "Hold-Ark" is the negative carbon. Further information should be secured from distributors and dealers.

: Sold by the Leading Motion Picture Supply Houses :

SPEER CARBON CO.

ST. MARYS, PA.

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending January 13, and January 20

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 286, 288, 290, 292.)

General Film Company

Current Releases

MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1917.

SELIG—Starring in Western Stuff (Two parts—Comedy-Drama.)

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 3 (Topical).

VITAGRAPH—The Man of Mystery (Drama).

TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1917.

ESSANAY—Among Those Present (Two parts—"Black Cat Feature") (Drama).

KALEM——Rival Romeos (Comedy).

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1917.

ESSANAY—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 22 (Cartoon Comedy).
—Yosemite Valley No. 2 (Scenic).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY—Title not reported.

KALEM—The Resurrection of Gold Bar (No. 22 of "The Girl from Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).

THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1917.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 4 (Topical).

VIM—Title not reported.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1917.

KALEM—The Trail of Graft (No. 13 of "Grant, Police Reporter" —Drama).

VITAGRAPH—Title not reported.

VIM—The Property Man (Comedy).

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1917.

ESSANAY—The Sinful Marriage (Fifth of "Is Marriage Sacred") (Two parts—Drama).

KALEM—The Fireman's Nemesis (No. 114 of "The Hazards of Helen) (Drama).

SELIG—The Making of Bob Mason's Wife (Drama).

General Film Company

Advance Releases

MONDAY, JANUARY 15, 1917.

SELIG—Title not reported.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 5 (Topical).

VITAGRAPH—The Glory of Iolona (Drama).

TUESDAY, JANUARY 16, 1917.

ESSANAY—The Little Missionary ("Black Cat Feature") (Dr.).

KALEM—Cupid's Caddies (Comedy).

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1917.

KALEM—The Homesteader's Feud (Episode No. 23 of "The Girl From Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY—Title not reported.

ESSANAY—One on Him (Comedy).
—Scenic on same reel.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 18, 1917.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 6 (Topical).

VIM—Title not reported.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 19, 1917.

KALEM—The Black Circle (Episode No. 14 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).

VITAGRAPH—Title not reported.

VIM—Title not reported.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 20, 1917.

ESSANAY—The Wide Wrong Way (Sixth of "Is Marriage Sacred") (Two parts—Drama).

KALEM—The Wrecked Station (No. 115 of "The Hazards of Helen") (Drama).

SELIG—Title not reported.

COMPLETE AND ACCURATE LISTS of Regular Program and Feature Pictures Can Always Be Obtained from the Pages of the Moving Picture World. These are Published Two Weeks in Advance of Release Days to Enable Exhibitors to Arrange Their Coming Programs. The Stories of the Pictures in Most Cases are Published on a Like Schedule. Each Synopsis is Headed by a Cast, the Players' Names Being in Parenthesis. Lay Out Your Entertainment From the Information in the Moving Picture World and You Will Not Go Wrong.

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs less.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....
.....
.....
.....

Cut out and mail Theatre .....

Attention! Manufacturers and Producers

Open the Door to Opportunity!—We'll Give You the Key!

¶ SOME OF THE EXISTING FRANCHISES of one of the best-known Distributing Organizations in America, with branches in every important centre of the United States, WILL EXPIRE SHORTLY AFTER THE FIRST OF THE YEAR.

¶ Proposals for franchises for the best and most carefully selected features will be received at once from old established and responsible producing concerns, financially able to live up to their contracts.

¶ THE MERIT OF THE PROUCTIONS, AND THE STANDING OF THE FIRMS SUBMITTING PROPOSITIONS, WILL BE ALONE CONSIDERED.

We Are Willing to Entertain Proposals for
ONE—TWO—THREE—AND FIVE-REEL PRODUCTIONS
That Will Stand the Acid Test

Address X. % Moving Picture World
17 MADISON AVE., NEW YORK
All Communications Treated with the Strictest Confidence

The
GOLDEN ROSARY

A Super-Cinematographic Masterpiece in Five Parts Featuring

Olga DeCosta
and Jack Meredith

Produced by Tom Van Plank

BETSEY RANDOLPH

For EXCLUSIVE TERRITORY
APPLY
The Film Exchange
729 7th Avenue, New York City

A Big Money-Making Opportunity!
Reserve Your Territory Early!

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending January 13 and January 20

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 286, 288, 290, 292.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 1917.

	(Serial No.)
REX—No release this day.
IMP—The Whelp (Drama)	02064
POWERS—The Trials of Willie Winks (Cartoon Comedy)	02065
—The Forbidden City (Educational)
BIG U—The Jewel of Death (Two parts—Reissue Drama)	02066
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 2—"Suspected"—Two parts—Drama)	02067

MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1917.

RED FEATHER—Fighting for Love (Five parts—Drama)	02068
NESTOR—One Thousand Miles an Hour (Comedy)	02069

TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—The Mystery of My Lady's Boudoir (Three parts—Drama)	02070
VICTOR—A Gentleman of Nerve (Comedy)	02071

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1917.

LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
L-KO—A Limburger Cyclone (Two parts—Comedy)	02072
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 54 (Topical)	02073
LAEMMLE—The Face Downstairs (Reissue—Drama)	02074

THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1917.

JOKER—When Damon Fell for Pythias (Two parts—Comedy)	02075
BIG U—No regular Big U this day.
POWERS—No regular Powers this day.
BIG U—Shattered Ideals (Reissue—Drama)	02076

FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1917.

IMP—Honorably Discharged (Drama)	02077
REX—The Whispered Name (Two parts—Drama)	02078
VICTOR—The Wrong Mary Wright (Comedy-Drama)	02079

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1917.

BISON—The Bad Man (Two parts—Drama)	02080
LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
JOKER—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy)	02081
IMP—John Bates' Secret (Drama)	02082

SUNDAY, JANUARY 14, 1917.

REX—No release this day.
IMP—Midnight (Drama)	02083
POWERS—Mr. Fuller Pep, He Celebrates His Wedding Anniversary (Cartoon Comedy)
—Wonders of the Orient as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Educational)	02084
BIG U—The Call for Help (Two parts—Reissue Drama)	02085
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 3—"The Capture—Two parts—Drama)	02086

MONDAY, JANUARY 15, 1917.

RED FEATHER—The Double Room Mystery (Five parts—Drama)	02087
NESTOR—Treat 'Em Rough (Comedy)	02088

TUESDAY, JANUARY 16, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—The Prodigal Widow (Three parts—Drama)	02089
VICTOR—No regular Victor this day.
VICTOR—The Masked Cupid (Reissue Comedy)	02090

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1917.

IMP—A Slave of Fear (Two parts—Drama)	02091
L-KO—Heartsick at Sea (Comedy)	02092
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 55 (Topical)	02093

THURSDAY, JANUARY 18, 1917.

VICTOR—Putting One Over on Ignatz (Comedy)	02094
BIG U—No regular Big U this day.
POWERS—No release this day.
BIG U—Bloodhounds of the North (Two parts—Drama)	02095

FRIDAY, JANUARY 19, 1917.

VICTOR—His Little Room Mate (Two parts—Comedy)	02096
UNIVERSAL—Screen Magazine No. 5 (Topical)	02097
NESTOR—No release this day.
BIG U—The Little Rebel's Sacrifice (Reissue Drama	02098

SATURDAY, JANUARY 20, 1917.

BISON—Brute Force (Two parts—Drama)	02099
LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
JOKER—Barred From the Bar (Comedy)	02100
LAEMMLE—Homeless (Reissue Drama)	02101

Mutual Film Corporation

SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 1917.

VOGUE—The Land of Nowhere (Two parts—Comedy)	05265-66
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 36 (Subjects on Reel—Turpentine from Waste Timber; An Argosy from the Arctic; English Walnuts in the U. S.; Design Your Own Gown) (Mutual Film Magazine.)

MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1917.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—The Butterfly Girl (Five parts—Fisher—Drama) (No. 164)
MUTUAL—When Hands Are Idle (Two parts—Drama	05268-69

TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1917.

GAUMONT—Tours Around the World No. 10 (Subjects on Reel—The Foothills of the Pyrenees; Life in Egypt; Budapest, Hungary) (Travel)	05270

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1917.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 105 (Topical)	05271
GAUMONT—See America First No. 70 (Subjects on Reel: In the Heart of the Blue Ridge and Gaumont Kartoon Komic)	05272

THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1917.

CUB—Title not yet reported	05273

FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1917.

MUTUAL—Uncle Sam's Defenders No. 2 ("Our Boys At the Border"—Topical)	05274

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1917.

STAR COMEDY—The Honeymooners (Comedy)	05275

If It's Saleable Among Motion Picture People

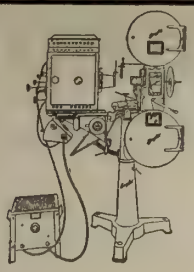
The Quickest and Easiest Way to Find a Buyer Is to

ADVERTISE IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Circulation Plus the Confidence and Esteem of Those Among Whom It Circulates

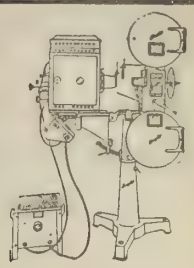
Makes the Moving Picture World the Best Advertising "Buy" in Its Field

Rates and Detailed Information Cheerfully Sent Upon Request



CECIL B. De MILLE

Selects



Simplex Projectors

For Presenting THE CINEMA MASTERPIECE

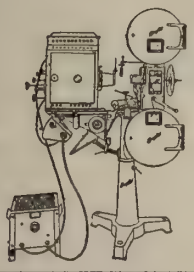
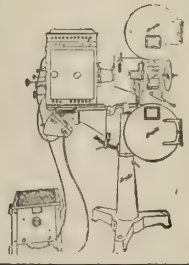
JOAN THE WOMAN

at the 44th St. Theatre
New York





THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

Not Since the Time Napoleon--- made a slaughter pen of Europe, has opportunity presented itself so strongly to American concerns to erect and maintain export trade.

CINE-MUNDIAL

The Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World is an ever ready ally of the motion picture industry in entering this rapidly developing market.

IN BUENOS AIRES alone the increase in moving picture theatres has been over 75% in the past three years.

SURELY THIS SITUATION is worth looking into. For further information, address

THE CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City SPANISH DEPARTMENT

Stories of the Films

General Film Company

BIOGRAPH.

THE REHEARSAL (Reissue—Two Parts—Dec. 27).—The cast: Evelyn Payne (Vera Sisson); Cecil King (Jose Ruben); His mother (Kate Bruce); His sister (Irma Dawkins); Mabel Grey (Madge Kirby); Liebenstein (G. Raymond Nye).

Cecil King, a young playwright, sees a girl attacked by footpads, and rescues her. She is an orphan, Evelyn Payne, the daughter of a former great actress. King takes her to the studio building in which he lives and introduces her to Mabel Grey, his fiancee, an artist with a studio across the hall from his own. Mabel, with ill grace, consents to take care of Evelyn for a few days. Cecil requests his mother and sister, who live in the country, to take the girl in; and when they consent, Evelyn goes home with them.

Cecil takes his play to a manager, who reports that, while it has a good idea, it is not rightly constructed. On hearing of his disappointment, Mabel tells Cecil that she has no time for a failure; but he vows always to wear her picture, for her memory will inspire him. But success does not come, and he returns home. Evelyn finds his discarded play in a waste basket, and is so moved by one of the scenes she begins to enact the principal role. Cecil overhears her and she encourages him to try again. Guided by her inherited dramatic instinct, he rewrites the play and it is accepted.

During his absence, Mabel has an interview with Evelyn, in which she poisons her mind against Cecil. When he returns he suggests that they rehearse the big scene of the play. Maddened by jealousy, she plays the part of the avenging fury with such passion that Cecil has to struggle for his life. At last he wrests the dagger from her and exclaims: "You meant to kill me!" Sobbing, she tells of the suspicions fostered by Mabel. "She said you carry her picture always! I couldn't bear the thought that you were false to me." Thereupon, Cecil draws from his pocket the picture which he treasures so jealously. It is the portrait of Evelyn, not of Mabel. For months he has carried it, ever since he realized Evelyn's nobility and the shallowness of the girl he once thought he loved. Mabel, her scheme exposed, sees Evelyn happy in Cecil's love.

SELIG.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 102 (Dec. 21).

Seattle, Wash.—In hopes of making a record flight, Herbert L. Munter leaves for Portland in an aeroplane.

Denver, Colo.—Miss Clara Ruth Mozzer, first woman in the United States to be appointed Assistant States Attorney General.

San Antonio, Tex.—When like a mule the mule won't go; they startle San Antonio!

Denver, Colo.—Manual High School pupils make countless wooden toys for the Christmas joy of Denver's poor children.

New Orleans, La.—Fifty families are rendered homeless when fire destroys a residential block, causing $100,000 loss.

Barnegat, N. J.—The United States transport Sumner goes ashore in a heavy fog.

San Mateo, Cal.—The 1916 polo season of the San Mateo Polo Club is opened with a fast, snappy game.

Mare Island, Cal.—Two thousand persons witness the baptism of the new torpedo boat destroyer Shaw.

Paris, France.—Church ceremonies mark the obsequies of Prince Orloff, a wealthy Russian nobleman.

Richmond, England.—At the water carnival held here British marines play an exciting game of water polo.

New York, N. Y.—Fifth avenue, the most expensive shopping district in the world, is thronged all day with Christmas crowds.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—With the consent of President Wilson, the United States navy collier Caesar is loaded with a $500,000 cargo of foodstuffs for starving Syrians and Armenians.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 103 (Dec. 25).

Turkey Creek Canyon, Colo.—The start of supplies for many thousands of Christmas trees.

Marfa, Tex.—Army officers inspect new type of caterpillar tractors about to start for Mexico with supplies.

San Francisco, Cal.—Federal Naval Commissioners named to recommend a site for a $25,000,000 naval base.

Cornwall, Pa.—Increased demand for pig iron causes old furnaces, cold for fifteen years, to be reopened and fired.

Kufro, German East Africa.—General Smuts' advance in German East Africa is hampered by the use of native wagons and oxen for the transportation of his supplies.

Aldershot, England.—Princess Henry, of Battenberg, mother of the Queen of Spain, presents the colors to the Newfoundland regiment starting for the trenches.

Chicago, Ill.—With mercury hovering near zero Miss Anna Morcroft takes a cold plunge in the Chicago River.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Dignitaries of financial, diplomatic and social world are present when the Christmas ship Caesar sails.

Boston, Mass.—Society cuts capers on "Crystal Ice," a brand new substitute.

Oregon, Ill.—Frank O. Lowden, Governor-elect of Illinois, poses at his residence with the family for the Selig-Tribune.

STARRING IN WESTERN STUFF (Two parts—Jan. 8).—The cast: Tom Sage (Tom Mix); Vivian Larkin (Victoria Forde); Percy Brown (Pete Bender); Bill Spruce (Sid Jordan); Harry McNutt (Pat Chrisman); Jane Hope (Mrs. Pat Chrisman). Written and produced by Tom Mix.

Tom Sage, a cowpuncher, likes motion pictures and decides to write a letter to Vivian Larkin, his favorite movie star. In his letter he expresses a hope that some day he can see her in real life. Shortly after Tom writes the letter the Pinto Film Stock Company, headed by Vivian Larkin, leaves for the West.

The motion picture actors arrive at an Arizona town near where Tom Sage is employed. Their arrival incites great interest on the part of the cowboys. The actors quickly get down to work and are rehearsing a scene where Bill Spruce, the "heavy," is called upon to choke Vivian Larkin, the leading lady, when Tom Sage happens along, and believing it a real struggle, knocks Spruce out. The cowpuncher and the movie star meet for the first time, and Tom Sage recognizes the actress as the girl of his dreams.

Becoming jealous of Percy Brown, the leading man, who, in the movie play, must make love to Vivian, Tom plans to put Brown out of business by teaching him broncho busting. Failing in this, Tom plots to become a hero in the eyes of the movie star, and to thus win her affections.

One day the movie company is rehearsing in a lonely spot. Strangers, evidently outlaws, attack the thespians, and Vivian Larkin, the star, is taken prisoner. Then it is that Tom Sage rescues her. As the remaining members of the Pinto Stock Company overlook no opportunity to escape from such a wild locality, Tom Sage wins the gratitude and love of Vivian Larkin.

THE MAKING OF BOB MASON'S WIFE (Jan. 13).—The cast: Bob Mason (Robyn Adair); Kittie (Virginia Kirtley); Jack Duncan (E. J. Brady). Written by Marie W. Fellner. Produced by Burton L. King.

Bob Mason, after a big cattle shipment, leaves the ranch house for the city, and there he woos and wins Kittie Gray. After the wedding they return to the ranch, where Kittie, as the months go by, becomes tired of the new life and accepts the attentions of Jack Duncan. She agrees to elope with him. However, they are overtaken by the infuriated husband, who, while he spares Duncan's life, thrashes him within an inch of his life.

Kittie returns with her husband. She really loves him, but as the months pass she comes to believe that she has forfeited her husband's love. Duncan has not forgotten Kittie. He plots with Pedro, an outlaw, and they visit the ranch house one night, planning to take the girl away by force. Kittie confronts them with a revolver, and as she holds them helpless before the weapon, her husband and friends arrive, and the villians meet their just deserts. Then it is that Bob Mason appreciates the faithfulness and love of his wife.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

RED FEATHER.

FIGHTING FOR LOVE (Five Parts—Jan. 8).—The cast: Sylvia (Ruth Stonehouse); Jim (Jack Mulhall); Ferdinand (Jean Hersholt); Johnny Little Bear (Noble Johnson); Bill Guard (J. F. Briscoe); King's Favorite (Ruby Marshall). Scenario by Fred Myton. Produced by Raymond Wells.

In adjoining kingdoms rule Sylvia, beloved of her people, and Ferdinand, who is forced to exact homage from his subjects. He spends his life in riotous living. One day the two meet, and straightway Ferdinand decides that he will marry the queen, sending his prime minister with the proposal. But she refuses it. He delivers the ultimatum that unless she consents to his proposal within a certain space of time, he will declare war.

In America two cowboys, Jim and Johnny Little Bear, discover a rich mine and decide to spend some of the money traveling. The two start out. It happens that during their travels they stop near the kingdom of Sylvia, and Jim, wishing to see a real queen, makes bold to climb the wall. He sees a beautiful lady, who is none other than Sylvia herself, but he thinks her one of the court ladies. She finally confides the predicament of the queen, and he tells her that he will come to the assistance of the great lady. He wires to Bill, one of the cowboys, and tells him to come on with the whole gang. When he rides to the palace to tell the lady, he finds that she is the queen.

Meantime, Ferdinand's favorite, seeing that her reign is coming to an end, tries to hold him, but he refuses to have more to do with her. Both sides prepare for battle, Ferdinand, with his army, attacks Sylvia's force before the cowboys arrive, and they are being forced to retreat when Bill arrives and saves the day. The favorite is killed when she tries to slay Sylvia.

Jim explains to the boys that he is in love with Sylvia, and they finally persuade him to ask her hand in marriage. But Sylvia kindly explains that though she loves him, the dictates of custom compel her to marry royalty. Bill and the boys, seeing that Jim is taking this keenly, leave him in the palace and after a time return, telling him that they have captured the whole of Sylvia's forces, and that now he is the king. Sylvia is informed of this and with queenly dignity places her crown upon Jim's head—and so accepts his proposal of marriage.

IMP.

HONORABLY DISCHARGED (Jan. 12).—The cast: George Hillar (L. C. Shumway); Driver (Fred A. Kelsey); Judge (L. M. Wells). Scenario by G. B. Anderson. Produced by F. A. Kelsey.

George Hillar, who had served in the army, is finally honorably discharged. He is very much attached to his mount, Patsy, who also has been taken out of active service. Hillar goes to the captain to buy the horse so that he will be certain it will always have good care, but discovers that he has not sufficient money. He determines to get a job and buy the horse.

Some time elapses. Hillar now has charge of a gang of men and while he is standing near the street he sees a truck driver beating his horses unmercifully. Hillar tries to dissuade him from this cruel treatment, and before he has finished Hillar has given the driver a good beating. Much to his surprise he finds that the horse is his beloved Patsy.

The driver has Hillar arrested and when taken before the judge he tells him he is willing to pay the fine and graphically relates the experiences of Patsy and himself while in the army. The judge dismisses the case and requests the driver to name his price for the horse, which he does, and Patsy becomes the property of Hillar.

THE MOST PROFITABLE NEW YEAR'S GIFT
TO EVERY FILM MAN AND PICTURE THEATRE MANAGER—A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Send Your Order Today and Begin With First Number.

MIDNIGHT (Jan. 14).—The cast: Priest (Allan Holubar); Girl (Zoe Rae). Scenario by E. J. Clawson. Produced by Allan Holubar.

While a priest sits in his room he hears his doorbell ring. He can discover no one, but finally admits a girl who seemed to be drenched to the skin. He goes with her to administer the sacraments to a dying man.

She leads him to the tenement district, where the priest finds that the police are searching for a murderer, but knowing the priest, they let him pass, not seeming to notice the girl. She stops at a house, but the landlord declares that there is no one occupying his rooms, but the girl leads the priest up the stairs to a small bedroom where a man is found to be mortally wounded. He is surprised to see the priest, who wishes to call a physician, but the dying man only asks that he administer the sacraments.

The priest, this office done, asks the dying man what he wants to do about his daughter, but the dying man says his daughter died years ago, and since then he has been drinking heavily. On the table is a picture of the girl who lead the priest to the house, and the dying man declares she has been acting as a daughter to him for some time.

When the police enter the room the priest gently tells them that they have no need for the man as he is dead.

NESTOR.

ONE THOUSAND MILES AN HOUR (Jan. 8).—The cast: "Honest" Harold (Eddie Lyons); "Dirty Dan" (Le Moran); "Trustful" Tillie (Edythe Roberts); Mike, the murderer (Harry Nolan). Written by Bess Meredyth. Produced by L. W. Chaudet.

"Honest" Harold has invented a chemical, one drop of which mixed with two gallons of water, will run a car for a thousand miles. "Dirty" Dan and Mike the "Murderer" drop a sponge with chloroform through a hole in the ceiling and "Honest" Harold inhales the fumes. "Trustful" Tillie, beloved by both "Honest" Harold and "Dirty" Dan, but loving Harold only, rushes in, and is put in an old mill. "Honest" Harold regains consciousness and rescues her. There is a race for a $10,000 prize; Harold puts his chemical to work; the conspirators are blown to the top of telegraph poles and the lovers embrace.

POWERS.

WONDERS OF THE ORIENT, AS SEEN BY DR. DORSEY (Jan. 14).—Peking, like Paris, abounds in out-of-door restaurants, which make unusually attractive the first part of Dr. Dorsey's "Wonders of the Orient." There is introduced, too, genuine Pekinese pugs and primitive building methods, showing street vocations, with primitive Chinese labor.

Women burden bearers are introduced, as is the method of drilling a well, practically all of Peking's water supply coming from surface wells. The pottery and willow shops, with their workers, are intimately introduced, while there is to be seen a public well, an enjoyable game of dominoes and, in the distance, a Christian Mission church.

MR. FULLER PEPP CELEBRATES HIS WEDDING ANNIVERSARY (On same reel as foregoing).—Mr. Fuller Pepp decides to fittingly celebrate his wedding anniversary. He goes to a soda fountain and there imbibes freely of strawberry concoctions. He staggers home and goes to bed. He indulges in a series of frightful nightmares, in which the bedclothes and other household decorations take on odd shapes and frightful mannerisms. He awakes to resolve that he will drink no more strawberry "cocktails."

BIG U.

THE UPRISING (Reissue—Jan. 4).—Joe and Del, affianced, arrive in Bear Valley. Joe tries to flirt with Mona and is rebuked by her brother. As a result of the insult the Indians rise in arms. There is fighting. Del is forced to shoot Joe. Mona marries the sheriff.

BISON

THE BAD MAN OF CHEYENNE (Two Parts—Jan. 13).—The cast: Harry (Harry Carey); Vesta (Vesta Pegg); Sheriff (William Gettinger); His Wife (Priscilla Dean); Bill (Jack Richardson). Written and produced by F. A. Kelsey.

Sheriff Crane's wife and child are preparing for a little journey with their wagon and team. On arriving at the store, the wife, on attempting to get out, stumbles and startles the horses, which causes them to run away, the child hanging on to the wagon.

This is seen by Harry, who gives chase, captures the runaway horses, and returns the child, unhurt, to the mother. The latter returns home to tell her husband of the bravery of the stranger.

Harry stops at the saloon kept by Vesta, which is patronized by rough Bill and his gang. While there a poor old man enters, accompanied by a dog. He begs for something to eat for himself and the animal, saying that the dog will do tricks in payment. After the performance Bill abuses the dog. Bill strikes the old man and is called to account by Harry. There is a struggle and the gun explodes, killing the old man, but before dying, the latter gives his dog to Harry, begging him to care for it.

Harry leaves with the dog and a threat from Bill. Later, Harry returns and there is a general fight. The gang get after Harry but he escapes. Later he is shot and falls from the horse. The latter races on and crawls in the brush. The gang, misled, ride on. They meet the sheriff and tell him of the affair.

Vesta is called away by one of the men. The dog enters, sneaks the bacon Vesta was cutting and takes it to Harry. Vesta cannot understand how the bacon has disappeared. The following day the same thing occurs but the dog is seen by Vesta, who shoots, wounding him in the leg. He follows and sees him take the food to Harry.

He returns to the saloon and tells the gang. Harry is captured and brought to the saloon to be lynched. He is seen by the sheriff's wife. She explains to her husband that he is the man who saved their child's life. The sheriff gives Harry his horse and allows him to depart.

VICTOR.

A GENTLEMAN OF NERVE (Jan. 9).—The cast: Nervy Nat (Carter De Haven); Girl (Madge Kirby); Her Father (Ed. Clark). Scenario by Harry Wulze. Produced by Carter De Haven.

Carter loves from afar. Growing desperate, he decides to throw himself in front of his sweetheart's automobile; and is knocked down and loses his front teeth. The girl takes him to her home. Her father, a fiery Southern doctor, objects, but hospitality triumphs. Carter pretends to be very ill. He finally gets better, but feigns a limp and hobbles around with crutches. The doctor orders Carter and the girl to take frequent rides. One day they are secretly married. Carter cannot get up enough courage to tell his new father-in-law, and has considerable difficulty in seeing his wife. One night her father catches him in her room. Carter pretends to be walking in his sleep and the doctor forces him back to bed. The father finds him, learns of the marriage and also that Carter is the son of a southern colonel. This clears the atmosphere and the young people finally get the family blessing.

THE WRONG MARY WRIGHT (Jan. 12).—The cast: Poor Mary Wright (Edith Roberts); Rich Mary Wright (Violet Schram); Frank Brewer (M. K. Wilson); Rich Mr. Wright (Malcolm Blevins). Scenario by Male Havey. Produced by M. K. Wilson.

Two Mary Wrights start out the same day to spend their vacations, one with the anticipation of enjoying everything that money can buy—the other to realize the culmination of weeks of saving and scrimping. Their destination is the same town, although the rich Mary goes to a hotel while the other goes to a small camp nearby.

Soon the rich Mary finds the place dull and her father informs her he is sending Frank Brewer, a young bachelor, to keep her company over the week end.

When Frank arrives he finds a note telling him that she could no longer stand the dullness and had left. He meets the other Mary Wright, but thinking she is the one he was supposed to meet, decides not to disclose his identity. Before he leaves for town the two are engaged but he tells her he knows her address and will call upon her in the city.

Meantime, Mr. Wright has received word from his daughter that she expects to be engaged before she returns home. Frank declares that he is engaged to Mary. While they are talking, rich Mary comes in and introduces her fiance. Frank is in a quandary until he meets the right Mary Wright.

LAEMMLE.

ALONE IN THE WORLD (Reissue—Jan. 3).—Bobby's mother dies and leaves him to care for the baby. Bobby, without any money or food, takes the kid to live with him in a barn. While the baby is sleeping Bobby runs off to steal some milk from a cow nearby.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are seeking to purchase a farm. They are directed to the farm on which Bobby has his home. While they are looking over the grounds they hear a baby's voice and, tracing it to the barn, find the baby crying. They take the baby home with them, leaving a card stating where the baby can be found.

Bobby returns and sees the card. He visits Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, and he and the baby are given a good home.

GOLD SEAL.

THE MYSTERY OF MILADY'S BOUDOIR (Three Parts—Jan. 9).—The cast: Margaret Norton (Violet Mersereau); Edgar Mason (Johnnie Walker); Mr. Marshall (Charles Slattery); Mrs. Marshall (Nellie Slattery); James Mason (Fred Hearn); Mazie Carter (Helen Gautier). Scenario written by Harry Ditmar. Directed by Francis Grandon.

Edgar Mason has been left a fortune on condition that he marries by the time he has reached his majority. As his twenty-first birthday approaches, he faces the task of hurriedly finding a wife. After declining an invitation to visit his friends, the Marshalls, he changes his mind on learning that a Miss Wells, whom they desire him to meet, is also to be a guest.

Margaret Norton, although born to a better station in life, on account of illness of her mother, is forced to seek work, and becomes a housemaid in the Marshall home.

The Marshalls, receiving no answer from Edgar, take Miss Wells to the theater; and Margaret, longing for beautiful clothes, puts on an evening gown and a string of pearls belinging to Miss Wells. Edgar arrives and mistakes her for Miss Wells, and they spend an enjoyable evening.

After she has returned the gown and jewels to Miss Wells room, she realizes what she has done, and writes a note to the Marshalls saying that she must leave immediately. The other maid, Mazie Carter, who is the sweetheart of a thief, arranges for him to rob the house that evening, and he steals Miss Well's jewels.

In the morning, Edgar is mystified at meeting the real Miss Wells. The loss of the jewels is discovered, together with Margaret's note saying she has done an unforgiveable thing. Thinking she is the culprit, Margaret is arrested. She protests her innocence and Edgar believes her. In the meantime, an officer who recognizes Mazie, captures her and her sweetheart with the jewels in their possession. Margaret is freed, and Edgar begs her to marry him immediately in order to save his fortune, which she consents to do.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

THE PURPLE MASK (Episode No. 3—"The Capture"—Two Parts—Jan. 14).—When Phil Kelly, the Sphinx, reached the table at which Patricia and her aunt were seated in the Cafe Chic, he returned the handcuffs to his pocket and Pat smiled tauntingly. The Sphinx stationed men at every exit and gave orders that the guests be searched. They failed, however, to find the Dupont pearls, as Pat had slipped them into the outside pocket of Kelly's coat. And when he invited Mrs. Van Nuys and Pat to accept his escort to their home they accepted and Pat again secured the pearls by slipping her hand into Kelly's pocket while seated next to him in the cab. Account of her exploit at the Cafe Chic, the Apaches decided to crown her as their queen. Among those who attended the coronation were Phil Kelly and several of his assistants. Pat wore as her "coronation robes"—a black velvet blouse and black tights. Scarcely had the Apaches assembled when Kelly tried to arrest everybody present. But the Apaches fled through the numerous passages leading to the network of sewers. Kelly captured Patricia after a long chase and carried her to his own apartments still masked and disguised in her Apache garb.

Theatre Owners

A Profitable New Year's Gift
For Your Manager is a
SUBSCRIPTION TO THIS PAPER
Start Now—With the First Issue.

UNIVERSAL.

ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 51 (Dec. 20).

$3,000,000 Wasted.—Giant dam dynamited to prevent back flow of water from menacing country—Whitney, N. C.

Hiking for Health.—Hundreds of men and women start from City College stadium on eight-mile walk in "Fresh Air Campaign"—New York City.

Dancers Pose Artistically.—Graceful girls in Greek garb give classic exhibition amid flowers—Botanical Gardens, St. Louis, Mo.

Uncle Sam Saves $10,000.—Cheapest way to get 100-ton engine aboard U. S. S. Cuyama was to use giant crane—Mare Island Navy Yard, California.

Makes Santa Claus Smile.—Whole shipload of Christmas trees arrives from Michigan—Chicago, Ill. Subtitle: The giant of 'em all, ninety feet tall.

Rounding Up Cattle.—Cowboys bring in steers for annual branding to show ownership—Silverbell, Ariz. Subtitles; Roping and throwing calf. Branding, just fun.

United States Transport Beached.—The Sumner goes ashore near end of voyage from Isthmus of Panama—Jersey coast, near Barnegat. Subtitle: U. S. S. Seneca on guard.

Elephant Aids Kaiser.—Huge beast makes itself useful in pulling up trees, carrying heavy loads and doing other work for the army—On the Roumanian border.

Newest Skating Fashions.—What society women wear this season while on the ice—New York City. Subtitles: A handy pocket. "Leather helmet."

Cartoons by Hy. Mayer.

ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 52 (Dec. 27).

Enjoying 8 Below Zero.—Arctic weather doesn't bother kiddies at Tuberculosis Hospital School, Pittsburgh, Pa. Subtitle: After school.

United States Sends Christmas Ship.—Navy craft takes food over ocean for starving people in Syria—Brooklyn, N. Y. Subtitle: Left to right—Henry Morgenthau and Nathan Straus.

Cops Play Santa Claus—$50,000 worth of presents, donated for poor kiddies, distributed by police—New York City.

Repel Country's "Foes."—Bluejackets routed in attack on land forces in sham battle—San Diego, Cal. Subtitles: The charge. Volley firing. Major General Bell visits Universal City. Margaret Wilson, the President's daughter, also enjoys the sights.

Funeral of Noted Scholar.—Professor Muensterberg of Harvard, noted psychologist, is laid to rest—Cambridge, Mass.

Launch Navy Fighter.—Swift destroyer Shaw given her initial baptism—Mare Island Navy Yard, California.

Governors Visit President.—State executives, in ninth conference, call at White House—Washington, D. C.

Back From Border.—Third Wisconsin Infantry reaches home after months of duty—Fort Sheridan, Ill. Subtitle: Keeping warm.

A Roller Marathon.—Ten-mile race through streets cheered by big crowds—St. Louis, Mo. Subtitle: A double reward.

United States Tests Machine Guns.—Army gives Lewis, Maxim and Benet-Mercier rapid-firers tryouts—Fort Sill, Okla. Subtitle: Moving targets.

World's Champion Skaters.—Ulrich Salchow shows skill in fancy figure work that won him amateur title—St. Nicholas rink, New York City. Subtitle: Arthur Held, star from Berlin Ice Palace.

Is Walking Doomed?—Snow doesn't make a bit of difference to the newest member of the motor-vehicle family, which threatens to make "Shank's Mare" unpopular. Subtitles: A thrilling sleigh ride.

Cartoons by Hy. Mayer.

REX.

THE WHISPERED NAME (Two Parts—Jan. 12).—The cast: Wm. Standiford (Lee Hill); Madeline Evers (Lois Wilson); Orrington Fyles (Mayward Mack); Ethel Mortesque (Nellie Allen); Holmes (T. D. Crittenden). Scenario by Charles J. Wilson, Jr. Produced by Donald MacDonald.

William Standiford goes to Hopeville to attend his friend's wedding, and finds a note that his friend has been delayed. In order to amuse himself he goes to the County Fair, where he picks up a purse returning it to its owner, Madeline Standford. He also finds a pin which he places in his scarf.

A rube wearing a similar pin winks at him knowingly, and he sees another man, wearing the same style pin, hand the rube a wallet. A tramp thrusts into Standiford's hand the purse he just returned to Madeline. He finds her card in the purse, and is surprised to learn that she is the girl mentioned in his friend's letter who is to act as bridesmaid.

He is arrested by the deputy sheriff on account of the pin he is wearing, and three of the gang plan to aid his escape. One of them, to allay suspicion, appears against him, after whispering to the sheriff, and gives him a telegram stating a gang are operating at the fair, wearing scarf pins of the same design.

Standiford, embarrassed on seeing Madeline who has reported her loss, gives the name Benjamin Parker until he can explain to the sheriff alone. The crook swears Standiford stole his wallet, and the wallet and purse are found on him. The purse is returned to Madeline, who endeavors to defend Standiford, but the judge denounces him as a thief.

The crooks assist him to escape from jail, and he is taken to their leader, Fyles, a society crook, who forces him to join in robbing the home of Judge Fortescue, the father of the bride. Tops, Holmes, Fyles and Standiford enter the house, and Fyles forces Standiford to seize Madeline, who is a guest of the bride, as she enters the room. He whispers to her that he is her friend, and to pretend to faint. He carries her to a chair, and, taking off his mask, reveals his identity, and defies Fyles who starts to shoot, but is stopped by Madeline with a revolver. Standiford disarms Fyles, and after tying Fyles, rushes up stairs where Holmes and Tops are struggling. The sheriff arrives after Standiford has subdued Tops. Standiford learns that Holmes is a detective, and Holmes gives him credit for the capture. The picture ends with a suggestion of a deeper affection between Standiford and Madeline.

THE WALL OF MONEY (Reissue—Jan. 6).—John Whalen is approached by the men in his mill, who endeavor to improve the conditions under which they have been working. Wally, his son, arrives home from college. He hears of the troubles at the mill and tries to persuade his father to grant their requests. His father refuses and suggests that he take a vacation. Wally leaves a note, stating that he has gone to the seashore. Instead, he applies at his father's factory for a position and is put to work. One day, Harry, who also works at the mill and with whom Wally is living, is badly hurt. Wally in his working clothes goes to his father and explained how dangerous it is for any man to work in the mill. He also explains how Harry was hurt and that it could be avoided. After a strenuous discussion Wally tells his father if he will allow him to have charge of the factory he will see that all this trouble is done away with. This the father consents to do and the employees are notified that things are going to be changed to benefit them as much as possible.

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

HIGHEST GRADE
Developing and Printing
FILM TITLES
We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice.
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1620, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone: Randolph 6692

Developing and Printing
Fireproof Laboratory
SUPERIOR FILMS COMPANY
ROBERT A. BRACKETT, Manager
Entire 10th Floor
643 Olive Street, Los Angeles

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF
Poster and Lobby Display Frames
204-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone: Bryant 6621-22

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe
The Kinematograph Weekly
The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—
The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd.
8-11 Tottenham Street, London, W., Eng.

Are You Tired
of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The Orpheum Collection
contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:
No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.
Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.
CLARENCE E. SINN
1103 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St. New York City

JUST OFF THE PRESS
LOUIS REEVES HARRISON'S
SCREENCRAFT
or the Making of a Photoplay.
A University Education on the Subject.
$2.00 Postage Paid. Order from nearest office
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York
Schiller Building Chicago, Ill. Haas Building Los Angles, Cal.

AMERICAN STANDARD MOTION PICTURE MACHINE
DURABLE
110 W. 40TH STREET, NEW YORK

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.
1465 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

Mutual Film Corporation

GAUMONT.

TOURS AROUND THE WORLD, No. 11 (Jan. 16).—Gibraltar has for so long been a synonym of strength that a picture of this British fortification at the western entrance to the Mediterranean will be a welcome sight to spectators of Gaumont's "Tours Around the World." There is also a picture of the straits, as well as of the Spanish seaport of Algeciras, six miles west of Gibraltar. It was at Algeciras that there was a European conference to discuss the Agadir incident which Germany almost succeeded in making a cause for war several years before the great conflict.

Typical scenes in the French Protectorate of Tunis are also shown in this issue. These include street scenes, mosques, fountains, Arabian women, and "kif" smokers. Olives are raised in large quantities along the sea coast, and there is an opportunity to contrast these groves with those of California shown in Gaumont's "Reel Life" No. 35.

The Bois de Boulogne is the largest park in Paris. In this reel are shown the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne, leading to the Park, as seen from the Arch of Triumph, and the Dauphine Entrance to the Park.

SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 71 (Jan 17).—A popular trip made by many who visit Los Angeles, Cal., is the climp up Mt. Lowe, situated twenty miles from the city. Its summit is reached by first taking an incline cable railway, an electric railway and then transferring to the back of a burro. Pictures of the trip are shown in this issue of "See America First." The mountain top is 6,100 feet above sea-level, and from it a wonderful view of the coastal plain, the city, the ocean—and to the east—the mountains is obtained.

The incline railway runs from Rubio Canyon to Echo, over the steepest part of the mountain, with a maxim grade of 68 per cent. At Echo, 2,200 feet above sea-level, the electric railway is taken for Alpine, the terminus. The railway is four miles long, and has 127 curves and 18 bridges. The longest stretch of straight track is only 225 feet. on the journey an impressive grove of wild olives is passed, as well as the site of the 3,000,000 candle-power searchlight that flashes over the valley every night.

On the same reel is an animated drawing in the Gaumont Kartoon Komic series by Harry Palmer. Its title, "Mr. Common Peepul Investigates," more than hints at the humorous search by the consumer for the reasons for the present high cost of living.

REEL LIFE, NO. 37 (Jan. 14).—No doubt every person who has ever drawn on a pair of fine kid gloves has wondered by what manufacturing processes the well-fitting hand covering has been made. The Gaumont Company sent a cameraman through one of the finest French factories, and what his lens caught has been introduced into "Reel Life" No. 37. The gambolling kid in the meadow is first shown, and the last picture is milady as she draws on her elegant sixteen-button gloves preparatory to going out for the evening. In between lies a remarkable revelation in pictures. First is shown the selection of the skins, the scraping, the tinting and the smoothing on revolving stones. Then come the cutting of the pattern, the sewing, the attaching of buttons and the embroidering.

Another section shows how pickles are prepared for market in one of America's biggest plants. Everything is shown from the picking of the cucumbers to the labeling of the jars. The picture is a worthy companion to the previous set, "The Great American Dish"—pork and beans.

Both models and graphic drawings have been employed in the section of this reel showing how to preserve the teeth. There are pictures of the proper way to brush the teeth, as well as cross-sctions of a tooth which show how decay makes its insidious attack. The pictures close with a pledge for school children which is calculated to have them cleanse their teeth twice daily.

How fish are protected in irrigating ditches is an interesting subject on this reel. Ordinary gates where the water flows out upon the land permit the fish to pass alone, and they die. The new waterwheel gate that cleanses itself and prevents the passage of fish is pictured.

Expert Cameraman Furnished
CINEMA CAMERA CLUB
1006 Times Bldg. Phone: 6558 Bryant

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

For Perfect Laboratory Results
INSTALL
CORCORAN TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET NEW YORK CITY

TANKS and RACKS
that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Cal.

Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.
AFFILIATIONS
Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England
MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

STUDIO
For sale on easy terms or for rent
at reasonable price
SPLENDIDLY LOCATED, with full equipment of lights, modern dressing rooms, paint dock, carpenter shop, prop rooms, etc., all steam heated.
During the year past Wm. Fox produced the following features at this studio: "A Fool's Revenge," "The Siren," "Slander," "Tortured Heart," "The Straight Way," "Jealousy," "The Vixen."
For full particulars address
KALEM COMPANY
235 W. 23rd Street, New York City

THE VAMPIRES.—No. 8, "The Poison Man."—Three parts—Jan. 11).—The cast: Philip Guard (Edmond Mathe); Normandin (Marcel Levesque); Venenos (Charles Moriss); Irma Vep (Juliet Musidora); Mrs. Guard (Florence Simoni).

Satanas, having committed suicide in prison, Venenos becomes the head of the Vampires. He learns that Philip is engaged to be married and orders Irma Vep to take an apartment in the same building and watch the girl. Irma learns that the betrothal dinner is soon to be celebrated. Venenos is advised and tells the caterer that the dinner has been postponed one day. The Vampires impersonate the caterer and his assistants. They poison the wine, and the janitor, who has been given some, drinks it and dies. His wife rushes into the banquet just in time to save the guests, who are about to drink to Philip and the girl. The Vampires switch off the lights and escape.

Philip writes in code to his fiance and tells her to go with her mother to a villa at Chailly. Irma Vep, accompanied by her maid, lies in wait for the limousine. It arrives with a wardrobe trunk strapped upright on the running board. Irma is at work spraying the interior of the automobile with a powerful anaesthetic when Normandin steps out of the trunk. The women overpower him and Irma hides in the trunk.

On arrival at Chailly, Irma telephones to Venenos, and is afterward captured by Philip Guard, who is soon joined by Normandin, who has escaped from the Vampires. Venenos rescues Irma and the pair escape in an automobile and then separate. Irma keeps the automobile and escapes as the men continue after Venenos, who jumps from a bridge to a moving train and elude Philip and Normandin.

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY.

THE GIRL WHO CAN COOK (Jan. 6).—The cast: Mary Sheldon (Lois Meredith); Robert Blake (Theodore Babcock); His uncle (Paul Edwards); Julia Wilks (Ann Warrington).

The wealthy bachelor, Robert Blake, and his uncle are guests at a house party. Julia Wilks, a beautifully dressed young woman desires Blake for a husband, because he can pay her bills. She is admired by both Blake and his uncle, and the uncle tells Robert to marry the girl. About the time that Blake is ready to propose to Julia, the cook leaves and someone must take up the task. The task of cooking a meal falls to Julia and the results are terrible. Mary Sheldon, a prim and shy girl, volunteers. Blake's uncle is skeptical, but after eating he pays more attention to Mary and before the house party is over Mary has won the rich bachelor.

MUTUAL.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 104 (Dec. 27).

Excerpts From a Letter Received From a Soldier at the Front.—Subtitles: (1) There are no restrictions placed upon the use of the enormous stores of ammunition; (2) The big shells are loaded on little carts and delivered to the gunners at the front; (3) An attack started at 10 o'clock this morning. Observation balloons were sent up to locate the enemy's position, the terrific shell fire being directed by telephone; (4) The Germans could no longer stand the terrible bombardment and came running toward our trench with their hands up, calling "Kamarad! Kamarad!"; (5) Notwithstanding unfavorable weather conditions, our aviators took a brilliant part in the fighting; (6) Bringing down two enemy planes; (7) Late this afternoon a battalion passed us on their return after capturing the village of Rancourt. These brave little "poilus" were singing the "Marseillaise."

Portland, Me.—J. C. Hanson instructs boys to whittle toys from wood.

Norfolk, Va.—The Atlantic Squadron mobilizes as the Southern Commercial Congress meets.

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson greets sailors. Youngest and oldest in the Atlantic Fleet call at the White House.

South Los Angeles, Cal.—New city christens largest mail box in the world. It is 32 feet high and on the regular call of Uncle Sam.

Boston, Mass.—Skating on chemical ice. It resembles natural ice, but is neither wet nor cold.

Paris, France.—An exhibition of designs for Edith Cavell's monument.

Montreal, Canada.—Irish Rangers given farewell. His Grace, the Duke of Devonshire, bids God-speed to officers and men.

THE Automatic TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF
AUTOMATICKET MACHINES
and all kinds of Theatre Tickets
USED UNIVERSALLY
1735 BROADWAY N. Y. CITY

Oakland, Cal.—Building the largest wooden ship in the world. Huge five-master will fly Norwegian flag.

Mare Island, Cal.—U. S. destroyer Shaw launched here. Mrs. Kemper Lynch is sponsor for new fighting craft.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Santa Claus Girl. Olive May Wilson sends a merry Christmas to more than 25,000 children. Her work now nationwide.

San Francisco, Cal.—Christmas joy for needy children. Unique desert caravan brings toys to little tots.

San Antonio, Tex.—Strong man gives unique exhibition. With rope around neck he pulls ten vehicles through street.

San Diego, Cal.—Soldiers and jackies in sham battle. Sailors and regulars entertain exposition crowds.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.

THE INNOCENCE OF LIZETTE (American—Five parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: Lizette (Mary Miles Minter); Paul (Eugene Ford); Faure (Harvey Clark); Granny Page (Eugene Forde); Dan Nye (Ashton Dearholt); Mrs. Bunn Blanche Hanson). Directed by James Kirkwood.

Ashby Leene, once a famous actor, but now poverty stricken, dies, leaving his grandchild, Lizette, in the care of Granny Page, his landlady. Lizette's new home is one of kindliness and she becomes a friend of Paul, Granny's young nephew, who runs a newsstand. Remembering her promise, Granny spends a good deal of time at the newsstand when Paul is away on deliveries. She resents Dan Nye's attention to Lizette.

One day Lizette sells a paper to Henry Faure, an elderly millionaire, who is attracted to the bright-faced girl. Faure has been mentally depressed since the death of his wife and little girl. Longing for some one to love, Faure offers to adopt Lizette as his own daughter. Though Paul and Granny are heartbroken, they consent.

For a time Lizette is happy in her new home. While Faure is away on business, Lizette visits her old friends. Faure unexpectedly returns. To his dismay Lizette begs that he let her stay a while longer with Granny. He reluctantly consents. His old depression returns. The housekeeper finally writes Lizette, begging her to return for Faure's sake.

Lizette finds an abandoned infant on the doorstep upon her return. She is overjoyed. She is admitted by the butler, who is aghast to see that she has returned with a baby. When questioned, she tells them that she is the baby's mother, etc. Faure asks her about the child's father. Lizette innocently answers that she don't know. She realizes in a vague way that babies have fathers and, seeing that everyone is greatly upset, she decides that if the baby must have a father she will give Dan Nye the honor of naming him. Faure loves her so much that he cannot find it in his heart to denounce her. Nor can the kind old housekeeper, who is highly amused at Lizette's lack of knowledge about babies.

Dan Nye is amazed when Faure calls to see him and charges him with being the father of Lizette's baby. He conceals his astonishment, quick to realizee that he has an unusual opportunity for blackmail in the affair. When Faure declares he must marry Lizette for the sake of her good name, Nye admits he is the baby's father, but refuses to marry the girl unless Faure pays him an exorbitant sum. Faure agrees to this, upon the condition that he accompany him and marry Lizette at once.

The young woman who abandoned the child calls to reclaim it, but Lizette is unwilling to give it up. But she is finally induced to give it back to the rightful mother. Nye is thrown out of the house, and Paul, who has long cherished a love for Lizette, is made happy by her acceptance of him.

A Seeburg Pipe Organ
will solve your music problems.
J. P. SEEBURG PIANO CO.
epublic Build

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"
DAYS OF '49
A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels
Grafton Publishing Film Company
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING.

FAC-SIMILE PAINTING
in a beautiful gilt 3-inch width frame—size over all 25x22 inches. Pictures are painted in oils and water colors of every popular player, all made from poses to appropriately fit this style of frame. Complete with brass name plate .....$5.00 each

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES
Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player .....75c. each

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $2.50 to $35 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players. Made by a process that has the appearance of a real photograph. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 40c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.
220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK
12th Floor, Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples, free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

SIGNAL FILM CORP.

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS (Chapter Eleven—Two Parts—Jan. 1).—Independent timber men under the leadership of Dawson have undertaken to build an extension of "Dollar" Holmes' logging railroad to Shady Creek by a certain date, they having accepted Holmes' note for $27,000 for material and their services. Completion of the road, which has been decreed by the Interstate Commerce Commission under the common-carrier act, will mean that Holmes' rivals in the lumber business will have a chance of ruining his monopoly.

To prevent the going forward of the construction Holmes has paid a prospector to come into the camp and spread a false story of a big gold strike a few miles away. The builders stampede, and with them goes Stephen, Holmes' son. In slucing the free-gold gravel he gets a handful of nuggets—and writes Helen that he has "struck it rich" and asks her to come to him at once.

Meantime Holmes has ascertained that Dawson and his workmen have laid down the extension track to within half a mile of Shady Creek, the terminus, and he orders "Big Bill" Behrens, his camp foreman, to have 900 feet of the new-laid track blown out with dynamite. The first reel of this chapter ends with the arrival of Helen in the bogus gold camp.

While Helen is a little distance away, two bandits seize Stephen and rob him of the nuggets and placed in his cartridge belt, using it as a money belt; then they hurl him from a cliff into a lake. All of this is witnessed by Helen, who gallops her horse into the lake and drags Stephen to shore just as he is about to drown. The blowing up of the extension track by Holmes' secret order makes it impossible for Dawson and his men to complete the rail-laying to Shady Creek on time, and Holmes refuses to make good his $27,000 note or to pay for any of the work that has been done.

This so enrages Stephen that he defies his father and tells him he will pay for the work by selling his gold claim, for which he has been offered a small fortune on the strength of the nuggets he found. "Dollar" Holmes replies by knocking Stephen down with a blow to the jaw. Stephen, dazed, gets to his feet and picks up a revolver to kill his father, but comes to his senses and lays the weapon down.

Stephen is removed to the camp hospital, and from there Holmes has him abducted and lodged in the loft over the Ace High Saloon. To effect his release Helen gets Little Bear, her half-breed Indian friend, to buy a drink of whiskey in the Ace High bar so the sheriff will have an excuse for raiding the place. Then the fist-fight takes place and Stephen is rescued.

Miscellaneous Subjects

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

THE SECRET KINGDOM (Episode No. 1—"The Land of Intrigue"—Three Parts—Jan. 1).—Taking advantage of his monarch's lack of funds, Prime Minister Simond, of Alania, who secretly aspires to the throne, induces him to pass an obnoxious tax bill. Then, with his sovereign unpopular, Simond feels it a good time to strike—so he causes the assassination of the King, Phillip II and Queen Alixe, while they are hunting in the royal forests.

Capt. Barreto, Commander of the Alanian palace guard, and a loyal friend of Phillip II, realizes Simond's dastardly plan, and when he hears him issue an order for the apprehension of the little Crown Prince—the only obstacle remaining in his path to the throne—he

MAKE YOUR OWN CURRENT WITH A
Brush Electric Lighting Set
Send for 125-page catalogue with very complete information about electrical matters.
THE CHAS. A. STRELINGER CO.,
Box MP-2, Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE
D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor
B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

dashes off with him to America, with the aid of Juan, a fisherman.

Barreto makes arrangements with Juan to keep in communication with his brother, Lieut. Barreto. Simond proclaims himself Prince Regent, and with a bold bid for popularity, rescinds the obnoxious tax bill—his first official act.

THE SECRET KINGDOM (Episode No. 2—"Royalty at Red Wing"—Three Parts—Jan. 8).—Twenty years later, Phillip Barr—the rightful King of Alania, but entirely in ignorance of the fact, having been raised on Red Wing Ranch, Arizona, by "Peter Barr," whom he believes to be his father—rescues from the clutches of a frontier bad man, "Julia Simond," who is in reality Princess Julia, only daughter of Simond. Julia has been traveling in the United States incognito.

Forthwith, they fall in love with each other; but Julia leaves on the next train. Back in Alania, but one obstacle prevents Simond's declaring himself King—proof of the death of Prince Phillip.

He learns of the whereabouts of Capt. Barreto through an intercepted letter, and despatches Monsieur and Madam Savatz, secret agents, to the United States to assassinate Phillip. Savatz and his wife arrive at Red Wing Ranch, and pose as cattle buyers from Paris.

Juan, son of the fisherman who helped Capt. Barreto and the Prince to escape years before, is despatched to America by Lieut. Barreto, brother of Peter Barr, to warn him that Simond has learned of his whereabouts. He arrives in time to bare the spies' plot, and in the fight that follows, both Savatz and Phillip's supposed father, Peter Barr, are killed. Dying, Peter Barr charges Juan, "Don't let Phillip know yet, that he is rightful king of—"

THE SECRET KINGDOM (Episode No. 3—"The Sealed Packet"—Two Parts—Jan. 15).—While Phillip Barr mourns at the bier of his supposed father, Madam Savatz rifles the private papers of the dead Peter Barr, and finds what she seeks, a sealed packet containing the proof of Phillip's right to the throne.

Juan, the faithful, surprises her, and recovers the papers. The ensuing struggle brings Phillip into the room, and he orders Madam Savatz to leave. A letter left by his supposed father instructs him to convey "the sealed packet" to Lieut. Paul Barreto in Paris.

Savatz reaches Chicago, and receives instructions from Paris to secure the sealed packet at all costs. To this end, she engages the assistance of Red Lazarus, one of Chicago's notorious underworld powers. By reason of an intercepted telegram, Savatz learns that Phillip has started on his journey to Paris, and plans to visit Princess Julia, who is stopping at the Whitestone Hotel, Chicago.

Phillip is enticed to a den in the tenderloin of Chicago; but Princess Julia and Juan learn of the plot and hurry to the resort. Princess Julia is trapped; Juan is seized by two negroes, and Phillip finds himself locked in a room. Juan escapes, Phillip breaks through and rescues Julia, and the three escape by an elevator shaft to the roof and to safety.

PARAMOUNT.

REDEEMING LOVE (Morosco—Five Parts—Dec. 28).—The cast: Naomi Sterling (Kathlyn Williams); John Bancroft (Thomas Holding); Hugh Wiley (Wyndham Standing); James Plymouth (Herbert Standing); Naomi's Aunt (Jane Keckley); Katie (Helen J. Eddy); McCarthy (Dom Bailey).

Naomi Sterling and John Bancroft are lovers. The girl loves frivolous things and Bancroft, a divinity student, finally estranges himself from her by his continual efforts to preach to her. Attracted by Hugh Wiley, a gambler, from a nearby city, Naomi finally elopes with him and eventually becomes known as the gambling queen.

The girl's one ambition in life is to hoard up her wealth against the day when she shall lose her beauty and her popularity. Bancroft has plunged into religious work. He has become famous as an evangelist and has been trusted with the combination to the vault of the great tabernacle over which he presides. Learning this fact, Wiley inflames the mind of Naomi against Bancroft on the false ground that he has spurned her because of her life. He plans to have Naomi lure Bancroft to her gambling palace on a pretense, to overpower the minister while he is there, steal the combination and loot the tabernacle. Furthermore, Wiley arranges to have the executive board of the tabernacle informed when the minister is in the gambling den—and to have the place raided by the police while he and his pal, McCarthy, rob the tabernacle.

But the minister is too strong to succumb to the temptations of Naomi when he reaches her apartment, and his spiritual power wins the repentance of his temptress. Wiley, realizing that he is losing, springs upon Bancroft from behind and gets the combination away from him while his confederate alarms the police and the executive board according to the plan. But Naomi spirits the minister away through a secret passage, rushes to the tabernacle too late to prevent the robbery, and makes the great sacrifice of replacing the stolen money by her own ill-gotten hoard before the bewildered police and board officials arrive at the vault. In the final great moment of spiritual exaltation, Naomi has realized the greatness of Bancroft's love and of his power. Meanwhile Wiley, in an attempt to steal the loot from McCarthy, has wrecked the automobile in which they are fleeing and is killed.

WORLD-PICTURES.

ON DANGEROUS GROUND (Peerless—Five Parts—Jan. 8).—The cast: Bradford Stewart (Carlyle Blackwell); Little Comrade (Gail Kane); Ritter Bloem (William Baily); Hugo Grossman (Stanhope Wheatcroft); M. Trapadoux (Frank Leigh); Frau Bertha Schanne (Florence Ashbrook); Hans (John Burkell). Directed by Robert Thornby.

Bradford Stewart, a young American surgeon studying in Germany, is dining in Cologne with a German friend, Ritter Bloem, a philosopher and a patriotic German. The latter is called away by German officers, and on his return announces to Stewart that war has been declared.

After Bloem's departure, Trapadoux, chief of the French Secret Service maintained in Germany, who has been listening to their conversation, accosts Stewart, claiming to be one of the German police agents, inspects his passport, and learns to which hotel he will go in Aachen, which is his next destination.

Frau Schanne, the proprietress of the Holmer Hof, secretly maintains French sympathies, but her servant, Hans, is a German spy. In Stewart's absence from his room, Trapadoux brings Frau Schanne a package, the contents of which he instructs her to place in Stewart's baggage to avert police suspicion during their later moves.

Upon his return to his room Stewart finds in his luggage a lady's slippers, silk hose and dainty lingerie. The door of his room is opened and Little Comrade hurries in, embraces him fondly and calling him husband. Outside the door Hans listens, perplexed and a little suspicious, but had he not seen the lady's garments in Stewart's belongings? Perhaps, after all, she is his wife.

After making sure of Hans' retirement, Little Comrade explains to Stewart that she is a French spy fleeing from Germany with secrets stolen from the German officers with whom she has been wont to flirt in Alsace-Lorraine—that even now they are on the watch for her and that if she is brought back, death will be the penalty. Stewart consents to help her, and watches while she forges an addition to his passport, adding to his own name and description, the description of herself as his wife traveling with him.

Together they pass the gauntlet of police inspection and board the train for Brussels. At the frontier the train is held up and all passengers inspected. The police inspector stationed there holds Stewart and his "wife" for the coming of a German officer from Metz to identify Little Comrade. One of the French spies on the frontier summons Trapadoux, who comes in the guise of the officer from Metz, and after inspecting Little Comrade, states that she is not the woman spy they feared. In the morning they arrive at the Belgium camp, where they are welcomed; but a few hours later the Belgians muster in battle against the German invaders.

Little Comrade and Stewart are wounded, and while Stewart goes for a stretcher for her, she is captured by a genuine officer from Metz, who takes her to German headquarters and denounces her as a spy. Bloem, who is in command, is unable to persuade her to confess. When Stewart discovers Little Comrade gone, weak from loss of blood, he becomes unconscious for several days. Upon regaining consciousness he learns that Little Comrade has been captured, so he

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL
HIGH Quality
LOW Price and CAST IRON
Opera Chairs
immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.
Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

"All eyes on a line"
FOCO
ADJUSTABLE OPERA CHAIR
Can be changed from adult's chair to child's chair by pressing catch and raising.
Write for booklet
Family Opera Chair St. Louis, Mo.

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE
MACHINES
SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS

All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.
"The Exhibitors Mail Order House"
HOMMEL'S
947 PENN AVE. PITTSBURGH, PA.

Dependable Terminals
at a reasonable price. At your exchange—or write the manufacturers.

Bell & Howell Co.
1801 Larchmont Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Minusa Gold Fibre Screens; Sanozone, the perfect deodorant; Power, Simplex and Baird Machines; Motor Generator Sets and General Supplies.
LEWIS M. SWAAB
1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

STAR CARBONS
Jones & Cammack
Sole Distributors for the U. S.
Corner Bridge and Whitehall Sts., New York

COOL & VENTILATE BY TYPHOONS
1544 BWAY. TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK CITY

concentrates his energies on delivering to General Joffre the papers she confided to his keeping.

In gratitude, General Joffre bestows on Stewart the ribbon of the Legion of Honor, but overwhelmed by his loss and weak from this last effort, Stewart is borne away delirious. At the German headquarters, Bloem finding Little Comrade obdurate, is about to pass sentence upon her when she begs him to send her last words of love to Stewart. Finding that Stewart is her lover, Bloem, whose life was once saved by Stewart, refuses to condemn her, claiming that there is not sufficient evidence, and sends her back to "her American husband." There follows a joyous reunion in the hospital between Stewart and Little Comrade.

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.

HER CROOKED CAREER (Jan. 8).—The cast: The Girl (Betty Compson); The Chief of Police (Eddie Barry); His Assistant (Neal Burns). Story by Alice Creighton. Directed by A. E. Christie.

When the Weedville force hears that Jane Slickem, famous lady "deteckatiff," will visit them incog., they spruce up to look their best. But in the city a nest of crooks has been raided and they send their beautiful queen, Alofa Breada, to the country with the loot and the Weedville police mistake her for Jane Slickem. She phones to her accomplices. The Weedville police give a drill for Alofa and exhibit their resources, from the burglar-proof squad to the "mounted" on a burro. Meanwhile the other crooks arrive and, while Alofa plays blind man's buff with the cops, they rob the bank. Alofa slips out and joins them just as the real Jane Slickem arrives. The robbery is discovered as the crooks are getting away in an automobile. The cops give chase and the honor of Weedville's finest is vindicated when they catch the crooks and save the money.

IVAN FILM CORP.

ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER (Seven parts—December).—The cast: Daniel Stevens (Frank Sheridan); His wife (Katharine Kaelred); Lillian, their daughter (Zena Keefe); Richard Stevens (Arthur Donaldson); Minna, his wife (Marie Shotwell); Ruth, their daughter (Ruby De Reimer); Mrs. Winthrop (Mathilda Brundage); Harold, her son (James Morrison); Bob Laurence (Bernhard Neimyer); His wife (Violet Horner); Nina (Runo Hodges); Walter (Walter J. Gould).

Two girls of entirely different types are cousins. Ruth grows to maturity under the watchful care of a loving mother, while Lillian is neglected by her mother, whose passion for gambling is greater than her love for home and family.

Ruth is given the advantage of her mother's knowledge of the world's pitfalls, while Lillian, ignorant of the mysteries of life, meets Harold Winthrop, the spoiled and reckless son of a wealthy widow. A motor trip, delayed by rain, causes Harold and Lillian to remain away from home.

She later introduces Winthrop to Ruth, with whom he soon falls in love, resulting in his becoming indifferent to Lillian. Lillian's mother, to satisfy her gambling debts, has become a partner of a practitioner in birth-control. His treatment results in Lillian's death, and on her deathbed she begs that her mother be forgiven and confesses that Harold was responsible for her condition.

Lillian's father, realizing his wife's responsibility, drives her from home, while Ruth breaks her engagement to Harold.

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE.

PATRIA (Episode No. 2, "Treasure"—Two Parts—Jan. 8).—The cast: Patria Channing (Mrs. Vernon Castle); Donald Parr (Milton Sills); Baron Huroki (Warner Oland).

Patria and Captain Parr reach New York and hurry to the Channing mansion, which they find apparently deserted. Finally Captain Parr tries the door knob, which turns easily. Inside the house they are met by Riggs, the old butler, who has at last been aroused from his slumber. He has heard nothing throughout the night and does not know anything of Mr. Ripley except that he left him in the library when he went to bed. At Patria's command, he enters the library but comes staggering out immediately, horrified at what he has seen. Parr going in finds the bodies of Ripley and one of the Japanese spies. A letter falling from Ripley's pocket is picked up by Parr, who urger Patria to read it.

Following the introduction relative to Patria's coming of age, the letter reads: "One hundred years ago the first John Channing, dying, left half his fortune to form a secret trust fund for National Defense in the event of peril arising through its unpreparedness for war. That fund today totals $100,000,000, largely in gold. It is in a secret vault adjoining this room to which the password is your name. Wisely employed this treasure may prove the salvation of your country in this, its hour of direst peril."

Patria and Don are both mystified by the letter, and Riggs, when questioned, is unable to enlighten them. Don at the mantle sweeps his hand across the letters forming the name "Patria" in the inscription above, and is startled to find that they sink in at his touch. Patria detects a movement in the mantle and they push aside the sliding panel. Don conducts Patria into the secret vault. They find boxes stacked up on both sides containing gold, and are awed by the sight.

In the meantime, Huroki has also reached New York and goes to the Channing mansion. They do not stop to ring, but finding the door unlatched, he and his agents go in. Briggs, seeing them, rushes to the library, closes the door and shuts the vault. The Japs break in and in the ensuing scuffle Briggs is killed. Huroki orders his men to search the house for Patria. Not finding her, he concludes she has escaped and orders the house to be set on fire in order that the murders may be covered up. The Japs pile draperies and furniture in the library and setting fire to it leave the house, Huroki instructing Kato to watch developments.

Donald and Patria, hearing the commotion and finding the opening to vault closed, are alarmed by the smell of smoke and discover that the house is on fire above them. The air in the vault become oppressive and Patria is on the verge of collapse when Don finds another concealed door. This door, which opens into a passage leading to a stairway to the garden, Don forces up the flagstone that concealed the opening from the outside. Kato sees them leaving the garden and finds out how Patria and Don managed to escape. He hurries to Huroki and tells him what he has seen. He and Huroki enter the vault and are amazed at the quantity of gold.

Don summons secret service men and they lift the flagstone, disclosing the secret stairs. Kato hearing them notifies Huroki and they bolt the steel door against them. Don leaves secret service men on guard, takes Patria to her hotel. Here she is joined by Rodney Wrenn, who thinking she has eloped with Captain Parr, has followed in the hope of preventing the marriage and winning Patria. Her preference for the Captain is made apparent to him, however, and he is consumed with jealousy.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

A WIFE BY PROXY (Columbia Pictures Corp.—Five Parts—Jan. 8).—The cast: "Jerry" McNairn (Mabel Taliaferro); Norton Burbeck (Robert Walker); Beatrice Gaden (Sally Crute); Frederick Gaden (Fred Jones); Howard Curtis (Yale Benner); Timothy McNairn, "Jerry's" father (George Melville); Scraggs, the housekeeper (Ricca Allen); Cuyler, Burbeck's attorney (Jerome N. Wilson); Flynn, butler (Ed. Mack). Directed by John H. Collins.

Norton Burbeck, a young clubman, becomes infatuated with Beatrice Gaden, an adventuress, who pretends to be in love with him. By the terms of a strange will, Burbeck is to receive a large fortune provided he is married by a certain date. If he fails, the money is to be forfeited to his cousin, Howard Curtis. Beatrice Gaden is in league with Curtis to keep Burbeck from receiving the money, and she is married to a man who aids her in the plot.

Years before, while Burbeck was traveling in Ireland, Timothy McNairn had done him a service, and was told at the time to call upon the American in any time of need. On his deathbed, McNairn tells his daughter, Jerry, to go to Burbeck in America, since she is left almost penniless. One night Burbeck finds her asleep in the hall of his house. He gives her the title of "guardian of his comfort," and she sets about her new duties of mending his socks and sewing on his buttons. While calling on Beatrice, Burbeck learns that she is married, as he surprises her husband in her apartment. Beatrice insists that her husband is a brute and that she does not love him, whereupon Burbeck proposes that Gaden grant her a divorce, which he promises to do.

Jerry is sent to Beatrice with a present from Burbeck. In the presence of Jerry the adventuress states her real opinion of him and discusses with her husband the way in which they will spend the money out of which they expect to hoodwink him. Jerry is determined to save her benefactor from their plot to ruin him. On the eve of the date mentioned in the will, Jerry marries him herself, assuring him that the marriage will be one in name only, and that she will have it annulled as soon as the money is safely in his hands.

The Gadens become desperate. Gaden goes to Jerry and promises to keep Beatrice away from Burbeck in the future in return for a large sum of money. Jerry refuses the offer, and decides it is time her husband should know what a pair of scoundrels the Gadens are. She asks Burbeck to send for Beatrice and tell her the marriage is to be annulled.

Isn't It True

that much of the force of a statement depends upon the credibility of the individual who makes it?

The Moving Picture World

has established a reputation for credibility and reliability in years of careful service to the trade.

Its policy of "playing fair" along the line has made it the preferred medium in the moving picture trade.

Advertise in Subscribe to

The Moving Picture World

Mrs. Gaden is told that there is one drawback—that Burbeck will have to forfeit all his money to win his freedom, and come to Beatrice a poor man.

Mrs. Gaden loses all interest in Burbeck when this news is told her, and tells him she has become reconciled to her husband. He asks her to leave his house. As he thinks over recent events he realizes the nobility of Jerry's character, and what she has done for him. Jerry cannot be found. She has stolen out of the house early in the morning, leaving a note saying that she intends sailing on a boat bound for Ireland, and that she will have the marriage annulled as soon as possible. Burbeck hastens to her, and pleads with her to remain, declaring that she is sailing away from happiness instead of toward it. Jerry confesses that she has loved him all the time. At this moment they discover that the boat is in motion, and deciding that they might just as well spend their honeymoon abroad, the happy pair watch New York's sky-line recede in the distance.

THE GREAT SECRET (Chapter 3, "The Hidden Hand"—Two Parts—Jan. 8).—Strong, kidnapped, is taken to the headquarters of The Secret Seven, but is released under orders from The Great Master. The kidnappers, having found the casket in the clubman's home, carry it to Dr. Zulph, who opens it, but finds only a slip of paper with Chinese characters on it. Zulph vows to kill Strong. He sends one of the kidnappers out after Beverly, who has gone to the home of Strong's fiancee to explain her presence in the clubman's apartment. He seizes her as she leaves the Morton home and carries her to a den of the gangsters.

Strong, having returned to his home and telephoned to the police, is attacked by one of the hirelings of The Secret Seven, a character known as "Chug," who has helped steal the casket and, having seen jewels in the safe at that time, returns for them. After a desperate fight Strong knocks "Chug" unconscious. Learning from Mrs. Clarke that Beverly is missing, he dons the clothing of "Chug" and starts out with Wee See to find her. Two of the gangsters are waiting at the front door with levelled pistols. They had suspected "Chug" of being an informer and had followed him to the apartment, whither he went to steal the jewels. They believe Strong is "Chug" and are bent on killing him.

K-E-S-E, INC.

THE TRUANT SOUL (Essanay—Seven Parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: Dr. John Lancaster (Henry B. Walthall); Joan Wentworth (Mary Charleson); Myers (Patrick Calhoun); Mrs. Dana (Anna Mae Walthall); Mrs. Fraser (Mary Parkyn); Dr. Jenkins (U. K. Haupt). Directed by Harry Beaumont.

Dr. John Lancaster is a great surgeon, a man of fine instincts, but one who has a hidden second nature. He performs wonderful operations; he does inestimable good for mankind. But sudden periods of temporary atavism come over him and he reverts to primitive type. He sinks into the lowest kinds of vice. He is cruel, heartless, vindictive, unscrupulous. He blasts lives and love without compunction. He is a modern Dr. Jeckyl, or Mr. Hyde.

As the strange reversion reaches its climax, and death or a madhouse seems the surgeon's inevitable doom, Joan Wentworth, a nurse, enters his life. She is a brave little woman who recognizes the victim's genius. Fearlessly she faces all terrifying obstacles to fight his malady.

The victory is won, then Lancaster's half-brother appears. It is he who has sought the surgeon's ruin. Seeing his fiendish intent frustrated, the half-brother causes the hospital in which Dr. Lancaster and Joan are asleep to be set afire.

As the building burns, he is shot by a maniacal woman. The surgeon escapes, bearing Joan in his arms. That life which the brave little nurse had brought back to him, Dr. Lancaster gives into her keeping.

LITTLE SHOES (Essanay—Five Parts—Jan. 15).—Rosalind, whose papa is rich, first meets David Noel when she is about ten years old. He is a shivering little beggar boy who is seeking the scant warmth emitted from a sidewalk grating at her home. Rosalind, with childish generosity and sympathy, takes off her shoes and gives them to the beggar boy. Those little shoes were David Noel's guiding light. They spurred ambition in him, the ambition to become rich and then make the pretty little donor his wife.

Years pass. The two children saw each other no more, and David wins the first step towards his ambition's goal. He becomes rich in Costa Rica. Then he returns to the great city wherein dwelt the girl of the little shoes to achieve the final step.

Time has wrought a great change in Rosalind's life. Her papa has lost his wealth, and she, now grown, is facing destitution. Thus David, finding her at last, is enabled to repay two-fold the gift of the little shoes. She wins him and his fortune.

Schram-Wiederhold Silent Usher Co.

1-2 Campau Building

DETROIT, MICHIGAN

PATENTS PENDING

The Silent Usher can be used as a flash light by opening cover.

Description of Silent Usher.

Standard three-cell flash light, revolving top is of steel, numbers cut out, inside has a highly polished reflector, throwing all light on one number at a time.

AGENCIES TAKEN

WOLVERINE FEATURE FILM CO.
71 Griswold St.
Detroit, Michigan.

MORRIS J. BROWN
901 Park Bldg.
Cleveland, Ohio

J. GELLER
51 Pelissier St.
Windsor, Canada

Balance of States to be placed at once. Write, wire, get to us quick for State distributing terms.

Price prepaid, $3.50
Canadian price, $4.00

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

THE PIPER'S PRICE (Five Parts—Jan. 8).—The cast: Amy Hadley (Dorothy Phillips); Jessica (Maud George); Ralph Hadley (William Stowell); Billy Kilmartin (Lon Chaney); Jessica's maid (Claire Du Brey). Scenario written by Ida May Park. Produced by Joseph De Grasse.

Ralph Hadley has divorced his first wife, Jessica, and has married a woman of an entirely different type—Amy Hadley. When making the divorce settlement, Hadley and Jessica retained joint control of some shares of stock that would exact a great financial sacrifice if disposed of and the proceeds divided.

It is this stock that brings Jessica to Hadley's office. Hadley takes Jessica to lunch with him. Amy has, meanwhile, telephoned Ralph to hurry home to lunch because she has a secret to impart. That morning the family physician told Amy she would eventually have maternal duties that would replace her obligations to society.

Friends see Jessica and Ralph at lunch. The gossips carried the news to Amy. The wife is broken-hearted and Hadley has difficulty in convincing Amy that his promises, to have nothing more to do with Jessica, are sincere. Truth is that Hadley has fallen in love, all anew, with his divorced wife and continues to shower his attention upon Jessica.

From bad to worse, the revived relation between Jessica and Ralph go on. Finally Amy goes to Jessica and imparts the secret she told Ralph she would confide in him—but which, in his infatuation for Jessica, he had never inquired about. Jessica's eyes are opened to the error of her ways and the wrongs she has committed against Amy, and when Hadley again attempts to see her, Jessica tells him that their relations must terminate forthwith.

During all the years Jessica has been divorced from Ralph her loyal friend and devoted admirer has been Billy Kilmartin, who sees in the illicit relations between Jessica and Ralph the only possible ending to it all. He entreats Jessica to marry him and his devotion finally attains his purpose—for when Ralph calls one morning to demand that Jessica renew their old relations, Billy is there to serve as her excuse. She tells Ralph that she and Billy are married.

Hadley goes home determined to end his life, but at the moment he is about to blow out his brains, the family physician enters Ralph's room and congratulates him upon being the father of an unusually healthy child just born to Amy. Hadley sees his folly and turns again to Amy in the bright prospect of their child reuniting its parents in their former state of tranquil happiness.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

PATHE NEWS NO. 103 (Dec. 23).

Chicago, Ill.—The education authorities convert the public school playgrounds into ice skating rinks, so that the children may derive the benefits of this invigorating outdoor exercise. Subtitles: The children are provided with skates free, so that all may take advantage of the sport. Preparing for a hale and hardy life.

New York City.—While the busy metropolis shivers in the frigid temperature the polar bears at the Zoo enjoy the first cold spell in their icy cave, so reminiscent of their former abode.

London, England.—Another Lancashire regiment is ready to leave for the front to add to the immense army that Great Britain is quietly collecting for her supreme effort. Subtitle: A bayonet charge.

Rheims, France.—The famous cathedral, with its priceless windows and beautiful architecture, which the French army's valiant struggle has succeeeded in saving from the ravaging destruction of the war. Subtitle: The columns are carefully guarded from shell fire.

Paris, France.—Prince Arthur of Connaught, who is fighting for his country's cause as a major in the British army, inspects a battalion of troops at the Invalides with General Dubail. Subtitles: General Balfourier is decorated with the Collar of Saint Michael for exceptional bravery. The troops then honor the mark of heroism by filing past the distinguished general.

JUST OFF THE PRESS
LOUIS REEVES HARRISON'S
SCREENCRAFT
or the Making of a Photoplay.
A University Education on the Subject.
$2.00 Postage Paid. Order from nearest office
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York
Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angles, Cal.

Steel Industry Booms (Magazine section). Subtitles: The great demand for iron and steel by the warring nations causes many long abandoned furnaces at Cornwall, Pa., to resume operations. The ore is hoisted in "skips" up to the steep inclines to the furnaces. The men are accustomed to the terrific heat of the huge ovens where the ore is smelted. Moulding pig iron.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Naval Board visits Hunters Point to investigate the advisability of this site for the establishment of a big Pacific base, in compliance with the government's new naval program. Subtitle: Construction of the largest drydock in the world, able to accommodate the 874-foot battle cruisers, planned.

Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men.—Subtitles: The Christmas spirit rules over the land and everywhere good cheer prevails. In San Francisco a camel caravan brings Yuletide gifts to the invalid children in the hospitals. Philadelphia's Santa Claus is Miss Olive Wilson, who brings gladness to 22,000 eager hearts. New York's Christmas tree is gaily decorated for the little folk.

Independent Poland (Magazine section).—An animated cartoon by L. M. Glackens.

Portland, Ore. (Portland only).—The Pacific International Live Stock Exposition brings out exceptional fine products of American animal breeding. Subtitles: A Holstein bull sold for the record price of $21,500.

Seattle, Wash. (Seattle only).—The crew of the University of Washington continue their open-water practice, despite inclement weather. Subtitle: They use an old scow instead of the usual tank machine.

PATHE NEWS NO. 104 (Dec. 26).

Los Angeles, Cal.—The Llewellyn Iron Works, dynamited six years ago by the notorious McNamara ring, is again destroyed by an explosion of suspicious origin.

Yonkers, N. Y.—The greatest of the country's long-distance runners start in a twenty-five-mile marathon race, despite the chill weather. Subtitles: William Kyronen, national cross country champion, covers the course in 2 hours 51 minutes.

Arlington, N. J.—A novel use for locomotives is discovered by a factory which employs several engines to supply sufficient steam during the cold weather when its own plant fails.

On the Serbian Front.—The Allied Armies are slowly but steadily gaining in the territory captured by the Central powers and long lines of troops dot the hillsides as they advance. Subtitles: Thousands of Bulgarian troops are made prisoners by the rehabilitated Serbian Army. The inhabitants of the small villages return to their homes after their recapture by the Allies.

Malmo, Sweden.—Three Kings of neutral nations meet in a historic conference to discuss the possibility of united action. The Kings of Sweden, Norway and Denmark.

New York City.—The crew of the U. S. S. New York act the role of Santa Claus to many orphaned children of their former comrades. Subtitle: A happy acknowledgement of the cheerful spirit of "Good Will to All."

The Art of Ice Skating (Magazine Section). As illustrated by the El Rey Sisters, the noted Hippodrome stars, at the Baltimore ice gardens. Subtitles. This vigorous outdoor sport has become the most popular winter diversion and constantly increasing numbers of people are taking advantage of its healthy benefits. We call attention to the most important steps in learning the art. The proper skating outfit consists of high shoes and should fit very snugly. The skate is fastened directly on the shoe. Many a beginner is greatly troubled by weak ankles, but frequent and constant practice will strengthen the ankle muscles. The most essential requisite is confidence. Banish the fear of falling and do not watch the movement of your feet. To turn your direction or to make circles cross one foot before the other. To be continued.

Keesville, N. Y.—The wonderful effects of King Frost's handiwork are strikingly presented at the beautiful Rainbow Falls.

Eureka, Cal.—Driven aground by a terrific gale that sweeps the Pacific Coast, the American submarine H-3 battles gamely with surging breakers. Subtitles: The crew of the diver, heroically saved after being imprisoned for eight hours in the deadly chlorine fumes. Lieutenant Harry Bogusch, commander of the submarine, writing wireless messages for help. Signalling the rescue boats, the U. S. Cruiser Cheyenne and coast guard cutters which are endeavoring to save the submarine.

Fort Sheridan, Ill.—Guardsmen of the Third Wisconsin Infantry encounter a great change in climate on their return from the Sunny South. Subtitle: The use of the large interurban trolley cars for military transportation is a distinct innovation.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 13 ("Part of a Debutante's Life"—Jan. 7).—Some of the season's "buds" gracefully displaying the latest thing in skating styles on the rink of one of our largest hotels. Another part shows them dressing for a dance in creations that will insure them against being wall flowers.

LION CUBS (On same reel as foregoing).—Little furry future kings of beasts photographed in natural colors. The reel shows them serious and at play and contains some highly interesting capers.

Triangle Film Corp.

THE HOUSE BUILT UPON SAND (Fine Arts—Five Parts—Dec. 31).—The cast: Evelyn Dare (Lillian Gish); David Westebrooke (Roy Stuart); Samuel Stevens (William H. Brown); Josie (Bessie Buskirk); Ted (Jack Brammall); Mrs. Shockley (Josephine Crowell); David's Housekeeper (Kate Bruce).

Evelyn Dare is a butterfly of fashion. David Westebrooke, her fiance, is an altruist interested in sociology. He has made his home in the factory town of Oreville, where he works among his employees as factory manager. The two young people were affianced by their parents, and although they have not seen each other for a number of years they are strongly attracted to each other and have no desire to break the engagement.

When David discovers that Evelyn plans an elaborate wedding and that he is scheduled to appear at a series of smart social functions, he rebels. Through his attorney he arranges a marriage, and afterward tells his wife that she is to accompany him to their home and telegraph her friends that she has run away. Evelyn opposes this, but David is firm. He takes her to their home in the factory town and there orders his housekeeper to take away her useless clothes and to supply those befitting the wife of a factory manager.

For some time Evelyn is miserable. Finally she becomes interested in the life of the factory town and starts a woman's club for the benefit of the factory workers. David maintains a club for the men of the town, but they change it into a gambling den. Complications arise when the men become angry because their women folk also have a club. This is aggravated when Ted, the husband of Josie, a mill-hand, returns from a term in prison and proceeds to poison Evelyn's mind against her husband. The men's club is burned down and David saves both Ted and Josie from the burning building.

In the meantime Evelyn returns to her home, taking Josie's baby with her. After a time Ted, becoming conscience-smitten, goes to Evelyn and tells her the truth. David becomes lonely for his wife and leaves the factory town. There follows a reconciliation between him and Evelyn—the latter promising to assist him in his work—not only for love of him, but also because she is now interested in the people of the factory.

THE FEMALE OF THE SPECIES (Kay Bee—Five Parts—Dec. 31).—The cast: Gloria Marley (Dorothy Dalton); Marcia Dorn (Enid Markey); Carleton Condon (Howard Hickman); Mrs. Dorn (Gertrude Claire); Jim Alderdice (Roy Laidlaw); Mrs. Alderdice (Aggie Herring).

Gloria Marley rules as a queen in Bohemia by virtue of her undisputed talents as a sculptress, her beauty and her daring unconventionality. Carleton Condon, a man of wealth and position, while appreciating Gloria's many attractions and good-fellowship, resolves to break away from the Bohemian circle, marry, and settle down.

He is in love with Marcia Dorn. The announcement of the forthcoming mariage is a severe blow to Gloria, who determines by fair means or foul to win Carleton from his young wife. In this she is for a time unsuccessful. Business, however, calls Carleton to Arizona to look after his mining interests. This affords Gloria her long-looked-for opportunity, and, closing her studio, she starts for the West.

Fate so ordains that at a small wayside station Carleton boards the train that is carrying Gloria on her quest. Carleton, unconscious of the intrigue, welcomes a familiar face from his home town. That night there is a confusion in train orders, and far out in the desert there is a head-on collision. Gloria escapes unhurt, but Carleton lays unconscious, badly wounded with a fracture of the skull. A chance misidentification classes Carleton and Gloria as man and wife, and Gloria devotes her life to nursing back to health a man who has lost his memory and is oblivious of his past. He imagines Gloria to be in reality his wife. For some time this illusion prevails, and as they are strangers in a strange land Gloria is in no fear of an awakening. But one day an old business friend arrives at the hotel and, puzzled by the failure of Carleton to recognize him, stumbles on to the plot, and, returning home, tells his story to Marcia.

Marcia starts West and rejoins her husband, and a struggle for possession takes place between the two women and the unconscious Carleton. The wife wins, and as a surgical operation brings returning memory to the husband, Gloria tastes to the full the bitterness of defeat.

REALISM is essential in moving pictures. What the producers aim to show should be shown. When a poor projection surface is used "ghosts" often take the place of actors---and no producer wants ghosts to tell his story.*

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREENS make possible the absolute reproduction of what the camera takes. They preserve the depth and detail for which the producer strives.

And RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREENS effect a great saving in bills for electrical current---they are made to use current, not to eat it.

Write us to-day and we will send you detailed information and prices.

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, Inc.

No. 220 W. 42d ST., NEW YORK CITY Leon Schlesinger, Gen. Mgr.

They are exclusively distributed in Canada by J. T. Malone Films, Inc., Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, and Allfeatures, Ltd., 56 King St., W., Toronto, Canada

Classified Advertisements NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

ART DIRECTOR and technical expert at liberty. Nine years' experience, highest references. L., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

SCENARIO WRITER, expert, writes original features, dramas, comedies or adaptations on order. Reasonable, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

THEATERS WANTED.

CASH FOR YOUR MOVIE—I am a practical successful moving picture broker. Seventeen years of continuous success. Selling upwards of one million dollars' worth annually, sales, exchanges and leases. Lewis, the Moving Picture Broker, Est. 1896. Office, 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

FOR SALE—Only theater three adjoining mining towns, combined population 3,000. Pictures and vaudeville. 350 seats. Owner wants return University. Address H., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

1,000 CAPACITY ground floor theater in town of 5,000. Two new Power's 6A's; 10-15c admission; vaudeville stage; movable seats. Eighth year of successful operation. Circumstances make a wonderful opportunity for right party. D. D. D., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Modern motion picture theater in large city. Not a run-down house, live proposition, doing a very good business. Has never changed hands since being built. Only reason for selling—owners have other interests which require their undivided attention. Price, $12,500. Terms absolutely cash. Unless you have this much to spend, don't answer. Price will be $15,000.00 to any one opening negotiations after Jan. 15th. Address C. B. Terry, 1016, First National Bank Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SALE—One of the best-located houses in city of over seventy thousand population. Doing good business. Paramount program. Good reason for selling. Located in New England. Cheap rent, six hundred capacity. Address M., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.

WANTED—Fort Wayne motor generator set, 35 amp., 36 inch ventilating fan, 200 Mahogany seats. Must be good condition and cheap for cash. Lyric Theater, Covington, Ind.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

THE GOLD SCREEN—Seamless, 9x12, $27.00; 11x14, $38.50. Stretcher frame, $8.00 extra. You can't get better, why pay more? Sold on trial, guaranteed. Cox Scenic Co., Estherville, Iowa.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

WHY DOES Richardson recommend "Amberlux" lens filters? Write and find out particulars. Price, with slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, Wyandotte Bldg., Columbus, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Motion picture equipment, including 600 chairs and everything to fit up an up-to-date motion picture house. Must sell at once, as building is sold. Royal Theater, 110 So. Broad St., Trenton, N. J.

3,000 OPERA CHAIRS, steel and cast frames, 60c. up. All serviceable goods, cut prices on new chairs. Six standard asbestos booths. Send for weekly list of close outs and save half. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

OPERA CHAIRS—3,000 slightly used, 60c up. Maple folding chairs, asbestos booth, two 6A Power's machines, bargain. Atlas Seating Co., 10 East 43rd St., N. Y. City.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, tessars, effects devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Several Prevost cameras, together with finders, magazines, tripods and camera cases—in first-class condition. Price each, complete outfit, $350.00. Los Angeles Motion Picture Company, 215 E. Washington St., Los Angeles, Cal.

SNAP—Almost new camera, complete with tripod and Carlton Perforator, all for $240.00. Send for details. 2620 Day St., Seattle, Wash.

DAVIDSTERN COMPANY, the Motion Picture Clearing House, offer Motion Picture Cameras for every purpose, at every price. New and used. Agents for the famous "Universal." Write for special proposition.———The "Davsco Kino," smallest 200 ft. camera made, aluminum magazines, Zeiss Tessar lens f:3.5, weight 10½ lbs., price, complete, $110.00.———Bargains in used high grade tested Motion Picture cameras. Read this list carefully then act at once. 1st: 150 ft. capacity Vista Motion Picture camera, no lens, $22.50———2nd: Kinograph, 200 ft. capacity, direct focusing device, regular and trick crank, 50 M.M. Zeiss Tessar f:3.5 lens, our price, complete, $67.50———3d: Eberhard Schneider Motion Picture camera, 200 ft. capacity magazines, side by side, Prism focusing device, equipped with genuine Carl Zeiss Tessar f:3.5 lens and carrying case, our price, $110.00———4th: 400 ft. capacity Ernemann model B Professional, regular and trick crank, forward and reverse drive, finest mechanism, equipped with 2" Ernemann f:3.5, 3" Helomar f:3.2 and 4" Dallmeyer Telephoto f:4.5 and two extra magazines with fine panorama and tilting top tripod, price for complete outfit, $325.00———5th: 400 ft. Pathe outside magazine motion picture camera, late model, nickel steel film channel, forward and reverse drive, regular and trick crank, film punch, outside diaphragm. Adjusted and hard dissolve, equipped with genuine Carl Zeiss Tessar f:3.5, 50 M.M. focus, extra magazine and studio tripod. Our price, complete, $450.00. Many others, Urbans, Pathes and Williamsons. Write for specifications. Panoramic and tilting top tripods from $20.00 to $65.00. Will ship any outfit C. O. D. with privilege of examination on receipt of 25% deposit. Deposit refunded if not satisfactory. Try our special telegraphic order service. Delivery on time or we pay all charges. Write or wire today. Davidstern Company, The National Camera Exchange, 1047 R Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

WANTED for export, used films in good condition. State price, etc., to A. B. C. Film Co., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID for film scrap, discarded reels of films and perforations. Ship to and write The Nickelsburg Brothers Company, Meadow St., Newark, N. J. Checks mailed on receipt of goods.

WANTED—Five and six reel features, must be in good condition; also comedy reels wanted. Weinberg's Features, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

WANTED—"Tempest and Sunshine," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "East Lynne," "Lena Rivers," also single reel comedies and westerns. Motiograph for sale, fine condition. Arthur Close, 1120 Branson, Marion, Ind.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Used 3, 4 and 5 reel features in good condition. The big A Film Corp., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

CARTOON COMEDIES for sale cheap, A-1 condition, with posters; also exclusive authentic war films, with posters. F. Moore, 92 Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

Quality means EVANS means Perfection

We do PARTICULAR Work for PARTICULAR People

Developing and Printing ONLY

EVANS FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY

Telephone—6851 Audubon 416-418-420-422 West 216th Street, New York City

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier. It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

.....
.....
.....

Please Fill in the Name of Your Theatre.....

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Advancing the Industry..... 222
Advertising by Motion Pictures..... 238
Advertising for Exhibitors..... 223
American Forces Reorganized..... 212
At Leading Picture Theaters..... 211

Baltimore's New Traffic Rules..... 257

Calendar of Daily Program Releases...270, 272
Caribou, Me., Has New Theater..... 256
Chadwick, Helen. 217
Chicago News Letter..... 216
Comments on the Films..... 245
Color Process, New, Capitalized..... 203
Cowl, Jane, to Come to the Screen..... 207

Dayton's New Strand..... 262
Deadly Silent Vote, That..... 200
Denver Film Men Commend Censor..... 266
Detroit, Higher Admission in..... 264

Edison Announces Titles 207

Facts and Comments 199
"False Prophet, The" (Kalem)..... 243
"Fighting for Love" (Red Feather)..... 243
Films May Now Be Shipped by Mail.....203
"For the Stars and Stripes" (Pathe)..... 241

Gunn, Charles, New Leading Man for Essanay. 215

Hansen, Juanita. 215
Harron, Robert, to Be Starred..... 210
Healy, Maud, With Lasky..... 209
Holubar, Allen 222
"House of Secrets, The" (Kalem)..... 243

"Iced Bullet, The" (Triangle)..... 244
Illington, Margaret, a Lasky Star..... 203
"Island of Desire, The" (Fox)..... 243

"Joan, the Woman" (Cardinal)..... 239
"Joan, the Woman," at Nat. Press Club... 259

Kerrigan Has Own Company..... 210
"Kick In" (Pathe)..... 241
Kleine, George, Talks on the Trade Outlook 214

"Last Sentence, The" (Edison)..... 243
Linder Finishing First Comedy..... 211
List of Current Film Release Dates, 286, 288, 290, 292
"Little Yank, The" (Triangle)..... 244

"Man of Mystery, The" (Vitagraph)..... 244
Manufacturers' Advance Notes..... 247
Massachusetts Exhibitors Elect Officers.... 206
"Master of Thunder, The" (Gaumont)..... 241
Mitchell, Rhea, New Company for..... 215
Motion Picture Educator..... 235
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The..... 205
Motion Picture Photography..... 231
Murray, Mae, Marries Jay O'Brien..... 212
Music for the Picture..... 232
Music, Kansas Exhibitor Wants Special... 264

Nashville Producing Co. Releases Film..... 262
New License Schedule in Spokane..... 208
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity..... 218
Night at the Teatro Delicas, A..... 237
North Carolina Exhibitors' Convention.... 204
Notes of the Trade..... 254

"On Dangerous Ground" (World)..... 239

Pathe and International Join Forces..... 202
Philadelphia's Clean Streets..... 258
Photoplaywright, The. 226
Picture Materials at War Prices..... 209
Picture Theaters Projected 255
"Pidgin Island" (Metro)..... 244
"Piper's Price, The" (Bluebird)..... 241
"Poison Man, The" (Gaumont)..... 241
Popular Picture Personalities..... 234
Portland's Local Censors Meet..... 268
Projection Department. 227

"Redeeming Love" (Morosco) 242
Reviews of Current Productions..... 239
Rockford's Mayor Closes Shows..... 265

San Francisco Film Board's Year..... 267
"Slave Market, The" (Famous Players)... 242
Smoky City Filmdom Doings..... 260
Snow, Marguerite, Opposite George M. Cohan. 221
Stories of the Films..... 274
Suggestions for the New Year, A Few..... 201

Tapley, Rose, Reaches Capital City..... 259
"Terrible Wedding, The" (Gaumont)..... 241
Theater Tax, Change in Federal..... 259
Toronto, Week Runs in..... 261
Trigger Protests Against Deposits..... 208
"Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" (Universal) 240

Van Der Veer Going to South America.... 207

Warning to Michigan Exhibitors..... 206
"Whoso Findeth a Wife" (Art Drama).... 240
Word from the Far East..... 210

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.

Speer Carbon Co..... 269
Jones & Cammack 279

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.

American Auto-Arc Co..... 289
Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co..... 285
Wagner Electric Mfg. Co..... 294
Fulton, E. E..... 289
Northwestern Electric Co..... 287
Amusement Supply Co..... 287
Bell & Howell 279
Calehuff Supply Co..... 293
Hommel, Ludwig & Co..... 279
Strelinger, Chas. A..... 278
Porter, B. F..... 278
Typhoon Fan Co..... 279
Swaab, Lewis M..... 279

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.

Roco Chair Co..... 279
Steel Furniture Co..... 279

FILM EXCHANGES.

Bradenburgh, G. W..... 293

LENS MANUFACTURERS.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co..... 289

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.

Mutual Film Corp. .....Colored Insert, 176
Signal Film Corp..... 175
Vogue Films, Inc. 177
What Becomes of the Children?..... 182
Horsley, David, Productions..... 179
Essanay Film Mfg. Co.....159, 197
Christie Film Co..... 163
International Film Service.....184, 185
Fox Film Corp..... 169
Germanic Official War Films, Inc..... 187
Pathe Exchange, Inc....Colored Insert, 185, 186
Universal Film Mfg. Co.....160-2
Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.....Colored Insert
Kalem Co. 198
The Film Exchange 271
Rogson Film Co. 192
Goldwyn Film Corp. 168
Artcraft Pictures Corp.....166-7
Paramount Pictures Corp. 160-5
Kessel & Bauman 172-3
Unicorn Film Service 174
Selznick, Lewis J., Enterprises 180-1
Triangle Film Corp. 170-1
Gaumont Co. 178
Grafton Film Publishing Co..... 278
National Drama Corp..... 276
McClure Pictures 158
Keen Cartoon Corp..... 191
World Film Corp.....188-9
Clune Producing Co..... 291
Baggot, King 190
Schram-Wigborhold Silent Usher Co..... 281

MISCELLANEOUS.

Hughes Massie & Co..... 291
Moving Picture World..... 295
Brook Feature Film Corp. & Lab..... 291
Cine-Mundial 273
Standard M. P. Co..... 276
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co..... 291
Kraus Mfg. Co..... 278
Automatic T. S. & C. R. Co..... 277
Cinema Camera Club..... 277
Superior Films, Inc. 276
Kalem Co. 277
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co..... 277
Eastman Kodak Co..... 284
Gunby Bros. 289
National Ticket Co..... 285
Corcoran, A. J..... 277
Erbograph Co. 277
The Bioscope 293
Il Tirso Cinematografo..... 289
Evans Film Mfg. Co..... 283
Moore, Wm. N..... 276
Motion Picture Electricity..... 293
M. P. World Circulation Coupon.....283, 291
Kinematograph Weekly, The..... 276
M. P. Directory Co..... 283
Marion, Louise M..... 293
Richardson, F. H..... 289
Willis & Inglis 277
Address X, c/o M. P. W..... 271
Johns, Manville Co..... 287

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.

Burke & James Co..... 285

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Sinn, Clarence E..... 276
American Photo Player Co..... 276
Seeburg, J. P., Piano Co..... 278

POSTERS AND FRAMES.

Illinois Lithograph Co..... 285
Menger & Ring 276

PROJECTION MACHINE COMPANIES.

Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co..... 294
Power, Nicholas, Co..... 296
American Standard M. P. Co..... 276
Precision Mch. Co..... 273

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.

Post, Amos 285
Genter, J. H. Co., Inc..... 291
Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc..... 282
Gold King Screen Co..... 291
Minusa Cine Products Co..... 291
Universal Picture Screen Corp..... 291
Atmospheric Screen Co..... 255

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.

Decorators Supply Co..... 293

DO YOU KNOW THAT THE ILLINOIS LITHO. CO. CHICAGO "MAKES MOVIE POSTERS" IF SERVICE COUNTS WITH YOU TRY US

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

PRICES

Five Thousand	$1.25
Ten Thousand	2.50
Fifteen Thousand	3.75
Twenty-five Thousand	5.50
Fifty Thousand	7.50
One Hundred Thousand	10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.
Shamokin, Pa.

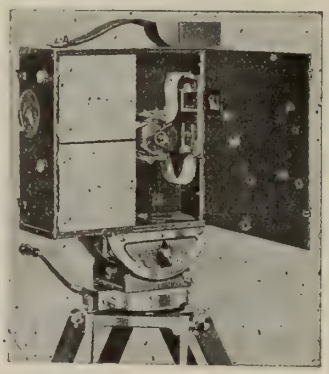
Genuine Silveroid Screens

Guaranteed Blakelock Finish in Silveroid or Golden Tints.

Send for samples and prices before placing your orders. My product will surprise you.

AMOS POST,
Church Street, Catskill, N. Y.

WITH A UNIVERSAL



"You get the picture and get away before the other fellow gets set up."

That's how one camera man of wide experience puts it—the speed with which a Universal can be set up, threaded, focused and operated makes it the camera to be preferred.

Camera complete with Tessar Lens F 3.5 and two metal magazines (200-foot capacity), $300. Finest tilting and Panoramic Head Tripod, $90.

NEW AUTOMATIC DISSOLVE—For producing Fade-In and Fade-Out Pictures.

Write for Catalogue. Excellent Proposition for Motion Picture Supply Dealers.

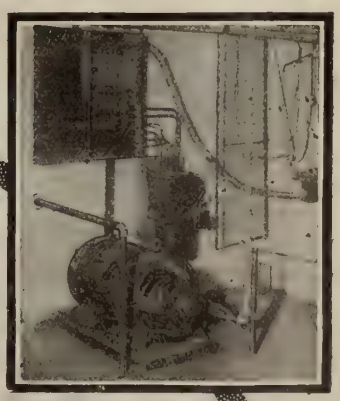
Sole Wholesale Distributors

Burke & James, Inc. Sole Wholesale Distributors
240-250 E. Ontario St., Chicago
Eastern Branch—225 Fifth Avenue, New York City, N. Y.

Westinghouse

The Pitt, Pittsburgh, Pa.

W
WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC



Westinghouse Motion Picture Equipment

The High Class Photo Plays

of today are shown better with direct current.

If your service is alternating current

Westinghouse Motion Picture Equipment

will change it into the direct current you need.

Our engineers will be glad to assist in the solution of your power problems.

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company
East Pittsburgh, Pa.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM COMPANY PROGRAM

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 270, 272.)

General Film Company

RELEASE DAYS.

Monday—Selig, Vitagraph.

Tuesday—Essanay, Kalem

Wednesday—Essanay, Kalem, Vim Feature Comedy.

Thursday—Selig, Vim.

Friday—Kalem, Knickerbocker, Vim, Vitagraph.

Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Selig, Vitagraph.

BIOGRAPH.

Dec. 5—A Bit of Human Driftwood (Two parts—Drama—Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 11—Her Sacrifice (Drama) (Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 18—The Honor of the Law (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph reissue).
Dec. 18—The Conscience of Hassan Bey (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 19—His Wife's Story (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Two Men of the Desert (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 27—The Rehearsal (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).

ESSANAY.

Dec. 16—Is Marriage Sacred? No 1, "The Burning Band" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—The Little Brown Mole (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 20—Taking the Count (Comedy).
Dec. 23—Dancing with Folly (2d of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 26—A Tale from the Decameron (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 27—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 21 (Cartoon Comedy).
Dec. 30—Wife in Sunshine (Third of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 2—The Girl God Made for Jones (Two parts—"Black Cat Feature"—Comedy-Drama).
Jan. 3—A Dollar Down (Comedy).
Yosemite Valley (Scenic).
Jan. 6—When the Man Speaks (Fourth of "Is Marriage Sacred" -Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 9—Among Those Present ("Black Cat Feature") (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 10—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 22 (Cartoon Comedy).
—Yosemite Valley No. 2 (Scenic).
Jan 13—The Sinful Marriage (Fifth of "Is Marriage Sacred"—Two parts—Drama).

KALEM.

Dec. 15—The Menace (No. 9 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
Dec. 16—The Midnight Express (No. 110 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (Drama).
Dec. 19—The Fatal Violin (Comedy).
Dec. 20—On the Brink of War (No. 20 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Tiger's Claw (No. 10 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Vanishing Box Car (No. 111 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).
Dec. 26—The Quest of the Golden Goat (Com.).
Dec. 29—A Mission of State (No. 11 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Dec. 30—A Race With Death (No. 112 of "The Hazards of Helen" —Drama).
Jan. 2—That Terrible Tenderfoot (Comedy).
Jan. 3—The False Prophet (No. 21 of "The Girl from 'Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 5—The House of Secrets (No. 12 of Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Jan. 6—The Mogue Mountain Mystery (No. 113 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).
Jan. 9—Rival Romeos (Comedy).
Jan. 10—The Resurrection of Gold Bar (No. 22 of "The Girl From 'Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 12—The Trial of Graft (No. 13 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)
Jan. 13—The Fireman's Nemesis (No. 114 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).

SELIG.

Dec. 11—Twisted Trails (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Selig-Tribune, No. 99 (Topical).
Dec. 14—Selig-Tribune, No. 100 (Topical).
Dec. 16—The Road to Fame (Drama).
Dec. 18—Selig-Tribune No. 101 (Topical).
Dec. 18—The Five Franc Piece (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 21—Selig-Tribune No. 102 (Topical).
Dec. 23—The Man He Might Have Been (Dr.).
Dec. 25—The Golden Thought (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Selig-Tribune No. 103 (Topical).
Dec. 28—Selig-Tribune No. 104 (Topical).
Dec. 30—The Right Hand Path (Drama).
Jan. 1—Selig-Tribune, No. 1 (Topical).
Jan. 1—On Italy's Firing Line (Three parts—Topical).
Jan. 4—Selig-Tribune, No. 2 (Topical).
Jan. 6—In Payment of the Past (Drama).
Jan. 8—Starring in Western Stuff (Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
Jan. 8—Selig-Tribune No. 3 (Topical).
Jan. 11—Selig-Tribune No. 4 (Topical).
Jan. 13—The Making of Bob Mason's Wife (Drama).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

Nov. 6—Marked No Funds (Comedy).
Nov. 15—His Wedding Promise (Comedy).
Nov. 22—The Good Stenographer (Comedy).
Nov. 29—Hubby's Chicken (Comedy).
Dec. 6—Hubby's Chicken (Comedy).
Dec. 13—Charity Begins at Home (Comedy).
Dec. 20—They Practice Economy (Comedy).
Dec. 27—Her Financial Frenzy (Comedy).

VIM.

Nov. 24—Money Maid Men (Comedy).
Nov. 30—The Prize Winners (Comedy).
Dec. 1—Ambitious Ethel (Comedy).
Dec. 7—The Guilty One (Comedy).
Dec. 8—A Rare Boarder (Comedy).
Dec. 14—No release this day.
Dec. 15—What's the Use (Comedy).
Dec. 21—He Winked and Won (Comedy).
Dec. 22—Reckless Romeos (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Fat and Fickle (Comedy).
Dec. 29—The Property Man (Comedy).

VITAGRAPH.

Dec. 22—A Bit of Bent Wire (No. 1 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy).
Dec. 25—A Journey to Nowhere (Comedy).
—Some of Our Biggest Star Performers (Comedy).
Dec. 29—The Luck Charm (No. 2 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Drama).
Jan. 1—Jones Keeps House (Comedy).
Jan. 5—Twin Fedoras (Third of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy-Drama).
Jan. 6—Billy Smoke (Three-parts—Drama).

General Film Company Features

BLACK CAT FEATURE.

Dec. 12—In a Looking Glass (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—The Little Brown Mole (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—A Tale from the Decameron (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 2—The Girl God Made for Jones (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 9—Among Those Present (Two parts—Drama).

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES.

Dec. 2—Our Other Lives (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—Pep's Legacy (Three parts—Drama).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

Dec. 1—Butts Casey—Crook (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 8—Master of Her Soul (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Dawn of Wisdom (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 5—Temptation and the Girl (Three parts—Drama).

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word
Will Produce Remarkable Results —One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

Fire destroyed everything but the J-M Asbestos Booth

Iron, sheet metal, wood—everything in the path of the flames was wiped out with the sole exception of the J-M Asbestos Booth, which stood intact, in spite of the play of heat and cold water.

What a testimony for the positive fire protection these booths give—both from fire within or on the outside.

You can have this protection in the form of J-M Permanent, Semi-portable and Portable Booths.

J-M Permanent and Semi-portable Booths are strongly made of J-M Transite Asbestos Wood and angle iron, easily put up and quickly taken down. Especially adapted for permanent installation in theatres and large halls, schools and churches—highly fire resistant and insulators against electricity. Complete ventilating systems are supplied with these booths when so desired.

The Portable Booths are made of J-M Asbestos Cloth tented over an iron frame and resting on an asbestos mat. Can be set up in 20 minutes.

Made by the makers of the original J-M Asbestos Curtains.

Write for J-M Booklet on Curtains and Booths.

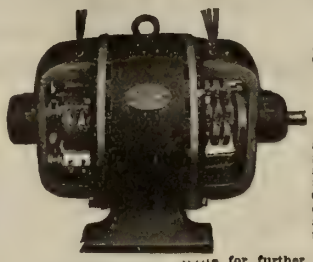
JOHNS-MANVILLE SERVICE COVERS THE CONTINENT

H. W. Johns-Manville Co.

NEW YORK CITY

BRANCHES IN 54 LARGE CITIES

'MARTIN" ROTARY CONVERTER



FOR REAL SUN-LIT PICTURES

PERFECT REEL DISSOLVING

The voltage of the "MARTIN" polyphase converter is maintained constant, so that the starting of the second arc does not disturb the light given by the first, making the dissolving of the reels as simple as if the arcs were operated in a Direct Current district. Our emergency panel does away with expensive compensarcs and cuts the wiring and installation cost in half.

Write for further information.

NORTHWESTERN ELECTRIC CO.

669 W. Adams St., Chicago 1010 Brokaw Bldg., New York

If You Need a New Machine

and can't afford to pay cash, write us today and we will help you out.

Our easy payment plan enables you to purchase any make machine at a small investment. DON'T DELAY—GET BUSY—WRITE TODAY for full particulars.

Amusement Supply Company

Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres

3rd Floor, Mallers Bldg.,

Cor. Madison Street & Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

If You Are Engaged In Writing For The Screen

You will find daily use for

Technique of The Photoplay

THIRD EDITION

By Epps Winthrop Sargent

In its arrangement this new edition offers a complete graded course of study

It will Help You Avoid the Pitfalls! It will Help You Give Your Scripts a Professional Dress! It will Help You Solve the Knotty Problems.

The Price is $3.00 the Copy Postpaid

Your Bookseller Can Supply You or the Nearest Office of the

Moving Picture World

Chalmers Publishing Co.

17 Madison Avenue, New York City

Schiller Building Chicago, Ill. Haas Building Los Angeles, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 270, 272.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Dec. 27—Number 52 (Topical).
Jan. 3—Number 53 (Topical).
Jan. 10—Number 54 (Topical).
Jan. 17—Number 55 (Topical).

BIG U.

Jan. 4—No regular Big U this day.
Jan. 4—The Uprising (Special Release—Dr.).
Jan. 7—The Jewel of Death (Two parts—Reissue—Drama).
Jan. 11—No regular Big U this day.
Jan. 11—Shattered Ideals (Reissue—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Call for Help (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 18—No regular Big U this day.
Jan. 18—Bloodhounds of the North (Two parts Reissue Drama).

BISON.

Dec. 16—The Taint of Fear (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 23—Fighting Joe (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—Giant Powder (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—Blood Money (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—The Bad Man of Cheyenne (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 20—Brute Force (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Dec. 26—Birds of a Feather (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 2—An Old Soldier's Romance (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 9—The Mystery of My Lady's Boudoir (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 16—The Prodigal Widow (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Dec. 24—The Woman Who Learned.
Dec. 29—Toto of the Byways (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—No regular Imp this day.
Jan. 5—The Moral Right (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—The Whelp (Drama).
Jan. 12—Honorably Discharged (Drama).
Jan. 13—John Bates' Secret (Reissue—Drama).
Jan. 14—Midnight (Drama).
Jan. 17—A Slave of Fear (Two parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Jan. 6—Love in Suspense (Comedy).
Jan. 11—When Damon Fell for Pythias (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 13—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy).
Jan. 20—Barred from the Bar (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Dec. 30—The Face on the Screen (Reissue—Drama).
Jan. 3—No regular Laemmle this day.
Jan. 3—Alone in the World (Special release—Drama).
Jan. 6—No regular Laemmle this day.
Jan. 10—No regular Laemmle this day.
Jan. 10—The Face Downstairs (Reissue—Dr.).
Jan. 13—No release this day.
Jan. 21—No regular Laemmle this day.
Jan. 20—Homeless (Reissue Drama).

L-KO.

Dec. 13—Murdered by Mistake (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 20—Shooting His 'Art Out (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 27—The Perils of a Plumber (Comedy).
Dec. 29—Phil's Busy Day (Comedy).
Jan. 3—On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 10—A Limburger Cyclone (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 17—Heartsick at Sea (Comedy).
Jan. 21—Mr. Shoestring In a Hole—(Comedy).

NESTOR.

Dec. 8—Oh You Honeymoon (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Two Small Town Romeos (Comedy).
Dec. 15—I'm Your Husband (Comedy).
Dec. 18—It Sounded Like a Kiss (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Pretty Baby (Comedy).
Jan. 1—Practice What You Preach (Comedy).
Jan. 8—One Thousand Miles an Hour (Com.).
Jan. 15—Treat 'Em Rough (Comedy).
Jan. 19—No release this day.

POWERS.

Dec. 31—Sammie Johnsin Slumbers Not (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 4—No regular Powers this day.
Jan. 7—The Trials of Willie Winks (Cartoon Comedy).
—The Forbidden City Edu.).
Jan. 11—No release this day.
Jan. 14—Mr. Fuller Pep, He Celebrates His Wedding Anniversary (Cartoon—Comedy).
—Wonders of the Orient as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Edu.).
Jan. 18—No release this day.
Jan. 21—Mr. Fullerpep—He Goes to the Country (Cartoon Comedy).
—In the Land of the Son of Heaven as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Educational).

RED FEATHER.

Dec. 18—Mixed Blood (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—A Child of Mystery (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 1—Polly Put the Kettle On (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—Fighting for Love (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—The Double Room Mystery (Five parts—Drama).

REX.

Dec. 24—Mr. Vampire (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 29—No regular Rex this day.
Dec. 29—The Gilded Life (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Prodigal Daughter (Drama).
Jan. 4—The Red Stain (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—The Wall of Money (Reissue—Dr.)
Jan. 7—No regular Rex this day.
Jan. 12—The Whispered Name (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—No release this day.
Jan. 21—The Bubble of Love (Two parts—Dr.).

VICTOR.

Dec. 12—No release this day.
Dec. 12—Billy the Bandit (Comedy (Special).
Dec. 14—It Didn't Work Out Right (Comedy).
Dec. 19—No regular Victor this day.
Dec. 19—So This Is Paris (Special release—Comedy).
Dec. 23—It's Great to Be Married (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Good Morning, Judge (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 2.—Bombs and Banknotes (Comedy).
Jan. 5—How to Be Happy Though Married (Comedy).
Jan. 9—A Gentleman of Nerve (Comedy).
Jan. 12—The Wrong Mary Wright (Com.-Dr.).
Jan. 16—No regular Victor this day.
Jan. 16—The Masked Cupid (Reissue Comedy).
Jan. 18—Putting One Over on Ignatz (Comedy).
Jan. 19—His Little Room Mate (Two parts—Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Dec. 8—Number 2.
Dec. 22—Number 3.
Jan. 5—Number 4.
Jan. 19—Number 5.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Dec. 31—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 1 "The Vanished Jewels"—Two parts
Jan. 7—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 2, "Suspected"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 3 "The Capture"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 4, "Facing Death"—Two parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. —Robinson Crusoe.

Bluebird Photoplay, Inc.

Dec. 4—The Sign of the Poppy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Price of Silence (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Honor of Mary Blake (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Right to Be Happy (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—Black Orchids (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Piper's Price (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—Her Soul's Inspiration (Five parts—Drama)

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Nov. 9—The Fight on the Dam (Drama).
Nov. 23—The Star Ducks (Two parts—Drama) (Reissue).
Nov. 23—Calamity Ann Guardian (Comedy) (Reissue).
Nov. 30—Calamity Anne's Vanity (Drama).
Dec. 2—The Capture of Rattlesnake Ike (Dr.) (Reissue).

CUB.

Nov. 10—His Blushing Bride (Comedy).
Nov. 17—Her Sun-Kissed Hero (Comedy).
Jan. 4—Jerry's Double Header (Comedy).

ECLAIR.

Nov. 11—The Unpardonable Sin (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—The Bad Samaritan (Two parts—Drama).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Dec. 28—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 1, "The Jade Necklace"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 3—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 2, "The Black Door"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 10—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 3 "Ace High"—Two parts—Drama).

NORTH AMERICAN.

Dec. 4—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 2—"Under Oath"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 3—"Sealed Lips"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 4—"The Climax"—Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Jan. 2—Tours Around the World, No. 9 (Subjects on Reel: Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Luchon, France) (Travel).
Jan. 3—See America First, No. 69, Pasadena, Cal. (Scenic).
Jan. 4—The Vampires (Episode No. 7, "The Master of Thunder"—Three parts Drama).
Jan. 7—Reel Life No. 36 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Jan. 9—Tours Around the World No. 10 (Subjects on Reel: The Foothills of the Pyrenees; Life in Egypt; Budapest, Hungary). (Travel).
Jan. 10—See America No. 70 (Subject on Reel—In the Heart of the Blue Ridge—Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics (Comedy).
Jan. 11—The Vampires (Episode No. 8 "The Poison Man"—Three parts—Dr.).

MUTUAL.

Dec. 7—Gertie's Latest Love Affair (Com.).
Dec. 8—Rehabilitated (Drama).
Dec. 11—The Turn of the Wheel (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 15—Mexician Intrigue (Drama).
Dec. 18—Buddy's Christmas (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 21—The Elopement (Comedy).
Dec. 22—Mated by Choice (Drama).
Dec. 25—Indiscretion (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 28—Peter's Perfect Photoplay (Comedy).
Dec. 29—The Ranch Exile (Drama).
Jan. 1—Pangs of Jealousy (Two parts—Dr).
Jan. 5—Uncle Sam's Defenders No. 1 (From Civilian to Soldier) (Topical).
Jan. 8—When Hands Are Idle (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 12—Uncle Sam's Defenders No. 2 (Our Boys at the Border) (Topical.

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Dec. 6—Number 101 (Topical).
Dec. 13—Number 102 (Topical).
Dec. 20—Number 103 (Topical).
Dec. 27—Number 104 (Topical).
Jan. 3—Number 105 (Topical).
Jan. 10—Number 106 (Topical).
Jan. 17—Number 107 (Topical).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 290.)

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Delevoped. 1c ft.

Positive Printing . . . 4c ft.

TITLES in any language 5c complete per foot

Cards Free Tinting Free

Satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity orders

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy.

Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Office: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy.

Let "Safety First"

be your chief resolution for the New Year. You owe it to your patrons as well as to yourself to provide every possible safeguard against fire accidents.

The Fulco Fire Proof Film Box

should be in every booth. It's the only safe place for films that are not in actual use in machines. Made in a variety of sizes.

Send for circular of Fulco Safety Devices. FULCO

E. E. FULTON CO., 152 W. Lake St., Chicago.

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU KNOW ALL HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU KNOW ALL HIM)

Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

Have Perfect Light

Even the most careful operator will sometimes "freeze" the carbons or let them burn apart. Maintain a perfectly regulated arc without a flicker by installing an

AUTO-ARC

Insures perfect, white light. No "freezing"—no burning apart. Soon saves more than enough current to pay its cost. 30 days' trial guaranteed to satisfy you or your money back. PRICE ONLY $60 F. O. B. OWENSBORO, KY.

AMERICAN AUTO-ARC CO., Inc.
407 S. Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE—Owing to advance in price of materials, the price of the Auto-Arc will be changed on January 1, 1917, from $60.00 to $67.50. Price after February 1, $75.00.

Let Your Film Work To Full Efficiency

No matter how good the film story is, if the projected images are dull, flat, or uninteresting, the story is killed and patrons naturally dissatisfied.

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses help insure a steady, repeating patronage because they liven up the picture—give it crisp definition. Every object, even to the edge of the screen, is shown clearly defined and evenly illuminated.

Now part of the equipment of Edison and Nicholas Power machines, and procurable at all exchanges.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.
566 ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N.Y.

New York Washington Chicago San Francisco

Leading American Makers of Photographic and Ophthalmic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Lanterns (Balopticons), and other High-Grade Optical Products.

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE

HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York city
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 270, 272.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 288.)

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

Nov. 13—Behind the Screen (Two parts—Comedy).
December—The Rink (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES DE LUXE.

Nov. 9—East is East (Turner—Five parts—Drama) (No. 151).
Nov. 16—Immediate Lee (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 153).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY.

Dec. 9—Admirers Three (Comedy).
Dec. 16—One Dollar Please (Comedy).
Dec. 23—Every Lassie Has a Lover (Comedy).
Dec. 30—Grimsey the Bell Hop (Comedy).
Jan. 6—The Girl Who Can Cook (Comedy).
Jan. 13—The Honeymooners (Comedy).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Dec. 18—The Twinkler (Five parts—Drama) (No. 161).
Dec. 25—The Innocence of Lizette (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 162).
Jan. 1—A Gilded Youth (Five parts—Drama—American) (No. 163).
Jan. 8—The Butterfly Girl (Fisher—Five parts—Drama).

NOVELTY.

Nov. 25—An Artful Dodge (Comedy).
Dec. 16—Peter the Comic Poet (Comedy).

SIGNAL FILM CORP.

Dec. 18—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 9—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 10—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 11—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 12 (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 13 Two parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Nov. 26—Up the Flue (Comedy).
Dec. 3—The Wicked City (Two parts—Com.).
Dec. 10—Shot in the Fracas (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 17—Treed (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 24—Fickle All Around (Two parts—Com.).
Dec. 31—Jealous Jolts (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 7—The Land of Nowhere (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—A Lisle Bank (Two parts—Comedy).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Nov. 6—Extravagance (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Black Butterfly (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—Vanity (Five parts—Drama).

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP.

Jan. 8—A Wife by Proxy (Five parts—Dr.).

ROLFE.

Nov. 27—Sunbeam (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Stolen Triumph (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The White Raven (Five parts—Dr.).

SERIAL PRODUCING CO.

Dec. 25—The Great Secret (Episode No. 1 "The Secret Seven—Three parts—Dr.).
Jan. 1—The Great Secret (Episode No. 2 "The Casket of Tainted Treasure"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Great Secret (Episode No. 3 "The Hidden Hand"—Two parts—Dr.).

YORKE.

Nov. 20—Big Tremaine (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Pidgin Island (Five parts—Dr.).

METRO COMEDIES.

Jan. 1—The Matinee Idol (Rolma—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Cave Man's Buff (Drew—Comedy).
Jan. 15—His Perfect Day (Drew Comedy)

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Nov. 27—Their Counterfeit Vacation (Com.).
Dec. 11—His Ivory Dome (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Their Week End (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Braving Blazes (Comedy).
Jan. 22—He D.. It Himself (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Dec. 4—A Coney Island Princess (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Traveling Salesman (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Snow White (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—The Slave Market (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 8—Great Expectations (Five parts—Dr.).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Dec. 4—The Best Man (Comedy).
Dec. 18—In Society and Out (Comedy).
Jan. 1—He Meant Well (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Did It Ever Happen to You (Comedy).

LASKY.

Nov. 16—The Years of the Locust (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Oliver Twist (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 14—Victoria Cross (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 4—The Evil Eye (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—Betty to the Rescue (Five parts—Dr.).

MOROSCO AND PALLAS.

Dec. 7—The Road to Love (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 21—The Right Direction (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 28—The Redeeming Love (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 11—The Happiness of Three Women (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT.

Nov. 30—Martyrdom of Phillip Strong (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS.

Nov. 16—Colonel Heeza Liar Hobo (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 23—Bobby Bumps Queers the Choir (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 30—What Happened to Willie (Cartoon-Comedy).
Dec. 7—Farmer Al Falfa's Blind Pig (Comedy).
Dec. 14—Bobby Bumps Helps a Book Agent (Comedy).
Dec. 21—Percy, Brains He Has Nix (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Jack the Giant Killer (Comedy).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Dec. 11—The Upper Nile (Scenic).
Dec. 18—Going to Halifax (Scenic).
Dec. 25—Land of Evangeline (Scenic).
Jan. 1—From the Bay of Fundy to the St. Lawrence, including a Pilgramage to Ste Anne Beaupre (Scenic).
Jan. 8—Quaint Quebec (Scenic).
Jan. 15—Montreal, Old and New (Scenic).
Jan. 22—Ottawa and Toronto (Scenic).
Jan. 29—Georgian Bay to Winnipeg (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.

Nov. 26—43d Relase (Edu.).
Dec. 3—44th Release (Edu).
Dec. 10—45th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 17—46th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 24—47th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 31—48th Release (Edu.).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Dec. 24—Pearl of the Army, No. 4, "War Clouds" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Shielding Shadow, No. 14, "Absolute Black" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Pearl of the Army, No. 5, "Somewhere in Grenada" (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—The Shielding Shadow (Episode No. 15, "The Final Chapter"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Pearl of the Army, No. 6, "Major Brent's Perfidy." (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 14—Pearl of the Army, No. 7, "For the Stars and Stripes" (Two Parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Dec. 10—The Challenge (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—King Lear (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—The Romantic Journey (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Joy and the Dragon (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—Her New York (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Kick In (Five Parts—Drama).

PATHE.

Dec. 24—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 11, "A Day of Sport" (Fashions) and —Young Fur Bearing Animals (Edu).
Dec. 31—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 12, "Frills and Thrills" (Fashion) and —Making Raisins (Cal.) (Edu.).
Dec. 31—Silk Industry (Two parts—Industrial).
Jan. 7—The Last Volunteer (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 13 (Part of a Debutante's Life—Fashion). —Lion Cubs (Colored—Edu.).
Jan. 14—Shadows of Shame (Drama).
Jan. 14—Florence Rose Fashions No. 14 (Something New). —Little Feathered Songsters (Edu).

PATHE NEWS.

Dec. 30—Number 105 (Topical).
Jan. 3—Number 1 (Topical)
Jan. 6—Number 2 (Topical).
Jan. 10—Number 3 (Topical).
Jan. 13—Number 4 (Topical).
Jan. 17—Number 5 (Topical).
Jan. 20—Number 6 (Topical).

ROLIN.

Nov. 19—Luke Patient Provider (Comedy).
Nov. 26—Luke's Newsie Knockout (Comedy).
Dec. 3—Luke's Movie Muddle (Comedy).
Dec. 10—Luke—Rank Impersonator (Comedy).
Dec. 17—Luke's Fireworks Fizzle (Comedy).
Dec. 24—Luke Locates the Loot (Comedy).
Dec. 31—Luke's Shattered Sleep (Comedy).
Jan. 7—Luke's Lost Liberty (Comedy).
Jan. 14—Schemer Skinny's Schemes (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Dec. 9—The Wharf Rat (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Matrimaniac (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 24—The Heiress at Coffee Dan's (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The House Built Upon Sand (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Little Yank (Fine Arts—Five Parts—Drama).

KAY-BEE.

Dec. 16—The Sin Ye Do (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Three of Many (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—The Female of the Species (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Truthful Tulliver (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—The Weaker Sex (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 14—The Bride of Hate (Kay Bee—Five Parts—Drama).

KEYSTONE.

Oct. 1—Haystacks and Steeples (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 1—The Lady Drummer (Two parts—Com.).
Oct. 8—A Tugboat Romeo (Two parts—Com.).
Oct. 8—Bombs (Two parts—Comedy).

SUPERPICTURES, INC.

Jan. 8—Seven Deadly Sins — "Envy" (Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—Seven Deadly Sins — "Pride" (Five Parts—Drama).

Unicorn Film Service.

BUFFALO.

Dec. 11—The Slave of Passion (Drama).
Dec. 15—Fires of Fate (Two parts—Drama).

GAIETY.

Dec. 1—Watches and Women (Comedy).
Dec. 14—Kisses and Fists (Comedy).

HIPPO.

Nov. 29—Cupid's Torpedoes (Comedy).
Dec. 13—The High Cost of Living (Comedy).

JOCKEY.

Nov. 30—Curse You, Jack Dalton (Comedy).
Dec. 17—A Devil in His Own Home (Com.).

(Continued on Page 292).

It's the screen without name or character that some dealers sell because it pays them better

MIRROROID Installations to Date 9678 The World Over, the World's Best Theatres

Recommended and endorsed by the President of the NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA (Mr. Lee A. Ochs) and the 9678 MIRROROID INSTALLATIONS.

FREE--Get Our Large Demonstration Samples--FREE

Test — Compare with any screen on earth — Use the brains God gave you — and the evidence of your own eyes.

Price, 33 1/3 Cents a Square Foot, $3.00 a Square Yard, the world over.

Mirroroid has been tried, and proven THE SCREEN SUPREME.

Why pay more for an unknown product?

If your dealer cannot supply you with MIRROROID, and tries to tell you any other screen is better, realize he is making a greater sales profit. None are as good — naturally, none can be better.

If you buy, you should insist upon that same Five-Year Guarantee that we give with every MIRROROID screen installed.

Think it over. Write

The J. H. GENTER COMPANY, Inc. Newburgh, N. Y.

THE WORLD'S OLDEST AND LARGEST PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURER

EVERY CAMERA MAN

CAN AVOID SCENE MIX-UPS

and keep accurate record of each exposure, by using the book we will send you, postage prepaid, if you will send us 15c in stamps.

ROTHACKER FILM MFG. COMPANY

1339 Diversey Parkway, Chicago

"ARSENE LUPIN"

All persons interested in moving pictures relating to the ARSENE LUPIN stories are hereby warned that these can only be dealt with through the agents of the London Film Company or the undersigned, agents for the proprietors of the exclusive world rights.

Hughes, Massie & Company

40 Fleet Street, London, England

THE LATEST IN PROJECTION SCREENS

The Pannill Patent. Iese-Reflex-Lily White.

The New Process Pannill Reflecting Screens are the most perfect reflecting screens that can be produced.

They bring Joy to the Patrons, Gold to the Managers and Contentment to Machine Operators.

The Iese—"Gold"—Reflex—"Silver"—Lily White—"Lead." Three in one—same cost, same perfection in their class. Highest testimonials of merit. Hand made—self-tightening. Guaranteed.

Investigate this Screen. The Best Screen on the market, regardless of cost.

Leading Supply Houses distributors. Write for Data, Circulars and Samples.

UNIVERSAL PICTURE SCREEN CORP. 14 N. 7th STREET RICHMOND, VA.

CLUNE FILM PRODUCING COMPANY

Los Angeles, California

Producers of "RAMONA" (10 reels) and "THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (10 reels)

Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies have been sold, magnificently reproduced. Available for state rights.

Mr. EXHIBITOR!

Wouldn't you like to announce your next day's feature and star with a novelty film trailer showing the star featured—and the title? YES!

THEN CALL AT THE OFFICES OF

The Brook Feature Film Corp. & Laboratories

709-710-711 Godfrey Bldg. 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. C.

ASK FOR

MR. WILLIAM J. GILMORE, Manager

BROOK LIBRARY

SAVE THE INTEREST ON $100.00

EVERY YEAR—AND BEGIN NOW

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.

It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00

SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....

.....

.....

Cut out and mail Theatre.....

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 270, 272.)

(Continued from Page 290).

JUDY.

Dec. 3—Rocking the Baby to Sleep (Comedy).
Dec. 12—You Never Can Tell (Comedy).
Dec. 15—Mary Lost Her Lamb (Comedy).

PURITAN.

Nov. 14—The Inner Soul (Three parts—Drama).

RANCHO.

Dec. 1—The Brand of Cain (Drama).
Dec. 14—Desert Gold (Drama).

SUNSET.

Dec. 1—Love's Sacrifice (Drama).
Dec. 17—The Mystery of the Mesa (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 13—The Trail of Fate (Two parts—Dr.).

SUPREME.

Dec. 3—The Telltale Heart (Drama).
Dec. 11—Love's Wilderness (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—The Challenge of Chivalry (Two parts—Drama).

LILY.

Nov. 17—The Climax (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Path of Life (Two parts—Drama).

HIAWATHA.

Dec. 2—The Heart of Ramona (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 12—The Woman He Wed (Two parts—Drama).

UTAH.

Dec. 3—Love's Mirage (Drama).
Dec. 14—A Belle of the Sage Brush (Drama).

MONMOUTH FILM CORP.

Dec. 18—Jimmie Dale, alias, "The Grey Seal" (Episoue No. 3—"The Counterfeit Five"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Jimmie Dale, Alias "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 4—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 1—Jimmie Dale, alias "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 5—"The Fight for Honor"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—Jimmie Dale, alias "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 6, "Below the Dead Line"—Two parts—Drama).

BILLY WEST COMEDIES.

Dec. 1—His Married Life (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 8—Boarders and Bombs (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 15—His Waiting Career (Two parts—Dr.).

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.

Dec. 21—The Lash of Destiny (Van Dyke Film Co.—Drama).
Dec. 28—Whoso Taketh a Wife (U. S. Amusement Co.—Drama).
Jan. 4—The Rainbow (Sherrill Feature Corp.—Drama).
Jan. 11—Infidelity (Drama).
Jan. 18—God of Little Children (Apollo Pictures, Inc.—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Nov. 6—Less Than the Dust (Mary Pickford—Seven parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Pride of The Clan (Drama).

CARDINAL FILM CORP.

December—Joan, the Woman (Eleven Parts).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Dec. 4—The Sea Nymphs (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Miss Billy Buttons (Comedy).
Dec. 18—Hist! At Six O'Clock (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Cupid's Uppercut (Comedy).
Jan. 1—His Model Wife (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Her Crooked Career (Comedy).

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION.

Nov. 20—The Crimson Stain Mystery No. 14 (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 15 (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 16 (Two parts—Drama).

DIXIE FILM CORP.

December—Just a Song at Twilight (Five parts—Drama).
Dec.—Tempest and Sunshine (Five parts—Dr.). Drama).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Dec. 4—The Vixen (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Battle of Life (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Love Thief (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Victim (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—The Island of Desire (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Price of Silence (Special Release—Drama).
Jan. 8—A Modern Cinderella (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The Bitter Truth (Five parts—Dr.).

FOXFILM COMEDY.

Jan. 1—Social Pirates (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Chased into Love (Two parts—Com.).
Jan. 5—Noah's Ark (Comedy).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Jan. 1—The Soul Master (Five parts—Dra.).
Jan. 1—Speed and Spunk (Comedy).
Jan. 1—Captain Jinks' Love Insurance (Comedy).
Jan. 1—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 1—"The Land of Intrigue"—Three Parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Man of Mystery (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—Bullies and Bullets (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Captain Jinks' Partner (Comedy).
Jan. 8—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 2—"Royalty at Red Wing"—Three Parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 3—"The Sealed Packet"—Two Parts—Drama).

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE, INC.

Dec. 29—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 104 (Topical).
Jan. 1—International Split Reel (Scenic and Cartoon).
Jan. 1—Patria (Episode 1, "The Last of Fighting Channings"—Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 2—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 1 (Topical).
Jan. 5—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 2 (Topical).
Jan. 8—Patria (Episode No. 2, "Treasure"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—Patria (Episode No. 3—"Winged Millions"—Two Parts—Drama).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

November—The Girl Who Did Not Care (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Seven parts—Drama).

KEEN CARTOON CORP.

Jan. 1—Mose Is Cured (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 8—Old Forty Niner (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 15—Jeb Jenkins, The Village Genius (Cartoon Comedy).

KESSEL & BAUMAN.

Jan. —Nickey.

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Dec. 4—The Breaker (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—A Message to Garcia (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—The Phantom Buccaneer (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Truant Soul (Five parts—Drama—Essanay).
Jan. 1—The Last Sentence (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Master Passion (Edison—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—Little Shoes (Essanay—Five Parts—Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

November—War Brides (Herbert Brenon—Dr.).
December—The Foolish Virgin (Five parts—Drama).
January—Panthea (Five parts—Drama).
February—The Argyle Case (Five parts—Dr.).

SUNBEAM MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Oct.—Somewhere in Georgia (Drama).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.

December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Dec. 4—All Man (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Broken Chains (Five Parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Rise of Susan (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—The World Against Him (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—A Woman Alone (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—On Dangerous Ground (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The Man Who Forgot (Five Parts—Drama).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM, INC.

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where D'ye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

December—One Round O'Brien (Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—
December—The Passion Flower (Drama).

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORPORATION.

December—Snow White (Four parts—Fairy Tale).
January—The Sheep of Chelan.

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

December—The Witching Hour (Seven parts—Drama).

HARPER FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

KING BAGGOT.

Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).
November—Boots and Saddles. (Drama).

PHAX PICTURES CO.

December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORP.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

WARNER BROS.

December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

THE FILM EXCHANGE.

January—The Golden Rosary (Five Parts—Dr).

THOMPSON FILM CO., INC.

December—War as It Really Is (Seven Parts—Topical).

UNITY SALES CORPORATION.

Nov. 20—The Yellow Menace, No. 12, "The Aeroplane Accident" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Yellow Menace, No. 13, "The Sky and the Submarine" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Yellow Menace, No. 14, "The Interrupted Nuptials" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Yellow Menace, No. 15, "The Ray of Death" (Two parts—Drama).

TWEEDLEDUM RELEASES (UNITY).

Nov. 6—A Lucky Tramp (Comedy).
Nov. 13—Lend Me Your Wife (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 20—A Bath Tub Elopement (Comedy).
Nov. 27—A Short-sighted Crime (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 4—Somewhere in Mexico (Comedy).
Dec. 11—The Burlesque Show (Two parts—Comedy).

G. W. BRADENBURGH

892 Vine Street : : : PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Sealed Orders	7 reels	War	$150
Protea III.	5 reels (new)	Sensational	175
An American Gentleman	5 reels (as new)	Drama	75

Write for 1917 catalogue—over six thousand subjects listed.

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's, low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1301 Race Street, Philadelphia

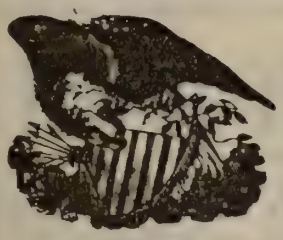
A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY

80 Fifth Avenue, New York — Phone 3227 Chelsea
425 Ashland Block, Chicago — Phone 2003 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting



Stereopticon

Peace Pictures

and

European War Pictures
(Neutral)

New Stereopticon Lectures and Poems presented by L. M. Marion.

Terms Moderate Accompanied by violinist, pianist, operator, lantern, etc. (when desired) for theatres, lyceums and clubs near New York City. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION
445 W. 23rd St., New York
Phone, 10396 Chelsea

I do not lecture on or sell motion pictures.

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush of
"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

Ornamental Theatres

Plaster Relief Decorations
Theatres Designed Everywhere
Write for Illustrated Theatre Catalog. Send us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.
Archer Avenue and Lee Street
CHICAGO, ILL.

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 280 Pages.
$2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

THE speed and quality of the sensitive emulsion, the strength and toughness of the base, the consistent excellence covering a long period of years, the marked dependability—these are the qualities that have made it desirable, for your interests and our own, to place the identifying stencil mark

"EASTMAN"

on the margin of our film.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Is Less Than the Best Good Enough

if the best costs less? If you think your light on the screen is good enough and you are still using alternating current, just ponder over this fact:

The Wagner Electric Light Converter will give more and better light with less current than an alternating current arc.

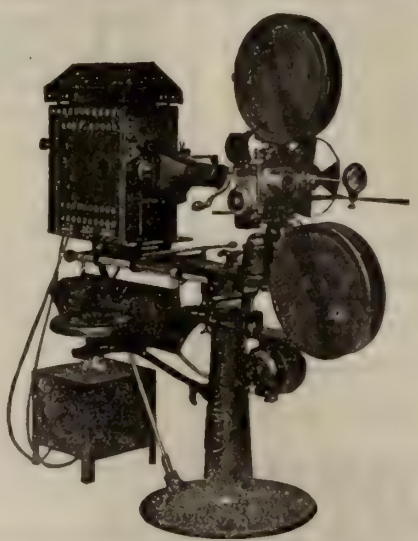
Remember this is not simply a claim. It is a fact and can be proven.

Send for Booklet, "Ghosts," and bulletin 10923.

Wagner Electric Manufacturing Company,
Saint Louis, Missouri
418

WHEN PURCHASING A MOTIOGRAPH

Be sure and insist on the Latest Improvements; such as New Condenser Mount, which is so arranged that either condenser can be removed by a slight turn of handle; the Gear Cover, now on hinges; new Motor Pulley attachments, etc.



If you haven't seen one of these machines in operation, ask your dealer to demonstrate one to you.

Write for literature.

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.
574 West Randolph Street Chicago, Ill.
Western Office, 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

EXHIBITORS

Your most consistently helpful and dependable paper has always been the MOVING PICTURE WORLD

ADVERTISERS

The paper with by far the largest circulation and the one enjoying to an exceptional degree "Reader Confidence" is the MOVING PICTURE WORLD

The MOVING PICTURE WORLD has always been free and independent of any trade connection, either manufacturing or exhibiting.

Its policies are founded on principle and consider only the best interests of all. Injustice to any one side can only mean ruin in the long run.

We offer, now or never, no bribes for your support or the endorsement of any special interest in the trade. With us no endorsement has been necessary outside of furnishing the best and most reliable paper that you can read.

We stand on no insecure foundation of false claims as to exhibitors representation, either organized or unorganized, nor any equally false intimations as to independance of advertising patronage.

We have, for nearly ten years, given the best value by long odds to exhibitors and advertisers impartially and without special favor to any.

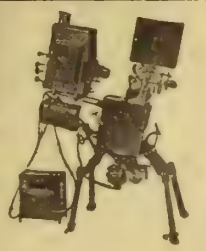
We thank you for your confidence and support heretofore and solicit a continuance of same, believing we are in position to give you even better value through our greater experience and understanding of all your problems.

For nearly ten years the representative paper of the industry, built on principle without the slightest MISREPRESENTATION at any time or of any sort.

Yearly subscriptions means less than a single admission to your theatre weekly. If not already a subscriber send your remittance NOW --- TODAY --- THIS MINUTE

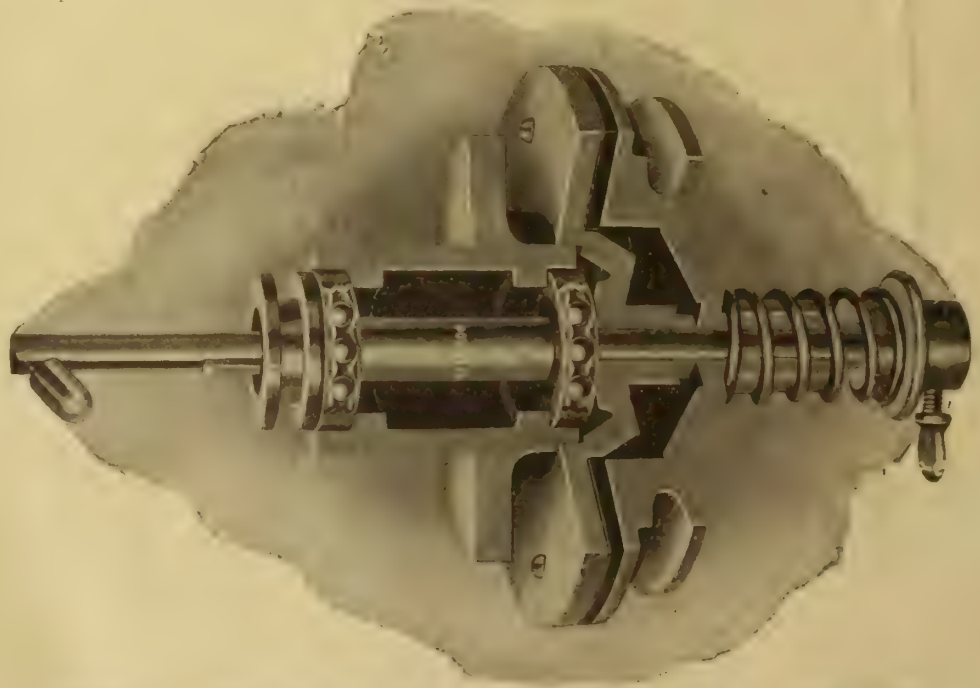


NPCo

"SIXTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

ANOTHER POWER'S ACHIEVEMENT

A DEVICE GUARANTEED TO "TAKE-UP" 3,000 FEET OF FILM, MAINTAINING AN EASY AND EVEN TENSION THROUGHOUT.

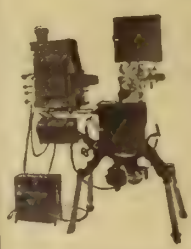


SIMPLE, EFFECTIVE, CONSISTING OF FEW PARTS AND OPERATING ON BALL BEARINGS, IT REQUIRES ABSOLUTELY NO ATTENTION.

EXAMINE IT IN OPERATION ON POWER'S CAMERAGRAPH NO. 6B.

CATALOG G

Mailed Upon Request



NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY

NINETY GOLD STREET NEW YORK

Vol. 31, No. 3 January 20, 1917 Price 15 Cents

H. C. HOFFMAN

CALIFORNIA STATE

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM INDEX

EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Scene from "The White Raven" (Metro).

Post Office Box 226
Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue
Telephone Madison Square 3510

SEVEN DEADLY SINS

Book the entire series of seven five-reel features. Your success will be assured by

McCLURE PUBLICITY

Mc Clure Series Dept.,
Triangle Distributing Corporation,
1459 Broadway. New York City.

McCLURE PICTURES

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY
MR. EXHIBITOR:
This is only a sample of the expressions of Max Linder, the world's greatest comedian, as you will see him on the screen.
See the rest for yourself. He has more expression and more funny action than any man I ever saw. He will convulse any audience with laughter.
Geo. K. Spoor
ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle St., Chicago

RED FEATHER PHOTO-PLAYS PRESENT
"HEART-STRINGS"
FEATURING
ALLAN HOLUBAR
DIRECTED BY ALLAN HOLUBAR
BOOK THROUGH ANY UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE
KARL LINK

STATE RIGHTS

Now Selling

Written and Directed by

LOIS WEBER

has been pronounced, "The most powerful film drama ever shown on any screen." Produced under the personal supervision and direction of LOIS WEBER, who counts among her successes such Box Office Winners as "Where Are My Children," "Idle Wives," "Shoes," "Hypocrites," "Scandal", and others, is SUFFICIENT GUARANTEE for the drawing power of this production. Wonderful Paper, and specially prepared Advertising Matter FREE to State Rights Buyers. "THE PEOPLE against JOHN DOE" will cause a sensation in ANY city or town. It's clean, powerful, marvelously directed and tells the most gripping story ever filmed. Good territory now open. Write or wire the STATE RIGHTS DEP'T of the

UNIVERSAL
FILM MFG. CO.

Carl Laemmle, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 Broadway New York

By all odds, the most gigantic State history of the trade—The UNIVERSAL ous Spectacular Half Million Dollar

IN announcing the STATE RIGHTS sale of the Universal's Feature Production—Jules Verne's "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA"—we present what has already been pronounced, the most amazing spectacle—the most remarkable achievement in pictures and the BIGGEST BOX OFFICE ATTRACTION ever placed before State Rights Buyers and Exhibitors. Judged from its already tremendous success in both Chicago and New York, "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA" is without question the biggest State Rights proposition on the market.

Nothing Like It On Earth

"20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA" is entirely different than ANY State Rights proposition on the market. First—the picture is different—second—the advertising possibilities outclass those of any feature ever produced—and third—it will outdraw any feature production now being shown anywhere in the world. This huge spectacular production played for eight solid weeks to overflow crowds in the city of Chicago. In its very first week in New York City at the Broadway Theatre it shattered every record held by that house. That's the kind of evidence on which to base your judgment in the buying of ANY State Rights production—ALSO—

This Production can be Re-booked one, two, or three years from now as easily as at this very moment.

What Chicago Newspapers say:

"The greatest cinema achievement ever offered in the history of the young art."
—Chicago American.

"Superlative adjectives cannot do justice to this master picture."
—Chicago Post.

"The most unusual film ever produced."
—Chicago Examiner.

"It contains that which everyone seeks—Novelty."
—Chicago Tribune.

"Big achievement."
—Chicago News.

"Has astonishing scenes."
—Chicago Journal.

CONSIDER this with great thought, Mr. State Rights Buyer. Consider what it means IN CASH TO YOU to be able to re-book this production again next year—the year after and the year after that. While re-booking any other feature production might be a difficulty, if not an almost impossible matter—it's a cinch with "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA," because of its distinct novelty. It will draw capacity today and three years from today just as easily.

THAT'S why this production is a far more profitable purchase than ANY State Rights feature production on the market. It's a 1, 2 or 3-year feature and will "get the money" anywhere, any time, all the time.

People who see it once will be as anxious to see it again a year or more later because it never loses its magic power to thrill and entertain. As the Public is the "acid test," and as the Press usually gauges productions right, read about "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA" on the next two pages of this advertisement.

"20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA" is an almost unbelievable accomplishment, visualizing for the peoples of the earth the most fantastic dreams of the greatest imaginative writer of all time. Jules Verne's enthralling story, read by and known to millions of people in every civilized country on the globe, and from the State Rights Buyer's angle this production is worth more than twice that of ANY OTHER State Rights production, for the reason that it is—

The Hugest Box Office Attraction of Them All

It's the kind of a production that makes every audience go out and talk their heads off to neighbors and friends. Every audience sends back another house; thus you get the tremendous value of the "mouth to mouth" advertising—the kind that money can't and never could buy. This "personal" advertising will be one of the greatest assets to bring you every day you show "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA." By following the directions, instructions, schemes, plan and ideas as laid out complete for you in the Elaborate Advertising Campaign book you simply can't fail with this huge production. The ad book gives you the entire ad campaign for the newspaper, tells you how to run the campaign, tells about the publicity matter, publicity cuts and everything else you want to know.

Capacity Business

Rights proposition ever offered in the Film Manufacturing Company's stupend- Production. JULES VERNE'S

20000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA

What New York Newspapers say:

"Novel and entertaining. Will no doubt win wide favor. —N. Y. Times.

"The most thrilling and most educational picture yet produced." —N. Y. Eve. Sun.

"Thrilling undersea film masterpiece. This is the wonder of wonders." —N. Y. American.

"A marvellous achievement. A triumph in photography." —N. Y. Tribune.

"Gives 'movie' thrills. A remarkable illustration of a remarkable book." —N. Y. World.

"Amazing." —N. Y. Herald.

"No one can in any way or in any reason afford to miss it." —N. Y. Eve. Journal.

"Remarkable thriller." —N. Y. Eve. Globe.

"A thing of rare fantasy." —N. Y. Eve Mail.

"A remarkable film drama." —N. Y. Eve. Telegram.

"Very well worth while." —N. Y. Eve. Post.

Send for the Big Ad Campaign Book

Get a copy of this great book immediately. Sent FREE to all State Rights Buyers and Exhibitors interested in this huge money-making production. At the time of the writing of this advertisement nine Southern States already sold. Other territory going fast. Communications given attention in order of their receipt. Use the Telegraph. It's quickest. Send your communication direct to the STATE RIGHTS DEPT. of the UNIVERSAL.

The Ad Book Tells It All

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. COMPANY

Carl Laemmle, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe."

1600 Broadway, New York

Universal Specialties

THE Specials listed below are of a class and character that are necessary to the Exhibitor who finds it advisable to book Special Features of one or more reels. They include, beside the Five-Reel Feature—Comedies, Cartoons, Educationals and the Greatest of all Screen Novelties—The Universal Screen Magazine.

Like the other releases on the Universal Program, these Specials may be booked separately—but Exhibitors must expect to pay extra for them. Not only because they are genuine Box-Office Attractions, but because it is manifestly unfair to expect to pick and choose from the entire Program, and get these releases at the pro rata price of that paid by the user of the entire Universal Service.

Special Releases on the Universal Program for the Week of January 29

RED FEATHER—"LOVE AFLAME"—With Ruth Stonehouse and Jack Mulhall (Five Reels—Romantic Drama).

NESTOR—"WHY, UNCLE!"—(One Reel Comedy) Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edith Roberts.

L-KO—"FAKING FAKERS"—With Phil Dunham (Two Reel Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—"THE WAR WAIF"—Two Reel War Drama—With Allen Holubar.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—No. 6.

JOKER—"HIS COMING OUT PARTY"—(One Reel Comedy) With Gale Henry and William Franey.

POWERS—"MR. FULLER PEP—HIS WIFE GOES FOR A REST" (Comic Cartoon) and "IN NORTH CHINA AS SEEN BY DR. DORSEY"—(Educational) (Split Reel).

Look them over. Nowhere on earth will you find the specialties you need that can compare in money getting value at your box-office with the Universal Specials listed here.

The Complete Universal Program every week—Book The Mighty

Compare the full Universal Program as given on these pages with any Moving Picture Program on earth, and you will acknowledge its absolute supremacy from the standpoint of Popularity and Profit. Remember, the Universal Program is split (as shown here) ONLY AS FAR AS INDIVIDUAL BOOKINGS ARE CONCERNED. Every subject listed is included in the full Universal Program Service of Twenty-nine Reels a week. This is the ideal show—the popular and profitable moving picture entertainment—to which thousands of Exhibitors have returned after disastrous experiences with "Open Bookings," "Feature Programs," and other freak ideas of recent times.

BOOK The Great Complete UNIVERSAL Program

Universal Regular Releases

THE Releases listed below as "Regular" are the cream of Juvenile, Comedy, News Weekly, Educational and Dramatic Subjects. They constitute the backbone of the mighty Universal Program. In comparison with the "Specials" opposite they number Sixteen Reels of Dramatic Subjects, with only Four Reels of Juvenile, Comedy and Educational. They are the solid, substantial program releases that are making thousands of Exhibitors successful throughout the world.

Regular Releases on the Universal Program for the Week of January 29

GOLD SEAL—"JUNE MADNESS" (Three Reel Romantic Drama)—Roy Stewart and Wadsworth Harris.

VICTOR—"SOME BABY" and "NELLIE, THE FIREMAN'S DAUGHTER"—(Split Reel Comedy).

UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY No. 57.

BIG U—"THE GOLD DUST"—(One Reel Western Drama).

VICTOR—"IT'S CHEAPER TO BE MARRIED"—(One Reel Comedy)—Babe Sedgwick.

IMP—"THE DIAMOND THIEVES"—(One Reel Crook Drama)—Robert Leonard and Margarita Fischer.

IMP—"THE FORBIDDEN GAME"—(Two Reel Underworld Drama)—Edward Hearns.

VICTOR—"THE HERO OF BUNKO HILL"—(One Reel Comedy).

BISON—"THE BOONTON AFFAIR"—(Two Reel Mountain Drama)—King Baggot.

IMP—"DIAMONDS OF DESTINY"—(One Reel Drama)—Louise Lovely.

IMP—"WHEN NEW YORK SLEEPS"—(Two Reel Melodrama).

Remember, you get both these "Regular Releases" and the "Specials" opposite on the full Universal Program.

includes every subject listed here UNIVERSAL PROGRAM & Get them all

THE ADVANTAGE TO YOU, MR. EXHIBITOR—lies in the fact that, by splitting the Universal Program, the man who wants specialties gets the cream of the world's specialties on individual bookings. The man who wants the complete program gets the advantage of the COMPLETE Universal Program—INCLUDING the SPECIALTIES—at the regular Program Service Price. Take your choice if you think you must, but—remember—if you want the one great money-getting, success-building moving picture entertainment you will book the Exhibitor's friend and standby—the mighty Universal Program—COMPLETE.

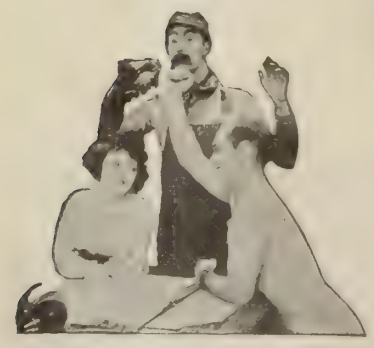
UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO.

CARL LAEMMLE, President
"The Largest Film Mfg. Concern in the Universe"
1600 B'way, New York

HITCH YOUR WAGON TO THESE STARS!

Under the direction of AL. E. CHRISTIE these stars are furnishing the exhibitor with the greatest money-making, business-building line of comedies there is—known as

CHRISTIE COMEDIES



CHRISTIE COMEDIES are clean, clever, sensible and really funny. Their popularity is increasing at a tremendous rate—both with the public whom they entertain and the exhibitor whom they profit. Are YOU one of those exhibitors? Now's the time to hitch up with Christie Comedies. See last week's issue of this magazine for a complete list of Christie Comedy exchanges.

Open Market Release
For Week of January 15th, 1917

"Black Hands & Soap Suds"

Directed by Horace Davey

—Featuring—

HARRY HAM, BILLY RHODES & EDDIE BARRY

Christie Comedies

Christie Film Co.

SUNSET BOULEVARD AT GOWER ST.
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Supreme Achievement of Motion Pictures

JESSE L. LASKY

presents

GERALDINE FARRAR as JOAN OF ARC

in

CECIL B. DeMILLE'S MASTERPIECE

"JOAN THE WOMAN"

By JEANIE MACPHERSON

Now playing a season's engagement at the 44th STREET THEATRE, N. Y.

CARDINAL FILM CORPORATION

485 FIFTH AVENUE, N. Y.

Sensation of the New York Season!

Success of this great photo spectacle, "Joan the Woman," swept New York off its feet. Audiences shout and cheer the scenes of battle, pageantry and drama.

"Joan the Woman" is praised by trade and public press as the greatest event in film history. Cast includes Wallace Reid, Theodore Roberts, Raymond Hatton, Hobart Bosworth, Tully Marshall, Charles Clary, Cleo Ridgely, Marjorie Daw, Lillian Leighton and others.

Laurels for Two Wonder Artists

Geraldine Farrar

The most conspicuous figure in modern motion pictures is Geraldine Farrar. The favorite opera star of two continents, she has won millions of picture devotees by the superbness of her Joan of Arc.

Cecil B. De Mille

With the hand of the master builder, the genius of the screen has won the admiration and recognition of a great industry. The producers' art never reached such heights as De Mille's in "Joan the Woman."

Critics Sing Joan's Praises

N. Y. Dailies

Sun.—"Farrar triumphs as Maid of Orleans."

World.—"A mute play that touches a genuine note of spiritual exaltation."

Evening Mail.—"It stands as the screen's most noteworthy production."

Evening Journal.—"Hats off to De Mille!"

Trade Press

W. Stephen Bush, Exhibitors' Trade Review.—"It establishes new records."

Peter Milne, Motion Picture News.—"Sweeping in its effect. A triumph for Geraldine Farrar, but equally a triumph for Cecil B. De Mille."

"Jolo," Variety.—"No other than De Mille could have done as much."

WILLIAM FOX

PRESENTS

WILLIAM FARNUM

IN

"THE PRICE OF SILENCE"

A Super De Luxe Photodrama With a Human Interest Appeal. A Powerful Indictment of Child Labor Evils.

Directed by FRANK LLOYD

Story by WILLIAM PIGGOTT

Released January 8th

THEDA BARA

IN

"THE DARLING OF PARIS"

Suggested by Victor Hugo's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame"—Showing the Incomparable Screen Star in a New and Fascinating Role.

Directed by J. GORDON EDWARDS

Scenario by ADRIAN JOHNSON

Released January 22nd

FOXFILM COMEDIES

PRESENT

REAL COMEDY STARS

Here they are:

HANK MANN	ANNA LUTHER
CHARLES ARLING	CARMEN PHILLIPS
HENRY LEHRMAN	AMY JEROME
BILLIE RITCHIE	ANNETTE DE FOE
TOM MIX	VICTORIA FORDE

and others

A two-reel Foxfilm Comedy released each week, beginning January 15th

Independent of regular Fox Program

Available for all exhibitors

VIRGINIA PEARSON

IN

"BITTER TRUTH"

A photodrama of a woman's revenge

Written by MARY MURILLO

Directed by KENEAN BUEL

THE FIRST WISE MAN of 1917

has arranged to show the pictures which from their inception have led the photoplay world.

Follow the Stars

Paramount Stars have always illuminated the way.

Be one of the many Wise Men of 1917 and

FAMOUS PLAYERS
LASKY
MOROSCO and PALLAS

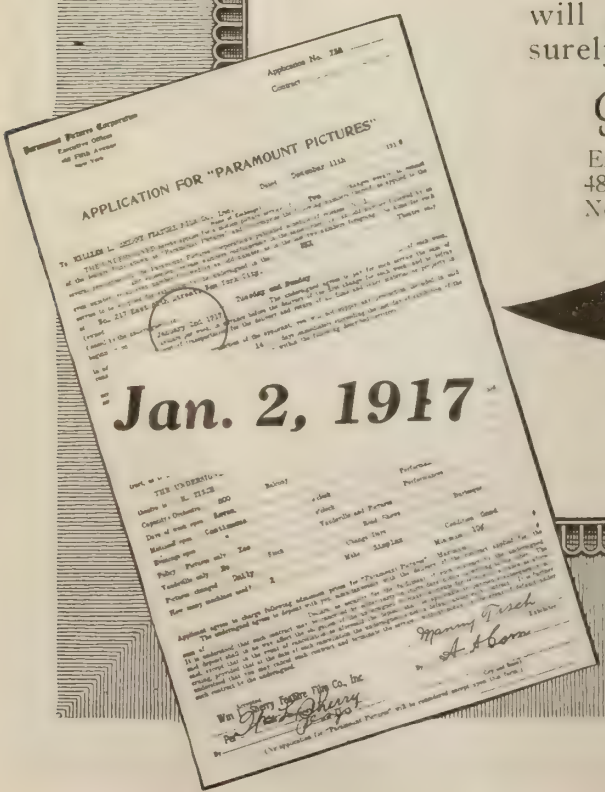
will guide you safely and surely to success with

Paramount Pictures

Executive Offices,
485 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.



For the Wise Exhibitors

THIS WEEK

FAMOUS PLAYERS

presents

Louise Huff

[AND

Jack Pickford

IN

"Great Expectations"

A faithful adaptation of Charles Dickens' celebrated novel.

The Oliver Morosco Photoplay Co.

PRESENTS

House Peters

AND

Myrtle Stedman

IN

"The Happiness of Three Women"

A fascinating society drama by Albert Payson Terhune.

Paramount Pictures

A word to the Wise: Paramount exhibitors know that this week's releases are as strong as last week's and as attractive as next week's.

Are You a Wise Exhibitor?

Executive Offices,
485 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Paramount announces Victor Moore

in the fourth of the one reel "Klever Komedies"

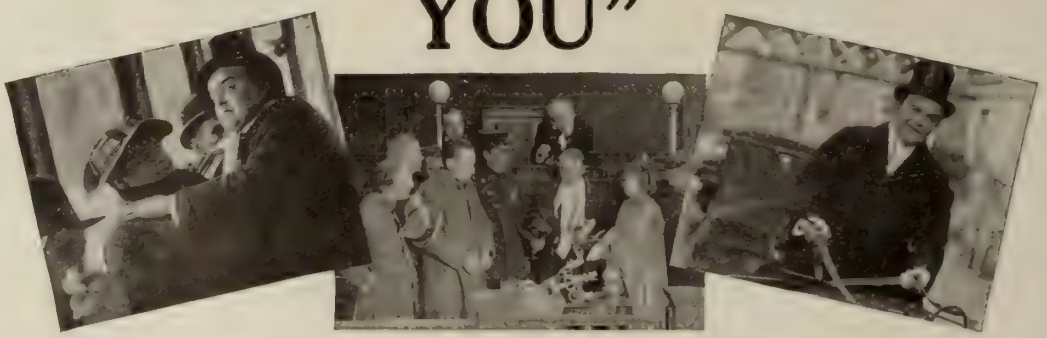
"DID IT EVER HAPPEN TO YOU"



This is the spark plug of comedies.
It starts laughs that you cannot stop.

Shown at the Strand Theatre, New York

Released January 15th

KLEVER PICTURES, INC.
220 West 42nd St., New York City

Nature's Long-Closed Book is OPENED WIDE By The Ditmars Wonderpictures—Secrets of Animal Life Completely Revealed—"Strand's" Marvelous Nature Films Are At Last Released To The Whole World.

We have captured them with the largest payment ever recorded for a nature film. We have secured ALL AMERICAN AND CANADIAN RELEASING RIGHTS to the Ditmars "Living Book of Nature" films so long under contract to show ONLY AT THE STRAND, NEW YORK. The Strand will continue to have them, but the difference is that you can have them, too.

A REAL NOVELTY FOR 1917

Let us prove it to you. Let us impress upon you what a 100 per cent. exclusive novelty you can offer your patrons. Let us show you the wonderful advertising points.

Let us convince you entirely and instantly why you should OPEN THE "LIVING BOOK OF NATURE" BEFORE YOUR COMPETITOR DOES.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION OF AMERICA

729 7th AVENUE NEW YORK, N.Y.

MARY PICKFORD

in

"The Pride of the Clan"

(Staged by Maurice Tourneur)

The Greatest Mary Pickford Picture Ever Produced!

MARY PICKFORD'S new master-production indicates ARTCRAFT'S magnitude in the events of the motion picture future and marks the new ARTCRAFT policy of one supreme attraction each month.

"THE PRIDE OF THE CLAN" would be a notable screen achievement without MARY PICKFORD; with this incomparable favorite as its star, this artistic picture will be recorded one of the biggest events of filmland.

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION

What We Think The Critics Will Say:

"The most exquisite screen characterization ever created."

"Mary Pickford never reaches the limit of her artistic possibilities. Every time we think she has, she surpasses all her previous efforts. This she does in 'The Pride of the Clan.'"

"'America's Sweetheart' in the sweetest story every screened, produced by a master."

"A Mary Pickford picture that more than ever crystallizes for all time not only the wonderful charm of the most popular girl in the world, but affords her opportunity to display a dramatic finesse of rare merit."

"With her golden curls, her sweet smile and a charming art that is universally admired, Mary Pickford in 'The Pride of the Clan' will gladden the heart of the world."

729 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

Clunes PRODUCTIONS

Now Available for State Rights

"THE EYES OF THE WORLD"

Received its premier exhibition at Clune's Auditorium, Los Angeles, Jan. 1, 1916.

Most successful of Harold Bell Wright's virile stories, which have had the phenomenal sale of eight million copies. Great beauty and melodramatic power characterize this feature.

In Ten Sections

In Ten Sections

"RAMONA"

Received the highest rating ever awarded by the National Board of Review.

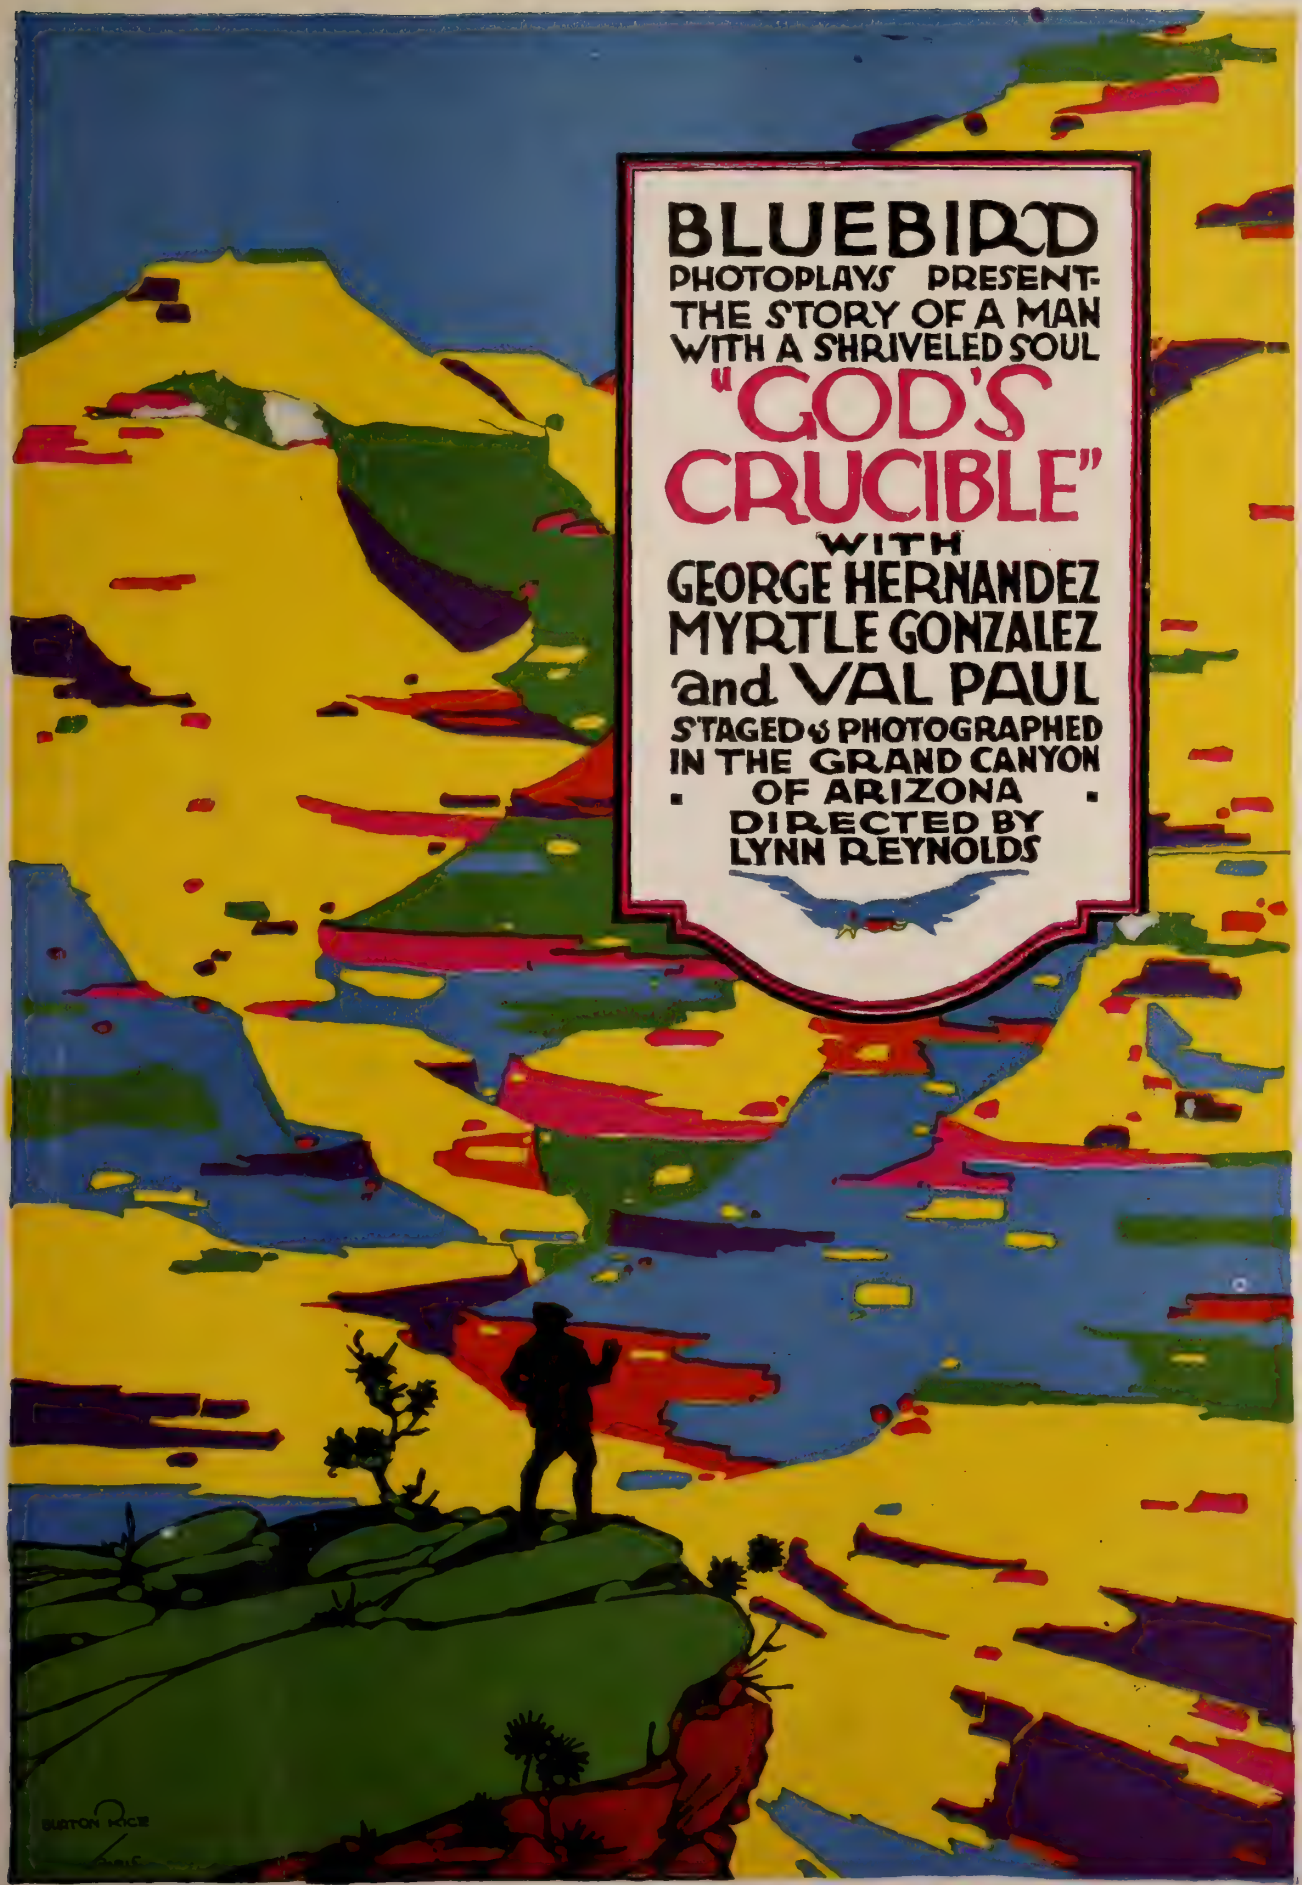
Replete with dramatic episodes, RAMONA has been called "the love story of the ages." The book RAMONA has been sold to four million buyers.

The sales of these stories assure TREMENDOUS BOX OFFICE POWER.

Our representative is now in Eastern territory.

Address

Clune Film Producing Co.
547 South Broadway, Los Angeles



BLUEBIRD
PHOTOPLAYS PRESENT
THE STORY OF A MAN
WITH A SHRIVELED SOUL
"GOD'S CRUCIBLE"
WITH GEORGE HERNANDEZ
MYRTLE GONZALEZ and VAL PAUL
STAGED & PHOTOGRAPHED
IN THE GRAND CANYON OF ARIZONA
DIRECTED BY LYNN REYNOLDS
BURTON RICE

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS [INC]

EXHIBITORS in every section of this great country, who appreciate and understand the tremendous power of Saturday Evening Post advertising in connection with BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS are reaping the rich reward in exhibiting BLUEBIRDS, thus bringing home to their respective audiences, EXACTLY THAT SUPREME TYPE OF PHOTOPLAY ENTERTAINMENT that the people demand.

The refinement, the unusual class and finesse of BLUEBIRD plays make a wider appeal than any known brand of feature on the American market. The underlying idea of "THE PLAY'S THE THING" has doubled in its value because the STARS in BLUEBIRD PLAYS are building a magnificent future for those Exhibitors who are keen enough and who possess foresight enough to understand that "giving the public the entertainment they demand"—means financial independence, greater prestige and constantly growing popularity.

As evidence of the pre-eminently superior character of BLUEBIRD-PHOTOPLAYS we advise you arrange with your nearest BLUEBIRD Exchange to exhibit "GOD'S CRUCIBLE" for you, or if you cannot arrange to view it, book it on our recommendation and advertise it stronger than ANY feature you ever showed in your Theatre. It will start a new and greater clientele, the kind that insures lasting success for your House.

Book through your local BLUEBIRD Exchange or Executive Office.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, (Inc.)

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

COLUMBIA
PICTURES CORPORATION
presents
Little VIOLA DANA in Richard Barry's THREADS of FATE
A METRO wonderplay
in Five great acts
directed by
Eugene Nowland
METRO
PICTURES
Released on the Metro
Program, January 22

TREMENDOUS ENTHUSIASM at Trade Showings all over the country

The Great Secret

Story by Fred de Gresac

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN and BEVERLY BAYNE

Wm. Christy Cabanne's master serial in 15 thrilling chapters

Advertising Campaign now in full stride in these great daily newspapers

New York Journal
New York Evening Mail
Brooklyn Eagle
Cincinnati Enquirer
Cincinnati Times Star
Toledo News Bee
Columbus Dispatch
Reading Eagle
Scranton Republican
Minneapolis Journal
Minneapolis Tribune
St. Paul Pioneer Press
St. Paul News
Milwaukee Journal
Milwaukee Free Press
Indianapolis News
Indianapolis Star
Bangor News
Springfield Republican
Springfield Union
Atlanta Journal
Birmingham Age Herald
Jacksonville Times Union
Dallas Times Herald
El Paso Herald
Duluth News Tribune
Janesville Gazette
Aberdeen American
Sioux Falls Argus Leader
Boston Herald Traveller
Boston Globe
Providence Journal
Cleveland Plain Dealer
Cleveland Press
Pittsburgh Press
Pittsburgh Gazette Times and Chronicle Telegraph

Dayton News
Richmond Times Dispatch
Richmond News Leader
San Francisco Examiner
Paterson Call
Trenton Times
Detroit Free Press
Detroit News-Tribune
Grand Rapids Press
Providence Bulletin
Bridgeport Post Telegram
Portland Express Advertiser
Worcester Gazette
Worcester Telegram
Memphis Commercial Appeal
Memphis News Scimitar
Des Moines Register
San Antonio Light
Little Rock Gazette
Eau Claire Leader
La Crosse Press Leader
Oshkosh Northwestern
Newark News
Philadelphia Evening Ledger
Philadelphia Bulletin
Washington Star
Washington Times
Baltimore News
Baltimore American
Denver Post
Oakland Tribune
Los Angeles Examiner
Kansas City Star
Kansas City Post
St. Louis Republic
St. Louis Globe Democrat

Chicago Tribune
Chicago American
Peoria Journal
Hartford Times
New Haven Register
New Bedford Standard
Manchester Union
Burlington Free Press
Nashville Banner
Nashville Tennessean and American
Omaha Bee
Houston Post
Oklahoma Oklahoman
Green Bay Press Gazette
Madison State Journal
Fargo Forum-Republican
Hudson Observer
New Orleans Item
New Orleans Times Picayune
Albany Knickerbocker Press
Albany Times Union
Dayton News
Portland Oregonian
Jackson Clarion Ledger
Buffalo Times
Syracuse Herald
Rochester Union Advertiser
Akron Times
Seattle Times
Shreveport Times
Buffalo News
Utica Herald Dispatch
Syracuse Post Standard
Johnstown Tribune
Spokane Chronicle
Tacoma Ledger

Five Thousand 24 sheet stands Now posted

BOOKING NOW THROUGH

METRO EXCHANGES

An Extraordinary Opportunity for State Right Buyers!!

B.S.MOSS

729 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

Offers

"The Girl Who Doesn't Know"

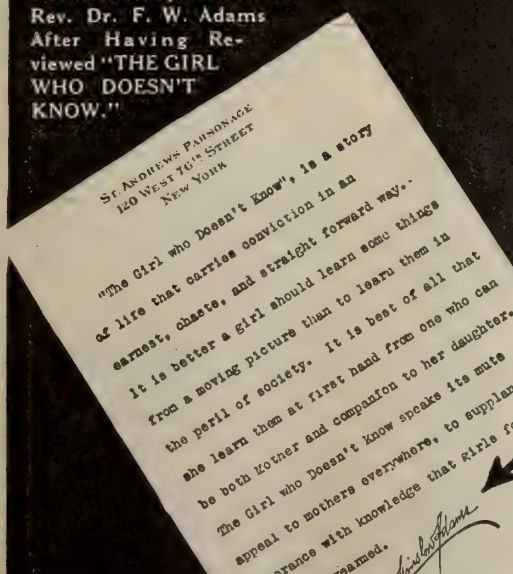
With

Marie Empress

The Fascinating Broadway Star

An exceptionally forceful and impressive reply to a problem widely discussed in Press and Pulpit.—A photoplay sermon for parents which all will demand to see.

The Written Opinion of the Rev. Dr. F. W. Adams After Having Reviewed "THE GIRL WHO DOESN'T KNOW."

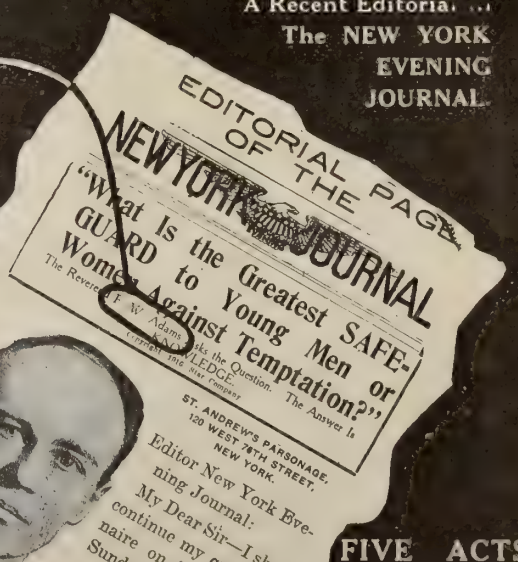


ST. ANDREWS PARSONAGE
120 WEST 76TH STREET
NEW YORK

"The Girl who Doesn't Know", is a story of life that carries conviction in an earnest, chaste, and straight forward way. It is better a girl should learn some things from a moving picture than to learn them in the peril of society. It is best of all that she learn them at first hand from one who can be both Mother and companion to her daughter. The Girl who Doesn't Know speaks its mute appeal to mothers everywhere, to supplant ignorance with knowledge that Rifle forewarned may be forearmed.

Dec. 18. 1916.

A Recent Editorial ... The NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL



EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

"What Is the Greatest SAFE-GUARD to Young Men or Women Against Temptation?"

The Reverend F. W. Adams Answers the Question. The Answer Is KNOWLEDGE. Copyright, 1916, Star Company.

ST. ANDREWS PARSONAGE,
120 WEST 76TH STREET,
NEW YORK.

Editor New York Evening Journal:

My Dear Sir—I shall continue my questionnaire on Temptation, Sunday evening, December 10.

I will highly esteem it if you will answer, to be used in my sermon that evening, the question, "What is the greatest SAFEGUARD to young men or women against temptation?"

Thanking you in appreciation,

F. W. ADAMS.

REV. FRED WINSLOW ADAMS

The Reverend Mr. Adams' question is literally one that could be answered in one word—KNOWLEDGE. Knowledge that protects young men and women against temptation, foolish ... and the only efficient enemy of vice and crime. Knowledge in various forms is EDUCATION. The public school system is the great real and efficient and widespread reliance of the people against folly.

We say that KNOWLEDGE, the fruit of education, is the great protection against temptation. We can understand that it is so. Why is it that the words YOUTH and INNOCENCE are used together? Because youth is ignorant. Because youth is ... period that temptation is ... Be who ... every form ... the ...

Positively A Mint For The Box-Office

FIVE ACTS OF GRIPING AND COMPELLING HEART INTEREST.

Communicate with B.S.Moss Motion Picture Corp. 729-7th Ave. N.Y.C.

SELZNICK PICTURES

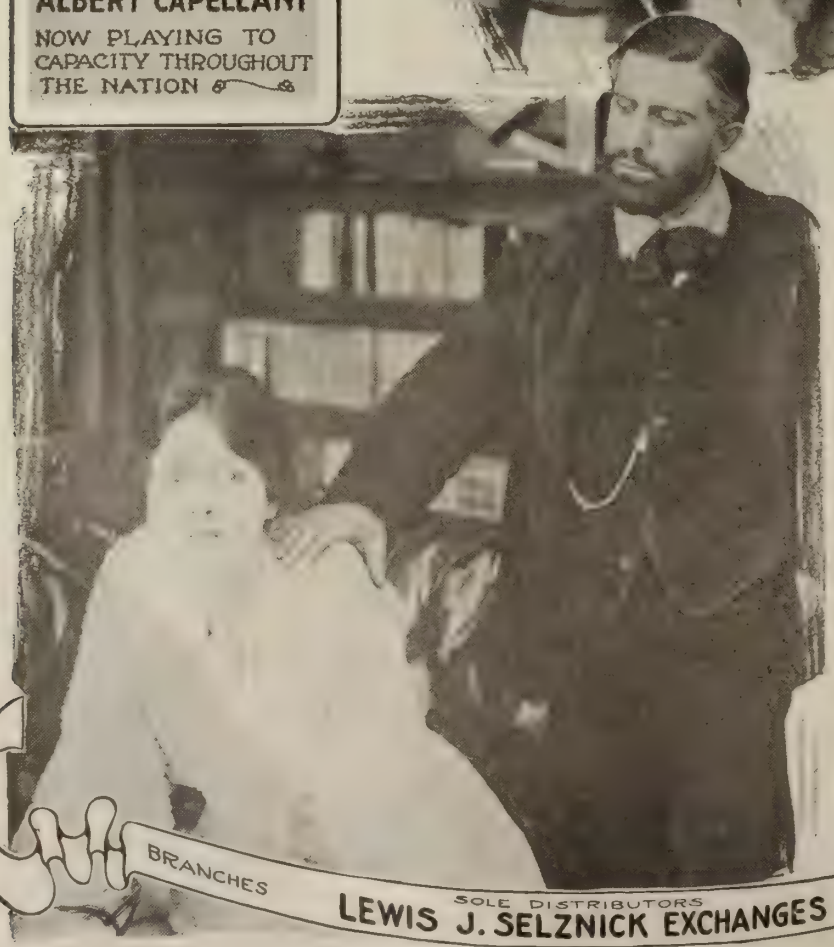
CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

In

"THE FOOLISH VIRGIN"

By Thomas Dixon
Directed By
ALBERT CAPELLANI

NOW PLAYING TO CAPACITY THROUGHOUT THE NATION



HERBERT BRENON'S
NEXT MASTERWORK
Presenting

FLORENCE REED

In

"THE ETERNAL SIN"

WILL BE READY FOR RELEASE BY THE FIRST of FEBRUARY

BRANCHES SOLE DISTRIBUTORS EVERYWHERE
LEWIS J. SELZNICK EXCHANGES

SELZNICK PICTURES

READY SOON
HARRY RAPF'S
Presentation of
ROBERT WARWICK
In
(By Arrangement With Klaw & Erlanger)
"THE ARGYLE CASE"
By
HARVEY J. O'HIGGINS,
HARRIET FORD and
WILLIAM J. BURNS.
Directed By
RALPH W. INCE

NOW PLAYING at the RIALTO THEATRE
NEW YORK
And All of the Loew Houses
Joseph M. Schenck's
Presentation of
NORMA TALMADGE
In
"PANTHEA"
By Monckton Hoffe

"A Splendid Picture I Am Glad To Play It."
S. L. Rothapfel
Mgr. The RIALTO.

WHAT BETTER EVIDENCE DO YOU NEED?

BRANCHES EVERYWHERE
SOLE DISTRIBUTORS
LEWIS J. SELZNICK EXCHANGES

TRIANGLE PLAYS

To Exhibitors:—

Our business policies are being established on right and sound principles demonstrated as successful by experience in the past, and all employees have been definitely instructed to deal with you on that basis. We fully realize that if we are to make a success in our dealings with you we must help you to success also; in a word, your interest is our interest.

The main thought in our mind is to give each exhibitor a definite contract for a definite thing at a fair and equitable price, and thus gain his continuous support so that each of us may benefit by measuring up to our agreements.

We shall tell you more of our plans and policies on this page from time to time.

Triangle Distributing Corporation.

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

TRIANGLE RELEASES

SUNDAY JAN. 21ST

BESSIE LOVE IN "NINA, THE FLOWER GIRL" } FINE ARTS

AND

A TRIANGLE KOMEDY

"A NOBLE FRAUD"

THURSDAY JAN. 25TH

WILLIAM DESMOND IN "THE ICED BULLET" } KAY BEE

AND

A TRIANGLE KOMEDY

"HONEST THIEVES"

Coming—
Mack Sennett-Keystone Comedies
Better Than Ever

We wish to state that as heretofore, Mack Sennett-Keystone Comedies may be had only through Triangle Exchanges

KESSEL & BAUMANN

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Mr. EXHIBITOR:

YOU ! ! !
CAN NOW HAVE
MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONES
THE UTMOST IN COMEDY
INDEPENDENT OF ANY PROGRAMME

WHY ? ? ?
TO SATISFY THE DEMANDS
THE BOX OFFICE MADE ON YOU
AND YOU MADE ON US FOR
THE ONLY STANDARD QUALITY COMEDIES
EVER PRODUCED

NOW READY FOR RELEASE
ONE EVERY WEEK

"THE NICK OF TIME BABY"
"HER CIRCUS KNIGHT"
"MAGGIE'S FIRST FALSE STEP"
"STARS AND 'BARS'"
"DODGING HIS DOOM"
"VILLA OF THE MOVIES"

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION, Distributors

KESSEL & BAUMANN, Executives

NEW YORK CITY

MISS MABEL NORMAND

IN

"MICKEY"

Mickey is a quaint little mountain girl who runs the gamut of life. Laughter and tears take their turn in the unfolding of the story.

* * *

A vivid and appealing comedy-drama with real living characters, told without squash pies, battles or the seduction of the innocent heroine.

* * *

No padding. When the story is over, the curtain goes down.

* * *

Method and date of release will be announced later.

KESSEL & BAUMANN, Executives

NEW YORK CITY

For Exhibitors Who Want Good Comedies

David Horsley long ago established his reputation as a producer of "worth-while" comedies. He cherishes this reputation highly. So when the craze for multiple reel subjects struck the film business he did not slight his comedies in favor of greater length features.

Rather he redoubled his efforts to make them better. He put more time and money into them than before. He also saw to it that they conformed with the prevailing public taste. Naturally enough his product has had, and is having, a tremendous sale.

Right now really good comedies are harder to find than ever. And right now David Horsley is offering the best in that line he has ever made—a new series of Cub Comedies featuring George Ovey. This series is distributed through the Mutual, with a new release every Thursday. The current subject is "Jerry's Winning Way," released January 11th.

The pictures in this series are not "fillers," but one reel features —the best one reel comedies on the market. Your Mutual exchange can supply you with them.

DAVID HORSLEY PRODUCTIONS

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS 68 EXCHANGES

JANUARY 20, 1917

"BELOVED ROGUES" OFFERED THIS WEEK WITH KOLB & DILL

"BELOVED ROGUES," sixth of the Kolb & Dill-Mutual Photoplays, is ready this week. It is five reels in length. It was produced by the American Film Company, Inc. It gives the famous stars, Kolb & Dill, further opportunity for the display of their talent.

Is Intensely Dramatic.

This Kolb & Dill-Mutual Photoplay is intensely dramatic. It tells a story of real heart interest. Despite their roguery both Kolb & Dill will win a warm place in the hearts of photoplay fans. They are steadily growing in drawing power at theaters the country over. Photoplay critics go out of their way to praise the Kolb & Dill-Mutual Photoplays. "Few in the history of the stage have enjoyed the success attained by Kolb & Dill," says the Lawrence (Mass.) Tribune. "Their names are linked with Montgomery & Stone, and Weber & Fields as constituting the three great 'teams' of the stage." The Tacoma (Wash.) Ledger writes: "Critics who assert character men cannot get their personalities across in pictures have a surprise in store for them when they see Kolb & Dill. The picture starring them, just released by Mutual, is in such tremendous demand that Manager Summerville of the Melbourne theater was only able to book it for two days." Bookings on "A Million for Mary," "Bluffs," "The Three Pals," "A Peck O' Pickles," "Lonesome Town" and "Beloved Rogues"—all Kolb & Dill-Mutual Photoplays—can be secured now at any Mutual Film Exchange.

Crowds Wait in Rain to See "Lumberlands"

That the new Mutual chapter play, "A Lass of the Lumberlands," produced by Signal Film Corporation and starring Helen Holmes, is a box-office magnet of unusual power is being proved more conclusively every week. W. Hider, manager of the Hider Theater, Binghamton, N. Y., writes: "Permit me to congratulate you on your wonderful serial, 'A Lass of the Lumberlands.' Our usual time for opening is 7 o'clock, but with this picture we were compelled to open at 6:30. The house was packed to capacity at 7:10 and as many outside blocking the sidewalk, waiting in the rain to get in. All previous records for box office receipts have been shattered by this serial and exhibitors will surely find it a money-getting picture." This is but one of hundreds of similar testimonials received by the Mutual Film corporation. Booking on this phenomenal chapter play can be made at any of the 68 Mutual exchanges.

Mutual Star Productions For January

Week Beginning January 1st.

Title. Lead.

The Gilded Youth.....Richard Bennett

Week Beginning January 8th.

The Butterfly Girl.....Margarita Fischer

Week Beginning January 15th.

Beloved Rogues.....Kolb & Dill

Week Beginning January 22d.

The Gentle Intruder.....Mary Miles Minter

MARGARITA FISCHER

Begins Work on Her Newest Five Reeler, "THE DEVIL'S ASSISTANT"

Harry Pollard and Margarita Fischer are at work on the next Fischer-Mutual Photoplay. Its title is "The Devil's Assistant." It is five reels in length. This production is a feature of a highly dramatic sort, affording the star unusual opportunity for emotional acting. In "The Devil's Assistant" Miss Fischer will display an unusually elaborate wardrobe. Double and triple exposures—a kind of camera work for which Director Pollard is famous—may also be expected. Specially engaged for Miss Fischer's support in this picture are Monroe Salisbury, who played the leading man in "Ramona," and Miss Kathleen Kirkham, who appeared opposite George Beban in several productions. Upon its completion by the Pollard Picture Plays Company. "The Devil's Assistant" will be released through the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges. Bookings can now be made.

First Rambeau-Mutual Photoplay Interesting

Work on "The Greater Woman," first of the Marjorie Rambeau-Mutual Photoplays, is progressing rapidly. Miss Rambeau's expressive eyes, curly hair and mobile features "register" every emotion perfectly. Still pictures of the first few scenes, now in the Mutual offices, offer proof that the Frank Powell Producing Corporation is staging the picture without regard to expense. Though no release date has yet been set for this first of the Marjorie Rambeau-Mutual Photoplays, bookings can now be made at any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges.

EDNA GOODRICH IS LATEST STAR TO SIGN MUTUAL CONTRACT

STILL another celebrated star has been added to the Mutual roster. Edna Goodrich, world-famous beauty, is the latest actress to affix her signature to a Mutual contract. In the very near future a series of Goodrich-Mutual Photoplays will be released through the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges. For years the public in general has paid homage to the beauty of this fascinating star. Poets have been inspired by her classic features. Dramatic critics have searched their dictionaries for adjectives to describe fittingly her face and form.

Her Widened Field.

The beautiful Miss Goodrich has appeared in many successful attractions and is well known in the field of amusements. On the speaking stage she has only played the biggest theatres in the largest cities and her film appearances have been so few that it can scarcely be said she is known to film fans everywhere, but now through the medium of Goodrich-Mutual Photoplays she will appear in every village and hamlet. The masses will have an opportunity of beholding her art. The most notable authors are supplying the manuscripts from which Miss Goodrich's plays will be prepared. Every opportunity will be afforded her for the display of her remarkable talent. The title of the first Goodrich-Mutual Photoplay will be announced shortly. This production and those which are to follow are sure to be in tremendous demand. For this reason many exhibitors are even now making reservations. Any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges are prepared to receive reservations.

Fourth "Reporters" Release Really Weird

Decidedly weird is the story told by chapter four of the new Mutual serial, "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters." As the story runs, he was a doctor. Shortly before midnight a bearded individual called on him and insisted that he go to attend a patient. Before he left his office his eyes were blindfolded. After being driven about the streets for hours he reached a palatial mansion. The blindfold was removed. His patient was a beautiful girl. She was speechless. This is but the beginning of the fourth episode of this new Mutual serial. It is startling all by its novelty. Theatres showing it are packed to the doors. Bookings can now be made at your nearest Mutual exchange. It's in fifteen chapters. A new chapter each week. Each chapter complete in itself.

MUTUAL

MUTUAL

Mutual Film Corporation
Announces
Another New Mutual Star
The Fascinating Beauty

EDNA GOODRICH

IN ACCORDANCE with its policy of "Only Big Stars For Mutual"—the Mutual Film Corporation has signed still another celebrated actress—the fascinating beauty Edna Goodrich. Since the day of her debut in "Floradora" and up to the present, the public has paid homage to the beauty of this charming star. Her ability to portray difficult roles conclusively proves that her claim to fame rests not on beauty alone. Some of the most famous authors are supplying the manuscripts from which Miss Goodrich's plays will be prepared. The star will be afforded every opportunity for the display of her remarkable talent. The same "quality" atmosphere that has made "Tiffany's" unique, will mark each Goodrich production—causing it to stand out supreme and unequalled amid all other photoplay offerings. The title and release date of the first Edna Goodrich Mutual Star Production will be announced soon. Exhibitors are invited to confer with Mutual Exchange managers for complete information regarding the new Mutual Policy for 1917—"America's greatest stars in the world's greatest plays."

Mutual Film Corporation

John R. Freuler-President

68 Exchanges in America

MUTUAL

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC., Presents

The Famous Stars

KOLB & DILL in "BELOVED ROGUES"

A wholesome dramatic offering in five acts. Sixth of the Kolb & Dill - Mutual photoplays. Released the week of January 15th.

Available: "A PECK O' PICKLES"
"A MILLION FOR MARY"-"BLUFF"
"LONESOME TOWN"-"THREE PALS"

Now Booking At 68 Mutual Exchanges.

What the Press Says:-

"Kolb & Dill have made good so emphatically in films, it is probable they will quit the speaking stage for all time." Los Angeles Herald.

"Kolb & Dill are making a great hit at the Portola and filling the house every night as well as at matinees." Santa Barbara Press.

MUTUAL

Unusual Lighting Effects In "A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS"

In lighting effects, the new Mutual chapterplay, "A Lass of the Lumberlands," is as unusual and superior to other serials as it is in plot, action and enactment. Some of the wonderful night "effects" are positively startling. It is almost uncanny to behold flashing headlights, brilliantly lighted Pullmans and tremendous bonfires, depicted on the screen with such reality. Theatre patrons everywhere are proclaiming this chapterplay wonderful. Turnaway business is the rule. Fifteen startling chapters—a new one every week. For bookings see your nearest Mutual Exchange.

Now Booking At 68 MUTUAL EXCHANGES

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION
Presents
HELEN HOLMES in

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS

A Spectacular Chapterplay of the North Woods

Real Newspaper Stories In This Sensational Serial!

"Get the story!" ordered the city editor as he sent the girl reporter forth to run to earth the confidence man. She picked up a clue. She followed the trail till it lead her to the man she sought. Then, at the point of a gun, she held him at bay and got the "story." This is but one of the unusual thrills in the new Mutual serial, "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters."

THE PERILS OF OUR GIRL REPORTERS

FIFTEEN STARTLING MOTION PICTURE STORIES — EACH COMPLETE

Each story in this big new serial is founded on fact—based on a real incident in newspaper life. The stories are perfectly enacted by a cast headed by Earl Metcalfe, Helen Greene and Zena Keefe. Geo. Terwilliger directed the production. Theatres playing this new Mutual serial are "holding 'em out." YOUR theatre can do the same. Fifteen chapters —a new chapter each week—each story complete in itself. Now booking at all Mutual Exchanges.

Booking NOW At 68 Mutual Exchanges.

Produced by NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS

MUTUAL

The Mutual Weekly

remains the Unquestioned Leader of all News Reels
because it gives
All the News
of
All the World
FIRST

The Other Great Weekly
Gaumont Single-Reels are Tours Around the World
Reel Life
and See America First
with Gaumont Kartoon Komics

Book at 68 Mutual Branches

Gaumont

Gaumont Co.

FLUSHING, N. Y.

Gaumont

"Germany and Its Armies of Today"

Three Weeks at the Strand

Apply Now for States Rights

GERMANIC OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, Inc.
729 7th Ave. N. Y. City
Room 1003

A National Institution

STRAND THEATRE OF NEW YORK

OFFICE OF HAROLD EDEL, MANAGING DIRECTOR — MITCHELL H. MARK, PRES. AND GEN. MGR.

January 3rd, 1917.

Germanic War Films, Inc.,
729 Seventh Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—

In answer to your inquiry regarding the success of your picture, "GERMANY AND ITS ARMIES OF TO-DAY," I beg to advise that the same has been a huge success, which was evidenced by the amount of genuine applause during each and every performance.

We take this opportunity of exercising our option for the continuation of same for the third week, commencing January 14th, thereby making a continuous run of three weeks.

Assuring you of our appreciation for having had the privilege of first running these official German war pictures, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

H. Edel.

Managing Director.

AN UNUSUAL PICTURE! Get Busy

WHAT BECOMES OF THE CHILDREN ?

Written by and Featuring

CORRA BEACH

and

WALTER SHUMWAY,

DIRECTED BY
WALTER RICHARD STAHL

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

TO THE WISE EXHIBITORS OF THE WORLD

I beg to call your attention to the World regular program releases below:

Jan. 1—Alice Brady in "A Woman Alone."

Jan. 8—Gail Kane and Carlyle Blackwell in "On Dangerous Ground."

Jan. 15—Robert Warwick, Gerda Holmes and Doris Kenyon in "The Man Who Forgot."

Jan. 22—Ethel Clayton supported by Rockliffe Fellowes, Arthur Ashley and John Bowers in "The Bondage of Fear."

Jan. 29—Marie Dressler in "Tillie Wakes Up."

Feb. 5—Alice Brady in "The Hungry Heart."

Compare them with the so-called special releases.

Then reflect.

William A. Brady

WILLIAM A. BRADY
in association with WORLD PICTURES
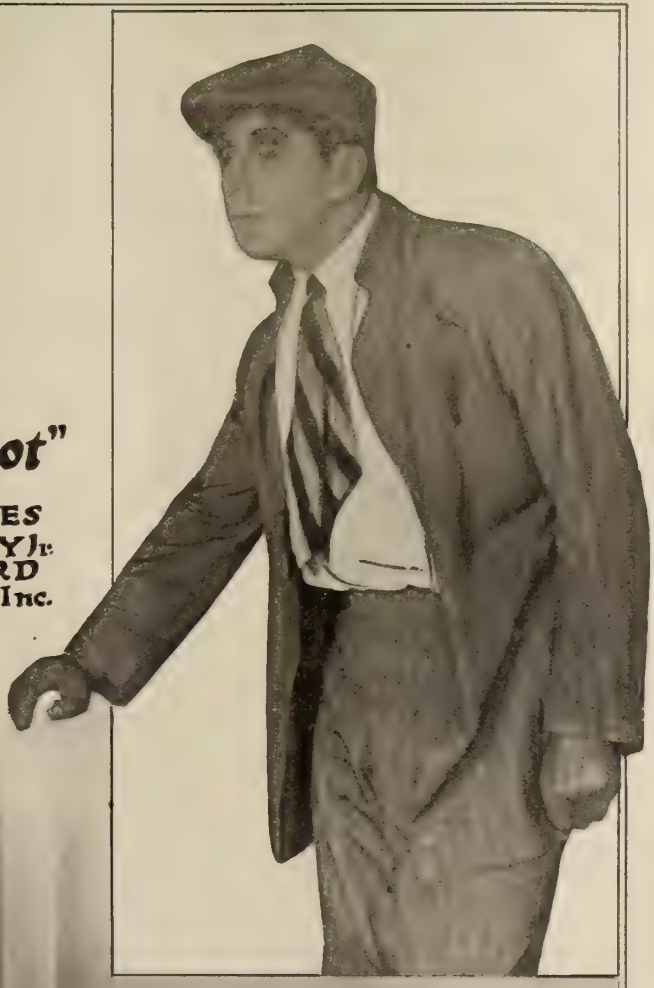
presents

ROBERT WARWICK

in "The Man Who Forgot"

Cast including
DORIS KENYON & GERDA HOLMES
From the Story by JAMES HAY Jr.
Directed by EMILE CHAUTARD
Produced by PARAGON FILMS Inc.



Unicorn

YOU KNOW PICTURES
BUT
WHETHER YOU KNOW OR NOT
UNICORN
KNOWS FOR YOU

LAUGHS
MEAN MONEY
AND YOUR BOX-OFFICE

LAUGHS LOUDEST
OF ALL
WHEN YOU PLAY THE

BILLY WEST COMEDIES

TWO REELS EACH AND PACKED WITH RIOTOUS YELLS

1st Release: "HIS MARRIED LIFE"
2nd Release: "BOARDERS AND BOMBS"—3rd Release: "HIS WAITING CAREER"

REAL SCREAMS OF THE SCREEN

ONE, TWO AND THREE REEL DRAMAS
COMEDIES THAT ARE FUNNY
WESTERN SCREEN PLAYS WHICH ARE CLASSICS.

TWENTY-ONE
REELS PER WEEK

EXECUTIVE OFFICES, 126-130 WEST FORTY-SIXTH ST., NEW YORK CITY
BRANCHES IN TWENTY-EIGHT PRINCIPAL CITIES OF U.S.A.
IKE SCHLANK, PRESIDENT

Films

INTERNATIONAL

The Serial Supreme

Patria

with

Mrs. Vernon Castle

The Best Known and Best Dressed Woman in America

Released January 14th by PATHÉ

PAT
with Mrs. Vernon
The Serial Supreme RELEASED
January
14th
THROUGH PATHÉ
EXCHANGES
INTERNATIONAL

RIA
Castle
America's Best Known and Best Dressed Woman
RELEASED
January
14th
THROUGH PATHÉ
EXCHANGES
INTERNATIONAL

INTERNATIONAL

Patria

The Serial Supreme

with Mrs. Vernon Castle

The Best Known and Best Dressed Woman in America

Released January 14th by PATHÉ

Pathé

There are thrills in every foot of Pearl of the Army says a big newspaper: Read what it says:

"There are thrills in every foot of 'Pearl of the Army.' With a dramatic story of love, mystery, and adventure and an all-star cast supporting her, Miss White is certain to achieve the greatest success of her career. It is doubtful if any star in the work has as great box-office pulling power. Pathe's name on a serial is a guarantee of its high quality. 'Pearl of the Army' lacks none of the essentials of a successful serial. It has a strong love-interest, the development of which starts with the first episode. There is mystery, adventure and suspense. Every reel is replete with thrills of the kind that bring audiences back week after week."

R. E. Pritchard in the New Orleans Item

When big newspapers everywhere recognize the importance of Pathé Serials in the life of their communities it shows Pathé is giving the public what it wants!

Produced by Astra
Directed by Edward José

Pathé

92%

is the rating given to

The Shielding Shadow

by reports of exhibitors. Their reports are based on box office value and crowds of pleased patrons. 73% and 77% are the highest two ratings these same exhibitors place on nine other serials which they had run recently or were still running.

Pathé knows how to make and market serials! Why Experiment?

The Shielding Shadow
Production by
Astra
Directed by Louis J. Gasnier and Donald Mackenzie

Pathé
Announcing
Valkyrien
in the five part Gold Rooster Play
The Image Maker
A most unusual story of pre-existence and its counterpart in modern life. Full of dramatic incident.
Produced by Thanhouser
Released Jan. 21

Pathé

"Our patrons revel in Luke Comedies
....They have never boosted any pictures as they are boosting yours."

John R. Elliott, Mgr.
Hippodrome Theatre
Youngstown, Ohio.

Produced by Rolin
and the best made.

VINCENT SERRANO
IN
"A MODERN MONTE CRISTO"
RELEASED FEB. 4

THANHOUSER-MADE

A PATHÉ GOLD ROOSTER PLAY

ALIVE WITH STRIKING SITUATIONS—A STIRRING DRAMA OF VENGEANCE WITH JUSTICE

COMING
FLORENCE LA BADIE
IN
"THE GIRL WHO WANTED TO LIVE"

THANHOUSER FILM CORPORATION
NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. Edwin Thanhouser, Pres. JACKSONVILLE, FLA.
EUROPEAN OFFICE, THANHOUSER FILMS, LTD., 167 WARDOUR ST., W, LONDON

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

By Arrangement With F. Ziegfeld, Jr.
GEORGE KLEINE, Presents

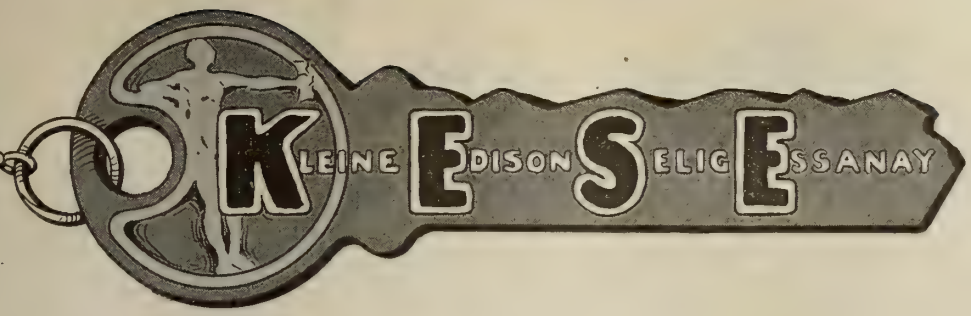
Billie Burke in GLORIA'S ROMANCE

Supported by HENRY KOLKER
A Motion Picture Novel by Mr. and Mrs. RUPERT HUGHES

"Am simply amazed at the pulling power of Billie Burke and Gloria's Romance," writes an Iowa exhibitor. This motion picture novel brought to my theatre people who have always before opposed motion pictures and have never been known to enter a 'movie'."

The above is but one instance of many. This clean, wholesome, thoroughly logical play has made new patrons for practically every theatre in which it has played. The best people in every community are attracted by such names as Billie Burke, Rupert Hughes and George Kleine. To win a new and better patronage for YOUR house, book this 20-chapter novel now. For full details wire or write the nearest Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Exchange or

GEORGE KLEINE
80 Fifth Avenue New York City



SELIG

OFFERS

"THE PRINCESS OF PATCHES"

A Picturization by Al Green of Mark Swan's World-famous Melodrama

A Love Romance of the Sunny Southland.

See the terrific explosion
See the fight in the houseboat
See the cotton plantations
See a blood-stirring melodrama

An All-star Cast Headed by Vivian Reed and Charles Le Moyne. A Love Romance Filmed True to the Life of the South.

COMING COMING COMING

A Sensational Drama of the Borderland

"The Heart of Texas Ryan"

With George Fawcett, Bessie Eyton, Frank Campeau, Tom Mix and Charles Gerrard.

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

HENRY B. WALTHALL

America's Greatest Actor

with MARY CHARLESON

is presented in

"Little Shoes"

Henry B. Walthall, the greatest emotional actor the world has known, plays the melody of child love on the heart strings in this tense photo-play. It is clean, sweet, beautiful—the play for the entire family.

By Eleanor M. Ingram Directed by Arthur Berthelet

Screen time, 1 hour, 15 minutes

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

Essanay

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

Every Critic Calls "The Truant Soul" Walthall's Greatest

"In 'The Truant Soul' Henry B. Walthall has been given a part to play that calls forth every bit of his talent and he has done nothing better during his career. . . . The picture is stirring from start to finish, and will hold audiences both for its story and the complete and effectual way in which it is produced."

DICKSON G. WATTS,
New York Telegraph

"In 'The Truant Soul' we have again the genius Walthall . . . the biggest man in pictures. . . . As the reels unfold you find yourself shaken by pity, fear, horror, repulsion and finally joy. The interest you have in the unfolding of the tale is the same absorbing interest you have felt while reading that novel you simply couldn't lay down. . . . There is not one moment during the entire picture when the suspense slackens."

MAE TINEE,
Chicago Tribune

"Not since Walthall made 'Ghosts,' 'The Avenging Conscience' and other plotful features has he given us such a character as Dr. John Lancaster in 'The Truant Soul.' . . . Walthall does some wonderful pantomimic work. His two contrasting characters and his portrayal of each have never been excelled on the screen."

LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Chicago Herald

"The combined efforts of the star, Henry B. Walthall, and the producer, Harry Beaumont, augmented by the personal charm and manner of Mary Charleson have given Essanay one of the most artistic plays . . . and one of the most absorbing productions of the day. Truly it eclipses any current effort. . . . It contains the best and most essential ingredients which go to make ideal cinematic melodrama. The photoplay is excellent. . . . Essanay might well be proud of 'The Truant Soul' and Mr. Walthall has every reason to believe it his best achievement."

W. K. HOLLANDER,
Chicago Daily News

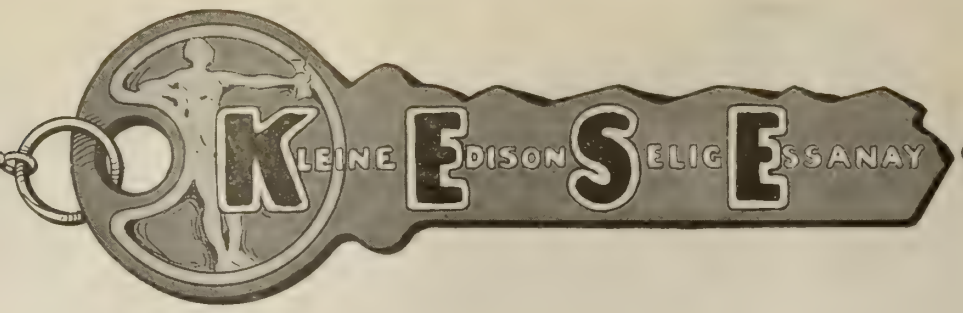
TRADEMARK Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E



What the Critics Say of "The Phantom Buccaneer"

Presenting

RICHARD C. TRAVERS and GERTRUDE GLOVER

"'The Phantom Buccaneer' has a story that will permit of no napping by the spectator as the action is fast and furious. . . . Richard C. Travers will win a warm welcome in this adventurous photo-melodrama. . . . Gertrude Glover's Mercia is a winsome little creature."

—James S. McQuade, Moving Picture World

"It is an entertaining play . . . holds the attention well. The acting is good, as also the photography."

—Genevieve Harris, Motography

OTHER ESSANAY FEATURES

"The Breaker"
"The Prince of Graustark"
"The Sting of Victory"
"That Sort"
"The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row"
"The Havoc"
"Vultures of Society"
"Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines"
"The Alster Case"
"The Crimson Wing"
"The Blindness of Virtue"
"The White Sister"
"Graustark"
"The Chaperon"
"The Return of Eve"
"According to the Code"
"Sherlock Holmes"
"Charlie Chaplin's Burlesque on Carmen"
"The Discard"
"The Misleading Lady"
"A Daughter of the City"
"The Raven"
"The Man Trail"
"In the Palace of the King"
"The Slim Princess"

TRADEMARK Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 ARGYLE STREET, CHICAGO

TRADEMARK Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

General Film Service

ESSANAY STOCK COMPANY

Five Screen Stars of International Reputation

APPEARING EVERY SATURDAY in a Series of Twelve Thrilling Dramas

CLAYTON

IS MARRIAGE SACRED?

Each play with a separate and distinct plot, embracing Marriage and Divorce

ARNOLD

"The Burning Band"	Dec. 16	"The Magic Mirror"	Jan. 27
"Dancing With Folly"	Dec. 23	"Shifting Shadows"	Feb. 3
"Wife In Sunshine"	Dec. 30	"Desertion and Nonsupport	Feb. 10
"When The Man Speaks"	Jan. 6	"Ashes on the Hearthstone"	Feb. 17
"The Wide Wrong Way"	Jan. 13	"The Extravagant Bride"	Feb. 24
"The Sinful Marriage"	Jan. 20	"Social Obligations"	March 3

DREW

By Charles Mortimer Peck — Directed by E. H. Calvert

Screen time approximately 30 minutes

COMMERFORD

Solves All Seat Selling Problems

Hundreds of Exhibitors Writing and Wiring Congratulations to Essanay on this Big Success

AINSWORTH

BOOKING NOW

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle St., Chicago

General Film Service

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE

The World's Greatest News Film

Will bring the shining shekels into your box office till—will "hook up" business on dull days—will also attract a class of patrons not ordinarily classed as "movie fans."

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE

The World's Greatest News Film

Released every Monday and Thursday in General Film service, originated a new and nifty poster—is painstakingly edited—is aimed to interest, to entertain and to educate.

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE

The World's Greatest News Film

Achieved a wonderful record during its first year—springing immediately into popularity because it presents subjects out of the beaten track and in a new and novel manner.

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE

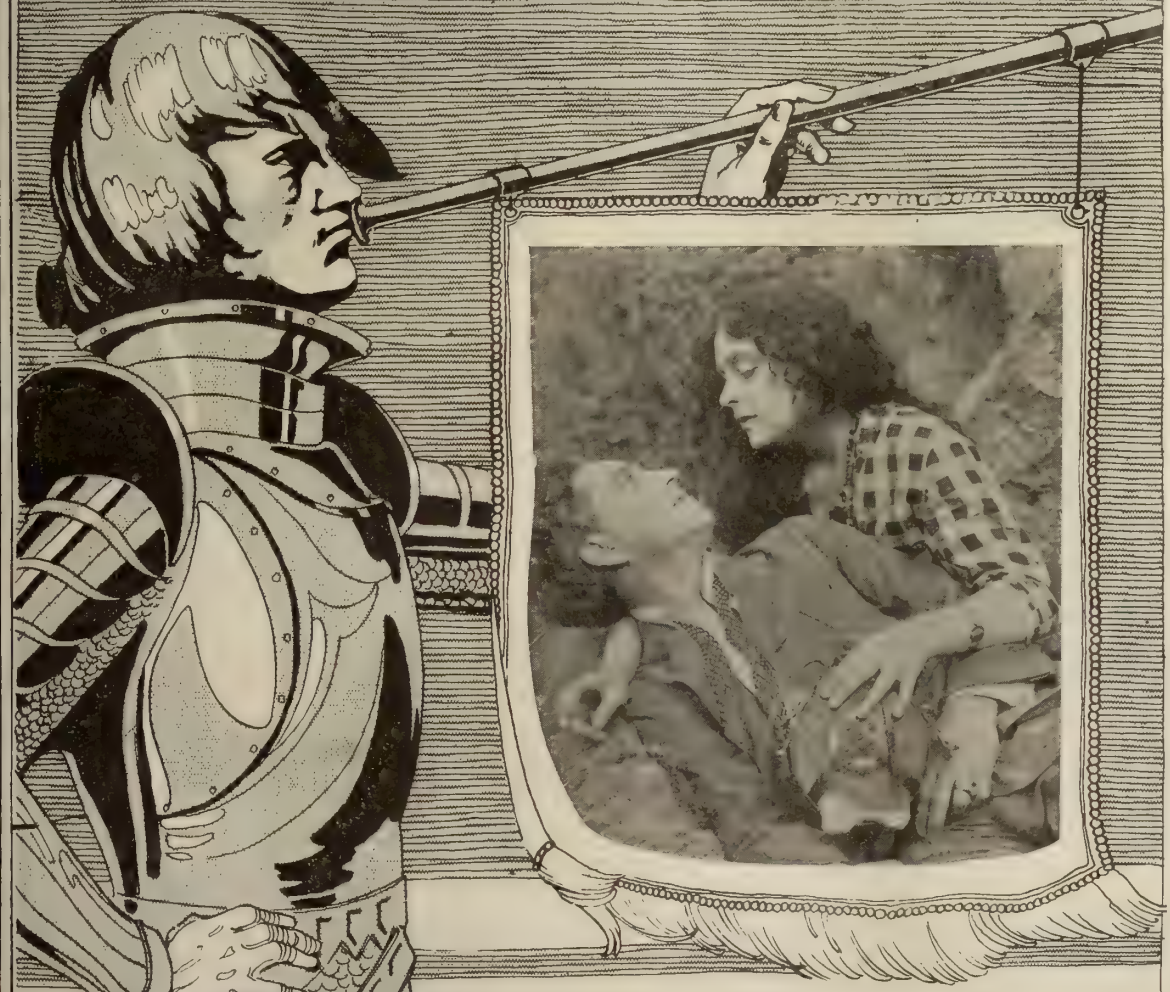
The World's Greatest News Film

Will spare neither time nor expense in 1917 in filming news pictorials not only interesting, but vitally comprehensive. Experienced cameramen located in all parts of the world will be alert to

GET THE NEWS AND SHOW IT FIRST!

SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.
CHICAGO - - - - ILLINOIS

General Film Service



Knickerbocker Star Features

PRESENT

Gloria Payton -- Lucille Pietz -- Neil Hardin

IN

"TEMPTATION AND THE GIRL"

IN 3 ACTS

Supervised by H. M. and E. D. HORKHEIMER

General Film Service

Announcing a
NEW SERIES* of

"STINGAREE"
Adventures
By
E. W. HORNUNG
Author of
"RAFFLES"
and of KALEM'S former successful "Stingaree" series.
TRUE BOARDMAN
is again featured in the title role.

Kalem's Stellar Achievement for 1917!

WATCH FOR RELEASE DATES

"THE HOMESTEADERS' FEUD"
A Dramatic Two Part Episode of "The Girl from Frisco"
Released Wednesday, Jan. 17th.

"THE BLACK CIRCLE"
A Thrilling Episode of "Grant, Police Reporter"
Released Friday, Jan. 19th.

"THE WRECKED STATION"
A Rapid-fire Chapter of "The Hazards of Helen"
Released Saturday, Jan. 20th.

"CUPID'S CADDIES"
One of Those Popular "HAM Comedies"
Released Tuesday, Jan. 16th.

KALEM COMPANY
INCORPORATED
235 West 23rd Steeet, New York City

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
THE FILM INDEX — EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.
Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY
17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.

(Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr.....President
J. F. Chalmers.....Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers.....Secretary and Treasurer
John Wylie.....General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands .....$3.00 per year
Canada. . . ..3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid).....4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.

(Index to this issue will be found on page 428.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, January 20, 1917

Facts and Comments

JUDGES in Schenectady, N. Y., and in Cincinnati, Ohio, have declined to give an adverse ruling against the Sunday picture performance, and the district attorneys in those cities have withdrawn charges against other than the houses complained of, but, as one Cincinnati paper puts it, the pool parlors and fruit stands are yet to be decided upon. This is one of the irritating things of these prosecutions. The respectable amusement is linked with the saloons and pool parlors as deleterious, things to be suppressed. The Sunday closing law seldom shuts up the saloons. It merely makes rich opportunities for graft. The best way to hurt the saloons and the pool parlors is to open the picture theaters and afford the man who will not go to church or who has already been to church opportunities for clean and decent diversion of a seemly sort. Now that the fight for Sunday opening has been begun in New York, perhaps it would be as well to push the matter to a conclusion and put a stop to the uncertainties of an illy defined position.

* * *

JUDGING from correspondence, personal interviews and every other means of securing data, the high salaried star is not the only crying evil in need of reform in order to reduce the "high cost of film rental." The senseless multiplication of film exchanges is undoubtedly doing more today to add to the burden that is slowly but surely freezing out many of the smaller theatres, so necessary to the stability of the whole industry. How can it be otherwise with ten to fifteen exchanges in some centers where one-third of the number could amply meet all requirements. It is right here that a big reform will work wonders and it is bound to come.

* * *

"IF WE could only get some co-operation from the exchanges, we could get a share of the prosperity that every other line is sharing in out here," says a well known exhibitor in the far West. Advance deposits, C.O.D.'s by mistake and the high and mighty exchange manager who sits in his office a hundred miles away without making the slightest effort to assist his customers in getting busines or suitable programs is most discouraging and an amazing condition.

* * *

ONCE more the European market begins to figure on the profit side of the film companies' ledgers. The return is nothing like it was a few years before the war, but there is a better demand for American films on the other side of the Atlantic and comedies are almost in brisk demand. This is in line with what Will Irwin recently wrote in the Saturday Evening Post regarding the English stage. Old bits of burlesque business that would not be tolerated in the Christmas pantomimes before the war are now interpolated even in musical comedies. A people under stress seek amusement when they resort to the theatre and the rougher forms of slapstick comedy films are in strong demand. But extravagance and not vulgarity should be the keynote of the stories.

* * *

EVEN worse than the sex title for a film is the announcement that children under sixteen will not be admitted to view certain subjects. Clearly they should not be permitted to view films properly belonging to the clinic, but in a majority of instances the sign is not used to protect the juvenile morals; rather to emphasize the suggestion that the subject on view is ultra sensational, if not immoral, and so draw what the Pacific coast forcefully but inelegantly terms "bloodhounds." One western exhibitor, Ralph Ruffner, of the Liberty, Spokane, handles the situation well, even though he does not use the ultra sensational pictures. Many subjects that are proper for adults are not good for children, and when he has one of these he displays no sign, but the cashier quietly tells the children that it is not the sort of story that would interest them and refuses to sell them admissions. If they procure tickets through an older person, the door keeper has instructions to refuse them. It is a better plan and one more apt to make friends. Purely as a business proposition it is unwise to raise expectation too high.

* * *

Empty Promises—Fifty thousand dollars as a subsidy for advertising business, but only after the first fifty thousand goes to the "insiders" then you must not forget the profits promised to the "League." The whale that swallowed Jonah was a "piker" when it comes to swallowing "bait" in these times.

Craftsmen Needed

By Louis Reeves Harrison

WHEN light was thrown on the Statue of Liberty the President spoke of people who love liberty in all parts of the world, saying, "There is a common pulse in us all; there is a common contact with life; there is a common body of hope. This not only means opportunity for the individual, but it also indicates his relation to others. When the individual comes to his full dignity he can look into the eyes of his neighbor and realize that he belongs with him to a common, free community of purpose and thought and action."

There is a drift toward harmony observable in motion picture ranks, but the eternal individual often stands in the way. It is perfectly natural for him to think first of himself. He is compelled to give close attention to his department of work in order to make it a success, but it would not hurt him in the least to rise from that close attention at times and stretch himself mentally, even to the extent of laying aside the absorbing occupation in which he is engaged in order to visit some higher standpoint where he can take a look over the entire field.

It does not hurt any man to leave his anchorage occasionally, if only to scrape off a few of the barnacles which accumulate when one sticks too long to one way of thinking. We are not a lot of receptive vegetables. We are here to receive, it is true, to receive and learn, to live out the best expression of ourselves, to improve what is given us as a contribution to that free community of purpose and thought and action—our real status on earth seems to be that of a tryout, not only to make good as individuals, but for common welfare—of what use would any of us be in a future state if we can't push this one along?

"When an individual comes to his full dignity," when the Exhibitor, the Producer, the Critic, comes to a large comprehension of all that pertains to Screencraft, he realizes fully, and possibly for the first time, that nothing can make this business better for all concerned that does not make it better for the public. I am accused by a clever writer, one who may thoroughly enjoy his own dextrous insincerity, of attempting to get from mediocre production a "perfect" play. What he hopes to convey is that I am straining for the impossible, for what is completely effective and satisfactory in every respect.

There are many people who imagine that the projection of pictures on the screen is so purely mechanical that it requires no skill. A very little investigation will bring out that nice young ladies and gentlemen imagine that there is required no skill to act in the photoplays. Nearly all inexperienced writers in the country, as well as a few millions who have only pen, ink and two arms, imagine that there is required neither native ability nor craftsmanship to write a successful story for screen visualization. Such people may be fairly intelligent, but, like the writer of dextrous insincerity, they have that common human failing, Limited Vision.

For many long years the MOVING PICTURE WORLD has been devoted to the perfecting of all departments of production and exhibition. Through suggestion, through example, through discussion, through criticism, there has been a consistent effort made to improve all the units of performance, with the helpful idea of encouraging general excellence and thus making the entire product, as nearly as it is possible to do so, completely effective and satisfying to the public.

Barnum said that there is a fool born every minute. A fool is defined as "one who is deficient in judgment or sense." We do not expect babies to have judgment and sense—they are born every minute—but we take pains to see that they acquire what they lack. We educate them—there is a common pulse in us all—and that is very much the sort of attitude we should take toward those members of a mixed audience who are not overburdened with good judgment and common sense. We are not rising to our dignity as men and women when we play down to the lowest forms of intelligence, when we cater to mental weakness instead of to those qualities which make for fine manhood and womanhood.

If I have been concerned about the truth of what is presented to those half-formed minds, and about the quality of presentation, it is because many of the difficulties with which we seem to be vainly struggling, against which there has been a vast amount of futile rant, would vanish of themselves before the strong glow of thought and feeling in screen production of the highest possible kind we can attain. The great, big, absorbing question is to elevate the quality of product.

Neither intellect nor imagination is required to repeat a lot of old stock phrases like "there is a fool born every minute"; a parrot can say them, and men are worse than parrots who try to replace logic with rant. "Ready-to-wear intelligence," says Herbert Kaufman in one of his vigorous editorials, "is quite inexpensive—probably the lowest-priced service in the market. Brains stuffed by formula seldom exhibit brilliance and resource." "Whatever is easily duplicated," such as adaptations, "is sold cheap." He insists that success cannot be attained "unless the spirit of originality is stimulated."

There is no doubt that average adaptation furnishes a producer the cheapest possible method of providing a play, "the lowest-priced service in the market." "The scarcest commodity is the knack of thinking along new lines." And it is not ordinarily to be had for a few hundred dollars, such as the adaptation usually costs. If it is true that we can never make this business any better for ourselves by a policy which does not make it better for the public, why are we adhering to a policy of adaptations discarded in all other arts of expression but our own? Why provide a monotony of beaten tracks for the public?

Efficiency methods are applied to nearly all branches of the business of visualizing stories—why not to the stories themselves? Our common purpose is to provide what is new and attractive in this beautiful and marvelous art of expressing thought and feeling. We know that people would be drawn and held by powerful presentments of those subjects in which most of them are deeply interested. Successful stage plays can only be written by those who know how to write for stage presentation, and the same general principle applies to all other arts of expression. There is such a thing as Screencraft.

There are thousands of capable writers in this country, including the gentleman of dextrous insincerity, and there are many hundreds who know how to tell an interesting story, but, outside of the studios, there are comparatively few who have any knowledge of Screencraft. They will acquire it rapidly enough when producers make it worth their while. The same stimulus to effort must be accorded them that started production and exhibition. Once the big central idea of production is provided, many minor vexations will disappear of themselves.

A Kick on the Deposit System

By Sam Spedon

WE fully appreciate the righteous indignation of a self-respecting and responsible business man, which no doubt dictated the letter below and we cannot refrain from giving space to its expression.

December 25, 1916.

Moving Picture World, New York.

Gentlemen—Is it possible that the exhibitor will always let the film manufacturers treat them as dead-beats or carry their business for them by putting up a deposit for from two to four weeks? And some of the new ones are demanding more than that. Any man who has any credit is certainly jealous of it and I for one would do business with any company if they would do business with responsible people on business principles the same as any business man does. The good accounts should not have to suffer for the bad accounts.

So long as the exhibitor will agree to let them dictate to them as to what service they give them, whether good, bad or indifferent, and the exhibitor will put up his money in advance to run their business with, it certainly makes it very easy for the manufacturers and exchanges. The exhibitors are certainly easy.

The manufacturers are figuring to get the exhibitors' money in advance regardless of the kind of pictures he gives you or the kind of service you sign for, including slides, photos, as well as so much paper, which often you do not get. Either your paper will be late or you will receive a note saying, will send tomorrow, but it never comes. Again they send the films out too late to reach you for your show and claim it is no fault of theirs, yet they have our money. What are you going to do? They say it is the express company's fault, and we will see that you get your loss. But in seven years I have never gotten one penny due me from any company yet.

I trust that you and the exhibitors will take this matter up and see where we all stand.

Very respectfully yours,

There are always two sides to every question. The exchanges must protect themselves against "dead-beats" and the exhibitors must protect themselves against imposition.

The just always suffer with the unjust. But it does seem there should be some distinction between the two, whether it be the exchange or the exhibitor.

There is evidently a disposition on the part of the exchanges and manufacturers round and about New York, to do away with the deposit system just as soon as they can safe-guard themselves against irresponsible exhibitors. To this end they have associated themselves with the Hoy Agency, which furnishes the exchanges with a report of the financial responsibility of each exhibitor. If an exhibitor is in arrears with one exchange, he is immediately reported to all the other exchanges, at the end of each week and he is cut off from any other service in the association.

The responsible exhibitor is agreeable to this method, but claims it should automatically do away with the deposit system. When the exchanges or manufacturers impose both, the exhibitor considers they are adding insult to injury.

The local exhibitors league of New York City has asked the exchange managers, members of the F. I. L. M. Club, to arbitrate the question of deposits, for the presentation of their side of it; a privilege they have never been accorded. If this meeting is brought about it is possible the matter will be fully discussed and amicably settled to the satisfaction of all concerned.

We certainly hope this "get together" will take place very soon. We will all watch for the results, anticipating a happy solution of the problem.

We might add, as another indication of which way the straws are blowing, that it was a very gratifying bit of news to hear that the K-E-S-E exchanges gave interest to the exhibitors on all deposits on their service. No doubt others will follow their example.

There are so many angles to the problem, as suggested by the letter quoted above, it is hardly possible to analyze each one specifically. It appears to a person on the outside looking in, that there should be some way of separating the sheep from the goats, or the honest men from the "crooks." This matter might possibly come within the province of the N. A. M. P. I. or the National Exhibitors' League.

Are American Producers Provincial?

ONE of the trade papers published in France reached our desk the other day. In ante bellum times it could be compared favorably with the MOVING PICTURE WORLD, "La Vita Graphica," "The Bioscope," and other widely known trade publications, but a copy of Cine-Mundial, our international organ, stood up like a giant before this "war edition." We looked it over with a feeling of pity mingled with the deepest respect. The titanic struggle in which France is enacting such an important role is playing sad havoc with her business enterprises and even more especially with her artistic life, including the production of films. The misfortunes of France do not inspire any rejoicing, even if some of our industries are benefiting in the meantime.

In the middle of the first page of our esteemed French contemporary a dozen lines in bold type announces the monthly French production of films and just below there was an article on world conditions, of which the following is a rather free translation. The article contains much food for thought on the part of our film manufacturers and directors, for the Griffiths, Inces and others who are responsible for the plots, stories, themes and subjects of our productions. Do they lack the essence of that universal appeal that makes Shakespeare belong not to the country of his birth but to the whole world? Are they built around plots and themes of merely American color and local appeal? What of the world's market, of which we are trying to secure a share, if this is true? And not only the world markets but may there not be the germ of an idea here as to how the pictures may secure and hold larger and more appreciative audiences among our own people? These are the main points in the argument of the French editor:

Before the war we set the standard for the world to follow. Our brands were known and admired in every corner of the globe. Not only were we recognized as the pioneers of the industry, but our films bore the seal of superiority in the international marts. They were acknowledged as the best! our art had no peer.

Then came the war.

We stood still for two years.

At this moment we are rapidly losing our grip on the world markets. In the scramble for the place we held abroad, a new producing center has appeared in competition and is forging ahead of all others. Powerful in money and other material resources, its success seems assured for the time being. Will it be able to retain the international trade when conditions become normal?

We do not think so; in fact, we are sure it will not. France will come again into her own, as a river follows its even course after the storm.

Let us examine what this new competitor has to offer.

During the past two years we have observed the rise of a product which is only artistic in name. Exotic, local, wofully provincial in plot and viewpoint, its temporary ascendency rests on mechanical perfection—technique, entirely on technique and nothing else. Made in a country mentally isolated up to a few years ago, whose prejudice has been pampered to such an extent that the most childish claims are passed around as facts even among the so-called cultured classes, it lacks broad international appeal. The scenarios of its most lavish productions are based on themes of no interest whatever to the rest of the world. Many of the problems which its playwrights rave about were solved in Europe and Latin-America centuries ago. There is only one thing in which the transatlantic competitor excels, and this is the prop supporting the whole edifice of its present success in foreign countries: technique—wonderful photography, magnificent settings, superb acting.

But even this advantage will be of no avail against the commercialism of the five-reeler; the padding and condensing which is the unavoidable sequel of a standard length will soon tire the most complaisant audiences.

Give Us Both, and More of One Than the Other

By Sam Spedon.

"THIS picture is not going to be an artistic success and a financial failure. It is going to make money for us and the exhibitor." This remark overheard in a public elevator caused us to turn around and take notice. It is too bad we didn't get the gentleman's address so we could publish it for the benefit of the exhibitor, that is the kind of picture he wants.

One question is paramount in the mind of the exhibitor: "Is it a money maker?" The producer hopes so. "Don't you let anybody tell you different."

An artistic success isn't necessarily a financial failure. Let us have both, but give us the financial success by all means.

Very few of us in the motion picture business are indulging in the art for art's sake alone; that takes barrels of money. We are all willing to sacrifice art for the sake of commerce. We are all talking about bringing it down to a commercial basis.

A manufacturer who produces a classic is to be commended—if it is financially practical and profitable.

We are often governed by the high-brows and the big sounding phraseology of educated theorists instead of trusting to our own judgment and experience as showmen.

We have seen some magnificent pictures, masterpieces, within the last two years. Other producers emulate them and try to make something "stupendous," "superb." They build at tremendous expense, with the sky as the limit and, like the tower of Babel, they bring about confusion and their construction falls in hopeless disappointment.

It is just as bad to be too far ahead of the times as it is to be too far behind them; neither is practical. Very few of us can appreciate a Carot or a Rembrandt, but all of us can and do enjoy a picture that is within our appreciation, and appeals to the best that is within us.

It is admitted and quoted with pride that the motion picture theatre is the theatre of the masses. It takes time to educate the masses and the motion picture is doing it. Let us hasten slowly. We must not get too far ahead of them nor too far above them.

The manufacturer is apt to forget that it was through the masses he became rich. He may feel that he is now of the class classy. He must not forget that he is doing the greatest good for the greatest number and that number is not number one. He is appealing to the masses, who are in the majority, and not the class, which is in the minority.

History repeats itself. We have a new generation every four years. This is the salvation of the show business in its many ramifications; it is the life of trade. Every generation has the same red-blood and the same emotions as the one that has gone before it. If the pictures give them what they want they will want the pictures.

Moving pictures are no longer a novelty, they are a necessity. The producer will continue to make, and the exhibitor to show them as long as they can do so profitably. They want artistic and financial successes, both if possible, but preferably the latter.

Do Your Bit For Sunday Opening

IF the Continental volunteers hadn't paid attention to Paul Revere's warning in his historic ride through the New England settlements, we would not to-day be living in the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Loyal and faithful supporters of the industry are in the saddle warning us of a threatened encroachment on our rights. We should stand by these leaders and help them fight the common enemy, who threatens our freedom and rights as free and independent citizens.

If we stand inanely by, we will not only be deprived of our Sunday recreation, but will be further burdened with unjust taxation and dictatorial censorship.

This is not a cry of "wolf," nor a joking matter. You may have a lamb or two to spare, but we must help the poor devil who only has one to his name. If we do not kill the wolf now at our door, it will not be long before he will kill us.

One of our most enthusiastic supporters and workers in the industry, a liberal contributor of his time and money, a representative producer made personal appeal to some of his fellow producers to help the cause, with very discouraging results. They were so busy, evidently, that they thought he was presumptuous and encroaching upon their time.

He was not soliciting alms, he was trying to interest them in their own concern, but they did not realize it or didn't care to.

Do you know that the Sunday closing means a loss of one-fifth the business of the entire week, each week. Does this mean anything to the manufacturer? If it means this loss to the exhibitor it means just as much to the producer.

The New York state exhibitor has agreed to contribute his quota at the rate of three cents a seat according to the seating capacity of his house. This means that each theater will give from seven dollars and a half to ninety dollars towards a fund to contest the law before the supreme court and present a bill, at the next state legislature for the repeal of this blue law. These things must be done now within the next ten days.

We hope the manufacturers and other interests of the industry will do as much and not sit idly by, like Nero who fiddled during the destruction of Rome.

NEW YORK OPERATORS TO DANCE.

The announcements and tickets for the fourth annual reception and ball of Local 306, I. A., the New York Moving Picture Machine Operators' Union, which is to be held Sunday, January 14, at the Central Opera House, 205-223 East Sixty-seventh street, are out, and from all indications the "boys behind the projection guns" are going to surpass all previous efforts along these lines. A host of picture stars have signified their intention of being present.

Special lighting effects under the direction of experts from the Precision Machine Company and the Nicholas Power Company will add to the novelty of the occasion. The music will be supplied by Thomas Usher's metropolitan concert orchestra.

Several interesting novelties also are being arranged, for No. 306's boys have the reputation of doing things right, as those who had the good fortune to attend last year's ball can testify, and they hope to see every manufacturer, exchangeman and exhibitor represented at this event.

Tickets admitting a couple at $1 and boxes at $25 are on sale and may be obtained from any union operator or will be mailed on receipt of remittance to the local's headquarters at 145 West Forty-fifth street.

Motion Picture Men Discuss Defense Measures

Representative Gathering Lunch at Delmonico's and Make Preparations to Fight Sunday Closing Laws—To Raise Large Fund

UNDER the auspices of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry a luncheon was given at Delmonico's, New York City, Tuesday, January 2, for the purpose of meeting ex-Judge William Seabury and John B. Stanchfield, who are the choice of the association for counsel in handling the Sunday closing question to be presented before the Court of Appeals of the State of New York and the New York State Legislature this month.

There were fifty representative men of the industry present. Judge Seabury was the first speaker. "What we want," he said, "is to put to the court the question of whether or not Sunday film shows are illegal under the statute. Everybody in the industry must realize the finality of the decision which we are seeking. From the Supreme Court there is no appeal within the state. The Bender case carries with it the question of public nuisance. If nuisance can be proved, the decision will undoubtedly be adverse, as that is a totally different issue from the one involving the legality of the Sunday motion picture entertainment. The case should be kept simple, and that a rational interpretation of the Sunday statute be suggested to the court. I feel confident that if the case were argued under such conditions a favorable decision would result, especially as the court has never before been called upon to pass upon this question and will not be in the position of having to reverse itself.

"There are two elements of the elasticity of the law affecting moving pictures on Sunday. The first element refers to legislative amendments, while the second refers to judicial interpretation. In regard to legislative action it would be well to go slowly at present, because any move in the Legislature would be looked upon, in any quarters, as a general assault on the Sunday observation law.

"It is necessary to have a case go to the Court of Appeals that would be lacking in complications. The fact is that the Court of Appeals has, as yet, not ruled on the question."

John B. Stanchfield said that if the Court of Appeals should render an adverse verdict there would remain no loophole for the theater owner, for any official who would fail to obey such a mandate would be apt to lose his position through removal by the Governor.

It would make no difference, said Mr. Stanchfield, how the Mayor or Police Commissioner of a town personally might feel about the law once the verdict is handed down he would be obliged to do his duty or suffer impeachment or imprisonment. The Bender case, involving Sunday shows, was mentioned by the attorney, and was held as a case which not only was complicated, but hardly representative.

W. A. Brady, president of the association, and W. W. Irwin, chairman of the Executive Committee, impressed upon those present that it was imperative that they get busy at once, raise funds to employ counsel and get immediate action, as the case would be argued not later than January 11. Mr. Brady said he had called on different branches of the industry for contributions for a fund of $25,000, necessary to start the campaign on Sunday closing, but had met with very discouraging results. Ben B. Hampton, of the General Film, suggested that professional solicitors be employed to raise the necessary amount. This proposition met with general favor. A call for contributions was made to the guests and about $10,000 was subscribed at once.

It was the consensus of opinion that the larger exhibitors like Loew, Moss and other owners of theatrical chains should subscribe more liberally than other exhibitors of lesser interests.

W. C. Hubbard, of the Rochester, N. Y., Exhibitors' League, declared the disposition of the Rochester exhibitors to contribute whatever amount they were called upon to furnish as their share, and they would contribute liberally.

P. C. Cornell, of the Buffalo Exhibitors' and Theatrical Managers' Association, in behalf of that association, announced their willingness to give $10,000 if necessary.

David Cohen, of Binghamton, said that he represented two theaters in Binghamton, but they would stand their share without hesitation. To confirm this he subscribed $125 now and there was $125 more awaiting the call.

E. F. Albee, of the Vaudeville Managers' Association, not an exhibitor, contributed $500. He said he realized that the Sunday closing law would affect his artists as well as the moving picture exhibitors. He also declared himself ready to do anything within his power to assist the motion picture cause.

Samuel H. Trigger reported progress in the collection of funds from the New York City exhibitors. He suggested that the same proportion of three cents a seat be assessed from all managers throughout the state. This led to some discussion. The opinions prevailed that this might be a basis, but it should not prevent anyone contributing as liberally as he felt disposed.

The amount subscribed at the luncheon was to be the nucleus of a general fund of $25,000 necessary. In addition it was proposed to include all the different branches of the industry in a general assessment at once and then organize a periodic assessment every week, or every month, of a stated amount to establish a permanent fund to meet any question, like the Sunday closing law, censorship, etc., which might arise from time to time, in different parts of the country, on the same principle as the vaudeville association, which now has a fund of $200,000 in reserve.

The amounts subscribed at the luncheon were: Adolph Zukor, $1,000; World Film, $500; the International, $500; Universal, $500; General Film, $500; Frohman, $350; J. B. Brulatour, $250; Gaumont, $250; David Picker, $500; Miner Lithograph Co., $100; M. P. News, $250; M. P. World, $250; M. P. Mail, $200; Trade Review, $250; Strand Theater, $500; Rialto Theater, N. Y., $500.

Included at the luncheon were: A Lichtman, Hiram Abrams, P. A. Powers, W. E. Shallenberger, William L. Sherrill, B. B. Hampton, H. A. Palmer, Harold Edel, Louis Levy, Samuel Spedon, T. E. Oliphant, J. Felter, David Cohen, J. E. Brulatour, Herbert Blache, E. A. MacManus, Adolph Zukor, Walter W. Irwin, Joseph A. Golden, F. G. Bradford, W. W. Hodkinson, Lee A. Ochs, John B. Stanchfield, Louis L. Levine, H. N. Holde, James Beecroft, E. F. Albee, W. H. Kemble, William A. Brady, William M. Seabury, Frederick H. Elliott, Wallace Thompson, H. P. Luce, Jesse L. Lasky, Peter C. Cornell, Frank Powell, I. E. Chadwick, Samuel Goldfish, Edgar Selwyn, Samuel H. Trigger, Samuel Seabury, W. H. Johnston, Tracy H. Lewis, Charles R. Condon, W. C. Hubbard, Edwin Thanhouser, Walter J. Moore and Fritz Tidden.

F. I. L. M. Club Completes Delivery Plans

Selects for Handling Films a Bonded Company Which Will Relieve Exhibitors of Responsibility.

A SPECIAL meeting of the F. I. L. M. Club was held at the Hotel Astor on Thursday, December 28, for the discussion and adjustment of the transportation of films to and from the theaters. The members present were Mr. Abeles, representing the Pathe Exchange; Mr. Engle, of the International; Mr. Saunders, of the Metro; Mr. Gainsborough, of Universal, and Mr. Buxbaum, of the General Film.

A plan was decided upon and arrangements will be made with the Interborough Delivery Company as a common carrier for the delivery and collection of the films. This company is bonded and responsible for the safety of the films while in transportation. This plan will relieve the exhibitor of all responsibility and insure him his service regularly and without delays. He is entirely covered in this way, and it is now up to the exchanges and the Interborough to see that his service is always forthcoming.

The cost of delivery, however, will be up to the exhibitor, about $5 a week for deliveries and collections, but considering that he is insured against losses and delays, it is very much to his advantage. The Interborough will start its deliveries on Monday, January 8.

MR. LAZARUS SEEKS A FLORIDA STATE RIGHT.

Mr. Lazarus, of St. Augustine, Fla., is in the city looking for a good five or six-reel picture which may be exploited as a Florida state right subject. Mr. Lazarus will be in the city several weeks. His office during that time will be in Room 806, 145 West Forty-fifth street.

Mr. Lazarus, who has had theatrical experience, both in pictures and with road shows, says business just now is good in his home state. This is true especially of the winter resort towns, of which St. Augustine is one, where the season lasts until the middle of April.

Breitinger Quits as Chief Keystone Censor

Action Result of Fight for Political Control of State—Dr. Oberholtzer Probable Successor

J. LOUIS BREITINGER, chairman of the Pennsylvania Board of Censors for Moving Picture Films, has been requested to resign by Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh. The action is part of a brisk political fight for the dictatorship of the state between forces led respectively by Senator Boise Penrose and the Vare brothers. Mr. Breitinger is a Penrose follower, being one of the leaders of the Thirty-seventh ward of Philadelphia, and in view of the bitter fight for the speakership of the House of Representatives the Governor's action was not unexpected. Other state officials who are aligned with the Penrose faction have also been asked to resign.

In response to the Governor's letter Mr. Breitinger has sent the following communication:

"There is quite a good deal of work in connection with the system and details of the work of the offices and will require my straightening out matters in Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Philadelphia, and opportunity ought to be afforded me to do this, especially so as the two holidays intervene. I therefore suggest that you permit the time of resignation to take effect as of January 15, 1917."

Governor Brumbaugh replied: "The suggestion in your letter that your resignation be accepted to take effect January 15, 1917, is approved by the Governor."

The affair naturally has created a stir in film circles and speculation is rife as to Mr. Breitinger's probable successor. The consensus of opinion seems to indicate Dr. Ellis Paxson Oberholtzer, who, with Mrs. Ella C. Niver, constitute the board. Dr. Oberholtzer and Governor Brumbaugh are close personal friends, their intimacy dating from the time when the Governor was superintendent of schools, and Dr. Oberholtzer is therefore the most likely candidate.

During Mr. Breitinger's tenure of office charges have often been made that he was running the office for political purposes, but these charges were never made specific.

The "dictatorial attitude" of the board has caused frequent complaint among the film men of Vine street. Several suits have been entered by film men to test the legality of the board's rulings and they have resulted in the novel spectacle of films being shown in the courtroom. In addition to suits brought by film men against the censors, a proposal once actually was made for his removal. A telegram was sent to Governor Brumbaugh but the action was dropped when the immediate difficulties that led to it were smoothed over. This occurred in March of last year, and since that time dissatisfaction has frequently expressed itself in various ways.

Among the prominent men of the industry varying degrees of opinion as to the affair were expressed. So prominent a man as Stanley V. Mastbaum is understood to have voiced his admiration for Mr. Breitinger as a man, and it is remembered that at the dinner given by Mr. Mastbaum recently to the Stanley Exhibitors' Association the censor occupied a place of honor. In some quarters there is therefore a tendency to recognize Breitinger as an able man performing an unpleasant duty to the best of his ability.

On the other hand there were many outspoken expressions of satisfaction from those who had felt the rigors of the censor's decisions. Several exchangemen said that, although the request for his resignation was evidently but one move in a large political game they would have no hesitation in reaping the advantages which might come from the appointment of a broader-minded man.

Famous Players-Lasky Stockholders Meet

Increase Capitalization to $20,000,000 to Cover Paramount Absorption—Another Banker Added to Directorate

THE increasing of the capitalization from $12,500,000 to $20,000,000 and the election of another prominent banker to its already distinguished directorate were among the important events of the stockholders' meeting of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation held at the offices of the concern at 485 Fifth avenue on Tuesday, Jan. 2.

The fact that the increasing of the capitalization from $12,500,000 to $20,000,000 is a very conservative move will be seen from the fact that the former figures represent the capitalization of the corporation when it comprised only the Famous Players Film Company, Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company and Pallas Pictures. The capital of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, which was recently absorbed by the producing combine furnishing its program, was $10,000,000. Thus the new capitalization represents a reduction of two and a half millions in the combined capital.

At the meeting, William H. English, vice-president of the Empire Trust Company, was added to the board of directors and the following were re-elected for a term of four years: John F. Frederick, cashier German-American Bank; Frederick G. Lee, president Broadway Trust Company; William C. Demorest, president Realty Trust Company and a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce; Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Arthur S. Friend, Daniel Frohman, Emil E. Shauer, Albert A. Kaufman, Elik J. Ludvigh and Cecil B. De Mille continue as members of the board.

The directorate was increased from twelve to twenty, the eight new members to be elected at the next meeting of the present board, which takes place January 8.

After the presentation of the annual report, which showed a big surplus had been accumulated during the year, a resolution was presented by the stockholders, 80 per cent. of whom were present, thanking the officers and directors of the corporation for their successful administration of the affairs of the concern and expressing confidence in their continued management.

In replying to the resolution, Adolph Zukor, president of the corporation, pointed out that the growth of the concern to its present size and importance had been a gradual and a healthy one. He drew attention to the fact that the ideals and principles for which the present corporation stood had all been tested out successfully by the individual companies which it comprises—that the Famous Players, Lasky, Morosco and Pallas Companies had each proved the efficiency of its own methods as an individual and that the similarity of these aims and ambitions had given every reason for the belief that their individual success was only an indication of the possibilities which their combined strength would offer.

In closing, Mr. Zukor referred to the adding of Mme. Olga Petrova and Margaret Illington to the long list of stars appearing on the Paramount Program and assured his hearers he saw nothing ahead for 1917 but the eclipsing of all past records of achievement.

MARJORIE RAMBEAU, MUTUAL'S NEW STAR.

Marjorie Rambeau, the popular Broadway actress and the star of Al H. Woods' great current success, "Cheating Cheaters," who has just been signed by the Frank Powell Producing Corporation to appear in a series of six photodramas to be released through the Mutual, made her first real success in the role of "Merely Mary Ann." It was with the Oliver Morosco stock company at the Burbank theater in Los Angeles, and it marked the beginning of a big career for the charming actress of the dramatic stage.

HERBERT BRENON REPORTED ILL.

Herbert Brenon, head of the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation, is reported seriously ill in a hotel in Wilmington, Del. Typhoid fever is threatened. At the time of going to press it was said at Mr. Brenon's office it would be several days before there could be a complete diagnosis.

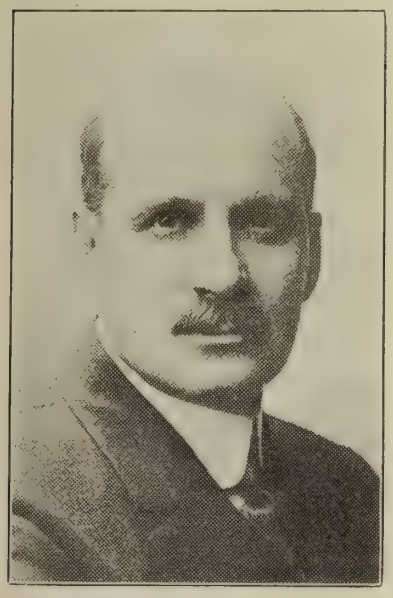
A Few Quotations—It is just as easy for the "leopard to change his spots" as for a grafter to do straight open above-board business. "What's bred in the bone is hard to take out of the flesh." What they all say:—"If we can only put this over, we will be able to 'clean up.'"

Fox Ambassador Returns from Abroad

Joseph R. Darling Absent One Year Opening Offices and Furthering His Company's Interests.

JUST a year to a day from the time he started on a twenty-eight thousand mile trip to open Fox offices and generally to look after the interests abroad of William Fox, Joseph R. Darling returned to New York. In the course of his journey Mr. Darling visited England, France, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Brazil, Argentine, Uruguay, Paraguay, Chile and Peru. In the British Isles he opened Fox offices in London, Leeds, Newcastle, Manchester Liverpool, Glasgow, Birmingham and Dublin, eight in all. In South America offices were opened in Buenos Aires, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro.

Mr. Darling declared his trip had been successful. To a World man he showed his passports. He had been asked if there were not obstacles these days placed in the way of foreigners who sought to do business in the countries at war. Mr. Darling exhibited his credentials signed by Secretary of State Lansing and then brought out his identification books, issued to travelers in England and France. In England, for instance, a stranger arriving in a city is obliged to register with the police, to explain his business and to give his address. When starting for another city it is necessary that the local police be informed as well as the authorities of the destination city upon arrival. Particularly are these rules enforced in the restricted districts, in localities where there are munitions plants. The identity book, with the stamps of the different officials, constituted a record of his itinerary. With the British Government spending millions of pounds a day in the prosecution of the war, Mr. Darling said it was to be expected there would be a lot of money spent by the workers for entertainment purposes, and of this money the picture theaters got their full share. Then, again, men who in all their lives had never earned a penny through their own exertions were doing manual labor in the factories.



Joseph R. Darling.

Mr. Darling left England on August 4, and after stopping on the Continent proceeded to South America. In and around Paris he had visited the Pathe and Gaumont studios and found them given over to soldiers. The French theaters he visited were doing fairly well. The soldiers on leave lose no opportunity to attend the picture shows. Speaking of the causes leading up to the former command of the South American markets by Europeans the Fox representative pointed out that an average of ten steamers leave England for South America every month.

One of the steps necessary for American producers, Mr. Darling said, was the registration of trade marks. He cited one instance of the representative of "The Birth of a Nation" being held up in a South American country by some one who had had the business foresight to register the subject. The holder of the "rights" only wanted $4,000 to surrender them. There was only one thing to do, and it was done—the name of the production was changed for that particular country.

In the beginning there was a disposition in South America not to encourage the exploitation of American subjects. It was even suggested to Mr. Darling that it might not be a bad plan to take his films under his arm and sail for home. Mr. Fox suggested that it would be a good plan first to show the subjects, and then if they were not liked there would be plenty of time to take them back home. It was the showing that paved the way. Today Fox films are shown in thirty-one of the principal theaters of Buenos Aires, a city with a population of 1,450,000, by the way. It is interesting to note the concentration of population in the South American cities. The population of Argentina is 7,200,000. As another example, Montevideo holds 350,000 of Uruguay's 1,300,000 inhabitants. Brazil, however, looms big with its 24,000,000 population, of which 1,200,000 are in Rio Janeiro.

Speaking of advertising, Mr. Darling said in England the firms which have films to rent exploit their goods in the trade papers. Very little newspaper space is employed. In the Argentine the publicity is paid for by the renter, while in Brazil the exhibitor goes to the daily papers to reach his customers. The manufacturer who would reach the exhibitor depends on the trade papers.

Asked as to the effect upon American prospects of the ending of the war and the opening up of the European studios, Mr. Darling said it distinctly was up to the American manufacturer so thoroughly to establish his position in South American that he would be equipped to meet the Europeans on their own ground. The countries to the south of us are not partial to distinctly American productions, that is, those in which there is a sectional touch. They prefer those that have what might be termed universal appeal, where the theme is international rather than national.

Mr. Darling showed the World man a program of a recent Buenos Aires entertainment contributed by the Fox exchange which netted $500 for the fund for blind French soldiers.

The Fox ambassador has not lost his interest in the doings of the various film groups. It will be recalled Mr. Darling represented the government in the long hearings that were held in the suit against the Motion Picture Patents Company. He has had much business experience in South America, having in past years represented many American concerns in the countries to the south of us. He speaks both Spanish and French.

Asked if he saw anything of the Moving Picture World while away, Mr. Darling smiled. "I met up with it everywhere," he said. "I remember one instance in Chile I was talking with a buyer who asked me about a certain picture. I shook my head. He asked me about another, and as he did so he reached up on his desk and pulled down a copy of the World. He pointed to the advertisement of the film of which he had spoken and asked me to translate the descriptive phrases. The general subject suited him. He took out his check book and sent on to the manufacturer a draft for the picture."

GEORGE FISHER TO APPEAR WITH MISS MINTER.

George Fisher, the handsome juvenile leading man, has been engaged by Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Corporation to play opposite Mary Miles Minter in Mutual Star productions.

Mr. Fisher's first appearance in support of the Mutual's attractive young star, will be in "The Gentle Intruder," Miss Minter's sixth Mutual production on which she recently started work at the studios of the American Film Company, Inc., at Santa Barbara, Cal. He will appear in the role of "Arnold Baxter," a spoiled and pampered son, who finds real manhood through the efforts of his little cousin—"the gentle intruder."

George Fisher was born in Michigan and educated in Milwaukee, Wis. His professional career began with stock companies in Milwaukee, Kansas City, and South Bend. Next he turned his energies toward the vaudeville stage, which led to the pictures. Recently, Mr. Fisher has been connected with the Ince studios.

SHIRLEY MASON ATTAINS STARDOM IN "PASSION."

McClure Pictures announces that "Passion," starring Shirley Mason, supported by George Le Guere, will be the third of the Seven Deadly Sins, the group of five-reel features to be released through the Triangle exchanges. The seven are to be released at weekly intervals, beginning the latter part of January.

In "Passion," Shirley Mason attains genuine stardom. In the other Seven Deadly Sins, the dainty McClure actress shares honors with other famous actors and actresses but in the third deadly sin she is pre-eminent.

CECIL B. DE MILLE RETURNS TO COAST.

Cecil B. DeMille, Lasky director general, who came to New York City from the Lasky studios in Hollywood, Cal., to attend the launching of Geraldine Farrar's great spectacular success, "Joan the Woman," which he personally directed, returns to the coast this week.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE ORGANIZER.

In answer to recent inquiries in regard to the Exhibitors' League Organizations and for the information of exhibitors in any of the States, readers will kindly note that Fred J. Herrington is National Organizer for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. All Correspondence on the subject may be addresesd to him at 402 Knox avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

St. Louis Association Growing

Will Consider Question of Joining the National League—To Increase Revenue.

SIX new members were added to the Theatre Managers' and Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of St. Louis, at a meeting held in the Benoist Building, St. Louis, on Friday, December 29. The new members are John J. Macklin, of the Euclid theater; William H. Young, Easton Taylor theater; Edward A. Schwartz, Broadway theater; Mr. Powhattan, Powhattan theater; Louis V. Stephen, Juniata theater, and J. W. Barrett, Knickerbocker theater.

Much of the time consumed was devoted to discussions of the deposit system. The chairman of the grievance committee reported that the Metro Picture Service is not requiring deposits on the "Crimson Stain Mystery," but that deposits are required on the new Bushman-Bayne serial. It was also stated that Metro's district manager, J. Scriball, had been communicated with so that a final reply on the deposit question might be obtained.

The chairman of the legislative committee reported that the committee appeared before the State Tax Commission on the previous Friday and that their arguments made a favorable impression on the Commissioners. It was also reported that indications show that the proposed taxation on motion picture theaters will be tabled. Further reports informing the association that Mr. Cassidy had spoken in favor of the motion picture men and was a friend of motion pictures were made.

The association decided to thank Louis J. Selznick for the stand he took against the deposit system, as outlined in an article in the Moving Picture World. A motion was also passed to thank Lawrence O'Daniel for his speech at the last banquet of the exhibitors and for his friendly attitude toward the whole motion picture industry.

The organization committee, through a motion, was instructed to investigate and report on the advisability of the St. Louis association joining the national league at this time; also to endeavor to evolve a plan by which the association can increase its revenue and to consider ways and means of taking the exchanges and their employees as members of the association to participate in its social functions.

It was decided at the meeting to refer the dispute between the Arsenal theater and the International Film Company to the grievance committee, with instructions that it is the desire of the association that exchanges as well as exhibitors must carry out their contracts in the future.

The following exchanges informed the association that they do not require deposits on serials: Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay, L. C. F. Film Exchange, International Film Exchange, Pathe Exchange, Vitagraph-V-L-S-E, Universal Film Exchange and General Film Company.

Detroit Exhibitors to Meet Monthly

Censorship Question to Come Up in Michigan Legislature in January.

THE Detroit Motion Picture Exhibitors' League has discontinued holding weekly meetings, and hereafter will meet monthly. The first of the monthly meetings was held on Thursday, January 4, at the Hotel Cadillac, at noon. A luncheon preceded the meeting. The executive committee, however, will meet each week at the office of William H. Shiek, secretary, in the Majestic building.

Michigan is again threatened with state censorship. According to Fred Eaton, member of the state legislature from Saginaw, he will introduce a bill at the present session of the legislature—sometime in January—which calls for a state board of censors for motion pictures. This board would be paid for its services and would comprise three people, one a woman. All film would have to be screened before this board prior to its showing in the motion picture theaters. This board would have the right to reject any or all of film, if it so deemed.

"I would provide a reasonable censorship over the films that come into Michigan," he said, "by creating a board of censors, which would meet at Detroit. I would name a small fee that each picture would have to pay the state for censorship. If the picture is passed I would have a seal that would be placed on the picture showing it had the indorsement of the state. My idea would have this board look at pictures not from any prudish standpoint, but from a broad view and would pass the pictures that are intelligent and educating, amusing and instructive."

City Exhibitors Urged to Join League

New York City Branch Reduces Dues and Waives Initiation Fees to Get Members.

AT a meeting of the Executive Board of the New York City league, held at the organization rooms on Friday, December 29, a motion was passed that the annual dues of members should be reduced to $20 beginning January 1, 1917, and the initiation fee be waived. All those paying $5 now will be given full membership, including initiation and other assessments. This action was taken by reason of the fact that the organization is in a prosperous and self-sustaining condition and is no longer in a position where it requires a large membership fee to create a great fund, but is seeking to create a large membership, thus getting the moral support of every exhibitor in the city.

This support is absolutely essential to the welfare of the business. As you are aware, it is our intention to place before the law making bodies of this city certain bills which will greatly benefit our business, and we realize more than ever that we must have strength of number. We expect and hope to receive the support of every man who owns a moving picture theater. We therefore urge you to enroll your name on our books and commence the year 1917 as a member of our association. S. H. TRIGGER, President.

STANLEY ASSOCIATION AND EXCHANGEMEN MEET.

The board of directors of the Stanley Exhibitors' Association of Philadelphia at its meeting Wednesday, December 27, met in conference the representatives of the exchanges in Philadelphia for the purpose of having a heart-to-heart talk looking to the advancement of the interests of producer, distributor and exhibitor during the coming year.

The meeting proved harmonious, and much good is bound to result from the conference. It is the purpose to have the exchangemen and the Stanley Association's board of directors meet at least once a month.

Joseph M. McCready, the president of the Stanley Association, acted as chairman; the other members present were Frank Buhler, vice-president; Charles Segall, secretary; J. F. Delmar, treasurer; Albert Greenfield, Dr. Walter Stuempfig, Columbus Stamper, M. Stiefel, John E. Cook and B. F. Tickner, assistant secretary.

The exchanges were represented as follows: Metro, John D. Clark; General, George Ames; K-E-S-E, Harry Scott; Mutual, B. R. Tolmas; World, Mr. Meeker; Supreme, Mr. Levinson; International, Earl Sweigart; Vitagraph, Joseph Hebrew; Universal, V. Carrick; Interstate, William Sachsenmaier; Artcraft, Boyd Cunningham; Triangle, Herbert Given; Eastern Booking Company, Messrs. Newman and Marcus.

BRONX EXHIBITORS ELECT OFFICERS.

The Cinema Exhibitors' Association of Bronx held their annual election of officers on Thursday, December 28, 1916, with a large attendance of exhibitors of Bronx County. President John J. Wittman was unanimously re-elected for his fifth consecutive term as president of this association. President Wittman, who organized the Cinema Exhibitors' Club, has devoted almost every minute of his time for over four years to advance the interests of the exhibitors of this association, and it made no difference what time of the day or night he was called, he was always Johnny on the spot

Nathan Vinegrad, another staunch supporter of the Association, was elected vice-president. Henry Cole was unanimously elected to the office of secretary, which position he will fill just as energetically as he did the position of vice-president. Samuel Suchman was elected treasurer, and he is sure to be a good one too. John C. Bolte was unanimously re-elected as financial secretary. N. Matchet was elected to a 3-year term as trustee. Dan Newman was elected sergeant-at-arms—he is another of the old guard of the association. Every member present went on record that they would gladly pay the 3-cent assessment per seat of their respective theaters to fight the Sunday closing law.

GENERAL MEETING OF NEW YORK EXHIBITORS.

A general and open meeting of all the exhibitors of Greater New York will be held at the rooms of the Exhibitors' League Local No. 1, 218 West 42d street, on Wednesday, January 10, at 2 p. m.

The object of this meeting is the completion of arrangements for the State Convention to be held at Albany, January 23, 24 and 25, at which time the bills on Sunday opening will be under discussion before the New York State legislature. On this account it was considered wise to change the convention place of the State Exhibitors' League from Rochester to Albany.

The meeting of the local league should be a big one, matters of great importance upon Sunday closing that everyone should know about, besides information of the program to be carried out by the exhibitors who will appear before the legislative committee, to state the exhibitors' side of the Sunday question.

CINCINNATI EXHIBITORS ELECT OFFICERS.

The annual election of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Cincinnati, Ohio, was held with great excitement and much of the flurry of a political contest on December 26, both of the two tickets receiving ample support, which necessitated the official count before the results could be accurately guaged. When the smoke cleared away, however, after the voting, which lasted from two to four o'clock in the afternoon, the results were found to be as follows: President, F. L. Emmert, first vice-president; A. G. Hettesheimer, second vice-president; J. J. Huebner; treasurer, John J. Huss; managing secretary, H. Serkowich; sergeant-at-arms, George F. Horning. Mr. Huebner and Mr. Horning were on the Blue ticket, Mr. Serkowich was on both tickets, and all of the other officers were on the Red ticket.

NEW JERSEY HEADQUARTERS BUSY.

The headquarters of the New Jersey State Exhibitors' League, suite 216, Globe building, Newark, N. J., are the scenes of much hustling and bustling these days. The reason for this atmosphere of business is the great movie ball which will be held Feb. 1 at Kreuger's Auditorium, Belmont avenue and Morton street. F. E. Samuels is the manager of the affair, and all his reports indicate a record-breaking attendance. Mr. Samuels states that already many reservations for boxes have been made, and also that the souvenir program will be a most elaborate and pretentious affair.

Miss Gertrude E. Barnett has joined the headquarters' staff as stenographer and assistant to Mr. Samuels. Miss Barnett will be remembered by all Jersey exhibitors as the office assistant at Fox's local exchange.

CONTEST AT JERSEY EXHIBITORS' BALL.

One of the big features of the New Jersey Exhibitors' Ball, to be held in Krueger Auditorium, Newark, on Thursday evening, February 1, will be a contest for young women who wish to become motion picture actresses. The contest will be held under the direction of the Thanhouser Film Corporation. There are to be five judges—Florence La Badie, the Thanhouser star; a representative of one of the motion picture trade papers, a Newark newspaper representative, a representative of the New Jersey Exhibitors, and a representative of the Screen Club.

The young woman winning the contest will be given a chance with the Thanhouser company. She must be a resident of New Jersey. Applications for the contest will be received by F. F. Samuels, at League Headquarters, 800 Broad street, Newark.

INDIANA LEAGUE MEETING CALLED.

The Indiana Moving Picture Exhibitors' League will hold it regular annual meeting on Thursday, Jan. 18, at Indianapolis in their new headquarters above the Crystal Theater. A very large attendance is anticipated. It will be business from the word go, in line with President Rembusch's idea of exhibitors' conventions, "more business and less play." The Indiana League now has the strongest membership it has ever had.

NEW YORK EXHIBITORS NOTE.

The Rogson Film Co., Inc., with offices in Buffalo and New York, whose advertisement appeared in last week's issue, desire to advise that they only handle the features listed in the State outside of Greater New York. This applies to the complete list except the production, "The Masque of Life," which they book in both the city and state.

Hobart Henley Again in East

ANOTHER picture star to forsake the balmy California atmosphere for the rigorous eastern climate is Hobart Henley, the popular Universal director and leading man, who has left Universal City flat for the exclusive picture circle at Leonia, N. J. Mr. Henley is at present selecting members of the feature company which he will direct at the big Universal studios. He will produce five-act features in which he will also play the leading roles. His host of friends in and around New York will be pleased to learn he is to start work here.

Hobart Henley.

Mr. Henley was born in Louisville, Ky., November 23, 1886. In 1893 he moved with his parents to Cincinnati, where he resided until he was fourteen years old, when he ran away from home to become an actor. His departure was marked by a sudden return to his parential fireside within a few days. He finished his course at high school in Cincinnati and later went to college, where he distinguished himself as an athlete. He was a selection for all-Western full-back in his freshman year.

After completing his college course he realized his ambition to become an actor and joined a traveling stock company. His rise was rapid, and after playing leading parts with famous stock companies he was selected by David Belasco to play the lead in "A Good Little Devil." While he was with Belasco he turned to pictures, with which he has since been connected.

Mastbaum in Million Dollar Theater Deal

Philadelphia Film Man, With Sablosky & McQuirk, Will Build House at Broad Street and Columbia Avenue.

A REAL ESTATE transaction, one of the largest that that particular section of Philadelphia which is termed Central-North Philadelphia has known for many years, and one of the most important deals of its character in the city, has just been completed. By this transaction this part of the city will gain a handsome new theater, and in addition a splendid building for business purposes and stores. The theater will be devoted to photoplays and musical features and it will be under the direction of Stanley V. Mastbaum and Sablosky and McQuirk. Its construction and the erection of the building will give employment to hundreds of workmen.

In the transaction a group of properties 175 feet square at the northwest corner of Broad street and Columbia avenue have been sold by Roy A. Heyman and Brother. The preliminary plans call for the erection of the theater with entrances on Broad street and also stores on the Columbia avenue side. The entire structure will be ornamental in design. Mr. Mastbaum, the managing director of the Stanley company, has original ideas as to the construction of houses of amusement and he has commissioned the architects to make the new theater complete in every detail for safety, comfort and luxury.

It is understood the total amount involved will be more than a million dollars. It is expected this newest picture and vaudeville playhouse will be in full operation early in the year.

Ilean Hume, Metro Ingenue

ILEAN HUME, Metro ingenue, is now a "vampire." She does not look like "a snaky, sinuous creature," and she says she is not a "vampire" at heart. But she supposes she must be a "vampire" because the type has become a regular fireside companion. Miss Hume has been engaged to support Lionel Barrymore in his forthcoming Metro-Rolfe photo-drama, "The Great Green Eye." It was George D. Baker, director of the production, who discovered Miss Hume's ability as a "villainess." She also acted in that capacity under his direction in "The Pretenders," with Emmy Wehlen.

Ilean Hume.

Miss Hume played ingenue parts in "The Kiss of Hate," "Her Debt of Honor," "The Turmoil" and other Metro wonderplays. Her motion picture career has included work with Mabel Normand at the Biograph, with Kalem under the direction of Edmund Lawrence, and with Fox. She is a favorite subject with artists, and is the original of many of the most attractive pictures by Penrhyn Stanlaws. She is an interpretative dancer of charm and ability, and has won many cups for skill in society dancing. Miss Hume had a brief career on the speaking stage. She was in the cast of Rupert Hughes's play, "Miss 318," in which Jessie Busley starred, and played ingenues for a season with the Harlem stock company.

SLADDIN RETURNS FROM WEST.

After an absence of four weeks, during which he traveled extensively throughout the middle west in the interests of "The Crimson Stain Mystery," the sixteen episode superserial, S. G. Sladdin, general representative of Consolidated Film Corporation, is back at his desk.

"Business is very good throughout the middle west," said Mr. Sladdin, "and I found everywhere a high demand by exhibitors for the privilege of presenting 'The Crimson Stain Mystery' in their theaters. This is due to the fact that practically every exhibitor who has shown 'The Crimson Stain Mystery" has become a self-appointed booster for it, and exhibitors everywhere, realizing that "The Crimson Stain Mystery' is one of the biggest money-making serials ever turned out, are anxious to get on the band wagon."

At Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of Jan. 9 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"The Pride of the Clan" at the Strand.

MARY PICKFORD was seen at the Strand Theater the week of Jan. 9 in "The Pride of the Clan." She portrays a Scotch lassie and the character holds out every opportunity to the star for making it one of the most popular parts she has ever created. In other words, it is an ideal Mary Pickford character. The second and last installment of the German war pictures were also shown. Another picture was a new comedy entitled "Did It Ever Happen to You?" in which Victor Moore was the star.

On the musical program were Nadine Legot and Enrico Arenzen, tenor.

Norma Talmadge at the Rialto.

"Panthea," the forceful drama selected for Norma Talmadge's first appearance as a Selznick picture star, was the featured attraction at the Rialto. The play is adapted from the stage version of Monckton Hoffe's story in which Mme. Olga Petrova starred here two years ago. Its motif is based on the supreme sacrifices of which love makes a woman capable, and its scenes in Russia, London, and Paris provide the proper atmosphere for the pictorial development of that theme. Allan Dwan, who directed the picture, chose an unusually capable supporting cast, prominent in which appear the names of George Fawcett, Roger Lytton, and Earle Fox.

As an educational feature amusing studies of lion cubs was shown, also the Rialto Topical Digest. A selected comedy completed the pictorial portion of the bill. Vicente Ballester and Helen Jeffry were the soloists.

"20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" at the Broadway.

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company's eight-part feature photo-drama, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," is in the third week of the run at the Broadway Theater. The thrilling scenes photographed at the bottom of the ocean add sufficient story to satisfy the masses of photo-play "fans," and there is an unusual quantity of scientific knowledge to be derived from the picture. The mysteries of the sea are to a large extent graphically displayed and in such a manner as appeals to old and young alike.

Eighty-first Street Theater Bill.

At the Eighty-first Street theater, four new pictures were shown. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Charles Ray, Dorothy Dalton and Louise Glaum were seen in "The Weaker Sex." A new Keystone comedy was also on the program.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday Wm. S. Hart in "Truthful Tulliver" and a Mack Sennett comedy were the picture features.

MIRIAM COOPER WITH FOX.

Miriam Cooper is the latest addition to William Fox's ever-increasing list of photoplay stars, and will appear under the direction of P. A. Walsh, who staged William Fox's master photodrama, "The Honor System," and who is, incidentally, Miss Cooper's husband.

In the role of "The Little Lady of the Flowers," the leading feminine part in "The Honor System," which will soon have its New York premiere, Miss Cooper gives a performance distinguished for its rare gentleness and delicacy.

Within the next fortnight, Miss Copper—or Mrs. R. A. Walsh, if you choose—will begin work on the west coast on her first starring vehicle for Mr. Fox since "The Honor System."

MUTUAL GETS EDNA GOODRICH.

President John R. Freuler of the Mutual Film Corporation announces the closing of a contract with Edna Goodrich, one of the most popular stage favorites in America, for her exclusive appearance in a series of big features to be released by the Mutual.

Miss Goodrich, who is enthusiastically at work on her plans for this engagement, will begin actual rehearsal on the conclusion of an important vaudeville contract which is now engaging her professional services at the Park Theater, New York. This necessarily sets the date of her picture work ahead some weeks.

Fire Destroys Metro Studio

Plant of the Colonial and Popular Players a Complete Loss —Players Lose Wardrobes.

THE studio of the Colonial Motion Picture Corporation and the Popular Plays and Famous Players Company, 226-230 West 35th street, New York, was burned out Wednesday afternoon, January 3, with a loss of $250,000. Three persons were injured and several firemen were rescued. Olga Petrova, Mahlon Hamilton and Windham Standing had just finished the first reel of the film, "The Waiting Soul." Mme. Petrova asked that the film be developed at once so that any imperfections could be remedied.

Mrs. May Siebel, of 2374 Seventh avenue, received the film from Manager Robert North of the company and was turning it over to her sister, Miss Lillian Reilly, when there came a flash of fire and the clothing of both women caught. North beat out the flames, but the women were burned on their faces and necks. Standing, who had gone to the floor above to change his costume, heard the cry of fire and, only partly dressed, broke a window and jumped to the yard. He cut his right hand and bruised his legs.

Mme. Petrova, who was in the room where the explosion occurred, ran downstairs to her dressing room, where she grabbed a sable coat. She was accompanied to the street by Mr. North. The flames spread rapidly and the cry of fire aroused the thirty-five players on the lower floor, many of whom fled to the street in scanty attire. A fireproof stairway no doubt saved the lives of players and attendants. Fully thirty-five persons escaped by it.

The building was formerly an old church of red brick. When the firemen arrived the interior was all ablaze.

When Mme. Petrova, wearing Palm Beach suit and sable coat, was seen in a nearby apartment, she wept on learning that a film, "To the Death," had been destroyed. She had worked on the picture for three weeks. She said her losses included thirty-five changes of costumes and furs valued in all at between $50,000 and $70,000.

Within a few hours after the fire Mme. Petrova and her company were busy retaking the destroyed scenes of their picture at the Rolfe Studio.

The loss involved in the destruction of these negatives and the plant of The Popular Plays and Players Company has not been definitely computed. Investigation after the fire showed that the blaze was started by a short circuit, Mr. North stated. The excellent appointments of this one of the Metro studios enabled all the occupants of the building to escape without injuries, with the exception of a little singed hair and a few superficial burns and cuts sustained by those attempting to save the finished negatives.

First reports of the losses of the entire wardrobes of all the actors in Madame Petrova's company threatened delay in continuance of the making of the play in which they were engaged. While this famous Metro star lost all of her wardrobe, those belonging to Mahlon Hamilton, Wyndham Standing, H. Cooper Cliffe, Roy Pilcher and Willard de Shields, who are supporting Madame Petrova in this play, were found to be but slightly damaged.

CHAPIN IN ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Benjamin C. Chapin will very shortly release his Lincoln pictures. The Boyhood cycle comprising three episodes will be the first installment, each episode is three thousand feet; make nine reels in all. These episodes, we understand, can be used separately, or in their entirety, each one is a distinct story.

No one has ever characterized Abraham Lincoln as Chapin has. He has made years of research and study of all that has been associated with the martyred President. Every detail, even the minutest has not escaped his notice, hence everything is authentic.

"PATRIA" ON KEITH CIRCUIT.

"Patria," the International's photoplay serial supreme of society and preparedness, will have its first New York showing on the entire B. F. Keith circuit of theaters in Greater New York, commencing Monday, January 15. Arrangements to this end were consummated Friday, January 5, between E. F. Albee and A. Paul Keith, of the Keith Circuit, and executives of the International.

SHERMAN-ELLIOTT IN TEMPORARY QUARTERS.

Pending the completion of their new offices, Sherman-Elliott Company are now temporarily located at 218 West 42d street, New York, second floor. Telephone Bryant 4922.

The New Jersey Insurance Question

National Association Presents Important Suggestions to Insurance Commissioner Brown.

A SPECIAL committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry's committee on fire prevention regulations and insurance called on Atlee Brown, commissioner of banking and insurance of New Jersey, on Wednesday, January 3, and submitted to him the film clause which the national association desires to have incorporated into fire insurance policies on films.

This committee, appointed at a meeting held December 29, consisting of J. E. Brulatour of Eastman Films, Ralph A. Kohn of the Famous Players-Lasky Corp., P. A. Powers of the Universal Film Manufacturing Co., and B. N. Busch of the World Film Corporation, found Commissioner Brown interested in their suggestion and received from him an indication that he would submit it to the underwriters with his recommendation that it be accepted. No legislative action is required, and Commissioner Brown's approval constitutes a virtual order. The insurance companies are anxious to comply with any recommendation which is backed by the unified film interests, such as they are received for the first time in the history of the business in the action of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry.

The committee submitted the following amendments to Commissioner Brown:

First: The values of all negatives, the subject of which have not been issued for public exhibition, or which have been issued for public exhibition for fifteen (15) days or less in any of the places hereinafter mentioned prior to any loss or damage, shall be limited in case of loss or damage to the original cost of any such negatives, but not to exceed $..... per lineal foot and that,

Second: The value of any negative, the subject of which has been issued for public exhibition for sixteen (16) days or more prior to any loss or damage in any place and—or places hereinafter enumerated shall be limited to the cost of said negative subject to Paragraph First hereof, less the aggregate percentages of said cost of places in which said subject has been publicly exhibited. Such percentages being hereinafter allocated.

United States (1% for each state in which the same has been publicly exhibited.)	45%
England	12%
Canada	5%
Australia	3%
Africa	2%
South America	2%
France	2%
Norway & Sweden	3%
Rest of the World	6%
Residual value.	20%

provided, however, that all negatives shall always have and maintain an insurable residual value of 20% or the original cost, and further

Provided, that publicly exhibited as used in this clause shall be interpreted as being shown in any place or places to which an admission fee is charged.

Third: The value of all colored positives shall be limited in case of loss or damage to the cost of replacement to the insured not to exceed in any event 7c. per lineal foot and the value of all other positives shall be limited in case of damage or loss to the cost of replacement to the insured, but in no event to exceed 5c. per lineal foot.

After a very frank discussion of the issues at stake, Mr. Brown declared his approval of the committee's recommendations and extended great hopes that their suggestions would be adopted in whole or in part by the companies writing insurance on films in New Jersey.

CHRISTIE GETS LEADING LADY.

Ellen Gierum, who at the present time is the leading lady with the Warburton Theater Stock Company, Yonkers, N. Y., has been engaged by Benjamin Christie, president of Dansk Biograph Company, to go to Copenhagen July 1 and play the leading feminine role in a photo-dramatic adaptation of "The Wandering Jew," the scenario of which Mr. Christie has prepared.

Miss Gierum is well known in Scandinavia; she received her early dramatic training at the Royal Theater, Copenhagen, and was a member of the Royal Theater Company previous to her arrival in this country. Mr. Christie is well known in this country through his two film successes, "Sealed Orders" and "Blind Justice."

NEW TRIANGLE COAST STUDIO.

The big, electrically lighted, enclosed studio at the Triangle-Fine Arts in Los Angeles is rapidly nearing completion. It is expected that it will be finished about the middle of January. When completed the enclosed studio will cover a floor space 60x120 feet. Other improvements include a new scene dock, covering 60x140 feet, a large paint shop and another open-air stage covering a space 70x200 feet, all of which have been completed.

Ministers Denounce Sunday Pictures

At Meeting in Brooklyn They Urge Raising of $25,000 Fund —Canon Chase Talks About "Rascals."

THAT the exhibitors of New York state will have opposition in their efforts to have declared legal the showing of motion pictures on Sunday was demonstrated at a recent meeting in Brooklyn. The gathering was held under the auspices of the Lord's Day Alliance, and was addressed by such prominent ministers as the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, Canon Chase, the Rev. Dr. David James Burrell, president of the New York Sabbath Association, and the Rev. H. L. Bowlby, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance.

Dr. Young declared that as a result of the popularity of the Sunday showing of motion pictures a loss of 33 per cent. had been noted in the attendance at Sunday schools in the presbytery of Brooklyn, and he added that the same relative loss may be said to be felt in the young people's societies, the Christian Endeavor Society, and that it even extended to the evening prayer meetings. He said $25,000 would have to be raised before victory can be guaranteed.

At the close of the meeting more than $100 was contributed by those present, and a resolution adopted requesting the Legislature at Albany not to be influenced in favor of laws "that would legalize the moving picture business or any other business on the Christian Sabbath."

"This is the biggest fight that the state ever observed," declared Dr. Young. "Lined up against us is the general public's love for pleasure, the screens of the moving picture houses throughout the state, and all those in favor of a loose Sunday and a desecrated Sabbath. On our side are the laws, reaffirmed by the people, who feel that one day in seven should be devoted to spiritual uplift, and those who stand for a chance of the gospel reaching the people, and who do not want the opportunity of training the uprising generation taken from us."

"Who is our foeman?" asked Dr. Burrell. "Is it the people? Do the workingmen want Sunday shows? No. They have repeatedly expressed themselves in favor of six days' work and one day of rest. It is utterly false to say that they want this motion picture business on Sunday.

"We will 'lick them' if they are aboveboard," concluded Dr. Burrell. "If we only had courage to claim our own they would never trouble us and we would never hear from them."

The Rev. H. L. Bowlby, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of the United States, declared that the issue was the greatest crisis that the church has been confronted with in the last decade.

"We want $25,000 from the church in New York state to get after this thing as quickly as possible," declared Dr. Bowlby. "We hear an S. O. S. which cries out 'Save our Sabbath," and we are going to do it, even though we fight against the power of the almighty dollar."

Canon Chase referred to the Justice Platt decision and said that the people are befogged to stand for such a decision. "The law is on our side," he declared, "and we needn't be discouraged. Those rascals can't do anything against us."

BUFFALONIANS ACTIVE IN SUNDAY AGITATION.

The Buffalo Theatrical Managers' Association, Inc., has begun an active campaign in favor of Sunday shows. Slides bearing suitable mottoes relating to the campaign will be used in the various theaters. Petitions in favor of Sunday opening will also be circulated among the audiences of all the local moving picture theaters. The local association has contributed several hundred dollars to the fund for the engagement of Judge Seabury and John B. Stanchfield.

The local members will contribute more funds, if necessary, and will offer a full measure of co-operation in the fight for a modern Sunday. All but twenty-two moving picture theaters of this city have joined the association and new recruits of this city are coming in. The enthusiasm of the organizers and the members promises to be maintained indefinitely.

The association has asked that Mayor Fuhrmann place a member of the association on the local moving picture operators' license board, which now consists of two operators, the fire chief, city electrician and a member of the building department. It is said the mayor favors the request of the association.

MANY SIGN SUNDAY OPENING PLEA

Reports are coming in to the offices of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry on the signatures to the petitions against Sunday closing. These petitions are now being signed in virtually every motion picture theater in New York State, where the slide sent out by the Sunday Closing Committee is being displayed at all performances.

The returns of the first day of reports by a return postal card sent out last week were 15,000, with less than half a per cent. of the theaters heard from.

The exhibitors of the state are rising to the situation with enthusiasm. Hundreds of them are having special cards printed embodying the petition suggested by the Sunday Closing Committee. Others are putting the petition blanks on tables in the lobby and many have attached shelves to the ticket choppers, where patrons can sign standing up, as they enter or leave the theater.

Macauley to Make Peace Pictures

Famous Cartoonist Will Present Subject Under Title "A Place in the Sun."

AT this season of the glorification of all that is new and hopeful, when the entire world is thinking and talking peace, and the warring nations of Europe seem for the first time to be in some liklihood of acting to end hostilities, comes the announcement of the peace play. Ultra-neutral in note; conceived to depict through historical example not only the horrors of war, but also the blessings of peace; built upon the sole propaganda of the right of man, of whatever nativity, to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, the projected drama is to be an exact expression of the heart-throbs of the world today.

Originally intended for stage presentation on the lines of "The Passion Play" and "Ben Hur," the drama will bow to the trend of the times and take the form of a mammoth motion picture production. "A Place in the Sun"—a title at once descriptive of all that the play is intended to convey in its advocacy of the rights of man and of nations, as groups of men—is the name of the drama. The author is Charles R. Macauley, vice-chairman of the Information Committee of the League to Enforce Peace, Associate Editor of "Puck," and president of the Motion Picture Forum, 516 Fifth avenue, New York City, which filmed President Wilson and his cabinet a few weeks ago.

Under the title, "The Prince of Peace," Mr. Macauley, backed by no less a person than Mr. Carnegie, and aided by David Belasco, intended to present the embryo of his drama in 1914. Then came the war, with its whirlwind effect upon the structure of universal peace, which had been erected largely through the efforts of Mr. Carnegie, and the retirement of the latter from active participation in affairs. Production had necessarily to be abandoned for the time. Then, the coming of the war, its causes, and meanings to civilization —while not changing the underlying idea of the drama—compelled the revamping and elaboration of the physical structure. At the same time, the occurrences of the last two years have vitalized the play into a breathing, battling, screaming argument. The academic has become the intensely practical. Mr. Macauley will make detailed announcement of the presentation plans for "A Place in the Sun" in a few days.

BREITINGER TO ADDRESS PRODUCERS.

Louis J. Breitinger, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors, will address a meeting of producers and distributors of motion pictures at the rooms of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry in the Times building on Friday, January 12th, at 3 P. M. He is to be the guest of the National Association, but the meeting is not solely a National Association affair, as all the producers and distributors in New York will be invited to send representatives.

Mr. Breitinger is still chairman of the Pennsylvania Board of Censors, but his resignation has been requested by Governor Brumbaugh, and is to be effective January 15th. He will discuss, at the meeting Friday the causes which underlie censorship agitation in production and advertising of films, of censorship agitation.

JOHN BARRYMORE JOINS BRENON.

John Barrymore has signed a contract to appear under the direction of Herbert Brenon in a photodramatic version of Louis Joseph Vance's popular novel, "The Lone Wolf." This will be Brenon's next Selznick-Pictures production, following "The Eternal Sin," which is now nearly ready for release, and which will introduce Florence Reed in the tragic role of Lucretia Borgia. The finishing touches are being put upon the Victor Hugo story at the Brenon Studio on Hudson Heights, and its release date will be announced shortly. Work on the Barrymore production will begin within the next fortnight.

George Tucker in New York

Chief Producer of London Film Company Returns to His Old Home on Mission of Business and Recreation.

GEORGE L. TUCKER, chief producer and managing director of the London Film Company, is in New York after an absence of three years and three months. In that time Mr. Tucker has established himself in England as a producer of pictures of exceptional merit, pictures that will rank with those made in any country in the world. His success has been watched with gratification by his many friends on this side of the water, but they have not been surprised. It was to be expected, after what he had done in New York prior to his departure.

Mr. Tucker is in this country for a long stay. At present he is resting up, taking in all the shows and likewise studying the best examples of American picture-making of today. As to the subjects produced here Mr. Tucker has never been out of touch, having made it a practice while away closely to follow the work of his former contemporaries. Talking with a World man the other day, Mr. Tucker was enthusiastic over "Joan the Woman." It is his intention to leave New York in a few weeks for a visit to Los Angeles, there to greet many old friends and to look over the western studios.

His decision to take a holiday, Mr. Tucker said, was due to several reasons. One of them that he had had no vacation in six years. Another was on account of conditions created by the continuance of the war, it being practically impossible to make any pretentious pictures in England now. As an illustration the producer said seven assistants of his had been called to the colors, and that in all fifty-seven members of the London Film Company had joined the British forces. A third reason was his desire personally to take up the distribution in this country, in conjunction with the company's American representative, of five of the recent productions of the London Film Company's studios.

These are "The Manxman," by Hall Caine; "Arsene Lupin," by Maurice Le Blanc; "The Hippocrites," which will be released here under another name, by Sir Henry Arthur Jones; "The Mother," by Eden Phillpots, and "The Man Without a Soul," by the English actor, Kennelm Foss.

Mr. Tucker said he heard talk here of over-production, but he declared he could not conceive of such an idea that there can be too many good pictures. "There still remains a great proportion of the public which has not been drawn to pictures," he said. "It should be our aim to go after these. There are many persons whose initial experiences with pictures have been unfortunate—they may have seen mediocre subjects and been led to the belief that all are alike. Of course, the big productions have gone far to educate those more skeptical about the entertainment quality of motion pictures, and undoubtedly it is to these we may look for future converts. I repeat, I cannot believe there can be too many good pictures."

Mr. Tucker was accompanied on his return by Mrs. Tucker, known on the English stage as Elisabeth Risdon. She had been in New York but a few days before she was sought out by Winthrop Ames and engaged for a new play Mr. Ames is shortly to put on.

Linder Finishes First Comedy

"Max Comes Acress" is the Title and K-E-S-E is Swamped With Bookings.

THE first of the Max Linder comedies made by Essanay and to be released through Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay, has been christened "Max Comes Across," and will be released during the latter part of this month. The christening ceremony of this initial comedy of a series of twelve, took place at the Essanay studio, Chicago, Friday afternoon, January 5, and was made the occasion for a celebration at which Mr. Linder and members of the Essanay-Linder stock company served as hosts at an informal reception on the main floor of the big studio.

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay offices throughout the country booked hundreds of theaters by telegraph within three hours after the comedy had been named, and literally thousands of bookings are now supposed to be enroute by mail, as exhibitors throughout the country had been supplied with contract forms and were holding them awaiting word that a name for the comedy had been decided upon.

The Strand, New York's biggest and most ultra-progressive theater, kept the 'phone and telegraph wires busy Friday night, arranging for a private pre-release showing.

The trade showing in New York will probably be in one of the largest theaters of Manhattan because of the great number of exhibitors who have requested reservation at the first showing.

The second Max Linder comedy will be named "Max Wants a Divorce," and will be released thirty days after "Max Comes Across."

Cobe Returns from the Coast

Forms New Distributing Company to Handle Big Feature Productions.

A. J. COBE, vice-president and general manager of the Unity Sales Corporation, who has just returned from an extended tour of the coast and middle west states, says that all indications point to a banner year in the film business for high class productions. After a thorough study of existing conditions he was so impressed, that immediately upon his arrival in New York, he formed the Ultra Picture Corp., a distributing company for the exploitation of the highest grade feature films, which will try and eliminate the main objections to the present system. Although there are still several loose ends to be picked up, the company has started active work. The main office is located at 729 Seventh avenue, New York City, with a chain of exchanges covering the United States.

Contracts have been signed with two of the various large producing companies, which assures the release of twelve high class features yearly, with the option of securing additional meritorious features by purchase in the open market. The main feature of the new company is the elimination of excessive advance payments for high class productions. The exchanges of the company will at all times cooperate with the exhibitor and furnish him with advertising matter to conduct a local campaign which naturally will have an effect on the box office receipts.

The first release will be made January 20, when they will present the California Motion Picture production, "The Woman Who Dared," featuring the well-known prima donna and dramatic star Beatriz Michelena, supported by an all star company.

Fox Art Contest Decided

Pictures Judged and Prizes Awarded at Luncheon Given at Hotel Astor—Dorothy Varian Wins Two Prizes.

AT a luncheon given by William Fox at the Hotel Astor on Thursday, January 4, prizes were awarded in the art contest proposed by Mr. Fox in which he offered $200 in prizes for the three best reproductions of the life size portrait of Annette Kellermann, star of "The Daughter of the Gods," which was displayed in the lobby of the Lyric theater, New York, where the production was being shown.

The Yacht Room of the Hotel Astor was completely lined with the offerings of a hundred or more ambitious young artists when the judges took up the task of picking the winners. Robert Henri, W. J. Glackens, John Sloan and Wallace Morgan were the judges and they made a very careful study of the several examples submitted, deciding finally that Dorothy Varian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Varian, of 301 East 193d street, New York, and an art student, had won the first and second prizes. The other winners are William Gropper, third prize; Anna C. Muller, fifth prize. The winner of the fourth prize was not identified.

Among the guests were Miss Kellermann and her manager, James Sullivan, who is also her husband.

Rumored Sale of Universal

Carl Laemmle Denies Sale of His Stock in Universal and Pleads Ignorance of the Whole Matter.

RUMORS were in circulation in Chicago on Friday, Jan. 5, that plans for a $12,000,000 re-organization of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company had been made, and that Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal, and Patrick A. Powers, treasurer, had agreed to vote the stock they hold towards the consummation of the deal.

The Tribune and the Examiner printed articles in their Saturday morning issues, in which it was stated that the financing of the re-organization plans had been undertaken by a Chicago banking house.

According to the rumor, H. O. Davis, general manager of Universal, was to succeed Laemmle as president, and the name of the Spreckels interests of San Francisco and San Diego, Cal., figured in the transaction.

Carl Laemmle, who arrived in the city by the Twentieth Century Saturday morning, Jan. 6, when approached concerning the matter, denied positively that any transaction of the kind had taken place. He represented that he was entirely ignorant of the whole matter and, therefore, could not have participated in the alleged deal, as rumored and published.

J. S. McQ.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

"The Pride of the Clan"

Mary Pickford's Second Artcraft Subject Is a Charming Picture, Sweet, Wholesome, Moving.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

MARY PICKFORD'S second Artcraft release is a picture that is good to look upon. "The Pride of the Clan" is sweet, wholesome, moving. Practically all of it is in the wide outdoors; and the exteriors are of the upper half of the New England shore, where the ocean smashes into real rocks. We see a genuine New England gale, and it makes for atmosphere. Elaine Sterne has adapted, and adapted well, a story of the western Scotch coast. Director Maurice Tourneur has peopled his scenes with types of fisherfolk who seem, as many of them undoubtedly are, the real thing. Surely there is about them the salt of the sea, as to those who know them they are in a bad pinch the salt of the earth.

Mary Pickford has as Marget MacTavish in "The Pride of the Clan" a story made of her own measure. It gives her full opportunity to bring into play the varying moods of which she is mistress—of sunshine and shadow, of playfulness and of struggle against impending death. There is romance, too, of the happy sort, in which Marget is indirectly a beneficiary.

Scene from "The Pride of the Clan" (Artcraft).

The story opens with one of the tragedies of the sea with which fishing communities are only too familiar. We see the small craft beaten about by the waves off shore; we see a mast fall. The loss of the crew means that MacTavish, the head of the clan, is gone, leaving Marget as the head. It is not until she takes the MacTavish lash and forces attendance at church that she assumes the real leadership. She plays no favorites. There are tender scenes, too, in abundance—of the love-making between Marget and Jamie, of the betrothal, of the renunciation, and of the reunion.

Matt Moore is Jamie, and finely he plays the part of the Scotch boy who after his betrothal to Marget learns his mother is the Countess of Dunstable. It is an excellent performance. Ed Roseman is Pitcairn, the humble misanthrope whose failure to realize on his prayers has turned his heart against religion. Kathryn Brown Decker is the Countess and Joel Day the dominie.

Among the incidents that stir are the meeting of the mother of Jamie and the woman who all his life had mothered him, who had concealed from the boy the fact that he had any mother other than herself; the meeting of mother and son; the refusal of Marget to retract her renunciation, and the falling to his knees of Pitcairn when he sees the little craft bearing the head of his clan slowly sinking in the water.

The struggle of Marget in the cabin of the boat and her rescue by Jamie will thrill. A door has swung across the trap leading into the cabin, and with her kitten in her arms Marget is imprisoned with the water rising about her. One of the more striking scenes is the betrothal ceremony, with the lovers facing each other across the big stone, with the townspeople and the surf in the background, the whole dimly lighted by the flares carried by the many spectators.

"The Pride of the Clan" is a strong picture, well staged; and it is worth noting that in its entire length there is no trace of a villain.

Pathe Pointers

"Twin Kiddies," a New Five-Reel Little Mary Sunshine Picture, and "International Diplomacy," Eighth Installment of the "Pearl of the Army" Serial.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"Twin Kiddies."

IN "Twin Kiddies" Marie Osborne, of "Little Mary Sunshine" fame, plays a dual role. The picture, made by Balboa, is from a scenario written by Calder Johnstone. It falls off slightly in story quality from the previous Marie Osborne dramas, the plot not centering around the characters played by the young star until the last reel. But this does not seriously effect Marie; neither will it matter much to her admirers. The little miss just goes ahead with the work before her and gives it all the charm of innocent childhood as personified by an unusually bright and winsome four-year-old.

As this reviewer has before stated, Marie does not act, but lives the character and actually experiences the emotions she is told to portray. In "Twin Kiddies" she impersonates the child of rich parents who have allowed her to become fretful and bad tempered, and the daughter of a poor man, whose love and care have given his little girl a cheerful disposition and a bright smile. The two characters are kept distinct from each other. Aside from the dressing it is never the least difficult to tell them apart. The crux of the theme is when the two children change houses, by mistake, and the child of wealth is transformed into a lovable little girl by the same influences that molded the nature of the other youngster.

There are captivating revelations of child nature all through the picture, and Henry King, little Miss Osborne's director, again proves his understanding of his subject and the care lavished by him on his task. He acts the father of the Sunshine kiddie, and Ruth Lackaye, Daniel Gilfether, R. Henry Grey, Loretta Beecker, Edward Jobson and Mignon Le Brun comprise the other members of the little lady's support.

Scene from "Twin Kiddies" (Pathe).

"International Diplomacy."

The eighth episode of "Pearl of the Army" runs true to form, and the bewildering shifts in the game of cross purposes which Colonel Dare's daughter and the enemies of the United States are playing in their efforts to capture or retain the Panama canal plans, occur as frequently as ever in this number of the serial. The finish of the seventh installment, which left Pearl against the prison wall and Orderly Adams pointing a gun at her head under threat of death, is worked out to the full satisfaction of all the heroine's admirers. Detecting the approach of a detachment of United States soldiers before Bolero realizes the fact, Adams turns his gun on that officer and kills him. He then frees Pearl and fights the Boleroists singlehanded until aid arrives.

The ensuing action has to do with the further effort of the Silent Menace to secure the secret of the canal plans, and Pearl's endeavors to thwart him, during which the athletic Miss White introduces the spy to one of her realistic rough-and-tumble encounters.

"The Man Who Forgot"

Five-Reel Photoplay Produced by Paragon an Ambitious and Well Executed Effort, Featuring Robert Warwick, Doris Kenyon and Gerda Holmes—On the World Film Corporation Program.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE scenario of "The Man Who Forgot," a five-reel Paragon photoplay, is from the story of the same name by James Hay, Jr. It is a story with a purpose; after the first two reels it takes up the subject of temperance and advocates it with all the conviction of William Jennings Bryan.

Scene from "The Man Who Forgot" (World).

The issue is made a national one and the end of the drama sees it a part of the Constitution of the United States. The author, however, has not forgotten that the mission of a screen play is to entertain, not to proselyte, and the plot has to do with the fall and rise of a young man who awakens from a long debauch to find his memory gone and he himself without the power to recall his own name. His resolve to fight the evil which has nearly ruined him puts him at the head of a national temperance movement, and he carries the struggle into the halls of Congress, and wins.

The love interest is not neglected. The reformer falls in love with the daughter of a United States Senator who is the political leader of the liquor interests, and every means at the command of influence and money are used to discredit the young chap and turn his sweetheart against him. All of these efforts end in failure and the senator concludes to accept the reformer as his son-in-law, once the mystery about his birth is cleared up and the temperance cause is triumphant.

The production is excellent. From the Chinese opium den in the opening scene to the incidents that were photographed at various well known localities in Washington, great care has been taken with the filming of the picture. The scenes outside the Capitol and in the Senate are the real thing, and the large crowds of temperance advocates are handled skillfully by the director, Emile Chautard.

The cast is also of superior quality. Robert Warwick and Doris Kenyon have the necessary ability for their leading positions, and Gerda Holmes, Alex Shannon, Ralph Delmore, Frederick C. Truesdell and J. Reinhart round out the list of exceptional players.

"The Great Secret"

Fifteen Chapter Metro Picture Made by Serial Producing Company, to Be Released Jan. 15, a Chronicle of Master Crooks—Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne Head the Cast.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE new Metro serial, "The Great Secret," was adapted for the screen by William Christy Cabanne, from a story by Fred de Gresac. The production, which is in fifteen chapters and a prologue, was also directed by Mr. Cabanne. The first five chapters were shown recently for review and gave promise that the picture would receive the hearty indorsement of all those whose taste runs to serial plays.

"The Great Secret" is evidently a good piece of craftsmanship. First of all, it has speed. The opening incidents rivet the attention and set a lively pace for the action, which is maintained throughout the ten reels already unwound for inspection. In naming the two-reel installment chapters the adapter has used the proper designation. The picture is told in story form and the different installments are continuous in action, the thread of the narrative being taken up by one chapter at the exact point where it was dropped by the previous release.

The production is in keeping with the requirements of the serial. The scenes are laid in New York city and range from dens of vice to the homes of the wealthy. A touch of mystery is added to the plot by the introduction of a band of criminals known to the underworld as "The Secret Seven." This organization is controlled by men of high standing, whose social position is used to further their unlawful acts. The organization holds directors' meetings in a sumptuously furnished room that is equipped with sliding panels and those many devices that give all properly constructed melodramas much of their thrill.

The principal character in "The Great Secret" is a wealthy young clubman who becomes the champion of a young girl through force of circumstances. In trying to deprive her of the fortune left her by her uncle, the powerful gang of crooks has her kidnapped and resort to other desperate expedients; but the young clubman is never very far away. He repeatedly takes his life in his hands while endeavoring to help the girl, and has more than one lively scrap with from three to a dozen of the gang. This is the part played by Francis X. Bushman. He fills the specifications laid down for such a hero in all particulars, and looks and acts William Montgomery Stone with great satisfaction to himself and to his many admirers. Beverly Bayne is an attractive, sympathetic and artistically excellent Beverly Clarke, and the supporting company comprises such experienced players as Edward Connelly, Fred R. Stanton, Thomas Blake, Helen Dunbar, Sue Balfour, Belle Bruce, Dorothy Haydel, W. J. Butler, Charles Ripley, Art Ortego, Tammany Young and Charles Fang.

Scene from "The Great Secret" (Metro).

"The Master Passion"

Mabel Trunnelle and Robert Conness Head Capable Cast in Five-Reel Drama Produced by Edison for K-E-S-E.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

THERE are many positive qualities to be found in "The Master Passion," a five-reel drama produced by Edison for release by K-E-S-E on January 22—enough positive qualities to overbalance the negative qualities and make of the picture an acceptable offering. Chief of the positive qualities is the acting of the cast headed by Mabel Trunnelle and Robert Conness. The leads acquit themselves in a manner that leaves no doubt as to their ability, and several times by their work strengthen weak spots in the story. They are given excellent support by Richard Tucker, Helen Strickland, Bigelow Cooper, Olive Wright, A. Lincoln, Raymond McKee, William Wadsworth and Ann Leonard. Other decidedly positive qualities are the exteriors and the direction, which was done by Richard Ridgely.

The story contains several strong situations, but some of them have been obtained at a cost in plausibility that hardly compensates for their strength. For instance, we are asked to believe that a woman who deep in her heart loves her husband would forsake his home and her baby's arms for the doubtful promises of a vocal instructor who tells her that fame will be hers if she goes to Paris with him; and we are further asked to believe that a man who is too busy to be in the company of his wife all the time would repeatedly ask a man friend to keep his wife from becoming lonesome. Despite the inconsistencies, however, the story as a whole interests, and quite a number of new and original ideas have been used.

The story tells of a woman whose ambitions lead her first to jilt a poor sweetheart, and later to desert her home for fame in the opera. When she has the world at her feet, she learns that what she has gained is as nothing—that the husband and the baby she gave up are what really count.

Photography and lightings are of the best. The snow exteriors are good, as are those representing the Riveria in Southern France. The latter were photographed in Cuba.

Scene from "The Master Passion" (K-E-S-E).

Latest "Frisco" Episode

"The Resurrection of Gold Bar" Title of Two-Reel Episode of Kalem's "The Girl from Frisco" Series.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

IN STORY interest and in the methods used in the screen narration "The Resurrection of Gold Bar," latest two-reel of Kalem's "The Girl From 'Frisco" series, takes its place as one of the best releases of the series thus far. The two reels are crammed with story. There is considerable good riding to be seen in this picture, as well as numerous good western exteriors. Marin Sais and True Boardman have the leading roles.

In this episode Barbara Brent goes with her father and her fiance to the town in which she was born and which has since been deserted by all save an old miner—whom Brent knew twenty years ago. Barbara finds a bag of gold nuggets under the floor of a store that used to be conducted by an evil character. She "salts" the claim of the old miner. This starts a stampede to the town. Through an accidental fall Barbara's father discovers gold. It develops that the bag of nuggets found by Barbara was stolen from the old miner many years ago by the man who has since come back and tried to jump his claim. The gold boom resurrects the town.

Scene from "The Resurrection of Gold Bar" (Kalem).

In the cast with Miss Sais and Mr. Boardman are Frank Jonasson, Ronald Bradbury and Edward Clisbee. Directed by James W. Horne.

"Her Soul's Inspiration"

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., Presents Ella Hall in Pleasing Five-Reel Production Based on Harris Anson's Story.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE name of Harris Anson's story on which this production is based is "Mary, Keep Your Feet Still," and in the interpretation of the character of Mary, a winsome little girl of sunny disposition and a desire to be the first dancer of the land, Ella Hall has done admirable work. On the other hand, the story which has acceptable screen possibilities might have been made more of in a dramatic way. There is at times an impression that it is not being worked to capacity. At the same time the interest is maintained throughout, and the production, while not one of the best Bluebirds, can hold its own before the average audience.

The story tells of how a little girl, at the death of her mother, who has shared her ambitions to become a dancer, suddenly finds herself transported to the heaven of which she has dreamed when her father buys a traveling show and makes her the star of the company. The plot of the story develops through the jealous machinations of one Madame La Rue, whose daughter is also one of the dancers of the company. On the death of Mary's father Madame La Rue takes possession of money and papers which the deceased has told her of before his death, writes to Mary's rich uncle, stating that she is bringing Mary and the body of his brother to him, and substituting her own daughter for Mary, leaves the girl to work out her own salvation. The incidents following where Mary wanders off and becomes the companion of a fisherman, falls in love with a young author, and finally reaches by chance the home of her uncle, are moderately entertaining.

Scene from "Her Soul's Inspiration" (Bluebird).

"The Girl Philippa"

Anita Stewart Star of Screenplay Made by Vitagraph From the Robert W. Chambers Story—S. Rankin Drew in Triple Role of Adapter, Director and Actor.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

A SCREEN version of "The Girl Philippa," Robert W. Chambers' story of the present war, was put on at the Rialto theater, New York, New Year's week, and was viewed by a series of crowded houses. The version was in six reels, although the picture had been announced as an eight-reel feature. The necessity for condensing it to fit the Rialto program resulted in one or two points not being sufficiently explained and also of curtailing the part of Philippa to some extent.

The Vitagraph Company has given the photoplay the benefit of an elaborate and intelligent production, and Anita Stewart and the other members of the cast keep the acting at a high level of merit. S. Rankin Drew, who adapted the story to the screen and directed its production, has surrounded the scenes with the correct atmosphere, and infused the players with the spirit and intent of the novelist. So well has "The Girl Philippa" been fashioned into a photoplay that it is difficult to suggest how the picture could be improved without altering the construction of the story. Taken at its present valuation, the Chambers work possesses an absorbing but not always skilfully constructed plot, variety of scene, speedy action, realistic glimpses of the great war, and a worthwhile love affair between a man and a maid who turns out to be a Princess.

The faulty construction may be explained by pointing out that in the brief prologue the murder of the father and mother of the little Princess is shown and the abduction of the child. During the first four reels of the play proper, the action centers around the struggle between English, French and German Secret Agents for the possession of an important document. It is only after the paper has reached its proper destination and war has been declared that Philippa comes into her own. With the discovery by the girl that Wildresse, the proprietor of the wineshop, is a traitor, it becomes her game, and she proceeds to dominate a series of exciting situations that include scenes of battle and the burning of a town, during which it is captured by the Germans and retaken by the French. Other touches of good honest melodrama give it a regular fireworks finish, with the American artist and the little Princess in a close embrace.

One of the best moments in Anita Stewart's impersonation of Philippa is where she discovers the truth about her birth. Her assumption of her new dignity is charming. Particularly meritorious performances should be credited to S. Rankin Drew, Frank Morgan, and Anders Randolf.

"The Rainbow"

William L. Sherrill Feature Corporation Produces Five-Reel Screen Version of the A. E. Thomas Stage Play.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE A. E. Thomas drama, "The Rainbow," produced by the William L. Sherrill Feature Corporation, belongs to the "Glad Plays" which are now so much in fashion. Although written some time before the present "best bet" on the American stage, the heroine of "The Rainbow" is a half-sister at least to the Pollyannas and other innocent little maidens whose mission on earth is to make other people happy. In this case, the heroine's name is Cynthia and the two persons she most desires to make glad are her own father and mother. An unfortunate affair separate the couple when Cynthia is a little girl, too young to realize what has happened. She does not see her father again until she is about seventeen; and he soon understands how much happiness his daughter might have brought into his life. The girl, who loves both parents equally well, succeeds in bringing them together again.

"The Rainbow" enjoyed considerable success as originally written, with Ruth Chatterton and Henry Miller in the leading parts. It has been made into a screen play of many entertaining qualities, and should appeal to the same clientele that supported it on the regular stage. A greater breadth of treatment of some of the scenes would add to the play's effectiveness, but, on the whole, the scenario writer has done his work capably, and Ralph Dean, who directed the production, deserves the same verdict.

Dorothy Bernard is an engaging picture of young girlhood and acts with feeling and skill. Robert Conness is cast for the character of Neil Sumner and lends it just the amount of mind and heart intended by the author. Jack Sherrill as the young scapegrace who kills himself early in the story, is also among the elect, and awards of merit are due Jean Stuart, Eleanor Gist, Jack Hopkins, and Conway Wingfield.

Scene from "The Rainbow" (Art Drama).

"Great Expectations"

Famous Players' Subject, Based on Famous Dickens Novel, Is Well Staged and an Interesting Picture.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

IN "Great Expectations," the Famous Players release for January 8, we have an interesting and well staged subject. The script has been based upon the well known novel by Charles Dickens. Many liberties have been taken with the story, but the essence of this old tale has been preserved. We have Pip, the boy to whom fell such wonderful adventures as a result of his forced aid to a starving escaped convict; we have Magwitch, the prisoner who made good in Australia and showered his riches on the child who had been to him a friend in need; and there are Miss Havisham, the strange woman who when the bridegroom failed to appear closed her house and until her death wore no garb but her wedding gown; and Joe Gargery, the blacksmith, and Mrs. Joe and Mr. Jaggers. And there is Estella, the adopted child of Miss Havisham, reared in the hope that she would break all men's hearts, in revenge for the suffering of her protector. Mr. Pumblechook is not in evidence.

Jack Pickford is Pip—a good interpretation of the lad who from the abuse of his sister, Mrs. Joe, and his 'prenticeship to Joe was so mysteriously lifted into the "gentleman" class. Frank Losee gives a fine portrayal of the convict. Louise Huff is Estella, shown as in love with Pip from the beginning, and does not tease and ridicule him as Dickens pictured her. W. W. Black is Joe and Marcia Harris is Mrs. Joe. The limitations of five reels do not permit the bringing out of the nobility of character of the blacksmith. We do get a good idea, however, of the shrewlike qualities of Mrs. Joe. Grace

Scene from "Great Expectations" (Famous Players).

Barton is Miss Havisham and Herbert Prior is Mr. Jaggers. It is a good cast.

Director Robert Vignola shows some notable settings. One of these is of the London street in which are situated the quarters of Pip. Another is the background where Magwitch takes boat to escape the soldiers. There is suspense following the return of Magwitch.

Fox Features

"The Price of Silence," Five-Reel Screen Drama, Starring William Farnum, and "A Modern Cinderella," With June Caprice as the Lady of the Slipper.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

IN WRITING "The Price of Silence," the author has made use of a theme that will appeal strongly to many followers of the screen. The evils of child labor in factories is the foundation of the story by William Piggott, which the Fox Film Corporation has produced with William Farnum in the principal character. Up to the point where Senator Deering must choose between defeating the bill abolishing the evil of child slavery or see the woman he loves disgraced through an act of her father's, the drama is human, logical and well put together. With the decision of the Senator to let his heart outweigh his conscience by placing the happiness of one being against the welfare and safety of thousands of helpless children, Deering belies his own character and becomes a weak sentimentalist. Neither does he justify his act by confession that he has committed a great wrong, and then, going to prison rather than let the world know that Judge Vernon, the father of the woman he is shielding, was a thief. Like Sydney Carton in "The Tale of Two Cities," he makes his sacrifice for the wife of another; but Carton went to the guillotine in order to save his rival from the same fate, and only good could come from his action. Deering, a strong man in every way, keenly alive to the wide consequences of his selfish act, is guilty of moral cowardice, and nothing but a false conception of life and its duties will applaud his determination.

The production has been irected with excellent results by Frank Lloyd. The scenes among the factory workers are painted in broad but telling strokes, and are well contrasted with the homes and habits of the people of wealth. William Farnum plays Deering in a convincing manner, and Vivian Rich has the necessary womanliness and refinement for Grace Vernon. Young Gordon Griffith is a boy actor of much natural ability, and the efforts of Frank Clark, Brooklyn Kellar, Charles Clary and Ray Hanford are a distinct gain for the play.

"A Modern Cinderella."

This five-reel comedy is just what the name implies—a modern version of the old-time fairy tale. It was evidently written for June Caprice, and that young lady smiles, pouts, frowns and skips through it, after her now familiar method of acting. The story is as unsubstantial as a Chocolate Sundae and is just suited to the age when that confection makes a satisfactory meal for the female appetite. The admirers of Miss Caprice will applaud star, story, cast and production, a condition of affairs that admits of but one conclusion: the picture fulfils the purpose for which it was intended. It only remains to add that the star wears a number of fetching frocks and that Frank Morgan, Betty Pendergast, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Grace Stevens and Tom Brooke give her good support. John G. Adolfi directed the picture.

A Couple of Metros

"Cave Man's Buff," a Drew Comedy, and "A Wife by Proxy," Columbia-made, Prove Attractive Numbers.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"Cave Man's Buff."

THE quality of "Cave Man's Buff" as a comedy offering cannot be questioned. It is clean and strictly funny, and we venture to say that the happy mix-up of the love fancies of two timid bachelors will be thoroughly enjoyed by all who view this picture. Sydney Drew and Mrs. Sydney Drew never fail to be amusing in that legitimately comedy way that is doubly pleasing after the surfeit of low comedy to which the public has been and is being treated.

Scene from "Cave Man's Buff" (Metro).

The story of "Cave Man's Buff" is perfectly simple. It shows how a timid bachelor trying to make up his mind to propose to the woman of his choice is advised to try cave man methods. The proposal over and likewise the honeymoon, the heart of a bachelor friend becomes suddenly touched by a pretty face which he one day sees in the lobby of the office building in which both men work. The pretty one happens to be the wife of bachelor No. 1, and the incidents that follow, all of a good-natured comic sort, give the comedy a fitting climax.

"A Wife by Proxy."

Mabel Taliaferro is the featured member of the cast in this five-part drama, the story of which was written by John B. Clymer and Chas. A. Logue. In the role of Jerry McNairn Miss Taliaferro does exceptional work; especially may be mentioned the dramatic scenes in the early part of the picture, which center about the death of Jerry's father. As a contrast to the appealing character of Jerry there has been introduced a trio of unprincipled individuals, whose chief aim in connection with matters pertaining to the story is to prevent the marriage of the young millionaire, Morton Berbeck, until after a certain date, when his fortune by stipulation of his deceased uncle's will becomes the property of his cousin Howard, one of the unpleasant trio. The young Irish girl, Jerry, left to the care of Berbeck by her dying father, becomes his wife by proxy. After revealing to him the perfidy of the woman he loves and who is also one of the trio of knaves, Jerry boards the boat for Ireland, whence she is quickly followed by her husband, who has decided that he has "fallen in love with his wife."

The production is not without its weak spots, and at times the producer or author, we are not sure which, is guilty of having dragged in incidents in an ill-advised attempt to make comedy, such as the proposal to the elderly housekeeper of the Berbeck home. On the whole, however, the picture is good, but is more especially suited to adult audiences.

"Nina, the Flower Girl"

Humanizing Five-Reel Fine Arts, With Bessie Love in the Title Role.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

NINA, the Flower Girl, is blind. She lives in a tenement next to a hunchback newsboy who has some native ability to model clay figures, but to no other purpose than that of making a beautykins figure of Nina. She is left dependent upon him by the death of her grandmother, and a strong affection is built up between the two unfortunates. Now come a lot of Fairy Princes and Fairy Godmothers in plain clothes, just some ordinary people of warm hearts, and Nina is taken from her simple life. A great physician is called to operate upon her eyes in the house of a wealthy family. The newsboy suspects without reason that all is not on the level in this house of wealth and decides to murder its scion in cold blood—a strained and illogical situation—but he discovers that he is mistaken.

